House Committee Will Try To Write Farm Rollback Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Agriculture Committee decided Saturday to try to write into controls legislation a positive ban against rolling back any farm prices.

The decision came at a long session behind closed doors, part of the time with representatives of farm organizations sitting in.

It underlined the fact that the fate of continued economic controls will approach a crucial stage next week. The House is to begin voting Monday on a one-year extension of the administration's control powers.

Many members talked about jinking the curbs entirely if the fighting ends in Korea. President Truman and his lieutenants are opposing this point of view. They contend that Korea is simply a skirmish in the overall fight against communism and the nation must continue to grow militarily strong, curbing inflation in the process.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) of the agriculture committee said he, acting for the committee, would introduce an amendment to prohibit the Office of Price Stabilization from ordering any rollbacks—non-agricultural as well as agricultural. He added He told a reporter this would

Mother Seeks Aid In Finding Lost Daughter

A worried Pampa mother was appealing to police of two states over the weekend to look for her missing 30-year-old daughter, unheard from for nine weeks.

Mrs. T. R. Glazebrook, 401 S. Finley, told The Pampa News Saturday that her daughter, Mrs. Ona Fay Stroud, has been missing since May 2.

"The last we heard from her was when she called me on May 2 from Oklahoma City saying she was working in a cafe, but refused to say where the cafe was located.

Since then, silence. Mrs. Glazebrook described her daughter as five-foot, one inch tall, weighing 125 pounds. Her hair is auburn, eyes, blue-gray. Outside of a possible scar from a recent cut on her left upper arm, the Pampa mother was unable to give any further marks of identification such as scars, birthmarks etc.

Mrs. Stroud, who lives in Amarillo, also has failed to write or phone since her parents last heard from her in May. Her mother said the highly nervous woman disappeared after a series of domestic troubles and is under the belief her entire family has turned against her.

"Those stories, if they were true and were told to her just to keep her away from us."

The three children are staying with their paternal grandparents at Tulsa, Mrs. Glazebrook said. Several police radio bulletins have been radioed throughout Texas and Oklahoma asking highway patrolmen, city police and sheriff's offices to be on the look out for Mrs. Stroud.

Although Mrs. Glazebrook didn't suspect foul play she expressed fear that her daughter might be dead. "I just know something is wrong, because it isn't like her, to leave and not write or phone telling us where she is," she said.

By Saturday night the Glazebrook's still had not heard from their missing daughter.

UN NEGOTIATORS FLY TO KAESONG

Communists Arrive Saturday Afternoon

SEOUL, Korea, Sunday (Korea Time)—(AP)—Allied negotiators left by helicopter today for Kaesong to meet with the Reds and arrange for armistice talks in the Korean war.

Two U. S. colonels and a South Korean lieutenant colonel with two interpreters took off from an advanced "peace camp" for the war-scarred city. Kaesong is three miles south of Parallel 38 in western Korea.

(Peiping radio announced the Communist negotiators arrived at Kaesong Saturday afternoon during a temporary allied ban on bombing and strafing the 130-mile route from Pyongyang to Kaesong.)

Two large green "copters" carried the allied mission. They took off at 8:50 a. m. (4:50 p. m. CST, Saturday). The flight was expected to require only a brief time. They went to land at a small site just northwest of Kaesong.

The allied officers are Col. Andrew J. Kinney of the U. S. Air Force, Col. James C. Murray of the U. S. Marine Corps and Lt. Col. Soo Young Lie of the South Korean army.

Their identities were kept secret until a few minutes before their departure.

The meeting is intended to arrange for higher-level armistice talks at Kaesong. These may begin next Tuesday, as requested by the Reds and agreed to tentatively by the United Nations.

However, a definite date for the high command sessions may depend on the outcome of the meeting.

The pre-arranged schedule called for both parties to be on hand for the meeting 8 o'clock time after 9 a. m. (6 p. m. EST Saturday).

The allied high command lifted a ban last night on allied planes, freeing them to attack the Pyongyang-Kaesong road to within five miles of the meeting. The Red delegation thus had been given 19 hours or immunity from air attack in which to cover 130 miles of bomb-cratered highway.

The Communists, by their own terms, had been scheduled to leave Pyongyang at 8 a. m. Saturday (2 p. m. EST Friday) in five jeeps and five trucks, each displaying a truce flag.

Shortly before 9 p. m. Saturday night, a spokesman for the allied supreme commander warned that the road, a lifeline supply artery for the Red army, would be closed.

NO CEASE-FIRE HERE... YET — While their commanders sought to arrange a truce in the Korean fighting, these GIs kept throwing deadly steel and explosives at the enemy. This is a U. S. Explosions Blast Gas Storage Plant

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—A rocket-like series of explosions ripped through a propane gas storage plant setting off a general alarm which raged out of control for hours.

The 70-foot long cylindrical tanks, 10 feet in diameter, were flung hundreds of yards like giant toys by the terrific blasts which rocked the Port Newark area.

At least nine persons were injured in the explosion and fire at the Warren Petroleum Sales Corp.

About 100 tanks were blown skyward, each punctuating a large spiraling grey-black cloud of smoke with flashes of orange flame.

One of the tanks struck a gasoline service station about three-quarters of a mile away. Another hit a printing company building.

Fifteen men trapped on the burning waterfront were rescued by a tugboat and landed unhurt. The men were working at a nearby canning factory when the explosions began.

Officials said they believed only about 10 workers were on duty at the Warren Co. when the detonations began shortly after noon (EST).

Fifty workers from a nearby chemical plant fled through a sharp-edged hole in a flying inch-thick metal from the ruptured tanks.

Several railroad tank cars blew up with the storage tanks, scattering wheels and parts. The concrete paving on Doremus Ave., which runs past the area was shattered to bits from the heat and turned into a dirt road.

All available firemen in Newark, largest city in New Jersey, fought the blaze, biggest in the city's history.

The fire was declared under control at 4:30 p. m. (EST) but authorities said it would burn all night.

There were 135 tanks in the sprawling yard. At first, they went up every four or five minutes. Later, the explosions became sporadic. It was possible that all 135 would go up in flames before firemen could fight their way through the dense smoke.

Chief Charles Burnett said the blaze looked exactly like an atomic bomb blast. "It is the biggest fire I have ever seen in my 36 years as a fireman," Burnett told reporters.

"It is the first time in the history of Newark," he said, "that no longer was any danger of the fire spreading to other plants in the area."

Burnett wouldn't estimate the damage, but said newsmen would be "made in calling it a million dollar blaze."

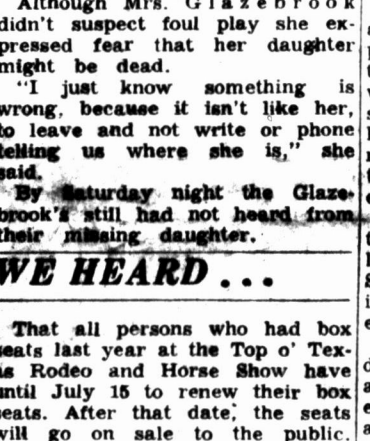

Kermit Printer Dies In Plunge From Dallas Hotel

DALLAS (AP)—Thorne Smith 45, Kermit printer, died Saturday when he plunged from the seventh floor window of the Jefferson Hotel in downtown Dallas.

Capt. Will Fritz of the Dallas police said that Smith either jumped or fell. He said he had talked to two men who were in the room with Smith, and was convinced there was no foul play. Smith was found on the sidewalk by passers-by shortly after 1 a. m. He was fully dressed, but was wearing pajamas under his clothing.

For 18 months Smith had been mechanical foreman for the Winkler County News. He went to Kermit from the Odessa American. Before that he had leased the Scurry County Times at Snyder from Willard Jones in 1947 and was in partnership with Floyd Foytman going to Snyder. Smith had been editor of the Texas Spur, at Spur, Texas. He had been in newspaper work for more than 20 years. He was a native of Roma, Texas.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Monday at the First Methodist Church, 112 W. Foster.

Frank Wilson Resigning As Principal; Takes Snyder Post

Frank Wilson announced his resignation as principal of Pampa Senior High school Saturday to accept a position in the school system at Snyder. He will assume his new duties early in August.

Wilson came to Pampa nearly five years ago from Austin, where he was supervising principal for eight years.

The resignation, submitted to the superintendent of schools, rejected the conditions of the contract offered Wilson June 22 for the coming school year. He said the position in Snyder was director of curriculum and instruction over the entire system provided a substantial increase in salary.

Wilson said Snyder has five and a half million dollars worth of school construction under way including a two and a half million dollar high school. Other construction includes a new administration building and a number of elementary school buildings.

Wilson is a member of the Pampa Kiwanis club, Texas Congress Parent-Teachers Assn., Masonic Lodge and Scottish Rites, board of stewards in the Methodist church and board of directors of the Top of Texas Knife and Fork club.

He is a member of the board and district co-ordinator of secondary school principals, and was past president of Phi Delta Kappa, honorary fraternity for men in education. For the past two summers he taught at West Texas State College.

Speaking for his wife and his daughter, Jane, Wilson expressed gratitude to the people of Pampa for their friendship and co-operation during past associations.

Community Chest In Pampa Slated For Talk Thursday

A final meeting to discuss the probability of organizing a Community Chest for Pampa will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, it was announced today.

At the first meeting, in April a chairman was elected and a committee appointed for the purpose of securing certain data on the organization of a Community Chest. The last two months have been spent in compiling the information gathered from other cities of comparable size where the Community Chest operates.

The committee's report will be given at the Thursday meeting. All organizations are asked to send delegates, and an invitation is extended to all local citizens.

The meeting will be held in the Palm Room with Aubrey L. Jones, temporary chairman, in charge of the meeting.

No War If Russ Learn U.S. Aims Says HST

WASHINGTON — President Truman told the Russian government "there will be no goodwill of the American people for all peoples, including the Russian." Congress asked him to ask the Russian government to make the resolution known to its people, and Mr. Truman did so.

His request was made politely and in humanitarian terms. However, his reference to "the most hideous weapons" could be read in Moscow to mean that if the U. S. is forced into another war it will be prepared to use atomic weapons.

"The profound desire of the American government (is) to do everything in its power to bring about a just and lasting peace," Mr. Truman sent the message to Moscow with a resolution.

U. S. Lashes Reds For Terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, yielding to Communist Hungary's demand, closed down its information and cultural services in that country Saturday, but accused the Budapest regime of brazen falsehoods and ruthless terrorism against its own people.

High officials said Saturday shooting in Korea may go on for two, three or even four weeks after the preliminary, scene-setting meeting of colonels in Kaesong this weekend.

They discounted any idea that peace would settle immediately over the bloody Asiatic battleground.

However, the meeting at Kaesong may be a tip-off on whether the enemy is acting in good faith.

It was emphasized that no cease-fire order will be issued until the UN military leaders know from the highest levels of the communist camp the precise conditions of an armistice.

To do otherwise would be to risk the loss of many American and other UN lives if the Chinese and North Korean Reds should suddenly violate unclear truce terms.

At the moment officials here see no reason or believing the armistice talk is a Communist trick, although that possibility cannot be ruled out.

This must be purely a military armistice, arranged under military conditions and involving only military, not political, questions, say officials.

Whatever other provisions eventually are written into a cease-fire agreement, an armistice must be based upon the position of military lines, not on the old 38th Parallel boundary. This is because an armistice is a military, not a political, agreement. It should not involve elements of a political nature, some authoritative persons declare.

Moreover, they added, an armistice document should contain provision for some form of inspection, an assurance against stealthy operation or renewed hostilities.

Mrs. Elma Phelps, 75, mother of Mrs. J. B. Aspin, 925 N. Frost, died in a local hospital at 8:05 p. m. Friday after a seven-month illness.

Mrs. Phelps had taught school here 20 years before her retirement in 1949. She was making her home with Mrs. Austin at the time of death. Before coming here, she taught school 20 years in Guthrie, Okla.

She is survived by two granddaughters, Mrs. Harold M. Morgan, Roswell, N. M., and Mrs. Henry Hariger, Oklahoma City; two great granddaughters, Harold Morgan, five sisters, Mrs. Arthur Dutcher, Guthrie, Okla.; Miss Inis Hall, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. J. E. Brown, Grand Junction, Colo.; Mrs. Myra Thurston, Buffalo, Gap, S. Dak.; and three brothers, G. A. Hall, Guthrie, L. B. Hall, Sulphur, Okla., and Dr. K. R. Hall, Craig, Colo.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday at the First Methodist Church Chapel, with Orin W. Carter officiating. Pallbearers will be Aaron Meek, John Bradley, Raymond Morrison, H. W. Waters, Raymond Morrison and Bob Sanford.

Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery by the side of her husband, J. E. Phelps, who died in 1942.

High Officials Say Shooting May Continue Several Weeks

He also is expected to argue that without continued strong wage-price controls, inflation will weaken the civilian economy and run up mobilization costs to taxpayers.

planes at midnight. The spokesman said the immunity had been granted only for the purpose of assuring safe conduct of the Communist liaison group.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters assured, however, that an area within a five-mile radius of Kaesong's center would be regarded as a neutral zone by allied air and ground forces from the time of arrival of your delegates in Kaesong.

Favored by clearing weather, two helicopters left Seoul late Saturday for an undisclosed point. One was a huge H-19, capable of carrying 10 persons.

It was assigned to carry the allied delegation, however.

Another smaller H-5, which normally carries three persons, was designated to carry equipment.

Three jeeps were held in reserve, to take the allied party by road in case of rain. Only high clouds were in prospect, no deterrent to the low-flying helicopters.

Seventy-one war correspondents gathered at the Seoul press camp to cover the developments. The army would allow none to go beyond an advanced base camp.

No newsmen were allowed to approach the Kaesong area.

A tent city was set up behind allied lines in an orchard to accommodate allied officers in the event of negotiations arranged for armistice negotiations.

Equipment with electric lights and affording soldiers the amazing sight of bed sheets, the area already has been labelled "Peace Camp."

Arrangements have been carried to the point of the front or "peace night" if and when the opposing sides sign an actual armistice.

Allied and Communist soldiers sparred lightly across the 100-mile Korean front while they waited to hear what would happen at Kaesong.

(The Peiping radio, however, said a campaign to buy planes for the Communists was being pushed vigorously because "war still exists until an armistice and peace have been realized.")

AP correspondent George Meador said frontline allied troops were spending a lot of time talking about possibilities, but were spending more time digging their foxholes deeper.

Little Wheat From Panhandle Fields -- Moisture Content High

AMARILLO — (AP) — There'll be little wheat for bread from Texas' vast fields this year.

The crop is so poor that most of the harvest must be saved for seed for next year's crop. It's the poorest crop in many years. Drouth gets the most blame. Some of the wheat which survived the drouth was felled by hail and high winds last month.

At a time when long lines of heavily loaded trucks are usually waiting to unload, this year finds the elevators desolate places.

Burrus Panhandle elevators here had received no wheat at all by Wednesday night. Kearns Grain and Seed Co. received five carloads. A spokesman for Kellogg Grain Co. said most of the wheat will not reach elevators—it will be saved for seed.

The first wheat has had two marks against it — too many weeds in it, and too wet. Moisture content has ranged from 14 to 16 percent.

But as the harvest progresses the wheat will be drier. By Tuesday or Wednesday it should be of satisfactorily low moisture content. The harvest in Potter and other central Panhandle counties is expected to be in full swing by Wednesday.

Large sections of wheat in the Plainview and South Plains areas have been destroyed by hail and winds, which came during the latter part of June. The harvest is reported to be 70 to 90 percent complete in that southern Panhandle section.

Hemphill county in the eastern Panhandle has much better prospects for a wheat crop than was previously estimated, according to a crop report by the Amarillo office of the Texas Employment Commission.

Counties in the northern Panhandle, along the Oklahoma and New Mexico borders, report cutting is just getting started and should be at its peak in a couple of days.

Many farmers report they had to harvest their wheat before it was ready because of a heavy growth of weeds.

Gen. Hershey, on a routine inspection of state selective service facilities, told draft officials here yesterday that "the Korean incident has been but one in the whole battle for freedom in the world today."

"If we gain anything there, it is because of our increasing strength as a nation," he said, "and I don't feel we should weaken our position by cutting our armed forces now."

Slaughterers Held To Quotas During Extension
Livestock slaughterers are required to comply with slaughter quotas for July accounting periods under the 31-day extension by Congress of the Defense Production Act, the Office of Price Stabilization emphasized again today.

OPS explained that the quotas previously announced for the July periods are in no way affected by the extension measure.

The agency said that it has received a few reports to the effect that the livestock quota would be inoperative this month.

These erroneous reports, OPS said, apparently are based on a misunderstanding of the Congressional extension of the Act under which OPS operates.

The July slaughter quota for cattle for civilian use is 90 percent of the 1950 base; for swine for civilian pork, 105 percent and for calves and sheep and lamb, 85 percent.

Bee Sting Causes A Lot Of Trouble
EAST GREENBUSH, N. Y. — (AP) — A bee stung the driver of an automobile last night and this was the result: three cars and a truck cracked up and six persons were injured slightly.

The stinger hit Dr. Daniel F. Keefe, 62, of Albany, on the face as his car was approaching a traffic light.

