Hobart Street Count Shows Traffic Gain

Automobile and truck traffic over the Hobart St. crossing increased by 3293 for a 24-hour period between October, 1948, and January, 1952, a traffic count revealed late yesterday.

The count was made by the city engineering department from 9 a.m. Tuesday to 9 a.m. yesterday.

The count is being taken in presentation in February to the State Highway Commission in Austin by local men who will ask the underpass at the Santa Fe crossing be authorized by the state.

The count yesterday showed a total of 9431 cars and trucks using the crossing as compared to 6138 cars and trucks using it during a similar count made in October, 1948. This represents a gain of 53.65 percent in vehicles traveling north and south along Hobart and over the crossing.

During the same period, 31 freight trains and switching engines and five passenger trains entered the crossing. The rail traffic resulted in blocking the street for a total of 57 minutes and five seconds. Although several times, mostly switching engines, blocked the street for several minutes at a stretch, the overall average stood at one and one-half minutes for the 39 trains.

If the underpass is constructed, money for rights-of-way along the approaches will have to be provided by the city. The state and the Santa Fe railroad will pay for construction. It has been estimated on several previous occasions that the railroad would bear approximately 10 percent of the construction cost; the state the remainder.

The Hobart St. underpass is one of two bottlenecks in completion of State Hwy. 70 from Pampa to Perryton. The other bottleneck, a bridge over the Canadian river, must also be approved by the highway commission.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman said today he will have his name withdrawn as a candidate in the New Hampshire preferential primary, but that this would not preclude his running for reelection.

The President again declined to say whether he will be a candidate for another term or when he will announce his intentions.

At his weekly news conference, Truman tried in vain to discourage questions on his plans, saying there were more important things to talk about.

He said if he decided to run, he could get the nomination without going into any of the state primaries.

The President was pressed for his attitude toward the action of James McPhail, a lumber dealer, in entering his name in the Democratic preferential primary in New Hampshire. The voting there March 11 will be the first of its kind in the nation this year.

Truman said he saw about that in the paper.

Truman spoke words of praise for Ellis Arnall, former governor of Georgia, who came out of a conference with him yesterday saying it was safe to speculate the President will seek reelection.

Garman Sells Gas Company; Empire Southern Is Buyer

The Empire Southern Gas Co., not included and will be retained by the Garman family for sale of gas in cities under contract to Empire Southern Gas Co.

In a statement to the press, Garman said the transaction was made because he felt a larger organization is in a better position to finance the necessary new construction to keep pace with the rapid growth of Pampa and Panhandle. "Low rates make it almost impossible for small concerns to obtain this type of financing," he said.

Included in the transaction are all distribution systems and other pipe lines serving the two cities. Empire Southern announced Er-Gas production, however, was not included and will be retained by the Garman family for sale of gas in cities under contract to Empire Southern Gas Co.

Hobart Ranch Wildcat Shows Gas, Oil On Test

Phillips Petroleum Co. was to acidize a zone from 8364-74 feet today on its No. 1 Hobart Ranch wildcat about nine miles northeast of Pampa after the test gauged 3,051,000 cubic feet of gas from this zone after perforations.

Operators perforated with 60 shots in the 10-foot zone of granite wash and archaic lime. They will continue testing other levels.

The test also produced eight barrels of 45.7-gravity oil in a 24-hour test.

This is the second gas show Phillips has had from the well just north of Hoover.

Operators gauged 1,400,000 cubic feet of gas from 8355 to 8369 feet through 30 perforations about two weeks ago. The hole was bottomed at 10,000.

The test is in Sec. 26, Block 3, T&GN Survey.

Phillips has drilled less than 1000 feet on the two other wild-

Local Reserve Unit Gets Class A Rate

Authorization was received here late Wednesday designating Pampa's organized reserve unit as a recognized battery of the reserve corps. Official designation is Battery, 80th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 155 mm Howitzer (self-propelled).

The authorization, which also set up the unit as Class A, came from the instructors office, U. S. Army Organized Reserve Corps, Amarillo. The Class A rating means unit members are qualified to receive full pay for all meetings attended. The pay is equal to one day's pay up to a maximum of four meetings each month.

According to Lt. Cameron Marsh, commanding officer, there will be no staff personnel assigned to the unit at present. He said, however, should the unit be made a battalion headquarters, a staff officer would be needed.

He said the unit is now authorized to enlist members, either veteran or non-veteran, into the reserve corps. Present strength is 11. Full complement figures have not been made available yet, but are expected early in February.

New recruits will be placed on pay status on or about Feb. 1.

The unit meets at 7 p.m. each Monday in city commission room, first floor, of the city hall. Marsh invited any veterans or non-veterans interested to attend the next meeting scheduled Monday.

There is a possibility, he said, that other batteries will be set up in the area with Berger being the most likely choice. Units can also be set up at any other town in the area large enough to support a unit complement.

Now's The Time To Get Recognition For Good Neighbors

More unselfish acts of kindness are coming to light as letters come in to The Pampa Daily News nominating residents of the Pampa trade area for the title of "Good Neighbor."

The Good Neighbor contest is being sponsored by The News in connection with "Get Acquainted Week" to be held next month.

It's easy to enter the Good Neighbor contest. If you know someone whom you think is deserving of the title of Good Neighbor because they aid others without expectation of a tangible reward, simply write a letter of 200 words or less to "Good Neighbor Contest Editor, Pampa Daily News." In the letter, tell what your candidate has done that makes him or her, in your opinion, worthy of the title of "Good Neighbor."

The contest will not only give writers an opportunity to see that their "good neighbor" gets deserved recognition, but they will also have an opportunity to share in $100 in cash prizes. Prizes will go to writers of the winning letters. NOT to winner of the title of Good Neighbor.

Any resident of the Pampa trade area is eligible to enter the contest with the exception of KPND and News employees and their families.

Deadline for entries is midnight, Feb. 16.

Speaker Predicts Pampa Population Will Reach 60,000

"Pampa faces possible population growth to 60,000 by the year 2010," John R. Stockton, director of the University of Texas Tax Bureau of Business Research said here today. He also predicted other substantial growth for Panhandle - South Plains cities and towns.

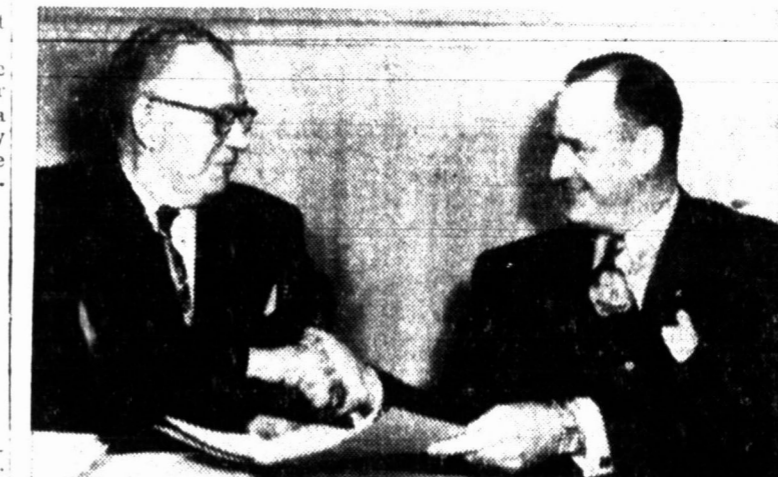

Speaking before the Canadian Water Users Assn., Stockton said his survey of the area disclosed vast and yet unused natural resources vital to future industry. He defined industry as a basic manufacture of materials drawn from the area's resources to meet the demand of the product from the outside.

Stockton predicted also that the swing to oil for the use of manufacturing carbon black will increase as the demand for natural gas for other products increases.

In his prediction of the growth in population by industrial needs he said it will be up to individual cities and their initiative in locating new plants in various parts of the Panhandle.

Stockton said industry will come to the area, but just where it will be located will be the result of businessmen in the various cities getting them located.

Pampans attending the meeting included E. O. Wedgworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, Fred Thompson, Mayor of C. A. Huff and City Manager Dick Papp.

Operation Performed To Remove Peanut

Four-year-old Mike Dalton who had a peanut lodged in his lung, is reported out of danger this morning.

Doctors yesterday removed the peanut from the boy's bronchial tube and reported his condition as "very satisfactory."

Young Mike, son of Mrs. Sammie Lee Dalton, council assistant for the Pampa Girl Scout Assn., got the peanut lodged in his lung Jan. 22 when he was eating a candy bar.

Concrete Piers Being Poured For Canadian River Bridge

CANADIAN—(Special)—Pouring of concrete piers for the new Canadian river highway bridge began this week.

The second pier was poured Tuesday atop its cluster of eight steel pilings that are driven 70 feet into the river bed. The pilings are driven at an angle of 1 1/2 inches per foot off vertical to form a "tripod" effect for support.

Each pier topping these clusters of pilings will contain approximately 50 cubic yards of concrete and 4200 pounds of reinforcing steel.

The form builders had the third pier form in place Tuesday and were making rapid progress on the fourth.

The huge pile driver started from the south bank, (nearest Canadian), and has completed its work on 12 of the piers. There will be 37 piers supporting the 2528 foot long bridge.

Citizens of Canadian and users of U. S. Highways 82 and 69 are much interested in the progress on the new bridge since the old narrow bridge 100 yards upstream from the new one is perhaps the most serious remaining bottleneck affecting heavy traffic on these two trans-continental highways that cross here.

The bottleneck of the old (1923 model) bridge is especially noticeable during combine season when frequent traffic tie-ups occur because the drivers of these overwidth machines sometimes fail to see, or fail to heed the instructions to send a flagman across before attempting to take the wide loads across.

Work on the new bridge is about two months ahead of schedule, thanks to exceptionally mild winter weather, and the earlier delivery of steel for the job than was expected when the contract was let nearly a year ago.

Lions Hear Talk On Texas Highways

Texas highways was the subject of a talk given at the Lions club this noon by Phil Harvey.

Harvey told Lions that Texas now has 200,000 miles of roads—three-fourths of them rural—but many of them are "roads of yesterday."

He said more money must be devoted to roads if Texas is to have modern highways that will bear up under the strain of modern traffic. "Many of our highways, built 20 years ago," he said, "are worn out because they were not built to stand up under such loads as the 56,000-pound maximum truck load of today."

Harvey was introduced by A. B. Whitten who is in charge of the program.

Lions President Sherman White presented keys for outstanding service in getting new members to the following: Ed Myatt, Jimmy McCune, Charley Thut, Ed Cleveland, D. M. Dickey, H. P. Doster, Sr., and E. O. Wedgworth.

Ten year membership pins were given by White to: Dosiel, Henry Ellis, Bob Gordon, Ray Kuhn, Joe Schroedel, Ted Smith, F. L. Stallings, John Vantine.

Twenty-five year pins were presented to Dr. Oscar Huff and J. L. Anderson.

Those receiving 20-year membership pins were Robert Watson, Robert Teed and J. L. Anderson.

