President Truman's withdrawal from the White House sweepstakes affected the thinking of only six voters out of 70 polled yesterday by The Pampa Daily News.

Five of these said it left them undecided; the sixth jumped on the Eisenhower bandwagon, terming the general "second best choice."

But Pampa rode with NATO commander in the poll, giving him 22 votes. The undecided ones topped the list with 28 men and women declining to take a definite stand at this time.

Most of those naming a number one choice said Truman never was in the running so far as they were concerned.

One woman said she was "too busy to worry about politics and probably "would not bother voting anyway."

Five voters made no choice other than a Democratic nominee, irrespective of whom it might be. One was definitely a Republican regardless of candidate.

Still another was undecided between Ike and Sen. Robert Taft. In the poll Taft trailed Eisenhower a poor second with only five votes, and Sen. Estes Kefauver, (See CANDIDATES Page 2)

Speaker Lauds Profit Motive

The profit motive was lauded today by Roy Smith, publisher of The Pampa Daily News, in a Texas Industrial Week speech before the junior chamber of commerce.

He was introduced by Don Ormsen, second vice president of the organization.

Smith called profit the "very fountainhead of human endeavor" in the business realm and lambasted apologies for making a profit.

"Every human choice and every human action is motivated by the desire to realize a reward of one kind or another for ourselves," he said.

Without profit, there is no production, he asserted.

Smith said one of Texas' key reasons for prosperity was that business was not as hamstrung by governmental interferences as in other states.

"The main enemy which every business must face today . . . is government," the speaker said. "Government — always ready to take from the haves for the have-nots in order to assure some votes. Government — more constantly regulating, intimidating and promising. It is here that we folks of Texas have something to offer which many of our sister states don't. We offer state and local government which is less meddling, less imbued with creating a utopia, less concerned with equalizing poverty. As a result, Texas has gained a reputation which attracts industry."

Teacher Retires After 24 Years

Miss Josephine Thomas, longtime Pampa teacher and first principal of Hovace Mann school, will retire at the end of the current school year.

This was disclosed last night at the meeting of the Pampa Independent School board. Board members re-elected all other teachers and principals to their posts.

Knox Kinard, school superintendent, said Miss Thomas has served faithfully and capably.

She became principal of the then new Horace Mann school December 1928. She had taught in Oklahoma schools a number of years previously.

She received degrees from Oklahoma and Combarba universities. Miss Thomas said today she had not formed any plans for the future.

School authorities said Sabegert, acting principal of Woodrow Wilson, is expected to take her position. The principal of Woodrow Wilson, Harlon Yoder, took a leave of absence Feb. 18, but he is expected to resume his duties in the fall.

Besides re-electing the 170 teachers and principals, the board heard it will be visited May 25 by Ezzom Hayes, co-ordinator of the Texas Assn. of School Boards. The committee is making a study of how Texas school boards function, assume responsibilities and effect relationships.

The Pampa board will be one of 30 to be visited.

Enumeration Of Counties Started

Work began Monday on this area's new county directory as representatives of the W. J. Winler Co. from Amarillo started enumerating county residents.

The new directory will not appear for several months as considerable time is needed to enumerate all citizens living in the counties and for printing the directory.

The directory will be of Gray, Hemphill, Lipscomb, Roberts and Wheeler counties and will include city directories of Alameda, Booker, Canadian, Darrortzett, Follett, Glazier, Higgins, Lela, Lela, Lela, Lipscomb, McLear, Miami, Mobeetie, Shamrock, Twitty and Wheeler.

The new directory will include householders' name, wife, number of children under 16, property owner or not, occupation, number of acres he operates, location and phone number.

Last issue of the area directory was 1948-49. Publisher representatives Harry Shelton and W. C. Scott were in Pampa Monday launching the enumeration crews.

City Awards Water Well Contract

H. H. "Shorty" Heiskell, Pampa water well drilling contractor, this morning was awarded a $13,720 contract to drill the new water well in the south field, three miles south of Pampa.

The only other bidder was D. L. McDonald, Amarillo, bidding the project at $17,340.

Bid specifications did not include a pump and motor. Those items will be let to bidders for opening on April 22. A pump house was also excluded from the drilling bid because of the possibility a submersible pump — which does not need a pump house — may be found more economical.

Money for the well will be furnished from the $75,000 bond issue voted last year.

The commission also authorized advertising for bids on bridges for Yeager and Kentucky and the foot span running along the Duncan bridge. These bids will be opened April 29.

At the same time the commission passed two ordinances as emergency measures bringing two acres of land and allowing for drilling sites on the Fraser Annex addition.

The drilling sites will in all probability never be used. City Manager Dick Pepin told commissioners.

He added that Gulf Oil Co. under present lease agreements, has the right to drill at any spot on the 80 acres of the addition. However, the company requested that two drill sites be set aside before they agreed to re-lease their claim on the whole addition, Pepin added.

The action is expected to clear the way for construction of the first homes on the addition. City Engineer Ray Evans reported the first houses are expected to be started within the next three weeks.

Two acres of land, all of it used to house a water well, and pump house, were annexed to the city by a unanimous vote of the commission. The well is located on N. Hobart near Gwendolen. The move was made to cut insurance rates.

A delegation of the Top of Texas Rodeo and Horse Show Assn. appeared before the commission asking that a rest room be built at Recreation park before the 1952 rodeo season opens.

Mayor Huff Proclaims April As Cancer Control Month

Mayor C. A. Huff today proclaimed April Cancer Control month in Pampa. Throughout April, local organizations will conduct a campaign to provide funds for combating the disease, which last year brought death to 215,000 persons in the nation.

According to the American Cancer society, the disease strikes one out of every five Americans — and it is cut down this figure that the national society has pledged to raise $16 million.

These funds will be used in research, education and service to cancer victims.

In Pampa, the National Secretaries Assn. Sunday sponsored a fashion show which netted $230. Other activities are scheduled to raise additional money for the drive.

One of the projects the local cancer society is pushing is collection and sale of scrap metal. According to Dr. Emily Hickey, collection will serve a two-fold purpose. Not only will it bring in scrap metal needed for the defense effort, but it will provide a form of income which will be donated for use by the society.

Dr. Hickey said that as far as she knows, Pampa is the first to do this.

New York Sets Up Narcotics Court

NEW YORK — (AP) — A special narcotics court, believed to be the first of its kind in the country, will start handling cases of young men and women addicts on May 1.

Chief Magistrate John J. Murtagh said yesterday the narcotics term of Magistrate's court will open shortly before the state's new Riverside hospital starts functioning. He said the hospital is the first in the nation specifically for adolescent narcotic users.

A new adolescent narcotics users' law becomes effective May 1 in New York state. The law provides for treatment of youths adjudged addicts.

