Record Area Vote Goes To General

General Dwight D. Eisenhower continued to slam through weak Democratic Party defenses and take Gray County by storm this morning as additional reports gave him 6,827 votes to 4,148 for Gov. Adlai Stevenson in a record-breaking turn-out at the polls.

These figures were still on the basis of incomplete unofficial returns for the county with all boxes in, only 17 of them complete plus a still incomplete absentee vote count.

The plea by so-called Loyal Democrats added by a few conservative Democrats who found it possible to agree with them, to scratch Gov. Adlai Shivers and write in his former opponent, Judge Ralph Scarborough, fell on deaf ears as only two votes have been reported so far for Stevenson.

The carried the county's largest box - Precinct 10 - by more than 3 to 1, polling 1,115 to 284. Vote for the General

But voters in County Commissioner Precinct 2 were voting for the general and not the Republican Party. The nine boxes, plus the first absentee vote returns gave William S. Jarvis, Democratic nominee, a lead of 3,211 to 1,891 for his GOP opponent, Clayton Husted. Husted failed to carry a single box.

Stevenson carried only four of the 18 boxes, his largest majority coming from Lefers where he polled 287 to Eisenhower's 193. Precinct 12, Odd Fellows Hall, gave Stevenson a plurality of 10 votes - 444-434. At Alameda the count was close, 63 for Stevenson and 61 for Ike. Only four votes separated the general from Stevenson at Phillips Camp where Stevenson polled 129 to Ike's 125.

But, in the pro-Eisenhower boxes it wasn't even close. The trend started with the first returns, except Lefers, the first box to report "complete," and from there it was Eisenhower all the way.

Heavy Turnout Every one of the county's 18 voting boxes turned in 75 to more than 100 per cent of its known voting population. Eligible voters in various military status and persons over 60 who do not need exemptions or poll tax receipts to vote accounted for such 100 per cent plus counts in Precincts 18, Webb residence; Precinct 17, Dysart Motor Co., McLean, I. L. Phillips Camp, Precinct 5, City Hall, McLean; and Precinct 3, Grandview.

At Laketon, Stevenson had only six votes to the general's 53. At (See RECORD, Page 2)

County Defeating Medical Aid; Okays Workman's Issue

Gray County voters, on the basis of still incomplete returns this morning were defeating the constitutional amendment setting up a medical education state aid fund, but approving workman's compensation for municipal employees.

The count on the amendments gave the proposition to make municipal workman's compensation compulsory on cities showed it passing 2,476 to 1,419.

But voters didn't believe in the proposition to set up a special fund - and a special for medical students who agree commission to administer it - to practice in rural areas, and were defeating it 2,002 to 1,820.