Then, state police said, the physician's car hit the automobile in front of him. The second car bumped the car ahead and the latter hit a truck.

Dr. Keefe suffered a fractured rib. He and five occupants of the cars were treated by a physician here.

Three Die In Flaming Auto Crash

EL PASO — (AP) — A mother and her two young daughters died in the flaming wreckage of an automobile which collided with a truck east of El Paso near Salt Flats Saturday.

Burned to death were Mrs. Eva Armstrong, 28, Phyllis, 7 and Meida, 14 months, of Clarksville, Texas.

The father, Floyd T. Armstrong, 38, is in St. El Paso hospital with critical burns.

The truck driver, Robert R. Fryor of El Paso, was unharmed. The family was returning home from a visit at Phoenix with Armstrong's mother and father Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Armstrong. The truck driver told Highway Patrolmen T. L. Allen and E. L. Warren that he jumped from the truck's cab just before a gasoline tank under the seat exploded.

He pulled Armstrong from the auto as the vehicles burst into flames.

Armstrong is employed at the Red River Arsenal near Clarksville.

CASUALTIES LISTED

Government Selling Palm-Dotted Isle

DALLAS — (AP) — In the market for your own private, subtropical, palm-dotted island? The U. S. General Services Office here announced that such an island is up for sale as surplus property. It is in Galveston Channel, across from Galveston.

A former U. S. quarantine station, the strip called Pelican Spit was created by dredge spoils from the ship channel in 1910.

Prospective buyers of the eight-acre island, which can be reached only by boat, indicate they are interested in the property for recreational purposes. Palm trees and oleanders abound and fishermen report that the pier is the best of any point in the channel for gulf trout fishing. Attached to the property are ten buildings. The quarantine station recently was closed as a government economy move.

Prices To Farmers Drop Three Percent

AUSTIN — (AP) — Prices received by Texas farmers dropped three percent in mid-June from mid-May, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reported Saturday.

Lower prices were recorded by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics for most farm products. Slight increases were recorded for wheat, hogs, sheep and chickens.

U. S. Developing Still Better Tank

By RELMAN MORIN
(Associated Press special correspondent on tour of U. S. Army camps.)

FORT KNOX, Ky.—(AP)—What nation has the best tank in the field today?

Here at Fort Knox, where some of the finest engineering brains in the world are concentrated, the experts won't hazard a guess on that question. But they will tell you what some of the most advanced features are in tanks and how they hope to put American armor ahead of all the rest.

They say, for example, that the British Centurion is pretty hard to beat at the moment. The Centurion is classed as a medium tank. It carries a 20-pound gun that equals or surpasses any known tank weapon. It has both vertical and horizontal stabilizing — meaning that the gun stays on the target whether the tank is pitching up and down, or from side to side.

As for the Russians? Col. H. J. Wheaton, of Seattle, chief of the testing board, put it this way: "In World War II, Russian tanks were considered among the best in the world. It's reasonable to conclude that their tank excellence has been continued and improved, so they probably have large numbers of first-class tanks, as far as this country is concerned, only a few new tanks have been produced since 1945. I'd say it will require great efforts on our part to overcome their head start."

These efforts are going ahead full speed at Fort Knox. They have already produced a highly efficient tank, the Patton, which is in use in Korea. It has out-fought the Russian T-34, also a medium. But the T-34 is a model at least 10 years old, so these American engineers are not resting on any laurels.

The Patton has an improved gun. Many of its vital parts are now inter-changeable. And the engineers are proud of its "wobble stick" control, which permits the driver to steer and change gears at a single motion.

They are not proud of the location of its exhaust pipe. A small thing? On the contrary, a very important thing. That exhaust soon gets red hot. It is then easily observable at night. It also occasionally set fire to bushes and branches of trees, exposing the tank's position.

What's more, careless infantrymen, hitching a ride, have been known to sit down on it. Only briefly, of course. The exhaust is going elsewhere in the newer tanks.

Here are some of the features the engineers envision—

A smaller tank, not a larger one. The giants may be impressive, but they are slow, less mobile and require enormous bridges to hold them.

The key to the smaller tank will be in the angle of its armor-plate to deflect shells as much as possible, the more central position of its crew and, above all, a lighter but tougher "hide."

Today when a tank is hit the inside wall glows cherry-red for an instant at the point of contact. This is a dangerous instant. If the inner wall splinters — even though it has not been actually penetrated — a piece will break off and ricochet around inside the tank at almost the same speed as the original shell.

Hence, the ballistics experts are working to produce a type of steel, hard on the outer wall but "soft" inside, to reduce that danger.

Old Timer Reunion Held In Canadian

CANADIAN — (Special) — One hundred and sixty-six persons registered at the Old Timers reunion at the American Legion Hall July 4.

George Cockrell of Canadian won an old fiddler's contest, with second and third place going to Walter Sipes and H. B. Steele. A chuck wagon dinner was served at noon.

Of the 166 who registered 75 came to Hempstead County before 1900, and 86 have been residents for over thirty years.

Old timer Cap Kelley was in charge of arrangements and was assisted by J. O. Wells, Paul Patton, Frank Briggs and others who acted as hosts for the occasion.

Crop Switched After 99 Years

IOWA CITY, Ia. — (AP) — Many Iowa communities and even farmsteads are celebrating centennials this year but there'll be none at the Joseph F. Buschmayer farm near here.

For 99 successive years, the farm has harvested good crops of corn for the Buschmayer family. This year the place was seeded to clover, timothy and alfalfa — no corn.

The reason is that Karl Joseph Buschmayer, 22, son of the owner, was called to Army service. Without his son's aid, the elder Buschmayer passed up sowing his customary crop.

ALL IN A LIFETIME

THE OUTPOST

By KAY FANCHER
Believe it or not it's kind of warm out at the Armory when Headquarters Battery of the 474th Field Artillery Observation Battalion meets on Monday nights. Capt. G. B. Purcell, commanding officer of Battery "C" of the 474th Field Artillery Observation Battalion, and his staff of officers, visited us and observed the training last Monday night.

At the present time, things are pretty well under way in preparation for summer camp, to be held this year from Aug. 11 through Aug. 26 at Fort Sill, Okla.

By the way, we want to say that the battery appreciates the way that most of employers have cooperated in helping their employees get time off for summer camp. Right now, most of the men are getting ready for the trip by cleaning and marking clothes and making all of the other necessary preparations. All in all, it's quite a job.

We've had some promotions in the outfit since you last heard from me, and those include two men promoted from sergeant to sergeant, 1st class, George R. Plumlee and Clarence F. Upton. Walter W. Anderson has made the grade from corporal to sergeant, and Charly Everett has moved from private first class to corporal. Another man who gained a promotion is Jack Addington from private to private first class.

We want to mention once again that there are still positions open to qualified men in Headquarters Battery. If you are interested in joining the guard unit here in Pampa, contact 1st Lt. Charles L. Robison, or visit us on Monday nights at the Armory.

At the same time, let's also say there are openings available in battalion headquarters for qualified officers. Men who might qualify, should contact Lt. Robison or visit us at the Armory on Monday nights.

This about takes care of the news for this week from Headquarters Battery of the 474th Field Artillery Observation Battalion. See you next week at this same Outpost.

Way Found To Preserve Documents

By ARTHUR L. EDSON
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Library of Congress has announced that a 123-year-long search has ended: a way has been found to preserve the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

The library disclosed that the famed documents will be sealed in bronze and glass cases filled with helium.

For some years now the documents have been slowly deteriorating. The declaration has faded until it's even difficult to make out the bold signature of John Hancock.

And only three or four years ago a carpet bug was caught nibbling cheerfully away at the Constitution.

At present the five pages of the Constitution and the one page declaration are in glass cases, but the cases are filled only with ordinary air.

By a new process developed by the National Bureau of Standards the air will be slowly flushed out and helium put in instead.

The bureau is busy working now on the cases holding a couple of pages of the Constitution. The whole operation is expected to be completed with an appropriate ceremony on Sept. 17, Constitution Day.

The bureau of standards has developed a leakometer, so that tests can be made each day to be sure some of the helium has leaked out.

Incidentally, although the deterioration has been going on steadily, much of the damage to the declaration was done in its first years.

Acting Librarian Verner W. Clapp said:

"You'll remember that there was a war on Congress to get up and get out. So the declaration was hurriedly rolled up and taken along."

Clapp said that ever since the time of President Monroe efforts have been made to find a way to preserve these cherished documents.

"Now, at last," he said, "we think we've found a way to save them for the centuries."

Americans Should Make 'Confessions'

Although Soviet Russia and her Communist-controlled satellites are in direct opposition to the United States of America in most things, there is one place where they should be eye to eye. By past actions, the Communists have shown that they dearly love "confessions." Every Communist court dotes on an out-and-out confession and since they do, we here in America should give them all they want.

This confessing business has been spotlighted by Raymond A. McConnell, Jr., editor of the Lincoln (Nebr.) Journal who has requested Voice of America to broadcast his confession to Czechoslovakia where William N. Oatis, an American newsmen has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for "spying" on the Czech government.

Fundamentalist In Action

By DAVID BARTER

A situation has arisen in Lovington Pa., that should inspire deep "Christian faith and Protestantism."

I wish to take this occasion to congratulate Dr. Harold Snider and his congregation for the consistent stand they have taken for Christ and country.

These Pennsylvania folk built up a fine, outstanding church, their community. They were good members of the Church of the Brethren denomination, sometimes nicknamed "Dunkers."

And then came the Devil in a very un-Brethren-like manner. A strong protest was lodged when the Church of the Brethren denomination joined the ultra-moody, socialist-tinged Federal Council of Churches in 1941.

Businessmen Take Guess At Future

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — What's ahead for business? A number of businessmen, manufacturers, purchasing agents, and bankers appear willing today to guess how their own firms will fare the rest of the year.

Surveys from several independent sources show that most of them look for their companies to do as well or better in the next six months as they did in the last half of 1950 when the Korean war was touching off a boom. They look for momentum to carry them through as defense orders build up.

Here is a wide sampling of business opinion, taken before a definite offer of truce talks in Korea, but while peace rumors were widely circulating — and believed — in business circles:

Business will go wheeling along in high gear the rest of the year, in the opinion of most of the 142 manufacturers around the nation polled by the National Industrial Conference Board. Large backlogs of unfilled orders and a growing volume of defense business will do the trick.

Seven out of ten are operating at or near capacity now, and nine out of ten are working on military orders, although with most the defense work is still a small part of their total volume.

Nine companies out of ten have much higher backlogs of orders now than a year ago. This doesn't hold true for electrical appliances, apparel, chemical, rubber and textile industries.

Half of the 142 have larger inventories than last year, but many stress that the stocks are in line with increased volume of business.

Purchasing agents, on the other hand, are taking "a very cautious view" of summer business, the National Assn. of Purchasing Agents says.

July and August, heavy industrial vacation months, are expected to be slow, it reports after a survey of its members. A more realistic approach to pricing is developing, caused by the stronger competitive trend of fabricated goods.

But the men who keep the books for industry apparently think they'll be using black ink the rest of the year.

The New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants says 43 percent of its members answering a questionnaire expect business to improve, 40 percent look for little change from present high levels and only 17 percent think it will sluff off. However, a third of them see a small business having a harder time.

Prices will go up a little, say 25 percent — up a lot, say 17 percent. Only five percent look for price drops, and 20 percent see little change.

The Commerce and Industry Assn. of New York asked 373 firms, a cross section of the city's major industries, how they expect to fare in the last half of the year.

Forty-two percent of them expect their own business to be from five to fifteen percent better than a year ago — when business was starting its post-war boom. "No appreciable change" is expected by 28 percent. A decline in volume is expected by 26 percent. And four percent just couldn't guess.

Sports Round-Up

By TED SMITH
NEW YORK — (AP) — Tommy Holmes, the new manager of the Boston Braves, knitted his dark eyebrows together and said in a bland, almost squeaky voice: "I don't want to sound sentimental. But I took the job as Hartford manager at the start of this year because I wanted to stay in baseball all my life. I figured I had some major league playing left in me but I wanted to get the managerial side of it. I've been sort of managing for the last two or three years. I mean, figuring out what should be done in each situation. Baseball is the greatest second-guessing game in the world. Everyone thinks he's a manager. "Well, I figured I would stay in Hartford a year or so and then maybe move up to triple-A or maybe come back to the majors as a coach. All of a sudden those kids in Hartford started to go like a house afire and the next I knew I got this job. "Those kids made me look good and I won't forget it. I have those boys in mind and I'm gonna have those boys playing for me in the majors some day. "I told them where I went there: 'Is there a guy on this team who can't outrun me? Is there a guy who can't outthrow me? Aren't there three or four maybe who can outpitch me? And I can play major league ball. "Get smart," I said to 'em. "This game is mental. The difference between the majors and the minors is just a little finesse. Why, there's a guy in Hartford right now who can throw harder than any pitcher in the majors. Name of Gene Conley. He has a 12-2 record. But I'm not going to bring him up today. That would be too fast. I want him to pitch in the triple-A next year to get that little extra finesse. "Now about the Braves. We've been beating ourselves. We haven't been hitting. I'm working with the boys to get a little more action. I don't intend to make any big changes right away. I brought up this young kid, Johnny Logan, to strengthen our infield. He's a good glove man. "This National League race, Brooklyn looks terrific. But you can never tell Brooklyn has a great ball club, but it can be beaten. I concede them nothing, particularly if we can straighten ourselves out for the final stretch. "Sure I get a kick out of being a manager. When I stop getting a kick out of baseball I'm gonna quit. I'm a playing manager. I just played one inning in Boston when I came back up to sort of get the feel of it. "I won't be active unless our outfielders get into trouble and I think I can be a better job. I'm interested in their development now, not in taking any glory for myself. "But I'm in shape, too. I weigh 172. My playing weight was 180. I'm a little fine. But it's a voluntary fitness, and it's not due to worry or strain. I'm sort of

The city golf champion of Pampa will be decided today between finalist Charlie Douglass and the winner of the match between Clara Freeman and Max Hickey. All semifinal matches in the other flights should be completed by the time this article goes to press. "Those of you who enjoy watching a good round of golf should come out this afternoon and follow the boys around. They tee off at 1 p. m. Just a line of congratulations to chairman Ham Luna and the staff for the biggest and best city tournament yet. May they grow bigger and better every year. "The first match of the Panhandle Men's Golf Association will be held next Sunday, with a barbecue for contestants following the day's play. All players who can attend this meet are asked to call Johnny Austin the day before in order that he may call in your name to the host club so they will be able to make pairings and get the show started by 1 p. m. "Pampa now has some of the best shotmakers in this part of the country; so we should be able to bring that big trophy home this year. Hope to see all of you at Phillips next Sunday. I heard that Sherry Heiskell and Bill Smith are inventing a blind 'bride' for golfers. Who knows? It may work. "Floyd Watson's game seems to be improving since the tournament started — much to the sorrow of Ralph Gardner and Jack Nimmo. "Newcomer to the links, George Hofness, is doing alright in the tournament, too. "July 4th saw the biggest Scotch scotch ever played at the local layout — 62 players. Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Elder played a net score of 31 strokes for top honors. Lois Watkins and Clare Freeman won low gross with a fine round of 41. See you at the 19th hole.

Texas League To Lay Plans For Next Season At Star Tilt

HOUSTON — (AP) — Opening dates for the 1952 season will be set here Thursday as the Texas League holds its annual summer meeting in conjunction with the all-star game, and the proposal to start the season two weeks late appears doomed. "Allen Russell, president of the Houston club, had announced the late start as a means of presenting a more "set" lineup after major league cutting down time and also to avoid frequent spring postponements because of bad early-season weather. "However, the association, which engages in the post-season Dixie Series against the Texas League champions, will set its opening date Wednesday and Southern moguls are said to favor the present starting time because of a possible late-season conflict with football which might result. "The all-star game will be played in Buff Stadium Thursday night, with Dallas' L. D. Meyer piloting the North against the South's Al Hollingsworth of Houston. "Both Meyer and Hollingsworth are expected to draw heavily on their own talent. Dallas has eight men on the 19-man North squad, while nine members of the league-leading buffs will wear South uniforms. "As a prelude to Wednesday's Houston-Shreveport game a three-inning contest will be played between ex-Buffs and a team of old-time Texas League stars. "Oldimers scheduled to compete included Tixie Speaker, John Berly, Tink Riviere, Carl Littlejohn, Tex Carleton, Glenn Myatt, Eddie Noyes, Izzy Glenn, Dode Criss, Heinie Schube, Coney Selph, Jim Lindsey, George Watkins, Homer Peel, Ziggy Sauer, John King, Tony Thebo, Dickie Kerr, Buck Faust and Clarence Kraft. "The stars of the past will be guests at a luncheon Thursday. "Directors of the league are also expected to discuss further exploitation of the Dixie Series and the selection of a Miss Texas League as the representative in the minor league's golden girl contest. "President J. Alvin Gardner, Gray Howland and Russell, members of the Dixie Series committee, will make recommendations to the league. SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Keating
Today we are concerned with the lures used in bait casting. This is a subject fraught, as Bill Wolf puts it, with the possibility of utter confusion. Almost any small object fitted with hooks will catch some fish if it is cast into a lake or stream. This has led inventors to invent furiously, and there are thousands of artificial lures on the market today. New ones appear each day and it seems the end is nowhere in sight. "The variety available staggers the beginner — and even the veteran. Since all lures work, the natural assumption is that any old lure will do, but this isn't true. No matter how outlandish in appearance, each has been designed for a specific job, and the purchaser must be guided by some questions he can ask himself: "Will the lure be used in weeds? Will it be fished deep, or on the surface? Will it cast well? Stand up under punishment? Should it be heavy or light? Can it be used for trolling as well as casting? How important is color? For what kind of fish is it intended? "Fortunately lures can be divided into types and there aren't many of them — just variations. Roughly, there are spoons, spinners, plugs and weighted devices for casting pork rind or chunks. This is not a hard and fast classification since some plugs have spinners, some spoons act as spinners and some lures fit into none of these groups. "Plugs are the latest and most important development in bait casting. There are three kinds of plugs: surface, semi-surface and sinking models. All three should be in your tackle box to meet varying conditions. "Color means less than the lure's action in the water. Red and white seems to have an edge as a color combination, but maybe that's only because it appeals to anglers. "Watch the design for wind resistance. Some of the best lures are poor casters, and hard to use in a heavy wind. "Follow the instructions given with most lures. If a plug comes equipped with a snap fastener or a swivel at the head, don't remove it. It was put there for a purpose, to give the lure a certain action. Snap fasteners and swivels seldom have much effect on the actions of underwater lures, but they can upset the balance of some surface types.

