Labor Officials Predict Early End To Oil Strike

Tanker Explodes After Freighter Collision

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — An oil tanker loaded with 700,000 gallons of high-octane gasoline exploded in flames early today after colliding with a freighter in the Chesapeake and Delaware canal.

The U. S. Coast Guard said four crewmen of the tanker, F. L. Hayes, were "missing and presumed dead." The tanker's captain and five others of the crew jumped overboard and swam to shore.

The tanker was still afloat some 10 hours after the crash in its beached position on the canal's north shore, about 20 miles south of Wilmington. The stern of the 240-foot Hayes settled in the water.

Coast Guard officials said the Hayes, owned by Ira S. Bushley & Sons, New York, and the 6,100-ton freighter, Barbara Lykes, collided shortly after midnight. They said the collision was "rather light" but that fire broke out on the tanker shortly afterwards.

A third ship, the Hull Lane's Angelina, also became involved as blazing gasoline from the tanker spilled into the canal and set her afire. These flames were extinguished and the Angelina continued to its dock in Philadelphia.

Two seamen were injured aboard the Angelina. Roger Sears, Jackson Heights, L. I., captain of the Hayes, said he leaped into the canal although he couldn't swim.

"A couple of us me included — could not swim. We grabbed life rings as we jumped. We paddled on way to the nearby shore. It took about five minutes in the water. Flames licked at us some of the time," he said.

The Hayes had picked up its cargo of gasoline at the Esque Point refinery, Westville, N. J., and was headed west through the canal toward Baltimore. The Lykes was headed through New York. The Angelina was following the Lykes, but bound for Philadelphia with a general cargo.

Capt. Sears said he was approaching the vehicular span at Summit bridge when he halted to permit the Barbara Lykes to pass under it. He said he planned to take his ship under the bridge as soon as the Lykes cleared.

"As the Lykes got almost up to us she took a sheer toward us and crashed into our port side. She opened up our No. 7 tank and there was an explosion," he said.

Fumes from the ruptured tank apparently drifted back into the galley and were set afire by the blaze in the stove," Sears said.

Bogus Checks Put Bridegroom In Jail
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marie De Carlo had a wedding she'll never forget for many reasons.

First, Hubby Charles de Carlo gave her a $500 ring, furniture for their apartment, an elaborate wedding and a reception for 400 guests. De Carlo paid $263 for liquor, $92 for a wedding cake, $75 for a caterer and $65 for a band.

Second, De Carlo's checks bounced, even the one for $12.50 for his rented tuxedo, police said. De Carlo was arraigned yesterday on charges of issuing 15 bogus checks totaling $1,800. His perplexed bride wept and said that, regardless, she still loves Christie.

LITTLE STINKERS — These bottle-baby pole kittens are the newest addition to the Matlock family, 414 S. Gillespie. They were found by Earl Matlock and his brother, Leslie, Monday, south of Pampa. Given to his daughter, Barbara Ann, the baby polekittens were immediately put on a bottle formula of canned milk, water and syrup. Not enthused over the family addition, Mrs. Matlock has agreed to house them in a special box — in the bathroom — at night while they spend the daytime hours in Matlock's coverall pockets. Matlock plans to have them deskmunked, "certainly." (News Photo)

Other Demands . . .

Steelworkers Wait With Strike Threat

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The CIO-United Steelworkers, their threat to launch a new nationwide steel strike already a matter of record, today appeared ready to approve other demands: a union shop, repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, a national daily labor newspaper.

Steelworker President Philip Murray, who is also head of the CIO, held the union's O. K. to call a walkout of 650,000 steelworkers if the union cannot win — promptly — a satisfactory wage increase.

The 2500 delegates to the sixth biennial constitutional convention gave spontaneous and unanimous approval of the strike threat yesterday as two top Truman administration leaders, Secretary of Labor Maurice Tobin and Secretary of Labor James H. Casper, in Indianapolis, shot down his fourth and fifth Communist planes, the Fifth Air Force said.

Kasler said the first plan was "a ball of blame as he crashed just on this side" of the Yalu river separating Korea from Manchuria.

Kasler then turned to aid one of the four Sabre jet pilots in the fight and chased a MIG "about 50 miles toward the mouth of the Yalu. We were screaming along right at tree-top level and gave him three or four bursts. The MIG snapped over and crashed to the ground with a terrific explosion."

The Air Force said its planes cut Red rail lines at 130 places Wednesday, silenced 30 guns, damaged a locomotive, destroyed five rail cars and fired 25 buildings.

More Pressure
Another resolution up for consideration urges continued pressure for "the repeal of the evil and inequitable Taft-Hartley Act" which it says "places serious restrictions on the right to strike."

Concerning the need for a daily labor newspaper a resolution before the convention has this to say: "The extreme bias displayed by most of the American Press against the activities of the labor movement and the failure of the press to provide accurate accounts of the facts involved in labor disputes has emphasized the importance of our own newspapers and magazines."

The steelworkers are working figuratively for the government, thus actually not permitted to strike. Murray has said his union would not shut the mills while the government is in control.

Should the nation's highest court void seizure it is quite possible that the workers would quit immediately.

WSB Decision Favorable To Oil Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government labor officials today predicted an early end to the 15-day nationwide oil strike which already is affecting the country's tourist trade and air service both here and abroad.

The Wage Stabilization Board (WSB) decision yesterday to allow up to 15 cents an hour in wage increases to 90,000 striking oil workers brought prompt and favorable response from the unions involved.

The proposed ceiling boost earlier had been agreed to by part of the strike-bound industry.

B. J. Schaefer, vice president of the CIO of workers international, issued a statement in D. C. over last night saying the CIO policy committee, and the coordinating committee for the CIO-Independent AFL unions coalition, had reluctantly approved a proposed settlement on the basis of the 15-cent-an-hour increase, plus shift differentials of six and 12 cents and retroactive pay equal to the full amount allowable under WSB regulations.

WSB Refuses
The WSB refused blanket approval for the shift differentials, but said they would be considered on their merits.

The union approval, among other things, averted a threatened shutdown Wednesday night of the Gulf Refinery near Cincinnati.

The unions originally asked a 25-cent pay boost; the industry offered in two weeks ago the unions lowered their demand to 18 cents, and companies employing between 15,000 and 25,000 oil workers raised their offer to 15 cents.

The WSB did not recommend that the striking unions, which do their negotiating on a lock-out basis, be given 12 cents across the board; it simply said it would not approve more than 15 cents in any negotiated agreements submitted to it for an okay under Wage Stabilization policies. Except in extraordinary circumstances, the 15-cent figure is the ceiling.

Narrows Spread
The Federal Conciliation Service immediately ordered its regional directors to get local negotiations started again.

Escaped Prisoner Trail Shifts To Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The trail of the ringleader of the four long-term escaped convicts who terrorized Bexar county Tuesday night turned to Houston today on a tip to authorities from a bus driver.

The driver, C. J. Kassingner, 41, of Corpus Christi, who operates a bus for the Missouri Pacific Bus Lines, told Sheriff J. W. Marshall at Angleton that a man who remarkably resembled newspaper pictures of the fugitive ringleader came into Houston as a passenger on his bus last night.

The fugitive, Robert Arthur Chick, 30, one-time airplane pilot, is one of two of the escaped convicts still at large.

City Extends Welcome As First Delegates Register

Pampa today extended famous welcome to delegates of the U. S. National Hwy. 60 Assn. convention.

The vanguard of 200 delegates registered today in the Hotel Schneider, convention headquarters. An informal get-acquainted and discussion period was set for the afternoon. Chamber of Commerce officials will host early arrivals at a buffet supper 7:30 p. m.

The convention is the first statewide gathering Pampa chamber officials and local groups were going out to their welcome.

W. B. Weatherford, host chairman, said: "We are giving delegates more than a key to the city. Our intentions are to bring about, but Pampa, the Top of Texas have even more when it comes to being friendly."

G. T. McWhirter of Mount Airy, N. C., national president of the highway group, said: "It is our wish that the 1952 convention be an enjoyable and profitable one."

The highway extends a 2,500-mile through 10 states: California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Iowa, Kentucky, West Virginia, Wisconsin.

Secretary of Treasurer Ben P. Hays said: "U. S. 60 is a pay highway with natural scenic beauties by nature and touched by man. This may be the best of you can. No one has been able to get from here to there in any way."

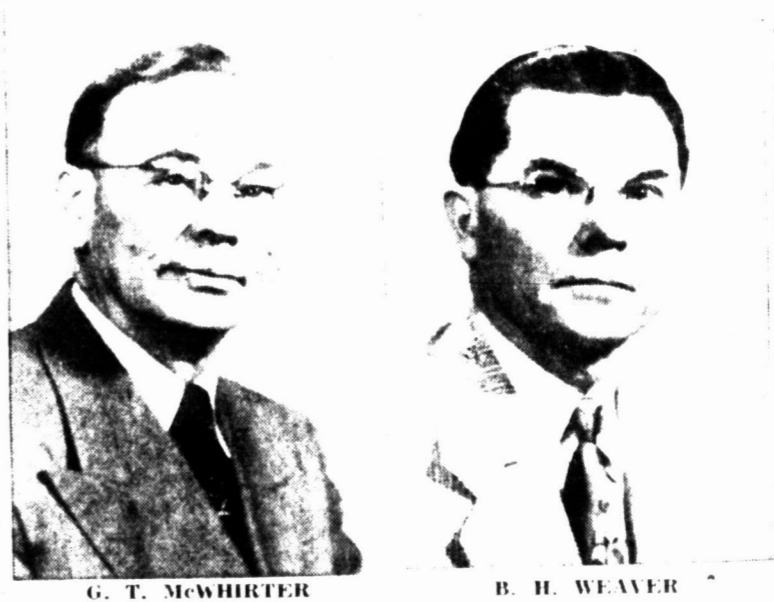

The first business session of the convention will be held at 8:35 a. m. today in the J. H. High Auditorium. John, accompanied by wife, Mrs. Johnson, will group singing, President McWhirter will call the convention to order at 9 a. m. and Henry Tyler, First Christian church minister, will give the invocation. Mayor C. A. Huff will give a welcoming address, followed by a response from Fred Phelan, N. M., chamber of commerce manager.

Charles W. Smith, assistant chief engineer of the Texas highway department, will be greeting from his office. Officials will appoint committees on credentials, resolution and nominations. At 11 a. m. the president will begin 25-minute presidential report.

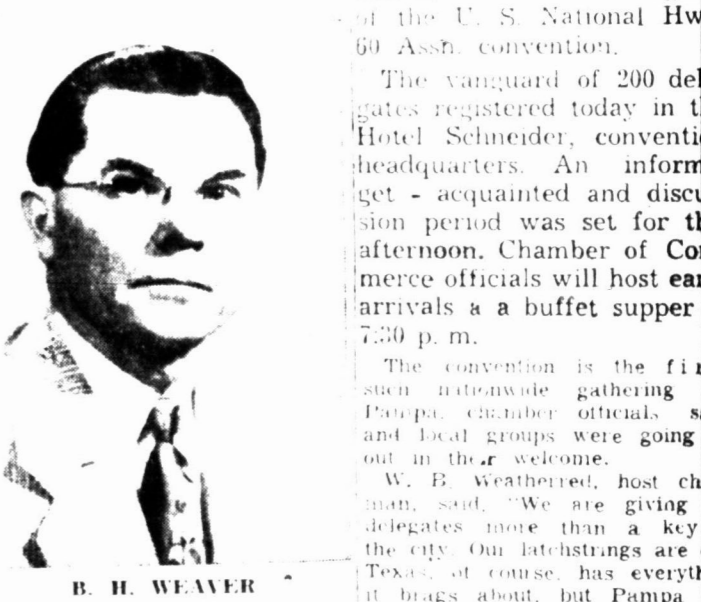

Grandview School Slates Barbecue
Grandview School's annual barbecue and picnic has been scheduled for Thursday, May 22, on school grounds.

Grandview community has scored the event annually for years. It is held on the school grounds.

Several hundred county residents are expected to attend the picnic at which L. P. Eakins will preside. Community residents are being other portions of the barbecue and picnic is open to public.

Hwy. Delegates Hit Detours

Western delegates to the U. S. Hwy. 60 convention here were confronted by two detours as they approached Pampa.

State highway department said construction crews will raise the grade and eliminate some curves on the road closed by the detour.

First detour is just west of Kingsmill and extends one mile east of White Deer. The detour is about 6 1/2 miles long.

The second detour is 2 1/2 miles west of White Deer. It goes back to West Taylor lake and is 1 1/2 miles long. Construction here of a new line will cut out some of the curves.

The detours will exist for about two months.

Miami Gets Post . . .

New Santa Fe Post, Troop Organized By Boy Scouts

A new Boy Scout Post for the assembly of God Church reported the formation of a new troop at Miami, reports M. M. Craig, Miami Tri-Church Council representative. A meeting has been set for May 20 to determine the new advisor and complete organization.

The announcement was made at a meeting of the district Scout committee Tuesday evening. At the same time, Oscar Johnson, representative for the Pampa Area.

Draft Rayburn Movement Starts

By The Associated Press
A full-fledged effort to get the Democratic presidential nomination for Texas' Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn has cropped up in Congress.

