barage of shells into their shore positions for more than three hours," the lieutenant said.

"Then the troops moved in to shore. I was in the first wave. We had to wade through the surf waist-deep and had no opposition until after hitting the beach. Then the snipers began operating from high in the cocoanut trees which fringe the island.

"They let us move up well on shore before they opened up, then began picking us off.

"I was heading a machine-gun squad. We managed to get some distance inland when I saw a Jap officer come tumbling over fallen cocoanut trees towards us. He had a sword held high over his head and kept shaking his head in what I thought was a token of surrender. I advanced cautiously toward him and motioned him to drop the sword. He kept coming and so did I.

"Two of my men were on each side of me. The Jap suddenly lunged forward and brought down his sword with a sweep. I put up my arm to ward off the blow and he slashed me across the left wrist. The power of the blow continued until the point of the weapon struck me on the foot. Before I knew what happened one of my men let the Jap have it, right between the eyes. He was deadlier than a mackeral.

"He said the Japanese put suicide snipers in the trees and dug deep underground zig-zag tunnels with auxiliary off-shoots.

"Americans had to go into the tunnels to knock off the Japanese one by one. That was why it took three days, the lieutenant believes, although a comparatively small Japanese force defended the island.

"They were just as treacherous as we'd been told they would be and I knew ruthless. It was our first action but it didn't take our men long to get 'trigger happy' once they saw their buddies dropping around them. The men of the 27th went to town.

"Although I was struck down a little more than four hours after hitting the beach, I learned from others before I was evacuated that we took very few prisoners. We killed every Jap in sight.

"There was no air opposition over Makin. The lieutenant said some tanks were put ashore along with artillery but the Japanese were dug in so deep it was hard to root them out.

two weeks during the present fiscal year." A rough estimate would be around $4,000,000,000.

Here is a summation of the main provisions of the bills:

Unemployment insurance: $15 a week for a single man or woman, $5 additional for a dependent wife, and $2.50 additional for each dependent child up to a maximum of $25 a week. Benefits would be paid through the social security board cooperating with state unemployment agencies.

Age and survivors' insurance: Credits for military service would be allowed for each month of service since Sept. 16, 1940—the date of the selective service act—whether or not the service man previously had been covered by the social security act.

Wagner said that only about half the men in service are covered by existing state unemployment insurance programs, because they were engaged in farming or other excluded occupations, and that even those covered probably would find the payments inadequate. He cited that a majority of the states pay a maximum of $15 a week and that the minimum goes below $5 weekly in nine states.

It took a war to do it, but America's Thanksgiving day was celebrated throughout the world.

In Chungking, in Italy, in England, in Jerusalem, India, and in almost every other where American uniforms are found, there was some form of observance. On part of the war fronts, the holiday bird was raised after fairs of thousands of miles by plane and ship.

President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving day proclamation was read wherever servicemen were gathered, and religious services were held where the war permitted. At home these families who had been able to buy turkeys, had the usual holiday dinner.

And the war goes on. America today counted 107 violent deaths on Thanksgiving day, with travel restrictions and other wartime factors credited with holding traffic fatalities down to 44 throughout the nation.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, (AP)—It's a small army after all.

Capt. Charles Parker, former city editor of the Raleigh (N.C.) News and Observer, received a message to telephone a certain number. He dialed who answered the phone but his sister, Lt. Elizabeth Parker of the Was.

"I didn't even know she had left to go overseas," said Parker, who is serving with the Allied control commission. It called for a celebration so they knocked off work and went over to the Red Cross officers club for a dish of ice cream.

"I knew he was over here somewhere and made a check after I arrived here," Lt. Parker said. "As soon as I located him I left a message for him to call, but he didn't know who it was until he got on the phone."

Then comparing notes, they found that for two weeks they had been working in adjoining buildings.

Wags have been in the North African battle area almost a year and the first contingent has landed in Italy, the closest they have been permitted to the fighting front. Only five were in the first group that came here last December. Now there are hundreds. The latest arrivals are called "rookies." Those who came last summer are "veterans" and the original settlers are now known to the others as "natives."

Spies Find Out G-Men Aren't Terribly Dumb

By FRANK I. WELLES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (AP)—There is glitter in the griminess of spy-catching. G-men get a chuckle out of Axis agents who think that Americans are only about two whoops and a holler removed from a wigwag.

The eight submarine saboteurs, all convicted and six executed, who landed on Florida and Long Island beaches, started out with their briefcases full of old-fashioned outlawed gold banknotes and, to top it off, the money was marked with Japanese characters (as is their habit) by Japanese bankers who were swapping American dollars for German marks.