Ned Garver Good Choice For Stars

By the Associated Press
How about Ned Garver for American League starter Tuesday's All-Star Game? The St. Louis Browns' pitcher isn't all-star, nobody is. 11 wins for a last place club represents exactly 50 percent of St. Louis' 22 victories. Furthermore he beats the contenders. Garver's 4-1 nod over the cagers in the second half of twilight-night doubleheader day night was his third over the White Sox this season. It was the second time inside a week he barred the Sox from the American League lead. On July 1 he knocked them out of first place. Friday night he kept them from passing New York. "Bill Veck celebrated the occasion of the Browns' first home game under his own management with fireworks, beer and soda and Garver. Ned saved a day for Bill after the Browns had lost the opener to Chicago 4-3. Chico Carrasquel, the Sox all-star shortstop, was apologetic in the first game and returned for the night. "Of course, Manager Casey Stengel of the American League stars may be overly impressed by Boston's Mel Parnell, starting candidate after Friday night's doling at Fenway Park. Lefty Mel shut down the Yankees with nine hits, 6-2, while Red Sox routed Eddie Lopat Dom DiMaggio's two-run homer and Clyde Volmer's two-run triple were the chief weapons

Kiwanis Softballers Move Into End Of First Half Play

Play in the Kiwanis Church Softball League moves into the final week of the first half of play tomorrow night at the Hobart Street Park. At this time the First Baptist junior boys and the Nazarene senior boys are pacing their leagues while a Calvary Baptist junior girls are leading their division. "The boys leagues will be divided into two halves, with the leaders of each half meeting for the championship. The junior girls will play a full season schedule. "The schedule for this week is as follows: "Senior Boys Monday — 7 p. m., First Methodist vs. First Baptist; Tuesday — 7 p. m., McCullough Methodist vs. Calvary Baptist; Nazarene vs. Salvation Army. "Thursday — 7 p. m., Nazarene vs. Holy Souls; 8:30 McCullough Methodist vs. First Methodist. "Friday — 7 p. m., Salvation Army vs. First Christian; 8:30, First Baptist vs. Calvary Baptist. "Junior Boys Monday — 7 p. m., First Christian vs. Central Baptist; 8:30, First Methodist vs. First Baptist. "Tuesday — 7 p. m., Salvation Army vs. Nazarene; 8:30, McCullough Methodist vs. Calvary Baptist. "Thursday — 7 p. m., First Baptist vs. Calvary Baptist; 8:30, First Methodist vs. Central Baptist. "With an improved hurling staff, the Irish Sox expect to do better next round, says Bill Rushing, Sox fielder. Bobby Close, mound ace, is also joined by his younger brother, Bryan. Both have shown well in the first lap. "Irish hardballers also have Bobby Burrell, a young left-hander who has been effective in some games and erratic in others, but gives strong promise. "Shamrock gave Wheeler a scare in a 6-4 contest at Wheeler's, broken up only by a ninth inning homer by Roy Green, Wheeler's batsmith. "Hats are off to Art Bowland, catcher for the Abilene Blue Sox, as the star of the week! "Getting into the spirit of things on June 28 Art hit Lemaesa pitching for a homer, triple and two singles in his first four trips to the plate. "Springing from this start Bowland found Pampa's pitching to his liking the next day and hit two singles, a double and a home run in four AB's. While thus performing he drove in the tying and winning runs in the 2nd inning, then added a couple of insurance runs in the 6th inning with his homer; and Art had a perfect night behind the plate. "By gathering his here and there during the week and meriting the additional star support which came his way, Art managed to add 3 points to his batting average to close out the weekly chore with a cheery .381. "The largest crowd to ever see a professional football game was 95,625 at Memorial Coliseum in Los Angeles, Sept. 16, 1950. Read The News Classified Ads.

Green Sox Face Allison Today

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Green Sox enter the second half of the Panhandle League baseball chase Sunday in a contest with Allison here at 2:30. "Briscos and Wheeler paced the loop in the first round of a double round robin. Shamrock, with three won and three lost, registered .500 at the half way mark. "With an improved hurling staff, the Irish Sox expect to do better next round, says Bill Rushing, Sox fielder. Bobby Close, mound ace, is also joined by his younger brother, Bryan. Hubbers Rise To Top Sox Twice

LUBBOCK — (AP) — The Lubbock Hubbers rose up to swat the Abilene Blue Sox twice here tonight. Winning an overtime, nine-inning first game 4-3 and the nightcap 5-4. "Pitcher Ray Faust won his own game in the opener, singling sharply to rightfield with two out and the bases loaded in the last half of the ninth. "Catcher I. B. Palmer drilled a terrific three-run homer in the fourth inning of the afterpiece to provide the Hubbers with the margin of victory. Steve Catedral, although relieved by Ray Machado when Abilene threatened in the seventh, won his fourth victory of the year. "Both Meyer and Hollingsworth are expected to draw heavily on their own talent. Dallas has eight men on the 19-man North squad, while nine members of the league-leading buffs will wear South uniforms. "As a prelude to Wednesday's Houston-Shreveport game a three-inning contest will be played between ex-Buffs and a team of old-time Texas League stars. "Oldimers scheduled to compete included Tixie Speaker, John Berly, Tink Riviere, Carl Littlejohn, Tex Carleton, Glenn Myatt, Eddie Noyes, Izzy Glenn, Dode Criss, Heinie Schube, Coney Selph, Jim Lindsey, George Watkins, Homer Peel, Ziggy Sauer, John King, Tony Thebo, Dickie Kerr, Buck Faust and Clarence Kraft. "The stars of the past will be guests at a luncheon Thursday. "Directors of the league are also expected to discuss further exploitation of the Dixie Series and the selection of a Miss Texas League as the representative in the minor league's golden girl contest. Randall Snaps Pioneers' Streak

CLOVIS — (AP) — Right-hander Pat Randall threw a five-run Friday night's doling at Fenway Park. Lefty Mel shut down the Yankees with nine hits, 6-2, while Red Sox routed Eddie Lopat Dom DiMaggio's two-run homer and Clyde Volmer's two-run triple were the chief weapons

Vega Wins 14 Against Dukes

ALBUQUERQUE — (AP) — Berger backed Rene Vega up with 22 base hits Friday to give him his 14th win of the season, an 11-7 victory over the Albuquerque Dukes. Albuquerque started off strong but Vega clamped down in the fourth inning, and only allowed one more run after that. "Berger captured the $10,000 Columbus Invitation Golf Tournament with a twelve under par 276. "Ten years ago — The American League rescinded the short-lived rule forbidding pennant winners to trade the following season. Irish Star To Attend A&M. SHAMROCK — (Special) — Kenneth Kidwell, one of the Irish star defensive backs of the 1950 bi-district grid champions, plans to attend Texas A&M next fall, he said this week. "Kidwell was also on the 1949 team and suffered a broken leg which set him back in his studies. As a result, Kenneth took summer term work at the Irish High School in the 1950 session and is completing his diploma by work this summer, too. "Ironically enough, another broken leg put Kenneth in the limelight in 1950. Roger Skaggs, mercury-hipped Irish scabback, suffered a broken leg Sept. 21. Kidwell moved into the slot and became an outstanding left-half-back. "He has an outstanding record as a student, despite the time he lost with the 1949 leg injury. "Kidwell received a diploma in a few days, following the end of the summer term next week. Kidwell went through the commencement exercises with the spring graduates May 21.

ED MYATT ... chairman

Myatt Heads Scout Drive

Ed Myatt accepted the volunteer position of Drive chairman for the Pampa Girl Scouts' 1951 Drive to be held in October, it was announced today by Ed Cleveland, finance chairman of the executive Girl Scout board.

In announcing the appointment, scout officials pointed out contributions to the drive help develop the scouting program and provides scouting for the many girls who otherwise might have to remain on waiting lists.

In today's world crisis, it is more important than ever that the aims of the girl scout program be fulfilled in the lives of as many girls as possible, officials said.

The money contributed to the Girl Scouts is an investment in a "growing force for freedom," it was explained.

Mrs. U. S. A. Helps Hold Prices Down

By DOROTHY ROE Associated Press Women's Editor

If left to her own devices, the American housewife could do a pretty good job of price control on her own hook.

The most graphic illustration of this little-known fact is the recent price-cutting that has been going on all over the country on items that a few months earlier were supposed to be hard to get.

Such things as electric refrigerators, sewing machines, ranges, mixers, television sets and kitchen sinks are available now at prices that have been cut from 10 to 23 1/2 percent since spring.

These reductions vary in different parts of the country, of course, and with different dealers. The amount of the price cut usually depends on how heavily the dealer is overstocked.

In some instances, however, the reductions have been made by the manufacturers, many of whom also found themselves with too much stock on hand.

And what brought about this carnival of bargains? It was the plain common sense of Mrs. U.S.A. herself, who simply decided not to buy.

There was, you may remember, a big buying rush in January, when the word went out that a severe shortage was due in so-called "hard goods"—the home appliances and furniture mentioned above.

Many people were convinced that if they didn't get that new refrigerator or washing machine right then they would have to make the old one do until the end of a probable World War III.

But there were others who decided not to be stampeded into a lot of scarce buying, and simply sat back and waited.

Those are the shoppers who now are taking advantage of the current savings, and are being pretty smart about it, too.

The same thing has happened to the predicted beef shortage. Instead of bidding for steak at any price, and thus encouraging new black markets, the average American housewife has been ordering chicken, turkey and ham this summer and leaving the beef in the butcher's display counter under its astronomical price tag.

These same housewives who held off so cannily at the time of peak prices still aren't rushing in to snap up all the bargains offered. They are wondering if prices may not go lower still.

But a survey of department store ads in city newspapers shows there are many thrifty buys available now which may not last too long.

Such things as refrigerators and stoves probably won't go much lower in price, and the new restrictions on metals may cut down production next fall.

If you need clothes for the family, you can find bargains in summer clearance sales all over the place, and by judicious selection probably can buy the year-round kind of garments that will do duty for several seasons.

Household linen also should be available at reduced prices in the August white sales.

Men's shirts, children's pajamas and play clothes, women's nylon stockings—all these may be found at current clearances.

Improper Spraying Threatens Panhandle's Cotton Crop

With the wheat crop failure, or damage most broad leaf plants—including valuable crops as well as weeds.

Discovery of 2, 4 - D has brought about a completely new and revolutionary concept of weed control, Whaley said. In the short period since 1945 it has become the most widely used chemical weed killer in the United States. Its commercial sales in 1948 were estimated at more than eight million pounds.

Whaley explained certain general rules should be followed in applying the poison. Used improperly, the agricultural chemical could result in damage suits running into thousands of dollars. In the coastal region in 1947, cotton farmers brought suits against rice farmers for the misuse of 2, 4-D, he said.

The ester form of 2, 4-D can be carried in the air as far as five to 10 miles and still destroy or damage cotton and other susceptible crops.

Some of the rules he gave in applying 2, 4 - D are as follows: Use the proper form. Amine is the proper one for this area. Never use the ester since fumes from it will drift many miles. Directions should be followed closely, and sensitive plants such as flowers, vegetables, clover and cotton, should be safe guarded.

Addict Tells Horrors That Dope Brings

AP Newsfeatures PITTSBURGH — Did you ever wonder what it would be like to take dope?

Here's how one drug addict, described his horrible ordeal during a two-month-long binge on heroin. Haggard and stooped, the 21-year-old former athlete said he became an addict after meeting other addicts and a drug peddler while working at a used car lot.

"Before I knew it I was on the stuff," he said. "It calmed me. In fact, it numbed all the organs in my body. I was immune to pain. After six or eight hours, though, the stuff would wear off and my nerves would be worse than ever. I discovered the only thing that could help was another shot. The more I took the more I needed and the worse my nerves got. Pretty soon I began to feel other symptoms.

"For instance, I couldn't sleep. I got addicted to sleeping pills, too. I lost my appetite. The first thing I got up in the morning, I had to have some. While the stuff was working I would sulk and want to be by myself or in the company of other dopeheads.

"When the effect wore off, the torture started. Pain would hit me in the back first, then my stomach would roll around like jelly. I'd get diarrhea.

"Then I noticed I was getting immune to the dope. I was taking 10 capsules a day but no matter how many I took, the pains and nausea began coming more frequently.

"I asked my brother to help me. He took what was left of the heroin and got rid of it. Then my family called a doctor.

More Drastic Controls Near

NEW YORK — (AP) — New controls on industry's use of scarce materials pour out today. And still more drastic ones are reported near.

They would keep you from installing a central gas heater in that new home you plan. They forbid you to use some 30 building materials of copper and copper-base alloy.

If you are a manufacturer, a new order will put all the aluminum you use under complete allocation by August 1. An order being considered would cut back your use of sulphur by 20 percent, except for essential defense use.

The control orders roll out in spite of the peace talks in Korea because the country is ready now for its great push forward in defense production. Orders already awarded make sure the rest of the year will see a fast growing production of war goods, no matter what happens at Kaesong. To fill these defense orders, manufacturers must have the scarce materials — other people must wait.

The proposed ban on new users of natural gas is already bringing protests. Gas furnace dealers are reported clamoring for their congressmen to halt the ban, which the Petroleum Administration for Defense says is in drafting.

The natural gas industry has made remarkable strides since the last war. The American Gas Assn. reports that in the last five years nearly $4 billion was spent on new facilities and expansion of pipelines which now stretch from the Texas gas fields to both seacoasts.

Plans to carry the gas still further afield, to build additional lines alongside present ones to increase supply, and to fan pipelines out through districts now partly served, call for further spending of more than $4.5 billion in the 1951-55 period, the association says. This year the expansion program will cost $1.5 billion and will taper off slowly after that.

The rub comes in finding the steel pipe for the great lines that must cross the country. Steel is a prime defense necessity. Other industries — oil companies, freight car makers, truck builders, to name only a few — also clamor for it.

PAD contends that all it can do, until more steel pipes can be found, is to tell the gas companies not to take on any new customers, to concentrate on serving the increased needs of those they already have.

Users already connected to pipelines have been asking the ban on further extensions, PAD says, in fear their increased needs next winter might be in danger of going unmet, causing slow-downs in factories and even possibly chilled homes if the winter turned severe.

Pampa's Teen - Agerers Start Square Dancing For Pastime

Free square dancing lessons for the Square Teen club will begin at 8 p. m. Monday on the Hobart street square with Jimmie Enloe and Clem Followell instructing. Lessons will continue through Thursday.

Organized in February, 1951, by the Junior Oddfellows and Theta Rho groups, the Square Teen Club had eight full squares at its dances each Friday. Indoor dances are held at the Parish Hall.

The club is composed of Pampa boys and girls, 13 through 19 years of age. Members own a public address system.

Officers of the group are Roy King, president; Jerry King, vice-president; and Leroy Kretzmeier, floor manager.

Board members are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stone, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cruise and Mr. and Mrs. Jim King.

Jimmie Enloe is chairman of the board of directors.

Ceiling Deadline Extended

The date which retailers may continue to sell articles under the retail Ceiling Price Regulation 7 has been extended to July 31. Office of Price Stabilization officials announced today.

Sufficient help at the district OPS office in Lubbock made the extension necessary.

The companion amendment to supplement Regulation 1 to CPR 7, effective June 30, was extended to July 31, allows certain chain stores and mail order retailers to continue to sell articles covered by the regulation, without having received acknowledgment from the OPS of their service charge statements being filed.

The OPS also announces that retail sales of toys, Christmas decorations, hand knitting yarn and crocheted thread laces and trimmings and ribbons have been added to the coverage of CPR 7, dry goods, apparel, household goods and other consumer items.

Boy Scouts In Court Of Honor

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Four Shamrock Boy Scouts won honors at a court of honor last week, conducted at the Methodist church by Murray Davis.