The persistent Rayburn boom in the Chronicle, "He got on my bus at Corpus Christi about 12:15 p. m. yesterday and on the trip to Houston took off his coat and kept it over his face during the ride through Eravozia county. I definitely think it was him. I saw his picture and it was his bright brown eyes that attracted me."

Large posse of East Texas peace officers meanwhile was still looking for Chick and the other convict who is still at large. George Theodorou, 23, around Velasco and Alvin.

Pulliam and the second captured convict, John E. Welch, 28, were back in close confinement at Ramsey prison farm from which the four broke out early Tuesday night.

OIL STRIKE

President Truman early in May recommended a settlement in the oil dispute, sent the case back to the conciliation service last month for intensive efforts to negotiate settlements. Conciliators managed to narrow the spread between union demands and company offers and achieved scattered settlements. But after several postponements the union condition on strike April 29.

WSB Chairman Nathan P. Feininger called both sides to a meeting here yesterday to check on the status of negotiations and to act on several agreements which had been reached.

The pattern of the wage hike SB set yesterday specifically applied to one small group in Illinois. Most who have 100 employees had agreed to a 5 percent wage boost. The WSB knocked that down to 15 cents an hour and then said it would appear after 15-cent posts.

Effects of the strike, which multiplied.

The Associated Petroleum Refiners in St. Louis reported a 10 percent reduction in the number of touring motorists, despite ample supplies of gasoline.

Travelers apparently are running out of gas at some "range place," an official of the organization told reporters.

In Paris, European airlines officials agreed to cut back their flights upon a 25 percent cut in aviation gas.

France offered a 25 percent cut in gas to 45 percent of normal in European air services.

Similar 25 percent cuts in service were also announced in South Africa, Egypt, India and Australia.

Permanent Organization For Canadian Group Is Sought

AMARILLO — A permanent organization to represent the Canadian River Project Water Users Association was formed during a meeting Wednesday of executive committee members of the association at Amarillo.

The permanent group will represent 11 water users making up the association and will be able to sign contracts with the government for construction of a dam across the Canadian River near Sanford.

The Educational Bureau, with which the committee met, was asked to secure information of a water district under the laws of Texas which would be able to sign the necessary contract with the federal government.

This information is expected to be ready sometime in June and a meeting will be called to put formation of the permanent group in motion.

The committee also authorized E. K. Hueston, chairman of the group, to contact a legal firm to counsel the 11 cities.

One of the first actions the permanent organization will be to decide upon a how much water

Keynote Speech

First Ansley of Amarillo, vice president of the American Motor Road Assn., will give the morning keynote speech. He will be followed at 10:15 a.m. by Melvin Drake, director of the New Mexico state tourist bureau.

The New Mexican will talk on "The Development of Tourist Traffic," after which a symposium will delve deeper into the problem.

The morning session will be adjourned at noon until 1:45 p.m. However, national directors will hold a luncheon in the Pin Room of the Schneider hotel.

G. B. Dwyer, New Mexico state highway engineer, will talk on various highway problems to start the afternoon session.

One of the most interesting topics will be presented by Dr. Jesse L. Nussbaum of State Fe. He will talk about archeology along U. S. Hwy. 60. He is a consulting archeologist for the United States department of the interior and is senior archeologist for the national park service.

At 2:50 p.m., Col. John W. Chapman, director of civilian defense, Santa Fe, will dwell on the importance of Hwy. 60 for national defense.

Lefors Band Takes Honors

Lefors High School Band received a first-class rating in the concert division and third class in sight reading at the Tri-State Musical Festival in Enid, Okla., last week end.

Nine soloists from the group who preceded the band to Enid received several second and third ratings by nationally-known judges.

The band, directed by Desmond Brewer, was among 125 school bands, orchestras, and choruses participating in the festival. Each band was judged on the basis of performances in concert, sight-reading, and marching, and were placed in five classes.

Cornet soloists from Lefors were Skipper Bogard, rated second class; Arthur Roberts, second; E. C. Little, second; and Eddie Don Davis, third. Jimmy Roberts, trombonist, Maryland Pafford, French horn, and Mark Braly, bass horn, all ranked third class.

Results were not posted for soloists Gertrude Chisum, drum, and Lilly Bennett, trombone.

Making their first trip to the annual festival, the Lefors Band sported new uniforms, Orange Eisenhower jackets, gray trousers trimmed with orange and black stripes, and military hats to match in the high school colors.

The trip to Enid was sponsored by the Band Parents Club and PTA of Lefors.

Skellytown Has Charter Night For Lions Club

SKELLYTOWN — (Special)

The Lions Club here was host to approximately 125 Lions and their wives from White Deer, Pampa, Borger, Panhandle and McLean at a Charter Night meeting Monday night.

District Governor Boyd Meador, McLean, presented the charter and Wayne F. Johnson, Skellytown club president, accepted it.

The dinner meeting was at the grade school cafeteria and entertainment was furnished by a choral ensemble from the Frank Phillips Junior College, Borger.

The Skellytown club was organized in April under the sponsorship of White Deer. The Lions banner, gong, and gavel were presented to the new club by White Deer at the Monday meeting.

Skellytown officers include Johnson; C. E. McIntyre, vice-president; H. L. Geurin, Lion Tamer; Bert Isbell, tail twister; and H. C. Little, secretary-treasurer.

Kirby Youngsters, 2 Boys, 2 Girls, Get Tonsillectomy

Four sprightly youngsters — all in the B. E. Kirby family of White Deer — will return home today from the Pampa Highland General Hospital minus their tonsils.

Jane and Danny a bit, she said, 6, and Linda, 4, "had been sick all winter," said Mrs. Kirby "so we just decided to have all their tonsils removed."

It didn't seem to bother Betty Jane and Danny a bit she said but she was worried about getting four brothers and sisters just sick enough to be "fussy" home today.

Asked if she felt it was better to "get it all over with at once," Mrs. Kirby said she wouldn't recommend that many operations in one family to anyone else.

At home are the Kirbys' two other children - Tommy, 12, who had his tonsils taken out five years ago in May, and Mary Sue, 10 months.

Two Accidents Are Reported

City police Wednesday investigated two minor accidents on Brown with a total damage of $279.

At 5:05 p.m. near Somerville, cars driven by Doris May Jenkins, 22, of 527 Locust, and Calvin Hazy, 27, of 406 Mariner, collided, causing $50 damage to the Hazy vehicle and none to the Jenkins car.

At 11 p.m. near Gillespie, cars driven by Paul E. Freeman, 21, of 1214 E. Frederic, and John M. Lemmon, 16, of 855 E. Malone, collided. City police estimated damage to the Freeman car at $150 and to the Lemmon automobile at $129.

House Passes Military Pay Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today a bill raising the pay of servicemen nearly half a billion dollars annually.

The bill is a compromise of different versions previously passed by the Senate and the House. It still requires Senate approval before going to the President. If it becomes law by May 31, the raises for 3.12 million service personnel will become effective with the May payrolls.

IT'S your DEAL Pinochle Demands Ingenuity

By OSWALD JACOBY and AFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

"We play auction pinochle with a widow of three cards," writes a Chicago fan. "The defensive plan never seems to vary, and I have wondered whether this is the nature of the game or the lack of imagination of these particular players."

"The player who wins the first defensive trick always leads his longest side suit. The idea is to make declarer trump. I once asked whether it would be a good idea for a defender to lead a trump, and the other players said that would be playing declarer's game."

"Another time I asked whether it wouldn't be a good idea to lead some other suit than my longest. The other players said that pinochle was a simple game and that there was no sense in complicating it with my fancy ideas."

"I suspect they are wrong, but I don't really know. Are they?" They're as wrong as wrong can be. However, they do seem to be enjoying themselves with their un-imaginative game, so it doesn't pay to upset them with new complications. If you want to play a good game of pinochle you have to find players who are willing to use their brains.

To begin with, it is often (but not always) the best defensive plan to find declarer's short suit and make him trump. When this is the best plan, however, declarer's short suit is not always your long suit. It may be your partner's long suit. Don't insist on leading the wrong suit just because you happened to win the first defensive trick instead of your partner.

How do you know which is declarer's short suit? You can't always tell. A foxy declarer will sometimes try to doublecross you and he will sometimes succeed. In general, however, declarer's short suit will be one in which he holds the fewest cards.

We'll come back to this point in more detail in another article, soon, but let's cover the question of leading trumps first. It's usually a good idea to lead trumps defensively whenever declarer needs fewer than 100 points in cards.

You can't beat those small contracts by letting declarer trump away an entire side suit. The first trump lead should be made by the player at declarer's right, since this will put declarer in the middle.

If it were possible for one bee to gather all the material for a pound of honey, it is believed it would have to work every day for eight years.

Fortune Found Tied In Pink Bloomers

CHICAGO — (AP) — A fortune in cash and securities, all tied up in pink bloomers, stockings and a pillow case, was found yesterday in a safe deposit box owned by an 85-year-old widow who died five months ago.

Officials representing various public agencies found currency—$1 to $500 bills—totaling $120,712 in the bloomers and stockings. The money in the pillow case will be counted Thursday. The safe deposit box was rented to the late Mrs. Cora Drapier in 1915. Before she died last Dec. 9 she executed a will, leaving virtually all her estate, estimated at $300,000, to her attorney, Pierre J. Pelouin. The will is being contested by Mrs. Pearl Golab, who was left $1000. She said she was promised $100,000. The week over Mrs. Golab's protests, will was admitted to probate last.

The source of Mrs. Drapier's fortune was not definitely known.

QUESTION MARK—Veteran Detroit Pitcher Hal Newhouser is the big question mark of the Tigers 1952 mound corps. If the speedy southpaw's arm holds up, the Motor City organization is expected to be in the thick of the American League pennant fight. He posted a 6-6 record last year. (NEA)

This Guy Had To Go Out And Come Back In

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP)—Herb Ladner, Mississippi secretary of state, was asked to speak at the League of Women Voters meeting which ended in Natchez yesterday.

He arose and began: "It thrills my soul whenever I come to the historic city of Vicksburg."

Ladner stopped short. Then he explained he planned to speak in Vicksburg next week and had taken out the wrong speech. He produced the Natchez address and continued.

1,186,000 Graduates

WASHINGTON (AP)—The office of education estimated today that 1,186,000 boys and girls are graduating from high school in the United States this school year.

try to do something about the problem.

Several members raised the question of press censorship during the brief debate on the two resolutions, but Gathings and other supporters assured them there was no intent to hinder the press.

"Nobody is after the newspapers," said Rep. Colmer (D-Miss). "You don't find this type of offensive matter in the press."

Woman Who Died In Childbirth Leaves Hospital

BALTIMORE (AP)—A woman who "died" in childbirth is about ready to go home with her lively 8½ pound son.

Doctors at University Hospital said they had never heard of anything like it in medical history.

Mrs. Francis Jarvis, 42, was in advanced and complicated labor April 3 when Dr. S. Malone Parham, resident in obstetrics, decided a cesarean section was necessary.

Knowing the baby would die in a matter of minutes, Dr. Parham delivered it quickly, then started massaging the mother's heart and injecting adrenalin.

Dr. Parham estimated her heart had stopped about five minutes before he got it going again. Normal breathing started in about eight minutes after the ministrations of Dr. Alfred Nelson, head of the anesthesia department.

Mrs. Jarvis remained unconscious 48 hours and in a state of deep mental shock for several more days.

Dr. Parham said psychiatric examination during this period indicated no permanent injury to the brain. Several other post-operative complications also have cleared up. Mrs. Jarvis is up and about now, pronounced completely recovered. The baby is normal.

"So my uncle sleeps a lot! That isn't as bad as your Aunt Maud racing around whisking up dust all the time she's here!"

5 Survive Mid-Air Pacific Collision

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Five surviving B-29 crewmen told today of the terrific impact which knocked four of them unconscious when their big bomber and a Marine fighter plane collided yesterday nearly three miles above the Pacific ocean.

Six members of the crew parachuted to safety and seven are missing. One Marine, presumably the pilot of the Marine Corsair fighter plane, was killed. Those rescued suffered only minor injuries.

Witnesses said the big bomber appeared to break in two, the forward section exploding into flames.

Prisoners In English on Quiet

PRINCETOWN, Eng. (AP)—A convict's shout — "Let's get some excitement!" — started a brief riot in big British Prison Monday. Two guards were mauled, an official disclosed today.

The prison official said reinforcements beat down the rioters within 10 minutes and pulled the guards off the parade ground before they were badly hurt. Order was restored soon after.

Six convicts, blamed for touching off the trouble, are in Dartmoor's punishment cells awaiting hearing. Under prison rules they can be flogged for attacking guards.

Congressmen Vote Go-Ahead To National Obscenity Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Parents said in New York that its pro-throughout the nation were urged to help Congress clean up radio and television programs, books, magazines and comics.

Investigations by two committees into those fields were ordered this week by the House in separate resolutions passed without vocal opposition. Only 31 of the 435 House members were present at the time.

The commerce subcommittee will determine the extent to which the radio and television programs currently available to the people of the United States contain immoral or otherwise offensive matter or place improper emphasis upon crime, violence, and corruption.

New Legislation

Du Mont Television, American Broadcasting Co. and CBS-TV declined to comment. CBS-TV officials were not reached.