Charge Based On Delegate Wrangle

AUSTIN — (AP) — Fagan Dickson, executive secretary of the "Loyal Democrat" organization, today called Gov. Shivers the "secret candidate of the Dixiecrats" for President.

Dickson issued a written statement saying Shivers' comment on President Truman's withdrawal as the Democratic candidate "conceals a treacherous design to betray" the party.

Dickson said he was brought in to see the statement by Walter G. Partic, leave and later vote for him. L. McDonald, Amarillo, bidding the project at $17,340.

"Loyal Democrat" group which was organized for the purpose of opposing the national convention's nominee, Shivers, at its annual conference. The statement said the Texas Governor has never answered the secretary had and Mr. Truman's question of whether or not he will support the national party nominees, adding that Shivers' party leadership on questions of this is because he voted for Truman.

The Governor reported that he well out of the Democratic national convention would nominate and Dixiecrat candidate for President. The reason he voted for Truman in the national party loyalty pledge question. He does not want to have Shivers in the Democratic national convention and vote for Shivers after the national delegates.

Shivers' pushed off questions as to his interest in becoming candidate for Vice President as "President" He said he was more interested in "getting good candidates" than in becoming one himself.

"We had hope that with President Truman out of the picture Governor Shivers would offer his support to the party that named him Governor," the statement from Dickson and Hall said.

City Bridges To Be Built This Spring

Plans and specifications for building two bridges on Yeager and Kentucky are nearing completion on engineers' drawing boards, City Engineer Ray Evans reported this morning.

The spans will actually be concrete box-culverts, similar to the ones built on N. Hobart last year. Bids for the structures are expected to be called for within the next two weeks by the city commission and will be opened April 29.

Both bridges will be 95 feet long and 26 feet wide with four-foot sidewalks on each side. They will be straight structures and slightly curved approaches will be constructed on the Yeager and Kentucky bridges. Engineers argued for several days on the design for the Yeager bridge.

They were undecided whether to make it a straight or curve span. The curved job would have been safe and beautiful," Evans said, "but it would have cost too much money. The concrete box culverts are also cheaper than the pier and concrete span," he added.

A foot bridge running along the Duncan bridge is also in the commission's plan under the $75,000 bond issue. However, plans for it have not yet been drawn.

Survey Shows Texas Girls' School Below U. S. Normal

HOUSTON — (AP) — An analysis of replies in The Chronicle's survey of girls' schools throughout the nation, underscores a need to rehabilitate the children at there by order of the juvenile courts.

A questionnaire was also sent Mrs. Maxine Burlingham, superintendent of Texas' state school for girls at Gainesville.

But no reply was received. The Chronicle, some 10 weeks ago, first broke the story of how the "incorrigible" girls at the school had been flogged by the attendants, of how others were kept in solitary confinement for prolonged periods, and of the incidence of self mutilation among the inmates.

In no other school in the land's solitary confinement been used as a punishment to the extent that it was employed at Gainesville, as indicated in a comparison of replies to The Chronicle's questionnaire with statistics that was given in a

Harris county district court hearing in January.

A Houston girl whose mother was seeking the child's release from the Gainesville school said she had been held in solitary confinement for a total of 186 out of the 210 days she spent there.

Psychiatric analysis and treatment is employed in other schools (but not at Gainesville) to get at the root of the trouble when a girl is recalcitrant and, all schools report, with highly effective results.

In place of corporal punishment, these schools employ the privilege and honor system to encourage better morale and induce better deportment.

"We do so want to help our girls to help themselves become good women," wrote Mrs. Marian H. Gerlach, superintendent of the Georgia training school for girls.

She explained that the school strives to learn where lie the individual talents of the girls and to train the girls along the best aptitude lines.

Mrs. Helen C. Shank, superintendent of the state school for girls at Centralia, Wash., wrote that her school leans heavily on psychiatric examinations, off-campus activities and humane treatment, and with excellent results.

At the school for girls in Ventura, Calif., Miss Mary B. Perry,

Shamrock FFA Team Appears On Fort Worth TV

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock high's Senior Skills FFA team went to Ft. Worth Saturday and appeared on a television program in demonstrating the techniques for cutting and tanning a hog carcass.

Jimmy Butts, Jimmy Terry and Johnnie Hartwick were the featured TV players on Station WFAA at noon Saturday.

They won the district I contest at Canadian and the regional I contest at Plainview in February, then copped second in Texas in the state contest at Huntsville March 15.

Their prize was the TV appearance. It was one of a series of victories for H. C. Weatherby, Shamrock's veteran vocational agriculture instructor.

Shamrock Lions Sponsor Revue

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Lions will present "Shooting Stars," a revue with scenes laid in a television company headquarters at Clark auditorium here April 21 - 22, reports Jack Dekle.

Dekle said the extravaganza would feature comedy and music.

190 inmates who are old enough, are even permitted to smoke mechanical devices in the fields, in the barns and in the farm homes," he declared.

Electricity New Source Of Farm Labor

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Increased use of electric motors and mechanical devices on farms would help offset declining farm manpower, a House committee has been told.

Asking funds for rural electrification, Clark T. McWhorter, Blair, Okla., farmer and president of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Assn., told the House Agriculture Appropriations committee that farm workers are leaving to take higher paying industry jobs.

McWhorter estimated there will be 250,000 fewer farm workers this year than last.

Farmers face the problem of expanding production to meet the nation's requirements when there are fewer men on farms to do the job, he testified.

"The obvious answer, and one of the primary solutions to this vital problem, is to increase not the manpower on the farms, but to increase the horsepower in terms of electric motors and mechanical devices in the fields, in the barns and in the farm homes," he declared.

"I didn't want to take time out from the job to paddle him!"

Mrs. H. H. Heiskell and her tropical fish

Raising Tropical Fish Is A Popular And Fascinating Hobby For Pampans

Dog may be man's best friend, but tropical fish, some so small you can hardly see them, are running friend dogs a close second.

Among the many local tropical fish enthusiasts is Mrs. H. H. Heiskell, who has a large aquarium filled with fish. It all started simply enough after she acquired a few guppies. But she soon learned that nobody keeps "just a few" guppies. It wasn't long — five weeks to be exact — until there were a dozen or so more guppies, and from there on in, expansion has been the rule.

You can't keep lots of guppies in fish bowls so you buy an aquarium, then another, and another, and now Mrs. Heiskell has a 35-gallon aquarium, said to be the most beautiful in Pampa.

But this isn't the end of the story. You get the aquarium, you can't have a tropical aquarium can be maintained without scavengers to consume bits of decaying food and plants. Fish, plants and scavengers depend upon each other in the balanced aquarium. So you buy some snails. Then somebody says tropical catfish are better house-cleaners, so you get some of those, too.

Next you start looking around for some oxygenators (or plants as you called them before you got involved with tropical fish). You decide upon Sagittaria. Light is very important for the new generation and plant the tall plants in the back or in corners of the aquarium, and place the smaller ones in front. The plants should be placed in about one or two inches of well-washed builder's sand — so you go out and buy some sand.