Dean Foshee became a first class scout. Second class honors went to John Walker, Frank Weatherby and Jim Mundy.

Grady Cooper, local Church of Christ minister, was chief speaker at the session.

Cooper outlined the history of scouting briefly and praised Troop 76 and its leaders for their service to youth.

Power Firms Have Trouble With Demand

NEW YORK — (AP) — The electric power companies are having a tough time keeping up with demands. Now it's defense production that could give them a workout in meeting peak demands next winter.

Ever so often they guess how much electricity you'll want to light your house and store and run your factory. Then they order some new generators and other equipment — they've put $8 billion into expansion since World War II and plan to spend another $7 billion in the next three years. But each time they find you're wanting more than they guessed.

They revised the estimate when the Korean war broke out, increasing it 40 percent. Now the government tells them the guess should have been higher.

The Defense Power Administration predicts the load this December will be 80 million kilowatts (it was 61.5 million last December); that by December, 1952, the load will be 79 million, and by December, 1953, it will be 82 million. A year ago they estimated the 1953 load would be only 70 million.

Electric utility men like to have a 15 percent margin between capacity and peak load.

At the end of 1950 total generating capacity was 68.5 million kilowatts. The Northern Trust Co., of Chicago, notes there was a margin of reserve of only 10 percent.

The trust company says the Edison Electric Institute estimates that reserve capacity this December will be only 8.5 percent, because demand at 111 outstrips expansion programs. The committee hopes the reserve will be 11.8 percent by the end of 1952 and 16 percent by the end of 1953. It will be due to the 37 million kilowatts of additional generating capacity slated to be added in the next three years.

The industry's squeeze is due to the much greater than anticipated increase in demand and the fact that it jumped faster times during World War II 70,000 soldiers were stationed within its walls.

OPS Exempts Building Stone

The Office of Price Stabilization has announced the exemption from price control of producers and resellers of certain dimension and building stones, monuments and memorials, and architectural terra cotta.

The exemptions effective immediately, include the installation of monuments, memorials and architectural terra cotta by producers and resellers.

Removal of control over these commodities, OPS said, will not affect sales or prices of other commodities through diversion of materials, labor or facilities.

Dimension and building stones include building, ornamental and monumental stones of basalt and related stones, granite, greenstone, limestone, marble, sandstone and slate.

Monuments and memorials include markers, epitaphs, cenotaphs, statues, tables, pillars, tombs, sarcophagi and burial vaults.

Architectural terra cotta includes ceramic facing materials custom made to architects' designs, but not glazed or unglazed structural materials which are not custom made and are usually sold on a unit basis.

PARDON us if we play switchman with a familiar railroad phrase, but we aim to flag down some certain people... Those folks who've always had a great big yen for a new Buick, but a big worry that Buick prices ran too high for their budgets.

Now we'll have to grant you that — on style and beauty and size and impressive appearance — a 1951 Buick looks like a pretty high price tag.

And we'll have to grant, too, that the zooming power and the luxurious ride and the heavyweight steadiness you get in a Buick would also indicate prices beyond the reach of most people.

But honestly, you'll find nothing farther from the truth when you note the price tags on 1951 Buicks.

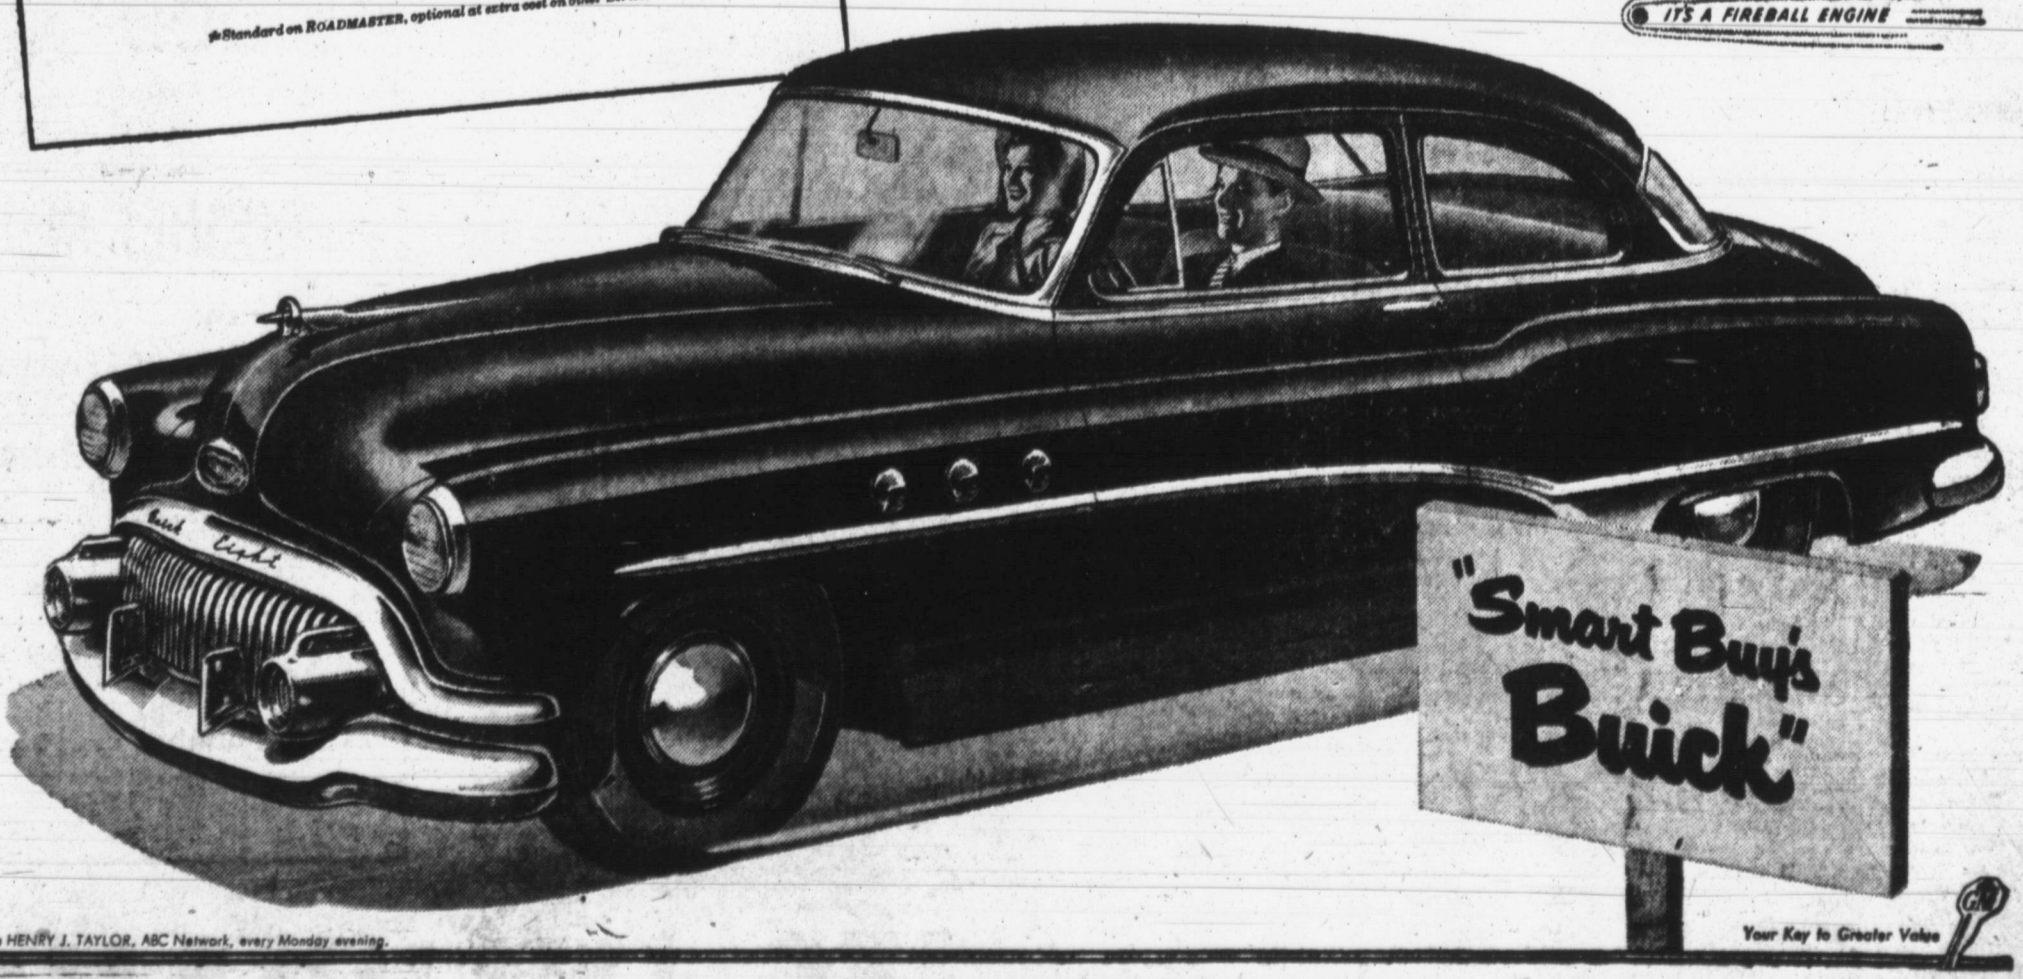

You'll find that beauty with the big-power, big-mileage, valve-in-head Fireball Engine is really within your budget picture — with prices starting below those of many of today's sixes.

And you'll have to admit then and there that you can have Buick room and comfort, can have Buick ride and handling, can have Buick style and size — for little, if any, more than you've been paying for lesser cars.

That leaves the next step up to you — stopping in to see us.

Come in soon, look over the SPECIAL, SUPER or ROADMASTER you've always wanted — and let that happy glow go surging all through you as you sign up for your smart-buy Buick.

SEEMS PLUMB CRAZY—An unbelieving worker at site of a municipal housing development in St. Paul, Minn., stares at what appears to be outdoor indoor plumbing. Passersby at first thought it was something new in lampposts. Simple fact was that plumbers got ahead of carpenters and installed pipes and fixtures before the houses were up. There was some speculation on what would have happened if the roofers had gotten there first.

Lucky Ozzie Nelson Has His Whole Family Hard At Work

Since it is the family type of picture which is popular with film patrons, there is a strong possibility that the film will lead to a series. That would not doubt please Ozzie, who has managed to keep his checks coming in and maintain a normal, unspoiled family at the same time.

"We're a very close family," explained Harriet while the three male members of the family were in a movie scene. "We've never had any trouble with the boys getting hammy or self-conscious. For one thing they have been around how business all their lives, so they take it naturally.

"They consider their acting as a job to be done as well as they can. They know how their father works his heart out over the scripts, and they feel terrible whenever they fluff a line.

"The boys go to public schools and fortunately their friends treat them quite normally. They don't comment about how good the boys are on the radio. They only say, 'hat was a funny show' or something like that."

"The debuts of David and Ricky in the show world happened accidentally and by doing the night Bing Crosby and his son were guesting on the Nelson show. Ricky, a friend of the Crosby sprout, inquired: "If Lindy can play himself on the radio, why can't we?"

"It had never occurred to us," said Harriet. "So we allowed them to portray themselves at the preview of the show. They were so good that we decided to let them go on. We were about to change our sons, anyway; we had already gone through two sets of boys who had outgrown the '50s."

The two boys never see the money they are earning. By court order, half of it goes into government bonds and the other half into their bank accounts. It has been "arranged" that the boys will have 150-600 apiece in their own names by the time they are 21, as nice a start in life as you could hope for.

Meanwhile they get by on allowances that are normal for boys their age. David draws $150 a month and Ricky $1. "They just asked me for a raise," their father added. "But it's not because we're doing the picture. They claim the cost of living has gone up, and I guess they're right."

Ozzie Nelson is obviously quite proud of how her boys have reacted to their fame and tells of a affection which David gave out the other day.

Entertainment On Cruise Is Too Much Trouble For Mac

By HENRY McLEMORE
A PRIVATE OPINION MADE PUBLIC: I will not go on a cruise ship until something is arranged for the minutes between 11:01 and 11:02. Those are the only minutes of a cruise day that are not taken care of. Seven o'clock, horse races. Eight o'clock, canasta and bridge. Nine o'clock, consommé, bouillon, tea, coffee, hot chocolate and warm milk.

You are supposed to go on a cruise ship for a rest, but you haven't got a chance of resting. You are supposed to meet some attractive soul every second, and if you happen to come on board already happy, full of soup, and with a dislike of wooden horse races, you are treated just as if it were your first time on the bounding deep.

Every officer on board makes sure that you meet an attractive girl if you're a man, and an attractive man if you're a girl. You may come aboard with your wife but the directors of "pleasure" on a cruise ship are so determined to make you happy that they really don't care if they make you unhappy.

It's bingo here, and shuffle-board there. It's table tennis in the morning and deck tennis in the afternoon. It is being ducked at the equator when you cross it, and dressing up for the Captain's dinner when you don't want to.

Some time, some country is going to send a ship across the ocean with no planned entertainment allowed. The passengers are going to be able to do what they want to do without blue serge help. Most people don't like regimentation. There's nothing nicer in the world than boring yourself, deliberately.

People have asked me why I do almost all of my traveling by plane. I always tell them that I travel by plane for the very simple reason that the crew leaves you alone.

The chief pilot does not come back and ask you to join him in a game of checkers, the navigator sticks to his navigating instruments and doesn't ask the passengers if they'd like to put on bathing suits and look at the stars in the heavens. The stewardess on a plane doesn't wake you up and tell you it's time to come to the skipper's watermelon cutting.

PLANES ON THE PRODUCTION LINE — When the war goods start flowing in great quantities, shortages will follow. These are F-56 jets being mass produced by North American Aviation in Los Angeles.

No Truce In Sight For Home Front

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Regardless of the outcome of cease-fire negotiations in Korea, the economic battle on the home front will continue unabated.

This is the struggle to maintain a near-normal economy while industry tools up for a possible future all-out war mobilization.

Nor will the end of the shooting repair much of the war damage already done on the home front.

Inflation is soon expected to break all records in the U. S.

The cost of living in America has gone up close to nine percent since the North Koreans made their aggressive crossing of the 38th Parallel more than a year ago.

A tax burden which most U.S. taxpayers believed to be crushing before they ever heard of Korea will be increased by something more than $17,000,000,000 by the end of the year.

Next February, a man with a wife and two children and a salary of $5,000 a year will find his income tax bill upped from $432 to $585.

The average U.S. corporation will get a tax bill on income in the neighborhood of 60 percent, compared to the one of about 35 percent last year.

On top of inflation and increased income tax, John Q. Public will shell out more in excise taxes for his liquor, entertainment, tobacco and household goods as a result of the crossing of the 38th by the Reds.

Although the anticipated shortages of consumer goods haven't yet materialized, there are signs that the present overabundance of such things as wool clothing and TV sets is just temporary.

When the war goods start flowing in great quantities, then, the experts say, the shortages will follow.

Although the limited controls which U. S. business has imposed itself saddled with haven't caused a major disruption in America's economic system, there are authoritative predictions that the worst is yet to come.

On the positive side of the ledger are facts which come from the latest report of defense mobilization boss Charles E. Wilson. It reveals that outstanding orders for war goods are in the neighborhood of $25,000,000,000.

Through April, May and June of this year $4,000,000,000 worth of vitally needed arms and ammunition were delivered. That is three times more than deliveries during the same period last year.

And the outlook on American farms is for a four percent increase in production this year.

Since the Korean fighting started, industrial output in America has increased about 15 percent. And during the next two years it is planned to have it increased another 15 percent.

Wilson reports, "At least two more years of intensive labor will be required in this nation to reach our present goals of military and productive power."

Wilson's big worry is what will be the reaction of the U.S. with a truce existing in Korea.

He warns: "The assault by Soviet communism in that corner of the globe was but an episode in the long-term struggle in which we are engaged. The truce in Korea does not remove the danger that new fighting might break out there at any time. Even if peace is fully restored in that country new Koreans are always possible anywhere along the broad perimeter of the Soviet empire, and any of these could lead to global war."

"We dare not slacken the pace of defense mobilization in the free world until we know that the Soviets have given up their aims of world conquest and have sincerely entered into a genuine world peace."

In the build-up of strength in the free world, the report

U. S. Oil Industry Looking For The Worst In Forecast

The U. S. oil industry has been gambling that the Korean War will continue, civilian consumption will remain high and Iranian Oil will be lost to the West.

It may have lost one or more of these gambles, with the result that oil stocks could shortly become so excessive as to threaten the well-being of the industry.

This red flag of warning against over production was hung out in the July 1 issue of World Oil by Publisher Ray L. Dudley and Editor Warren L. Baker, who see the need for lower producing rates the remainder of this year.

A cease-fire agreement in Korea and subsequent loss of military demand, now estimated at nearly 400,000 barrels per day, would require a sharp cutback aggravated by a companion drop in oil needed for defense preparations. If peace comes, California heavy-type oil would become "a drug on the market, in contrast to its present strong position," say the writers.