Gathings called for parental help. He told newsmen: "Congress can do much by recommending new legislation or pointing up the need for enforcing existing laws, but we need help from parents. Only through parental vigilance exercised in the home can we guard our children from the demoralizing influences of some current radio and television programs and some of the trash being sold in corner stores all over the country at prices low enough for kids to pay."

Special Committee

A special nine-man committee to be named by Speaker Rayburn will do the same with respect to "current literature," defined as books, magazines, and comic books.

Both resolutions were introduced by Rep. Gathings (D-Ark), who is expected to head the special committee.

Both groups are directed to report to the present session of Congress and are empowered to recommend any legislation they deem necessary to eliminate any offensive and undesirable matter from the airwaves and the bookstands.

Watching Your Childhood Come Walking Up The Street

By HAL BOYLE
KANSAS CITY — (AP) — It is a long road back to childhood. It is hard to find the way.

Coming back to the home of his boyhood, a man finds it hard to forgive the changes. He has a vague resentment that things don't stay just as he left them . . . as he holds them in memory.

He misses the neighbors who have died or moved away. Who cut down the trees in the back yard he climbed as a kid? The patch of blue sky looks bare and new. And the elm tree in the front yard. How did it ever get that tall?

Somehow he feels a stranger in the old house, lonesome because it has changed as much as he has. He has lost some hair and got a new false tooth. And it has been shingled, papered, and modernized with a new sink, another bathroom and a fine gas furnace.

I always have this lost feeling momentarily when I return to visit our family home here. It is old enough to be getting hardening of the rafters. But instead it is getting disgracefully younger and younger looking as I get more and more middle-aged. Why should a man age and a house grow younger? What kind of a world is that?

The nicest thing in our old home right now is my 8-year-old niece, Kathy, the prettiest cowboy in the block. Kathy is at an age when she is losing her belief in the Easter bunny, but still has a firm faith in the angels.

"I prayed you would come back — and you did," she told me. "I used to pray when you were away at the war or somewhere, and you came back then, too."

Although Kathy is glad to see me, the thing she really likes best about my visits is that I sleep in her bed and she gets to sleep with her grandma, which is a great privilege. We had a big family reunion dinner the other evening. Everyone ate heartily, and after we all went to bed the house began to vibrate from the snoring, a Boyle family trait. Finally mother joined the chorus.

Little Kathy immediately began to shake her.

"Grandma, Grandma, wake up!" she cried. "You sound just like a lion!"

There is nothing like children to keep a house from growing old, and I guess it is Kathy who keeps our house vital and young. She has as her own room now, the room in which Dad and Mother slept when they first moved there with five children more than 30 years ago.

One morning I awoke early and went downstairs. The steps still creaked betrayingly, just as they had years before when any of the boys tried to creep silently up them after coming home late.

Sitting alone in the silent living room, a room full of old family memories of quarrels and kindness, tears and warmth, I had the feeling of being a prisoner between two worlds — the restless present and the lost, unchangeable past.

I walked to the big, old-fashioned front door and looked out. Up the street came two young boys, delivering the Sunday newspapers. They looked like brothers, and they were jostling each other and laughing.

Thirty years ago my older brother, Edward, and I had walked through the dawn streets this same way, laughing, jostling and arguing as we threw the morning papers — kerplunk! — on the front porches.

I stepped out on the porch and picked up our paper. The two little boys looked at me curiously, then walked on. I watched them go, and it was as if I stood on a platform in time — watching everyone comes back to find, and when I went inside the door I felt at home at last, and at peace with the past.

Italy Seeks New Citrus Markets

ROME — (AP) — Italy is studying how to increase its 50 million dollars yearly exports of citrus products.

Better advertising and packing will help, Prof. Corrado Del Vecchio, general manager of Italy's National Labor Bank, told top exporters and producers of lemons, oranges, and tangerines, at a recent national conference.

Out of a total 928 billion lire (1.2 billion dollars) exports in 1951, Italy sent abroad almost 30 billion lire (50 million dollars) worth of citrus products.

Despite the destruction of war-time years, Italy succeeded last year in topping 1938 citrus exports. Last year 390,000 tons of Italian lemons, oranges and tangerines left the sunny shores of the Mediterranean to be sold as far away as Scandinavia, Germany and Russia.

For the first time since the war, Russia bought 17,600 tons of Italian lemons last year. The Soviet took second place among countries buying Italian lemons. Western Germany was first with 58,000 tons.

Other new outlets for the Italian citrus industry were the production of essence of lemon, and lemon and orange juice.

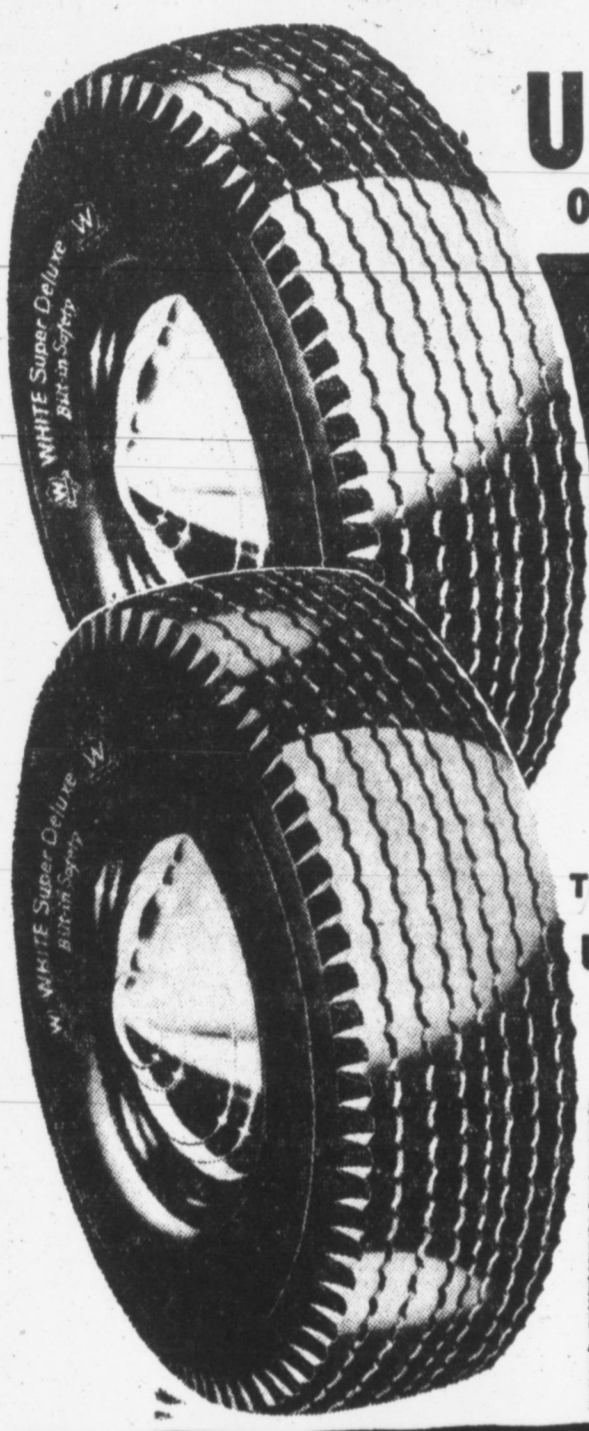

World War II resulted in two serious losses for the Italian citrus industry: the United States and Russian markets. The United States is definitely lost, Prof. Del Vecchio said, owing to a doubled production since 1938.

Russia shows signs of coming back.

There are about twice as many kinds of fishes as there are birds, mammals and amphibians put together.

Locust Swarms Threaten Africa, Asia

ROME — (AP) — Giant locust swarms are threatening the entire food supply of agricultural countries from Africa to Asia in the worst plague in a century.

Tens of millions of desert locusts have swept from their East African breeding place with dramatic rapidity since the start of the year.

Vast areas of French Somaliland, Eritrea, the Sudan, Aden, Yemen, Saudi Arabia, Oman, Kuwait, Jordan, Egypt, Israel, Syria, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan are infested.

Present swarms are now breeding and "a new generation of young locusts soon will be on hand threatening the cotton and grain of the Nile Delta on one side and the rice fields of India on the other."

FAO estimated that between 600 and 800 million hectares (1.1 to 1.3 billions acres) of Iran, running from the border of Iraq to that of Pakistan, are infested with desert locust eggs. That means a new plague for the future.

MAN OVERBOARD — The Wild Water Regatta at Shepperton, England, swallows a doughty canoeist attempting to shoot the raging rapids. The course, resembling a slalom skid run, was made doubly rugged by erected obstructions. (NEA)

Observance Of Armed Forces Day Planned Here Saturday

"Unity . . . Strength . . . Freedom" is the slogan designated by Secretary of Defense Robert A. Lovett for Armed Forces Day, to be celebrated locally and nationally on Saturday, May 17. The announcement was made by Capt. Charles A. Robison who is cooperating with Captain James C. Pogue in setting up the local observance of the program for the city.

"Cooperation between a very service of the Armed Forces is the way to build up our National Defense team," Capt. Robison said. He elaborated: "The National Guard, a vital reserve component of the Army and the Air Force, stands shoulder to shoulder with the other components in protecting the national security both at home and abroad. In the face of the present critical world situation, this year's observance of Armed Forces Day has special significance to all of us."

There will be a number of activities going on in Pampa Saturday in a local observance of Armed Forces Day, including an open house at the National Guard Armory, along with a National Guard Counseling service during the day. There also will be an exhibit in downtown Pampa. Other special ceremonies and radio programs will be planned during the day.

Old Autry Films Okayed For TV

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Republic Pictures Inc. has won the right to show 56 of Gene Autry's old movies on television.

Autry had sued to restrain Republic and its subsidiary, Hollywood Television Service, Inc., from showing the films on sponsored TV broadcasts on the ground it would violate his contract with the studio.

But U. S. Judge Ben Harrison yesterday upheld Republic's contention that its contracts and copyrights give the studio unrestricted rights to exhibit the films.

Three Die In Red Attack On Village

PUSAN Korea — (AP) — Police today said two South Korean policemen and one Communist guerrilla were killed Friday night when the Reds attacked the town of Hamyang 15 miles west of Pusan in deep South Korea.

Police said the Reds, about 50 in number, attacked the town with mortars, rockets and machine guns. Police drove the attackers off and today were reported hot after them in the hills. The guerrillas joined another group of 50 Reds.

Three civilians were kidnaped at Hamyang by the raiders. Ten Korean homes and two warehouses were destroyed by the guerrilla fire.

List Of Billion Dollar Businesses Grows Steadily

NEW YORK — (AP) — The list of billion dollar businesses in the United States grows slowly but steadily with a strong assist from inflation.

At least 24 companies (industries, utilities and railroads) report assets of more than one billion dollars, two having just joined the ranks.

To these you can add at least 13 insurance companies and one consumer finance company. Assets of a manufacturing company, of course, are not strictly comparable to the resources of a financial institution.

Assets aren't the only thing at American corporations now report in ten digit totals. At least 27 companies took in more than one billion dollars in sales other revenues last year, eight their newcomers to the list. Post-war inflation of prices plays large part in these business figures.

High income and estate taxes nittle steadily at the great fortunes of the past, making hard to say how many, if any, individuals could be listed as millionaires.

But the reports of the large corporations show the steady growth of billion-dollar sales and billion-dollar assets. In 1939 there were only 12 companies with billion-dollar assets, against today. Only two had billion-dollar sales, against 27 today. Four include Ford, which doesn't report its sales.

As the big corporations grow, a number of one-family-owned companies becomes relatively fewer. Most of the largest companies now have huge lists of stockholders.

The Bell Telephone System tops the list of the non-financial firms with assets of almost ten billion dollars. Westinghouse Electric is low man with just over a billion in assets.

There are six oil companies in the billion-dollar class: Jersey Standard, Indiana Standard, Socony-Vacuum, Texas, Gulf, and California Standard, in that order.

Six railroads — Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific and Timore & Ohio, in that order sit assets in ten digits.

Consolidated Edison of New York, Pacific Gas & Electric, and Commonwealth Edison (the last newcomer this year) are billion-dollar asset businesses.

General Motors and Ford (the latter on basis of its 1950 report, the last it has made) are above the billion dollar level.

S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel are in the group.

To do the appliance giants, General Electric and Westinghouse Electric (the latter a newcomer), J. P. and Sears, Roebuck complete the list.

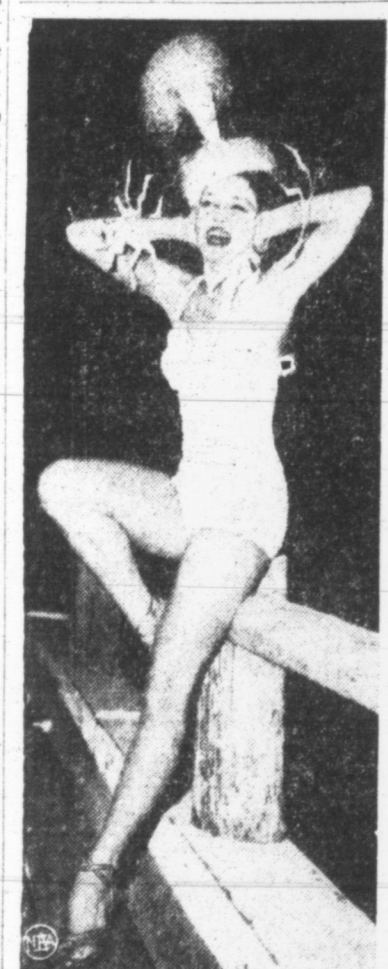

Of these 27, nine do not appear among the 24 companies reporting billion-dollar revenues. They are: Southern Pacific, New York Central, Santa Fe, Consolidated

Boy Scouts Plan Service Week End

Service week end at Camp Kiowah has been announced by Paul Beisenherz, Boy Scout council executive, for next Saturday and Sunday.

