Christian Science Sunday Study Topic

"Truth" is the subject of the lesson-lesson which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Jan. 23.

The Golden Text is: "Ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he." (Deuteronomy 32: 3-4).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-lesson is the following from the Bible: "It will praise thee, O Lord, among the people: I will sing unto thee among the nations. For thy mercy is great unto the heavens, and thy truth unto the clouds" (Psalms 57: 9, 10).

The lesson-lesson also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Christian Science brings to light Truth and its supremacy, universal harmony, the entireness of God, good, and the nothingness of evil" (page 293).

First Baptists To Hold Baptismal Service Sunday

"Christ Above All" is the subject that has been announced for the topic for the sermon Sunday morning by the pastor of the First Baptist church, J. M. Miller stated today for the evening hour.

The ordinance of baptism will be administered at the Sunday morning hour. A number of candidates have been invited for this service.

"People who are unable to attend places of worship are invited and urged to tune in Radio Station KPON which broadcasts the 11 o'clock service from the First Baptist church auditorium each Sunday." F. R. Carver, pastor, said.

Pampa will always find a welcome in the First Baptist Church "where the Visitor is Never a Stranger," he concluded.

Rev. Sumrall Speaks On Post-War Topic Sunday Morning

"Traveling Toward Tomorrow" will be the sermon subject of Rev. T. D. Sumrall at 11 o'clock hour Sunday at Central Baptist church.

"All of us are looking toward some goal for tomorrow for we largely live on expectation and imagination," stated Rev. Sumrall. "The days of tomorrow, after the war, are the themes of national leaders, but what are we thinking of in the realm of religion?" asked Rev. Sumrall. "Traveling religiously is the greatest travel of all," he said.

"Vengeance Vindicated" will be the theme of the evening sermon at 8. "The wrath of God will be fully justified in the day of judgment," stated the pastor. "This will be an evangelistic service and every one who knows not Christ, should attend," he said.

Music for the services will consist of the familiar songs of faith. Those songs will be sung by a large choir and congregation. O. H. Gilstrap will have charge of the music at 7 and 8. G. C. Stark will direct the music at 8.

"We urge everyone to attend Sunday school and Training Union. These services are proving to be a great help to many," said Rev. Sumrall.

Reports from those who attended the Associational Training meeting at Amarillo last Monday will be given Sunday evening.

The 36 associations in Texas had 24,797 farmer and stockmen members owning $3,612,165 in stock in their short-term credit cooperatives. Earned surplus totals were $2,306,653.

Membership increased 12 per cent and locally owned stock 20 per cent last year. During the year $64,743,000 was loaned by the associations to Texas farmers and ranchers for agricultural production purposes compared with $61,783,000 in 1942.

"Bearing The Burden" Is Rev. Henshaw's Sermon Topic Sunday

At St. Matthew's Episcopal church there will be two services this Sunday. The first service will be Holy Communion at 8 a. m. followed by morning prayer and sermon at 11 o'clock.

The Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw has chosen for the sermon the subject "Bearing the Burden." The sermon will be based upon happenings at the recent convocation of the Missionary District of North Texas, held last week in Lubbock.

"Those who attended the convocation report that it was one of the finest ever held. Attendance exceeded expectations and the spirit was splendid. All of the delegates to convocation and the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, which met at the same time, seemed to feel that the church must be ready to assume tasks which it had not faced prior to this time. Not only were plans made for spiritual growth but the largest financial fund in the history of the district was adopted without dissent," Rev. Henshaw said.

On Wednesday the newly formed evening branch of the Woman's Auxiliary will meet. This branch has been formed to allow those women who are engaged during the day to continue their work in and for the church.

Endowment Campaign Launched by Baptists

BEILTON, Jan. 21.—A three million dollar campaign for the endowment of Baptist educational institutions, hospitals, nurses training centers, and seminaries will be launched Sunday, Jan. 23, by the Baptist General Convention of Texas as its 1944 project. There are 800,000 Baptists in Texas.