G-men conducted a known Jap spy through a great war plan "stupidly unaware" that all the while he was snapping candid camera pictures. When he blazed grinning thanks, they handed him a well-publicized newspaper file of better pictures than he had sneaked.

J. Edgar Hoover's boys sold faked blueprints of a war plan layout to an international spy who had been working for Hitler, deported him and sent the $600 they collected to the U.S. treasury.

They turned in $17,000 after breaking up the Frederick Luquesne spy ring in New York. An undercover man posing as paymaster simply took the funds arriving from Germany, deliberately underpaid the spies to make them sore at Hitler, and sent the savings to Secretary Morgenthau.

FBI nailed down Japanese spies 24 hours after Pearl Harbor. It seems G-men knew all of them, and say they could have picked up most of their information in the movies.

One of J. Edgar's favorite stories concerns the Japanese spy who tried to smuggle a message for the Mikado asking for orders which he would carry out even if he had to face macheteblades of the American "barbarians."

When G-men closed in on him, he ate half of the note and they offered to let him eat the rest — after they had read it.

Atlantic Charter Is Praised by Carol

NEW YORK, Nov. 26 (AP)—Although banning its broadcast Tuesday night, the office of censorship later approved for publication text of "a speech by former King Carol of Rumania in which he declared that the Atlantic Charter will become the constitution of the world of tomorrow."

The self-exiled ruler said that his people were "waiting for help so as to pass with all their hearts and souls, in the moment when it will be most useful for the military action of the United Nations, to the side of the democracies."

"There is a split between the nation and its leader (Gen. Ion Antonescu)," he continued. "The Antonescu government is fighting in the files of the tyrants."

The Negroes joined up, took his money, had a swell entertainment, but pitched the Black Dragon Society's scion in the pokies when he told Hoosier Negroes they were brothers of the Japanese.

Wilhelm Kunze, the successor to Fritz Kuhn, the Bund leader, member of the Teutonic Society and the Friends of New Germany, propounded in the wrong places that the selective service act violated the constitutional rights of Bund members to defy their own government and advised them to avoid the draft pending repeal of this law of enslavement.

A draft dodger came upon evil days when he got his addresses mixed at the draft board and both his wife and the postmaster who thought he was single received certificates of allotment in each other's name.

The army and navy sends FBI millions of names and fingerprints to check for habitual criminals or enemy aliens who might slip into confidential civilian or military positions. Although FBI has 75,000,000 fingerprint files, it can identify tough customers in about five minutes.

Counter-sabotage work has been enhanced tremendously, Hoover says, as a result of special and secret training given to 150,000 metropolitan policemen since 1939.

Since G-men have been in charge of it, draft-dodging has dropped to one in 1,000 compared with seven in 1,000 during the last war. It was a misdemeanor to dodge the 1917-18 draft. Now it is a felony punishable by five years in jail.

The public has been a big help in holding down espionage-sabotage. The only trouble is that everyone apparently wants to be a spy-catcher and some folks get too rambunctious.

One woman wrote FBI a 27-page letter informing on a neighbor who she committed a greater offense than to let her go climb up a rafter.

But, says Hoover, he'd rather have 99 false rumors to run down than to miss one spy or saboteur.

—BUV VICTORY STAMPS

If there be a general peace conference in the midst of all these emotions, as has been the practice hitherto, then four nations will send 2,000 diplomats to orate, to conspire, quarrel and grab.

Herbert Hoover.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Ralph W. Gallagher, president of the Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey), says in his opinion South America, particularly Venezuela and Colombia, "holds the greatest future for expansion of the world's oil production capacity."

Gallagher, who recently returned from an inspection trip to Venezuelan oil producing and refining centers, predicts that crude oil production in Venezuela soon will reach 1,000,000 barrels daily, nearly double the present daily output of 585,000 barrels.

Navy Requests Big Landing Craft Order

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. (AP)—Indicating large-scale plans for future invasions by American armies, Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee has introduced a bill calling for construction or acquisition of 55,000,000 worth of landing craft and auxiliary vessels.

Vinson acted on the navy's request in offering the bill. Companion legislation appeared in the senate where Senator Walsh (D-Mass.) introduced a measure authorizing the navy to build or acquire 1,000,000 tons of landing and patrol craft and 2,500,000 tons of auxiliary vessels.

Walsh said the ships were for use in amphibious operations. Vinson stated the navy would need $5,000,000,000 worth of equipment in addition to supplies for which appropriations already have been made. He added that he knew nothing about the navy planning to turn back several billions of dollars already appropriated, as was reported last week.