At that time adult members of the Order of Arrow will be in camp to help get ready for the summer camping season. They will also initiate a group of adult Scouters who have been invited to membership in the Order.

About 160 Boy Scouts will be in camp at Kiowah each week from June 8 to July 5.

Washington Doctor Reports New Idea In Brain Surgery

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — (AP) — A kind of "human sonar" — comparable to the sound echoing technique used by the Navy to detect submarines — may be working in the brains of many insane people.

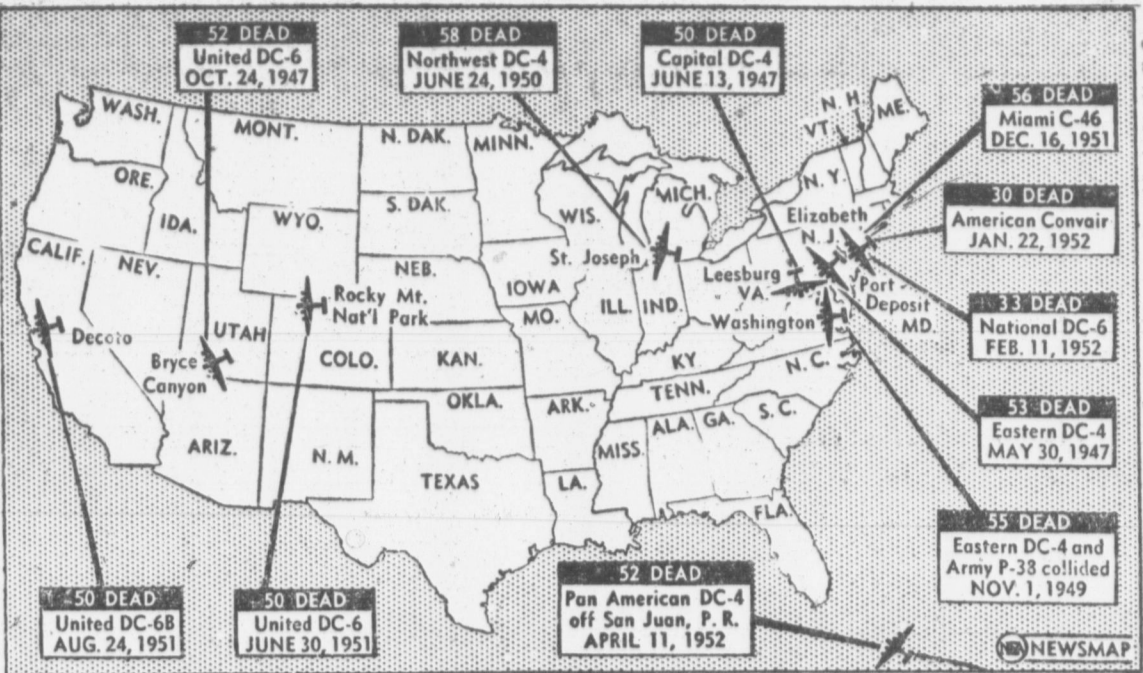

Dr. Walter Freeman, Washington, D. C., brain specialist, said so today in declaring that a new idea in brain surgery offers promise of stilling the "spirit voices" heard by such people — and perhaps improving their general mental condition.

He said the surgical technique — involving the removal of a finger-tip-sized organ from deep within the brain on both sides of the head — is based on a concept that "voices" heard by the insane are actually echoes of words whispered by the patient himself, often with closed lips.

The report was in an address prepared for the Society of Biological Psychiatry meeting in conjunction with the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Freeman said the concept was based to some degree on observation of bats and porpoises.

Newsman Warns Fires Are Building Now In Germany

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Fires are building in Germany. Here's how they were started:

The big four — United States, Russia, Britain, France — divided Germany into four occupational zones at war's end. The struggle for Germany between Russia and the West began.

Years passed. No hope in sight for peace treaty with United Germany. Russians set up puppet government, Communist-controlled in East Germany. Western Allies let West Germans have own government, headed by Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The occupying forces stayed but the Allies allowed Adenauer's government much freedom. The Western Allies formed the Atlantic Defense Pact. This meant building an army. European partners in the pact were to be the core of it: France, Belgium, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, Italy.

"Since this would be less than an army without the West Germans, they were offered a deal. A contractual agreement. Fancy name for what in effect would be an army. Not the same as letting Germany re-arm as it pleased. Its troops would be part of the European army, not a new German war machine.

The Russians, instead of pulling all Germany into the Soviet orbit, were losing West Germany to the allies. So they offered a deal March 10:

- (1) Germany should be unified;
- (2) the big four should finally sign that long-delayed peace treaty;
- (3) Germans should be allowed to re-arm and make their own weapons;
- (4) new, unified Germany couldn't make any military alliances.

The purpose was clear: By appealing to the old German nationalism and giving the West Germans a vision of a new Germany, the Russians hoped to split them from the West and wreck the European army.

There were gimmicks in this. Once the Allies were out of the new Germany, German Communists could work to take over the government from within.

But the Russian proposal put the Allies on the spot. The Russians would look like heroes to the Germans, the Allies like villains, if the latter turned down the tricky Russian offer cold. The Allies said they were interested, sent the Russians a note, objecting to some of the Russian notions, offering some of their own. The Russians answered back. This week the Allies sent the latest note in the series. Nothing's happened yet, nothing may. But here briefly is what the two sides propose:

1. Before the Russian idea of unifying all Germany can be carried out, the Allies insist, all Germans must be able to vote for a new government in free elections. They don't want Communist-rigged elections in East Germany.
2. But how could anyone be sure the elections were free? The Russians suggested the big four handle that one. More of that endless bickering between the West and Russia? The Allies said no, thanks, they want an impartial commission to take care of the free election problem.
3. The Russians said the big four should go to work at once on a peace treaty for a unified Germany, but the Allies said, whoa, no treaty talks start before a new and united German government can take part.

Filmland May See 20th-Fox Shakeup Soon

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene:

One of the main topics of conversation around town is the rumored shakeup at 20th-Fox. Advance reports indicate it will be unique in studio reorganization; top executives will be dropped, not merely press agents and secretaries.

Adding fuel to the reports is the fact that studio boss Darryl Zanuck took off for Paris with little notice. Presumably the ax will fall during his absence.

There are many theories as to why the shakeup is due. Most critics agree that 20th-Fox puts out the best pictures of any studio in town. But apparently box office receipts have not matched the critical acclaim. One reason may be that the pictures cost too much; 20th-Fox has never gone overboard on the economy slashes that have been evident at most other studios in recent years.

Here's my own guess as to what the outcome will be. I think there will be an increase of musical activity at the lot. The 20th-Fox output has not been too strong in the musical vein. About the only song-and-dance stars at the studio are Betty Grable, Dan Dailey, June Haver and Mitz Gaynor.

Contrast this week MGM's huge list of musical performers. The MGM formula may well be copied by other companies. That lot has studiously built up a roster of stars, directors, dance directors and musicians who can turn out a steady stream of musical entertainment. The results have been such box office winners as "Show Boat," "The Great Caruso," "An American in Paris" and "Singing In The Rain."

County Democrat Meeting Fizzles

The business meeting of Gray County delegates to the May 27 Democratic convention in San Antonio scheduled yesterday in the county court room failed to materialize when only three members of the 11-man delegation showed up.

K. I. Dunne, appointed by County Chairman Aaron Sturgeon to preside over the meeting, said he would attempt to contact the delegates by phone and get them together at a later time to discuss transportation, a central meeting place in San Antonio and other pertinent business of the delegation.

Demos To Let Court Rule On Candidate's Eligibility

The question of legal eligibility surrounding the placing of Hal Houston, Amarillo, on the Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for associate justice, Court of Civil Appeals, will be left up to the courts, County Democratic Chairman Aaron Sturgeon announced yesterday.

Sturgeon recently talked with Houston who said he had practiced law for more than 40 years in Oklahoma, and holds an Oklahoma license. The Amarillo lawyer, however, added he is now in the process of procuring his Texas license.

Because of the legal complications involved and because determining his eligibility to hold the office is a matter of interpretation of the state constitution and the statutes, the Gray county Democratic Executive Committee today elected to allow his name to go on the ballot here, Houston will, of course, have to pay his assessment by June 21 in order to remain on the ballot, Sturgeon said. HZ's assessment here will amount to salary divided by 46—the number of counties in the 7th Supreme Judicial District.

In the meantime Bob Baker, secretary of the Democratic Party week in Gray County, was preparing the mailing list of candidates who will receive their assessment have been the first to raise silk notices within the next two or three days. In all, Baker said he has 50 notices to write and mail to the candidates for various offices.

Former Slave Reads Bible On 107th Birthday

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—Lancaster County's oldest resident, William (Uncle Bill) Adams, celebrates his 107th birthday today.

The little old man with a wide mustache and an even wider grin plans to observe the occasion in his usual fashion—reading the "Good Book."

Born in slavery, "Uncle Bill" escaped from a Louisiana cotton field during the Civil War. He spends his time now tending his garden on the estate of J. C. Snavely.

"Uncle Bill" places a lot of store in his Bible-reading. Regarding world conditions, the centenarian commented: "The trouble today is that people ain't got enough religion. Too many get religion on Sunday and are holy terrors the rest of the week."

The Chinese are believed to have been the first to raise silk-

Britain Names 70 Americans As 'Paper' Knights

LONDON (AP)—Some 70 Americans made the grade today as Knights—on paper at least—in DeBrett's peerage. That is Britain's blue-blood handbook which up to now has screened out honorary "Sirs."

In the past DeBrett's has not listed honorary knights. But Editor C. F. Hankinson thawed out this year at the suggestion of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., a film star knighted for wartime service with British forces.

Among the Americans listed in the 1952 edition of the famed reference work are Generals Dwight D. Eisenhower, Douglas MacArthur and George C. Marshall.

However, they won't be Sir Dought or Sir Douglas or Sir George. The knight doesn't use the title unless he's dubbed—tapped on the shoulder as he kneels—by the King, and that's not done for honorary knightings.

"The bestowment of their honors is a pleasing sign of the ever-increasing bond between our two great countries," said Hankinson. The chronicle began in 1781, the years of Lord Cornwallis' surrender at Yorktown. It now contains about 50,000 names.

Up to the 1952 elections, the Democrats and Republicans have been opposed in 24 U. S. general elections of which the Democrats won 19 and the Republicans 14.

Court Reverses NLRB Stand On Picket Lines

NEW YORK (AP)—An employer has the right to fire a union employee, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals says, if the worker refuses to cross another union's picket line at a customer's plant while on duty.

By a two-to-one decision, the court yesterday reversed the stand of the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The NLRB had asked for an order enforcing its ruling that Charles Waugh be reinstated with back pay as a chauffeur-routeman by the Rockaway News Supply Co. Inc., distributors of newspapers and magazines in Long Island.

Waugh was a member of the delievers union of New York and vicinity when he was discharged from his job in March, 1950, after refusing to cross a picket line outside the office of the Nassau Daily Review-Star, in Rockville Centre, N.Y.

Members of the Nassau County Typographical union then were picketing the newspaper plant, by Judge Albert E. Maria and concurred in by Judge Harrie B. Chase, the court said:

"An employe is of course free to exercise his right to refuse to cross a picket line when he is on his own time. But he is not free to exercise the right during his working time in violation of his employer's working rules by refusing to perform that part of his regular duties which requires him to cross the picket line."

"To hold otherwise would be to permit an employe unilaterally to dictate the terms of his employment, which is well settled he may not do."

