Official Says Government's Morals Weak

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Comptroller Lindsay C. Warren today told senators there has been "an undoubted weakening of moral standards in government and out of it. So far as the government is concerned, he said Congress itself must shoulder part of the blame.

Warren, Uncle Sam's boss accountant, is an agent of Congress rather than of the President.

The comptroller general gave his views as a layoff witness in hearings on government moral standards before a senate labor subcommittee. He endorsed a proposal to set up a commission of distinguished citizens to draft methods of shoring up the moral level of the government, including the ethics of Congress.

Warren said the vast majority of government employees — especially career government workers — are honest, capable and conscientious. But he said there are some exceptions, and he added:

"A few rotten apples may not contaminate the whole barrel, but they certainly make it small."

Warren told the subcommittee, headed by Senator Douglas (D-Tx), that during World War II "shockingly low moral standards" were exhibited by those concerned with war contracts, both in government and business.

Saying the government is now in another period of huge defense spending, Warren said:

"We cannot afford, with the present size of our national debt, another spree of waste, profanity and utter disregard for the public interest."

Nor can the people afford to "execute unbecomable conduct," he said, by those who pretend that they stayed "within the letter of the law."

There was a time, Warren said, when he thought the government needed no written code of this, but that is true no longer.

As for the war years, he said: "Some high government officials made it the rule, rather than the exception, to accept cocktail parties, hotel bills and even transportation for contractors while at the same time drawing travel expenses and allowances from the government."

"We saw them accepting outrageously expensive gifts from contractors; we saw contracting officers accepting without a blush gratuities from those whose performance they were passing on for the government."

He said that "to put it mildly" this made the government

Trial Of Newsmen Slated By Czechs

LONDON — (AP) — Reports from Prague today said the Czech foreign ministry has informed the U.S. embassy that Associated Press correspondent William Oatis will be placed on trial within a few days.

Oatis, 37, was arrested April 23 on charges of hostile activities toward the Czechoslovak government.

The Prague report said Vilem Siroky, Czech foreign minister, told U.S. ambassador Ellis O. Briggs of Oatis' forthcoming trial when Briggs called at the foreign ministry last Friday afternoon.

Oatis' arrest did not become known until April 26, nearly 72 hours after his disappearance from his office and lodgings in Prague. He was last seen while preparing to keep an appointment. Three Czech agents seized him as he was putting his car in his garage.

A native of Marion, Ind., Oatis had gone to Prague last June as chief of the Associated Press bureau there.

Shortly before his arrest he had informed the U.S. embassy he was being shadowed.

At the time his arrest was announced, Frank Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, said the AP knew no basis for the charges against him.

Oatis had been writing for the Associated Press since 1937, except for four years when he was in the United States Army during World War II.

The Czech announcement of April 26 said the charges against him included activities hostile to the state, gathering and disseminating information considered secret by Czechoslovakia and spreading malicious information regarding the Czech state through illegal news channels. The announcement said he had misled Czech citizens in his activities.

The Prague report today said it was believed the government would be given a public trial before the state court in Prague following Oatis' arrest. The United States' government on June 4 banned travel to Czechoslovakia by private American citizens.

The American government took similar action against Hungary after the arrest of Robert A. Vogeler on spy charges by that country in November, 1949. Vogeler who made a so-called confession at a trial at which he was sentenced to 15 years in prison, repudiated the confession after he was released last April. He said he had been under a severe mental, moral and physical pressure. After his release the United States rescinded its ban on travel to Hungary.

Four other employees of the Associated Press in Prague, all Czechs, disappeared in the month before Oatis' arrest. Presumably they too, are being held as defendants or witnesses.

Two AP correspondents before Oatis, Richard Kasichke and Nathan Polowetsky, were expelled from Czechoslovakia on charges of unobjective reporting. The correspondents denied the undocumented charges.

House Group Puts Hand On DiSalle's Beef Price Cleaver

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Banking Committee has put a hand on Price Director Michael V. DiSalle's meat price cleaver, tentatively voting to prohibit the two additional beef price cuts DiSalle plans.

The committee acted last night after strong administration support and a renewed flow of cattle to the slaughter pens had apparently made the ex-Mayor of Toledo victor in his toughest price fight. Cattle raisers and meat packers have fought the order.

DiSalle has declared the success of the whole effort to control prices and wages may hinge on his efforts to chop live beef prices 15 percent. A first-stage ten percent cut is in effect. DiSalle scheduled further reductions, each 4-12 percent, on June 20.

Naval Officer Sees Chance South China Might Revolt

Says North China Secure Under Reds

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger told senators today he believes there is a chance South China may revolt against the Communists.

Badger, one of the Navy's old China hands, testified as the tenth witness in the dismissal of the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander.

He read to the investigating committees a report he had made to the war college here last March 14.

This said the area of Manchuria, inner Mongolia, Sinkiang "and possibly North China," is "generally deemed to be securely under Communist control and definitely subservient to Moscow."

But in the areas of China to the south, he said, there is still "a chance of revolutionary repercussions against Communist tyranny and imperialism."

Badger said he had seen nothing since March to make him change his views.

Speaking generally, Badger also told the senators the overall objectives of the U.S. should be to:

- (1) "Create and maintain world conditions to that Russia will deem it unwise to undertake World War II," and,
- (2) "Initiate promptly and undertake those political, economic, humanitarian, and military objectives which, in case of war, would permit us to engage under the most favorable terms."

Badger said he believes the "high percentage of anti-Communist feeling in South China gives the possibility of rolling the Iron Curtain back at least to the Yangtze River and of relieving the pressures from the border nations of southeast Asia."

"The recent Chinese reverses in Korea are strengthening these chances," he declared. "The remarkable increase in the welfare of the people of Formosa during recent months is known widely on the mainland and is a spur to reaction."

Badger said to those familiar with the Far East "it has been evident that the strategic value placed by Russia upon North China, including Manchuria, Mongolia and Sinkiang has been very pronounced for many years — 150 years."

"By recent developments," he continued, "the USSR has not only taken possession of the area of the Korean Peninsula, but also has taken possession of the area of the Korean Peninsula."

Although the minimum induction age under the new law is 18 1/2 years, men still must register when they become 18. The new law makes draft-age aliens liable to service if they desire permanent residence; reduces mental and physical standards for acceptance for service; puts a new top of 5,000,000 men on the overall size of the armed forces; and permits the induction of eligible men whose sole dependents are their wives.

It provided for appointment of a five-man commission to recommend to Congress a system of universal military training for 18-year-olds.

The commission, which is to include three civilians, has four months in which to complete its study and report.

The training system would not become effective until Congress approved it and established a code of conduct and a schedule of disability and death benefits for trainees.

Washington — (AP) — President Truman today signed the new draft law.

The measure lowers the draft age, extends the selective service system four years and lays the foundation for universal military training.

Mr. Truman signed the bill in a White House ceremony at 10:15 a.m.

The new law keeps the draft in operation until July 1, 1955, and permits the induction of 18 1/2 year-olds for military service if local draft boards exhaust their supply of older eligible men. It makes no change in the present maximum draft age of 26.

The present law, which would have expired on July 9, prohibited the induction of anyone under 19.

The period of service under the new law is 24 months instead of the 21 under the expiring law.

RAISED HIGHWAYS SOON for the Pampa area, if the State Highway Commission so sees fit, highway District Engineer Guy Lott, Amarillo, tells local officials yesterday during a noon chamber of commerce board of directors meeting in the Schneider Hotel. Plans Laid For Improving, Raising Of County Roads

The State Highway Department will be working soon on improving detours around flooded western and southern approaches to Pampa it was revealed at noon yesterday by District Highway Engineer Guy Lott, Amarillo, at a chamber of commerce board of directors meeting in the Schneider Hotel.

The highway department is also planning to raise the submerged road grades three feet above the known high water mark at an estimated $100,000.

However, the caliche topping of approximately eight to 10 inches will be laid down first around McConnell Lake on State Highway 70; then around the U. S. Highway 60 flood area, and last around Meira's Lake on State Highway 70, south of Pampa.