The convention is asking the Baptists of Texas to give or subscribe $125,000 to this fund to Mary Hardin-Baylor College, the only private or Protestant college for women in the six southwestern states west of the Mississippi having national recognition. The college which was organized under the Republic of Texas in 1845, is cosmopolitan rather than regional.

On Jan. 23, Baptist ministers throughout Texas will preach on the endowment campaign. Pledge cards will be distributed for the designation of the amount and the institutions to which the donor wishes to make a gift.

According to Dr. Gordon G. Singleton, president of Mary Hardin-Baylor College, the students and faculty plan to raise $5,000 toward the endowment fund.

Conversion Tests Being Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson plans to make a limited "laboratory test" of reconversion in three selected areas of the country.

The war production board chairman was reported reliably today to have tentatively approved a plan under which small plants in several states could use idle and surplus materials without restriction.

The civilian goods so manufactured could be sold without regard to the priority standing of the purchasers, government sources said, minimizing the chance that the goods would be diverted for military or export use.

The areas under consideration are the three WPB regions with headquarters in Cleveland, Philadelphia, and Kansas City, Mo.

The scope of the "test tube" program is so limited that it does not conflict with Nelson's statement Monday that there would be no "general" resumption of civilian production until the war picture is a great deal clearer.

However, officials pointed out that the plan, if successful, could later be extended into other areas and bigger plants once the European situation is more certain.

Much From Little

The wartime record of American commercial air lines is something of which they and we as a nation, can well be very proud.

The Truman Committee reports to the Senate that in the year ended June 30, 1943, the airlines had a record of 1943, the companies substantially increased their passenger-mileage record...

This, says the Truman Committee, constitutes a "remarkable record." There can be no disagreement with that praise...

Common Ground

"I speak the post-war program, I give thanks of God for it, but I will accept nothing which cannot have the support of all on the same terms."

Answering Questions of Defenders of Public Education

A reader asks if it is not true that the public as a whole benefited from having all children educated.

But even if the public as a whole were better off to have all children educated, if we accept it as the duty of the state to educate the children, then the state should assume the responsibility of feeding all children because we as a whole are better off if all children are properly fed.

Public education is not synonymous with good education. As I have repeatedly said, the most important part of any education is teaching the child to be honest, that is, teaching him respect for the equal rights of every other human soul.

The backwardness of China and Mexico and India is largely due to the religion in those countries. Germany, on the other hand, has the highest percentage of literacy of any country in the world, yet the German people as a whole do not respect the rights of an individual even in their own country.

Certainly the government has a right to pay for the training of those it expects to use machines to defend our country, but that does not require them to train those children to read and write who do not expect to follow the machine.

Some defenders of public education think there should be unity in education. That would all depend on what the unity stood for.

Another reader asks whether we should eliminate public health service because it is tax supported. Public health service when limited to the prevention of contagious diseases is a part of policing to protect men from others inuring them.

Another reader seems to think that I am opposed to compelling children to attend public schools. Of course I am opposed to that. Being compelled to pay for an education in which one does not believe is what I mean by compulsory public education.

Another reader asks whether we should eliminate public health service because it is tax supported. Public health service when limited to the prevention of contagious diseases is a part of policing to protect men from others inuring them.

I would like to see the public education what impersonal rule they would use as a guide of human conduct. They might also answer in what way they differ from Hitler other than in degree.

The UNRRA is a world-wide WPA under which the international administrators will take a certain portion of America's national income to finance their plan.

Rep. Charles S. Dewey of Illinois told congress just before it took its holiday recess that the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration program is a threat to this nation's solvency.

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

SNAPPED—The explanation of the basic labor troubles which beset the United States and handicap our fighting forces overseas, if General George C. Marshall's version is to be accepted, lies in the bitterness between Franklin D. Roosevelt and John L. Lewis.