As for civilian consumption, the writers note that "General reductions ranging from 1 cent to 2 cents per gallon have taken place in gasoline tank wagon prices all along the East Coast from Maine to Florida. . . . The occurrence of a weak gasoline market during the heavy consuming season for this product is a dangerous sign."

The writers concede that if Iran's nationalization of oil results in the temporary removal of this oil from world markets, the loss would more than offset the repercussions caused by peace in Korea. "However, there is no assurance that Iran's 700,000 barrels per day will not continue to enter world markets. Loss of revenue from oil would be disastrous financially and politically to the country, so Iran can be expected to make every effort to keep its industry operating."

This precarious position of the U. S. oil industry is partly the dubious reward of efficiency in getting oil out of the ground. During the four weeks ended June 16, U. S. crude oil stocks grew by 4,000,000 barrels, attaining a whopping level of 248,500,000 barrels, or 9,000,000 greater than a year ago. Likewise, gasoline stocks of 128,500,000 barrels in mid-June were 12,000,000 barrels more than a year ago.

Drugs Help Runty Pigs

LIBERTVILLE, Ill. — Farmers now can save runty pigs and fatten them on a special food formula spiced with antibiotics. Dr. W. N. McMullen, former research scientist at Michigan State College of Agriculture, discovered the new field. He devised the formula after studying the growth of 3,800 pigs over a five-year period.

His discovery helps runty pigs make fogs of themselves so they can go to market about the same time as the others of the litter. It may become one of the largest nutritional strides yet made in the history of hog raising. McMullen now is on the research staff of Allied Mills, Inc. The Company maintains a 600-acre Research Farm near here.

High protein foods are used in the formula. A proper balance of antibiotics, such as aureomycin, terramycin and penicillin, is added. Vitamin B-12 is an important ingredient. Several of the B-vitamins and riboflavin are included in the feed to prevent nutritional disorders in pigs, McMullen said.

The new feed is prepared in pellet form. Pigs relish it; it seems to stimulate their appetite. In experiments, the new feed was fed to a group of runty pigs the same age as another group of pigs fed a well-balanced ration. At the end of 30 days, it was found the runts fed standard pig ration put on 5.7 pounds per pig. The runts fed the new ration gained 28.2 pounds each. "My research findings prove that about 80 percent of the annual crop of 15,000,000 runts can be saved," Dr. McMullen said.

EVIL FOR WEEVILS—Astride his converted tractor, E. E. Perry, of Henderson, Tex., demonstrates his "dream" invention that he says will exterminate boll weevils. Perry, a 30-acre tenant farmer, says the idea for the complicated machine (circled in photo) came to him in a dream. The tank is filled with an insecticide made to his own formula. This flows down through twin tunnels past the tractor's hot exhaust pipes. The heat vaporizes the liquid which is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton.

Says Minimum Price Is Unconstitutional

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Superior Judge Edward McKeen says it is unconstitutional for the state board of dry cleaners to set a minimum price for cleaning or pressing.

"Where are we to stop in the process of regulation in a country founded on free enterprise?" McKeen asked.

"Is it finally to include every profession, trade, occupation or business? Wherein is the public interest aided by making it pay a cleaner a minimum price for the cleaning of a garment?"

The judge granted a permanent injunction prohibiting the cleaners' board from enforcing minimum prices.

The action was brought by two cleaning firms which said they charged less than the legal minimum of $1.24 for cleaning and pressing a suit or dress.

The Wolf Man Hangs Up Traps, Returns To Farm

AP Newsfeatures
MONTICELLO, Ark. — When the law wouldn't let him set out poison 23 years ago for wolves that had been preying on his goat herd, Andy Ray quit farming in south Arkansas and became a trapper for the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

When he retired recently, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service sent representatives here to laud Ray as the outstanding wolf hunter in North America.

"My main reason for starting trapping, I guess, was the loss of those goats," he recalls. "But I also liked fishing and hunting and thought I might as well get paid for it while enjoying it."

Besides campaigning against wolves, Ray, half Cherokee Indian, trapped beavers in various parts of the country, especially in Georgia. He was sent to Missouri, Texas and Oklahoma to get rid of coyotes. He has done some bear trapping.

Germans To Revive Gliders

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
AP Newsfeatures
FRANKFURT, Germany—Fifty thousand West German glider pilots are going to soar again for the first time since the war. An about-face in Allied policy permits revival of sport gliding, which has been banned as a military security hazard since Germany was occupied in 1945. Only last year, British authorities prohibited even model-glider contests, claiming they violated Allied regulations against German aeronautics.

In 1951, however, the western powers have gone so far as to discuss formation of a West German tactical air force for European defense. Model flying also is again tolerated.

The new West German "Aero Club" now has a membership of 17,000, and it is swiftly rising. The total of veteran glider pilots is 50,000. Soviet-occupied East Germany formally revived gliding a year ago, proclaiming it a mass sport for Communist youths.

Many West German gliding enthusiasts were invited to the Soviet Zone to fly there. Other West Germans entered foreign competitions. But those who stayed home meanwhile kept on building many kinds of models, including tiny, jet-propelled gliders.

Historically, gliding is as German as the Diesel engine or Frankfurters. A German, Otto Lilienthal, author of "Birdflight As A Basis of Aviation," was a pioneer in the field. He was killed in 1896 when his "Ikaros" glider crashed after a flight of 400 yards.

Germans remembered his theories and revived gliding in 1920 because the Versailles Peace Treaty prohibited motorized flying. In the same year, a German named Klemperer set the first gliding record on the Wasserkuppe, a famous soaring ground near Kassel. Klemperer stayed aloft two minutes and 22 seconds.

German Ernst Jachtmann still claims today the world record for soaring 55 hours and 52 minutes over the East Prussian Coast in 1943. But his record was declared invalid by the International Aeronautic Federation (IFIA) because it was flown during the war.

Italy's Navy Ready To Go

AP Newsfeatures
TARANTO, Italy — It takes about 30 minutes for the whole Italian Navy to pass in review — and that is steaming along at a pretty fair rate.

Because the pre-war fleet with which Mussolini tried to make the Mediterranean once more "Mare Nostrum" (Our Sea) has dwindled from six biggest navy in the world down to 36 ships. That includes everything down to the vest-pocket-sized motor torpedo boats with six-man crews. It also includes three clean-lined, former United States destroyer escorts just turned over to Italy under the arms aid program.

But American naval observers here are not too discouraged over prospects for that pint-sized fleet, now a part of the Atlantic Pact force of western defense.

The latest full fleet review here was described by these high officers as "A well-organized show," and they said that although Italy still lacked modern ships, she could show "a strong and well-trained naval personnel ready to man a bigger fleet as fast as it can be formed."

That can start now — after five years. The Peace Treaty did not allow Italy any new naval construction until 1950. It takes time to build warships. And even more than that, it takes money.

But Italy has begun a naval construction program — and to fill in the gap she is receiving surplus United States fighting ships. Besides the three destroyer escort vessels already received, it has been announced in Washington that Italy will get the "Woodworth" and "Nicholson," two of the fastest destroyers of the American navy. And after them, it is likely that still other ships may follow until Italy's own new naval construction begins sliding down the ways.

Probably equally important: at the long-deserted naval air field just north of this big naval base, there now sits a long row of fighter-bombers. They're former American Curtis hell-divers, sent here also as part of the arms aid program intended to help Italy guard her part of the Atlantic Pact's western line. Until they arrived, the Italian Navy had no air arm. Under the Peace Treaty she is not allowed aircraft carriers, and her only planes were obsolete land force models.

The Peace Treaty — which the United States Senate has now proposed freeing of its military limitations — also allows Italy no submarines, and no assault craft.

She is allowed two battleships. She has afloat the ancient Doria — grim ghost of 1943 and World

The veteran trapper says he wasn't always popular when he first arrived in community to work. The letters "U.S." were painted on the side of the automobile in which he traveled. Residents would begin wondering what Federal department he represented. They thought he was a "revenuer" — a treasury agent rounding up makers of moonshine whiskey.

To build up their confidence in him, Ray would trap a few wolves and display them on the courthouse lawn. That put him in solid with folks. He was "the wolf man."

Now — in retirement — the "wolf man" is back where he started, farming in south Arkansas, though on a smaller scale.

War I. The twin battleship, Dullio, also exists on paper. In reality, however, she is docked and under half-hearted repair and modernization. Officials of the Italian Navy doubt that the old ship will ever be put afloat again until new, modern ships replace her.

Italy has — again on paper — five old cruisers. Of these the Giuseppe Garibaldi, Duca degli Abruzzi and Montecitorio passed in review. The Luigi di Savoia and Luigi Cadorna, laid up for repairs, were not in shape to put to sea.

Miss Georgia Smith Becomes Bride Of Bill Behrman In Home Ceremony

In an informal home wedding at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Miss Georgia Smith, daughter of Mrs. Lucille Smith of Littlefield, became the bride of Bill Behrman, Pampa, at the home of the bride's mother, with the Rev. Frank Beauchamp, pastor of the First Methodist Church in Littlefield, reading the ceremony.

The wedding was performed before an altar of white gladioli and Marconi daisies. A large round mirror formed the background for the altar.

Jess Elms, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a dress of white cotton starched lace over white taffeta. The slightly flared skirt was street-length and the long fitted bodice was topped with a long-sleeved bolero jacket that fastened down the back with taffeta covered buttons. The jacket was shirred slightly in front and was finished at the neckline with a small taffeta Peter Pan collar. She wore white shantung shoes and a small white lace bonnet trimmed in white veiling. She carried a bouquet of white lilies with silver streamers on a white Bible.

For something borrowed she wore a strand of Japanese pearls belonging to Mrs. Rheata Newgent, her something old was her grandmother's wedding band and her something new was her dress.

Mrs. J. Don Egan, the former Miss Joan Price of Pampa, was matron of honor. She wore a white-pique dress with flared skirt and round low collar, bordered in heavy lace. She wore a small white linen hat and her bouquet was similar to the bride's.

E. M. Behrman served his brother as best man. The bride's mother, Mrs. Smith, wore a natural lace dress and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Martha Gardner, was in navy. Both wore corsages of vanda orchids.

Others in the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Brodie Hutchinson of Levelland, who greeted and registered the guests; Miss Jess Elms served the wedding ring cake and Mrs. Van Clark served coffee. The white linen-laid table held the bride's bouquets during the reception.

After returning from the honeymoon the couple will be at home in Pampa. For traveling Mrs. Behrman changed to a teal blue Palm Beach tailored suit. With it she wore black velvet shoes, a large black velvet veiled hat and carried a black velvet bag.

The bride was graduated from Littlefield High School in 1945 and from Texas State College for Women in Denton, where she majored in journalism and English in 1949. For about a year she was employed on the County Wide News in Littlefield as society editor and is now a reporter on The Pampa Daily News.

Mr. Behrman attended Pampa High School and after serving four years in the Army in Germany, attended Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He is now employed at Radio Station KPAT.

Attending the wedding from Pampa were Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Behrman, Mrs. Laura Belle Cornelius, Mrs. Jessye Stroup, Miss Vivian Lafferty, Vernon Lawrence, Mrs. Mary Forrester and Miss Mary Lou Forrester.

Meeting Is Set For White Deer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Andy Burks, minister of the Church of Christ, Station, will conduct a gospel meeting at the local church, beginning July 8, and continuing through July 12, according to an announcement made today by W. M. Bruster, minister of the Church of Christ here.

Services will begin at 10 o'clock each morning and at 8 o'clock each evening. Walter Eller of Pampa will lead the singing.

Miss Joan Sawyer, Vincent Menier Exchange Vows In Holy Souls Church

A ceremony in Holy Souls Catholic Church at 9 o'clock yesterday morning united in marriage Miss Joan Teresa Sawyer and Vincent Joseph Menier. The Rev. Otto Meyer officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Sawyer, 321 N. Gray, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vito Menier of Lakeside, Ohio.

Mrs. William T. Braly was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Caldera of Mercedes, Miss Ann Watson of Brownwood, Miss Barbara Stephens and Miss Edwina Emerson, both of Pampa.

Robert Sawyer, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were William R. Hogge of Amarillo, William Braly, Jack Jones and Hansel Kennedy, all of Pampa.

The vocalist, Mrs. Lynn Boyd, was accompanied by the Rev. Anthony Solich, C.M. Mrs. Boyd sang "Pursis Angelicus" and at the conclusion of high mass, she sang "O Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Mother.

Music was by Rosini, a traditional music was used for professional and recessional. Accompanied to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory nylon tulle fashioned with tight fitted bodice, short puffed sleeves and matching elbow length mitts. The full bouffant skirt was caught up on one side in front with a cascade of flowers, sweeping to the back into a wide circular train. The flowers were repeated on one of the softly shirred shoulders. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a coronet of white imported lilies.

The bridal bouquet of stephanotis and fleur de maris was centered with a white orchid and cascaded with stephanotis. It was carried on a white mother of pearl prayer book.

The bride's attendants were dressed in yellow net over taffeta, styled with fitted bodices and full skirts. They wore halos of white daisies and carried bouquets of Marconi daisies in small garden baskets with yellow satin handles. Small daisies and English ivy cascaded from the baskets.

Mrs. Sawyer, the bride's mother, wore an aqua silk shantung suit accented with a corsage of Pinocchio roses, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Menier, wore a corsage of red garnet roses on her navy sheer dress.

After a honeymoon in Colorado the couple will be at home at Hillwood Drive, San Antonio. For traveling the bride wore a mauve silk shantung suit with navy accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Menier was graduated from Incarnate Word College in San Antonio this year, where she received the Bachelor of Music Degree. Mr. Menier has a degree in engineering from the Spartan College of Illinois.

At the reception, given in the home of the bride's parents, a daisy theme was carried out in the chosen colors of yellow and white. Arrangements of Marconi daisies decorated the home and centered the bride's table, which was covered with an imported Irish linen cloth under a flounced cover of embroidered net.

Members of the house party wore daisy corsages. These included William Hogge, who presided at the guest book, Miss Mary Menier, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jan Sanders, who served cake; Misses Colleen and Jean Chisholm, who poured coffee. Mrs. George Bunch and Mrs. Lewis Jones, who presided at the church.

Among the out-of-town guests were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vito Menier, and Miss Mary Menier.

The rehearsal dinner for the Sawyer-Menier wedding was given at the home of Mrs. Sawyer.

The couple will live at 225 Wheeling, Kansas City.

ENGAGEMENT TOLD — Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Worrell announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Jeneane, and Leroy E. Thornburg, son of Mrs. Alma Thornburg of White Deer. The Rev. Douglas E. Carver will perform the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents at 1707 Christine, at 8 p.m. Friday, July 20.

Double-Ring Rites Unite In Marriage Miss Elnita Davis And James Taylor

In a double-ring ceremony solemnized in the First Assembly of God Church at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 3, Miss Elnita Davis became the bride of James L. Taylor. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Davis, northwest of Pampa, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor of S. Farley.

The Rev. J. S. McMullen officiated, assisted by the Rev. H. H. Woods of Borger. Palms and floor vases of yellow gladioli banked the altar. Seven-branch candelabra flanked the arch, which was entwined with greenery. Satin streamers decorated the kneeling bench and marked the pews.

Kay Wilson played the wedding music, which included "Indian Love Call" and "Clair de Lune." The traditional wedding marches were used for professional and recessional. Wanda Lou Morris, vocalist, sang "Always," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lit by June Bruce and Sherry Hyatt. Helen McKinney, cousin of the bride, bridesmaids were Doreen Foris and Wanda Hill. The bride's attendants wore pink, blue and orchid organdy gowns with shirred yoke and sleeves, fitted bodice and full skirt with a band of shirring. The head-dresses were made of matching organdy and nylon net which fell to the shoulders. They carried nosegays of shaded pink carnations with pastel streamers.

Jimmy Davis, brother of the bride, and Carolyn Nunley were ring bearers. They carried white satin pillows shaped like hearts, trimmed with white net. He wore a brown suit and she wore a floor-length dress of pink organdy and a small corsage of pink carnations.

John Green escorted Linda Taylor, small sister of the bridegroom, who was the flower girl. They were dressed as miniature bride and bridegroom, and she carried a white satin basket of rose petals.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a bridal gown of white-slipper satin, fashioned with a Queen Ann collar and long fitted sleeves which ended in points at her hands. Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a tiara of braided satin and seed pearls. The two-tier veil was edged with wide lace. For something old she wore a pearl pin which was a gift to her grandmother, and which she wore at her own wedding many years ago.

The bride carried a white Bible topped with white carnations centered with an orchid, and fastened with streamers. Leon Taylor, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman were Wallace Bruce, Earnest Barnett and Jean McKinney.

For her daughter's marriage Mrs. Davis chose a navy blue dress, pink and white accessories.

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization, with the sole purpose of informing the voter for better citizenship. Two topics of study will be adopted locally, one of local interest, "Know Your Town," and the other, of national importance, "Inflation." Study units are now being formed and a unit chairman is being secured.

Local plans for the league include participation in the coming bond election, when the members will expedite the election by furnishing transportation and aiding in other ways to help voters get to the polls.

Gordon will fully discuss the defense production act of 1950, giving a short review of its history, the items it covers, and its powers, such as price and wage control, hoarding, allocation of materials, provisions for rationing, requisitioning of property for defense and termination dates of various parts and will give an explanation of its various functions.