"The Prodigal Son's Father" Is Sermon Topic For Sunday

The Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist church, will be in his pulpit for both services Sunday using as his subject for the morning hour, "The Prodigal Son's Father."

Special music will feature the forty-voiced robed choir under the direction of H. Paul Briggs, associate pastor. Mrs. Douglas Carver has been requested to play her own arrangement of "The Golden Bell" for the offertory at the morning hour.

A regular feature in the evening services is the singing of gospel hymns by the choir and congregation. In addition to the congregational singing, a special arrangement of "The Prodigal Son" by Chisum will be sung by the choir. Mr. Briggs announced, supporting the sermon topic announced by the pastor.

"People not privileged to attend public worship are urged to tune in radio station K.P.D.N. for the 11:00 service," said Rev. Carver.

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Almas Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all churches of Christ. Scientist, on Sunday, November 28.

The Golden Text is: "Be merciful unto me, O God; for man would swallow me up; he fighting daily oppresseth me. . . . What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee" (Psalms 56:1, 3).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh by dwelling. For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways" (Psalms 91:10, 11).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth and Love come nearer in the hour of woe, when strong faith or spiritual strength wrestles and prevails through the understanding of God" (page 567).

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—Texas' two members of the house agriculture committee, Representative Dick Kleberg of Corpus Christi and Bob Poage of Waco, are leading the attack in the committee on food subsidies.

They've fought the Office of Price Administration loud and long on practically all its proposals, especially on its programs as to livestock and citrus fruits.

During hearings by the committee on citrus fruit, the Texans brought from OPA officials an admission that they favored a plan whereby the war food administration would buy up the entire citrus crop, a plan which the WFA itself disapproved.

Congressman Milton West of Brownsville doesn't serve on the agriculture committee, but takes an active interest in OPA orders concerning citrus fruit and fresh vegetables. He expresses fear that OPA's plans for government purchase of the citrus crop is but the entering wedge, so to speak for a program under which the government eventually will buy all crops.

"That would be a step toward complete regimentation of the people of this country," he says.

Hanging on the wall of the House Rivers and Harbors committee is a life-size portrait of Representative Mansfield of Columbus. The Texan has been on the committee for nearly a quarter century and has been its chairman for a decade.

Recently "Judge" Mansfield, as he affectionately is known, received a title to the portrait, which was painted by the noted Russian-born artist, Boris Gordon. A group of Texas admirers hired the artist to do the portrait.

The title was sent to the 82-year-old congressman by former Lieut. Governor Walter Woodul, who paid special recognition to Roy Miller of Corpus Christi for his part in arranging for the painting.

Representative Gene Worley of Shamrock is author of a soldier vote bill now pending in the house. The Penland legislator frequently talks with soldiers at the union depot near the capitol, and finds them unanimously in favor of the legislation. The bill (HR 3436) provides machinery to make practical the right soldiers already have to vote. The Texan explains that under present regulations and lack of uniformity as to various state requirements, it actually is impracticable for a man in the armed forces to cast a ballot. He asserted that only 28,000 service men voted last year.

Bombardier Sends Bomb Down Stack

WITH THE FIFTH U. S. AIR FORCE IN NEW GUINEA, Nov. 26—(AP)—When the Liberator's radio operator messaged its base: "One near miss and one direct hit amid-ship 8,000-ton freighter—ship afire," officers around the radio shack grinned but replied the reconnaissance crew would have to see the picture before crediting it.

The unit's photographic officer, who has spent two years poring over aerial photos, gave the verdict to Bombardier Second Lt. Dan Scurock, Butler, Ala. The picture showed the first 1,000-pounder had struck about 50 feet from the ship and the second had gone "down the stack," leaving a huge column of smoke amidship.

The Liberator piloted by First Lt. Heston McDonnell, Lamesa, Texas, was on a long searching flight north of Kavieng when it sighted three merchant ships escorted by a destroyer. The pilot continued the reconnaissance, setting his course to intercept the convoy on the return trip.

An hour later the Liberator came over at medium height for the bomb run. A Japanese floatplane leveled off for a frontal attack and Observer Bombardier Second Lt. Elwood Hisey, Harrisburg, Pa., manned the trap guns.

As it came out of its bomb run the Liberator was attacked by eight Zeros but it headed out to sea without damage. Hisey was credited with shooting down one enemy plane during the attacks.

A half-ton of coal is required to provide the energy to make the steel for a one-ton aerial bomb.