After you have filled the aquarium with water, with the plants arranged in the sand, and added the scavengers, you think you're ready to dump the fish in. But, no, you must be sure the water is the right temperature. So you turn up the heat in the house and nearly smother the family trying to get the water to the required 70 to 80 degrees. Then you take the fish out from under the aquarium at night and put it under the aquarium. Still, the heat is not uniform, so you go down to buy a thermometer, and find you can buy an aquarium with a "built in" thermostat. By this time, you think nothing is too good for the little guppies so you get a big aquarium with a heater.

Finally, you dump the fish in. You're all set to sit back and

Mrs. J. T. Rogers Presents Program For Wayside Club

By following a few simple rules home nursing can become professional," Mrs. J. T. Rogers stated when she gave the program at the meeting of the Wayside Home Demonstration club in the home of Mrs. Homer Taylor. The program was entitled "Home Nursing Hints."

In giving a bed bath, Mrs. Rogers suggested using a cotton blanket instead of a sheet to cover the patient. She warned that in taking temperature a few degrees variation is not unusual, and that a temperature should be run down except when extremely high. An alcohol or warm sponge bath can be given to get high fever down.

Mrs. Rogers demonstrated changing a bed with a sick person in it. She said that the bottom sheet should extend just to the edge of the mattress at the foot and tucked under well at the top. The top sheet should be tucked one and tucked back at the foot and tucked back at the top.

Mrs. Floyd Barrett gave the 15-minute demonstration on "Home Medicine Cabinets." She suggested using, either a shelf in the top part of your cabinet or a chest at each of bedroom. All medicine should be plainly labeled and only small amounts kept because drugs deteriorate with age and are extremely dangerous. A few of the things to keep in the chest are: mild antiseptic, laxative, spirits of ammonia, sterile cotton and gauze adhesive tape, fever thermometer, hot water bottle, and ice bag.

A family social was planned for Friday night, April 4 in the club house. It is to be a "Hobo Party" with everyone dressing "hobo" and a prize given for the best hobo.

The next meeting will be April 11 in the home of Mrs. Skeet Roberts.

Those present were: Mmes. Doyle Osborn, Bob Montgomery, J. W. Condo, W. R. Duin, Ernest Edwards, Rogers, Gus Carver, J. S. Fuqua, Gint Cayton and John Paul, W. E. Taylor and Lynn, Alvin Reves and Jim, Floyd Barrett, H. B. Taylor, Jr. and Leonard, and Homer Taylor, and one guest, Mrs. Tom Rogers.

Praise, Appreciation Go Far To Make Up For Lack Of Riches

This column is for men. If you can't afford to give your wife all the things you once planned to, or the things her friends have, the things you know she wants, you'll still never be a failure in her eyes if you will be generous in a way you can afford—in praise and appreciation.

Remember this: A woman will scrimp, save, do without and work hard day after day without complaint or bitterness or real frustration. But she must be sure that the man for whom she is working hard to make a good home appreciates what she is doing.

But the appreciation has to be spoken. It isn't enough for you to think she is wonderful. A woman has to be told. Be stingy with your praise and you are going to have an unhappy wife. Before long she will be telling herself that she made a bad bargain.

She'll begin to wonder why you aren't more successful. She'll envy the women who have more than she does. She'll resent how hard she has to work.

Her life will seem dull and drab, simply because she doesn't feel that you appreciate her. Be generous with your praise, and she will feel pride in being a help to you. She won't envy other women simply because they have more material things than she has, if she has a husband who thinks she is wonderful—and lets her know it.

Patients Can Gain Pound A Day On New Coffee-Like Soup

NEW YORK — (AP) — You know as prozac, the formula for gaining a pound of weight a day was developed by Dr. John Elmer, a new soup, which looks like black coffee.

It is building up human strength before or after operations. It was the only food for 31 days for one woman while plastic surgery built her a new jaw and mouth, removed in a cancer operation. It kept another person alive for a year during a coma.

When laced with a little alcohol, a single quart of the soup supplies 1,000 calories, and proteins, minerals, sugar and salt. Many patients take three quarts a day, and eat other things besides.

You wouldn't want to drink it, for it would taste vile. It's fed, drops at a time, through a small tube going through the nose to the stomach. The tube isn't irritating, and lets people eat and drink other things. The tube can be left in for days or weeks.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Surprise Often Awaits In Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Don't try to make much sense out of the bidding in today's hand. The hand was played in a rubber bridge tournament many years ago by my friend and associate Alfred Sheinwald. He needed a slam to beat his opponents on the last hand of the match. Bidding the hand normally would get him nowhere, so he just hid the slam.

West opened the king of diamonds and Sheinwald won with the ace. He immediately finessed dummy's queen of hearts, discarding a club on the ace of hearts, and ruffed a low heart with the ace of spades.

Even if the hearts had broken 3-3 declarer would have had only eleven tricks, but it was a bit disappointing when West discarded the four of clubs.

Undaunted by this disappointment, Sheinwald led the three of spades from his hand. West naturally played the four of spades, and dummy's eight was finessed to win the trick. This allowed declarer to ruff another heart (with the king of spades) and still get back to dummy on the third round of spades with the jack of spades to run the rest of the hearts.

All of these shenanigans impressed West vastly. Forgetting that South was obliged to bid a slam or give up meekly, West decided that declarer must have the ace-queen of clubs for his bold bid.

West could see that dummy would soon get down to only three cards: one diamond and two clubs. He feared that he would be thrust in the lead with a diamond and forced to return a club to declarer's (imaginary) ace queen. What could he do to avoid this end play?

West decided to throw his high diamonds and hope that his partner could win the diamond trick eventually. Then East would be able to lead through that much-feared ace-queen of clubs.

Hence West carefully threw away his remaining clubs and led

Shamrock Boys Place Second In Meat Cutting

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Howard C. Weatherly's vocational agriculture boys won second in the state farm demonstration contest at Huntsville last Friday.

Weatherly's senior farm skills team, composed of Jimmy Butts, Jimmy Terry and Johnnie Hartwick, won in a demonstration of cutting and trimming a hog carcass.

Previously the Irish senior skills group had won first in the district contest at Canadian and first in the regional contest at Plainview.

Baker Re-Named Lela School Head

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Thomas H. Baker, Lela's popular school head, has been re-elected head of the school for 1952-53 together with his entire faculty.

Baker, president of the Wheeler County Schoolmaster's club last year, reported extensive remodeling will be made on grade school classrooms and additions to the school lunchroom.

He is completing his second year at Lela.

The four of diamonds from the dummy. He then calmly won the rest of the tricks with the diamonds in his hand, making his ridiculous slam contract with an overtrick.

