French Navy Gives Up Hope For Submarine

VOL. 51-NO. 146

Navy gave up-hope today for the submarine Sibylle and her crew of 48, missing in the Mediterranean off the Riviera since yesterday morn-

A Navy spokesman said an official announcement of the loss would be issued as soon as notification was made to the relatives of the crew.

The official's remarks came almost simultaneously with a report from the big Southern Fance naval base of Toulon that an oil slick had been reported in the area where the submarine submerged yesterday during ma-

40 miles east of Toulon. The Navy said the sub was believed to have gone down in water 2,100 feet deep. Its rescue equipment, the Navy explained, could not operate below depths of 150 to 180 feet. The Navy said the sub had enough oxygen aboard to last until early tomorrow morning The ministry spokesman said plane and ship patrols would continue the cearch. The 1000 - ton sub failed to surface on schedule early yeserday after submerging in deep water off the Riviera Coast during naval maneuvers. Three crui-D. Eisenhower and Sen. #### Dallas Bracing For Big Weekend

DALLAS (P) - Dallas is bracing for the biggest week-end football this season or any other season-a triple - header in which all games will be of na tional interest. There hasn't been anything like it since the celebrated college louble-header of 1950 when two big games were played in the afternoon and night - Oklahoma vs. Texas and Southern Methodist vs. Oklahoma A&M — and attendance totaled 150,000. Tomorrow night Southern Methodist plays Duke in one of the country's top intersectional games.

Saturday night Oklahoms A&M takes on Texas A & M in another intersectional contest of interest among the colleges.

THEY'RE TOPS IN THE TAX PARADE-In the fiscal 1952, which ended June 30, Uncle Sam's Treasury collected a record-breaking $64,970,000,000 in taxes but still ran $4,000,000,000 deeper in the red because of mounting expenses. Newschart above shows the major tax sources, with poor old John Q. Citizen leading the parade. His income and employment taxes in fiscal 1952 were almost $7,000,000,000 higher than the $26,500,000,000 collected the year before.

Russia Faces Big Question

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

Associated Press News Anaylst West German officials, discusing with East German Communists their latest propaganda move about "unity," have given them the answer which Russia. herself will have to answer before there can be an end to the world's East-West struggle.

Many West Germans had expressed opposition to even receiving the five-man Communist delegation in Bonn. But the Bundestag president thought they should be permitted to make their move. He accepted delivery of a letter suggesting the establishment of committees to look into the possibilities of re - uniting the country. Then he said, in effect: "We can't do business with kidnapers referring to numerous snatches across the dividing line in Berlin and operators of concentration camps.'

He told the Communist delega-tion abruptly that it need not hang around expecting any encouragement.

The East Germans tried to get a touch with Parliament members in an attempt to stir up some support for the program, but were hustled off through inimical crowds without being able to do

The whole business was a dem onstration of West Germany's feeling that, no matter how desirable reunion may be, nothing satisfactory can be worked out with the Soviet puppets.

As for the Soviet motive, it becomes ever clearer that it is merely an effort to make the West Germans hesitate before confirming the division by join-ing the European Defense Community, which they are expected to do within a few weeks.

Hoover Memoirs

The third volume of "The Memoirs of Herbert Hoover" went on the bookstands early in September. To many, it will be the most interesting of the series, dealing as it does with the 1929-1941 period. It thus covers, in candid and scrupulous detail, what Mr. Hoover calls The Great Depression, the election of 1932 and the creation and development of Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal. Of that election, incidentally, Mr. Hoover is frank to say that he never believed he would win. The cards were stacked too heavily against him and his main hope was to help the nation move as smoothly as possible from one Administration to another under the most trying economic conditions imaginable. In this effort, according to his accounts, he was given small cooperation by the President-

Mr. Hoover is never bitter, but he makes his views very plain. His policies and plans, he says in effect, were deliberately distorted and misrepresented by the Democratic spokesmen. He feels that the way the banking crisis was handled by Mr. Roosevelt was unnecessary and inexcusable, and that it brought needless hardships to millions of people and prolonged and deepened the depression — that, in brief, the crisis was purposely used for purely political objectives. And, most important of all, he is convinced that the New Deal failed utterly to solve the economic problems created by the depression. and that recovery was artificially brought about by the war. Many people, naturally, will disagree with Mr. Hoover here. But his book is as thoroughly documented as anyone could ask, and in support of every major statement of opinion he produces powerful factual evidence.