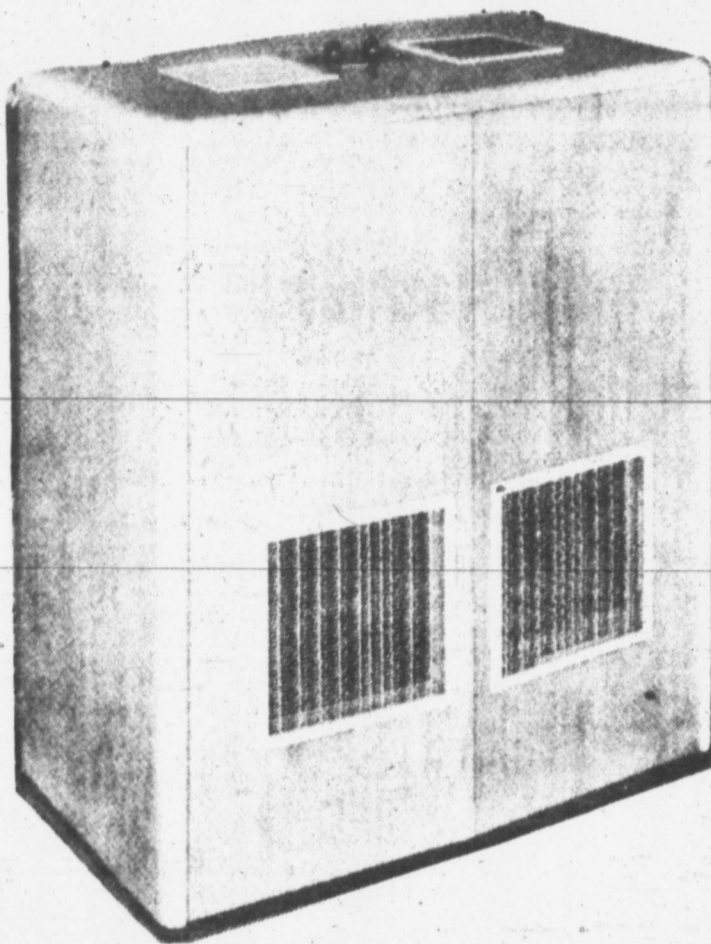

Judge Charles E. Clark, in a dissenting opinion, said: "To say that a workman is protected from discharge for refusing to cross a picket line only when his refusal is outside of his working hours seems to me a practical nullification of the statutory provision."

NLRB officials did not comment immediately on the decision.

Seek More Aid For Hospitals In South Texas

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass.) said the United Nations will be given a chance to do something about freeing William N. Oatis from a Czechoslovakian prison and prove it is "more than a debating society."

Mrs. Rogers told the House this week she was endorsing a legal move proposed by Luis Kutner, a Chicago lawyer specializing in habeas corpus actions, to force the Red Czech regime to release Oatis through world court action.

Oatis is the Associated Press correspondent jailed over a year ago. He is serving a five to 10 year sentence following conviction on espionage charges which the U. S. Government has denounced as phony and trumped-up.

Kutner said Oatis can be freed by having the international court order the Czechs to bring the American newsman before a court to determine whether he is lawfully held.

If the court rules Oatis is not lawfully held, Czechoslovakia, as a member of the UN would be obliged to observe the ruling. He said the UN charter also provides that the U.N. can take action, without fear of veto, against any member refusing to accept the court's verdict.

Kutner said sanctions could include economic reprisals, cutting off diplomatic relations, or even military action.

Kutner said his first move would be a petition presented to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, member of the U.N. Human Rights Commission. If her group acts favorably, the attorney hopes to move up through the Economic and Social Council, the General Assembly, and, finally, the International Court of Justice.

Killer Of Four Asks For Mercy

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A 20-year-old Negro told police today he didn't mean to shoot three bus passengers and a policeman to death on a crowded bus.

"I was just shooting to scare," police quoted Lawrence Goldsby as saying. "Then I couldn't stop shooting."

Earlier in the afternoon, he said, he drank a quart of wine and two cans of beer in a tavern. Goldsby, unemployed, grabbed a gun from Patrolman Eugene D. Stinchcomb's holster yesterday during the evening ruse hour.

Stinchcomb, who was 55, had boarded the bus after the bus driver complained that Goldsby was singing the hair of a woman passenger.

Then Goldsby shot Stinchcomb and two women passengers, one of them the woman whose hair he had singed. A stray bullet killed a man passenger. All of the dead were white.

Charged with first degree murder today and hurried into municipal Judge Louis Petrash's court, Goldsby screamed: "Mercy—mercy—have mercy on me!"

The extreme penalty for murder is death in Ohio's electric chair.

As Goldsby finished shooting among the 60 passengers jammed

Search Renewed For Killer Of 5

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — (AP) — Police renewed their hunt today for Antonio Correa Cotto, long-escaped killer, after reports of a shooting - stabbing orgy near Ponce in which five persons were slain and at least four others hurt.

Police Chief Benigno Soto said after the carnage yesterday at Ponce, 45 miles southwest of San Juan, that authorities threw out a dragnet for Correa. He broke out of the island penitentiary Oct. 23, 1950, and has eluded capture ever since.

The outlaw was serving a life sentence for two killings when he escaped with 100 other prisoners. He was believed hiding near Ponce, where he exchanged shots with pursuers previous to yesterday's killings.

Gas Prices Upped

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Higher prices for liquefied petroleum gas, or bottled gas, were authorized by the government yesterday.

Increased costs of materials and higher freight rates since the general price freeze, Jan. 26, 1951, were given as the basis for the increase.

Fifth Annual Junior Golf Tournament Starts Tomorrow

The fifth annual Pampa City Junior Golf Tournament gets underway at the Pampa Country Club tomorrow afternoon with about 50 junior golfers through the senior year in high school expected to compete.

The large field has been divided into three flights, "A," all kids 15 through 18; "B," all from 12 through 14; and "C," all up to twelve. The tournament is open to both boys and girls.

The contestants in "C" flight will play two nine-hole rounds and will conclude their tournament on Saturday. "B" fighters will play three nine-hole rounds and will finish their tournament on Saturday, also, playing nine holes tomorrow and is on Saturday.

The championship flight, "A," will play 18 holes on Friday, 18 more on Saturday, and the finals will start at 12:30 Sunday with $ more, a total of 54 holes.

Awards

All play is medal, on a handicap basis.

The annual Ham Luna Trophy will be presented to the winner after Sunday's play and 12 other flights will receive their awards as they win. In addition to first and second place trophies, many medals will be given to the contestants.

The defending champion, Bob Triggmore, will not be able to participate due to an impinged knee. Only two other boys have won the crown. Richard Triggmore and Jimmy Howard, who won it two years in a row.

One of the leading contenders for the crown will be Tommy Fox, No. 1 man on the Harvester golf team. But the handicaps even up the play so much that a real favorite can be selected. Whoever gets hot with his handicap is the player to watch.

Pampa Ladies Take 13-Stroke Lead In Panhandle Golf Meet

The Pampa Country Club assumed a 13-stroke lead in the Panhandle Women's Golf Association round-robin tournament for 1952 yesterday on their home course.

A total of 58 ladies registered for the event.

In the initial meeting of the year, the Pampans tied a net score of 449 strokes, as compared to defending Phillips Country Club with 453. In third place at the end of the day's 18-holes of play was the Amarillo Country Club with a 481 total; Ross Rogers was fourth with 492; and Huber of Borger trailed with 498.

The day's play marked the first time in the history of the association that a Pampa lady had been either the low gross or low net winner. And yesterday Pampans took both honors. Beth Heiskell, defending women's city medalist and runner-up in the city meet, shot a brilliant 79 for low gross honors while Juanita Tinsley had a 104-83-46 for low net.

CLUB WINNERS

Members making up the winning Pampa team with their net scores were Juanita Tinsley, 46;

BETH HEISKELL ... fires neat 79

Beth Heiskell, 62; Shirley Austin, 67; Orla Mitchell, 66; Lila Austin, Marge Austin and Jean Duckel, 58's.

The nine-hole net winner was Helen McCarthy of Phillips with a 52-29-23. Martha Ann Post of Phillips was second with 57-31-26. Marge Austin was the low-scoring Pampa lady, tying for sixth with a 42-10-32.

The individual club winners were: Amarillo Country Club—low gross, Irene Davis, 83; low net, Pauline King, 92-29-64; Ross Rogers—low gross, Eleanor Robertson, 81; low net, Barbara Hedrick, 114-47-64; Huber—low gross, Dortha Morrison, 97; low net, Neil Carlson, 101-41-60; Phillips CC—low gross, Marie Post, 91; low net, Bea Henderson, 118-62-54; Pampa CC—low gross, Beth Heiskell, 79; low net, Shirley Austin, 88-25-63.

The next meeting of the association will be on June 12 at the Phillips Country Club.

WT Pro-Am Card Is Completed

The West Texas Pro-Amateur Golf Association has set up a schedule of tournaments for the 1952 season. Among those scheduled for the Pampa area this May 29—Phillips Country Club, Jack Earle, pro.

June 10—Ross Rogers of Amarillo, Vern Farquhar, pro.

June 18—Vernon Country Club, Fred Atkins, pro.

June 24—Lamesa Country Club, Dick Julich, pro.

July 3—Huber of Borger, Joe Houck, pro.

July 23—Plainview, Jack Walker, pro.

August 4—Lubbock Country Club, Gene Mitchell, pro.

August 14—Clovis Country Club, J. D. Taylor, pro.

The tournaments are open to all golfers in the state, professional or amateur.

Oilers Move Into Third With 7-4 Win

Lineup Due For Preakness

BALTIMORE — (AP) — They start to line up today for the 76th running of Saturday's Preakness, one of horse racing's three main events for 3-year-olds.

Twelve colts are considered potential entries for a pot which grosses $105,770 now and will be upped $750 for each starter.

Calumet's Hill Gail ran off with the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago but came out of it with a sore leg which will keep the colt out of the Preakness and the other triple crown crown race, the Belmont.

The absence of Hill Gail is to the potentially big Preakness field. With that comet out of the way it became an invitation to a wide open race.

Five of the derby trailers view the Preakness as a chance to recoup. These include second and third place Sub Fleet and Blue Man, fifth place Count Flamingo, Arroz, the sixth finisher, and Gunning Oil, 11th out of 16 starters.

Sooners To Stay In Big Seven

NORMAN, Okla. — (AP) — The University of Oklahoma has decided to remain in the Big Seven Conference and comply fully with the new conference rule restraining coaches from recruiting high school athletes.

The university Board of Regents took the double action yesterday on recommendation of Dr. George L. Cross, university president.

It cleared the air of reports that Oklahoma was preparing to bolt the conference and either field independent athletic teams or seek admission in the Southwest Conference.

Lubbock Wins Marathon, 17-16

LUBBOCK — (AP) — Lubbock outlasted Ahlene here last night, winning a 17-16 victory in 12 innings that consumed three hours and 27 minutes and seven pitchers, with Ray Machado gaining credit for the win.

Manager I. B. Palmer's long single to right center with two out in the bottom of the twelfth scored Machado, who had previously opened the frame with a single to right with the winning run. Previously the Hubbers had to come from behind with an eight-run fourth frame to tie the score.

Sandie Exes In Win Over Futures

AMARILLO — (AP) — In the annual spring Amarillo High School football clash, the Exes came from behind the last three minutes for a 19-14 victory over the Future Sandies here Wednesday night.

Jimmy Albright passed to Tommy Donnell for the last 15 yards. Donnell and Albright scored the other touchdowns on two-yard runs.

David Kent made both of the six-pointers for the Futures. The sophomore zipped three and six yards.

Major Leaguers On Way Down

NEW YORK — (AP) — A score of major leaguers are on their way to various minor league baseball clubs today, hopeful that they'll be back in the big time before another season rolls around.

Twenty-one players were chopped off major league teams yesterday as the clubs pared their rosters to the legal limit called for by baseball law. The deadline was midnight.

The Browns optioned Pitchers Bob Mahoney, Cliff Fanning and Catcher Daniel Johnson to San Antonio of the Texas League and veteran Stan Rokj to Toledo of the American Association. That left the Browns with 26 players, one above the legal 25.

The extra player is Pitcher Dave Madison, who is a returning service man and under baseball rules carried for one year.

Lauro Salas Captures World Lightweight Title From Carter

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — New York's Jimmy Carter won the lightweight championship in an stretching from Los Angeles' Olvera Street to all parts south of the border.

First Mexican Champ

Salas is the first native Mexican to win an undisputed world championship.

"This was no win for myself alone," exclaimed the tempestuous Salas, "I am glad for the people of Mexico — the Mexican people here, the people in Mexico."

With that, Salas waved a sheaf of letters from his countrymen, including a special delivery from the mayor of Monterrey, wishing him luck before the bout.

Promoter Cal Eaton promptly began efforts from a rematch as provided in the fighters' contracts in the event of a Salas win. It calls for a rematch within 60 days, but both fight champs indicated they might like a little longer interval.

Carter, dethroned in his third defense of the title, was disappointed. So was his manager, veteran Willie Ketchum, who declared: "Jimmy got tired but I don't know how they saw the other guy winning."

Referee Frankie Van gave Carter the bout on points, 83-82 on the California 11-point per round system. Judge Mushy Calahan called it for Salas, 84-81, and Judge Joe Stone had it 83-1-2.

The Associated Press scored it 83-82 for Carter, and accorded Carter the heavier volume of solid punches.

The bout attracted 7,742 fans and the gross gate was $31,748.10 plus $17,500 for the television rights.

No Knockdown

Most of the 15 rounds were packed with action, but there were no knockdowns.

Salas captured the best round, the second, when he sent Jimmy typing across the ring from two hard rights to the jaw, delivered in rapid succession.

And he captured the fancy of the crowd, unquestionably a partisan turnout, with his rally in the last five rounds.

Salas split the skin above and below Jimmy's left eye in the 13th, and the champion said it bothered him from then on.

Carter came back nicely, if not spectacularly, after the big Salas second round, and by the 10th was coasting along on top. He worked in businesslike fashion, jabbing Salas out of a crouch, and banging away with both hands.

Salas started to come back in the 10th but got nowhere. But from the 11th on, he was a ball of fire, fashing away from all angles. He missed countless times, but by then Carter was tiring and unable to counter effectively. "I just didn't seem to have the zip," Carter admitted.