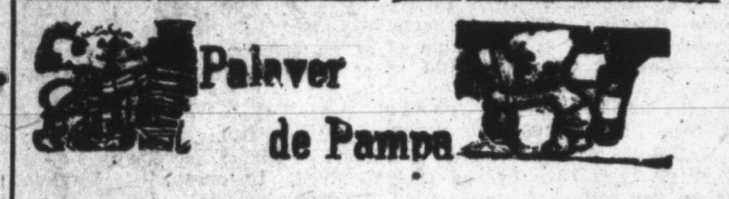

The local provisional league, headed by Mrs. Frank Culbertson as president, and Mrs. H. H. Hahn as first vice president, has gained strength and momentum since it was organized a few months ago and now has a membership of approximately 80. This will be the first meeting this summer and several items will come up for consideration.

Bridal Shower Fetes Mrs. Kenneth Pierce
MOBEETIE — (Special) — A bridal shower honoring Mrs. Kenneth Pierce of Fort Worth was given Saturday in the First Baptist Church basement. Co-hostesses were Mrs. L. D. McCauley, Mrs. Earl Alexander and Mrs. Sam Thomas. The bride is the former Miss LaRue Flanagan and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flanagan of Mobeetie.

IN EARLY FALL—Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Howe of the Phillips Camp, south of Pampa, announce the engagement of their niece, Delva Louise Sheedy, to Winson V. Heath of Canyon, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Heath, Sr., of Gruver. The wedding vows will be exchanged in the early fall.

INDEPENDENCE DAY brought out the best in me. I gritted mah teeth, stopped up the ears, and let the kids have their day. Mr. Peg is the biggest "kid" I have when it comes to times like July 4, and really the oldest in our tribe exercised more caution at times than he did! "Watch out, it may not have blown up yet," they'd shriek, and run several yards away 'till the noise came. But we did our noise-making out on an isolated picnic spot. Not that popping fireworks would have been much louder than the usual noise at our house, but it was a time when our neighbors might have been more prone to turning us in for disturbing the peace.

WE GOT TO COUNTING the money we spent in our family alone on fireworks and multiplied it by the approximate number of other people who spent money that way and it made quite a sum. Actually we're a thoughtless family—considering that only last week a plea was sent out to contribute to the Pampa "milk fund." There's still a large number of children here who do not have the milk they need for a well-rounded diet. We've decided now that the holiday is over that we could have spent the "fireworks money" much more wisely.

NEVER SAW SO MANY pleasant spots for outdoor living. On Cuyler street near the park, there's an awfully pleasant-looking corner furniture grouping, glider, chairs, etc. (And speaking of the park, surely was nice to see such a large group of people enjoying that spot over the holiday. We still think that's a likely center for some city-wide activity.) The Alvin Bells have screened in their back "porch" and that is a wise idea—mosquitoes get worse every night instead of better. (And speaking of "bugs," one certainly knows these days who's been on a fishing trip. The "chiggers" are ferocious!) The Hugh Burdettes back lawn grows lovelier every season, and Peg wouldn't feel like it'd been summer 'till I mentioned that at least once. They have a pleasant little rockered terrace and a most attractive big, red umbrella atop a refreshment table.

PAMPA PANORAMA: L. N. Atchison, everyone's friend, is on the sick list. Hope he's recuperating nicely when this is read... Always have liked the Kirk Duncan home... hear, but haven't seen about the lovely deep yellow drapes that are the focal point of the decorating scheme... And one of the most attractive places we've seen in a long time is the Frank Kelly home... wheel room in for eat green, or a color thereabouts, and getting your attention first thing upon entering the door is a built-in bookcase lined in red... That's the inside story of color... Speaking for the outside, the Ray Miller home on Charles is most attractive with yellow trim and many potted plants about... especially like the fence around the back yard with a mixture of yellow and white horizontal boards... Fences are vital in "setting off" a house... We still miss the Paul Crossman as two of the town's "nicest"... And the Al Schneiders said not long ago in the spring that they were working hard to have a beautiful yard this summer... and they do... It's funny how it isn't too popular any more to have flags out on homes on special days... or was it ever?... It does seem that a long time ago we displayed Betsy Ross' handiwork much more often and much more proudly... did see a flag up over town... It may be corny, but we like the thought behind a flag display... Mrs. Art Aftergut is a friendly person... Furniture makers continue to come up with the unusual in baby paraphernalia... One of the handier things out is a plastic lined traveling bassinet... has straps on it and zips the baby in... several couples in the young married set are looking around at baby furnishings we hear, but more on that later... Spied petite Mrs. Ed Williams putting in the yard of their recently purchased home... and down the street Mrs. Wiley Reynolds was exercising her garden implements... Know the C. J. McNaughtons are tickled over that new arrival, but bet it's mighty fine.

IT'S A GOOD IDEA some time to let the small fry, even the very youngest, take over in the role of "mother." They can give a pretty imitation of what mother is really like, and sometimes the impression mothers made on them must not have been too favorable. Every time I've been one of the children's "little girls" I've been scolded, spanked and "put to bed" 'till I'm tired. When we finish these "plalike" games, I vow that there'll be less scolding, spanking, etc., then maybe I can impress them with some of the nicer aspects of motherhood. These kiddoes are apt little imitators—likes been said before, you can see yourself in your children better than anywhere.

PEOPLE ARE TALKING ABOUT: The many, many barbecues that are being staged these hot, summer days... What to wear for the almost-a-week-long rodeo that we're having in August... The "door knob" in the center of the door at the Dave Finkelsteins' new home... "Won't you forget and reach the wrong way for the door handle?" people ask... peace in Korea and several meetings coming up next week: the League of Women Voters and the meeting of the proposed community chest plan here... wish there had been more talk on the community chest meeting so we'd have an idea exactly what would be done... may be a good idea for everyone to turn up at the meeting and see what's doing... we do know, at least, that the public is invited.

AND IT MAY NOT BE a good sign, but people are still talking about ya ole columnist... Guess whether the talk is good or bad, I should be happy that folks around town are aware that there is such a person, and always will be such a one as PEG O' PAMPA.

Mrs. H. H. Hahn Will Review 'My Brother'

Mrs. H. H. Hahn will review "This My Brother" by Argye M. Briggs, when the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church enters into a study in that it contains with a coffee Wednesday, July 11 at 9 a.m. in the church parlor.

Mrs. Briggs is the daughter-in-law of Mrs. George Briggs and the late Mr. Briggs, and lived in Pampa in the '30's. She is a graduate of Baylor and taught in public schools for a few years. She now lives in Bartlesville, Okla. Her book, "Foot out of Dry Ground," which preceded "This My Brother," was awarded the $500 Erdman prize for Christian fiction. She is now writing "The Hem of His Garment," Christian Herald Publishing Co.

The setting for "This My Brother" is the oil fields and might be in the Panhandle. In a way it might be called a "study in character" in that it contains the development of this man's character. It is a sympathetic but unsentimental treatment of the race question. A silver offering will be taken. This is a foreign mission program and will be the last meeting of the summer. It is open to the public.

SOCIAL CALENDAR
MONDAY
National Secretaries Association will not hold the meeting scheduled for Monday night. The meeting will be held at a date to be decided later.

NEWLYWEDS — Mr. and Mrs. James L. Taylor, who were married June 10 in the Assembly of God Church in Pampa. (Story on preceding page.)

Mrs. Clifford Bixler Is Complimented With Baby Shower

The home of Mrs. Ed Falkenburg, 716 N. Nelson, was the setting for a baby shower honoring Mrs. Clifford Bixler recently. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Falkenburg were Mmes. Glenn Day, Mike Sheple, Floyd Crow and Don Egerton.

The honoree was presented with a corsage of pink and white carnations and tied with baby blue ribbon. Guests were served from a table laid with a lace cloth over blue taffeta. The centerpiece was of mixed flowers in pastel colors. The pastel color scheme was further carried out in the refreshments of mints and dainty cookies. Mint punch was ladled from a crystal bowl and other table appointments were also in crystal. A large pink and white replica of a stork flanked with burning tapers occupied a place of prominence in the entertaining rooms.

Each guest was presented with a plate favor which was fashioned from a pastel colored marshmallow tied with a pink or blue satin ribbon, on which sat a miniature figure of a baby.

In addition to those already named the guests included: Mmes. Herbert Moore, Norman Flaherty, W. H. Chitwood, L. K. Nachlinger, Lloyd Gooch, A. B. Whitten, W. J. Lambright, Roy Jones, James L. Johnston, R. E. Anderson, A. E. McPherson, M. F. Downs, O. A. Davis, T. V. Lane, L. H. Anderson, Lester Brown and A. French.

Mmes. John Gikas, Gordon Bayless, M. J. Porter, M. W. Fafferty, Laura Belle Cornelius, Floyd Hatcher, Roy Chisum, Sterling Bearden, Rupert Orr, Ruth Mosely, Jack Merchant, W. F. Jordan, Tom Cotter, Oliver Trimble, Jack Graham, Russell Cartwright, G. L. Craddock, Bill Garrett, Jack Bearden, Owen Johnson, Tom Duvall, E. L. Anderson, N. L. Williams, Carlos Grissom, Paul Barrett and Misses Ava Swafford, Anita McCool and Elsa Plants.

Miss Sawyer

Miss Joan Sawyer was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given in the home of Mrs. J. W. Garman, 1128 Charles. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Garman, Mrs. A. D. McNamara and Mrs. Lynn Boyd.

Arrangements of garden flowers decorated the home and each guest received a nosegay of garden flowers as a favor. Miss Sawyer was presented a yellow glanellia corsage and her mother, Mrs. A. R. Sawyer, received a white glanellia.

Orange sherbet and cake were served. Approximately 35 guests called. On the program, which was arranged by Miss Edwina Lee Emerson, Miss Dolores Blymiller played "Hungarian Rhapsodie No.

Nelda Joyce Dykes, Riley W. Johnson Marry In First Christian Church Here

Miss Nelda Joyce Dykes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dykes, and Sgt. Riley W. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Johnson of Brownfield, exchanged wedding vows at 3 p.m. June 23 in the First Christian Church in Pampa, with the Rev. H. H. Tyler officiating.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was her sister, Mrs. E. E. Brooks. Jesse Dykes, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride wore a dress of white schiffli embroidery with white accessories and a corsage of yellow split carnations. She carried out the tradition of something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue and a coin in her shoe.

The matron of honor wore an aqua dress with brown accessories and a corsage of white split carnations. The bride's mother was in navy blue with which she used red accessories and wore a corsage of red carnations.

Mrs. Johnson was graduated from the Pampa High School in 1949. Mr. Johnson was graduated from the Brownfield High School in 1947 and is now in the Air Force.

Sgt. and Mrs. Johnson will live in Oklahoma City. He is stationed at Tinker Air Force Base.

TEEN TALK

A small mound of snow would look awfully good about this time of the year. But then you can dream can't you? If you could wave a magic wand and produce anything your heart desires, what would it be? Personally, I'd take a headdress with a revolving fan, earrings made of non-melt icicles and a gown of cucumbers.

But nevertheless, here we are, and even though warm and weary, summer is a wonderful time of the year. It is difficult to believe that so many young people are active in lots of busy projects here and abroad, when they could be enjoying warm sand, mountain air and blue skies. Here's a bit of news on what is going on in our teen-age world right now:

TEENNEWS

On the frivolous side, note that beauty marks are back in other forms. There are brightly colored designs—butterflies, fish, etc.—to be worn on bare shoulders, arms or legs to add that extra bit of glamor to beach and streetwear. And for the girl who yearns for fancy hosiery there are colorful clocks to be applied directly to the legs, worn under nylons or over a suntan. They are waterproof but can be removed quickly in case of emergency, say the makers.

If you've been yearning for a pair of pedal pushers or shorts in popular grey flannel or white linen or other summerweight cloth, cozy up to Pop. Almost every Dad has a pair of trousers he has outgrown or which have frayed at the cuffs or which he will still be charming enough to pass on, if you grab them before he tabs them for garden-wear.

When you get the trousers, cut them down to size. If they are big around the hips sew in a few plaits, front and back, and you'll have brand new playtime shorts. Faded denim can be perked up in a dye bath and if they no longer can be patched, cut them down to shorts or pedal-pushers to get the best possible use out of them.

Recently some 200 high school paper editors attended a meeting at the RCA Exhibition Hall to hear about and see applications of various types of equipment in science, entertainment, education, industry, commerce and public service, in connection with an essay contest on electronics. Among the displays they peered at were mobile radio communication equipment for use in police and fire stations to communicate with patrol cars and fire apparatus. This proved fascinating to most of the kids, just as the television gadgets did. It's amazing to see girls so interested in engineering projects.

Gib Gilchrist Visiting Here

Barbecue Supper Honors Harley Bulls

Members of the First Methodist Church choir honored Harley Bulls, director, with a barbecue supper recently, at the home of Mrs. Emmett Osborne, south of Pampa. The party was attended by the choir members, their husbands and wives and guests.

Mr. Bulls was presented with a music brief case by the choir as an expression of appreciation. Mr. Bulls, who has been minister of music and education for the First Methodist Church for the past two years, will leave Pampa this month to enroll at North Texas State College at Denton for graduate work. He received his Bachelor of Music degree from Westminster Choir School, Princeton, N. J.

Shamrock Gets Chemical Spray

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock is getting a second DDT spraying, following a fogging about a month ago. Thursday and Friday the spraying machine covered the city, spraying chemicals, including chlordane. W. R. Ritter, county sanitarian, is in charge.

Atty. Gilchrist, his son, is associated with Douglas and McGuire law firm.

Lots of people have heard the whippoorwill, but comparatively few have seen the bird, for it rarely flies in the daytime.

Kit Kat Klub Elects Officers

Harriet Schwartz was elected president of the Kit Kat Klub at an election held in the home of Judy Nance Tuesday evening. Other newly elected officers are Ann Perkins, vice president; Clarice Parks, secretary; Joan Cantrell, treasurer; Virginia Marlow, historian; Jewell Chapman and Phoebe Osborne, parliamentarians, and Norma Qualls, reporter.

Singapore Cops Are Shaken Up For Riot Duty

AP Newsfeatures
SINGAPORE — Malay and Gurkha policemen in Singapore are getting some tough training on how to handle mobs.

British authorities are pushing "Operation Popper" to brush them up in preparation for any fresh outbreak of rioting. This is all because there are many people in Singapore who think the police force failed in handling the worst riots in this British crown colony's history on last Dec. 12.

Then 19 persons were killed, mostly Europeans, and 20 were injured. Nearly 100 automobiles were overturned and burned by Moslem mobs. Property damages ran into millions of dollars. All Singapore was under curfew for a week or more. As the mobs got out of control and battled back police who tried to halt them, British troops had to be called in to end the rioting.

Now, in break-street exercises, and under the stern eyes of British officers, Malay and Gurkha police go through training of quelling "mobs" by baton and riot shield charges, by hurling tear gas, and finally by firing rifles.

The idea is to be prepared for any fresh outbreak of rioting that may come in the future.

QUEEN KING—Comely Linda King, of Jasper, Ind., is the queen of the annual All-States Picnic at Ontario, Calif. The picnic is sponsored by the Federation of All States, composed of residents of states other than California who have settled in Ontario. Thousands of visitors are served at the "world's longest picnic table," two miles long.

Industry Shifts In South, Coasts DPA Survey Reveals

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Defense Production Administration has reported evidence of a shift of industry from the coasts and populous centers to less industrialized areas, South and Southwest.

The trend showed up in an analysis of more than $7,000,000,000 in tax benefits granted to stimulate defense plant expansion over the country. About half the aid went to industry in those areas despite their historically smaller share of the nation's capital investment in manufacturing.

A marked increase in the west-central group — Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas — where certificates total 18.1 percent, as against a 1947 investment of 3.9 percent.

The combined share of the mountain and south central states is 46.4 percent of the entire planned defense plant investment. This compares with a 1947 capital investment representing 30.9 percent of the national total, DPA reported.

The agency today issued a booklet advising small businessmen on how to organize defense production pools. The aim is to channel more government business to small concerns by encouraging them to form groups, with each company carrying out part of the production and assembly process.

Roy Rogers To Try TV

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Roy Rogers, free from his film contract after almost 14 years, is getting ready to shoot it out with Cassidy, Autry and the other television cowboys.

The Cincinnati cowpoke's pact with Republic ended recently and he now has the right to appear on TV. I asked him if being off TV hurt him.

"I don't think so," he replied. "I think it helped me. Now the situation is less confusing. All the routine westerns have been played out and the audiences are looking for quality."

Rogers indicated that his TV competitors hadn't hurt his popularity. He said that last year $21,000,000 worth of products bearing his name were sold — "It was our biggest year."

There have been reports that the western star might sign again with Republic boss Herbert Yates. But although Rogers lawyers are still talking about it, he doubts if he'll return to his old roping grounds. The situation was not aided when Yates announced that newcomer Rex Allen would be billed "The King of the Cowboys."

"I thought that stunk," Roy remarked bitterly. "After all, I have held the box-office title for the last eight years and Allen hasn't even had a big picture out yet. That sort of thing just confuses the public."