It is a personal rather than an economic matter. Could these two tough-minded and proud individuals forget their feud, there would be no strike, with inflation, cost of living problems in this country.

In the 1936 campaign Mr. Lewis, as head of the United Mine Workers, advanced five hundred thousand dollars to F.D.R.'s re-election chest. This was a thank-offering for past favors conferred by various federal officials and agencies.

Then came the CIO's attempt to organize Little Steel, with Philip Murray and Mr. Lewis working hand and glove. During the protracted negotiations the president was asked for comment at a press conference.

HOSTAGES—None realized it at the time, but that single, dramatic remark set the stage for a series of industrial disputes which gravely threaten the nation's welfare.

WAGES—John L. Lewis refused to listen. Against his advice they cooperated with F.D.R. in the establishment of the National War Labor Board and in arranging the Little Steel formula plan.

Trying to plan reconversions from war to civilian production so as to cause minimum confusion, unemployment and moving about a manpower presents a hatful of pretty little headaches like these:

Here is a typewriter factory, here a washing machine factory, and here an automobile assembly plant. All three have been making, say, light machine guns, and doing a good job of it.

All right, which two? Question—Which of the three items does the civilian economy need most? Answer—Washing machines. But there's a shortage of fractional horsepower electric motors and washing machines need electric motors, so that's out.

DR FOSDICK'S

'ON BEING A REAL PERSON'

You Can Cure Despondency By Doing Something for Others

Another suggestion for mastering depression: Remember others. Emotions are contagious. One depressed person can infect a whole household.

Consider the picture of a familiar situation that Professor H. A. Overstreet has drawn: "X comes home on a particular night bangs his hat on the hat rack with a sigh. His face is gloomy. That he is not always gloomy is evidenced by the fact that his children run to meet him. But this night he does not perform duty."

Then, with the connivance of Secretary Harold L. Ickes, Lewis obtained increases that disrupted the Little Steel agreement. Naturally, the White House enemy's success precipitated a revolt in the Green-Murray ranks.

Then, without advance notice, General Marshall advanced striking workmen, maintaining they were prolonging the war on the big front.

DIVISION—Although President Roosevelt has appointed seven of the nine members of the Supreme Court, his intimates are deeply disappointed at the high tribunal's behavior.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

To be a glamor girl in the South Pacific, Phyllis Brooks said, it's important to remember two things:

1. Small good. 2. Avoid "jeep seat." "The boys out there don't give a damn," Phyllis said, "how a girl looks. It's how she smells that's important."

As the first Hollywood glamor girl to make an entertainment tour of the South Pacific, Phyllis Brooks was talking with authority. She completed "Lady in the Dark" at Paramount just in time to team up with Gary Cooper on a USO-Hollywood Victory committee tour of Australia, New Guinea and other islands.

So today we're going to devote the rest of this column to Phyllis Brooks' 1944 Guidebook for South Seas Island Tourists. It's very enlightening.

Uncle Sam's mud-caked Fifth Army may at last have found the right flank with which to capture the heights north of Pescara on the Adriatic.

The further offensive may be speeded by amphibious operations along the coast. As a matter of fact the Berlin correspondents of the Stockholm Aftonbladet yesterday reported that American forces on the Gulf of Gaeta, behind the German line. There has been no confirmation or denial of this.

When British Premier Churchill returned to the house of commons this week—at his jovial best after his tilt with pneumonia in the Middle East—Sir Herbert William asked if the prime minister was aware of any "false optimism" voiced in a recent speech in which General Sir Bernard Montgomery indicated early capture of Rome.

Some observers like to think that Rome will be in Allied hands by spring, but caution reminds us that there are some tough obstacles to be surmounted before we can reach that happy goal with land troops, though our bombers are finding the going easy enough.

education; you realize that unless our country schools are just as well staffed and supplied as the smoothest city private school, there is no hope for our beloved America in its race against world anarchy.