The latter project, however, must first be approved by the State Highway Commission when it meets Thursday at Austin. Lott told the group the funds have already been set up for the detours as an emergency measure and work will start as soon as a large shovel, trucks, and a good caliche pit can be obtained.

Raising road grade over three flooded areas will take several months, meanwhile the caliche detours will have to suffice, Lott added.

At the same time E. J. Haslam, gas engineer for Skelly Oil Co., disclosed plans of oil companies to drain McConnell Lake into Red Deer Creek and from there into the Canadian River. This operation calls for 3,400 feet of ditching and securing easements of rights-of-way over land to the creek. A complete profile of the terrain to be traversed by the ditch has not been completed by Skelly engineers, Haslam said.

E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber and the city, through Mayor C. A. Huff, has signed okays to Central Airlines' application for a permanent certificate to serve Pampa. The airline is now operating on a temporary certificate which expires shortly.

Discussing the possible designation of Pampa as a critical defense area, E. L. Campbell, chairman of the chamber's housing committee, said neither he nor any other means including Washington, Rep. Walter Rogers was quoted as saying he didn't know what was

Commission Okays Study For FM Radio On Police Cruisers

Pampa police were virtually assured of FM radio equipment this morning when the city commission verbally agreed to authorize City Manager Dick Pepin to look into prices for a transmitter and mobile unit.

The move was sparked by Sheriff Rufe Jordan's request last week to the county commissioners for FM radios for cars in his department to be tied in with the State Highway Patrol station, KTKE, Amarillo. Pampa's present police radio equipment is AM making it necessary for patrol cars to relay messages through the police station instead of talking car to car.

Negotiations have already been started with the sheriff's department to tie the two offices together with FM radio. This would enable the sheriff's department and police department to work together and would be a boost in efficiency of operations when the cars are on a man hunt; they could talk directly to each other, Chief of Police John Wilkinson explained.

Wilkinson told the commission there isn't always the chance FCC may raise the local station's frequency, as it did last year, putting it on a band where the city would be forced to purchase new equipment in order to operate. The station now is on the highest band it can use.

Cost of installing an FM station would run approximately $800 and about $500 per car. Only slight alterations would be needed to the tower on top of city hall.

British Set Red Embargo In Hongkong

LONDON — (AP) — Britain announced today she is taking steps to block all shipments of strategic goods to Red China through the crown colony of Hong Kong.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, president of the board of trade, said all exports will permit that trade to Hong Kong and China will go under licensing control next Tuesday. No licenses will be granted for "goods which in the present circumstances could be of strategic and military importance."

Shawcross made the announcement in the House of Commons. Britain previously banned the export of rubber to Communist China.

The embargo will apply to shipments of strategic materials from all British dependent territories," Shawcross said.

He added that the "economic existence of Hong Kong depends on its maintaining trade with other countries" and "we hope the arrangements we have now established will permit that trade to go on while ensuring that there will be no re-exports to China of goods which may have any military or strategic significance."

Enrollment At 284 In Youth Program

Enrollment in the summer youth program reached 284 yesterday with 192 boys and 92 girls, including the boys and girls were assigned to their playgrounds. Baker and Sam Houston schools will serve as headquarters. This morning, the leaders were dividing the groups according to age and location of their homes to determine where they will meet.

Registration for students of Carver school begins tomorrow at the school and will be operated on the same basis as the one already organized. W. D. Moore will be in charge of the program there.

Marvin Bowman, director, said that high school graduates, teen-agers and parents who have interesting hobbies, are urged to assist in the program.

Drugstores To Protest Action

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. — (AP) — An official of the Massachusetts Pharmaceutical Assn. says an attempt will be made soon to close 50,000 drugstores across the country for one day in protest to the supreme court decision invalidating fair trade laws.

Martin F. Adamo, chairman of the association's fair trade commission, told the annual convention yesterday that representatives of 45 state groups will meet in Chicago within two weeks to discuss the closing.

He said the Chicago meeting would set the date on which drug-store proprietors will attend mass meetings.

White Deer Drive Ends Thursday

Pampa's fund raising campaign for tornado-stricken White Deer will wind up Thursday, it was decided today at a meeting of the Pampa White Deer relief committee.

A $50 contribution Monday from R. E. Hamm brought the total reported to The Pampa Daily News to $7,367.25. Other contributions have gone direct to White Deer.

The local relief committee will meet Tuesday, June 26, with the White Deer administrative committee and present a check for the full amount contributed through Thursday.

Members of the committee, headed by W. B. Weatherred, are Duncan, Ralph Juillard, Floyd Inel and Mayor C. A. Huff.

Atomic Energy Workers Staging Wildcat Strike

OAK RIDGE Tenn. — (AP) — About two-thirds of the 1200 AEC construction workers on two from projects have gone on a wildcat strike because the Wage Stabilization Board has not approved overruling wage boosts.

And at nearby Knoxville, 400 construction men — also AFL — were reported idle for the same reason. The walkout halted construction on two multi-million-dollar housing projects.

J. C. Kerr, business agent of Knoxville building trades council, said the strikes which started yesterday were not authorized and that union officials were trying to get the men to return to their jobs.

The workers are protesting the delay in receiving pay hikes which were provided for in most AFL agreements negotiated in this area last September before any wage ceiling formula was set up.

They were to have started getting the boosts May 1. The hikes would affect a dozen different crafts with widely varying pay scales, and were to range from 10 to 12 1/2 cents an hour.

American Pilots Win Over Reds In Third Jet Battle

TOKYO — (AP) — For the third straight day American pilots today beat Red airmen in a big jet battle over northwestern Korea.

U.S. Sabre Jets damaged four Russian-type MIG-15's Tuesday as allied infantrymen knocked North Koreans off key ridges of the eastern battlefield. On the sea fronts United Nations warships silenced a challenge by accurate Communist shore batteries.

Twenty-seven Sabre Jets battled 12 Red jets Tuesday in the most evenly matched of the current air fights. They ran their three-day score to six Red jets shot down, 12 damaged.

The battle spread over a wide area around Sonchon, 35 miles from the Manchurian border. It was the deepest recent penetration of Korea by Red jets in force.

The Fifth Air Force did not say, as it usually does, that all Sabre Jets returned safely from Tuesday's air battle.

North Koreans opened up with a terrific artillery barrage in an effort to halt allied infantrymen in the east. But UN troops drove ahead two miles in their deepest penetration of that front this year and straightened allied battle lines.

Breaking out in a smashing pincers movement on an otherwise quiet front they captured heights looking down on a Punchbowl Valley the Reds have used as a supply and assembly center.

The drive carried allies within artillery range of a mountain area alive with Red activity. A corps spokesman said the Communists may be building up there for a new offensive.

Eighty miles to the northwest Communist shore batteries fought an hour and a half artillery duel with besieging United Nations warships.

The shore-to-sea battle erupted Tuesday afternoon at Wonsan, east coast port besieged more than four months. Accurate Red fire burst close to UN warships and shrapnel splattered on the decks.

Marine Corsair fighter planes and naval gunfire silenced the shore batteries.

"The Red guns scored many near misses," the Navy said, "but only slight shrapnel punctures were inflicted on UN ships."

American planes swept freely through a cloudless sky and hammered Red air bases north Korea. Four UN planes were shot down Monday.

UN patrols fanned out along the front. They met little opposition Monday except in the central sector around Kumhwa, eastern anchor of the Iron Triangle. Tank traps and mine fields were their greatest problem.

AP correspondent Nate Polowetsky reported from U.S. Eighth Army headquarters that lack of any large scale action for a week indicated the UN offensive has ended, at least temporarily.

He said: "Allied tactics now, apparently based on the imminence of the rainy season, are to send out patrols in search of the enemy and to prepare for any attack mounted by the Reds."

He attended Pampa schools and enlisted in the Navy at 17. He has been in the service three years, and recently re-enlisted.