Texans Just City Slickers

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Texans may love the wide open spaces, but the census bureau reports that almost half of them live in a metropolitan area.

Some 7,111,194 persons live in the Lone Star State and the bureau says 3,644,726 of them — 47.3 percent — are clustered in 15 metropolitan areas.

The population density is greater in the Rio Grande Valley than in four of these urban areas, but residents of the valley are not counted as urban dwellers.

Laredo has the smallest metropolitan population, 56,141, the largest size with 3,295 square miles and the most sparse population with a density of only 17 persons per square mile.

Houston has a metropolitan area of 1,747 square miles. Its population is the largest, 806,701 residents. The density is 461.8 per square mile.

Dallas has the heaviest concentration of population with 688.5 persons per square mile. The total population is 614,799 in a land area of 893 square miles.

Galveston has the smallest land area, with 439 square miles. It has a population of 143,066, for a density of 262.9 persons per square mile.

Other metropolitan areas in Texas, with land area in square miles shown first, 1950 population second and inhabitants per square mile:

Harry Clay Heads Wheeler Voiture

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Harry Clay is the new chef de gare of the Wheeler county Voiture No 861 of the 40 and 8. Clay, chosen last week, succeeds Doug Rivers, head of the group during the past year.

Harold Williams was re-elected as chef de train; Bob Roach, Sr., correspondent; John Cutlers, garde de la porte; Grady Harris of Mobe, amonier; Doug Rivers, comif voyageur; Flake George, conducteur; and E. M. Rives, Twitty, lam piste.

Regular sessions of the 40 Et 8 will be resumed in the fall.

Family Sets Sail On Dream Voyag

VANCOUVER — (AP) — The incurable romantics who gaze on Vancouver's waterfront have just seen one family's dream coming true. Quietly and without fanfare, a little sailing ship put out to sea on an adventurous voyage recently.

On board the Wind Song were a man and wife and their wide-eyed child. The trip they had planned for six years was finally a reality. Skipper of the vessel was Allen Farrell, 39-year-old artist, and his crew consisted of his wife and eight-year-old son Kerry. For Farrell, the voyage was the start of a vagabond adventure he had planned years ago. The Wind Song is schooner-rigged, built by the Farrells out of the best and stoutest materials.

On the first leg of their voyage the Farrells are heading for the Hawaiian Islands and the port of Hilo, 2,400 miles distant. They plan to earn their way from island to island by selling the skipper's paintings and stories or doing odd jobs.

Road Will Be Paved Soon

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Three miles of road between Lela and the Collingsworth County line will be paved before cold weather sets in, according to Palmer Massey, district highway engineer.

At the same time, four miles in Collingsworth County, extending from this road, will be paved. Crushed rock will be used as a base, Massey said, because it has proved satisfactory for the type of formation south of Lela.

The three miles will be paved first, then the other four.

Sentiment Balks Home Wrecker

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Even a professional home-wrecker finds he hasn't the heart to lower the boom on what is left of the old Bank of Pittsburgh.

The facade of the old building, smudged and blackened by the roaring industries which built it, has stood alone since the 130-year old structure behind it was razed seven years ago. And now the facade, whose owner declares it is as near perfect an example of the Corinthian order of architecture as can be found, must be sacrificed for another precious Pittsburgh commodity — parking space.

Frank J. Givens, the professional wrecker commissioned to destroy the edifice, is a hard-bitten veteran of the wrecking business. But he has offered a thousand dollars to anyone willing to haul the facade away so he doesn't have to knock it down.

Japanese POWs Studying English

SINGAPORE — (AP) — Japanese serving sentences in Singapore's Changi prison are making their time count — 40 of them are studying English and radio mechanics.

With their prison earnings, they are buying Japanese-English dictionaries to help them in their studies. Commander G. E. W. Bayly, Commissioner of Prisons, said efforts now are being made to get lecturers from the University of Malaya and debating societies to come to Changi and talk to the prisoners.

STARTING THEIR COMEBACK—Citizens of Chinju, Korea, aren't waiting for the end of the war to rebuild their shattered city, which was 60 per cent destroyed when it was recaptured from the Reds by UN forces. Fully 60,000 of its 80,000 residents were homeless when the Communists were driven out. Here a Chinju farmer plows a field while workers build a new home for him.

Audiences Differ Throughout U. S., Observes Henry Fonda

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Looking at the week's news, Henry Fonda gave out with some interesting observations of U. S. play audiences gained from his tour with "Mister Roberts" this year.

"It had been a great experience, I wouldn't have missed it for anything. One thing that has amazed me is how audiences will differ in various parts of the country."

"We were prepared for San Francisco. Everybody had told us what a great show town it was. But we didn't really expect it to be quite so great. The laughs for the show were as big as anything we ever got in New York."

"But then we came to Los Angeles. What a change! Usually we have a few moments to look at the other characters between laughs. But on opening night in L.A. the laughs were too short for that."

Although the Angelenos are not as responsive, "Mister Roberts" is still breaking records here. I guess Southern Californians are just slower to laugh (kick that around, Florida!).

The impending Korean truce would catch a number of movie producers with their plots down. The peace would destroy the timelessness of the war films now being rushed to the cameras. But the projects will no doubt continue, since war pictures are generally big box office.

OPS Man Due In Shamrock Tuesday

SHAMROCK (Special) — W. G. Reynolds, specialist in the fuels and chemicals branch of the Lubbock regional OPS office, will be in Shamrock Tuesday to help those who are delinquent in their work on ceiling price charts and related matters.

Reynolds stated the dates are past for compliance with various OPS rules, but he is going to help all those who are still short of completing forms.

He will be at the Community building from 8 a. m. to noon.

A Weekend In Bagdad

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Are you looking for an unusual vacation? Well, if you are poor of purse but young in heart you can't do better than spend a weekend in Bagdad — O. Henry's old Bagdad-on-the-subway.

There are still magic and adventure in this great sprawling city, and the time to come and look for them is when you are chock full of youth and dreams. For what there is here to be discovered cannot be found when you are old.

I think — if I had it — I'd gladly give $1,000,000 to recapture "that first fine careless rapture" of seeing New York City for the first time. But you can't really journey twice to Mecca in one lifetime. Both you and Mecca change.

My flying carpet was a bus, and I rode 36 hours in it to get here. For $5 I rented a room for a week, a room so small I had to open the door in the morning to take a stretch. And I saw this city, this whole big fable in concrete, with a pocketful of nickels.

Today it takes a pocketful of dimes, as the price of a ride on the underground chariot has doubled.

But now is the time to come. Gotham's magic wears a little shabby to its regular residents in the good old summertime, and those who can afford it escape to seashore or mountain. But that only means the visitors can buy the town on their own terms. It is theirs for the having.

Anyone who has never done it before can have a real weekend of glamor here for $35 or less.

What can he do on that budget? Well, he can lunch at one of the big — name restaurants, have a highball or two in a famous nightclub, take in a Broadway play, see a big league ball game, and watch the high-kicking Rockettes in Radio City Music Hall.

These are things most visitors want to do, and they take some money. But the best thing in New York cost nothing, or almost nothing. They take only a good pair of legs — or bus fare.

The most entertaining thing in New York City is the city itself. And the best way to see it is afoot.

And if I were coming back again to see it for the first time, I'd do it as I did before. Mostly on foot.

Do you like to window-shop? Stroll up Fifth Avenue, and wares are spread before your eyes no emperor could envision a century ago.

Does history or art interest you? Some of the great museums of the world are here, and nobody ever went broke buying his way into a museum. Churches? There are great cathedrals of stone here, and the doors are open.

Chinatown, the Bowery, the lower East Side, Harlem, Greenwich Village — you can learn more by walking through them than by speeding through in a cab.

A dime will buy you a trip across the harbor to Staten Island and back and show you the Statue of Liberty and the most wonderful skyline ever built. Saturday or Sunday is the best time to amble through Wall Street, when the pulse of America's money mart is still and its canyons deserted.

Before you board your bus or train or plane to go back home, you ought to take a farewell walk through the Times Square glitter belt. It will make you homesick for your own home town. And you can leave, broke but happy, saying to yourself — as most visitors do: "It's a great place to visit, but I sure would hate to live here."

But if you took the city on its own terms you'll always have a warm memory of your first week-end in Bagdad.

Equality Above All For Commie Women

HONG KONG — (AP) — In Communist China all people are equal — only women are more equal than others.

That seems to be the explanation of a recent Peking directive ordering "all institutions throughout China" to strike off their books "any regulation" preventing pregnant women from entering into service or training.

The new directive, says an official Red news agency dispatch, "is in complete union with Article 8 of the Common Program 'Women shall enjoy equal rights with men in political, economic, cultural, educational, and social life.'"

In Cleopatra's day the women stained their nails with henna.

Margarine Makes Gain

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Agriculture Department reports that margarine has made sharp sales gains in the year since federal taxes on margarine were repealed.

People are still buying more butter than margarine, but the gap is narrowing.

Butter production is running at the annual rate of 1,250,000,000 pounds. In the late thirties production was as high as 2,200,000,000 pounds. Last year it was about 1,550,000,000 pounds.

Margarine production is running at the annual rate of 1,045,000,000 pounds, or 13 percent higher than a year ago. The average for each consumer was at a record-breaking level of more than 6.1 pounds a year.

Butter production, which 11 times past has exceeded an average of 17 pounds for each consumer, has dropped to less than 10 pounds.

The department says, however, that the decline in butter consumption and increase in use of margarine is not due wholly to a growing preference for margarine. A shortage of milk is helping to force a cutback in butter output. Farmers are producing just as much milk as last year, but consumers are buying a larger portion of it as fluid milk and in other products, particularly ice cream, evaporated milk and dry whole milk.

The department says this increased demand for fluid milk, canned milk and ice cream reflects such conditions as greater employment and higher consumer

Shamrock Boys To Attend Meet

SHAMROCK (Special) — Two Shamrock FFA boys, accompanied by Howard Weatherby, high school vocational agriculture instructor, will attend the state FFA convention at Houston July 11-13.

Bennie Parks, FFA president for 1951-52, and Verdel Haws, candidate for state farmer at the conclave, are the Irish leaders slated to attend.

They will take with them a farm exhibit, the same one which won the Tri-State fair contest at Amarillo last fall and was exhibited at the Texas state fair, Dallas, in October.

These boys are representing Area I and XI of the FFA. Both Parks and Haws are active in FFA work here. Parks has some stock projects in cattle and hogs and Haws is also producing for market.

Rodeo Said 'Big Success'

CANADIAN (Special) — Officials of the Canadian Rodeo Club today considered the two-day show a real success.

While the attendance on Tuesday was one of the smallest in the history of the local rodeo, Wednesday's crowd made up for it by being one of the largest.

Jay Hendricks of Logan, Okla., was top money winner, and won the award for "Best All-round Cowboy". He placed first in bull-dogging, second in bull riding, and third in saddle bronc riding on the first day; second in calf roping, and third in bull dogging on the second.

Gene Haynes of Greensburg, Kansas, and C. M. Coffey of Miami were close runners-up.

Haynes won the 2-day averages in both calf roping and ribbon-roping. Coffey took the two-day averages in bareback bronc riding and bull-dogging.

In addition to more than $2000 in cash prizes for the two-day show, there were many special prizes awarded by the merchants and individuals of the town.

David Richardson, the show's only casualty, hurt when he was thrown from a saddle bronc Wednesday, was awarded a special prize of a pair of silver spurs by Eddie Abraham of the Moody Hotel for being the show's "Hard Luck Cowboy."

Alaska, long known as "Seaward's Folly," has returned in gold, salmon, furs, lumber and other products about 200 times its purchase price.

Kiwanis Club Sees Picture On Fishing

A film entitled Fishin for Fun was shown at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Friday, and included methods of catching sail and bone fish, trout, bass and carp.

The education committee met with its chairman, Jimmy Massa, for a short meeting following the film.

Chamber Directors To Meet Monday

Board of directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday in the Pine Room, Schneider Hotel.

Routine business will take up most of the session, Gene Fathere, chamber president said.

Service For B. F. Holmes At Shamrock

Services for B. F. Holmes will be held at 4 p. m. today in his home at Shamrock. Mr. Holmes, a retired businessman, died Friday after a two-year illness.

Mr. Holmes was born in 1887 and moved to Shamrock in 1905. In 1910 he married Mary Elizabeth Lyle. He was a member of the First Methodist Church, Shamrock.

Surviving besides his wife are three sons: Lyle and William Holmes of Shamrock, and Dr. Roy W. Holmes of Philadelphia; one daughter, Mrs. Minnie Savage, Fort Arthur; two brothers, Arthur and A. N. Holmes of Shamrock and six grandchildren.

Burial will be at Shamrock Cemetery with the Clay Funeral Home in charge.

WHY STARVE TO TAKE OFF FAT?

When you buy Barcinate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for a printed diet. Barcinate is not a vitamin tablet to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment, while reducing with Barcinate. It contains no harmful drugs, but does contain ingredients to make you feel better.

Barcinate when mixed with grapefruit juice does this: First, cuts down your desire for sweets and fatty foods, but you do not care for your DESIRE. Second, dehydrates and eliminates so that water is carried away — almost like melting fat. At the same time you feel better, more peppy, more alive, but never starved or hungry.

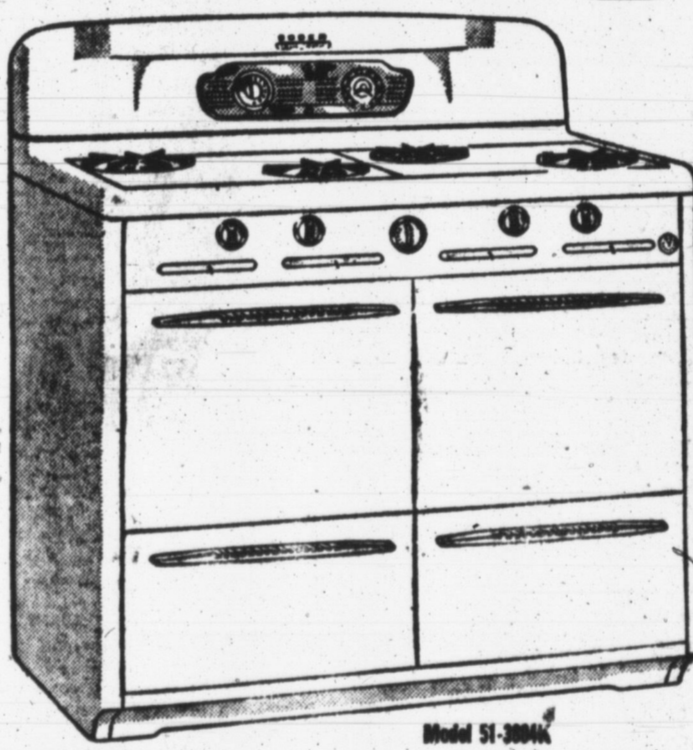

Lost 37 Pounds
"I wish to state that I lost 37 pounds taking Barcinate," writes Mrs. J. L. McCarty, Des Moines, Texas.

Lost 14 Pounds
"Without a diet, I have lost 14 pounds taking Barcinate," says Mrs. E. M. Hensel, 2108 W. 24th St., Dallas, Texas. "I am glad to recommend Barcinate to anyone."

10 Pounds Lost
"I wish to state that I have had very satisfactory results taking Barcinate," writes Mrs. Louise Bishop, 437 W. 10th Ave., Kingville, Texas. "I lost 10 pounds and ate anything I wanted."

Advertising Still A Tax Deduction

WASHINGTON — (AP) — An advertising man has quoted Secretary of the Treasury Snyder as saying "normal and reasonable expenditures" for advertising will continue to be deductible as a business cost in income tax returns.

After conferring with Snyder yesterday, Kai Jorgensen of Los Angeles told reporters: "The secretary said the free dissemination of news depends largely on the advertising that makes newspapers both possible and profitable. He also assured me that normal and reasonable expenditures for advertising will remain deductible as a business cost."

SARAH JONATHAN, Bart's mother, turned on the light by the bed. "Go to sleep now, dear. I'll wake you when Bart comes in."

She went quietly from the room. I heard her going downstairs and, shortly, come up again. Apparently she was going to her own room. I lay wide-eyed. The house was big and old and filled with night-noises for one listening for them as I was. The stairs creaked a thousand times, downstairs windows squeaked as they were stealthily pried open—in my imagination.

The yawn crept up on me, prompted by the warm milk Mrs. Jonathan had insisted I drink. I sat up in bed, hugging my knees. I mustn't sleep! I slipped out of bed, fumbled in the dark for my clothes. In a strange room it wasn't easy. I stubbed into a chair and it seemed that the house crouched to listen.

I listened, too, as I crept downstairs a few minutes later. But there was only the Maltese cat, who opened one questioning eye and went to sleep again on the shag rug in front of the fireplace. I sat on my bare feet in the big wing chair that must be Bart's. Not much goes on in a town the size of Hollister in the wee hours of the morning. Two cars cruised by in the long-half-hour that I sat there, or maybe it was the same car circling the block. It could have been: both cars were dark sedans. I waited, and watched, but they did not pass again.

I heard Bart come in the back way, and smiled to myself. Wouldn't he be surprised to find me here!