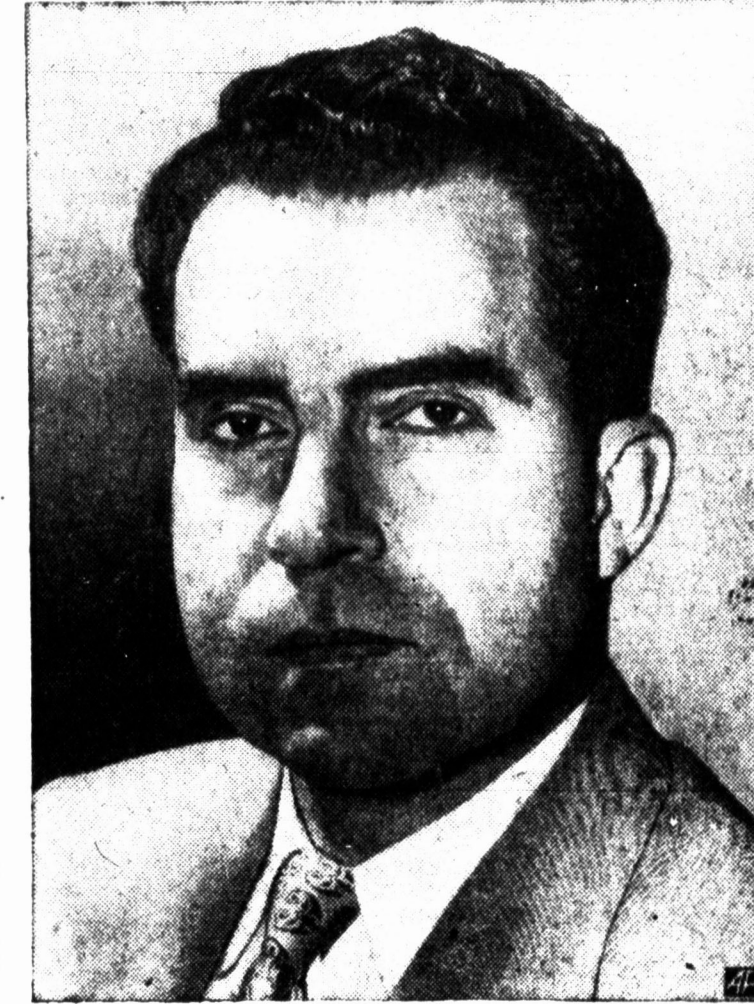

However, some of the neighboring counties turned down both propositions with heavy majorities. Carson, Wheeler, Roberts, and Hemphill, gave incomplete counts showing the amendments being heavily defeated.

Eisenhower Carries Texas As Voting Breaks Record

Grinning Dwight D. Eisenhower today had carried Texas along with him as he split the Solid South and rode a record surge of ballots along the road to the White House. It was the second time in history that Texas had voted Republican. The first time was in 1928 when Texans helped Herbert Hoover into the presidency.

Returns to the Texas Election Bureau at 1:45 a. m., from 242 out of 254 counties, including 43 complete, gave Republican Eisenhower 829,369 votes to 723,123 for Democratic Nominee Adlai Stevenson. At that time 1,554,424 votes had been counted.

It was a roaring avalanche of votes that swept Eisenhower into office and it was certain that the total would reach beyond all estimates in Texas in excess of a record two million ballots.

While the Texas cotton country, the Central Texas Blacklands, the extreme southern counties and the South Plains, and Northeast Texas went for Stevenson, generally speaking, the rest of the state went for Eisenhower.

Survivors in the conglomeration that gave the successful candidate his wide margin over Stevenson. Harris County, for instance, at 2 a. m., had counted 221,799 votes for Eisenhower against only 50,895 for Stevenson. The returns were from 187 of 196 boxes with 146 complete.

Many counties were in the Stevenson column by a narrow margin and as the counting progressed today some of them fell into the Republican fold.

Of the eight counties which the Republicans carried for Thomas Dewey in 1948, all seven that had reported were again for the GOP. There was no report here 9:30 a. m. from Kendall County but it was regarded as certain for Eisenhower. The other counties were Austin, Bandera, Comal, Gillespie, Guadalupe, Kennedy, and Washington.

Speaker Rayburn's home county, Fannin, voted for Stevenson. Sen. Johnson's home county - Johnson - voted with the senator. (See IKE CARRIES, Page 2)

Local Ikemen Elated; Dems Are Evasive

Republicans and Democrats who successfully backed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for president were highly elated this morning while those who backed Gov. Adlai Stevenson couldn't be found except one.

He is J. E. Thompson, Pampa attorney, and law partner of Rep. Walter Rogers, who helped with Stevenson's campaign here.

Curtis Douglas, life-long Democrat and former state-wide leader of the States Rights Party, on hearing the returns, said: "I think this was a victory for the people at large. They were just sick of the mess and the corruption in Washington and tired of the Korean War. The people of Texas were just not going to let their tidelands be stolen from them by the federal government."

Mickey Ledrick, one of the guiding spirits of the Eisenhower campaign reiterated his statement made last night, saying: "What can I say except that I am tickled to death over the returns. For the first time in years the people have had their say instead of the machine. Texas has again won her independence." Aaron Sturgeon, county Democratic chairman who went all out for the general, called the victory a return of the government to the people, saying: "I am very pleased but not the least bit surprised. This Eisenhower victory indicates the people not only in Gray County and Texas, but throughout the nation, voted to turn the government over to the people." (See IKEMEN, Page 2)

Slight GOP Lead... Heated Battle For Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans edged out in front today in the fight for control of the House in the new Congress, and were in a nip-and-tuck battle with the Democrats for dominance in the Senate.

With 46 House and six Senate contests undecided, it was plain that whichever party finally won control would have it only by the slimmest of margins.

The party with numerical superiority has power to organize Congress, taking the major jobs, and dominate committees that shape legislation.

Here's how the contest shaped up in mid-morning: Senate (needed for control 49) Democrats elected 10, holdovers 35; Republicans elected 19, holdovers 26, including Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon, who quit the party to support Gov. Stevenson.

Dems Lead In Two In the six Senate contests still up in the air, Democrats were leading in Montana and New Mexico. Republicans were ahead in (See CONGRESS, Page 2)

GOP Governors Sweeping Toward Heavy Majority

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans today swept toward possibly their biggest margin of power in state capitals since 1929, winning or leading in 30 government races.