Prospective Candidates For President Showing Coyness

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Look and others are as coy as school girls.
Look Magazine says in its current issue it polled 41 Democratic senators and found only five who named Mr. Truman as their first choice to make next year's race. It said 15 favored Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.
The Republicans have no such barrier as the Democrats but the nearest they have to an avowed candidate is Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft says he expects to decide sometime before Sept. 1 whether to run.
President Harold E. Stassen of the University of Pennsylvania, who has tried before, says he will wait until next January to decide what to do.
Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the two-time presidential nominee of the party, says he's out of it and is plugging Eisenhower.
Gov. Earl Warren of California obviously is going to make an active bid for the nomination—but he isn't saying so publicly.
Gen. Douglas MacArthur says "emphatically no" he's not a candidate. Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey might like to but isn't admitting it publicly.
Senator Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. of Massachusetts is mighty busy lining things up to run again for the Senate. Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois might be enticed into the race, but not right now, thanks, Senator James H. Duff of Pennsylvania says he wants to make a President, not be one.
Senator Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska is keeping his cards close to his vest. Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine probably could be convinced she ought to run for vice president but is awaiting events.
Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) gives signs of national ambitions, but displays an unusual reticence about them.
The most talked about man in both parties is Eisenhower. But he's months since anybody got him mad enough even to deny he wants to be President.
And so it goes. You'd almost think nobody wanted the job.

Jukes Hit With Higher Prices

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—The mounting cost of living has hit the juke box.
It costs a dime now to get the bow tie to warble one of the new ones.

Hawley says that records used to cost about 18 cents each, against 21 cents now. Juke boxes used to cost $150 to $200, compared with $1,000 to $1,200. Needles used to cost seven cents. Now they're 35 cents.

JACOBY CANASTA

Tips On Melding Out:

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
Several questions on melding out and asking permission to meld out have been plaguing my readers. Here are a few of the puzzles.
Q—In a six-handed game which partner is asked when a player wants permission to go out?
A—You ask your left-hand partner. He may reply "yes," "no," or "pass." If he passes, the righthand partner must reply "yes" or "no."
Q—A player picked up a large discard pile but melded only the minimum. That is, he just put down a pair and the top discard. Then he put the rest of the pile in his hand. Was he then allowed to ask permission to meld out?
A—No. He has melded—even though he has put down only the minimum. He is not allowed to ask permission to meld out after making that meld.
Q—I held four playable cards so that any draw at all would enable me to meld out. We had quite a few spreads on the table, including a closed canasta and also inclusion five kings. At this point the player at my right threw a king on a discard pile that contained about seven miscellaneous cards. I asked permission to go out before I made a move.
If my partner granted permission, I was ready to draw from the stock and meld out. If he denied permission I intended to take the discard pile, adding the king to the meld on the table.
My opponent insisted I had to draw before I could ask permission to meld out. Who was correct?
A—You were correct. You would be unable to ask permission if you took the king from the discard pile, since that would constitute a meld. Your action was both logical and legal.
Q—A player asked for permission to meld out, and his partner said "Yes." He proceeded to meld three kings (a new meld) and added one jack and one queen to earlier melds. There were five cards were his entire hand. It was then discovered that his side had no canasta. What should be done?
A—The player must take the queen and the jack back into his hand. He must discard one of them and play on with the other. The general principle is that the offender must take back just barely enough cards to proceed with the play. In addition, the offender's side is penalized 100 points.

Two Are Fined $100 In County Court

Fines of $100 plus court costs were imposed this morning by County Judge Bruce Parker on the county court on two men charged with drunken driving and passing worthless checks.
Ray Leon Bowden, Pampa, arrested last night by city police, pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated and was given a $100 fine plus costs. The mandatory six-month suspension of drivers' license went along with the sentence.
Unable to pay his $100 fine and costs, 20-year-old James McDaniel of Commerce went back to jail after pleading guilty to charges of passing a worthless check last August for $50 to the J and J Grocery. McDaniel was brought here from Houston over the weekend by Chief Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nicholas.
Yesterday afternoon William Paul Hugg, McLean, was set free after posting $2,500 bond set by Judge Bruce Parker, when Hugg entered a plea of not guilty to charges of drunken driving. Hugg McLean by State Highway Patrolmen.

In discussing the extension of Russian control into China, Badger said he wished to "point out the value of taking the initiative," which he said Russia has maintained "and very cleverly exploited for a considerable period of time."
He also said he wished to emphasize that if Russia were to get control of Indonesia and southeast Asia, "it would certainly make communications between the Pacific and the Indian Ocean very questionable."
For example, he said, it would require shipping bound for India to go around Australia, or proceed around the Cape of Good Hope.
"If you will look at the map under those conditions," he added, "you will see that India looks lost."

'Bed Check Charlie' Keeps GIs In Korea Up At Night

QUARTERS, Korea, (AP)—A pesky character—called "Bed Check Charlie" by GIs—is keeping a lot of fellows up nights around here.
"Charlie" is a Communist two-seater biplane. It comes buzzing low on moonlight nights, hopping over hills and down the river valleys to harass and heckle allied personnel at Air Force and Army installations.
"Charlie" made another appearance last night, Monday night (Sunday night in the U.S.). Four small bombs fell in the tidal basin northwest of the west-coast port city of Inchon. Then the plane strafed the outskirts of the airstrip at Kimpo, the busy airfield which serves Seoul. "Charlie" already had bombed Suwon, 25 miles south of Seoul, and Yongdongpo, industrial southwest suburb of Seoul.
Two Communists apparently mean "Charlie." One sits in the rear seat and strafes with a Russian-made burp gun. "The plane is too light to carry anything that can cause really serious damage," an allied officer said.
"Charlie" is like a sniper sitting on a hill and taking occasional pot shots at us. "Charlie can land anywhere. He apparently hides by day and then hops over to some regular field and picks up gas and then comes over to our positions, flying low so as to avoid our radar.

Youth Involved In Accident

An accident involving a teenager occurred late Thursday afternoon, but by mid-morning today police reports were not complete.
The youth is said to have hit a parked car shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday, but no injuries resulted.

Cost of Communist Terrorism Is High

SINGAPORE, (AP)—Communist terrorists who like to burn buses, other motor vehicles and factories caused property losses in Singapore in 1950 estimated at $2,150,422.
The burning of the Aik Hoe rubber factory in July, 1950, accounted for most of the 10.5 million persons lost their lives in fires and explosions caused by the terrorists. Singapore police have been given orders to shoot arsonists on sight.

Doctors Have Red Face When Reason Found For Gaining Dog

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rambling remarks by a pavement Plato: A dog in the experimental laboratory of a great New York hospital suddenly began to get fat. Keenly interested, the doctors gave it a complete medical check-up. Their diagnosis: a nutritional upset. The staff dietitians were called in. The surprised dog was subjected to all kinds of varying diets. But it kept right on gaining weight.

Interest in the case grew as the dog grew. Were they on the trail of something new in medical annals? But recently the red-faced doctors lost all interest in the case. The dog had puppies.

Russian girls are angry. They complain all the dolls they buy look alike — same dresses, same hair-dos, same faces. They want their dolls to look different. And the Moscow Literary Gazette says they're right. It has called on the Russian toy industry to wise up and achieve more variety in its dolls.

But from this distance it looks as if Joseph Stalin and the Politburo had better proceed with extreme caution in the matter. Little holes can break the mightiest dyke. And once the dam of conformity is broken a flood of individuality pours through.

Why should little Russian girls want their dolls to look different? Russian scientists, artists, politicians and workers can't dare to be different? Can the Politburo render to this vagary of the young feminine mind?

If dolls are allowed to look like themselves won't the human beings in Russia hunger for the same privilege? Won't they want to act like themselves?

Little girls who have dolls that look different may grow up into women who want to marry men who have a mind of their own as well as a face of their own. And that would soon mean the end of totalitarianism.

Nope, you can't let things like that get started. Stalin had better sentence the editor of his Literary Gazette to go into the nearest communism schoolroom, along with the complaining little girls, and write 100 times together on the blackboard:

"I have been a naughty Marxist. All dolls should look alike, or what is our heaven for?"