Dimes Campaign Ends Tonight With Annual Mothers' March

Clinton Evans, Gray county chairman for the March of Dimes, today made a final plea for donations to the 1952 drive.

Today marks the end of the drive, which will be climaxed with the Mothers' March from 7 to 8 p.m. More than $5000 was netted last year during the hour the march was in effect. About $8000 has been donated to date. Gray county goal is $15,000.

Approximately 500,000 mothers are expected to participate in the 1952 march throughout the United States, Evans said. Locally, 400 women will canvass Pampa and barber shoppers' organization while 150,000 will make calls in Texas.

Pampa has been divided into eight zones for the march with Mrs. Ruth Nienstiel chairman. Each zone is divided into as many districts as can be covered, and district leaders will be responsible for having women cover each district.

Starting signal for the drive will be made by police and fire sirens. Helping during the march will be Boy and Girl Scouts.

Brownies, Cubs and Explorer Scouts. Volunteers from the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce and barber shoppers' organization will drive throughout Pampa in public address cars reminding people to turn on their porch-lights and give to the drive.

THROUGH KPND From 7:15 to 7:35, operations will be covered through KPND. At the end of the drive, collections will be given district and zone leaders who in turn will give them to representatives of the two local banks who will total the amount in the chamber. (See CAMPAIGN Page 3)

Congress Gets Nationwide Presidential Primary Plan

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A plan which will be introduced in Congress today for nationwide presidential primaries was passed by the House of Representatives today.

The sponsors, Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) and Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), said the plan would not require a constitutional amendment and could apply to the 1952 campaign.

Primary voting as envisioned in the proposal would not bind convention delegates but probably by a "strong persuasive influence" on their decisions, Douglas and Bennett said in a statement.

They said their purpose is "to bring about greater direct participation" by the people in the nomination of candidates for President and vice president.

Under the plan, the attorney general would be directed to work out agreements with the various states to conduct presidential primaries for the major political parties.

SHARE COSTS

The federal government would share the cost of the primaries, paying the states up to 20 cents for each vote cast. The states would provide election personnel, registration books and other facilities. A 10 million dollar ceiling would be put on federal expense.

Senator Smathers (D-Fla.) this week introduced a proposed constitutional amendment that would replace the convention system with direct primaries.

"However," Douglas and Bennett said, "it takes a long time to secure the passage of constitutional amendments and the bill

If a house is missed or someone wishes to make additional donations a representative can be reached by phoning 383. Reports of the counting will be made over KPND.

Evans said Amarillo has collected $13,000, and that if tonight's response is good Pampa will top that city's figure.

"Without the aid of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis," he added, "we would be helpless in combating polio. Even though some people pay for treatment from polio insurance they also would be helpless without the March of Dimes, for only through funds donated in this drive can research and equipment for treatment of victims be made available."

Other events connected with the March of Dimes include a basketball game tonight following the Mothers' March between the Noblitt-Coffey Chiefs and the Amarillo Air Force Jets. In addition, a square dance will be held in Parisian hall, sponsored by the local square dance association. Emmett Allen and the Sunset Ramblers will play at a dance tonight in McLean.

Powerful Survivor Emerges From Nazi Chemical Empire

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — A powerful survivor emerged today from the fragments of IG Farben, Nazi Germany's chemical empire which has developed as many lives as a cat.

A board of directors headed by Germany's leading financier, Hermann J. Abs, and a chemist who refused the Nobel prize at Hitler's orders, Dr. Richard Kuhn, took over Farben's vast Ludwigshafen plant under the name of Badische Anilin und Soad Fabrik (BASF).

Two more big combines and six smaller companies are due to emerge eventually from the seven-year-old Allied trustbusting campaign aimed at the huge Farben cartel. Before the war it virtually monopolized the German chemical industry and had ties with British, U. S. and other foreign chemical makers. The Allied aim was to divide the Farben combine into these separate companies.

The Badische company, which fathered the Farben cartel by absorbing seven other chemical makers in 1924, became an independent firm today with 100 thousand marks ($23,800) as its nominal capital.

But it has been operating ever since the war under Allied control and already is flourishing amazingly despite crushing wartime losses.

American and British bombs wrecked 160 million dollars worth of plant. Another 10 million dollars was torn out by occupation authorities. An accidental explosion in 1948 killed 205 workers in the Ludwigshafen plant and did 20 million dollars damage to the factory.

But last year this indestructible Farben combine produced and sold more than 160 million dollars worth of dyestuffs, plastics, fertilizers and heavy chemicals. One-third of the output was marketed in foreign countries by a sales organization which had been completely disrupted at the war's end.

Trial Continues

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Testimony was to continue today in the trial of William Frank Work, 38, charged with murder in the death of his wife.

The Lubbock cafe operator is charged with shooting Mrs. Work to death last Oct. 7 at the cafe. Two other persons, including Work's stepdaughter, were also killed in the hail of bullets. He is under indictment in their deaths.

Only 800 workers still were active in the Ludwigshafen plant when the Allies took over in 1945. Now it employs 28,500, the same as it did before the war.

BASF will remain under titular Allied control for a considerable time while the intricate process of liquidating Farben ownership rights unfolds. At present, it still belongs to Farben, at least technically, despite its actual independence.

Old IG Farben shares must be converted into shares in the nine independent firms which are scheduled to come out of the Farben combine. Financiers are reluctant to guess when all the Farben complications will be straightened out.

Some of the special prizes posted are: a wrist watch for the first-year 4-H club boy who has the best beginning record; Ingversen Fred store, $15 for the grand champion and $10 for the reserve champion in the calf show; Fraser Grain Co., 10 for the first place winner in each of the three divisions of the calf show.

Robert Forrest is offering a $5 cash award for the best herdsman, (the boy who keeps the cleanest quarters during the show).

Canadian Grain Co-op will pay $2 to each boy who has an entry in the show; the First National bank is furnishing all prize ribbons for the show, and Canadian Lumber Co. is offering a metal feed trough to all club boys competing.

W. S. Newell & Son will furnish trucks and equipment to get the show ready, and Earl Blackmore will furnish free transportation for all stock which will be entered in the Pampa show.

Expect Big Turnout For Dimes Program Slated In Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — The March of Dimes officials here expect a big turnout for the Bill Mac show at the Clark auditorium here tonight. Showtime is 8:30.

He is a composer of hill-billy numbers, including the famous "Cry Baby Boogie," and records for record publishers. Elaine Cornwall program director of the station, will emcee the Shamrock entertainment.

Dynamite Stick Replacing Fiery Cross In The South

By BEM PRICE
ATLANTA — The dynamite stick apparently is replacing the burning cross and stinging lash in the South's pattern of violence. Since the pattern first began emerging in Birmingham, Ala., in early 1949 there have been 48 dynamite bombings involving mostly the old White-Negro feud but spreading to religion and personal revenge.

"I think," said Alex, Miller, "that the pattern is self-evident. Twenty years ago the weapon of intimidation was lynching. Then came the burning cross and floggings."

"But in Birmingham," Miller continued, "they came up with a new weapon and one that has the advantage of destroying all evidence, the dynamite stick."

Miller, southern regional head of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, added: "I predict that the pattern will spread, it is a new weapon. I believe, too, that it will not be confined to the South alone but will find use wherever racial or religious tensions are strong."

Then the expert observer on the southern region commented, "You can look for an increasing number of dynamite bombings in the South. The old legal barriers governing racial segregation are tumbling and Negroes are shaking off the Ghettoes and expanding."

Miller also said that in his opinion these dynamite bombings were not connected save through the thinking to be found in the mentality "often associated with the Ku Klux Klan."

"Wherever," he continued, "people with this type of mind find their prejudices are not reinforced by the law, their immediate thought is to resort to violence."

The record goes like this: BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — 10 unsolved bombings of Negro homes since 1949 as the Negro community struggled to expand into areas previously white.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — In December, 1949, a Negro home in a once all-white neighborhood was damaged by dynamite. There was another similar bombing in September, 1950.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — A porch was blown off a Negro home in a case similar to the Nashville incidents.

ATLANTA — Seven bombings of Negro homes in once White areas since 1949. There have been none since two men, one of whom admitted he was affiliated with the Ku Klux Klan, were arrested and indicted. They have not been brought to trial.

NEW ORLEANS — Forty-eight hours after a court ruling in May, 1951, that the city could not enforce a racially discriminatory zoning law, a $16,000 Negro home was blown up.

DALLAS, Texas — Two men were arrested in July, 1951, in connection with an investigation into 13 bombings of Negro homes on the fringe of white sections.

MIAMI — A Jewish synagogue was damaged June 5, 1951, by dynamite. An unoccupied building in a Negro housing project bordering a White project was severely damaged Sept. 22. Two unexploded sticks of dynamite were found Oct. 9 near another Jewish synagogue. Two unexploded sticks were found Oct. 15 on steps of a Jewish school.

Dynamite was found Nov. 1 on steps of Dade county courthouse. A second Carver Village project home bombed Nov. 30. On Dec. 2, a Hebrew school was bombed and 44 memorial windows shattered. This same day another blast was reported in the housing project but with no damage. A stick of dynamite with a partly burned fuse was found on the steps of the Saint Peter and Saint Paul Catholic Church. On Dec. 25 police reported an attempt to bomb the Hialeah-Miami Springs Jewish community center was thwarted.

MIMS, Fla. — Harry T. Moore, state coordinator for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and his wife were fatally injured by a dynamite blast Dec. 28, 1951.

ROME, Ga. — A dynamite blast was set off near a Negro social club after complaints that it was "a public nuisance."

CROSSVILLE, Ala. — The home of a woman was dynamited Jan. 1 in what police said was a bootlegging feud.

PHENIX CITY, Ala. — The home of an anti-vice crusader was dynamited Jan. 9.

Miller said that the Miami attacks on places of worship could be attributed in large measure to "cultural tensions and the inevitable North-South struggle."

India Imports Metals From United Kingdom

NEW DELHI, India — (P) — The United Kingdom and Belgium supplied the major quantity of iron and steel that India bought abroad during April to August 1951.

Official figures published here showed India imported 86,000 tons of which 30,000 tons came from the United Kingdom and 25,000 tons from Belgium.

India also obtained 9,000 tons from the United States, 7,000 tons from France and 6,000 tons from West Germany.

London traffic is held up 100,000 times daily by the closing of level crossing gates, representing a loss of 4500 working hours daily.

NEW STAR FOR DOUGHBOYS — The Army's Combat Infantryman Badge now has a star added, as above, to indicate that the wearer has earned it for the second time—in Korea in this instance. The blue and silver badge is given for satisfactory duty with an infantry regiment, or smaller unit, while that unit is engaged in active combat. New regulations call for adding a star for each badge earned after the initial award.

It's Loaded — So Be Careful!

Before you drive the Golden Anniversary Cadillac, there is one thing we should like to impress upon you: It's loaded—so be careful!

There's more power in that dynamic engine than you'll ever need—except for the rarest emergency. And it should never, never be used for dramatic display on the get-away.

If somebody else wants the honors when the light turns green—let 'em go. You don't have to prove anything, anyway.