The GOP triumph in yesterday's elections - if present trends continue - could capture six governors' seats now held by Democrats. Fifteen Democratic governorships were at stake.

Meanwhile, Republicans won or held a lead in all the 35 contested states where Republicans already control the statehouses. But several of the races were still very close.

The upshot could be to increase the number of Republican governors from the present 25 to 31; Democrats would drop from control of 23 statehouses to 17.

A 31 to 17 count for Republicans would match the GOP margin in 1929. Governorships usually carry enormous powers over patronage and political organization at the local level - powers that can affect national races.

Crushing Avalanche Buries Adlai, Breaks Demo Hold

America thundered its liking for Ike Wednesday with a crushing avalanche of votes that gave Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the presidency but fell short of guaranteeing him a Republican-controlled Congress.

The far-famed general of the wide grin buried Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson under a sea-to-sea landslide that ripped open the once-solid South and shattered the Democrats' 20-year hold on the White House.

Stevenson lost his own state of Illinois and appeared likely to wind up with only nine Dixie and border states having a total of 89 electoral votes. Eisenhower had clinched or was leading in 39 states with 429 electoral votes, 163 more than the 266 needed for election.

But while the voters from New York to California and from Minnesota to Texas liked Ike in emphatic terms, they were somewhat less certain it was "time for a change" in the Congress the Democrats have dominated for the last four years.

Control of both the House and Senate remained in doubt in mounting returns from Tuesday's record smashing election.

Even if his party couldn't keep pace with him in the far corners of the land, the 62-year-old warrior-statesman had a personal mandate from the voters matching in volume that given Herbert Hoover, his last Republican predecessor in 1928, and rivalling some of those for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The informal Republican-Southern Democrat coalition which has dictated congressional action on legislation was strengthened by the Eisenhower victory and the general could expect some support for the program he laid out in his campaign "crusade."

House control apparently hinged on the outcome in a half dozen or more districts created by reapportionment of voters strength, with only a vote or two likely to separate total Republican and Democratic strength.

Morse Is Key Man The Senate contest was just as tight. Republicans had gained a net of one seat and needed to win four of the nine undecided races to seal 48 Republicans in addition to Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon, who turned independent and supported Stevenson.

If the GOP won the four outstanding races in which they were leading - in Kentucky, Wyoming, Arizona and Michigan - they could organize the Senate Jan. 3 with Morse's help.

If Morse, who won't say how he will vote on the question, joined the Democrats, that party could organize the Senate with the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Barkley.

Then the Republicans would have to wait until Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, swept into office by the Eisenhower landslide, becomes vice president 17 days later to reverse the result.

Stevenson Philosophical Stevenson was able to hold together only the tattered remnants of the once-solid South, plus possibly Kentucky and Missouri in the border states, by his campaign of "talking sense to the American people." His running mate, Sen. John Sparkman, helped salvage his home state of Alabama, but not much else.

In Springfield, Ill., Stevenson philosophically conceded the victory to Eisenhower, called on all Americans to "close ranks" and pledged his support to the winner.

Eisenhower, wildly cheered when he appeared in a New York hotel ballroom, matched his opponent's unity plea, said it was "a day of dedication rather than triumph" and pledged that he never will give "short weight" to his responsibilities.

With more than 47 million of the estimated 55 million or more ballots counted, the popular vote tabulation at 7 a. m. (CST) stood: Eisenhower 26,211, 609; Stevenson 21,430,201. (See HOLD BROKEN, Page 2)

Truman's Precinct Backs Eisenhower

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) President Truman's home precinct here gave Eisenhower 197 votes to 124 for Stevenson in the presidential election yesterday.

That was almost a direct reversal of the 1948 vote. The precinct then gave Mr. Truman 197 votes to 135 for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Ike's Smile Gone At Moment Of Victory

NEW YORK (AP) - Dwight D. Eisenhower stood there, solemn and unsmiling, holding a piece of paper in his right hand early today.

He looked a little tired. The deep crease that cuts across his nose, between the eyes, is an unending mark of deep feeling. He stared into the lit, blue-white light pouring down on him and gestured - a small, almost hopeless gesture - toward the crowd in front of him.

It was a long moment before he could speak. The people in the Hotel Commodore's big ballroom were frantic with delight and excitement. Some were standing on chairs. Some were throwing confetti, made from torn tally sheets, into the air.

Others were embracing each other. The hoarse cries and the shrieking and screaming swelled into a frenzy. Eisenhower tried again. Then through the din, he began to speak.