He was taking his time. I could hear him in one of his office rooms, then he crossed the hall into the other one, next to the living room where I was. I slid out of the chair, moved toward the window. . .

Congress United On One Measure

By JAMES MARLOW WASHINGTON — (AP) — There is no doubt that the Democrats and Republicans and the people in general are united in their opposition to communism. The Democrats and Republicans who sat together two months on the Senate committee which investigated the firing of General MacArthur issued a joint statement on the subject of unity.

In part it said: "It threatened danger becomes war, the aggressor would find at one stroke arrayed against him the united energies, the united resources, and the united devotion of all the American people."

It was a long statement, addressed "to the American people and meant also for Russian ears. And it drew a lot of applause, particularly since the Democratic - Republican split had been so sharp on MacArthur.

Still, another part of this same statement said some things which — in their long-range effect on our future and the course we take — may prove just as significant as the statement about unity against aggression.

This was when the senators said: "We may differ on the proper policy to be applied in the Far East. We may separate on questions of strategy. We may divide on personalities. . . mistakes may add to the measure of our sacrifices or change the form of the ordeal we may be called upon to endure. But come what may America has the means and the will to enable us to survive."

Putting the two parts of the statement together, the add up to this: we're agreed that we want to stop Russia although we may not agree on how to do it.

It could happen that in spite of the united desire to stop Russia, the inability to agree on how to do it — or when, or why, or where — could in the end be pretty disastrous.

Since the illness and death of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who had been the foreign policy leader of the Republicans in Congress, the Democrats and Republicans have been miles apart, and fundamentally apart. Just a couple of recent examples show how wide that split has been:

The bitter controversy early this year when the Truman administration wanted to send troops to Europe to bolster our alliance with the western powers; and the fierce dispute over MacArthur's ideas on how to win in Korea and the administration's views.

The split between the two parties becomes increasingly bitter as the months pass. Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, said yesterday he had never known a time when there was "such bitterness" in government. And veteran Senator Aiken, Vermont Republican, agreed with him.

Nothing in the senators' long statement "to the American people" indicates they will make any effort to work better together in an effort to avoid some of those "mistakes" which may "add to the measure of our sacrifices or change the form of the ordeal we may be called upon to endure."

But, as if anticipating some such question as — why can't the senators learn to work better? — the statement said: "we believe our democracy has the vitality to withstand any strains that reflect the tensions of an uneasy world. We are convinced that an open discussion of such differences brings strength and unity of purpose."

It was a grotesque mask hiding the Carl Metzker I had known. It was bitter, bitter hate. Carl Metzker, in defeat, wanted more than ever to kill me. I'm going to be a long time forgetting that, and the venomous threat he flung at me as Timothy O'Brien and the other FBI men took him away with Frank and Van, who had let Carl out and then kept circling the block in that black car of Carl's— waiting for him to kill me and come out. "Don't think you've escaped us, Mary," Carl warned. "Don't sleep nights, thinking we won't come back."

O'Brien shut him up in a hurry, but sometimes, even now, I wake up in a cold sweat, hearing Carl, or seeing the bitterness that was in Caroline's face at the trial, when she saw freedom slipping forever away from her. But I don't think of the terror for long. It's like it was that night—or, rather, early morning, for dawn was shaking her finger at Hollister when Sarah Jonathan brewed coffee and made pancakes for the three of us.

"It's over, Mary Tobias," Bart said as we sat down at the table by the window. "Except for the trial, it's ended. For you."

I was still feeling Carl's cold hatred. I shook my head. "Forget Carl Metzker." Bart's voice was sharp. "Forget O'Brien and the way I let him use you for bait." His hand covered mine, asking my forgiveness.

"Mrs. Jonathan—" she kept heaping pancakes on my plate—"can you imagine—your son says I'm not cut out for country living, yet he let me be tossed to the wolves like—like—"

Bart Jonathan roared. When he could, he said, "Honey, that was before I saw you wrap Metzker up for special FBI delivery! You can live in my country forever."

"In case you don't recognize it, Mary, that's a proposal," Sarah Jonathan laughed. She plopped a latter of pancakes in front of Bart. "Now say yes so you can both eat your breakfasts."

I did, and we did. It was the first time I ever ate pancakes with stardust.

State Farmers Have 45 Percent Increase In Average Income

AUSTIN — (AP) — Texas farmers took in $484,853,000 on major commodities the first five months of this year, 45 percent more than for the same period in 1950, the University of Texas Business Research Bureau has reported.

The only agricultural commodities which brought less money were cotton, 59 percent less; cottonseed, off 44 percent; fruit and vegetables, down 44 percent and wheat, down 95 percent. Much of the drop in these crops was caused by unfavorable or destructive weather conditions.

Cattle, the main farm product both years by dollar value, grossed Texas farmers $165,046,000 the January - May period this year, 46 percent more than the year ago total.

Grain sorghum more than doubled in gross value, rising 209 percent. Corn gained 53 percent; oats 30.

Wool income increased 512 percent; mohair, 90; calves, 122; hogs, 51 and milk and milk products, 82.

Superb strapless wired right down the plunge. Satin padded with nylon lace. White only. B, C cups, $3.98. Flair bras in A, B, C cups. Left: Nylon tulle and lace, white, $3.50. Right: Sheerest nylon lace with Alencon-like lace, white, $3.50.

Beef Shortage Not Profitable To Black Marketeers -- Yet

(Editor's note: This is another story in a series on the "battle of beef" by an Associated Press special correspondent who travelled through the Southwest and Midwest to study the situation.)

By DON WHITEHEAD
KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Big-scale black marketeers have not yet found the nation's beef shortage a worthwhile gamble for under-the-counter operations. But some slaughterers are defying government price controls for "quickie" profits.

That's the consensus among cattlemen, farmers, packers and government men with whom I talked in the cattle country.

In Washington, Edward P. Morgin — assistant director for the Office of Price Stabilization's enforcement agency — says there are "quite a few violations" by slaughterers who ignore the OPS quota limit on slaughtering.

"Some of the meat is floating around," he said, "but we know of no organized under-the-counter black market in beef."

The invasion didn't catch the Bulgarian guards napping. In precise military fashion, they began an encircling movement and then opened fire. Seven sheep became lamb chop luxuries for the guardsmen's mess. Six scared but unscathed survivors hootfooted it for home.

His 20,000 snails and 25,000 white mice are housed in the giant Lederle laboratories here. They are cared for by two technicians — Ann Greening and Fred Linderman.

Despite the 25,000 mice stacked on cages around its walls, there is no mouse trap in the laboratory.

"If one gets loose we just have to catch it," said Linderman grimly. "It might be infected."

he was not greatly concerned over possible black market operations which would divert cattle from the supply reaching the legitimate slaughterer.

"I just don't believe enough people will pay black market prices for beef to make it worthwhile on any significant scale," he said.

"The black marketeer would have to get perhaps 10 or 20 cents a pound above the market price and that price is high already."

"Also, there's a heavier movement of cattle to the market underway. That's going to ease the beef supply in normal channels and I don't see where the black market would be very profitable on any scale."

People in the cattle business indicated they had more fear of unqualified or dishonest government graders than they do black market operators.

After cattle are slaughtered and the carcass is chilled, government graders put their stamp on the meat which determines the selling price according to grade.

Here's an example of what could happen, according to the packing people:

A buyer for a packing house might purchase a carload of cattle at the going price for choice or second-grade animals.

But after the cattle are slaughtered and their carcasses hung, the government grader might—honestly or dishonestly—raise the grade to prime.

This would mean the packer could sell the beef for the top price rather than the second highest price. Thus he would make more money than his competitor and he would be in a better bidding position on other cattle sales.

This is a theoretical case, of course, but it is one of the worries which go with the government's price controls on beef.

"This grading business scares us to death," one veteran in the packing business said. "I've been in the business 50 years and still don't know it all. Yet the government sends out graders who don't have the experience for the job. It's not something that can be handled by the slide-rule boys."

There is a shortage of experienced government graders. The larger packing houses have government inspectors and graders working in their plants at all times. But not all the little slaughterers have this close regulation by experienced men.

There are five grades of cattle under U. S. standards — prime, choice, U. S. good, commercial and utility. Sometimes the shading between any two is a thin line of judgement which means the difference of several dollars.

Thus the grading of the beef carcass is an operation in which a tremendous amount of money is involved.

One harassed buyer said: "We've got to buy our merchandise with a cover over it. We don't know what we've got until the cover comes off. That's why I'm gray headed."

The packers don't fear the honest, experienced grader. But they shudder when they think what the unqualified or dishonest grader might do to the business.

Scientists Wage War Against Disease Hitting 144 Million

By HAL BOYLE
PEARL RIVER, N. Y. — (AP) — Amid 20,000 snails and 25,000 white mice a scientist here is raising worms to try to wipe out a disease afflicting 144,000,000 people.

That is about one out of every fifteen persons alive on this earth.

Yet you probably never even heard of the disease. It is called schistosomiasis. It is prevalent in Puerto Rico, South America and the Orient. In some areas of Africa and Egypt 80 percent of the population have it, and in acute cases it is often fatal.

The villains are tropical worms known as schistosomes. Under a small power microscope a female worm looks bent over and pale.

Dr. Kewitt's way of short-cutting his attack of the problem has been to use white mice instead of human beings as the primary hosts for the worms. It is easier and safer to test com-testing more than 1,000 preparations, he perfected the drug hetrazan, newest weapon against scourge — elephantiasis.

"So far we've spent $200,000 in the last three years and tried some 5,000 different compounds looking for something to whip schistosomiasis — and that may be only a drop in the bucket,"

Hewitt said cheerfully. "All we've got so far are a few interesting leads — but we'll find the answer."

The task is made more difficult by the complicated life cycle of the schistosomes. They are parasites which require two hosts — usually human beings and a certain kind of small water snail.

Sheep Rush In—Invited To Dinner

SKOPLJE, Yugoslavia — (AP) — It's worth your hide to venture across the border from Yugoslavia into Bulgaria these days. Thirteen sheep found that out recently. They decided the grass grew greener on the other side of the border, and crossed over.

The invasion didn't catch the Bulgarian guards napping. In precise military fashion, they began an encircling movement and then opened fire. Seven sheep became lamb chop luxuries for the guardsmen's mess. Six scared but unscathed survivors hootfooted it for home.

His 20,000 snails and 25,000 white mice are housed in the giant Lederle laboratories here. They are cared for by two technicians — Ann Greening and Fred Linderman.

Wilson Bares Statistics On U.S. Role In Fighting Reds

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — A couple of arguments can be offered those who believe this country should let the rest of the world go hang while we keep our troops and arms and economic strength entirely at home.

One is the moral and emotional appeal. The other is the practical kind. The first goes like this: We're free and we have a moral obligation to help others in their freedom against the attack or pressure of communism.

Charles E. Wilson, boss of the mobilization program, used the practical argument in his second quarterly report made to President Truman on the progress of mobilization and the problems ahead.

At this time, Wilson pointed out, 75 percent of the industrial production of the world is in the hands of the people outside the Iron Curtain, while communism has only six percent.

But if communism takes over the Middle East, it will control almost half — 49 percent — of the world's crude oil reserves while the free people's reserves will drop to 51 percent.

At this time the people of the free world outnumber those under communism by two to one, since 88 percent are outside the curtain and only 32 percent behind it.

But if communism takes over Asia and Europe, then the people under the Soviets would outnumber us three to one, with 77 percent behind the curtain and only 23 percent still outside.

The obvious question which follows all these statements is:

Where would we be and what kind of shape would we be in to survive if all those things happened?

Since Wilson's report is full of figures on production and the problems of production ahead, it is not the kind of reading a man would take home for the kids.

But it is exciting for anyone with patience enough to plow through it. It gives in some detail the program of a nation which, for the first time in history, hopes to be able to keep its regular civilian life pretty much unchanged while getting ready for war on a big scale, if it comes.

That's the goal of the program, well-known and widely stated: to get arms produced for ourselves and allies and at the same time expand our factories' ability to produce so we can maintain a high standard of civilian living. We haven't reached the goal yet, and won't for some time.

Wilson said: "At least two years of intensive labor are ahead of us in this nation before we reach our present goals of military strength and productive power. . . . the military production program is still essentially in the 'tooling-up stage.'"

Congress, of course, may cut down the program if it thinks, because of peace which may come in Korea, that we can afford to relax and take it easier.

But with the program continuing, Wilson and those around him are worried there may be damaging inflation if Congress eases up on the inflation controls.

Your Garden: Don't Lose Any Time In Ridding Garden Of Pests

By HENRY FREE

and garden flowers. They are minute, elongated insects, produce mottling of foliage not unlike the leaf hopper or mite. A 5 percent DDT dust applied weekly will end their career.

Very much in evidence are the thrips on roses, perennials, hardfurs and snowballs. The standard control for these small green, pink or brown insects found on tip growth, buds and on undersides of leaves is a spray of two teaspoonful of nicotine-sulfate (Black Leaf 40) and a couple tablepoons of mild soap flakes in one gallon of water. It is most effective on a warm day.

Leaf feeders such as willow leaf and elm beetles, spiny elm caterpillars, leaf skeletonizers and cankerworm respond to application of a 50 percent DDT powder, 3 tablepoons per gallon of water, or lead arsenate, 6 tablepoons per gallon of water.

Dr. Ernest Grether of Midland, Mich., in the July-August issue of Popular Gardening says, "If you have snails in your area, they'll gorge on your delphinium seedlings (and plants) unless you take proper precautions." The doctor holds them back with a band of lime around the plants. A DDT preparation also stops them.

The above is highly indorsed for two reasons: Delphiniums like lime; lime not only repels snails but it causes them to exude their "juices" so freely that they "bleed" to death.

New Drydock Will Expedite Oil Shipment

Palermo, Sicily (AP) — A new $3,200,000 floating drydock, partially financed with American funds, is expected to make Palermo the leading repair and service center for tankers on the vital Middle East oil route.

Plans for new floating drydock call for an ultra-modern installation designed to double the port's facilities. It will accommodate ships of 30,000 gross tons.

Jerusalem (AP) — Time will tell and another census, Z. WILD WEST CHARITY STANDISH BY CHARLES JUDAH

WHEN Charity Standish went West profound influences were at work throughout the world. In Asia, Japan was flexing muscles almost but not quite atrophied by centuries of isolation; in Europe Bismarck was putting the finishing touches on his triple alliance; in America the shrill clanging of the Industrial Revolution was beginning to be heard above the whisper of the winds as they swept through the rustling corn and tossing wheat of the prairies.

She felt no inner compulsion to bring the influence of virtuous womanhood to bear on the vicious frontier, or to grace a one-room schoolhouse from whence waves of culture might radiate to the uncouth. On the other hand, this callous indifference to a dedicated life did not spring from a predilection towards sin, for though with her black eyes, dark brown hair, gamin's grin and female shape she was well enough endowed for a siren's career, the vision of herself as a dance hall vampire luring men to their destruction eluded her. She was not interested in sin—or even men—very much.

Charity was interested in hay fever. She went West because of hay fever. One day her doctor mentioned casually that according to reports drifting East people did not suffer from hay fever in the West, as they did in Ohio.

New Mexico, the doctor, who knew as little about the West as about curing hay fever, suggested hopefully. From that point Charity was on her own. Neither physician nor hay fever offered the slightest hint as to just where in New Mexico it would be best to go. After ruthless elimination two places remained—Santa Fe and San Lorenzo. The names of both fascinated her. She could not make up her mind which to choose until a newspaper article reprinted in the Cleveland paper finally turned the scale. The article was from the San Lorenzo Gazette:

There is a windmill on the Plaza and if certain characters return to town 100 substantial citizens of San Lorenzo will be gathered around that windmill. Hemp neckties will be the gift and the windmill will be festively decorated.

The names of the "certain characters" followed. Besides such orthodox ones as Rattle-Snake Sam, One-Eye Joe and Scarface Charlie there were others, fresher, more intriguing. Pancake Billy was mentioned, and Fly-Speck Al Hatching-Face Kit, Cold-Deck George, Jimmy-the-Duck and Wink-the-Barber. It was really these names that did it.

WILD WEST CHARITY STANDISH BY CHARLES JUDAH

On the crest was the loveliest spot Charity had ever known. She often came here alone; today she brought Douglas.

That was August—hay fever time in Ohio. OCTOBER, in San Lorenzo's Indian summer, Charity's nose did not tickle any more. She sneezed only when she sniffed too eagerly at the pungent pinton laden smoke that curled lazily or puffed in sudden vigor from a campfire. And she could think of love. Actually she thought of little else. Douglas Kent was the reason.

Charity knew that there was a tradition in the West forbidding questions about a man's past. But in Ohio there was a tradition that if a girl was considering marrying a man she should know something about him.

"Where is home and why did you leave it?" she asked lightly. "Home is South Carolina. I was just a kid when the war came. But I was the only man left. With the help of my mother and a couple of old maid aunts and a few ex-slaves who stayed with us I ran the plantation."

Then, as he had schooled himself to do, he closed his mind's eye and laughed. "When my father and the one of my three brothers who was still alive came home after the war I figured I'd done my share to save the old plantation. In '66 I left home. Been drifting ever since."

Charity looked at him—well groomed, handsome, apparently carefree. "You don't look like a man who's been drifting 16 years," she said smiling.