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor
DALLAS — (AP) — Texas Tech's bid for a place in the Southwest Conference has a finality about it. This is it. If Tech is turned down in May when its application is formally presented to the conference, look for the West Texas school to give it up and enter the Missouri Valley Conference.

Texas Tech folks are confident they'll make it this time. While passes have been made at the conference by Tech in the past, this is the first time to go at it through the administrative level.

We recall there was much the same confidence in 1945 when the Red Raiders tried and got caught in the necessary two-thirds majority.

Six of the seven schools won't say publicly what their stand is, but unofficially it appears most of them might now favor Tech.

What they'll think when a meeting comes is something else.

Tech would appear eligible for the place and be a valuable addition.

Of course, much of Tech's furtherance of its bid comes through its football record against members of the Southwest Conference. Taking the cold figures, the record is not sensational. However, the record is quite good under the circumstances.

The Red Raiders have played 53 games against Southwest Conference teams since the school was founded in 1923 and won 22 of them, while losing 45 and tying one. They never have been able to beat Texas, have defeated Texas A&M twice in 12 tries, downed Baylor four times, tied once in 13 efforts, won over Rice once in nine attempts, licked Southern Methodist twice in five games, beat Texas Christian four times in 12 contests and never have played Arkansas.

This record is good for the simple reason that Tech was working under a handicap. Tech was unable to compete with the Southwest Conference schools in getting the top material because it was not a member of the Southwest Conference.

DeWitt Weaver did a very thorough job of bringing in the athletes last year, his first with Tech — and the results were good. But he didn't bag many of the "name" boys. He did sell the school to the West Texas athletes as he and his big coaching staff worked hard to get the coaching staff developed well the material it did get.

Texas Tech is a big school with a lot of enthusiasm and a desire to be big — time in college athletics. It has a tremendous territory from which to draw its athletic support.

Here's a football coach who doesn't want spring football to interfere with spring sports. He doubts the value of spring football anyway.

DeWitt Weaver, coach of Irving High school, who this year limited spring training to 20 days and said he was thinking about not having it at all next year. "It interferes too much with other sports," he comments.

A school the size of Longview just doesn't have enough boys to stage spring football, baseball and track simultaneously without conflict, DeWitt explains. And he takes the opposite route of most football coaches who say to heck with baseball and track and use the manpower for football.

DeWitt finds the only benefits of spring training are that it gives the coach an opportunity to know and study newcomers to his squad. But, he adds, a coach could do the same thing to better advantage by starting earlier practice in the fall when there is no conflict with other sports.

Kansas Seeking Amateur Crown

NEW YORK — (AP) — LaSalle's gritty Explorers had no formula for stopping big Clyde Lovellette, and as a result Kansas will meet the Peoria Caterpillars in the finals of the Olympic Basketball Trials tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Lovellette, the nearest thing to a scoring robot, stuffed 40 points through the cords last night as Kansas overcame the determined Explorers from LaSalle, 70-65, in perhaps the most thrilling game seen here this season.

In the opener, Peoria repeated its AAU title win over the Phillips Oilers by whipping the Bartlesville, Okla., club, 64-50, with surprising ease. Lovellette, 70-65, in perhaps the most thrilling game seen here this season.

By winning last night, Kansas and Peoria qualified seven players for the U. S. Olympic team which will journey to Helsinki this summer.

Trans-Miss Begins Today

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — The Trans-Mississippi Golf Association, which prides itself for an excellent record of developing young players, launched its 22nd annual tournament today with a record field of 176 women contestants slated to tee off in the qualifying round.

By-nightfall the lucky low 32 scorers will have qualified for the championship flight and the start of match play tomorrow.

The scene is the Arizona Country Club — a course sprawling 6377 yards over the Arizona flatlands hard by the picturesque Camelback Mountain east of Phoenix. Par is 38-37-75.

The defending champion is Mary Ann Downey from Baltimore, who will be hard pressed to retain the crown she won at Quincy, Ill., a year ago.

Her main challenge probably will come from her golfing friend, Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., who won the Trans-Miss in 1950 and was runner-up to Betsy Rawls of Austin, Tex., in 1949 at Lincoln, Neb.

The opener was a foul-filled contest, with Phillips losing five men — including seven-foot Bob Kurland — via the foul route. A 10-point spurge at the start of the third period iced the game for the Peoria five.

Rain Slows Oilers Again; Open Exhibitions Tomorrow

CUEIRO — Rain, for the second day in a row, cut the Pampa Oilers daily workout to a minimum. In order to catch up for two lost days, Manager Jake Phillips has decided to step up the tempo of the workouts to two-a-days.

The Oilers open their exhibition schedule tomorrow afternoon against the Colorado Springs Class A Western Association Sky Sox. Manager Phillips has selected Bill Bohne, who he says is really looking great, as his starting hurler for the first three frames. Behind him will come Jack Votaw and dragging down the final three innings will be husky Mack Hyde, who is looking forward to one of his great seasons in professional baseball.

Phillips said yesterday that he is already starting to worry about what he is going to do about the overload of veterans on the club, especially the pitchers. Four veterans are going to have to go, and chances are that three of them will be veterans.

Two of the boys still hadn't made their appearance in camp yesterday. Juan Montero and Don Moore were both due yesterday, and nothing was heard from either.

In Pampa, Business Manager Ivy Griffin announced that one of baseball's top performers, Jackie Price, had been hired for the night of May 23. Price is a top bat do tricks for the baseball and, and nothing was heard from either.

General cleaning up work was being done at the park. Water is to be turned on the outfield grass soon, the signs are being painted, and other bits of work left by the long layoff period are being taken care of.

Tech Begins Spring Practice

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Texas Tech opens spring football training today with the major task facing Coach DeWitt Weaver being to fill eight vacancies in the first string lineup.

Missing from Tech's starting offensive lineup will be Tackle Jerry Price, Guard Jack Cockburn, Center Aubrey Phillips and quarterback Junior Arterburn. From the defensive team will be Price, Phillips, linebacker John Paul Jones and Halfback Bill O'Grady.

Weaver, in his second year at Tech's helm, expects a turnout of about 80 — 36 former lettermen, 25 returning squadmen, seven junior college graduates, three transfers, and six mid-term high school graduates.

To climax the 20 sessions, Tech will conduct its annual Red Raider roundup game April 25. Tech's coaching clinic, which drew 80 high school mentors last spring, will be April 25 and 26.

Triangular Meet Set At Lefors

SHAMROCK (Special) — Coach B. L. Hill's Irish tracksters clash with McLean and Lefors in a triangular track meet at Lefors Wednesday.

Hill said he would take his main stringers to the meet and that there might be "reshuffling" after the contest.

Jimmy Don Lamb and Van Pennington, speed merchants, and Don Carlton are looked on as likely winners, with Eugene Smith a strong bet in the mile run.

Shamrock is tuning up for the district meet at Memphis Saturday, their first set-to in the new 3-AAA league.