Plains Warehouse Cotton to Be Moved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—The Commodity Credit Corp. has ordered removal of approximately 56,000 bales of cotton from West Texas warehouses in a move to eliminate a glut hampering growers seeking loans on this year's staple, Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) said.

The CCC also intends to order further shipments of cotton stored in West Texas, particularly in the South Plains area, to points throughout various Southern states as soon as available warehouse space can be located, Mahon added.

Most West Texas warehouses were filled with last year's cotton when the 1943 picking season began, said Mahon, and favorable growing and harvesting conditions have resulted in tens of thousands of bales being stored on the ground for lack of warehouse space.

"Growers can not get a loan on their cotton without warehouse receipts," he continued. "As a result, many are forced to sell their crop at a sacrifice in order to pay pickers and settle other obligations."

The points from which the cotton has been ordered removed, and the number of bales to be shipped from each, as given out by Mahon, follow:

Brownfield 9,800; Littlefield 10,200; Slaton 4,943; Lubbock 8,000; Tahoka 2,000; Plainview 2,523; Lamesa 13,866.

Mahon was not informed of the points to which the cotton would be shipped.

Tanks Put Out African Blazes

American light and medium tanks are the best desert firefighting equipment in the world.

Col. Ward E. Becker, army ordnance officer recently returned from Bizerte, informed Captain R. M. Smith, commanding Pantex ordnance plant, of the extraordinary overseas service of many automotive vehicles.

Fire was a constant hazard at all ordnance ammunition dumps in North Africa, particularly when the dread African sirocco or sand storm blew for three, six or nine days.

During the Tunisian campaign, fire started at a mammoth ammunition dump where Col. Becker was serving as ordnance officer in a base section which supplied the American second corps. Of the total supply, more than 2,000 tons exploded, principally as a result of white-hot fragments of metal flying distances of 400 yards and successively firing other piles of ammunition. But the bulk of the ammunition was saved by using light and medium tanks.

Ordnance officers, Captain Smith said, discovered that light and medium tanks were extremely effective in fighting grass fires which were started by the white-hot flying fragments. By running back and forth across the burning grass and stubble, the fire was quickly extinguished. This knowledge was particularly valuable in a country where water was at a premium. Whenever a fire started in am-

Book Attempts To Give Cure For Race Riots

DETROIT, Nov. 26—(AP)—What causes race riots? Did the outbreak in New York, Detroit, Los Angeles, Beaumont stem from a common cause? What steps should be taken to prevent recurrences?

These are some of the questions attempted to answer in a new book, "Race Riot," published by the Dryden press. The authors are Alfred McClung Lee, chairman of the department of sociology at Wayne university and executive director of the institute for propaganda analysis, and Norman D. Humphrey, assistant professor of sociology at Wayne.

The book has been labeled "dynamite" by several critics here. But as dynamite is used to clear an ice-jammed river to prevent flooding, so is it used in the book in an effort to clear away the flood of rumors which has persisted since early last summer.

As the Detroit race riot, in which 34 negroes were killed, the authors concluded in general:

1. That it had been brewing for many months, probably years.
2. That little or nothing was done to prevent it.
3. That the city was unprepared to handle it.
4. That most official reports on the riot have been superficial and evasive.
5. That little has been done to prevent a recurrence.

As to the causes of race riots, the authors say that are "the end products of thousands of little irritants in an atmosphere of growing tension." Riots are nearer, the authors continue, when such catchwords as "Niggers" for Negroes, and "pinks" and "alays" (satirical for white "superiors") are used to sum up attitudes toward the other race.

"Take such events and catch phrases, and then think of people with patience frayed by the fatigue of war-prolonged work-weeks and the snapping of war-strained nerves and tempers. Think of the overcrowded dwellings for which exorbitant rent is paid and of competition to obtain the slim shelter. Think of the saloons, the pool parlors, and the movies as the only easily accessible recreational facilities to furnish much needed relief from these crowded living conditions. Think of the tension that grips both races.

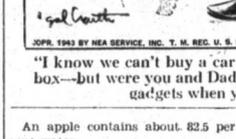

"At such a time, a single spectacular incident—a riot of accumulated emotional hatreds and bitternesses.

The relatively short span of time during which racial outbreaks were experienced in Los Angeles, New York, Beaumont and other cities as well as Detroit, caused many citizens to wonder whether subversive elements were at work. The authors contend that each city's problem was unique in some respects. The Harlem riots differed from those in Detroit, they say, in three ways: first, the Negroes in Harlem did not clash with white gangs; they rioted out of sheer frustration, "the frustration of black men in a white man's world"; secondly, city officials and police in New York took such immediate and decisive action to prevent the outbreak from spreading that they brought a statement of commendation from a prominent Negro leader; in the third place, no notable "climate of intolerance" existed among the whites of New York.