But that great power works for you—even when you're not unleashing it to the limit.

It works for you as a reserve—and gives you that easy, quiet, flowing ride which makes a Cadillac such a joy to own and such a thrill to drive...

It gives you that slow-moving engine—that simply loafs at all legal speeds—and which is a literal Methuselah when it comes to long life...

And it is a primary reason for that unbelievably low upkeep expense, at which Cadillac owners never cease to marvel. Some fleet owners have found, for instance, that Cadillacs cost less to operate and maintain than any other cars they have ever used. And the easy-going engine, that never operates under strain, is a big factor in this economy.

Yes—Cadillac's great power works for you—and is necessary—and is one of the vital reasons why Cadillac's performance is so outstandingly different.

But we trust that no Cadillac owner will ever use it for dominating the highway. To do so is not only counter to the rules of safety—but it is not in keeping with the graciousness the motoring public has come to expect from the person who sits at the wheel of a Cadillac.

Have you seen this great Golden Anniversary creation? If not, we should be pleased to welcome you to our showrooms—at any time.

L. P. FORT — Surveys hobby that is now a business.

Hobby Now A Business For Pampan

What started out many years ago as a hobby and later turned into a business now again has become a vocation for a local man.

L. P. Fort, manager of the local Texas Employment commission, recently has opened a granite and marble company at Francis and Hobart, marking the second time he has done similar work.

Interest in the monument and marble business for Fort began in the early 1930's when he started as a laborer with a marble company in Dallas. In 1937, after serving an apprenticeship and becoming a finisher, he started his own business producing such items as mantels and hearths for fireplaces, bank fixtures, store fronts, monuments and tops for antique tables.

Fort's business grew until shortly after the beginning of World War II when a scarcity of materials forced him to abandon his work. Because of this, in 1942 he started work with the state government, later being transferred to Pampa.

But Fort did not abandon his former work. Instead, it became a hobby. From 1942 until the present time he has used much of his spare time in carving from stone objects such as ash trays, table tops, angels, book ends, paper weights and Bibles.

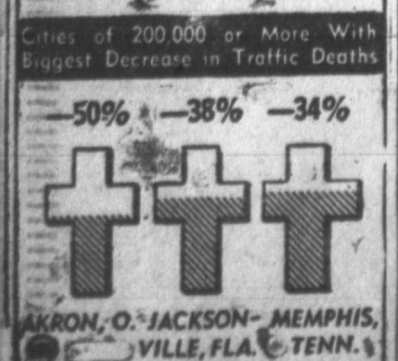

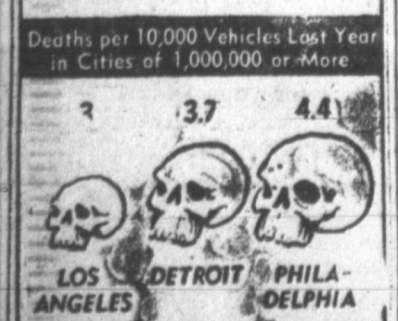

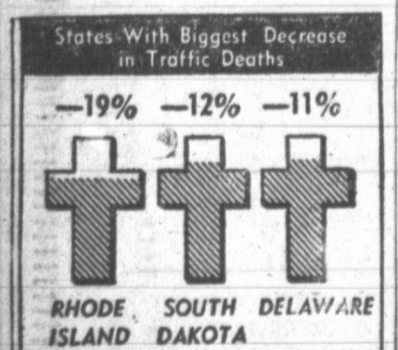

Recently, Fort became convinced Pampa is big enough to support a monument and marble business. His wife, who also is experienced in the marble and granite trade, will operate the business on a full-time basis. During his spare time, Fort will "engage in any type of marble work," which includes cutting, carving, polishing and repairing any marble or stone. Also available will be a large selection of monuments.

Phillips Pet. Co. Honors J.N. Perkins For Service Record

J. N. Perkins, superintendent of the Plains division of the Production department, Phillips Petroleum Co., was honored recently for completing 25 years service with the company.

A dinner held at Dowell's cafe, Amarillo, and attended by fellow workers, was highlighted by the presentation of the award, a wrist watch, by C. A. Daniels, northern region superintendent.

Perkins went to work for Phillips Jan. 12, 1927, as a roustabout in the Berger Area. He served as gang pusher, lease foreman and district superintendent before being promoted to his present position in April, 1946. Special guests for the occasion, in addition to Daniels, were J. M. Houchin, general superintendent of production from Bartlesville, Okla., and F. H. Egolf, assistant regional superintendent from Oklahoma City, Okla.

Deaths during first 11 months of 1951 numbered 33,760 and topped 1950's toll for same period by seven per cent, according to the National Safety Council. Yet several states and cities reported decreases. Best safety records are shown above.

Not Ex-Commie Nash Declares

WASHINGTON — (AP) — White House advisor Phil Leo Nash, accused by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) of being a former Communist, has branded the charge "a contemptible lie."

"I have absolutely nothing to hide and never have had," he said. Nash, a presidential advisor on problems of racial and religious minorities, added: "I suspect that Senator McCarthy has been stung by an advertisement in my home town derelict in Washington."

Telephone Census

MONTREAL — (AP) — Statistics released here show Canada is third in the world telephone census with a total of 2,911,900 instruments. The United States leads with 43,003,000 telephones and the United Kingdom has 5,432,600.

floor that President Truman should "get rid" of Nash. He said he assumed the President has not seen FBI reports accusing Nash of having "constant contact with the Communist underground in Washington."

H-Bomb Plant To Cost More Than Planned, Group Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission's vast plant for the production of hydrogen bomb will cost more than twice as much as originally estimated, the Atomic Energy Commission reported.

Chairman Gordon Dean of the AEC declared at a news conference the probable cost has "jumped considerably" from $600 million dollar "estimate" of a year and a half ago to $1.4 billion dollars at present. Dean said the estimates were revised because it is apparent now that "reactors" will cost more than had been expected. Reactors are devices for making atomic explosives.

The AEC had announced the reactors at the South Carolina H-bomb plant were to be "advanced" design. Dean said "the design is still not completed on some of them."

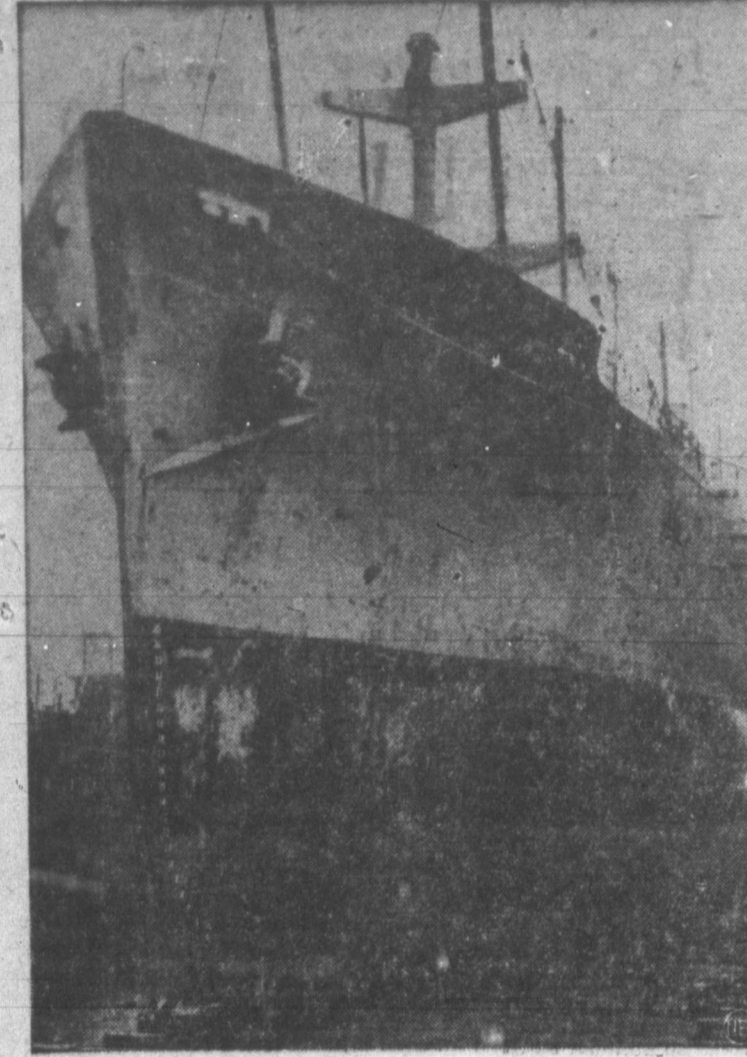

The new estimate was contained in the AEC's semi-annual report to Congress.

The commission described "intense activity" in the last six months throughout the entire atomic enterprise — including an "expanding atomic weapons program." It told of:

1. Full blast operation of all its existing plants including those for making atomic explosives.
2. Progress of new construction entailing 3 percent of the nation's total building expenditures and employing nearly 2 percent of the country's total construction force.
3. "Continued" increase in the output of fissionable materials — at a lower cost than ever.
4. "Substantial" and "significant" advances in weapons research and development.
5. Increased domestic production of uranium ores thanks to expanded exploration, opening of new producing areas, and incentive licenses for uranium producers who collected more than $250,000 in such "prizes" last year.
6. Research findings with radioactive isotopes that may lead to improved methods of farming "and lowered costs of food and fibre production."
7. Further agricultural research while providing no stimulus to plants, may aid in breeding new varieties of crops, and also aid in the fight against certain crop diseases.
8. Development of chemicals of a type which might ultimately be used in humans as a kind of antidote for anyone who accidentally swallows poisonous atomic materials.

Camera News

By IRVING DESFOR

If I rave about a rare Caruso album, don't think you wandered into the music department by mistake. I'm talking about a personal Caruso photo album that reveals the world's greatest tenor as a camera fan for many years before his death in 1921. This photo album, along with costumes and other personal effects, has lain crated for thirty years. Recently, all the items were returned over to RCA Victor by Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso, his widow. With the current re-issuing of immortal Caruso recordings, the album and other personal mementos will be on display and tour the country shortly.

The Caruso photo album was in my possession for over a week, and proved to be a revealing, human document of a great man. It definitely proved, too, the virtues and shortcomings of Caruso as a camera fan. For posterity, the main virtue is that Caruso posed willingly, almost eagerly, for a camera almost anytime, anywhere. And he was not above the corny tricks that we see in almost any family album today — Napoleonic gestures, tongue out at camera, nuzzling and improvising costumes.

As a world figure, the pictures show the retinue that surrounded him in Europe, America and Mexico. In public appearances he was the man of fashion, fitted and polished. He had few private moments, but we do see him with his coat off, relaxed. As a loving husband, there's a tender, revealing photo of Mrs. Caruso, smiling over him. As a gregarious friendmaker everywhere, we see a number of snapshots of people of all ages and stations in life that no one today can identify.