The advice that has given me more comfort than any other came off from my own father: "Son, any time in your life you get the chance to take your shoes for 15 minutes, do it. It'll make you feel better at the time — and you'll never regret it later."

Razor Expert Gives Tips For Shavers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The little shavers and big shavers of this world have one thing in common. Most of them don't know how to shave.

Very few men know how to shave properly — only about 10 to 15 percent, says Otto Kraus. And he believes women have an even lower shaving average.

Is Kraus a man in a position to tell anybody else how to shave right? He feels he is. He is a top official in the Personna and Pal blade companies, which he says are second only to the Gillette people in the nation's $95,000,000 a year razor blade industry.

He has made quite a study of shaving. His advice to women shavers is simple.

"1. Don't borrow your husband's razor. Have your own. It makes for a happier home life.

"2. Quit shaving dry. Shave wet."

How about men shavers? They have a raft of problems. What is the best type of razor? Just why do most men shave wrong? Should they have a picture of Betty Grable by their mirror as they shave?

Kraus says the best shave can be obtained by the old-fashioned straight edge barber's razor. But it takes a lot of time and trouble to become skillful in its use. And too many amateurs in the past lopped off the tip of their noses trying to learn the art. So the safety razor is the best bet in the home.

"Most men make the mistake of not washing their faces thoroughly with hot soap and water before they begin shaving," Kraus said. "You have to do that to get the oil and dirt out of the skin so the beard stands out."

"Whether you use lather or brushless cream, it then should be rubbed in for a full minute before you begin shaving. And it must be kept wet. Otherwise the blade just glides over the caked shaving cream or soap."

The next error?

"The average man holds the razor horizontal to his face and pulls it from the ear hairline to the chin in one stroke. That is like trying to slice a loaf of bread by pushing the knife straight down. You have to slice off your beard just like you slice bread. Use an oblique stroke."

Anything else?

"Yes," said Kraus. "Pull the skin in the opposite direction of your shaving stroke. If you are shaving down, pull the skin up — to get it taut and make the hairs stand out."

"And another thing, too many men shave like they were playing golf. They try to get around the course in as few strokes as possible. All wrong. Anybody who shaves in less than 150 strokes is just cheating himself. I use about 200 strokes myself. None should be longer than an inch and a half. Keep 'em short."

Social Security Number For House Workers June 30

Household workers and farm employees included in the social security program for the first time since Jan. 1, 1951 must get a social security account number card by June 30.

Wages earned by these people during April, May and June will be reported by their employers during July and the social security number of each worker must be included in the report.

Applications may be obtained at the post office. Those who have lost cards should file an application for a duplicate number.

Papa Disappears But Pop Holds On

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (AP) — Papa, the name most youngsters called their fathers 30 years ago, has all but disappeared from American usage. Of the same vintage, Pa and Paw are equally rare today, but Pop is still in good standing.

The only familiar names for father in use on Father's Day cards today are Dad, Daddy and Pop, said the Hallmark Co. Mamma, Ma and Maw are only memories, too, the company states.

A representative of the Amarillo social security office is in Pampa each Monday morning at 9:30 in the Texas Employment Commission office.

Delhi Women Guides Run Tourists Ragged

NEW DELHI — (AP) — A pair of Australian bank clerks who decided to take a year off to see the world by motorcycle say they'll doff their hats any time to the hardy women guides of the Himalayas.

Visiting Delhi after a mountain-climbing expedition near Darjeeling, Robert Chambers, 30, and Brian Chaseling, 29, both of Sydney, reported that the women porters of the Sherpa Tribe ran them ragged in the course of a six-day trek.

Chambers and Chaseling hiked within 80 miles of Mt. Everest and then returned to make a sidetrip to Kalimpong, trading outpost on the edge of Tibet.

Newlyweds Tackle Gloomy Living Room For Color Scheme They Can Live With

This is the study (above) in the two-room apartment. Color is dingy tan, blinds are shabby, grill is ugly. Pale blue venetian blinds (right) are matched to walls, drapes are in Peruvian print. Woodwork is white.

By GAIL EDUGAS NEA Staff Writer NEW YORK (NEA) — The biggest problem Ronnie and Bob Wacker had to tackle in making a dark, shabby two-room apartment into a home was the living room. Even in the bright sunlight, the room was dark. The troublesome factor was the dark green paint former tenants had splashed on the walls.

The problem was to find a color scheme that would lighten the room, a color plan with which they could live. They thought it would be simple to find one. But by the time they had finally settled on colors, Ronnie and Bob were just barely speaking.

They had to have colors that would be warm and create sunlight in the winter but that would not turn the apartment into a crackling oven in the summer. They discarded colors so

This is opposite wall (above) of study. Blocked doorway has one useless shelf, is eyesore. Same doorway (right) has become useful bookcase and cabinet by means of simple carpentry. Walls are pale blue.

For the kitchen and bath, they chose pale blue, too, but in a shade a bit more turquoise than that for the study. (Ronnie years for red towels and a bath mat.)

Bob rolled up his sleeves and set to work. Because he was living in the apartment (sleeping on a cot) as he worked on it, he picked an odorless paint, made by Keystone Paint Corp., that would dry completely overnight.

He found, when the paint was mixed, that shades could be changed to any degree they liked. It wasn't necessary to use a delicate process involving a dash of this and a drop of that; he followed a clearly indicated but flexible paint recipe.

Once he got started, he discovered there was a great deal of patching and plastering to do because the walls were in poor shape. But, since repair work was essential to a really good paint job, he did it. He found that two coats of paint were just right to cover the dark green completely. The total cost, including materials for repair work, was $100.

Make The Wedding Dessert At Home

ICE CREAM WEDDING BELLS, perfect accompaniment for the bride and groom.

By GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Staff Writer June is the month of weddings and also ice cream festival month. So for the wedding party or just for a good dessert, let's put this favorite dairy food into our menus often.

For a beautiful wedding dessert with a caterer's touch, try ice cream wedding bells for the bride and the groom.

ICE CREAM BELL CAKES (20 to 30 servings) Two quarts vanilla ice cream (bulk), 1 quart pistachio ice cream (bulk), 1 quart strawberry ice cream (bulk), 3-4 cup melted butter, 1-2 cups cake flour, 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 8 eggs, separated, 2-1/2 cups confectioner's sugar, 2 lemons (juice and rind).

Store ice cream in freezing compartment of refrigerator until ready for use. Melt butter and cool slightly. Sift together flour and cornstarch. Beat egg yolks and 2-3 of sugar until light and fluffy. Beat remaining sugar into stiffly beaten egg whites. Fold egg whites into yolk mixture and add lemon rind and juice. Fold dry ingredients into egg mixture; add melted butter. Pour batter into three well-greased bell-shaped cake pans, the bottoms of which have been lined with greased wax paper. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 3 1/2 to 35 minutes. Cool.

To Assemble: Remove ice cream from freezing compartment of refrigerator (except for one quart of vanilla for balls) and allow to soften slightly. Cut each layer of cake in half, horizontally, making six layers. Use three layers for each cake. Cover one layer with slightly softened pistachio ice cream. Top with second cake layer. Spread vanilla ice cream on this layer. Top with third layer of cake. Place strawberry ice cream on this layer and arrange scoops of vanilla ice cream on top as final touch. Replace cakes in freezing compartment of refrigerator or in deep freeze until ready to serve.

But it is rare to hear a wife boast her mother-in-law with such comparisons. Why is that? Why must a wife feel she has to be just as accomplished as her more experienced mother-in-law in every phase of home-making and child care?

SHOULD WORK BOTH WAYS If she can admit her own mother is her superior in some things, why can't she be just as unself-consciously admiring her attitude toward her husband's mother?

If she could and would, chances are she would get the mother-in-law-daughter-in-law relationship off to a happy start.

For if she openly admitted that she couldn't do this or that as well as her mother-in-law, the mother-in-law wouldn't be tempted to try to show her up, or to find fault with the way she did things. Instead she would start looking around for some skill of the daughter-in-law's to admire.