In the opinion of the authors, "the report was not only singularly blind to the federal constitution and the Atlantic Charter; it also overlooked the responsibilities of white individuals and groups for helping to start and carry on the race riots."

What can be done to prevent a recurrence of rioting? The authors offer a double-barreled program:

1. An official bi-racial commission with power and budget to serve as a means for co-ordinating these facilities of governmental agencies; (a) fact-finding (social workers, police, court system, investigators attached to other departments); (b) analytic (executive and experts serving the appropriate departments); and (c) implementation (all facilities—legislative, judicial and administrative—capable of carrying out constructive inter-racial measures.
2. A civic bi-racial committee sponsored by leading civic, labor, religious, business, and educational bodies. This organization can have the advantages of flexibility and informality usually imposed in a governmental instrument.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Can an employe find out from the government whether his boss actually has asked permission to raise his salary?

Not if he writes to the internal revenue department. But the war labor board has a different attitude.

Right now the demands of farmers for higher prices and of organized labor for higher wages is putting a squeeze on unorganized white collar workers.

Perhaps no fewer than 5 million of them, according to WLB statistics, have received no salary increase for three years despite rising living costs.

Under President Roosevelt's wage and salary stabilization program of a year ago this is the plan:

The internal revenue department was authorized to approve or reject all salary increases for persons making over $5,000 yearly and for all persons in executive, professional or administrative jobs making under $5,000.

WLB was given authority over salary increases for all other kinds of workers.

Here is the kind of letter which comes into the internal revenue department:

"My boss tells me he has asked your permission to grant me a raise but that you have been delaying an answer. Is this true? Or will you please tell me why I can't get quicker action?"

The revenue department considers salary adjustments a matter to be dealt with directly between the department and the employer, and treats them as confidentially as it treats an individual's income tax.

Therefore the department, when a check of its files shows that the boss mentioned in the inquiring letter never has asked for a salary increase for the letter writer, does not tell the employe that.

It suggests simply that he or she consult the boss on a salary question.

But at WLB this was the opinion given: Inquiring employes should be told when their employers untruthfully say they have asked government permission to raise a salary.

It was further explained at WLB: Such letters would go to regional boards which have to solve the problem of individual salary adjustments.

Argument Among Yanks Reveals Reigning Pin-Up Girl

Jane Russell was pictorially famous before she ever was seen on the screen, and has remained a celebrity in spite of her one, unsuccessful movie. Reasons for her pin-up popularity are visible in this picture used on The Stars and Stripes' new calendar.

By MARGUERITE YOUNG
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 23—Regardless of the wide and conflicting claims of actresses' press-agents, there is one reigning pin-up queen of the Yanks overseas. She is Jane Russell, and she holds her title by right of controversy.

An authoritative report on the pin-up situation has been brought back to the States by Sgt. John Willig, staff writer for the African edition of The Stars and Stripes. The sergeant's real mission in this country is to tell the soldiers abroad about the folks at home, but for an interview he doesn't mind revealing his liaison activities. Neither does he mind talking about Miss Russell, one of whose photos created a four-month-long furor or argument among readers of The Stars and Stripes.

The paper got no back-talk about Dirty Gerlie from Bizerte, whom it immortalized, nor about any of the pin-up cuties whose pictures have been published as a weekly feature from the time the paper started last December. But a barrage began in March when the picture of the week turned out to be a front view of Jane ("My dear Miss Russell, could that be music?" pined on her midriff atop a diving board).

A Private Protests.

"If that is the way the girls live back in the States... I'd rather be in my grave right now," protested a letter from a horrified Pvt. R. A. Guggenheimer. It was printed, but there was no room for the flood of communications that followed. The controversy's last word, composed jointly by Sergeants William P. Collins and James E. Lee, came weeks later:

"After looking at the photo every day since publication, we see nothing objectionable about it. We've been told many times we're fighting for liberty and womanhood, so why in hell can't we see a little of the latter?"

Balancing pin-up pros and cons from everywhere, The Stars and Stripes decided that the pros had it, but definitely. So in July, in answer to many requests for a pin-up calendar, the paper issued one graced by another picture of Miss Russell—this time a torso job showing her seated tailor fashion on some hay and wearing a fragmentary frock.

"There'll be pin-up girls as long as there are so many soldiers and so few live girls overseas," observed Sergeant Willig, soberly.