From the pictures we see that Caruso personally used at least three types of cameras in the years between 1910 and 1919, the period roughly covered by this album. He had a folding, post-card size Kodak, a box camera and a panoramic camera in which the lens swung in an arc. However, his own picture-taking results can only be classed as record shots and fall far short of the artistic success he enjoyed as a caricaturist, to mention another hobby.

The Caruso album is a graphic example of the "Do's and Don'ts" in present day album making. Physically it has stood the test of time after 40 years, proving that a well-made, leather covered book is a long term investment. Lesson number one, therefore, is that any album is better than no album, and a good album is best in the long run, since you invest time, trouble and pictures.

Lesson number two, I'd say, is the need for IDENTIFICATION, something Caruso sadly failed to take care of throughout the book. Page after page of people, places and events that were written only in his memory, — literally a buried treasure. Not that he didn't know better, for the first few pages start out on the right key: "Enrico at Atlantic City, 1910," "Enrico in Salsomaggiore, 1910," "With Georgette Cohan (daughter of George Cohan) and Mrs. Shubart in Vienna." Here the date was left off, then Salsomaggiore (Italy) was shortened to "Salso" and after that names and dates disappeared.

I blame the traditional black photo album pages for a good part of this identification failure. It was, . . . and is, . . . too much of a nuisance to get, and write, in the proper kind of white ink. There's no reason why album pages shouldn't be light enough to take standard inks or pencil. But the important thing is to write dates, names and comments immediately, while it is fresh in your memory. Do it on the white margin of the photos, if necessary. But do it!

Of course, all album pictures should be properly fixed and washed. The average is good in the Caruso album. Out of the 350 photos, about a dozen show objectionable fading and another dozen show slight fading. There are some natural sepia prints and some that look like old time printing-out paper.

Some thought was given to picture layout in this album, making it appear neat, but some unobjectionable fading and events seem to be scrambled together. Evidently, when Caruso received a batch of photos, perhaps from various sources, they went in the album as a group. The prints were mounted with paste, buckling the pages and prints slightly, but they are down firmly.

Today, albums are available which permit later adjustment without damage. Some have acetate pages and the pictures aren't pasted at all, just slipped in. There's an insert album, with windows on the pages in which proper size prints are inserted. For permanent pasting, there's rubber cement and dry mount tissue.

For a good album, you must be ruthless with inferior pictures. Eliminate them or hide them in a box and see how quickly they become unnecessary. Be selective. In a series of look-alikes, use just the best one or two unless the series tells a running story. Use variety in size by enlarging the best negative of a group, or even a portion of a negative to add interest to picture layout. Don't crowd pictures, if they need air, too.

Thank you, Mr. Caruso; it was nice seeing you. I hope some one can say the same about us 30, 40 years from now.

Man, Planning Own Funeral, Does Not Take Offers Of Marriage Too Seriously

ZOO'S BOSS — Pretty Julie Allen, above, holds a rare job for a young woman. She's director of the Miami, Fla., Crandon Park Zoo. In addition, she performs a lion-taming act, using only a whip and a stick in a cage full of snarling beasts.

BURLINGTON, Colo. — (AP) — threatening to "mess up my plans" this year, he said. "I put a notice in the paper that I was going to have a service June 1," he explained. "So what do they do, but they schedule the dedication of this dam for that day!"

The dam is Bonny dam, a reclamation bureau project. "I suppose I'll have to put my services off for a week on account of this," he said. "It would serve them right, though, if I went ahead with my plans and took the crowd away from them." Since last year's "services" Jim says he has had 315 letters from women all over the world — some of them "hinting strongly" at marriage.

"Not bad for a man almost 75 years old, eh?" he boasted. "Some of them sent pictures which didn't look bad at all." But he added, "I'm not taking any of them too seriously."

He keeps himself busy "just putting around" and talking to all the people who come along and hint that they'd like to see the casket which is stored in the basement.

"Generally I tell them that if they weren't interested enough to show up at my funeral," he said, "they're not going to get the chance till I run another service."

Public, Private Power Groups May Agree On System

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Public and private power groups in Arkansas, Louisiana and other Southwestern states may soon agree on an integrated power system for the area. Rep. Norrell (D-Ark) said yesterday.

He said the Southwestern Power Administration, a public power agency, and 12 private power companies have "tentatively agreed" on a contract, now under consideration by Secretary of the Interior Chapman.

Norrell is chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee handling Interior Department matters.

The proposed contract, Norrell said, would be along the lines of the so-called Texas and Oklahoma contracts under which private and public power groups in those states reached agreement for an integrated power pool.

The area involved would be all of Arkansas and Louisiana, Southern Missouri, Southern Kansas, and parts of Eastern Oklahoma and Eastern Texas.

Stabile Signs Again With Martin, Lewis

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Dick Stabile, who has been beaten, bruised and abused by Martin and Lewis for three years, has signed on for another seven years of punishment.
 Bandleader Stabile is a rugged 200-pounder who looks as though he could take care of himself in any situation. That's an essential for his job with Martin and Lewis, who can be expected to do the unexpected.
 "Oh, I take a beating, all right," sighed the musician. "One of their favorite tricks is to get on opposite sides of the stage, run and jump on me and try to hold on. Now Dean is 175 pounds and built solid. Jerry is 145 and very wiry. When you get a couple of guys like that flying at you, you've got to be able to take it. Thank heaven I've got my health."
 Stabile discovered another favorite Martin and Lewis trick at a New York night club when he was playing "The Man I Love," which has long been his star solo on the sax. He was doing the number in the spotlight when the two comics assaulted him. They poured water over his head, whiskey in his sax, slashed his tuxedo, ripped his $20 shirt.
 "I didn't know what to do, so I kept on playing," said Stabile. "It was so funny that we kept the routine in the act." But he added that Martin and Lewis now get the bills for the ruined clothing.

IT'S A "MERCY BOMB"—Maj. Robert L. Holsomback, left, of Houston, Tex., and Sgt. Walter C. Minize of Vallejo, Calif., show the make-up of their "mercy bomb," a sort of "airborne St. Bernard" that they planned and built at an air base in Korea. The shell is an obsolete napalm tank, painted yellow and red, for easier visibility. Contents include heavy clothing, a carbine, water-purifying tablets, a first-aid kit, food for three days, a portable stove, a sleeping bag, radio and various other emergency needs. The tank is designed to be fastened underneath a rescue plane and dropped at very low altitude to downed airmen, stranded or cut-off G.I's.

U. S. Businessmen, Taxpayers Get Look At What Financial Crisis In Britain Will Cost

NEW YORK — (AP) — American businessmen and taxpayers are getting a first look at what the latest British financial crisis is likely to cost them.
 A number of American industries will lose a sizable part of their business in countries the sterling bloc controls. Even more American industries are going to find an increased volume of British and commonwealth goods competing in world markets with American goods.
 American money is being sent to the aid of the British—some 200 million dollars in the form of a grant; 32 million dollars to buy British rubber for the U.S. stockpile; 64 million dollars to buy British tin for American consumers. More millions may be spent later for Australian wool and British-controlled aluminum.
 And American steel mills are to find one million tons of steel to send to Britain for fabrication into arms and durable civilian goods for the British to sell in the world market.
 The first stories of these deals—to bolster an important American ally which is admittedly in financial straits—are coming out of London and Washington. More are to follow quickly from the British commonwealth nations.
 South Africa is expected to cut off a large part of its market from American goods soon. Last year it imported 250 million dollars worth of American goods and sold us only 98 million dollars worth. South Africa has an annual production of 400 million dollars worth of gold, and out of that it sold enough to us to make up the trade deficit.
 The South African government is now expected to cut back American imports to a balance with exports to us, and use all of its 400 million dollars of gold for trade with other British commonwealth nations. American businessmen will feel that loss of market to a tune of perhaps 150 million dollars a year.
 England itself will import seven million dollars less of American coal this year than last.

In 1950 Britain paid 145 billion for American tobacco. That is to be trimmed substantially this year. When its pact with the American film industry expires in September, Britain plans to cut sharply the 25 million dollars it pays a year for American movies.
 American manufacturers of clothing, furniture, carpets, shoes and toys are on notice that Britain will import fewer of them this year. It's going to buy fewer foreign meats, fish, fruit and vegetables.
 American manufacturers of cars, refrigerators, radio and TV sets, and other "real consumer" goods are on notice that Britain this year will export a larger percentage of its output of these items into the world markets in search of gold and dollars. The Britons themselves will get only two-thirds as much of these things as they did last year.
 The money deals between London and Washington—perhaps worked out during Prime Minister Churchill's visit to President Truman—will help some in tidying Britain over. Her gold and dollar reserves dropped 1.2 billion dollars in the last six months of 1950 to stand now at $2,385,000,000. American money grants and purchases of tin and rubber will help.
 But Britain puts most faith in getting out of the mess by buying less from the dollar area, and selling more in world markets. American businessmen will have to revise their foreign trade schedules.

Coffee Break Brings Cheer To Worker—Money To Business

NEW YORK — (AP) — Coffee and tea breaks bring cheer to workers and money to business.

The Pan-American Coffee Bureau is as happy as anything to day over what it considers evidence that "the coffee break" custom is spreading fast in factories and offices.

take an afternoon break for tea. And the soft drink men, as well as those peddling tea and coffee, are putting as many vending machines into business places as they can.

The coffee break is distinct from the coffee sneak, which has long been popular. The sneak is the more or less winked-at custom of running over to the soda fountain across the street. The break is the formal time-out at the desk or within ear-shot of the phone.

When the Mutual Life Insurance Co., counted noses of its New York City employees leaving the office for a daily cup of coffee or tea, or a glass of coke or juice, it found that about 900 of its 2,900 office workers took a coffee sneak each day.

At 15 minutes each this added up to 12,600 working minutes daily, or a labor cost of $129,000 a year, the company says. Now it wheels eight carts into the offices and serves the "second breakfast" of a hot drink and pastry at the workers' desks.

Even higher prices haven't quenched the office or factory workers' thirst for a non-intoxicating pick-up, according to men in the business. The National Coffee Assn. in a preliminary estimate, says today that last year more than 2 1/2 billion pounds of coffee were imported into this country. This was about 200 million pounds more than the year before.

The tea bureau reports tea imports of more than 84 million pounds last year. This was down from 1950's booming total of 113 million pounds, the bureau says, because there was scare buying in 1950 when the West feared the Reds would cut off the tea-growing areas. But the tea bureau says that the retail sales are currently on the upgrade.

The Pan-American Coffee Bureau announced today a coffee-break survey of 1,160 companies, of all sizes, in 48 states. The bureau says that about 80 percent of the firms it sampled started regular time-out sessions during the last two years. More than a third of these started the formal breaks since the end of World War II.