ABELINE — (AP) — The Hardin-Simmons University golf team won a 5-1 decision over Baylor yesterday.

THE UMPIRE

By BEANS REARDON
21 Years in National League
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Q. What player hit the most grand-slam home runs?
A. Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. During his long career, Gehrig cleared the bags with a circuit about 23 times.

Q. Which major league catcher went through an entire season without making an error?
A. Buddy Rosar of the Philadelphia Athletics. In 1946, Rosar handled 117 games and posted a fielding average of 1.000.

Q. What was "Home Run" Baker's highest output in a season?
A. Baker gained his nickname, which followed him throughout his career, by winning two World Series games with homers in 1911. But, the ace Philadelphia A's third sacker never hit more than 12 homers in any one season.

Q. What pitcher set an all-time "gopher ball" record?
A. Murry Dickson, last year's 20 game winner with the Pittsburgh Pirates. In 1948, with the Cards, Dickson was nicked for 39 home runs.

Pros Looking To Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. — (AP) — With the lid of secrecy knocked off "the Corcoran affair," touring professional golfers today considered three big problems.

How to win the Masters tournament beginning Thursday.

The new bureau not only is designed to promote tournaments and golf in general, but plans call for the bureau and Corcoran to assist in relations between touring golf stars and tournament sponsors.

A PGA meeting is set for April 21-23 in Chicago to consider tournament plans and the signing of Corcoran.

It was revealed to the Associated Press yesterday and later confirmed by numerous golfers and officials that Corcoran — deposed tournament director from 1936-1947 for the PGA — had been signed to a contract March 1.

Several reliable sources said that if Corcoran gets a strong vote of confidence in Chicago he will assume the duties given him by the contract.

The secret contract, negotiated during the winter between the tournament committee and Corcoran and his lawyers, calls for the deluxe promoter to set up a New York office. It is proposed that he operate a promotional touring house; supply information on tourney sites, dates and records; act as a public relations man and help in repairing relations between the stars and tournament sponsors.

Should he get backing in Chicago, Corcoran is expected to retain in full all other commitments and jobs.

A light rain yesterday afternoon cut short practice rounds for the Masters. The weather bureau said untriedly weather would continue at least until Wednesday.

Salas-Carter Scrap Tonight

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — "I want to win this one for Mexico," says Lauro Salas, a determined little challenger who climbs into the ring tonight trying to upset Jimmy Carter of New York, the lightweight champion.

He feels he has a real chance of becoming the first native of Mexico to capture an undisputed world's boxing title. Lauro, who lives here, came to the U.S. in 1947 from Monterrey. He still helps support his family there.

Neither Lauro nor the sharp-hitting 135-pound champion has ever been counted out, so tonight's battle at the Olympic Auditorium may well go the 15-round limit. There will be no radio or television.

"I'm in the best shape ever," says Salas, the California featherweight king who has done most of his scrapping among the 126-pounders.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—What ever else may be said for Ty Cobb's recent magazine flogging of modern baseball players, it at least may be said for certain that the old Georgia Peach's outburst has supplanted the principal topic of conversation within the fraternity for the past couple of weeks.

Those who played with or against Cobb appear still to be fascinated by the memory, and whether they hated him mildly or hated him intensely, as many of them did, they are now to talk about him and to recall incidents from his fiery career. We must have heard a score lately that were new, and good.

Ever hear about the time he came into the clubhouse bleeding from the face and ears and with his shirt half ripped off? He began to change into his uniform and one of his teammates asked him what had happened, possibly hoping for the worst.

Answer For Off-Season Shooting

By WARREN PAGE
Shooting Editor
The numbers .222 on the latest varmint cartridge don't mean a thing. Nowhere on the cartridge, its bullet, or the gun that it fires is there a significant measurement of 222 thousandths of an inch.

But the new little vermin-popper, which is a true .222 in that it drives a bullet .224 inches in diameter through a barrel .219 inches across the lands, certainly has come to mean plenty to shooters the country over. I doubt that any cartridge has caught the rifeman's fancy so quickly. Perhaps the figures would stand for "It's too, too, too good to be true."

Year-round shooting is important to conservation. The varmint-trained rifeman, used to taking his shot calmly, steady in his holding and keen in his judgment of range, is not going to wound and lose larger game animals such as deer.

Seitz Tries Track
LEXINGTON, Mo. (Special)—Cadet Bobby R. Seitz, 929 Mary Ellen St., is seeking a berth on this year's high school track team at Wentworth Military academy here, according to Capt. Edgar A. Muench, prep cinders squad coach.

Why didn't he make a good manager? All I know is that if a man is a good ball player to day he would have been a good one 20 years ago or 60 years ago. That is for sure.

Defending Champs Cheap At Texas Relays Saturday

AUSTIN (AP)—Defending champs will be all over the place when the silver anniversary Texas Relays are run here Friday and Saturday.

Only three of the 1951 individual title winners will not return to Memorial Stadium. One of them will be Texas' Charley Meeks, the 1951 broad jump winner.

Other returning champions include SMU's Val Joe Walker, 120-yard high hurdler; Howard Payne's Hayden Fields, 100-yard dash; and Abilene Christian's Paul Faulkner, pole vault and javelin.

By CASEY STENDEL
Yankee's Manager

There are men in the Yankee organization who think I rush youngsters. Just between us, I haven't given a youngster a rush since I was a youngster myself.

Stengel one time persuaded Uncle Robbie to catch a ball dropped from an airplane flying over the field during an exhibition game. The manager agreed and Casey went along with the pilot to drop the ball.

At the crucial moment, with 20,000 fans looking on, Casey pocketed the baseball and dumped a basket of grapefruit on his employer instead.

Stengel was traded to the Giants the following year. This year, Morgan will use a 22-year-old body, which means that his head should be dripping with experience.

More About The Author

CASEY STENDEL broke into the big leagues with Brooklyn in 1913. That season he was fined $50 by Uncle Wilbert Robinson, the Dodger manager, for sliding into second base — with a Dodger runner already there.

Morris No Menace To Public Thieves

If Newbold Morris, the New York lawyer, finds so much as a soiled towel in the closet of the Truman administration during the course of his labors as special investigator of crime and corruption in Federal government we will be the victims of the surprise of our life.

Mrs. Truman made much ado about calling this registered Republican to investigate the smell around Washington after congressional committees had dumped enough garbage into his backyard to drive a horse blind.

Mr. Morris had no sooner descended to accept this post of tax scandal inquirer when it was discovered that the man who was going to delve into the Washington heshpots was involved in the prosecution of a criminal case.

Mr. Morris was president of the China International Foundation, a philanthropic organization which was supposed to receive the proceeds of mere $30,000 from the $138,000 law firm income received from the United Tanker Corp.

Everybody in Washington except Mr. Truman perhaps seems to be aware that Morris is up to his lofty pate in the oil tanker deal.