But you have a friend who believes just as you and I do, but doesn't know about the HESKETT RURAL SCHOOL FOUNDATION. He doesn't realize that if he will take a mere $10.00 a year from his cigar money, he can make that sum do $1000 worth of imperative national good—and make him a proud Contributing Member of the H.R.S.F.

He'll get all our publications free, with the privilege of attending our Conferences and hearing the biggest men of the nation explain the solution of all rural problems. And you, dear Defender of Education, will be doing the greatest good to the country by telephoning to that Unknown Friend of Ours and giving him our address and greetings.

You can't locate your friend? YOU CAN! While you're reading this, why not lift the receiver and call his number and tell him—RIGHT THIS MINUTE!—we want to send him, FREE, the four-color booklet "OUR SECRET SHAME."

The Japs crippled this American destroyer, sank a drydock from underneath it. A direct hit knocked out gun turrets, smashed the bow, set fires raging and apparently left the ship a total loss. But—

Here's the same destroyer, steaming out with the Fleet to take its revenge. Fast temporary repairs—the kind of fixing Ship Repair Units are trained to do—enabled the ship to reach a mainland Navy Yard. There she was fitted with a new bow, rebuilt and returned to action. The SRU's needed skilled mechanics from civilian life—carpenters, electricians, riggers, machinists, metalmiths, etc.—to do jobs like this. A new booklet, giving complete information about the SRU's, is available at the Navy Recruiting Station.

Tennis King Wins First Big Golf Tournament

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Jan. 21. (AP)—It has taken three years of arduous practice, but Henry Ellsworth Vines, once the monarch of the tennis world, has come into his own as a golf professional. Vines, one of the all-time greats of the net game, has just won his first golf tournament against big-time competition. He captured the San Gabriel Country club's pro-amateur best ball event yesterday with a course record-equaling 64, seven strokes under par.

Byron Nelson, golfman's man of the year in 1943, finished second with a 67. Nelson was doing everything right, getting long straight drives, being on the green in two, and holing his putts. But Vines was supple. He had to putt only 26 times on 18 holes and never was over par anywhere.

Vines' performance was on the course where he learned to play the game when he quit tennis for good in 1940 after being the world amateur champion and then king of the net pro for five years.

Vines, now 32, seems to have mastered all the shots in golf. He has tremendous power in his shoulders, fine competitive spirit and coolness under pressure. His coordination is perfect.

$500 Fine Won't Stop Georgia's Football Plans

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 21. (AP)—A $500 fine assessed against the University of Georgia by the Southeastern conference for alleged use of five ineligible football players last season will not stop Coach Wally Buttz' 1944 plans. "We'll have another football machine this fall if I can find eleven players who can walk," said the roly-poly coach.

The conference executive committee announced through Secretary W. D. Funkhouser at Lexington, Ky., yesterday that Georgia had been charged with playing five transfer students in violation of a conference rule. Funkhouser indicated the action would have no bearing on results of Georgia's 1943 games. "We won't go into games in which ineligible players participated," he said, "since wartime conditions altered the situation at many schools in 1943."

Coach Buttz, whose 1942 team defeated U.C.L.A. in the Rose-Bowl a year ago, 9 to 0, readily admitted using the transfer students last fall. "If we hadn't used the five players the Bulldogs wouldn't have had a football team," he declared. Buttz said he used the players after informing conference officials of their transfer. Louisiana State university and Georgia Tech also acted on "authorization from my athletic board."

"And we had the approval of the schools," Buttz added. Rules that prohibited play by transfer students last year have since been changed.

TODAY on the HOME FRONT

by James Marlow and George Zielke

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Looking back on it, the railroad workers' fight for higher pay, now apparently settled, is a long, tortured and often puzzling story but here are some peaks in that mountain of argument. The railroad unions got quick action from the government—like John L. Lewis' coal miners before them—only when they threatened a nationwide strike after 14 months of little progress with negotiations.

Steelworkers, the third great worker group to climb into the wage arena within the past 18 months, have pay demands pending now. Will their problem drag on for months? Or will they, too, decide to strike to get a settlement.