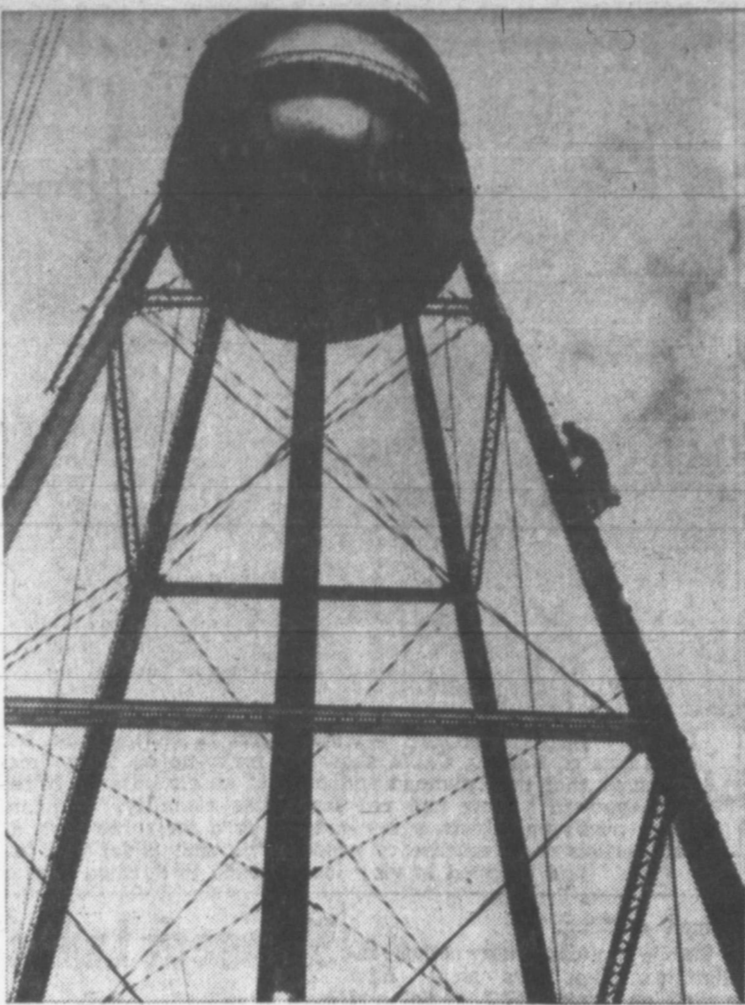

The bureau claims fine results — for the companies as well as for the coffee-producing firms the bureau represents. The bureau says the survey shows these findings, as reported by the companies responding to its queries:

Productivity increased in 62 percent of the firms establishing a formal time-out for refreshment. Morale improvement was reported by 75 percent of the companies.

Employee fatigue is down, according to 82 percent of the reporting companies. The accident rate is down, say 32 percent of the firms. Twenty-one percent notes drops in labor turnover; 25 percent see a reduction in waste; and 12 percent a lowered absentee rate.

Union contracts calling for refreshment breaks are reported by 22 percent of the firms, while 78 percent say they adopted the breaks as strictly a management policy.

Old Jalopy Might Make Grade At New Fangled Inspection

AUSTIN — (AP) — Crank up that rattling old jalopy, pop. It might get by that new fangled auto inspection after all.

Not having a windshield won't keep it from passing under the new liberalized regulations issued.

For all cars, they will mean faster inspections and fewer regulations. Department of Public Safety Director Homer Garrison promises.

The revisions were made public by Gov. Allan Shivers to whom they had been submitted by the State Public Safety commission. The governor had suggested the regulations to make the inspection law workable or recommend to the legislature that it be repeated or revised.

"It now appears that the inspection requirements have been reduced to a minimum," he said, "and if a car will roll it should pass the inspection."

He called for the cooperation of the inspection stations, enforcement officers and the general public to make the law work as "a real safety measure and a means of saving lives."

Page after page of the former stringent requirements were struck from the inspection manual by the terse two-page revision order.

It cancelled requirements that would have caused rejection of a vehicle if brake linings were worn more than 6 percent, headlamp lenses and reflectors did not match, windshield had more than one crack radiating from a single point, the tailpipe was pinched, or the horn not firmly mounted and properly grounded.

In their place were regulations requiring, for the most part, that safety devices function properly at the time of inspection.

Public Safety Commission Chairman Roxie H. Thompson said the sweeping changes, however, did not alter intent of the law, which he said was designed to "reduce deaths, injuries and destruction of properties by dangerous and mechanically unsafe motor vehicles."

"We believe the objections that have been made will be minimized by the amended regulations after ample time has been given to put the program into operation," he said.

Sen. John Bell of Cuero and Rep. Jerry A. Stewart of Fairfield, sponsors of the act in the legislature, assisted the commission and Col. Garrison in drawing up the revisions. The changes came after irate car owners and legislators over the state complained of long inspection lines and big repair bills necessary to get a car by the old requirements.

Briefly, these are the major requirements for passing the inspection as newly revised:

Brakes must be equalized and must stop the vehicle in 30 feet at 20 miles per hour if four-wheel brakes or in 40 feet at 20 miles per hour if brakes not on all wheels.

Headlights must burn on both high and low beam and be of at least 350 candlepower.

One red tail lamp and a white light illuminating the rear license plate are required on every vehicle.

Stop lights are required on all cars sold new after Jan. 1, 1949. Horn must be audible at 230 feet.

Steering wheel must have not more than four inches free motion.

Wheel alignment will be rejected if front wheels have side-slip or scuff in excess of 30 feet per mile.

Windshields must have no serious discoloration, cracks, or breaks that seriously affect driver vision. No windshield is a cause for rejection.

No stickers will be permitted on windshields except those installed for identification purposes, such as military "tailgate" parking lots and the like. These must be in the lower right hand corner of the windshield.

"Handicapped veteran" stickers are permitted in the extreme upper right hand corner of the windshield.

Can't See Sense In Buying Costly Luggage To Cover Up

By HENRY McLEMORE

PARIS — Busy Thoughts of an Idle Fellow: Ever since I started traveling I've wondered why rich people buy expensive luggage and cover it with canvas or corduroy or some other fairly cheap material. It doesn't make any sense to me. Let me be able to afford a beautiful alligator suitcase and you can bet your boots that I'll show it off.

If you are going to buy costly luggage, why strap it up like four pounds of hamburger? The next time I come abroad, I'm going to buy me some luggage made of wicker or cardboard and case it in seven or eight dollars worth of corduroy, and impress every hall porter and bellhop in Europe.

Managers, porters and bellhops are just as phony over here as they are in the United States. By and large, their welcome is based on appearance. In short, why cover a lizard two-suitcase with an old bedspread? There must be a reason, but until now I haven't figured it out.

If I were the sort of man who wanted a big statue, I'd forsake all professions but the military. In my travels around the globe I have found that the most majestic statues and the most impressive tombs were built in honor of men who led armies.

Most generals, field marshals, and men who hold batons, die in bed, but most of the men they lead don't. This is no knock at Paris, because the largest mausoleum in New York contains the remains of General Grant, and the prancingest statue in ups were tired on the sight-seeing bus, but we wouldn't admit it. Four hours of getting in and out had worn us down. The bus pulled up in front of Notre Dame, and the little nine-year-old girl with patent leather pumps and little blue sailor hat spoke for us all. She turned to her mother, as the guide stepped out to lead us, and said, "Mommy, are we going into another building? Couldn't we go home now? I think we've seen this building before."

Mommy said, "No, no. Come along, Betsy." And Betsy went along, but she didn't go willingly. She snuggled under Mama's fur coat, and jumped up and down every once in a while to warm her feet on the tiles of Notre-Dame—which have not felt heat for more than a decade. I'll never see Betsy again, but I can tell Betsy something. That cold, gray day in Notre Dame will stay with her all her life.

Veteran's Letter Gives Idea Of Life On Korean War Front

CANADIAN — (Special) — A recent letter from Lt. James H. Tucker, a counterintelligence officer in Korea, is quite enlightening as to everyday conditions on the fighting line when things are comparatively quiet.

The letter, written on Christmas Day to his wife, the former Frieda Zybach of Canadian, tells how the lieutenant and a fellow officer, Lt. Fred P. Senker of Tulsa, laboriously celled their bunker with empty ammunition boxes and . . . "now the rats have moved in behind the boxes. Sgt. Clark has already bayoneted three of them by binding them with a flashlight when they come and the prancingest statue in

As to making the enemy "stay down" he says, "we have adopted the motto, 'One day keeps the rifle platoons away,' meaning that each team tries to locate at least one enemy emplacement and have it silenced by our own fire."

In telling more about how they spent Christmas Day, Tucker wrote, "Lt. Senker woke up scrambling about it having been the night before Christmas and that he didn't even get undressed, so we hauled off and wrote a poem. He got it started, but I am to blame for most of it."

Judge Advises Showgirl: 'Get Old Time Religion'

Describing himself as "old Justice James B. McNally's enough to be your father," the capsule survey of showgirl Rosemary Williamson's 13 months as the woman in the life of textile salesman Sidney M. Levy. McNally awarded the beautiful 22-year-old brunette $2,500 in insurance on a stolen fur coat and diamond ring. But along with the award he gave her a stern lecture, telling her she didn't deserve a cent and that she "better get some of that oldtime religion."

Levy, whom Rosemary once called a "creep," was not in court to see his one-time Broadway flame copiously at the judge's remand.

An insurance company had a contested a $3,850 claim by the showgirl, on the ground that two stolen items were part of the $28,000 gifts he 27-year-old Levy lavished on her with money she swindled on a fake business deal.

The judge said the insurance company must pay her because you are assigned to protect a man you never intended to marry?"

Asked the judge: "How can insurance premiums were paid up, and therefore the company was liable."

Then McNally started scolding: "There can be no doubt that those Miss Williamson knew the funds were not honestly come by and, nevertheless, she took them and used them for her own aggran-

In closing his letter the lieutenant wrote, "You could understand this being corny and slightly disconnected if you knew slightly disconnected if you knew how much disturbance there has been this morning. # Oilers Announce Purchase Of Two Pitchers

Four Players Are Inked In Two Days

The Pampa Oilers late yesterday announced the obtaining of two more hurlers to nearly complete their pitching staff for the 1952 season. Yesterday morning business manager Ivy Griffin announced the obtaining of a pitcher, Max Milberg, and rookie shortstop, Norman Aulbach.

The two new hurlers, both righthanders, came from Augusta, Ga., of the Sally League, where Griffin was manager last season. One, Juan Montero, is a Cuban, 23 years old, and considered a fine relief hurler. Last year he won 14 and lost 12.

The other righthander, William Bohne, is 28 years old. He came to Augusta late in the 1951 season, from St. Petersburg, Fla. The short while he was with Griffin last year he won four and lost two.

The addition of the three new hurlers, plus three veterans who over from last season, Mack Hyde, George Payte and Clyde Baldwin, form the nucleus of a good, strong mound staff supported by a couple of rookie moundmen.

The present league ruling permits but five veterans on a club, but that is expected to be changed, over protest, at the league meeting on the weekend of Feb. 9-10 at Lubbock.

Board OK's Miller Moves

DALLAS — (AP) — Board of directors of the Dallas Texans, professional football team of the National Football League, voted unanimously yesterday to ratify the contract by which Giles Miller purchased the former New York Yankee franchise.

They were acting to confirm activities of Miller who is conferring with pro football officials in New York and Philadelphia.