At the end, Mr. Hoover makes four points. These are: "1. That the Great Depression extended from 1929 to 1941; 2. That recovery from the Great Depression came quickly to other nations of free economy; but, as a consequence of the New Deal devices, it never came to the United States under Roosevelt during peacetime; 3. That the primary cause of this failure was the New Deal attempt to collectivize the American system of life; 4. That the Great Depression was ultimately in name ended only by the war." Each of these points is solidly buttressed with statistics and other data embracing the world situation as well as the domestic during the years involved.

Mr. Hoover, of course, is dealing with history, but that does not mean his book lacks timeliness. It has that in full measure. And one of the most interesting of his ideas comes at the very end. He writes, "As a result of eight years of the New Deal, there was not more but less liberty in America . . . But out of these years of New Dealism and the necessary expansion of control measures by the war came a partial redemption of America from collectivism . . . .

"A first real turning away from collectivism came with the Congressional election after the war (1946). In the new Congress, Republicans with the aid of conservative Democrats repealed — according to an estimate by a responsible member — some 70,000 New Deal and war rules, regulations and orders, which went far to restore the American system. It has since had some setbacks, but that the American system has survived at all is proof of its vitality."

Those are cheering words, and a great many other writers and commentators and observers of the everchanging American scene feel the same way. The temper of the country now, they think, is away from the collectivist philosophies of both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr.

Oil Progress Week

Between October 12 and 18, Oil Progress Week will be observed on a national scale. And oil has earned that honor a hundred times over.

You could fill a hefty set of books with dramatic facts about what the oil industry has accomplished. Here, to refresh your memory, are a few of them:

Less than a century ago there was but one oil-producing state — Pennsylvania. Today, thanks to the constant search for new sources by U. S. oilmen, 27 states are producers.

Half a century ago fuel for motor cars was available at only a few general stores, and the wise motorist always carried a reserve supply in cans. Now we are served by over 200,000 service stations. If you run out of

It actually costs less to ship 2 gallons of gas from Texas to New York than to mail a postcard — which is one of the fruits of keen competition among the

Leaving out the taxes on gasoline, which have gone up and up, today's motor fuel costs about the same as in 1925. And two gallons do the work that used to call

Certain alarmists are always forecasting ruinous crude oil shortages. Yet last year — which was a year of terrific consumption — the oilmen found two gallons of new oil for every gallon used. Today our underground supplies are at an all-time peak - four times what they were 30 years back.

Oil Progress Week isn't just a pleasant label. It accurately describes an achievement that has enriched the lives of everyone.

This, it appears, results from the combination of two causes: . (1) higher taxes to reduce individual spendable income and prevent "inflation", and (2) politically rigged inflation to reduce the buying power per dollar.

This should have made things all right for the federal government, but tax spending as usual far exceeded receipts, and increased the national debt we will some day be called upon to pay. The States also operated in red ink during the year 1951, report-ing an actual deficit of 686 mil-

In the last 30 or 40 years it has become an economic crutch for about 25 million people now directly and indirectly on government pay rolls, a powerful controlling influence in the whole social, economic, and business pattern of the nation, More and more the population is coming to be dependent on government for more and more things that used to be done by the people for themselves.

Let's suppose that a band of Americans felt that socialism and an island in the Pacific to start a new nation. What kind of government would they devise on their island? "THOU SHALT NOT STEAL" The Wall Street Journal Last Thursday, Governor Adlai Stevenson made a speech in Los Angeles on the subject of corruption in Government.

We have delayed comment on that speech until we could read, reread and reflect: after all Governor Stevenson was undertaking a difficult and delicate task. Parts of that speech are a heartening denunciation of those who violate public trust. Many of its passages could have been spoken only by a man whose personal code of honor is strict. But the overall impression of that speech we find disheartening because it seems to us that in it high cost of living have whipped Governor Stevenson poses the proposition that somehow moral turpitude may be mitigated or excused if only enough people are guilty of it. The Commandment says, "Thou shalt not steal." It does not say that "thou shall not steal unless or except." And does not say that a man may steal a little if all about him, are also stealing a little. There is an absolute. Departure from it may be explained and it may be forgotten. But it is a departure, an offense against morals and when Governor Stevenson or