The government's formula on wage increases—prohibiting basic hourly wage rate increases of more than 15 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941—was the bottleneck in the demands of miners and railroads. In both cases the government said the formula was kept intact when the settlement was reached. In both cases the workers wound up with more money. In both cases the increases were worked out around the formula.

The miners were allowed underground travel pay, pay for tools they use, and overtime pay arrived at by a complicated arithmetical method. The critics have called that overtime arrangement a fiction. The increase to the railroad workers was announced by the government to be partly for regular hourly work and partly for overtime. They hadn't asked for the overtime originally in their demands. It was offered to them. They were getting the kind of overtime they wanted.

Perhaps the greatest puzzle to anyone following the miners and railroads in the past year in their wage fight was this: Why couldn't the arrangement which eventually settled the miners' strike be worked out before they struck four times and cost the country 4 million tons of badly needed coal?

Why couldn't the arrangement which eventually ended the railroads' dispute have been worked out before their threatened strike which resulted in the army taking over the lines? In the midst of the national dismay over the threatened railroad walkout a "high source" in Washington, insisting on remaining anonymous, suddenly gave a specially called press conference this opinion: "The rail situation was a tragedy which would delay the war's end by many months and cost blood, plenty of it."

(We, as probably every other newsmen in Washington, know the identity of the spokesman. But, because of his original imposed device of anonymity, we must continue using the awkward device of "high source.")

Then William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, stepped up with a statement. He said the anonymous spokesman was "reported" to be Gen. George C. Marshall. He challenged the "high source" to come out, make himself known and say what he had to say under his own name.

In the next paragraph Green said the railroad workers—who had announced they would strike Dec. 31—had no intention of striking at all. So two questions arise: Why didn't the "high source" come forward and reveal himself, if not at the moment when he denounced the threatened railroad tie-up then at least after he had been challenged to do so?

Why did Green say the railroad workers really had not intended to strike? Or was his statement interpreted as meaning the railroad workers had intended to use a strike threat as a blackjack to get their demands?

West Coast Subs Signalled
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21. (AP)—Japanese attacks on the West Coast during the early stages of the war were aided by signalling from the shore, says Lt. Gen. John L. Dewitt, who as commanding general supervised the removal of the Japanese from that area in 1942.

In his final report on the "transmission" of signals, Dewitt stated that it brought virtual elimination of the signals and a reduction in the number of submarine attacks on ships sailing from west coast ports. The general says it is probable that for several weeks after the attack on Pearl Harbor every ship leaving West Coast ports was attacked by enemy submarines.

George Reid, Now in Pacific Area, Could Use His Machete

By ARCHER FULLINGIM, Y/16 SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 5.—The other day I ran into the first Pampa man I've seen in four months out here. He was George Reid, ship fitter, second class. Mrs. Reid lives in Pampa.

Reid arrived here recently and is stationed in a Seabee detachment that is doing a highly-specialized construction job, one that requires special skill. Reid has been stationed on two islands since he arrived in the South Pacific, a year ago. He's working hard under adverse weather conditions, and he works from 8 to 10 hours a day.

In the States men are doing the same work he is for $2 per hour. He gets $66 per month plus M. A. of $77.50 and 20 per cent of base pay for overseas. That is the regular pay of second class petty officers in the navy.

I remember the first time I ever saw George. It was back in 1940. I was preparing to go on a vacation to Mexico, and saw J. P. Matthews who had been coast guard and stationed to talk to him. While I was talking to J. P., George came up and asked me to get him a machete in Old Mexico. I got him a good one while I was down there. George still has the machete, and he said there have been times when it would have come in handy.

I have seen George once, but will not get to see him again. We are leaving here but I can't say when or where we are going, but I'm always glad to be leaving a place and go some other place, even though all of these islands are alike in terrain, weather and personnel.