Also voted unanimously was a change of the club's name from Texas Rangers to Dallas Texans.

Board member Curtis Sanford said the change was made in keeping with recommendations of NFL Commissioner Bert Bell and to better identify the club with Dallas.

Sanford said Miller was also authorized by the board to interview prospective business managers and to make recommendations to the board.

Frick Getting Accustomed To New Position Of High Commissioner; Plans Coast Trip

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — (AP) — The new high commissioner of baseball, Ford Frick, has been eating out about five nights a week since the annual banquet season set in, and he claims he hasn't said he loves baseball even once.

"In fact, I don't make much of a speech any place," says the man who now rules the destinies of some 8,600 ball players. "Most of the time I just meet a lot of people and shake a lot of hands. Only way you can keep it up, I've found, is to eat a good meal beforehand, though I must say the food has been pretty good this winter."

This is to report that Frick, who didn't much want the big job to begin with, has settled very nicely into the commissioner's chair. He liked being National League president, but has resigned himself to the larger responsibilities of the new office.

"What the heck," he said, "I've leafed tentatively through a three-inch stack of official business, 'a job's a job.'"

He did not mean to disparage a $65,000-a-year position, exactly, but merely to let you know that he saw nothing especially overwhelming about it. The office has not always had this effect upon its occupant.

The Rockefeller finally found a large hunk of unused floor space in one of their Rockefeller Center buildings and have the decorators whipping it into shape for Frick's new headquarters. He expects to move in in a couple of weeks. A great deal of room is required to house the commissioner's staff, together with the bales and boxes of baseball impedimenta which were shipped here from Cincinnati.

"I'm going to concern myself mainly with the minor leagues this spring," Frick said. "I'm not so much interested in the big leagues right now. I expect to go down to Tampa around February 20 and hire a car for a series of one-night stands in the Florida camps, and then I'll take off for the west coast."

"Don't know whether I'll even stop off in Arizona. I'm especially anxious to be with the coast league clubs when they start off with this new classification of theirs. I want to visit each city in the league, probably starting with Portland, and see how they are making out."

Under the Coast League's new deal, it may be well to explain, a player may sign a contract, if he wishes, which will make it impossible for the big leagues to draft him. It is the coast loop's first, hopeful stab at establishing itself as a sort of apprentice major league.

"It will just be a question of their offering each player enough money to induce him to sign such a contract," Frick said. "Of course, there can be no such thing as a salary limit under the plan. And the contract will hold good only for one year. The player who waives his right to be drafted will have to agree to the clause again at the start of each season."

The commissioner gives no indication what he thinks of the plan. He simply wishes to be around at the kickoff.

He owns to no other pressing problems at the moment and appears to feel that the great national pastime is, on the whole, in pretty good shape. He doesn't seem to be investigating anybody in particular. At least, not a single former FBI operative was sighted during a rather lengthy visit to ball headquarters. You wouldn't know the old place.

Hogan Happy In California Sun

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — (AP) — Ben Hogan is basking today in the California desert sun that lured him away from Texas.

He's taken up his new job as golf pro at the Tamarisk Country club and he's bubbling with enthusiasm, in this way:

"Take a look at those beautiful palm and date trees. And look at those snow-covered mountains yonder. What's the name of them? (The San Jacinto range.)"

"Why, one can play golf here and pick off a ripe orange between fairway shots. That's for me!"

His wife, Valerie, grinned and obviously agreed. It appears that life is good, indeed, for the little man who was nearly killed in an automobile crash two years ago, then made his great golf comeback to win the National Open and PGA tourneys last year.

The Tamarisk layout is eight miles southeast of Palm Springs. It will measure 7,100 yards from the long tees, with par of 36-38.

A grand opening is planned for Feb. 22 and in April construction will begin on a $250,000 clubhouse. Headquarters now are the adjoining Wonder Palm Hotel.

Hogan, now playing in only a few tournaments a year, was asked whether, being this close to Los Angeles, he would play in the next Los Angeles Open a year hence.

"Maybe I will," he said.

FOUND OFFICE SPACE

He did not mean to disparage a $65,000-a-year position, exactly, but merely to let you know that he saw nothing especially overwhelming about it. The office has not always had this effect upon its occupant.

The Rockefeller finally found a large hunk of unused floor space in one of their Rockefeller Center buildings and have the decorators whipping it into shape for Frick's new headquarters. He expects to move in in a couple of weeks. A great deal of room is required to house the commissioner's staff, together with the bales and boxes of baseball impedimenta which were shipped here from Cincinnati.

Henry Disposes Of Bob Satterfield

CHICAGO — (AP) — What Clarence Henry wants to know is — "where do I go from here?"

The sensational 23-year-old Los Angeles heavyweight disposed of Bob Satterfield in the first round in last night's scheduled 10 rounder in Chicago Stadium.

Henry, the third ranking contender for Jersey Joe Walcott's crown, was like a cyclone in action as he belted down the union predictable Satterfield three times, once with a right and twice with jarring left hooks.

Referee Freddie Gilmore finally stopped it after Satterfield arose shakily from the canvas for the third time, blood streaming from a gash over his left eye and Henry jogged in for more blasting.

It was young Henry's 14th consecutive win and his 17th knockout in 32 pro fights. He weighed 187 and Satterfield 180.

"I want to fight Rocky Marciano," said Henry, a 1948 Golden Gloves champion. "But where do I go from here — I do not know."

He meant that he will have to get on Walcott's waiting list, behind Ezzard Charles and Marciano.

He had everything to lose and really little to gain in his Satterfield bout which was televised nationally and attracted 5,880 fans. The gross gate was $23,032 and the net $17,717.

Irish B Team Drops Second

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Coach Clarence Morris' B team lost its second battle in nine starts at Canadian Tuesday afternoon, dropping the conflict 42-38 in the waning moments.

Bill Parks rattled the nets for 16 points, as did Lee Roy Parsons, to pace the Irish in attack. Jimmy Smith got nine, but the Irish faded in the last four minutes.

Shamrock's B got off to a 15-12 quarter lead and widened it to 27-14 at the intermission. In the third canto they still had a nine point lead, 33-24, but the tough Canadians whipped in 13 points in the final canto to overtake and pass the Irish B.

H. White poured in 13 points for the Canadians, as Morris' crew suddenly felt the lash of 14 quick points in a four-minute interval.

Morris' crew won its first seven straight, including the Alantreed B tourney, but have missed Malcolm Parsons in the last battles. He moved up to bolster McCall's A team.

Irish Dispose Of McLean Again

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Irish basketballers disposed of the McLean Tigers, 33-26, here Tuesday night, but knew they were in a scrap before they won.

Coach McCall's Irish took an early 3-0 lead on a field goal and free shot by Malcolm Parsons, freshman up from the B squad, but the McLeans came back to knot the count at 5-5 when the first canto ended.

Shamrock held a 12-8 margin at the half, but in the third quarter the Irish began to pull away. They held a 24-13 lead going into the fourth stanza, largely on baskets by big Bill Harris, 235-pound ex-grid star.

Shamrock stayed with McLean, basket for basket, as the Tigers hit for eight points and the Irish for nine in the final quarter.

PERKINS LEADS

Norrell Perkins, Irish guard, hit four field goals and two charity tosses to pace the Irish with 10 points. Harris had eight.

It was the second triumph for the Irish, who racked up the 43-42.

Irish Lassies took another drubbing from the Tigerettes, 25-20, as Coach Don Leach held out his ace forwards, Bonita Bailey and Sue Lively.

Looking totally unlike the crew that held the mighty Tigerettes to a 38-42 in the Canadian tourney, Shamrock found the going tough, although they were behind only 7-5 at the quarter. A last quarter flurry failed to overtake the Tigerettes.

McCall's girls were without the services of Jennie Ford, regular guard, and Madeline Griffin, regular forward. Jane Grimsley and Betty Flowers played instead, and then Molly Myfield, regular guard, fouled off in the third.

Carolyn Dodgen led Irish scoring with nine points. Mary Setzer had seven.

Lamar Tech Top Scorer Called

BEAUMONT — (AP) — Lamar Tech's little Marvin Willis, basketball ace, has been ordered to report to the armed forces Feb. 15 for induction.

Willis is the fourth-ranking scorer in the Lone Star Conference. His loss is expected to weaken considerably the Lamar quintet, making its first year in four-year college competition.

Liver Malady Hits New High

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — Public health officers are apprehensively watching the worst outbreak of hepatitis (liver inflammation) in the history of the United States.

The epidemic is among children in the Navajo Indian school at Tuba City, Ariz. Of 400 children, more than 300 have the disease. It is not often fatal, but its cure is known and it is capable of spreading far and wide.

In Tuba City the disease was first diagnosed as flu, a common mistake. It was not recognized as hepatitis until an Indian girl died in November. The disease spreads from person to person and also in water and food. The health authorities say an outbreak of the Tuba City size might spread the infection in Arizona and New Mexico.

This form of hepatitis occurs all over the world. The outbreaks are sporadic. Union forces had it in the Civil war and American troops had it in the Pacific and in other parts of the world in World War II.

Top Scorers In Nation Bunched

NEW YORK — (AP) — The first three basketball scorers among the small colleges are separated by just three-tenths of a percentage point, according to figures released today by the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau.

Harm Hoffman of Brooklyn Poly, who has not played for two weeks because of exams, still heads the parade with an average of 27.6. But he's followed closely by John O'Brien of Seattle, with 26.8 and Earl Wentzel of Penn Military with 26.7. The figures include games through last Saturday.

Italian Exports Drop About Ten Percent

ROME — (AP) — Italy's exports of fruits and vegetables in 1951 dropped about 10 percent below the totals of the previous year, according to preliminary reports.

Up to Nov. 30, 109,260 carloads of fruits and vegetables were exported. In 1950 the total was 125,273 carloads.

Import restriction in West Germany and Britain due to foreign exchange difficulties was one of the factors in the decrease, the financial newspaper, "24 Ore," reported. Another was the increased competition for these same two markets from Spain, France, French North Africa, and Holland. A third factor was Italy's poor peach and apricot crops.

Air Chief Claims Russia Building Long Range Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of the U. S. Air Force, said Russia is putting "a vast effort" behind building her long-range bomber force.

In an interview in Aviation Age, a trade and technical magazine, Vandenberg also said nothing has yet been developed, or is in sight, in the form of guided missiles to entirely replace piloted aircraft.

Vandenberg said that while Russia's known designs in long-range bombers "appear to have lagged behind our own," the Russians have displayed a bomber larger than the B-29 but smaller than the B-36.

This bomber could have a radius of action extending from Soviet bases deep into the United States, he said.

"THE LAST SUPPER" RE-CREATED—New York artist Lumen Winter puts the finishing touches on an immense painting to which he devoted many years' research — an exact-scale re-creation of Leonardo DaVinci's masterpiece, "The Last Supper." Winter's work, only one in the world painted to the full scale of the original, about 14 1/2 by 28 feet, was done on commission for the Holton Museum of Miami, Fla. Much of the preliminary work was done in Milan, Italy, birthplace of DaVinci, where Winter talked about the work with leading Italian artists and church dignitaries, including an audience with Pope Pius XII.