That is just a simple rule of human nature. Find something admirable about another person and he'll look for something to admire about you.

But it's a rule a lot of women forget in their mother-in-law relationships.

MIAMI — (Special) — A memorial service in honor of the men who gave their lives in service for their country in both Wars I and II and the Korean conflict, was held at the Sunday morning services at the First Baptist Church here.

A roll of men who died in service from both Roberts and Gray counties, was included in the church bulletin. A number of out of town visitors and relatives of those on the roll were among the congregation.

Beef Price Ceiling Deadline June 25

Retailers should have beef price ceiling lists by June 25, the new deadline for posting, according to office of Price Stabilization officials.

The deadline extension was made necessary in order to insure that all markets will have sufficient time to receive the lists which OPS furnishes.

Copies of the posters are going out from Washington this week to regional and district offices. There are 84 separate price lists for the nation, one each for the three types of stores into which the markets have been classified.

If you earn as much as the average factory worker, you can still buy more groceries—even at today's inflated prices—than you could back in 1929, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Newschart above, based on data from the USDA, shows quantities of food the wages from one hour of factory labor will buy in 1951 as compared to 1929. Bars on the chart represent comparative weights of each food in pounds.

Smithsonian Given Black Silk Cape Of Manchu Ruler

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution has announced it has been given the black silk cape of one of China's Manchu emperors.

The Smithsonian said the cape was presented by Chiang Kai-shek to Maj. Gen. David Barr, who in turn presented it to the government collection.

Barr's name has figured in the current Senate inquiry into the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. As head of a U.S. military mission to Chiang's Nationalist government, Barr early in 1949 wrote a report critical of the Nationalist military effort.

As for the robe, the Smithsonian said it is of heavy black silk with a lining and collar made from the skins of golden-haired monkeys.

The Smithsonian said that during the Manchu Dynasty, which ruled China from 1644 to 1912, the golden-haired monkey "was considered exclusively imperial property, and it would have been a capital offense for anyone lesser worthy to have worn its fur."

Little Jeep Takes On Army Tank—Loses

CAIRO, Ill. — (AP) — A tough jeep charged an Army tank, and it proved only that tanks are still tougher.

The tank was parked outside a Cairo garage, where an Illinois National Guard outfit keeps it when the jeep came along. Not only did the jeep lose the match, its driver also lost — $100. That was the fine Magistrate Max Beville fixed for reckless driving.

Chances Of Third World War Seen As More Remote By Poll

(By The Associated Press)

Next Sunday the Korean war will be a year old to Americans. In the early hours of June 25 the North Korean forces invaded the Republic of Korea across the 38th Parallel. That was June 24 in the United States.

What has the year meant to the world's prospects for peace or war?

Have the year's developments brought World War III nearer or made it more remote?

Those questions were put to Associated Press correspondents in 10 key spots — men thoroughly familiar with basic trends and the underlying views of things to come.

With some "ifs," the consensus is that the world of today is farther from general war than it was a year ago. The West's strength is growing steadily. It has demonstrated in deeds as well as words its will to resist aggression. Those are some of the factors that raise western hopes that the free peoples' firm departments are in better shape to control the sparks that might set off World War III than they were in June, 1950.

Against those factors must be weighed the possibility that the Soviet Union realizes that it cannot afford to let the United States become a superpower. And Yugoslavia is fearful.

Following are the AP correspondents' reports in detail (of the 10 reports, only Moscow's was subject to censorship):

WASHINGTON (John M. Hightower) — Events of the past year have strengthened the long range prospects for avoiding a third world war, but have made the immediate future more dangerous.

This view is supported by the following facts and theories: Washington policy as defined by President Truman and Secretary Acheson calls for building western strength to offset Soviet strength and thus achieve peace by a balancing of forces. The idea is that the Russians will not seriously risk a war they can not clearly expect to win.

Overall official Washington seems to believe there is a good chance the Russians will not strike and that the world will pass through this maximum danger period into a more stabilized time. On the western side realization of such a possibility depends not only on the manufacture and organization of force but also on holding the allied coalition together indefinitely and on keeping in check those who strike for a "preventive war" against Russia before America's atomic advantages run out.

UNITED NATIONS (Max Harrison) — United Nations diplomats mostly agree that the outlook for peace is a little better now than a year ago.

No one is extremely optimistic, but there is a feeling that the firm attitude of non-Communist countries may have served as a brake on any aggressive plans the Reds had.

LONDON (Arthur Gavshan) — The Korean campaign has in some ways increased, in other ways reduced, the chance of World War III. It touched off the sort of arms race which, in the past, ended in wars. With atom bombs and guns piling up, the overall outlook has become graver, in London's view. Yet the Korean war alerted peoples and governments to the dangers ahead, and so helped the influences for peace.

PARIS (Preston Grover) — Both French and American officials here feel developments of the last year have made a third war more remote. In recent months there has been some reaction because of delay in settling the Korean issue, but the net result is that France and other European countries have taken stronger steps toward rearmament than could have been expected otherwise.

FRANKFURT (Daniel De Luca) — Allied officials in Germany share the view that Korea touched off developments which have done more to postpone a third war than to advance it. They concede war is extremely difficult to avoid but are continuing to work on the possibility it can be avoided. Initial western defense measures are believed to have increased sizeably the Kremlin's calculated risk if it openly embarks on war.

ROME (Stan Swinton) — This correspondent, now in Italy, has covered news in both Korea and the explosive Middle East in the last year. It is his opinion that prompt military intervention in Korea postponed the possibility of general war but that the threat of an outbreak in 1952 remains large.

Truman Indicating He'll Fight Back

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — There's talk around here now that President Truman is going to start fighting back at the critics of his administration. If he does, it will be sort of change of pace.

This talk seems to have sprung up over the weekend after a White House announcement he would make a radio-TV speech to the nation Thursday night, urging that price and wage and other controls be continued by Congress beyond June 30.

It will be the President's first major speech to the nation since April 11 when he took to the air to explain why he had just fired General MacArthur. Fighting talks with the President in the past year or so have been infrequent.

In fact, talks by the President even explaining policies have been fairly infrequent leaving a big vacuum that has provided plenty of room for his critics.

In the past year or so criticism has piled up on his administration, it reached a climax with the public acclaim given MacArthur when he returned home.

And since then Mr. Truman's Republican critics in particular have continued to sharpen their attacks and members of his administration. The tone of that criticism gets less polite as time goes on, with words like "dishonest" being thrown around.

When the history of these times is written it may show the Truman administration went on the defensive when Senator McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, began making broad charges of communism in the State Department, with Secretary of State Acheson the particular target of his attack.

What a sustained counterattack by the Trumanites might have accomplished will have to remain one of the unanswered questions of history. But there certainly has been no attempt at such a counterattack.

There's been some comment here that Acheson, in his testimony at the Senate inquiry into MacArthur's firing, was aggressive, for a change. He answered questions firmly but it's debatable whether that could be called aggressive.

President Truman seemed pleased with Acheson's performance. He publicly pronounced a blessing of well done and said Acheson would remain as his secretary of state.

Compared with the attacks British, feel Korea has lessened the danger of a third war at an early date.

made on him, Acheson's answers were mild, indeed. It's possible he doesn't feel he should reply to his critics with the same terse toughness they turned loose on him, for at one place he said:

"Criticism is something which I have to bear as an occupational hazard and I am quite ready to bear it."

Mr. Truman himself certainly is capable of vigorous answers as he demonstrated when he successfully campaigned for the presidency in 1948. Since then he has been quieter.

It may have been his deliberate policy to stand back and say comparatively little, believing the criticism would blow itself out of its own accord in time. Certainly the public uproar over McCarthy's charges has died down.

And there's less interest evident now in the MacArthur inquiry than in the first week or so of it. The public has been drenched in the 1,500,000 words of testimony, spread over five weeks of hearings.

In a country like this, where sensation seems to follow sensation — each in turn submerged in the language of argument — it may be that the public loses interest in one sensation as it turns to another.