It was a blue day when I received the news that Roy Showers, Jr., was missing in action, and I know that it was a blue day for the hundreds of friends who thought he was tops, including Mickey Lecker, Chester Hunkapiller, Roy Lee Jones and others of their gang who couldn't have been more devoted to Roy if he had been their brother. When I saw Chester on another island several months ago he talked a long time about Roy, and Mickey in a recent letter wrote that he wished he could see Roy. Mickey went through the African and Italian campaigns and was stationed in England before the landings in North Africa.

I know that no job is too tough, no hardships, no physical, or mental, or too rugged when I think of Roy, and he is not the only one. One becomes possessed of a blind fury when he hears and sees such things, but thank God it is not a helpless fury—we, those who are at home and those who are out here, can and will make them pay to the last drop of blood of the un-Christian Japanese race, and we, you and I, can't and won't stop until we do. Let's stop at nothing short of annihilation, because that is the only way to prevent its happening again. I just can't but believe that Roy will eventually turn up not missing.

You know what the greatest morale builder is out here? Letters and the war news, especially now, help but I read a book recently that told me that the greatest knowledge that our men in the service have that old fight in them, that traditional fighting spirit, that inborn conscience that puts honor and bravery above all else. They, all of them, become great Americans out here. They may not have been regarded as wonderful or great in civilian life, but out here their greatness comes out. They are heroes that make your heart swell with pride. They may have had an insignificant role or an insignificant job in civilian life, but out here their greatness emerges. The greatest Americans I have ever known are out here. I read a book recently entitled "The Battle is the Payoff," by Ralph Ingersoll, former editor of PM, and he seemed to think that the chief of the armed forces and go home was not enough. He thinks the men do not hate enough, that they are not well-prepared. Obviously, he went to war to write that book. Well, he missed the bus in that book. He says the British, Russian and Chinese armies are greater than ours. That's a silly lie. The American fighting man is the greatest; he has proved it, and what greater aim can he have than to annihilate our enemies and go home? I hope nobody took his book seriously.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—Wall Street went about on war bond selling today itself which is a sign of confidence and specializes in it fairly well.

There were isolated advances as the return of the roads to private ownership and relief was expected that the growth of the war bond market will be partly offset by relief from excess profits taxes and maintenance of war-bond traffic. Amusements were spurred by reports of growing war office receipts. Actual and prospective earnings bolstered individual favorites.

Trends wavered after a steady start but revived around midday without touching any real activity. Many customers still were a bit skeptical because of the uncertain foreign diplomatic fog. Gains in the bond market. Transfers approximately 700,000 shares.

Postwar Age of Flight Beginning Now, With Growing Airlines Getting Airplanes, Fields

By MARGUERITE YOUNG, NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Your first personal experience of the postwar age of flight probably will come with boarding planes closer home—right in Muncie, Ind., for instance, instead of as now 60 miles away in Indianapolis—and sooner than you expect.

Muncie is among scores of smaller cities which the Big Four airlines now are racing to web into America's skyways.

Air executives tell me that spreading domestic routes will give the average citizen in small and mid-sized towns a big surprise during the first year of peace.

One line, TWA, has asked for Uncle Sam's go-ahead to fly into 100 additional cities. Their plan would put almost every town of 5,000 in their route territory west of Kansas City within 25 miles of an airport. United wants to add 100 additional cities such as Modesto, Calif., Bradford, Pa., and Hagerstown, Md., to its network. American asks for 38 new stops, and has an all-line development plan to bring all but 69 U. S. cities of 10,000 population within 17 1/2 miles of an airport.

Trunk-line routes between small, distant cities such as Scranton, Pa., and Topeka, Kans., are coming. A mid-night-to-breakfast sleeper from Kansas City to St. Louis, Mo., actually started within the past six months by all major lines. The postwar domestic mail service, you'll recall, was a parcel class postage on your letter or box post package, drop it in the box and the post office will fly it to the nearest automatic mail box for as long as you want it to wait. Such mail service will come gradually. The new smaller-city service, however, will begin to materialize very soon, certainly before the war ends in the Far East.