Fabulously Rich Indian Ruler Lives A Life Of Frugality

days are numbered in more ways than one, the fabulously rich Nizam of Hyderabad still doesn't seem interested in getting any fun out of his fortune.

The 65-year-old Nizam, whose riches run over two billion dollars, lost his ruling power along with all other princes after Prime Minister Nehru took over the government of independent India.

Now the Indian Communists cry out from their village strongholds in Southeast Hyderabad that the Nizam's gold must go, too.

"He's nothing but a miser, always collecting, never giving away," commented Hyderabad chief minister M. K. Velodi. "Just the same as the old days."

His exalted highness Mir Mohamed Osman Ali Khan, wizened 5-foot husband of an estimated 71 wives, has not been out of Hyderabad state since 1936 — and never beyond the boundaries of India.

Unlike many Indian Rajas and Nawabs, who sport the most up-to-date American convertibles, this Nawab No. 1 roars majestically down Hyderabad streets in his vintage '33 Chevrolet.

The story goes that the Nizam wears one ancient suit, reclining in his bath while servants perform necessary washing or patching. This cuts down laundry bills. One prominent Hyderabad official insists that the Nizam has been wearing the same pair of socks each time he has seen him in the past two years.

"Oldtime Hyderabad residents say they have observed the Nizam in his familiar red fez and high-buttoned 'sherwani,' or longcoat, haggling in the bazaar over the price of mangoes.

Conservative estimates place the value of the Nizam's gold and diamonds at 250 million dollars. His exalted highness himself sets his personal wealth in bullion, investments and real estate at this sum, declining to estimate the worth of his jewelry, which includes the famed Jacob Diamond, Chief Minister Velodi declared.

"He doesn't tell us the half of it," said Velodi wryly. "And of course, trying to put money value on that incredible collection of gems doesn't get you far."

Informed guesses on the jewelry range from 500 million dollars to well over two billion dollars, depending on valuations.

Land holdings of 7000 square miles, which once brought the Nizam annual income exceeding six million dollars, have now been taken over by the Hyderabad government, Velodi stated. But the government will pay "compensation" of a million dollars each year until the Nizam dies.

The Nizam also receives an annual privy purse of a million dollars from the Indian government. Nehru's deputy prime minister, Sardar Patel, granted this concession after the Nizam capitulated to the Indian army in 1948 and abandoned his dream of a sovereign Hyderabad surrounded by territory of the new Indian nation. The Nizam was the last hold-out among the major princes in joining the Indian union.

Many of his privileges remain. Within the confines of Hyderabad he still gets the 21-gun salute on important occasions, an honor tradition has conferred only on the Maharajahs of Baroda, Gwalior, Mysore and formerly Kashmir.

He continues to maintain six elegant palaces in his state as well as a "Hyderabad house," for traveling members of his family, in Calcutta, Delhi, Bombay, Madras, and elsewhere. His own palace in Hyderabad city, however, is in reality a modest bungalow behind palace compound walls.

Helping the Nizam with his public and private responsibilities is a secretariat of 60 aides. The palace guard of 1000-odd "watchmen" is not armed, Velodi stated. "After all, we can't have private armies any more."

Today as always the big moment of the Nizam's — and Hyderabad's — day comes when he makes his punctual dusk visit to the grave of his mother, Hyderabad police line the Nizam's route, signaling ahead with shrill whistles on the approach of the royal jalopy. Citizens scatter to the sidewalks and watch the Nizam's motorcycle escort whiz by, then the curtained Chevrolet touring car.

It was his mother's Hindu birth which won the Nizam his crown in 1911.

Last of his line, the Nizam ends a dynasty started by Asaf Jah the First, shortly after 1700. Muslim Asaf Jah solemnly accepted a Hindu pandit's reading of the Use Your Powder Puff Carefully. By ALICIA HART, NEA Beauty Editor. How would you rate your powder-puff technique? Are you a woman who favors a series of dusty dabblings, or is "touch and go" good enough for you? Actually, the way you wield your puff can make the difference between a smooth-looking long-lasting make-up, and one that isn't the least bit flattering. Since your first aim should be to pick a shade of powder that blends with your skin tone, test for color by applying a small amount of the powder to the inside of your arm, just above your wrist. To insure a clean, fresh puff every day, keep a box of cotton balls on your dressing table. Then, just before you make-up, you can place one in your compact, and one in your powder box. Press the puff across your forehead, and twice across the cheeks and nose. Don't forget your chin and neck, either. Only a well-powdered puff will give your make-up a smooth mat-finish. After you have completed the application, remove any excess powder by brushing over your skin with a crumpled-cleaning tissue or make-up brush. Rid your eyebrows of any specks of powder that might have remained, brush them first against the grain, and then smooth back. Try never to be guilty of a too-powdered look. The more dramatic shade you might apply in the evening, for instance, would appear extremely garish by day. When you see your powder-application starting to wear thin, for cleanliness and beauty's sake, don't patch. Take the time to remove and replace the old make-up with a new fresh application. An average of 125 automobiles daily cross the border into Mexico at Laredo, Tex.

A wife stores up the day's small frustrations to unload on the husband as soon as he gets home at night, instead of storing up cheerful and funny little incidents to share with him. A husband takes out his office annoyances on his family, hunting for things to find fault with at home whenever things didn't go well at the office. A family is living so far beyond its means that the comfort and enjoyment they get out of the things they buy isn't enough to make up for the worry over how they are going to be paid for. Children are allowed to get into the habit of almost constant quarreling and bickering and are from annoying him. Father doesn't want to be bothered with the children and expects Mama not only to take full charge of them, but to keep them from annoying him. There is seldom any fun activity in which the whole family can take part. Mom doesn't know how to relax and can always think up odd jobs for the members of the family who do. Husband and wife get into violent arguments in front of the children. Members of the family take delight in low-rating each other, instead of taking pride in each other. One parent corrects a child and the other parent interferes.

Beauty After Forty

"Is it possible really to grow hair on an almost bald spot caused by a burn? My hair is otherwise good but dry. —Mrs. Forty-eight." No preparation, applied to the scalp, grows hair, but the stimulation of the circulation, plus the massage when applying any hair preparation, does help. You should use an ointment for dry hair, all over the scalp and massage it thoroughly. You should also brush your hair vigorously, upward and outward. Scar tissue is difficult to treat locally. You should have a hair specialist diagnose your prospects of ever growing hair on the spot. Work out a hair style which will conceal the injury. "Should I keep on my evening wrap at a large reception in a hotel?—My escort and I plan to stay for half an hour.—Merry Widow." Hotels provide checkroom service near the room where the entertainment is taking place so it is expected that you will remove and check your wrap. Your escort will do the same. To avoid confusion and waiting for other arrivals, you can check your wraps in the checkroom in the main lobby. "I am 45, blonde hair going gray, no wrinkles yet. Do you think it would make me look older if I tinted my hair in its original gold-blond shade?—Career Woman." If you dislike gray hair, why have it? There are so many easy ways to tint hair I advise choosing a silvery-blond shade for real beauty-comingness. The golden blonde will not look natural now and will point up any signs of age. "As a really old grandma, should I attend my great grandchild's wedding in a wheelchair?—Grandma." Of course you should! The wedding will be all the more wonderful because of your presence. Look as pretty as you can and have a good time!

Corsages of yellow daffodils tied with blue ribbon were presented to the honoree, Mrs. L. B. Haggard and Mrs. George Ingram. Refreshments of punch, cookies and small sandwiches were served. Some 60 guests called or sent gifts during the evening.

Solons Begin Drive For More Eating Places

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Hungry congressmen, frustrated in wangling a meal either for or from their constituents at the Capitol, were urged by Rep. Clare Hoffman to join his drive for more eating space.

"One-third of this Congress is ill-fed, ill-served and getting pretty impatient," the peppery Michigan Republican declared in introducing his chow-for-Congress resolution.

"The way to a constituent's heart is through his stomach, but somebody sure has misplaced the road map at the Capitol."

Hoffman needed seven whereas clauses to list what he considered the short points of the present feeding facilities for House members. These consist of a dining room and short-order counter at the Capitol, and a cafeteria in the House office building.

The nub of his complaint was that people who come to Washington to see their representatives in action can't eat in the House restaurant unless accompanied by a congressman, and the place is so crowded at lunch time there isn't any room for the legislators to entertain them anyway.

"I will have to admit that, even if they got in, some of the constituents probably would be unable to work up much of an appetite looking at their congressman," Hoffman said. "Nevertheless it is up to us to give these taxpayers a fair chance for a square meal. The day of the full dinner pail must and shall return."

Hoffman has a choice spot picked out for the second section of the congressional diner — on the west side of the Capitol, overlooking the White House and Washington monument. He's open to suggestions as to a name. "Sam's Place, honoring Speaker Rayburn?" "No," the Republican member said firmly. "The Cave of the Winds? Likewise rejected. 'That's up on the House floor.'"

He is strongly opposed to incorporating a bar in the new grill.

"People get dizzy enough listening to the talk in the House," he said.

Math Teacher With Record Claims Board Was Unjust

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — A junior high school math teacher said he thought board of education officials did him an injustice by forcing him to resign his position.

The board discovered that teacher Andrew Jack Hatcher, 24, was given a two-year suspended sentence for burglary Jan. 15, 1944.

"It's just not justice," said Hatcher. "My past is being held against me just because I got mixed up with a gang of kids when I was 15 and 16. I think I am a better man for it. You can't know about life unless you know both sides of it."

Principal W. A. Graham described Hatcher as a conscientious worker.

Czech Official Is Arrested

VIENNA — (AP) — Rudolf Margolius, acting chief of Czechoslovakia's Foreign Trade ministry, was arrested three weeks ago on charges of treason, the Vienna newspaper "Das Kleine Volksblatt" has reported.

The arrest was made at the time when Austrian trade officials were in Prague negotiating a new trade agreement with the Czech Foreign Trade Dept., the paper said.

The slight turn-in given front wheels of an automobile helps hold the car to the road and makes steering considerably easier.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Herbert Bayard Swope, an intimate friend of the late Robert P. Patterson, says President Truman last month offered the post of U. S. attorney general to Patterson.

But Swope adds that the former secretary of war refused the offer to replace J. Howard McGrath, whose department was ordered investigated by a congressional committee. Patterson, a former federal judge as well as war secretary, was killed in a New Jersey plane crash last week. He was a Republican.

"If by action you mean a stable armistice agreement," he replied, "I would say one of two things: either a sudden voluntary change of heart on the part of the Communists, or the application of sufficient military power to induce such a change of heart."

TWINS TIP SCALES—AND HOW!—Russian-born Mrs. Veronica Jablonski and her Polish husband Josef, of Cleveland, Ohio, have only been in the U. S. for five months, but they're doing all right by their adopted country. Mrs. Jablonski is shown admiring her two husky new citizens for Uncle Sam—19 pounds and five ounces of girl twins. They are the fifth heaviest twins born, according to American Medical Journal records. The proud parents, DP's from Poland, have two other children, boys four and six years old, born in Germany.