And that deal reeks with the familiar odors of tax-dodging, insurance-peddling, swill from the public trough and trade winds from the shores of Red China.

Testifying before a congressional committee Mr. Morris sounded like Donald Duck.

This character who is about to investigate tax scandals—many of which have been proven already in criminal courts—spoke piteously of the "big boys" of the committee "smears" in a fine decent government.

Mr. Morris has prejudged the facts he is about to investigate and found them not bad at all.

He sounds like Harry Truman commenting on his old pal Tom Pendergast in Bill Hillman's "Mr. President," as corny a collection of trashy thought as you'll ever lay eyes to.

If the Truman administration was as good and decent as Mr. Morris thinks it is there wouldn't be any need for him or the Congress to investigate it.

The major villain of our times, is not the inquisitor—as Mr. Morris seems to think. It may not even be the subversive. It's more likely the acquisitive. The great wealth of America is now passing through the guichet of multi-billion dollar spending by government agencies.

A Bill of Grievances on Schools By the Sons of the American Revolution

Here is more of the Petition concerning subversive textbooks used in the schools throughout the nation. The Petition is sponsored by both the National Society and the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The office of the California Society of the Sons of the American Revolution is 926 DeYoung Building, San Francisco 4, California.

"(7) Tax Exempt Foundations. The National Society is financially aided by foundations, a considerable number of which are located in New York City. These organizations are relieved of the obligation to file tax returns under federal laws.

"(8) Responsibility of Trustees. The members of the boards of trustees of the colleges and universities disseminating this radical propaganda, and the trustees of foundations giving financial support to these activities have failed to control the situation.

"(9) Infringement of Constitutional Rights. The course of conduct set forth in this petition is in violation of fundamental rights guaranteed to citizens, taxpayers, and as the parents of children in our public schools.

"(10) Freedom of conscience. The parents and children of America have an unalienable right to freedom of conscience.

"(11) Unconstitutional subsidy. It is a violation of the fifth amendment for the federal government to extend a tax exemption privilege to any organization or individual involved in a program or activity which is designed to undermine or overthrow principles essential to a continuance of our constitutional form of government.

"(12) Problems Involved in Control of Subversive Propaganda. The Federal Constitution guarantees freedom of speech and freedom of the press. It is moral right to use or make an unfair use of this privilege.

"(13) Federal power. The federal government has no constitutional right to determine or control the subject matter of courses of study in the public schools of the several states.

"(14) Defense of Constitution. Congress does have a power and definite responsibility in defending the Constitution of the United States from attempts to undermine or otherwise destroy its authority.

"(15) Legal power of states. State legislatures and school boards in local districts have a full power to reject subversive books and to discontinue the employment of individuals using school classrooms for propaganda purposes.

"(16) Need for facts. These powers can only be exercised in a sound and impartial way by school boards in possession of the facts.

April Fool's Day Doesn't Mean Much To Henry Now

By HENRY McLEMORE. This is the first day of April—April Fool's Day—and I am going to spend it just as if it were February 23rd, June 15th, November 8th, or any other commonplace day of the year.

My two brothers, Cog and Stack were gifted in the use of South when it came to hiding behind fences or hedges and dragging a purse across a sidewalk.

Oh, it was a glorious day! As I look back, I wonder if another knew what she was getting when she took a piece of candy from me.

When I was a youngster we took April Fool's Day very seriously. Two or three days before it rolled around we turned our homes into a minor evil laboratory.

There were five of us children and still are, thank the Lord. Three boys and two girls. We state to subpoena witnesses or compel production of evidence located in any other state.

Nevertheless, Ed Price painted two large signs: "Honey-the Health Sweet: SERVY YOURSELF."

He marked the prices on the jars, placed them on easy-to-reach shelves. He placed the signs 300 feet from his road stand, dropped five dollars in change in a bowl on the stand's counter, and sat back to wait.

A week later the story of the nation's first self-service stand was a big feature in the paper. The Associated Press carried it over its nationwide wires.

Ed Price's sales began to boom. Today the bees are working overtime.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

I got to thinking about 5,000 people I know the other spring dawn, when coping with a bout of insomnia, and the one who kept bobbing back into memory is a fellow about as thick through as a buggy whip.

Every time we passed a word or two. He was the best City Editor who ever gave me an assignment and from the day I first shook his hand I knew that possibly the best City Editor New York had known in 50 years secretly yearned to chuck it all and hunker down on a Texas ranch.

Before daybreak, working with a close-knit gang, we removed gates from fences, put our pocketknives on the sidewalks, and wrapped our "candy."

Oh, it was a glorious day! As I look back, I wonder if another knew what she was getting when she took a piece of candy from me.

What the rancher I'm writing about heard, said by a staid, solemn man in his companion, was: "It was a tough day for me. A rattlesnake bit my pet kangaroo and somebody stole the stepladder from my migrant butler."

I am the last man in the world to croon somebody into doing my work for me, but I'd take it kindly if some Texas editor traced down the man in Texas who could have such such things happen in his household in one day.

The paragraph that set my memory wheels grinding was this: "Most things go well down here in the amber belt. I slowly became a cattle baron and am the greatest sheep raiser since Abraham and the late Senator Warren of Wyoming.

It was the same scantling-wide young newspaper man who when promoted to City Editor of the Herald Tribune back in the 20's was braced by a lugubrious well-wisher. And out of that sad man's left-handed compliments he came to utter one of the undying phrases of American journalism.

"It will be interesting to watch you," said his dismal well-wisher, "but you can't get anywhere. You will be bucking the Times, and it can't be done. Van Anda has a man watching every rat-hole in New York."

"I know he has," said the new City Editor, "but with amazing persistence, 'but' for our part, I think we can get better results by putting some bright young rats to watching manholes."

Which led, in time, to a quip. A World reporter was walking up Broadway one afternoon when he watched a street repair crewman stick a steel bar into a manhole and start to raise it.

"Careful," said the Worldian, "you might hurt a Tribune reporter under there."

And the City Editor's idea, as history shows, worked out pretty well.

I don't work together any more, we haven't seen each other in 15 years. We write one note every decade. But this is the day, for reasons too involved and personal to describe, that I wanted to print the name of a fine Texan and a great newspaperman: Stanley Walker.

The American Way

By George Peck

One of the favorite arguments of the Socialists who would have the Government take over the private war production or for defense, why has private industry never done so well in producing when there is no emergency.

They contend that were the productive equipment mobilized for the tasks of peace as for war or defense, we would enter an era of unprecedented prosperity, in which there would be common necessities and semi-luxuries for all—and that only Government can carry out such a mobilization.

These idealists credit them with sincerity. I believe we can do in peace what we did in war if we go to Socialism. They fail to take into account that we produced for war under "forced draft" that no nation can possibly keep up such a pace indefinitely, much less so under a Socialist economy, hated by the average American, and which even the Socialists themselves would come to detest if they should ever have the misfortune to succeed in inflicting their impractical ideology upon America.