About the girls whom the soldiers see, he said: "Those French gals must have been wised up by their mothers, who were girls in World War I. Somebody sure warned 'em that the Yanks aren't serious. The fellows who have been in England complain most. British gals are friendly. But the French—those toujour l'amour gals, as we thought—you make a date with one and her mama and 3-year-old brother also meet you at the movie."

The Stars and Stripes, (North African edition) is a four-page daily published in Algiers, Oran, Casablanca, and Palermo. They started printing in Sicily a week before Messina fell. The weekly edition which handles the pin-ups is flown to all theaters and distributed to the troops.

Willig said Miss Russell is the most traveled pin-up of the war because the Yanks not only carry the calendar around at times decorating their foxholes with it, but also have sent home the controversial pictures.

"Yanks overseas do have their serious side, Willig reports, and he's here to satisfy that side's home news hunger. He's their first home-front roving correspondent.

"Which makes me a one-man lobby for the soldiers' vote I reckon," he said. "The boys all want to know how they're going to be able to vote in the presidential election, and one of my running stories will report the progress of arrangements to enable them to vote. They also want to know how they are going to be mustered out—are married men to be demobilized first, or those who are needed for jobs?"

"I'll tell them, too, about the food situation; what goes on in their uniforms; how the younger generation is behaving; and what are we figuring on for after the war. The boys seem to me to be in a big hurry to get home—but not to crawl into their shells."

Knowing exactly the viewpoint of the man in combat and what he cannot understand about the homefront happenings he hears about, Willig hopes to clear up considerable confusion.

Friends Say Patton Can't Comprehend Shell-Shock in Army

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—Long-time friends of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, seeking to explain his impulsive slapping of an unnerfed soldier receiving hospital treatment, recalled today that "Old Blood and Guts" never could comprehend that shell-shock can be as real as a shrapnel wound.

The pistol-peckin' papa of the 7th Army who goes into action with a pearl-handled revolver was said by these friends to have a blind spot toward warfar's psychological or nervous casualties; he remains unconvinced by medical evidence that all wounds are not necessarily visible to the naked eye.

In the absence of any official report to Washington on the episode, for which Patton apologized to his entire command, they assume the hard-driving general found a group of shell-shocked patients in a hospital tent and, under the stress of a developing campaign, leaped to the conclusion that they were "gold bricking," or malingering.

He is said to have denounced an entire group in his fury, while expressing sympathy for men who were "really wounded." Then he struck one of the soldiers on the back of the head, knocking the man's helmet-liner off.

Although retaining his command of the 7th Army, Patton received from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower such a castigation as has seldom been given to a three-star general commanding an army. It was not a formal reprimand—although there was speculation in informed quarters that officials here might insist that a formal entry be made on the general's record.

I have a hundred other things to do in order to keep healthy minds and healthy bodies in school and at work.

I have to keep my household equipment in working order I'm taking extra special care of such things as the refrigerator and the vacuum cleaner. I'm a sort of morale officer at my house, too. Keeping the family spirit up requires attention to a number of little things such as cleaning lamps and fixtures regularly.

And I'm finding a lot of other ways to fight the enemy... like saving grease for gun fire, starting a family scrap hunt, and keeping household expenses down so there will be more dimes and dollars for War Bonds.

The Doctor's Daughters
By FAITH BALDWIN
"MY LITTLE BOY..."
CHAPTER XXIII
The busy summer had been a very busy one for the VNA. There was a good deal of sickness, although while there had been a few polio cases, the disease had by no means reached the proportions of an epidemic. But there was persistent summer flu and colds, and, finally, as Emily had feared, an outbreak of typhoid in the mill section.
She spoke bitterly to Frank about it. She said, "If you'd done as I suggested..."
"I did," he said, "but Carter bucked me. The Board of Health people seemed to think that everything's all right. I hadn't the least idea..."
"You thought I was hysterical? Well, I wasn't. I've no business saying this, but Doctor Sellop isn't the man for the job. He's old, he's ill, he delegates his authority to other people... people who can be bought..."
"Who do you mean that old Carter..." began Frank, startled.
"Find out for yourself," she said, "a little money spent on your housing problem would have saved this... a lot less money than may have been spent on bribes... in the long run..."
The Elsters were settled now, John Elster had his job, and Doctor Manneering had given him the small cottage which he owned, the next door to his own house. Mrs. Elster helped Nellie, in lieu of rent, and Mary was free to run and play. Mrs. Elster, with rest, good food and freedom from anxiety was very much stronger, and could do light work, and the sewing. Now and then when she had some free time Emily stopped in to see them.
The Elsters, Hilda and Gus, were only two of a dozen such cases, with whom she kept in touch long after her actual services were required.
"Yomine?"