Admiral Lynde B. McCormick Named Allied Naval Head

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Admiral Lynde B. McCormick, commander of the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, was named supreme allied Naval commander of the North Atlantic.

As the first boss of a peacetime international fleet, the 56-year-old Navy veteran will direct the sea activities of all nations in the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

He will be on sea what General Dwight D. Eisenhower is on land. The appointment of McCormick was announced simultaneously in Washington and London — by President Truman and by NATO.

McCormick's operations will extend up to but will not include the coastal areas of the British Isles. As his first move after receiving the appointment, McCormick announced the selection of Vice Admiral Sir William Andrewes of Britain, now commander in chief of British-American West Indians station, as his deputy.

Scion of an old seagoing family, McCormick has had long and close associations with the British. He served with the British fleet in World War I and took part in some of the conferences with Great Britain during the second world war.

The way was cleared for the appointment of an American as supreme allied Naval commander during Winston Churchill's visit to Washington earlier this month.

Up to that time, the British Prime Minister had been vigorously opposed to naming an American to the post.

McCormick is an Annapolis graduate, class of 1915. His father was a rear admiral and McCormick himself was born in Annapolis. He was graduated second in a class of 183.

He became chief of Naval operations in 1949 and moved up to commander of the Atlantic fleet last year.

LONDON — (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill said he agreed to an American admiral as supreme commander in the Atlantic only in the interest of unity. He spoke in the House of Commons a few hours after U. S. Admiral Lynde D. McCormick was named to the post.

Churchill said he saw no need for the appointment, but was "confronted with the agreement" made a year ago by Clement Attlee, his predecessor. He asserted:

"I think the method adopted in the last war afforded the most practical foundation for maintaining the traffic across the Atlantic in time of war."

In World War II the United States and Britain ran their own convoys under supervision of the joint chiefs of staff.

Vice Admiral William Gerard Andrewes, named deputy commander, got his first taste of battle as a midshipman aboard cruisers in World War I. He participated in the battle of Jutland during Winston Churchill's visit to against the German fleet. Shortly before World War II he took command of the seaplane carrier, Albatross. From 1940 to 1942 he was assistant director of plans at the Admiralty. He commanded the

Govt. Provides Three Forms; Income Tax Payer Chooses 1

Editor's note: This is the second in a series explaining how to make out your income tax return for 1951.

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — You should have no trouble choosing the form for your 1951 income tax return. There are three forms to pick from.

Form 1040-A. Strictly for under $5,000 income people who have all or most of the tax withheld from them. No figuring. Answer questions. Mail to the collector. He figures the tax for you.

Form 1040 (short form). For under $5000 people who don't fit the rules for using form 1040-A. No figuring. Find your tax in the table on the back. That's why it's called the short form.

Form 1040 (long form). It's the same form 1040 but is called the long form when, instead of using the tax table, you figure your own tax. A person with $5000 or more income has no choice. He must use this long form, figuring his tax.

This 1040 - long form also can be used by any of the under $5000 people whose deductible expenses, such as charitable contributions or medical bills, were unusually large.

Most people's deductible expenses don't amount to 10 percent of the income. Still, anyone using form 1040 - A automatically gets a deduction of 10 percent before the rest of his income is taxable. So, in using form 1040-A, you don't have to itemize a single expense.

But don't use form 1040-A if you're one of those under $5000 people whose deductible expenses were actually more than 10 percent. Instead, use the 1040 long form. There you'll have to figure your own tax and itemize every expense you wish to deduct. But, in this way, you can claim the full amount of your deductions.

The under $5000 people who can't use the 1040-A but use the 1040 short-form also automatically get a deduction of about 10 percent for expenses. It's allowed for in the table they use on the back of form 1040.

If their expenses run to more than 10 percent of income, they, too, should use the 1040 long form and claim their deductions in full.

Anyone with $5000 or more income, using the 1040 long form, takes a deduction of 10 percent up to a limit of $1000 without figuring. He subtracts that deduction before applying the tax to what's left of his income.

(Note to married people: married couples filing jointly on the 1040 long form take that 10 percent, up to a limit of $1000, without itemizing. But if they file separately, each is limited to a deduction of no more than $500.)

Here are other rules:
1040-A. You can use it if your income was under $5000 and all of it — except for no more than $100 in untaxed wages, dividends or interest — had tax withheld from it. Example:

Jones' income was $4600. Tax was withheld from all but $100 in untaxed wages, dividends or interest. He can use form 1040-A.

But if that extra income from untaxed wages or interest or dividends amounted to as much as $100.01 he couldn't use it. And if he had any other kind of income no matter how small — say a commission or rent or money from farming — he couldn't use form 1040-A.

But any under $5000 person who can't use form 1040-A can use the 1040 short form. Or, if his deductions are more than 10 percent of his income, he can use the 1040 long form where, although he'll have to itemize his deductions, he can claim them fully.

Husbands and wives may use form 1040-A or the 1040 short-form to file a joint return and, by splitting their income, save money if — their combined income is under $5000 and it fits the rules for using form 1040-A or the 1040 short form. Husband-wife problems will be treated more fully in a later story.

Remember this: no matter what form you use, attach to it all the receipts — called Form W-2 — given you by your employer or employers from all the tax withheld from you during the year. Form W-2 also shows how much pay you got from each employer.

'Pappy' Noel's Pictures Bring Happiness To Americans

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — Pictures taken inside a Communist prison camp by AP Photographer Frank Noel brought tears of happiness to the eyes of wives and parents in a dozen American cities.

For some families, Noel's pictures gave anxious parents the first word that their sons are alive in North Korean prison camps.

The 52-year-old Noel has been a prisoner of the Communists for more than a year. Associated Press correspondents in Korea persuaded Communist newsmen to deliver cameras, film and flashbulbs to Noel and bring his exposed negatives back to Pannunjom.

When told that pictures snapped by "Pappy" Noel had been radioed from Tokyo, Mrs. Noel said "I have always known that if any one could come through it would be Frank."

At her home in Albany, N.Y., Mrs. Noel said she has refused to become discouraged and "always had very great hope" that he would come through safely.

"This latest news is as strange as something from a comic book," she added. "But knowing Frank I can understand how the trend is going."

Mrs. Irene Pallas of San Francisco has refused to give up hope for her 22-year-old son, Theodore, listed as missing in action since last November.

When shown Noel's picture of Ted lying in a prison hospital, Mrs. Pallas wept tears of happiness and kissed the picture.

"I thank God for this picture," she said. "Standing beside the gray-haired widow were three other sons. She told of how she has prayed day and night and asked several times for assurance that Ted is all right."

Information Noel sent with the picture said the young soldier is being treated for a hand injury.

For more than a year Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jenkins of Dallas, Tex., have wondered whether their 22-year-old son was dead or alive. They last heard from Cpl. Roy L. Jenkins on Thanksgiving Day in 1950. He was listed as missing in action a few days later.

One of Noel's pictures showed Cpl. Jenkins alive and well in the prison camp.

"He looks like they are treating him all right," his mother said happily. "But he looks like he needs a shave pretty bad."

Mrs. Jenkins' only concern was that her son looked much older than when she last saw him two years ago.

Mrs. Robert S. Wood of Washington thought her husband "looks fine," and Noel's picture of him was "wonderful."

Mrs. Wood said her husband has been a prisoner for 15 months. All told, she has had five letters from him, the last dated on Christmas Eve.

"We thought for so long that he wasn't alive, but we never gave up hope until we knew for sure," said the mother of PFC Kenneth Darrow, 21, of Charles City, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Darrow said they were "very relieved" when told a picture of their son was among those taken by Noel.

Kenneth was listed as missing in action last June 7th. The Darrows had no further word until his name appeared on the Communists' official prisoner roster. The Darrows received their first letter from their son Jan. 2, and since then have been writing to him every other day.

The parents and six brothers and sisters of PFC Joseph Paquette have received two letters in the past few weeks. But 17-year-old Theodore said my folks surely will be glad to hear that Joseph's picture was among Noel's shots.

The Paquette family lives in North Grosvenor Dale, Conn., but the father, a carpenter, is working in Southbridge, Mass.

Others identified in Noel's pictures include PFC Fred Obruff of Wheelwright, Ky., Lt. William Beal of Hogansville, Ga., Pvt. Richard Flattery, of Marquette, Mich.; Sgt. 1-c Claude A. Boody of Oxford, Ala.; Lt. Harold Stahlman of Nashville, Tenn.; Capt. Fred L. Speers of Marysville, Tenn.; Lt. Ray M. Dove, Jr., of Arlington, Va., and Lt. Carroll Wright of Washington, D. C.

Purple Heart Sent To Truman By Dead Soldier's Mother

SPRINGFIELD, Colo. — (AP) — The mother of an Army man killed in Korean fighting has sent to President Truman a Purple Heart medal awarded her son posthumously.

Mrs. Edith Rosengrant said her son, Pfc Dock Rosengrant, was killed last Aug. 10 near Sinchon.

"I wish every parent of every boy killed over there would do the same," Mrs. Rosengrant said. "We should flood Washington with these medals until we get as brave men there as are being killed in Korea."

Old Pete, A Perfectionist, Couldn't Take Blow To Pride

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — One of the casualties of the age of specialization is the old-fashioned handy man.

Remember him — old Jim, old Joe, old Charley? Doesn't he make you homesick for yesterday?

A generation ago every American community had a handy man or two to do the odd jobs that somehow the man of the house never found time to get around to. Where have these kindly old putter merchants vanished?

The handyman in our neighborhood when I was a boy was called "old Pete." And he was typical. He had an intense pride in his ability to fix anything that broke, he would never name a price, he refused to be bossed while he worked (it had to be done his way or not at all), and he wouldn't work steady for anybody.

Pete had unalterable ideas about what kind of work he would or wouldn't do. He would repair a lawnmower, but John D. Rockefeller didn't have enough money to make him mow the grass. He felt that was beneath a jack of all trades.

Pete led an inward life. He shared with nobody. His strength was his love of tidying up other people's homes; his weakness was a quiet passion for strong drink. It was always a mistake to pay him any money before he completed a job. If you did, he might disappear in the middle of a painting job — leaving your house half-brown and half-white for a couple of weeks. But he always came back, looking pale and rocky and finished what he had started.

He has a sixth sense about knowing when he was needed. As long as the house was in good repair, Pete never showed up. But let something go wrong — and the next morning there was old Pete knocking at the door.

One day our new radio went blooey. Pete had never tried to fix a radio, but he thought his hands could heal any broken mechanical thing. At the end of a long, sweaty day, however, the radio still refused to function.

Old Pete finally gave up at dusk. He drank his final cup of coffee in morose silence, and wouldn't answer us children at all when we asked, "why don't the radio talk any more, Pete? Can't you fix it?"

When he went out the door, he left our house forever, and I never afterward saw him in the neighborhood. The blow to his pride was too great. In his way Pete was a perfectionist, a handyman whose like we seldom see these days.