Maybe Mr. Truman is going to go on the offensive for a change. But it will take more than a speech urging retention of controls to show that. He's been talking of making a cross-country trip when Congress quits.

That would be one way of talking directly to a lot of people and making the headlines day after day for, with Congress gone home, he wouldn't have to share them with his congressional critics as much as he does now, when they're here.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Keep Your Eyes On Key Cards

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
George W. Beynon is best known as a tournament director of the American Contract Bridge League, but he is also an enthusiastic and skillful bridge player. When he went to Washington, D. C., recently, to make arrangements for the national championships that will be held there in August, he took time off to win a local team event with the help of the hand shown today.

The bidding was the same in both rooms, and in each case the opening lead was the five of spades. In the first room the declarer led the lead round to his hand, winning the first trick with the ace of spades. South then laid down his three diamonds and led a club to dummy's ten. East refused the first round of clubs and later refused the second club. Hence South could make only two club tricks.

When East eventually got in with the ace of clubs he returned a spade to set up the rest of West's suit. The defenders thus made two spades, two hearts, and a club to set the contract.

When Beynon played the hand he assured the contract by winning the first trick with dummy's king. Now he could lead out his own high diamonds and lead a club to dummy's ten.

No matter how the defenders squirmed Beynon was sure to get to dummy with one of the club honors to cash the king of diamonds. He was also bound to get his hand with the ace of spades to cash his last club.

The whole point, as Beynon saw at the first trick, was that South must keep the ace of spades as an eventual entry to his hand. Dummy's king of spades is not needed for communication between the two hands and can therefore be spared to win the first trick.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: North—1 Heart, 1 No-trump; East—Pass, pass; South—1 Spade, 7; West—Pass.

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-10-8-7-3, Hearts 5-3, Diamonds J-10-6, Clubs 4-2. What do you do?

A—Bid two spades. Your hand may be worth three or four tricks more at spades than at no-trump. Your failure to make a jump bid indicates that you have no real expectation of making game.

Can Communism Heal?
One of the weaknesses of Soviet propaganda is Russia's iron curtain. Red propagandists are able to make almost any claim they wish about Russia, knowing how difficult it would be for the outside world to check on the facts.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — An irrigation project that will cost the nation's taxpayers more than two billion dollars while benefiting relatively few farmers in a single state has slipped through the Senate almost noiselessly under protection of the MacArthur investigation.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Even proponents of the irrigation program concede that the increase in the number of food producers will total only 20,000. Opponents put the figure at only 6,000 and maintain that a mere 420 would enjoy benefits of $500,000 each.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — It is also pointed out that the state to be watered at such tremendous cost — $1,833 an acre — would raise food prices at a time when the government is pouring out hundreds of millions a year to maintain prices by buying and exporting surplus. Even if a war should require a larger labor force, the project could not be undertaken or completed in time because of a shortage of labor and materials.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The House Public Lands committee, meanwhile, has tabled a similar measure by almost a two-to-one vote. It proposes to wait until the Supreme Court passes on Arizona's right to tap the Colorado River for water, depriving Southern California of water essential to municipalities and industries. In fact, it is understood that many senators dared to vote for the scheme only because they expect to be killed in the lower chamber.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — President Truman knows, of course, that his Senate leaders have allied themselves for vote-swapping considerations with his "F&C" and "natural gas" opposers. But, like so many favor-seeking Senators who rode along with the "cowboys," he could not afford to oppose such influential figures as Messrs. McFarland, Hayden and their allies.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The Arizona boys obtained support from contrasting groups as advocates of the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Missouri Valley Authority, the Columbia River Authority, the silver bloc, the natural gas faction, Truman New Dealers and anti-Civil Rights Southerners.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Only three Democrats — Byrd of Virginia, O'Connor of Maryland and Douglas of Illinois — dared to vote in opposition to the leadership.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — The Hayden-McFarland operators picked up five votes from the New York and commonwealths of $7,000,000. They got off cheaply. Five Midwest legislators in with 13 votes, against an average tap on their own state.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Silver Senators southern states will amount to 19 votes. The average cost to New England states on the St. Lawrence and other trades, although the people in this area will pay heavily without getting any benefits. Here is a semi-official estimate of the taxes which they must bear as their share of the total cost:

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Senator Lehman's New York will be nicked for $304,809,000. Senator McMahon's and Senator Benton's Connecticut is down for $34,865,000. Little Rhode Island, whose two senators voted affirmatively, will put up $11,624,000. The figures have been compiled by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, Washington, D.C.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — In return for promised support against the F&C Employment Practices committee and Civil Rights legislation, the Russell-Eastland, Dixie Group, contributed earnestly because of reciprocal aid for the Missouri Valley enterprises, for which their state will finance an Arizona average of $30,000,000.

FAIR ENOUGH--PEGLER

By WESTBROOK PEGLER
I have the honor to present the answer of the Central Labor Council of Clark County, Nev., to my disclosure that Ralph Howard Alsop, its president, is also vice president of the state federation of the A. F. of L., an inveterate jail-bait, a gun man and a habitual criminal, now in under conviction for shooting in the body a poor union stiff who appealed to the Las Vegas Painters' union for justice.

once used to show how he, the great benefactor of labor, the Mahatma of the Democratic party in Nevada, had protected Ralph Alsop from public shame. Of Las Vegas, Mister Pegler refers to that cowardly tough again as the timid wild west of Nevada. Of unionists in Las Vegas he speaks as predatory mobs protected by the "crooked Roosevelt and Truman administrations."

especially concern any of us. The point is that for his errors, Ralph Alsop had paid the cost. He had atoned for his misdeeds. The sovereign state of Texas had recognized that and given him an unconditional pardon. It is axiomatic on the Nevada desert that a man is as he is, not as he once was or as he may be in the future. If a man is honest in his dealings, if he is sincere in his thinking and in his actions, he is a man to be welcomed and respected. Dragging past records out and rattling skeletons is only an effort to delude the public into thinking that all organized labor is rotten. "Ralph Alsop needs no defense."

WASHINGTON — An irrigation project that will cost the nation's taxpayers more than two billion dollars while benefiting relatively few farmers in a single state has slipped through the Senate almost noiselessly under protection of the MacArthur investigation.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Even proponents of the irrigation program concede that the increase in the number of food producers will total only 20,000. Opponents put the figure at only 6,000 and maintain that a mere 420 would enjoy benefits of $500,000 each.

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — It is also pointed out that the state to be watered at such tremendous cost — $1,833 an acre — would raise food prices at a time when the government is pouring out hundreds of millions a year to maintain prices by buying and exporting surplus. Even if a war should require a larger labor force, the project could not be undertaken or completed in time because of a shortage of labor and materials.

Little Rhode Island, whose two senators voted affirmatively, will put up $11,624,000. The figures have been compiled by the Council of State Chambers of Commerce, Washington, D.C.

DALLAS — (AP) — Corsicans' Country Club has 12 holes gathered from over the world...

Once Stroube stood in the rain with an umbrella over him for an hour to sketch a hole that suited his fancy.

When he came to Corsicana in 1923 the country club had nine holes and sand greens.

Stroube made his fortune in oil and has been very liberal in contributing to civic betterment of Corsicans.

They say around the club that he has spent more than $100,000 including labor and equipment in rebuilding the golf course.

Stroube once bought a bulldozer just to use on the course.

Anyway, he started playing golf in 1924 and through his more than a quarter of a century of knocking the little white ball around the courses of the world...

Stroube is pleased with the course and takes the few gripes from the players about its greens and traps with a grain of salt.

Stroube didn't play on all those courses and sketch all those holes by making special trips to do so...

The fact that a man with the initials H.R. can be named Bill intrigued me. I found out why...

Jack Russell and Martin Ruby, the ex-Baylor and ex-Texas A&M football stars respectively who have been in pro football for 10...

Russell looks at it like this: "I only have about another year left — I'm 30, you know — and I want to make as much as I can...