She had thought it was something she had seen. Mrs. Reman explained, kids were always eating something they shouldn't. "Has he been like this long?" asked Emily. "Like what?" "Droopy," said Emily. "She spoke to the child, didn't she, Timmy?" "Does your head ache, Timmy?" Timmy whimpered and put his hand to his forehead. His head did ache, dreadfully. His mother said, "I didn't think it was nothing. But just a little while ago he had like a fit." Convulsion, thought Emily. She asked, "Timmy, can you move your neck, is your neck stiff?" Timmy's neck was very stiff. Pulse, temperature. She said to the older girl, "Get the children out of the room. Where's the nearest telephone?" "There was a store, down the street." She asked, "Who's your doctor?" But Mrs. Reman shook her head. She didn't have no doctor she said. "She'd been going to the clinic, because of the coming baby. She'd have it in the hospital, her husband's sister was to look after the children. Her husband, she added, had been dead for three months. "Do you know how to use the telephone, Gloria?" Gloria nodded. "I'll call the number and ask for Doctor Thompson. Tell him Emily wants him to come right away. Give him your address. Let me know at once if he isn't there." Waiting for Gloria to return she hovered about, crying it inadequately. She asked, in a terrified whisper, "Could it be that—that?" She swallowed, she could not say the words... infantile paralysis. But she had heard of it, she said, someone in the next street had had it. Emily said, "We will have to wait until Doctor Thompson comes." She looked at the pitiful, flushed child, with the heavy lids. Jim, she thought, Jim, hurry...

Who Must File Tax Statements Listed

DALLAS, Nov. 26—(AP)—Many taxpayers apparently are confused as to whether or not they must file another declaration of estimated income on Dec. 15, says S. L. Mayo, assistant collector of internal revenue here.

Saying many inquiries had been received at the tax office, Mayo explained that:

Those who filed declarations Sept. 15 do not have to file again in December unless they find they underestimated the tax they will owe by more than 20 per cent or unless their income has increased enough to make their September estimate more than 20 per cent short.

Those who filed in September and now find they underestimated, or overestimated, should file an amended declaration Dec. 15. No forms for making amended declarations will be sent out, but may be obtained from the collector's office.

Farmers who did not file a declaration in September and others who did not file but now find their income situation requiring it, must file declarations Dec. 15.

About Dec. 1, the collector will send out statements of taxes to those who filed in September and paid only part of the taxes. Copies of the statements should be returned to the collector along with payments.

FBI's Counter-Espionage Saves Americans from Hitler Agents

(Editor's Note: The reason why Axis spy and sabotage plots against the U. S. haven't succeeded is the FBI's system of "counter spies." Here's the story of how this war of nerves works.)

By FRANK I. WELLER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24—(AP)—Fear of the FBI counterespionage caused Hitler to warn his new espionage-sabotage graduates.

"Do not arouse suspicion of the G-men!"

He doesn't want this gang to meet the fate of his early underground agents in the U. S.

German plans went into a tail-spin when G-men secretly operated with Hitler's first spies and about all he got was a mess of misinformation. His agents had the dope all right, but it was FBI-dictated when it reached Germany and caused more harm than good.

It's almost an Edgar Allen Poe story the way G-men captured 33 ranking members of the dangerous Frederick Duquesne spy ring in New York. J. Edgar Hoover says that never in espionage history did a country stand to lose more than this one.

All of Duquesne's crew were master spies. They were planted in war factories, shipyards, within the armed forces and in some government bureaus in Washington.

They had details for firing ships, including the French liner Normandie (which later burned accidentally), accurate details on Chrysler tank production, airplane production, the Ford plants, defense plans of the Panama Canal, correct specifications on Sperry and Norden bombight parts, and data on just about every war plant, communications center, American weapon, steel and munitions production, convoys and armed service training posts.

FBI contacted William Seboid, a German-born naturalized and loyal American citizen coerced into the Duquesne gang by the gestapo. He secretly kept G-men informed. Through him they set up a short-wave radio outfit to transmit reports to Germany—all of them fixed up by the FBI.

Even Seboid didn't know FBI was making motion pictures and sound recordings of his interviews with Nazi big-wigs.

One of the kingpins was the bald late-fortyish German Major Paul Borchardt from the last war who

Chang Kai-Shek May Participate In War Parley

LONDON, Nov. 26—(AP)—The long-awaited conference between President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, which reports from abroad indicate is imminent, assumed greater potential proportions today as rumors circulated in London that Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek might participate.