During the war emergency we willingly surrendered some of our traditional liberties. The knowledge that we were fighting to preserve those liberties for the future, induced us to relinquish them temporarily. The suggestion that these temporary sacrifices were in vain, that the tremendous expenditure of lives and money should culminate in a permanent loss of liberty and individual opportunity, is repugnant to the vast majority of the American people.

Businessmen, farmers, workers, housewives, all of us subordinated ourselves to the task of beating the Axis Powers and Japan in the shortest length of time. Self-sacrifice, national pride and a hatred of dictatorship enabled us to stomach considerable of the regimentation and bureaucratic control which are inherent in dictatorship.

But while State Socialism is an impractical system, and we wish no part of it, it does not follow that we should not endeavor to organize our greatly expanded production in the most efficient manner possible.

This can best be done by preserving and strengthening our Free, Private Enterprise System, with its incentives for individual initiative, initiative and thrift, with Government acting as umpire and not as a player in the game.

We have come a long way—further than any nation in all the world's history has travelled—toward achieving the most for the most people. We achieved this under the American Capitalistic System, and in the future we will go on to even more and more for more people under that same tried and true system, without relinquishing our personal liberties granted to us by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

That is the job that lies ahead.

The Doctor Says

Mrs. M. B. and several others have asked how to get rid of the head louse or pedicularis capitis. This pest has a more or less universal distribution, although people who live in less crowded parts of the world and those who are accustomed to the liberal use of soap and water are less likely to have trouble than the rest of humanity.

The newer methods include the use of DDT powder, a substance known as benzyl benzoate, and for body lice, a kind of bomb made up of what is called frozen pyrethrum, which can be sprayed over the entire surface in a few seconds providing a suitable place for use is available.

In order to make any of these treatments successful, however, it is important to follow directions closely and in the case of head lice to guard against injuries to the eyes.

Lice lay eggs or nit, on the body. The hatch in about seven days. The nits are not destroyed by most treatments, so that they must be destroyed in some other way—usually a second treatment after the nits have hatched. The female louse lays from 50 to 100 eggs a day and the average individual louse will live from 30 to 40 days.

In addition to discomfort and general disapproval of the louse's voluntary host, there is real danger involved. Several diseases are carried by lice and the more people have them the more risk there is of spreading those diseases.

National Whirligig... Chief Justice Vinson Urged To Make Race For President

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Democratic politicians on and off Capitol Hill, who served as a comfortable, lifetime ally for many years, have again brought tremendous pressure on Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky to reconsider his refusal to seek the Democratic nomination for president.

The decision to turn to the likely jurist from the Blue Grass state was made after members of House and Senate canvassed the political situation without any attempt to deceive themselves as to the weakness of the candidates of their party, and the lack of strong candidates with nationwide appeal.

In their opinion, he is the only man who can save the organization from falling apart over sectional and personal quarrels.

SACRIFICE — The nomination of any other figure might lead to a disastrous division rivaling the Democrats' in 1960 and the Republicans' in 1912. The argument now presented to Vinson is that he should make a personal sacrifice in gratitude for the many honors he has enjoyed at the hands of the party.

It is hardly an appealing prospect which they offer to the chief justice in asking him to give up a comfortable, lifetime job. Few candid Democrats believe that they have much chance of winning against either a Taft or an Eisenhower next November.

So, they are proposing to the Kentuckian that he step down from the bench solely to prevent a disruption which may keep the party out of power for many years, as happened to the Democrats from 1860 to 1881.

FRANK — The analysis of the party crisis by the weaver-Vinson, Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, etc., whom he embarrassed by exposing the tieup between politicians and crooks.

He does not appeal to the southern bloc, even though he hails from Tennessee. In too many respects he has been a Trumanite and it is Trumanism the South wants to wipe out.

RUSS — Although the "ablest and most forthright on the Democratic side, the day has not yet arrived when the Flynn-Hague-type of boss, depending on millions of varied social elements for their political existence, will dare to name a Georgian.

BLOW — But the most stunning blow to Democratic compromisers, appeasers and party rescue squads is the discovery that Gov. Allan E. Stevenson would be "poisonous" to the southern faction. He is supposed to be Truman's favorite, which is sufficient to condemn him in Dixieland. He does appeal to leaders of the northern wing. This excerpt from an editorial in the Shreveport Times, La., however, casts a new light on that section's reaction to Stevenson's nomination. After referring to a suggestion in this column that nomination of the Illinois Governor might "appease" the South, it continues:

OPPOSITION — "Mr. Tucker, we believe, fails to grasp the basic fact about southern political agitation these days — that it is opposition not merely to President Truman, but to Trumanism no matter who peddles it. Governor Stevenson grew up politically in the New Deal. When the Fair Deal came along, he became one of its 20 percent centers, and still is. He was a public and ardent defender of the traitorous Alger Hiss whom the Truman-Acheson Department of Justice justice did everything possible to save.

"He is an active and ardent opponent of segregation, even where fully equal facilities and opportunities are given to the Negro race. He is an advocate of the type of social equality which should be as repugnant to the North as it is to the South. He would be, as the Democratic nominee, purely a hand-picked Truman stooge, politically speaking. Somebody in Washington seems to have been feeding Mr. Tucker a bit of horse-radish."

UNIDENTIFIED PLANE Alerts Canal Zone

BALBOA, Panama Canal Zone — An unidentified plane flying over the Panama canal caused a 57-minute air raid alert in the Canal zone last night.

There was no information available from U.S. Army headquarters after the all-clear at 12:08 a.m. on whether the plane had been identified. It was spotted first by an anti-aircraft post on the Caribbean side of the zone and later by southern zone vital canal locks at Pedro Miguel and Miraflores.

The armed forces radio station repeated announcements that "this is not a practice" and directed all military personnel to their stations. Civilian workers were told to go to the nearest safe place.

Traffic was uninterrupted. Armed sentries were posted throughout the zone.

Neighboring Panama has no alarm system but the sirens in the canal zone were clearly heard and brought alarmed residents in to the streets.

Mock War Takes On Realistic Tactics

PORT HOOD — The Joint Army-Air Force maneuvers — Exercise Longhorn — are so "real" they have their own counterparts of Tokyo Rose and Axis Sally.

Lorelei, the velvet-voiced siren of the aggressor troops, is actually WAC Pvt. Betty Lee Bruna of Miami, W. Va. Laura, her former opposite number, is WAC Pfc. Sherley Alterbury, Santa Cruz, Calif.

Lorelei, in sultry tones, employs a "Jonesome gal" routine. Laura, employs about the same tactics.

And the 115,000 officers and men taking part in the maneuvers love it.

