The Barton House, built around 1909 in Hale County

Abernathy and once serving as headquarters for a 50 section ranch, will be ready for the show. The house was willed to the Ranching Heritage Center by Josephine Barton and moved to the center in 1975.

This year, the north parlor, dining room and entry hall have been restored and furnished for presentation.

Scalamandre of New york has duplicated the original wall paper for the ahll and dining room. The hall paper was an international paper in an art nouveau style at the turn of the century.

The dining room paper is a reproduction of a 1907-1909 paper from the Cooper-Hewitt wallpaper collection, now part of the Smithsonain Institution.

In the dining room will be a golden oak dining table and a 13 golden oak chairs which once belonged to the Barton family. furniture is of the 1905-1910 period. Also in the setting is an 1880s highchair, donated by the late D.

Burns, chairman of the Heritage Ranching Association Board of Overseers and longtime manager of the Pitchfork Ranch.

Two Barton House golden oak arm chairs, an oak piano from the same period, and a golden oak sofa will be in the parlor. The sofa was not in the Barton House but is typical of sofas of the early 1900s and was donated by Cassie Barton Rosser of Petersburg.

An 1880s wash stand from the Harrell Ranch and a hall tree from the Blankenship collection at The Museum will furnish the hall.

The stone Waggoner Commissary built near Electra around 1870 has been rebuilt this summer at the center and the 666 Barn, built on the ranch founded by Samuel Burk Burnett around 1908, will be substantially completed. The barn was donated by Mrs. B.. (Anne) Phillips of 6666, granddaughter of Burnett.

Breakfast at the chuckwagon, prepared by western chef Tom Perini of Buffalo Gap, will be followed by the annual meeting of the Ranching Heritage Association and election of association officers.

Children, ages 6-12, at Ranch Day may take part in a special "Little Wranglers" program beginning at noon at the chuckwagon. Events will include climbing the cedar pole to ring a cowbell the Bairfield Schoolhouse and competing in egg-in-the-spoon races and watermelon seed spitting contests.

The Dawson Dragons came to Gail and went home with a 20-16 victory over the Coyotes. The Dragons got their first win over the Coyotes since the 1978 season when they defeated the Coyotes 3-0.

The Dragons open up the first half with a TD pass from Joel Bennett to Monte Moore. Roy Rivas scored two TD's in the first half. The score at one time in the first half was Dawson 18, Borden 0.

Then the Coyotes came back on a 1 yard run by Jym Rinehart. Junior Benavidez kicked the extra point. The score at halftime was Dawson 18-Borden 8.

The Coyotes came out in the second half to play ball and keep their winning streak over Dawson going. Jym Rinehart ran 30 yards for a TD that pulled the Coyotes within two points of the Dragons. But the Dragons came back with a safety and Borden could not generate a drive to put Dawson away. The final score was Dawson 20, Borden 16. The Coyotes traveled to Wellman this Friday at 8:00 p.m.

GOOD GOLF

Tips On A Low Score At A High Age By Jay Hebert

Jay Hebert, touring pro and tournament winner for 30 years, has been commissioned by Standard Brands Incorporated to assist senior golfers by preparing these tips.

It seems the older a golfer gets the more often he wants to get out of a tough situation by hitting a really big shot.

If you drive into the rough on a par-four hole, for example, don't try to reach the green in one stroke. The reach the chances are good that you will follow your first bad shot with one that's even bert worse.

A better idea, especially for the senior golfer, is to play this difficult shot conservatively. Forget about distance from a tough lie and don't reach for a wood as you would normally. Try a medium iron, like a five or six, and try to place the ball in good position for your next stroke. Then, if you play a fine shot from that position, you can redeem your par after all.

Jere's Jottings

by Bruce T. Pearson

In this part of the world on the basis of a man's word, calves contracted in April for delivery in October at fifty cents are delivered and paid for at fifty cents regardless of whether the world market: price has gone up to eighty or down to thirty cents in the meantime. It's difficult, therefore, for West Texan to sympathize with professional athletes, over twentyone years of age, who drag whining and complaining into spring camp, demanding a better deal then the one contracted for the year before. Major league baseball players this year further treated their adoring fans to the spectacle of individual and collective refusal to deliver at the agreed price. Perhaps people who play games for a living consider that rules don't apply to them off the playing field, when the umpire isn't looking; if so, remind me never to make a business deal with a pro ball player.

The other big walkout this year was staged by members of the air traffic controllers union, PATCO, the majority of whom regarded the integrity of their sworn oaths and contractual obligations to be inconsequential in comparison to their desire and need for a shorter work week, higher pay and earlier retirement. activities of professional baseball players we can all survive and perhaps even be better off without, but the duties of air traffic controllers are vital to the country, and blackmail by the PATCO members was a much more serious matter. It was the open threat of the air traffic controllers' union to make air travel and commerce so unsafe that the government would be forced to grant their demands or face the chaos that would result from having all air traffic grounded.

Their timing couldn't have been worse. The country had just elected to office a President who would not submit to this kind of coercion and who was supported in this principle by a majority of the public. There was a general distaste for the controllers' comtempt for the personal problems and safety of stranded air travellers, their indifference to the well-being of thousands of fellow workers employed by the airline industry, their defiance of the President and their lack of regard for the meaning of their sworn oaths and contractual obligations.

People rightfully expect and demand more responsible behavior from firemen, policemen and air traffic controllers than they do from ballplayers. Most folks are a little spooky about flying anyway and television pictures of unkempt, shaggy-haired, T-shirted, fist-shaking, chanting controller-pickets must have caused many an airline passenger to choke on his coffee, tea or milk at the thought that for years these types had been the guardians of his safety as he was being carried along the crowded airways. Fortunately for us all, those air traffic controllers who defied the presidential order to stop their illegal acts and return to work have been fired. We can all rest a little easier and more confident in our passenger seats as a result, and perhaps, after the stewardess has brought us a drink, it is appropriate for us to raise a little toast to salute those honorable men and women who stayed on the job, for watever reasons: as a matter of personal integrity and regard for their pledged word, out of respect for the authority of the President, or perhaps from a traditional, old-fashioned sense of duty. Here's to them. We already know how they perform under pressure.

REDUCED ACREAGE PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR 1982 WHEAT

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has announced his intentions to implement a 15 percent "reduced acreage" program forthe 1982 wheat crop to offset the effects of record supplies and depressed wheat prices.

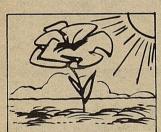

Program operating procedures will be issued after pending farm legislation is enacted into law.

"Wheat supplies in the United States are 14 percent above last year," Block said. "The carryover next June is expected to exceed 1 billion bushels, the highest level since 1977-78. The reduced acreage program will strengthen prices by reducing the 1982-83 marketing year supplies."

Block said the increase in supplies and decrease in prices is the result of two successive record U.S. wheat crops and a record setting 1981 world harvest.

The program will be voluntary so producers can decide for themselves, based on market conditions, whether they want to participate. Program benefits, however, will be tied to participation.

"Soil conservation will be strongly stressed in this program," Block said. "The reduced acreage will have to be devoted to conservation uses."

Of all the 250,000 species of flowering plants, there are just two that don't need water from the soil. One is the pygmy cedar and the other is the caper plant of the Sahara. Both take all the moisture they need from the night air.