Carter weighed 134, Salas 131.

Montero To Face Blue Sox Tonight

Third place, as high as the Oilers have ascended so far this season, was where the Pampans were resting today after a loose-ly played 7-6 win over the Lamesa Lobos at Oiler Park last night. The win, the second of the year for George Payte, ran the Oiler winning streak to four straight and gave them a sweep over Lamesa.

Tonight the Oilers make a bid for second place in the league by entertaining the Ahlene Blue Sox. Veteran righthander Juan Montero, who pitched a five-hitter his last time out, against the Dukes Sunday, will start for Pampa with Freddie Schmidt the likely starter for the Sox. Game time is 8:15.

Payte, a usual wildman, found himself behind the batters most of the way, but managed to stagger through with the necessary stuff at the right times to gain the win. He got poor fielding support from his teammates, which cost him some runs.

Early Trouble

The trouble started right in the first inning. Jackie Wilcox opened with a single to left and went to second on a single to center by Bob Falk. Don Stokes followed with a single to center to score Wilcox. Joe Fortin forced Stokes at second, Falk moving to third. Frosty Kennedy then lined a single to center to play Falk, Fortin holding at second.

Frank Calo, on five day look with the Lobos, hit one back to Auerbach, who threw for Brown at second to apparently force Kennedy, but Umpire Kirik said Brown missed the bag and when Brown threw the ball over first, Fortin scored, Kennedy moved to third and Calo to second. But Payte bore down and got Stan Malinowski and Vic Garcia to end the inning.

The Oilers took the lead in a big third inning. Norm Auerbach opened with a bounding double over the third baseman's head, the first hit off Pilaraki. Woldt skied to left but Manny Teema was safe at first when Falk booted his grounder. Auerbach moving to third, Jake Phillips drew a walk to load the bases with one out.

Stan Bartkowski, who hit two home runs Tuesday night, slapped a single to center to plate Auerbach and Teema, Phillips holding at second. Sudol walked to reload the bases, with still only one out.

Moore Doubles

Brown fouled to Calo for the second out. Don Moore then lined a 3-2 pitch against the centerfield fence for two bases to empty the bases and put the Oilers ahead 5-3. Malinowski crashed in to the fence trying to spear the drive, and was forced to retire from the game in the fourth. Payte came up and hit one to Falk, who threw it into the dirt at first and when it got by Garcia, Moore scored with the sixth run of the frame.

The Lobos added one in the fourth on a walk to alk and singles by Stokes and Fortin. They got another in the fifth on a walk, an error on Auerbach and a force out. And then added their final run in the seventh when Phil Bartkowski, on a single to left by Garcia good for a run. This left runners on second and third with none out. But again Payte went to work. He got Wybernac, Wilcox and Falk, all on bouncers to the infield, to retain a 7-6 lead given him by Bartkowski's fifth inning home run, his fifth of the year.

That home run, which came on the first pitch served up by Wybernac in the fifth, went far over the leftfield fence, and was the run that ultimately spelled victory. After that Wybernac was the final run in the sixth man up on bases, but the sixth and seventh, moved him to second with a sacrifice, but couldn't get the accompanying hit to drive him across.

The Lobos threatened in the ninth, getting runners to first and third, but Wilcox fanned and Falk bounced out to end the game.

Question: The bases are loaded with none out. The batter hits a long drive which caroms off the left fielder's mitt. The center fielder, backing up the play, catches the ball before it reaches the ground, then relays the ball to the infield. Since all the runners broke from their bases the moment the ball touched the left fielder's mitt—and before the center fielder had completed the catch—the shortstop ignores the runners and merely walks over to step on second and third bases, and claims a triple play.

Meanwhile, all three runners dash home. I claim the runs count. Right or wrong?

Jimmy Breslin 32-31 16th St.

Flushing, Long Island

Answer: Right.—Base-runners may advance on a fly the moment a fielder touches the ball, whether he catches it or not.

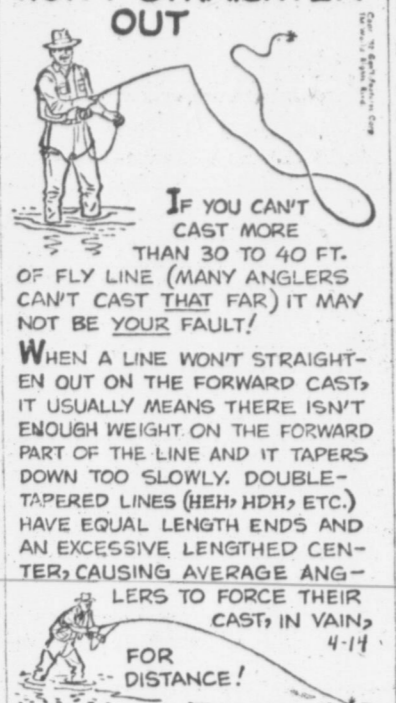

Q. On Aug. 7, 1906, the Cubs won a forfeited game from the Giants. Why?

A. Manager John J. McGraw refused to allow Umpire Johnston to enter the Polo Grounds.

GOOD GOLF'S EASY... NO. 9

Player With Wrong Club Has Unbeatable Handicap

(Ninth of a series as told to Harry Grayson, NEA Sports Editor.)

By JACKIE BURKE Golf's Newest Star

Selection of the club plays a tremendous part in golf.

A player can give himself an almost unbeatable handicap by selecting the wrong club. He's like the batter with two strikes. I've seen many an average golfer handicap himself by picking the wrong club.

Even if he happens to make a good shot with the wrong club, which is highly unlikely, it's still bad golf.

If an average 85 golfer selects the wrong club five times in a round, you can see what it can do to his score.

Never select a club with which you will need to baby a shot or are forced to press.

Choose the club that will let you use your natural stroke.

The golfer's elements and the standing of the match must be taken into consideration in selecting the club.

Play into the wind you might select a club that would push the ball through. Playing the same hole when there was no wind, you'd probably choose another club.

Traps and the condition of the fairway must be considered.

Sometimes, on a hard-baked, lightning-fast turf, a pitch-and-run shot to the green might be indicated. Playing the same shot on soft, spongy turf that holds the ball better, a straight pitch to the green probably would be more successful.

Fifty yards from the green, with the cup on the near side and the intervening fairway rough or soggy, you don't want to try and pitch and run with a five iron. Take the wedge and stick the ball right up to the pin.

Circumstances alter cases. Don't let anyone tell you what club to play, for no one can. Play your own club. If you know yourself and your capabilities, you should know how to select the right one. Experience and practice, plus a common-sense appraisal of conditions, give you the answer.

Continued indecision after you have selected the club is apt to be disastrous.

The champion throws out any club that cuts into his confidence. Gene Sarazen had the right slant.

"Whenever I pulled a club out, I was working with an old friend," says the winner of them all.

"Here's a fellow I know. I would feel as I gripped my masher, for example, 'I've had a lot of dealings with him. 'I can depend on this fellow.'"

Scientists Seek Pitcher's Art

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK — (AP) — "At a lower velocity the boundary layer flow changes from turbulent to laminar. During this transition the drag forces increase in spite of the velocity decreasing."

Sounds like a lot of double talk, doesn't it? A lot of gobbledegook which would have about as much connection with sports as a teakettle might have.

It has a lot to do with sport, though. It means that, through the process so clearly (?) described, a slowball actually slows up and drops.

Scientists at the University of Iowa, apparently intrigued by the art of pitching and wondering why a baseball behaves as it does, set about to find out what was what.

A few years ago an effort was made to prove that a curve does not actually curve, but is an optical illusion, a claim that had many batters scratching their heads in bewilderment inasmuch as it was the first time they ever heard of a rookie being sent back to the minors because he couldn't hit an optical illusion.

That claim has been proved baseless, and it now is accepted that a ball actually does change its course from left to right or right to left in flight.

The Guinness Pig

The Iowa scientists, headed by Prof. Elmer C. Lundquist, acting head of mechanical engineering at the school, chose the slowball as their guinea pig, and although their experiments as yet are incomplete early results indicate that not only does a slow ball slow up and drop, but that a pitcher with a real knack for throwing the ball can partially control the action.

Roughly, this is what happens to a slowball in flight: It runs into a "wall" of air when it leaves the pitcher's hand, with the air naturally pushing the ball back. The air also tends to "pile up" on the seams and rough surfaces.

At this point the action is much the same as for any pitched ball. However, if the pitcher has thrown the ball slow enough it slows to a point where strange things happen. The forces holding the ball back build up so fast that the ball slows down more suddenly than under normal conditions, and also drops unusually fast.

SPT 1-24 SCIENTISTS

That seems to be going to a lot of trouble trying to discover what every batter has known all

Head Man Now, Magie Accepts The Barber As Identifying Tag

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Bryan Field, the Delaware Park racing man, wants to know where Sal Magie acquired the nickname, The Barber, and why.

Salvatore Anthony Magie at first resented the appellation. "People will think I cut hair and never stop talking," he said. "I have a tough time even shaving myself."

As for bending ears, hello and goodbye practically is a conversation with the Giants' right-hand man in Cincinnati.

Now that he has achieved greatness, however, Magie accepts The Barber as an identifying tag.

A combination of things designated Magie as The Barber. Some say the moniker dates back to his first start for the New York Nationals after his return from Mexico and Canada. That was in mid-July of 1950. Although he gave 13 hits, he managed to edge the Cardinals in St. Louis, 6-5, in 10 innings.

Following the performance, a writer remarked: "You sure shaved 'em today, Sal."

Perhaps the best reason for the title is that he wins all those close shaves. Also he doesn't hesitate to shave a batter taking too much liberty in the way of crowding the plate.

Magie's appearance lends itself to The Barber, too. He's a ringer for Ed Pinard. Like Jack Dempsey, his blue bristle makes it appear as though he is always in need of a shave.

Magie is now recognized as baseball's top pitcher.

Magie's first three games this year could just as well have been played on a tennis court. All the other side did was bounce the ball around and half the time they couldn't get it over the net. In one inning he had three assists himself. Only three balls were hit well off him in the three outings. Del Ennis hit a ball over Don Mueller's head that should have been caught. Willie Mays bounced into the along but it will be nice for him to know there is nothing wrong with his eyes. If the tests had shown that a slowball is no more than a fast ball without speed he would be tempted to seek scientific verification every time he counted his fingers. He couldn't believe his glimmers.

Now if someone will just prove to them that the umpires aren't victims of optical illusions...

Sal the Barber: I have a tough time even shaving myself.

By HARRY GRAYSON

Ebbets Field fence catching a Roy Campanella blast. Hank Edwards swatted one into the seats in Cincinnati.

The Barber yielded only nine hits in the three efforts, four to the Phillies, two blanking the Dodgers and three to the Reds.

His over-all record for two years this Spring's fraction is 44 and 10. His earned-run averages were 2.71 in 1950, 2.93 last trip and right now stands at a magnificent flat 1.000. He is the fifth infelder and anything but an out fellow—at bat.

Magie was one of the handful of players who benefitted by jumping to the Mexican League. He had kicked around in the minors for a half dozen years without getting anywhere in particular.

Could Hit the Scientist

Magie was strictly a curve ball pitcher when he hopped to the Paqueles, and the book didn't work too well in the high altitude and thin air of Mexico City, Toluca and the other cities south of the border.

So Magie worked on getting a piece of the plate with his fast ball, inside and out.

Also in Toluca, Magie was managed by Adolfo Luque, who won his pitching style is now known as the "Luque" style.

Magie now gets the curve inside and outside as well as the hard one. One curve hustles off, Barber.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK — (AP) — The spruce, dapper figure who stood in the center of the room with a swansdown topcoat draped negligently over an arm and held his audience rapt with a flow of the purest malarkey was old Doc Kearns, perhaps the most fabulous of all the fight managers.

"This Rocky Marciano," the 69-year-old Barnum was saying, solemnly, "is the hardest hitter in the game today. He hits harder than Jack Dempsey ever did. Dempsey chopped up, but this Marciano can kill you with one belt. He's the nearest thing to Fitzsimmons as a hitter that I've ever seen."

There were a series of broad winks behind the old Doc's back. This, coming from the man who brought Dempsey out of the west and steered the Manassa Mauler to lasting glory, seemed to border on sacrilege. And then one recalled that the great team broke up angrily at the height of Dempsey's career. They were supposed to have shaken hands and made up a few years back.

ROBINSON GREAT

"Ray Robinson is another great fighter," Kearns continued smoothly. "It might have been the worst mistake I ever made when I matched my boy, Joe E. Maxum with him. Ray can do everything and I know he's going to give Joe trouble. I wouldn't have made it except that we needed the money."

After that one, the man who made a couple of fortunes managing Dempsey and Mickey Walker and tossed them away on high another turns around the corner of the plate, down and away to a right-hand batter, in on a left-hand hitter.

When batters get to leaning for a curve, The Barber crosses them, or lets 'em have one under the chin, and they go down—just like that.

Right-hand batters haven't a chance. Left-hand batters are in a quandary.

Magie's fast ball is good enough but he still is essentially a curve ball pitcher.

The odds in which a scientist would bet on such a thing as a curve that it is only an illusion, popped up again last season. A baseball writer took the case to the great Sal Magie.