GASOLINE PLANTS

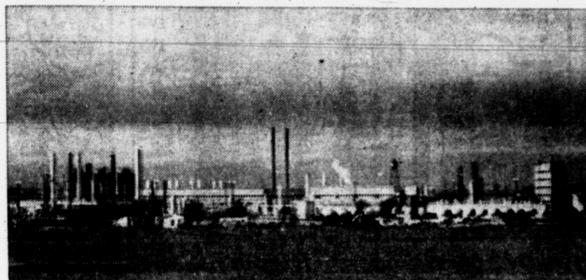

Gasoline plants serve a major role in the Panhandle oil industry.

The plants, operating in one of the greatest gas fields of the nation, constitute a vital link in the industry and contribute greatly to the economy of the area.

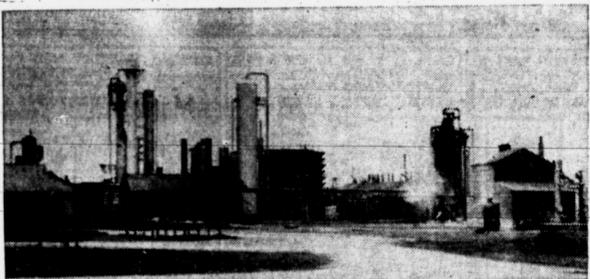

Here in the Panhandle they processed a product — natural gas — which is produced in the Panhandle. By virtue of their operations, almost all of this valuable natural resource is utilized. Even the residue, is pumped back into the ground to act as a propellant for resources still remaining underground. Pampa can well honor the gasoline plants. They have added greatly to its growth and development.

JENNET flinched through the magazine, stopping only for the cartoons, teasing with concentration for each gagline.

Every day since she had been released from the hospital five months ago, she had come to the psychiatrist's waiting room at this same late afternoon hour, and she sat in it, boxed like an animal with a price on its head, cushioned and provided with air-holes (there was one window that faced a charmingly planted alley, and a ventilator in the ceiling), waiting for her turn. Every day except Saturdays and Sundays for five months she had waited in this room.

Jennet supposed that her own retreat from social intercourse worked the hardship of boredom on her mother, who had been staying with her since Gus's death. Her refusal of invitations which came in from those who managed to overcome their shyness of her was not due to an observance of the amenities of the morning period.

No, it was not Gus she mourned. It was herself, the self she had been able to esteem. The doctor promised it was a self well lost, that the emergent self would be a sounder, a happier one. This she believed — or make-believed, one had to cling to something — but meanwhile she mourned.

She was glad that the haze was gone, and the guilt. She could see Gus more clearly now that he was dead than she had been able to see him when he was alive, because she was free of him. She could even love him at odd moments, not perhaps, as a husband, but as a person — a fine, well-meaning, gentlemanly person with mental hygiene at the University of Maryland. She conducts extension classes in her field at various Panhandle cities.

Businessmen Excited Over Truman's Twin Decisions

NEW YORK — (AP) — President Truman's twin decisions—to retire in January and to try to hold the price line in steel—has businessmen as excited as the politicians.

The first change is in the chance of averting a steel strike. Prices at high levels last week. The President's decision that higher wages should come out of profits makes the threat of a steel strike very real today. Neither the unions nor the management seem in a mood to change their stands.

The whole question of the wage-price line, of controls and the move to decontrol, of labor-management relations, takes on a new aspect today, many businessmen feel, as the result of the resignation of Defense Mobilizer Wilson.

Beyond this immediate economic problem for business lie still others as the result of the President's decision not to run again.

Businessmen are trying to assess what effect the President's stepping out of the campaign picture will have on business in general. Some think it will mean a marked swing away from the Fair Deal policies that many in business say they found hampering and dangerous.

While many in business and industry will welcome any swing to the right, some wonder if there will be a further slowdown in the defense program if the nation's foreign policy shifts. Defense spending currently is a bulwark of the economy, which is soft in some other directions.

And some think that the chances of cutting back appropriations for foreign aid will be greater now.

Business has tended to associate President Truman with "tax and spend," and see a chance that this trend will be halted, whoever his successor may be in the White House, and no matter which party is victorious in November.

Wilson's resignation is the immediate worry, however. A steel strike would upset many apple-carts. The companies have insisted they must have higher prices if they grant the higher wages the wage stabilization board recommends. Wilson, in his resignation letter, indicated that the President insists that steel profits are high enough to absorb the wage boost.

Their spokesman says the wage hikes would wipe out most of the profits—some say all of the profits. The President and the advisers he is heading apparently do not think so.

Other businessmen beyond the steel officials have a direct interest in the conflict. Many have regarded Wilson as holding the line for them against the more radical element in the control.

Manufacturers feel that if Wilson's resignation means a switch to permitting higher wages, a new inflation spiral is inevitable. They reason that sooner or later the control chiefs will have to let prices rise too. A steel price rise is regarded as widely basic, because steel ties in with so many other industries. And because steel is regarded as a leader, both in setting wage patterns and price trends. Businessmen have been worrying anyway about the setback to the economy they foresee when the defense program is topped and government spending in the durable industries drops off. They wonder if the President's decision not to run will change the policy in Washington on defense and toward business in general. And they fear the labor unrest that seems to be foreshadowed in Wilson's resignation.

He had heard that the patients routinely felt in love with these "psycho" doctors, that that was part of the treatment. The thought was raw anger. He shifted his body on the leather seat. Maybe she was setting her cap for a more socially important guy than a struggling bio-physicist who'd been canned from a first-class hospital. Well, he'd give it one more try. He had to see her. If she brushed him off today, he'd give up. Maybe. He didn't want to make a nuisance of himself, he had that much pride left, didn't he? Actually, he rationalized, it wasn't a lack of pride that kept him courting, it was the conviction that Jennet really wanted him and wouldn't admit it. She was, he believed, the kind of girl who needed a firm hand.

Maybe she was setting her cap for a more socially important guy than a struggling bio-physicist who'd been canned from a first-class hospital. Well, he'd give it one more try. He had to see her. If she brushed him off today, he'd give up. Maybe. He didn't want to make a nuisance of himself, he had that much pride left, didn't he? Actually, he rationalized, it wasn't a lack of pride that kept him courting, it was the conviction that Jennet really wanted him and wouldn't admit it. She was, he believed, the kind of girl who needed a firm hand.

He had heard that the patients routinely felt in love with these "psycho" doctors, that that was part of the treatment. The thought was raw anger. He shifted his body on the leather seat. White Deer Clu To Hear Teacher

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Cameron Marsh, history instructor in the Pampa High School, will meet with the Venado Blanco club, Tuesday evening, in the home of Mrs. Gayle Spann, to discuss the major issues in the forthcoming elections and election procedure in the precinct meetings.

Mrs. D. C. Ash, saleswoman at Zule's in Pampa, was the guest speaker at the last meeting, presenting a program on china and silverware.