Russell has bought an interest in a Waco insurance firm and will follow that business when the grid days are over...

Sisco was telling the other day about the time his North Texas State football team was giving one of Ray Morrison's Southern Methodist eleven all kinds of trouble...

Ben Hogan is golf's hero, the smartest player in the game. But if he's a criterion of golf forecasting, the boys of the press are doing all right for themselves...

The golfers kid the press eternally for their wild forecasts. But look over these of little Ben...

Pioneers Sweep Pair From Clovis, 5-1, 10-3; Amarillo Here Tonight

Payte Named To Pitch Opener

PAMPA — (AP) — The Pampa Oilers swept both ends of a twin bill from the Clovis Pioneers here last night as the president of the Pioneers, Charley Fisher, looked on. The scores were 5-1 and 10-3.

Al Kavanagh, ex-Pioneer hurler, outpitched veteran Mel Kramer, ex-Oiler, in the first contest and Red Dial coasted to the easy victory in the nightcap.

The Oilers jumped off to five runs in the first inning of the second game before Carr could retire a man.

The doubleheader saw three Pioneers get the bounce from the umpires. Pete Trabucco was thumped out in the first contest and manager Charley Bushong and pitcher Al Carr were bounced in the second contest.

Tonight the Amarillo Gold Sox move into Oiler Park to conclude the present home stand of the Oilers with a two-game series. Tonight's game will start at 8:15.

George Payte, veteran right-hander who hurled a one-hitter last time out against the Berger Gassers, will start for the Oilers. Manager Les Mulcahy's nomination for the hose was unanimous.

The Oilers broke ahead in both games in the first inning. In the first contest Rice lined a single past Kramer's head and then stole second to score on Jake Phillips' line drive to center.

They added three more in the third when Woldt opened with a double and scored on Phillips' home run. Richardson followed with another four-baser to complete the scoring in the inning.

The lone Pioneer runs came unearned in the fourth when Pennington lined a single to center and went to third when Rice let the ball get through him, scoring Calo, who had singled.

The final Oiler run came on two hits and a sacrifice in the sixth. In the second game veteran Al Carr couldn't do a thing. Rice opened with a single and went to second on a single by Woldt. Rice stole third and Phillips walked to lead them up. Fortin bashed a hit into centerfield to plate two and Whitehorn blooped a single to left to score Phillips. Bill Rossin then came in to pitch for the Pioneers.

Yanks, Chisox In Important Series

(By The Associated Press) Baseball's big question? — How good are the White Sox? — may get its answer in the next 72 hours.

Opening with a doubleheader today, Chicago's "rags" — to Richards' club takes on the defending champion Yankees in an important four-game series in New York.

Both clubs rested yesterday as only six teams saw action. Cleveland moved a step closer to the American League leaders, outslugging the Red Sox in Boston, 9-7. Bob Feller, although 2-11, had staggered to his 10th victory against one defeat, Harry Taylor was the loser.

The New York Giants nipped the St. Louis Cards, 6-4, in 12 innings and the Chicago Cubs shamed the Boston Braves, 5-4. The Giants trail the league lead by Brooklyn Dodgers by 5-1-2 games.

The Yankees must sweep the four games to displace the Sox at the top of the league as Chicago leads by 3-1-2 games. The Chicagoans appeared in good shape following their two wins.

Graziano Scores Easy Knockout BALTIMORE — (AP) — Former lightweight champion Freddy Lott for four rounds last night before flooring him with a two-fisted attack in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-rounder at the Coliseum.

The episode came for the Newark Negro in 2:17 of the fifth. The crowd of 1,871 which paid a net admission of $4,185 for the best gate in two years of Baltimore boxing, booed the slow action at the start as Graziano showed little effort other than to protect himself.

Blue Sox Even Series With 15-8 Win Over Dukes

ABILENE — (AP) — The Blue Sox reverted to form last night, knocked Albuquerque's unbeaten pitcher Jesse Priest off the hill in the first inning, and went on to avenge Sunday's thrashing with a rousing 15-8 triumph over the second place Dukes.

A crowd of a few more than three thousand saw Jim Melton, Abilene right-hander, recover from a fairly blank blank the Dukes for the last six innings, and mark up his tenth win of the season.

Home runs by Ed Fenelon, Charley Schmidt and Babe Tucker, a triple by Morris Card and doubles by Card and Walt Sessi featured Abilene's 16-hit attack off Priest's lefty Bob Spence and Jerry Folkman.

Fenelon led off the Blue Sox batting order with his four-bagger, as Abilene went into the last half of the first inning trailing 0-5. Priest retired with nobody out and the bases loaded after giving up three hits and two walks. All five men scored as Art Bowland greeted Spence with a two-run single to left center and Walt Sessi followed with a single to drive in the tying run. Pitcher Melton squeezed in Bowland to break the tie with one out.

Albuquerque had assaulted Melton in the first inning to make it resemble a repeat performance for the Dukes. After walking Earl Harriman, Melton gave up a single to Hal Abbott and consecutive doubles to Allen Maul and Art Cuitli. Heraldo Maul drew an intentional pass, and Dick Gentzkow singled in the fourth Duke run.

Melton fanned Fred Haller, but Bill Hinson singled through the box to drive in Martin. Priest forced Hinson, and Harriman struck out.

The Dukes tied the score in the second on starts by Abbott and Maul and errors after each hit. Abilene recovered the run on a walk to Tuckey, a double by Card, and Charley Schmidt's long fly.

Miss Suggs Is Western Medalist PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Louise Suggs proved she's not much good at prognosticating but maybe the medalist winner of the 22nd annual Western Open Golf Championship doesn't know her own strength.

Little Miss Suggs went her Carrollton, Ga., southern draw to predict not many of the best women golfers in American would break women's par 75 over the 6,770-yard Whitmarsh Valley Country Club course. She was sure none would even come close to the course record of 66.

So what happened? The freckle-faced shotmaker from below the Mason-Dixon line fired a sensational seven-under-par 68 yesterday, the second best record in Western history, and only two strokes off the course record.

Expect Happy To Quit Soon

CINCINNATI — (AP) — A. B. (Happy) Chandler's days as baseball commissioner grew a bit shorter today.

Chandler notified President Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds yesterday that he will arrive here Thursday. The baseball boss, voted down on his bid for a contract renewal, is expected to sign his severance contract with the game the same day.

The contract absolves Chandler from legal liability regarding suits brought against organized baseball during his administration. It has been approved by the commissioner's lawyers and by major league club owners.

Giles was delegated at the club owners' meeting last week to inform Chandler of approval of the contract.

Texan Is Medalist In OC Golf Meet

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Dick Martin of Dallas, fired a blistering five-under-par 67 yesterday to capture medalist honors for the second straight year in the Oklahoma City Invitational Golf Tournament at Twin Hills Country Club.

Last year Martin shot a seven-under-par 67 at Lincoln Park course to take the medal. Chris Gers of Oklahoma City captured the tournament title and is defending champion this year.

A contingent of other Texas golfers, however, weren't far behind Miller in the qualifying shooting today.

Buster Reed, North Texas State College star from Dallas, and teammate Joe Conrad, the Texas State amateur champ, carded 69's along with Deen Wood, Oklahoma City.

Other top scorers included: Don Shannon, Oklahoma City, 71; Ken Rogers, Oklahoma City, 71; Dave McCilliand, Stillwater, 71; Bo Falckenberry, Oklahoma City, 72; Bill Maxwell, North Texas State, 72; Leonard A. Young, Tulsa, 72; and Dr. L. R. Bell, Meeker, 72.

Nine players tied with 77 and were forced into a playoff for the last two berths in the championship flight. Finally, Jack Martin of Oklahoma City won the first berth on the third hole and Don January of North Texas took the final place by winning the fourth.

BAUDOIN FOR LEOPOLD—King Leopold III of Belgium, at right above, has agreed to abdicate on July 16, in favor of his 20-year-old son, Prince Baudouin, left. Baudouin will be enthroned in Brussels on the day after his father's abdication. The ceremony originally was planned for Sept. 7, Baudouin's 21st birthday, but was moved up for convenience of the Belgian parliament.