ARMY RETURNS PLANES

There are several hundred new military aircraft in cities which had none before the war. Airlines expect that some will become available to them shortly. There also is a large number of military planes, particularly 12-ton 21-passenger DC-3's, a few of which already are coming back to private lines from the army. With such facilities, officials say, they can do quite a lot this year. Thus American Airlines expects to start service into Klamath Falls, Ore., Mich. City, Mich., and other cities. Mo., Akron, O., Fort Worth, Texas. With enough DC-3's, they would be ready to operate in 30 new cities within 60 days of getting permits to do so.

REDUCTION IN FARES

Eventually the cities in one-stop routes overseas from many of the smaller cities. It will be Muncie to Chicago and change there for London, which you reach in a 100-minute hop in a hopper in between.

Such global traffic, however, is contingent upon the development of national land international air routes. On that basis the line now project a $186 round-trip between San Francisco and Singapore, with 45 to 48 hours flying each way.

A great many conflicting and overlapping proposals for domestic development now are before the Federal aeronautics authority, but it is threshing them out and granting some permits now.

Probably your short hops will be in DC-3 type planes, your average hopper areas carrying the New York-Angles flight in less than 14 hours, is preparing to clip off several hours more, with 57-passenger transcontinental planes.

A four-fold increase in domestic air passenger and mail traffic is expected within the first four post-war years. . . . a reduction in air-passenger fares from five to four or even three cents a mile.

January Bad Crop Month

AUSTIN, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Crop damage from cold weather in Texas as winter commercial vegetable growers are reporting the first half of January was considerably offset by an abundance of moisture, the United States department of agriculture reported today.

The weather was generally unpropitious for progress of crops during the period, however.

A cold wave that set in Jan. 8 lasted through Jan. 15 with one short period of moderation. Temperatures ranged as low as 23 in the west end of the Lower Valley, Grande Valley; 26 in the interior of the coastal bend; 19 in the Austin commercial district and spinach area.

Rainfall in the coastal bend followed the cold wave.

The renewed cold wave, the last three days of the week was accompanied by a heavy snow in the Austin-San Antonio area to light snows reaching as far west as the Eagle Pass spinach and onion area with flurries in the coastal bend.

Losses of hardy crops the early part of the week were negligible but temperatures the latter part of the week had not moderated sufficiently to determine the extent of damage. Crop progress was definitely delayed and harvesting activities were stopped in all areas.

Most of the shipments during the past week were from shed supplies; harvest was being resumed on Jan. 14-15 in the Lower Valley section.

Soldiers Notified Of Texas Election Rules

The letter was prepared by a statement that no inquiries had been received it was felt the information should be given to all concerned.

BOMBERS

the war was 2,500 long tons dumped on Hanover on Sept. 22 by 700 to 750 bombers.

A total of around 16,000 tons of explosives now has been hurled upon the city since the start of sustained effort to eliminate the German capital.

The RAF's first reports of the raid echoed with a grim refrain. The air ministry communiqué said "large fires were left burning, smoke rising to a great height."

Indefatigable twin-engined Mosquitos at the same time laid down a fierce bombardment of targets in northwestern Germany, and fleets of minelayers again visited German waters.

It was the 105th attack of the war on Berlin.

In another of the night's forays, Canadian Albatrosses of the coastal command swooped down on two Nazi destroyers in the channel and set one ablaze. One Canadian plane was lost. Dispatches to Sweden said the Nazis had been steadily augmenting the number of anti-aircraft batteries about the city.

The Swedish reports said the RAF had a good cloud cover over the capital itself and the formations were able to come in low for the attack. There was no reference to fighter opposition.

Berliners have become so accustomed to the pattern of the attacks that they know when to get set for the blockbusters, other persons who have been through the raids said.

Berlin's newest bomb shelters way under the force of the larger explosives, eyewitnesses declared.