"Stand that scientist behind a tree and I'll hit him," said the hard one. One curve hustles off, Barber.

living which did not include the ballet, paused and permitted himself a brief smile. Doc knew he wasn't fooling anyone within earshot. The boys on the fight beat know that both Doc and his champion consider Sugar Ray a soft touch. But Kearns loved it, just the same. Someone asked him why he was shilling for Marciano.

"Oh, it's always good to give a boy a boost. It all helps the fight game," he said.

Perhaps so, out it also is true that Marciano, known as the Brockton Block Buster is managed by Marty Weil, the stepson of Al Weil, who is matchmaker for the International Boxing Club, which bestows all blessings. Al used to manage Marciano himself before he became matchmaker, and it is no exaggeration to say that he still is vitally interested in Rocky's quest of the heavyweight title.

It also would be only natural if a plot of Kearns' talents were looking beyond Maxum's coming date with Robinson and on to another fine pay day—against, for instance, the drawing card named Marciano. Obviously, as the Doc implies, Maxum would have small chance against a ring killer of Rocky's caliber. Or would he?

These are great days, and nights in every year for Kearns. After the long lean years in which he did the best he could and hung hopefully around the fringes of boxing high society, the odds is back for a final fling at the big time. He doesn't have a great fighter in Maxum, not one in the mold of Dempsey and Walker, at least. But he has a real good one, whom he personally rescued from the scrap heap, and Maxum, if anything, is the luckier one of the pair.

"I'm hearing from lots of the oldtimers," Doc said happily. "Every time the phone rings it's another of them wanting to come in and spend a while up at the training camp. They remember the old days. I'm telling 'em all to catch the next train. We'll have some fun."

By the way, he said, suddenly remembering his mission and addressing Murray Goodman, the IBC publicity chief, "We need a good cook up there. Get me the best one you can."

You're money ahead when you buy on these PLAIN HARD FACTS

Stack up what you get for what you pay... and join the nation's largest group of truck users by choosing Chevrolet

By far the biggest number of truck users today are Chevrolet owners... and for good hard-headed reasons. Because what they're after in a truck can be set down about like this:

- 1) It's got to be low in cost. Chevrolet trucks have the lowest list prices.
 - 2) Upkeep and operating costs must be low. Chevrolet trucks work for rock-bottom "wages" on fuel and maintenance.
 - 3) How well the truck does the job is all-important. Chevrolet trucks are factory-matched to the job.
 - 4) The truck must be rugged, long lasting. Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more at trade-in, for what they cost, than any other truck.
- Come in and let's see how a Chevrolet truck can save money in your business.

CHEVROLET

first in demand in value in sales

MORE CHEVROLET TRUCKS IN USE THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

Fact No. 1 Save money on purchase price: Stack up a Chevrolet truck against any other truck with comparable specifications, capable of handling the same payloads. You'll find the Chevrolet truck for less... and brings you great truck features you won't find in many trucks costing much more.

Fact No. 2 Save money on operating costs: Truck users everywhere have proved to themselves that Chevrolet costs less to own and maintain. Valve-in-Head economy, in the Loadmaster or Thriftmaster engines, saves on gas. Special 4-way engine lubrication reduces wear, keeps oil costs low.

Fact No. 3 Save money on job efficiency: You don't waste money by buying "too much truck"—you don't risk work interruption or slow-downs by buying "too little truck." Frame, axles, springs, body, brakes, and power are part of a well-balanced team that does the job at lowest cost.

Fact No. 4 Save money on low depreciation: Records show that Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more money at resale or trade-in time than any other make which costs about the same new. Here is further evidence that Chevrolet is the best truck buy—and that's why more truck users buy them!

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence. Should we, at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

How To Make Foes And Scare Friends

If you sometimes wonder why this country can give away billions of dollars and still find the receiving nations suspicious of our motives and hostile to our aims, you can find a pretty good clue to the reason in remarks made by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Mr. Justice Douglas publicly advocates that the United States go into the business of promoting revolutions in the countries to which we are offering friendship and aid. Mr. Douglas urges that before we give away any money to help the economies of the underdeveloped countries of the world we stir up "peasants' revolutions" to overthrow the existing orders, divide up the wealth and in general turn everything upside down.

Indeed, Mr. Douglas suggested to the national conference on international economic and social development in Washington that if the members were in one of those underdeveloped countries he felt sure they would be forming an "American revolutionary committee" to foment the revolt.

Now it is understandable that Mr. Douglas, who spends as much time judging the world as he does the cases at his bar, should be sympathetic to the plight of peoples in economically backward countries. We share that sympathy. And it is perhaps understandable that in a country that got its start with a revolution some people should think that all that's needed to get them out of that plight is a revolution.

This country has long tried to persuade the rest of the world that it need not look our gift horses in the mouth. We have, we say, no ulterior motives. We are simply trying to help. We are trying to help the rest of the world to a little more prosperity and to promote order and stability and peace.

Hoover Still Confused As To The Cause of Depressions

Herbert Hoover is writing a series of articles that are appearing in Collier's. In the May 3 issue his article is under the heading of "The Great Depression."

I would not have read the article, because I have little confidence in Hoover's judgment and believe little could be learned from reading what he has to say, had it not been that a friend of mine thought I should read it.

I had heard that Hoover had called in several big industrialists, who contended that they could not sell their products unless they got their costs down and they couldn't get their costs down unless they got their labor costs down, and Hoover told them not to do it because it would ruin him and ruin the Republican party.

Hoover doesn't seem to know that every advantage or disadvantage in free enterprise is sooner or later passed on to the consumer, and that if wages are high the employer does not pay the wages, but the wages are paid by other consumers, who are workers in most every case.

He relates in this article that his idea of correcting the depression was entered into by Andrew Mellon, his Secretary of the Treasury. Andrew Mellon believed that speculators, capitalists and labor that had established fictitious prices should suffer the results of their error in judgment.

But Hoover, years before, had contended that labor unions could improve the lot of the working men. He still seems to believe that. He still seems to believe in economic miracles—that wage levels can be raised by fiat.

Of course, Hoover is not to blame for the depression, but Herbert Hoover certainly took the wrong course of action—to correct the depression.

Which is why, when I walked into a restaurant the other night and saw a red-haired school teacher named Maricle going a fast four rounds with a formidable diet, I decided to sit down alongside her and discover what pains in life are moved to transform a schoolmarm in Texas into a singing whizz on Broadway.

It was later followed up by Roosevelt and Truman, and yet Hoover thinks he is a liberal. Neither Hoover, Roosevelt or Truman are liberals. They are reactionaries.

The article certainly confirms the fact that Hoover still is confused as to the cause of depressions.

It is not at all surprising that Hoover should be confused as to the cause of depressions, because he is a reaction-ary.

a commodity and it has to be bought if we are to have the greatest possible increase in wage levels on an unhampered market basis.

Judging from the article, Hoover does not even realize that yet. He still is in a day dream. He seems to believe that the state is god and above natural laws. It seems to go to the head of men when they get a lot of power by way of the government, and Hoover seems to be no exception.

Hoover did realize that the Federal Reserve System had stimulated speculation and overexpanded credit, but he seemed to think the politicians could regulate credit.

UN Met All Red Demands But POW Exchange At Panmunjom

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — President Truman has already begun to keep his promise to "pitch hard" for the election of a Democrat as his successor.

It shows in his attempt to answer some party leaders' voiced suspicions that he would not be too upset if Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were the next president of the United States.

Truman's efforts in this direction are indirect rather than frontal. They consist of executive manipulation of certain problems so as to remove them from the field of major political controversy.

In short, he aims to doctor the official record so that it will become an asset rather than a liability. It should be noted that, although he always thinks and acts partisanly, he probably believes that his current contributions are beneficial and constructive from a national viewpoint.

Although frequently an inept performer, even his worst enemies regard him as well-meaning, and, by his lights, sincere. They always add, however, that, in their opinion his lights are dim.

contention that he has almost unlimited authority in "emergencies." Truman thinks this strategy will sterilize the episode as a campaign issue.

BUGABOO — The extremely unpopular and profitless "police action" in Korea is another bugaboo that Truman is striving to obliterate from the voters' minds.

It is not generally realized how completely we have surrendered to the North Korean and Chinese negotiators in the Panmunjom all their demands except on the exchange of prisoners.

Now it is revealed that we would have yielded on that question but for the fact that too many captured "Commies"—70,000 instead of an anticipated 10,000—refused to return home.

Let's this economic barometer be making hedges against either deflation or inflation. The President himself gave the cue for the Federal Reserve Board's lifting of curbs on installment buying. He removed the ban on local issues of new securities, which has barred the financing of World War II bonuses and other politically popular projects.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M.D.

The ability to hear well is a precious quality which must be preserved if at all possible, and if not, which must be relieved to the greatest possible degree. In recognition of this, National Hearing Week will be observed this year from May 4 to 10, and several columns this week will therefore be devoted to the problem of better hearing.

An interesting report on a conservation of hearing program for school children comes from Hartford County, Maryland. During the three-year period of a survey, 70 per cent of the children in the county's schools were screened for hearing defects.

About one child out of seven, among the 7000 tested, failed to have perfect hearing as shown by the original test and was referred for further study.

Out of the 1118 youngsters who failed the original test, 712 showed a certain type of hearing defect called chronic conduction deafness, which was nearly always associated with chronic or acute infections of the upper breathing tract—most commonly, infected tonsils and adenoids.

One hundred-ninety children had their tonsils and adenoids removed, though this number was only about one-third of those for whom it had been recommended.

The degree of hearing improvement was about the same in older and in younger children. So surgery seems to be no reason for waiting to have the tonsils and adenoids removed to conserve hearing, if removal is otherwise indicated, merely because of the hearing.

Other words, the operation should not be postponed merely in the hope of improvement. This experience is only one of several attempts to conserve hearing. It is, of course, better to save good hearing than to try to treat it once it has gone bad, and therefore, efforts to do this should be encouraged.

In closing this column, I should like to mention the fact that the American Hearing Society (817 14th St., N. W., Washington 5, D. C.) is a national headquarters for information relating to hearing. The Volta Bureau (1537 35th St., N. W., Washington 7, D. C.) also distributes pamphlets on this subject.

objective is to sweeten and strengthen the economic situation between now and November. He is making hedges against either deflation or inflation. The President himself gave the cue for the Federal Reserve Board's lifting of curbs on installment buying. He removed the ban on local issues of new securities, which has barred the financing of World War II bonuses and other politically popular projects.

He Lives Like A King! Hank Knows Duke, Duchess Better Than His Own Folks

By HENRY McLEMORE

It doesn't make much sense, but I'm beginning to know the Duke and Duchess of Windsor as well, or better, than I do members of my own family.

To say that the Duke and Duchess are casual acquaintances of mine is putting it mildly. I've seen the Duke and Duchess in my life, once when following a golf match at Prestwick, Scotland, when he was Prince of Wales, and once in Nassau when he was governor-general of the Bahamas.

I know, for example, that the favorite breakfast of the Duchess is yogurt and lemon juice, but for the life of me I couldn't tell you what my mother usually has for breakfast. I'd have to guess at what Mama has, but society columnists keep me so completely informed on Wally and Edward that I'm hardly ever at a loss to know where they are, what they are doing, and what they are eating and wearing.

My two brothers play golf, but I have no dreaming idea of the weaknesses of either games. I know, however, that the Duke suffers from a decided ailce, averages two hundred yards or thereabouts off the tee, snoots in the middle eighties on good days, and is a much better than average putter.

I'm extremely vague about the wardrobe of my two sisters, but I know that the Duchess often wears black velvet with no jewels, abhors dotted Swiss for morning, and leans closely toward close-fitting hats with veils.

As for the Duke's wardrobe, I know much more about it than I do about my own, despite the fact that his is somewhat more extensive than mine. He likes plaids, checks and cathedral window effects that only a man who had once worn a crown could order from his tailor or haberdasher without sending them into a slow outside loop.

The Nation's Press

HATRED AND DICTATORS (The Charleston, N. C. News Courier)

Hate is the business of dictators. By instilling into the masses a hatred for an "enemy," dictators can rally their people about them and emerge always as brave leaders against a despicable foe.

Marshal Leonid A. Govorov, standing by the side of Prime Minister Stalin, told the Russian people in a May Day rally that the "American barbarians are carrying out the greatest crime against humanity—making use of bacteriological weapons in Korea and China."

That statement was an untruth, designed deliberately to cause the Russians to hate us. It is plain that we "American barbarians" are being built up in the minds of the Russian masses as the hateful enemy.

Whether that means World War III is closer today than it was a year ago is problematic. We must continue to try to get the truth to the Russian people. We must try to show the world that we are not barbarians (although we are the only country which has used the atom bomb against human beings) and that we tell the truth (although Moscow is still gloating over Mr. Truman's story of his alleged "ultimatum" to Stalin about Iran in 1945).

Also, we should set an example of honesty within our own government. And we should keep our powder dry and our atoms in reserve.

Clay—What did her father say when you asked him for her name? Carey—Why wanted to know if I could support him in the same way that she did. Elsie—Why do you walk, Why don't you take the train? Robert—My wife won't let me take it in the living room.