Should Executives Divulge Big Secrets To Congress?

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's your Congress, so how would you answer this one: Should the executive branch of the government—such as the state and defense departments—tell Congress the deepest secrets in foreign affairs and in military planning?

The question was raised by Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer before the Senate committees investigating General MacArthur's firing. Wedemeyer said no secrets should be kept from Congress.

Anyone answering the question has to divide it in two:

1. Members of Congress are elected by the people to represent them in guarding their welfare. The biggest brass in the Pentagon and state department are simply hired servants of the people.
2. Therefore, it would seem that the people, through Congress, should be judge of what their welfare is and must know what's going on at all times, since whatever the state and defense departments do involves the public welfare.

It's assumed that these hired people, the big brass, can be trusted to do what they think best for the country. But, unless Congress knows what's going on, our fate may wind up in the hands of a few hired officials.

But would it really be wise to tell members of Congress all the secrets? If one of them blabbed, the information might enable an enemy to hurt this country or even destroy it, for the more people who know a secret the less secret it is. In short: can all members of Congress be trusted to keep their

THE STORY: No one believed me, Mary Tobias, when I told that my employer, Carl Metzker, was a Communist courier and had killed my friend Caroline Leigh. He had for my life, taking Caroline's name and claiming her valet's property in London as "lost" and me by telephone—he has traced me here.

CARL METZKER or one of his henchmen had followed me to the police station. I had been sure that all I had to do was go to the police with my story. I had gone, and I had come away again, disillusioned and frightened and knowing that I would have to be dead before the supercilious young police lieutenant believed what I had told him.

Then my fright gave birth to the idea that I run away, and become Caroline Leigh in the running. It was after Carl called me into his office and asked if I were dissatisfied with his identification of the woman's body as Caroline, if that was why I had been to headquarters.

I felt trapped until, suddenly, the plan was there. Full-blown. I could become Caroline instead of Mary Tobias!

Frantically, I went through the desk we shared, collected a couple of letters from Bart Jonathan, the lawyer who had written her that she, as Paul Leigh's widow, had inherited a small and "not very valuable" piece of property near Hollister, Ind.; a marriage license issued to Paul Lester Leigh and Caroline Burson; her library card.

Then I cut off my hair. The weird flight had begun.

Now it was to begin again. Only this time there was no place to go, no other identity to don almost as simply as I had the new clothes that had helped make the metamorphosis complete.

In Hollister I stuck out like the well-known sore thumb: I was mouths shut about things they shouldn't discuss in public? Perhaps there's no single answer on the biggest secrets except one that lies in the middle-ground, such as happened with the development of the atomic bomb during World War II.

That's been called the best kept secret of the war but the members of the congressional committees which voted money for the project didn't know precisely what the money was for. They took it on trust from the executive branch that the money was needed for highly secret work.

Right now the ones group in Congress, above all, with the best record for keeping secrets is the joint committee on atomic energy. It has 18 members. It's their job to ride herd on our atomic program.

But there are some things which even these members don't want to know. They have refused from time to time to be told certain facts although later, when the situation changed, they may have asked for those facts.

One member of this committee—Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Colorado Democrat—caused a bit of a sensation in November, 1949, when he had a few things to say over television about the bomb, such as how much more powerful our bombs were then—and will be—than the ones dropped on Japan in 1945.

Johnson denied he had spilled any secrets. He said it was all gross big secret stuff.

me from running headlong to nowhere.

There was still time, with Carl calling from New York and pulling the innocent, worried act about my disappearance, but no more than it takes a plane from LaGuardia Field.

I had my coffee before a replenished fire in the old grate and with it a sizeable chunk of applesauce cake a neighbor woman had sent over by her son when he came to cut fireplace wood for me that afternoon. Bart Jonathan was right, I was finding Hollister different from New York.

And I was wrong. I would not be staying, not that I had entertained the thought seriously. That had been the background for the lie I was living, the lie Bart Jonathan would not understand.

The telephone rang a couple of times, once for me, as night pinned clouds across the sky for an early darkness, but I didn't answer it.

PUT the coffee cup on the mantle beside Peter Leigh's picture of Caroline and her Paul. I had to get away from Hollister, now—to-night. Morning would bring Carl—and—and—I refused to think the rest of it, but I could not close my mind to Caroline's wistful eyes, her stubborn belief that, one day, Carl Metzker would see her as something more than an efficient cog in his public relations office machinery.

Oh, Carl was clever. And cruel. Caroline's death—and mine—to him would be merely self-preservation, the prime law of Nature. He would go on contacting slimy little men who had betrayed their souls, he would go on paying them, and men who deserved to live would die because of it.

Before the fear could come again, I went to the telephone. Bart Jonathan had to believe me! I cranked the old telephone and waited for the operator.

Realization and blind terror came hand in hand. There wasn't even the dull hum of an empty line. Minutes ago the phone had been ringing. Now only a broken—or a cut—wire could register such nothingness.

(To Be Continued)

Leaks in Congress have become notorious. There are no secrets at the wide open public hearings. It's in the executive sessions behind closed doors that the highly confidential information is given Congress by officials of the executive branch.

Oh, Carl was clever. And cruel. Caroline's death—and mine—to him would be merely self-preservation, the prime law of Nature. He would go on contacting slimy little men who had betrayed their souls, he would go on paying them, and men who deserved to live would die because of it.

Producer Considered Expert If Red Tape To Be Unraveled

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—Don't be surprised if a future best-seller is entitled "How To Unravel Red Tape" by Frank McCarthy.

I suggested the subject to film producer McCarthy because he should be an expert on it. He got his basic training as wartime aide to Gen. George Marshall and later as a State Department official.

He has just come through his greatest test: getting approval for a feature film from 17 government agencies on two continents. McCarthy is the producer of "Decision Before Dawn," a film of World War II as seen through German eyes.

Among the agencies from which he had to get approval or cooperation: the U. S. State Department, Department of Defense, the German Federal Republic, the Allied High Commission, the Bavarian Government, etc.

The project, which was to be filmed in actual German locales at first got a turn-down by High Commissioner John J. McCloy in Germany. He reasoned: 1. Photographs of German troops in the film might fall into Russian hands and be used as propaganda; 2. Appearance of Germans in army uniforms might alarm the population.

McCarthy answered with these arguments: 1. The Russians could easily make their own propaganda photos of German troops if they wanted to; 2.

The most recent example of a big leak was in March when a member of a Senate committee showed a reporter a copy of a statement which General Eisenhower had made to the committee a month before.

Eisenhower, trying to build up Europe's defenses, said he'd drop an atom bomb on the Russians if he thought it worthwhile; and he said 12 American divisions could hold the Breton Peninsula in France against the Russians.

There would be wide publicity to it. It was so fast that production plans were upset.

McCarthy observed that the recovery in Germany is amazing. It was so fast that production plans were upset.

"We toured throughout Germany looking for locations in January, 1950," he related. "We were mostly interested in finding bombed-out areas. We made our selections, but when we returned a couple of months later, the locations were no longer usable. The bombed areas had been rebuilt."

"We even had trouble working from day to day. We would return to a location the next day and find crews starting to clear the debris. We had to appeal to authorities to hold up reconstruction for a week until we could use the set."

"Decision Before Dawn" proved a boon to the German film industry, which had been in poor condition. Only 20 workers were taken from Hollywood; the rest were recruited from the German movie business.

"The German film industry is

Stranded Man Wants Nothing But The Best

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—When John Graham, 50, needs to be rescued, he wants the job done by professionals.

Graham fell asleep on a rock in the ocean. When he awoke the tide had risen and he was cut off from shore. A bather, George Marvin, spotted Graham waving, swam out and offered to tow him in. Graham gave him the cold shoulder. "Go back and call me a life-guard," he said.

still in bad shape," McCarthy reported. "They make a great many pictures and make them as cheaply as possible, but they have been losing money. However, the German government is now granting some loans that may put the movie makers on their feet."