"I am indeed as humbled as I am proud," he said. He looked straight out across the great throng.

Little Expression In this moment of supreme victory, there was little expression on his face. The famous flashing smile and the animation were gone. He frowned again.

With his first words, the deafening roar subsided, and then collapsed entirely. What he had to say was quickly and soberly said.

First, he read a telegram of congratulations from Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson. Then he read his reply: "I thank you for your courteous and generous message. Recognizing the intensity of the difficulties that lie ahead, it is clearly necessary that men and women of good will of both parties forget the political strife of the past and devote themselves to a single purpose of a better future. This I believe they will do."

The storm of applause and excitement burst again, Eisenhower quickly stilled it.

Hope For Unity He said, "It is true to say that this day of dedication rather than triumph, I recognize clearly the weight of the responsibility that you have placed on me, and I assure you that I shall never in my service in Washington give short weight to those responsibilities."

His voice was grave. He was speaking slowly. He expressed the hope of unity in the nation now, "for the better future of America, for our (See SMILE GONE, Page 2)

Sour, Bitter Morning After... Adlai 'Too Big To Cry, But Defeat Too Painful For Laughs'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - This was the sour and bitter morning after for the legions who followed Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson - and lost.

The defeated Democratic presidential candidate himself admitted he felt as Abraham Lincoln once did after a losing election: "Like a little boy who had stubbed his toe in the dark but who was too old to cry and 'hurt too much to laugh'."

Still, the ruffled-looking senator, Cal McGowan and William Der man who was the Democratic M. Blair Jr., his administrative standard-bearer could muster a smile and a quip even in the gan, his press secretary.

The word already came that Stevenson met with these men: "I am sure that you will find that Eisenhower had cracked the Solid South, Pennsylvania and Illinois after midnight, Central Standard Time. At that hour the vote returns showed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower rushing to a tremendous victory. (See ADLAI, Page 2)

Giant Waves Smash Pacific In Wake Of Monster Quake

HONOLULU (AP) - A massive convulsion of the earth's crust deep under the Pacific Ocean off Siberia hurled seismic sea waves a quarter of the way around the world yesterday at jet plane speed.

Mighty walls of water lashed the Aleutians, Midway and Hawaii. Lesser waves washed against the Pacific shores of Canada and the U.S.

The seismic shocks burst out of the Sea of Okhotsk, between Siberia and Japan. The generated waves which streaked across the Pacific at more than 400 miles an hour. Warning messages crackled through the air. Low lying islands and coastal cities across 5,000 miles of ocean were alerted against possible disaster. Apparently not a single life was lost. Damage was remarkably light. The last time such great waves swept across the Pacific - April 1, 1946 - 196 persons were killed in Hawaii. The waterfront of Hilo, a city of 25,000 on the island of Hawaii, was demolished three blocks deep. Four successive waves hit the Hawaiian chain yesterday. A 13-foot wave knocked down telephone lines on Oahu, marooned automobiles and flooded yards. A farmer reported six cows killed. In Honolulu harbor, waves tore neighboring Farrington Stevenson polled only seven to Ike's 20.

Pct. 14, Horace Mann School, where the general was believed weak, turned out to be a "sure thing" for Ike giving him 569 to Stevenson's 411.
It was the same story around the northeast Panhandle, especially Wheeler County where the general upset his Democratic opponent. Spatnack went for the general by 3 votes, 643-642. Stuart Hamblen, Prohibitionist, pulled one vote.
In all of Wheeler County it was the same story with only six of the 13 boxes going to Stevenson by slim margins. The latest count this morning gave Eisenhower 1,635 to Stevenson's 1,534.
Roberts went overwhelmingly for Eisenhower with complete returns giving him 379 votes to only 91 for Stevenson.
Hemphill County, with about 20 votes still unreported, went almost 2 to 1 for the general with an 891 to 586 count. Split-ticket voting was heavy as Gov. Allan Shivers polled 995 Democratic votes to his 324 Republican votes. Yarborough had a negligible number of write-in votes.
Usually strongly Democratic, Carson County turned thumbs down on the national administration to give Eisenhower 1,674 votes and Stevenson, 1,071. White Deer turned in 175 votes for Stevenson to Ike's 222; Panhandle, went Eisenhower, 418-320.