Golden pineapple slices studied with clove garnish this sumptuous rice and meat loaf. The top layers take on the spicy flavor of the cloves and the rest of the delicious loaf is eating supreme. It is a joy to eat so simple is the preparation. Make it ahead of time and store it in the refrigerator until an hour before dinner. Then bake and bring to the table steaming hot. Let all enjoy the beauty of this flavormore rice and meat loaf as well as the fragrant aroma contributed by the cloves.

Rice and Pineapple Upside Down Loaf

- 2 cups cooked rice
- whole pineapple
- 3 slices pineapple
- 1 cup cooked ham, ground
- 1 cup cooked veal, ground
- 1/2 cup green pepper, minced
- 1/2 cup catsup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons onion, minced
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

1 teaspoon salt
Insert whole cloves into pineapple slices. Place pineapple slices in a greased loaf pan (9 1/2" x 5 1/2" x 3 1/2") so that heads of cloves are against the bottom of the pan. Mix together the ham, veal, rice, green pepper, catsup, milk, pineapple juice, onion, egg, Worcestershire sauce and salt. Pour this mixture over the pineapple slices and bake at 350° F. for one hour. Run a knife around the edge of the pan to loosen the loaf. Place a platter over pan and invert platter and pan together. Serve immediately, with a sauce if desired.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
My friend writes fiction for a living. He has a six-year-old son named Matt.

Every day, since Matt can remember, he has seen his father disappear every morning after breakfast into what he calls The Room. It is a sacred place, to be approached only by his mother with a lunch tray or with the news of cosmic upheavals like earthquakes.

Matt never makes a noise near The Room. When he was three, his father told him why silence was important. In a drawer of his file cabinet, Matt's father said, there lived one Dennis, and Irish leprechaun of peevish temper who slept all day and had adventures all night.

Man-to-man, Matt's father put it to his son — this leprechaun operating on a night shift as he did would surely resent a noisy noise near The Room as an outrage upon his daytime slumbers.

Matt's reward for this consideration has been a pre-dinner report on Dennis' escapades the previous night. His uncritical attention has encouraged his father until he has come to regard himself as a fancier of leprechauns and an expert on fairies in general.

So he was alarmed a week or so ago when Matt interrupted a specially juicy account of Dennis' goings on the night before. When Matt said, "Stop talking — a noisy noise near The Room as an outrage upon his daytime slumbers," Matt's reward for this consideration has been a pre-dinner report on Dennis' escapades the previous night. His uncritical attention has encouraged his father until he has come to regard himself as a fancier of leprechauns and an expert on fairies in general.

Junior-Senior Banquet Held In Canadian School

CANADIAN — (Special) — "Junior Plantation Open House" was held in the Canadian school cafeteria Friday evening, May 9, with the juniors honoring the Canadian High School seniors of 1952 at the annual junior-senior banquet.

Guests were greeted at the door by Gary Gray and Orla Boyd Curran. The girls were presented with fans and the boys with Confederate caps, after which they signed the guest book.

An arch made of floral banded tulle marked the entrance. The tables were decorated with streamers of blue and gold, blue and white, the colors of the two classes, and bows of daisies; Candellabra held lighted, white candles. Tiny figures of southern belles, and gentlemen held the place cards.

George Vinson, junior class president, welcomed the guests and Buddy Gross, senior class president, made the response.

The "tuneful trumpet" of Miss Marilyn Witt entertained with "Sugar Blues" and "The Birth of the Blues" and "The Senior Songsters," a sextet composed of Janet Conley, Mary Ellen Tepe, Barbara Hall, Norma Benson, Nancy Alexander, and Dorothy Bernson, sang "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Old Black Joe."

Miss E. Moore, Nona McMeek, and Mary Lee Blackmore, the "Junior Juleps," sang "Doodle De Do" and "Sleepytime Gal." Supt. A. H. Brazee also paid some musical tributes, singing "You're Just a Flower from an Old Bouquet," dedicated to Jeanie Job, John Moore, and the junior boys to the Senior boys "Lazy River" was dedicated. "Mammy's Mimic," Gary Gray, sang "I'm Sittin' on Top of the World" and "Mammy."

Roberta Schoenhaus the "rhythmic rebel," gave a musical reading.

The Dixieland Quartette composed of Danny Conklin, piano; Jack Matthews, cornet; J. T. Hill, clarinet; and Stan Hodges, trombone, entertained with actions while a record faked jazz music.

For a little "plain talk" Principal H. W. Traut presented a bouquet of red roses to Miss Marilyn Witt, then gave a musical reading of advice to her concerning her forthcoming marriage to Mr. Joe Pease.

The banquet program was concluded with the story hour with Mr. Brazee as narrator. The time was May 1962, the memoirs of Tom Schaefer. The music group sang "I'm Drifting Back to Dreamland," "Somewhere in Old Canadian," "A Little Street Where Old Friends Meet," and "Good Night, Little Girl of My Dreams."

Chances are your wife is a lot smarter than you give her credit for being.

If you long ago decided that she hasn't the slightest idea of what you are up against in your business or profession answer this question honestly. Have you ever gone to any pains to explain the real set-up of your business to her, what things are important and why, what your real problems are, what your chief aims are?

If you haven't done that and tried to keep her up to date on what is going on at the office, how can you possibly expect her to know what you are up against?

If you don't think much of her as a housekeeper, ask yourself another question. Do you ever thank any woman for anything you notice the things she does for your comfort, or do you only mention her job when you complain that a button is off a shirt, there's no soap in the bathroom or that she forgot to buy light bulbs? If that is the case she probably got discouraged long ago and decided that you were more interested in finding fault than in anything else.

If you think she is extravagant, how about this: Have you ever given her a chance to handle a certain amount of money and to try to get the most for it? Or have you put her in a position where she feels no responsibility for the bills she runs up and charges what she wants with the thought that you'll probably raise cash when the bill comes in, but of course, you'll end up by paying it?

If you think she doesn't handle the children well, you might try another question. Have you left the job entirely up to her, stepping in only to criticize her decisions after they have been made? No woman can handle children well if that is the set-up.

If you think she isn't well-informed about what is going on in the world, here is another question for you: Do you lower women's opinions on serious affairs and ridicule any ideas of her own she does express? Is so, no wonder she sticks to such safe topics as the housework and the children.

Most wives are smarter than their husbands give them credit for being or ever encourage them to be. How about yours?

Give You Clothes Certain Individuality

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Have you ever walked into a room and been greeted by a woman who was wearing this terrible, worn-out dress?

Well, if you had been objective at that moment, you might have realized that though the dress was the same, the similarity ended right there. For it is the way a woman wears and accessorizes her costume that gives it individuality.

There are certainly no iron-clad rules that must be followed when it comes to making the most of your appearance. What you should try to do is develop the ability to plan.

If you are going to spend a glamorous evening, dress up your outfit accordingly. But at a time when you want to treat glitter lightly, don't overload with necklace, plus pin, plus bracelet. A good test of whether or not you have added too many accessories is to stand back from the mirror and quite honestly appraise the situation. If you look just as well without a pin or bracelet, take it off.

For your more conservative hours, brighten up your suit with color. Wear interesting shades of gloves. A colorful hat or blouse can make you and your clothes look entirely different. Since it is almost impossible for most of us ever to buy a dress, suit or hat that no one else will buy, it's up to us to create a distinctive appearance.

McLean Girl Picked As Area FFA Sweetheart

McLEAN — (Special) — Miss Sue Glass of McLean was elevated from sweetheart of the Top 'O Texas District, Future Farmers of America, to sweetheart of Area 1 at the area convention in Canyon, Saturday.

Businessmen Want Congress Votes To Be Put On Record

Pampa and other 18th Congressional District businessmen and their employees told Congress they wanted lawmakers compelled to go on record on all appropriation votes; wanted income taxes lowered; credit and price controls discontinued; and the immigration dogs backed to an estimated 300,000 displaced foreign persons.

The voice of opinion was drawn from the membership of the National Federation of Independent Businessmen in its monthly bulletin, "The Mandate."

The report today shows Pampa going along with the remainder of the district on all five issues. The voters apparently were more interested in compelling congressmen to go on record on appropriations than they were in reducing the federal pocket picking according to the returns.

Pampa favors boosting personal income tax exemption from $600 to $1000 by 81 percent with 19 percent voting against it; the district okayed to exemption hike 88 1/2 percent.

Although 15 percent of the congressional district voted for continuation of price controls through 1952, only 11 percent in Pampa nodded approval. The negative side of the ledger showed the district 85 percent against the controls while Pampa "no" votes accounted for 67 percent of the total with two percent making no comment.

However, credit controls for the remainder of the year had a somewhat larger following in its favor. Twenty-three percent of the Pampa vote was "aye" while 75 percent were against and two percent declining to vote. Over the district the "no" voters were 76 percent and the "aye" voters tabulated 24 percent of the ballots.

Admission of 300,000 additional aliens under a displaced persons quota was also turned down in Pampa by 79 to 19 percent and 2 percent again refusing to ballot. The district was about the same with 48 percent against the additional admissions and 29 percent favoring it.

Congressmen should be made to go on record — this would mean a roll call vote as to how they voted on all appropriations, the district said by a 6 percent vote. Only two percent voted "no" and two percent declined to ballot. Pampa voters, by 91 percent, cast an "aye" ballot and only nine percent said "no."

The balloting on these legislative matters is done on the average once a month by businessmen, professional men, farmers and their employees, who belong to the National Federation of Independent Business. Results of the tabulations are sent to representatives and senators and other government personnel directly concerned with the questions. President Truman also sent a copy of the returns on a nationwide basis.

Hollywood To Invade South Sea Islands For Picture

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — It should be movie actors voice their political opinions in public at least study the opinions in public is again being discussed in film circles during this important election year. It came up recently when Red Skelton was criticized for anti-Trumanism on his television show. Skelton felt there is no harm in taking cracks at politicians. Another top comic, Bob Hope, holds a different view. He once told me:

"When you face all kinds of audiences, you are bound to receive enmity by taking sides in a politics. You owe it to your public to remain neutral."

To shed light on this matter, I arranged a debate between two level-headed actors. I presented five questions to Robert Ryan and Robert Young. Their replies above the two opposing views on the matter of actors in politics:

1. Do you think that actors should take active part in political campaigns?
Ryan: "Yes. If a man has enough faith in the things he believes in, he should have the courage to speak out for them. Even if he sways no one, at least he has served the purpose of calling attention to important issues."

Young: "I don't believe an actor should campaign for any particular candidate. I have always avoided partisanship, even to registering as an independent voter. But I do believe actors can help in making people politically conscious without taking sides. As Edmund Burke said, the only thing needed for a man of evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing."

2. Do you think a politically active actor is taking advantage of his position?
Ryan: "No. If he believes enough in a cause, he should speak up for it no matter what is his position."

Young: "Yes, the actor does take advantage of his position. But wouldn't the President of U. S. Steel do the same? I think most actors don't realize how much they can sway voters' minds. That's why they should be doubly careful about how they throw their weight around."

3. Do you think that an actor who takes no part in politics is overlooking his duties as a citizen?
Ryan: "He is not overlooking his duties; his only duty as a citizen is to vote. But he might be overlooking his obligation to himself if he fails to speak out for something he believes in."

Young: "I think anyone who uses T-4-L FOR ATHLETE'S FOOT BECAUSE—

It peels off outer skin and exposes buried fungi to kill it on contact. It not pleased in ONE HOUR with instant-drying T-4-L back at any drug store. Today at Perkins Drug.

feels no interest in politics for. He has his right as a citizen. Every one should at least study the balloting, especially in municipal elections."

4. Do you think an actor who voices political opinions harms his popularity?
Ryan: "I doubt it. Katharine Hepburn spoke for Wallace and Roosevelt for Truman in the last presidential race. Neither seems to have been hurt by it."

Young: "He is bound to hurt his popularity with those of the opposing party."

5. Do you think an actor's opinion would have any effect in a political campaign?
Ryan: "No. Actors are traditionally supposed to be brainless, but even if they don't sway opinion, they help by throwing light on issues."

Young: "A lot depends on who the actor is. I think a lot of actors behind a candidate would have some effect. People often judge a candidate by his backers."

State highway engineers Tuesday morning announced completion of paving on the Southern section of the Pampa-Perryton road — State Hwy. 79 — from Alcock to the city limits.

Topping contractors Monday laid the last drops of the double course asphalt surfacing shortly after 10 a. m. to make the highway — southwest-bound from Alcock north to a point about 3 miles west and south of Chicken Creek Bridge, a distance of about 20.5 miles.

This leaves about 9.4 miles of unpaved roadway between the present end-of-paving and the south bank of the Canadian River. That project, plus the contemplated span over the Canadian, plus construction of about 8.9 miles north of the river, to the end of paving there, as all that remains to be done until civic leaders' dreams of a straight road from Pampa to Perryton come true.

The funds for excavating, grading, structures, and paving — referred to by construction men as a "turnkey job" — have already been appropriated. Engineering work on the stretch is now in progress and bids for the job may be called for by the State Highway Commission sometime this year.

But, the big hurdle is yet to come — the Canadian River Bridge. Highway boosters from Gray, Roberts, and Ochiltree counties have made numerous trips to Austin to appear before the highway commission requesting construction of the span.

Funds have yet to be appropriated for the remaining unpaved portion of the highway on the south side of the river.