In keeping with the strict official silence which has been maintained here in connection with all reports concerning a possible meeting of the American, British and Russian statesmen the rumors concerning Chiang passed without comment.

The presence of the Chinese generalissimo, however, doubtless would be welcome as demonstrating the determination of the four powers to collaborate in keeping peace after the war, regardless of the fact that they are not now fighting together on all fronts.

Even without Chiang's participation, any meeting between Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin unquestionably would exceed in scope and significance anything previously attempted in the field of international diplomacy.

Not the least important factor would be the demonstration of free national equality in a decision by

Gas Coupons Must Be Returned If Car Sold

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26—(AP)—The office of price administration has announced a plan intended to establish more effective control over the return of unused gasoline coupons when ownership of automobiles is transferred.

Effective Dec. 1, the plan involves close cooperation between state motor vehicle departments and local rationing boards. It calls for return of coupons before a car is transferred.

Ration boards will issue a receipt in duplicate for the coupons. The original copy will be sent to the state registration department with the new owner's application for registration. The purchaser will use the other copy when he applies for the ration board for gasoline coupons.

Dealers and other persons holding new or used vehicles for resale will be required to file an inventory of their stocks, as of the close of business Nov. 30 and obtain a receipt for each vehicle. A duplicate copy must be given to the purchaser in any sale.

The three leaders to come together at some halfway point for a friendly discussion of their mutual problems—a demonstration more impressive by contrast with Adolf Hitler's lordly habit of summoning his vassals to Germany for talks.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by James Marlow and George Zielke

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Good-time Charlies get their spending money cut under congress' new tax program.

It hits race-track fans, night-clubbers, pool players, bowlers, and drinkers of whisky, wine and beer. It hits the things women think they need to make them more attractive, like cosmetics, furs and jewelry.

And it hits residence telephones but not pay stations.

The house ways and means committee, which produced the program, thinks it will raise $2,130,300,000 in new revenue for the government. Of that total $1,368,500,000 would be in excise taxes—taxes on some things people buy.

The house is expected to approve the program this week. Then it goes to the Senate which probably will do the same with little alteration. It won't become law, of course, until both houses agree on it and the president signs it.

The committee says the excise taxes are aimed at obvious luxuries and if people think the taxes too high they can do without the taxed items.

Following is a list of some of the things which are to be taxed under the new program and the rate proposed increase over the present tax:

Local telephone calls—from 10 to 15 per cent. Only those with phones in their homes really will have to pay. That will be on their monthly bill. There is no tax on local calls from an unattended telephone booth, as in the corner drugstore. The telephone coin boxes have no slots for penny taxes on a 5-cent call.

Night clubs—The tax on the check goes up from 5 per cent of the total to 20 per cent. On a $3 check, for example, it would be $3.90 instead of $3.15.

Fair-weather betting on race horses—A flat 5 per cent tax on bets. (The committee says betting at the tracks broke all records this year.)

Club dues and initiation fees—Raised from 11 to 20 per cent.

Bowling alleys—The present $10 yearly tax per alley goes to a straight 20 per cent of the charge.

Pool or billiard tables—The present $10 tax per table rises to $20. Certain toilet preparations, mainly cosmetics and perfumes—From 10 to 25 per cent.

Furs and fur-trimmed articles—From 10 to 25 per cent at retail.

Jewelry—The retail tax rises from 10 to 20 per cent.

Transportation—The present 10 per cent tax on tickets goes up from 10 to 15 per cent.

Luggage—A straight 25 per cent tax at retail.

Amusement admissions—A rise from 1 to 2 cents per 10 cents or fraction thereof on the price of a ticket.

Distilled spirits (like whisky)—Tax raised from $6 to $9 a gallon.

Beer and ale—From $7 to $8 a barrel.

There are various proposed increases in postage rates starting with a rise from the present 2 cents per ounce for local delivery to 3 cents and on down the line.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"That's really a great editorial you just read to us, Judge. Where did you say it appeared?"

"In 'The Stars and Stripes'... the newspaper of the U.S. Armed Forces in Europe. Kind of gives us folks back home something to think about, doesn't it, Bill?"

"It certainly does, Judge. Particularly the last paragraph. Would you mind reading that again?"

"Glad to, Bill. It says, 'We can remember the days of prohibition, when moonshine whiskey made quick fortunes for bootleggers, crooked politicians and dishonest police officials. As a result, we claim we know what we want in the way of liquor legislation and feel those at home should wait until we return before initiating further legislation on liquor control."

"Out of fairness to our boys over there fighting, Judge, how could we disobey such a wish?"