Carter Sets Up Scholarship For Outstanding FFA

The establishment of a Top O' Texas Agriculture Scholarship to be awarded annually to an outstanding Future Farmer of Area I was announced today by Frank M. Carter, well known area head breeder and civic leader in Pampa.
Recipient of the $300 award will be a senior high school student who has participated in the Top O' Texas FFA Livestock Judging Contest and who is interested in furthering his education in the field of agriculture at either Texas Technological College, Lubbock, or Texas A&M College, College Station.
Title FFA boys judging contest will be held in Pampa in conjunction with the Top in Texas Hereford Breeder's and Junior Livestock Show and Sale, Feb. 16 - 17.
Announcement of the winner of the first scholarship will be made Feb. 16 at a banquet honoring the FFA livestock judging teams. Carter, originator of the award, has served as president of the Top O' Texas Hereford Breeder's Association and has been a sponsor and furnished awards for the FFA judging contest since beginning in 1945.
Each FFA chapter in the area will be entitled to submit one applicant to be selected by local school officials. A committee of three, selected by the contest management will choose the winner.
Copies of rules and application blanks are being forwarded to each of 87 chapters in Area I which is comprised of 38 Texas Panhandle counties.

St. Paul Methodist Charters New Group

Eighteen Pampans are charter members in a new organization of Methodist men in St. Paul Methodist Church.
Chartered about a month ago by the Methodist General Board of Lay Activities in Chicago, the local group is one of 10,000 similar organizations that the board plans to charter by 1956.
According to Rev. Edwin L. Hall, the group will meet twice a month—once for entertainment and once for a worship program. The church, Hall said, will try to get an outstanding laymen for each worship program.
Among officers in the new group are Elton Coe, president; Sam Steadman, vice president; W. R. Cullison, secretary-treasurer; John McFall, program chairman; A. N. Rogers, attendance chairman; and B. B. Pettit, charge lay leader.

for the Democratic nominee. And the home counties of Gov. Allan Shivers and Atty. Gen. and Senator-Elect Price Daniel, Tyler and Liberty, respectively, went for Eisenhower.
The general, who demonstrated by his vote-getting ability that he is perhaps the most popular American of the century, jumped to an early lead in Texas and was never headed. When meager returns came in at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, 30 minutes after the official closing of the polls, he led by a 5,000 to 4200 count.
But from there on until the tired tabulators quit for a few hours of sleep, the Eisenhower lead advanced. Stevenson cut deeply into his overwhelming percentage as the count progressed, but before the tallying stopped for the night, the Republican candidate levelled off with a good lead.
But while Eisenhower swept the state in a march as overwhelming as that of his Allied legions across Hitler's Europe he carried no Republican candidates with him. There weren't many.
It was a greater day for some Texas Democrats, probably, the ones who staked their political future on backing Eisenhower. All were celebrating Tuesday night and far into the morning.

hopelessly buried under a landslide of votes. Wilson Wyatt had held out to the last against any concession of victory to the Republicans. Others in the Stevenson command had already seen the handwriting on the wall—and privately conceded defeat. They felt themselves that Wyatt should have admitted the realities sooner.
So the door opened in the mansion basement and Stevenson with his sons, Borden and John Fell, and members of his official family came out. He drove three blocks to the Leland Hotel, where Wyatt had set up election headquarters.
A crowd of admirers was waiting in the ballroom on the second floor.
Many were clinging to the bitter end to the hope that somehow, somewhere the tide would turn and give Stevenson the electoral votes he needed.
Eisenhower knew he was beaten. He had sensed it, he said later, from the time he was handed a news report that P. A. Fitzpatrick, New York State Democratic chairman, had conceded the state to Eisenhower, with its big chunk of 46 electoral votes.
And then Col. Jacob Arvey of Chicago—Illinois' Democratic national committeeman—who had sponsored Stevenson's entry into politics, conceded Illinois to the Eisenhower forces.
Stevenson came through a back entrance and walked upstairs to the ballroom. The crowd broke in to cheers. They began chanting, "We want Stevenson," and he gave them a big grin. He looked relaxed and at ease.
Then the crowd became quiet. Stevenson's smile faded, and he looked out at the people who had pinned their hopes of victory on him. And in a clear and unhurried voice he told them:
"My fellow citizens have made their choice and have selected Gen. Eisenhower and the Republican party as the instruments of their will for the next four years. The people have rendered their verdict and I gladly accept it."
That was it. That was the concession of defeat. The reporters broke out of the room in a run for telephones to signal the concession.
Stevenson went on talking. He said of Eisenhower—the man whom he had attacked so bitterly in recent weeks:
"Gen. Eisenhower has been a great leader in war. He has been a vigorous and valiant opponent in the campaign. These qualities will not be dedicated to leading us all through the next four years."
"It is traditionally American to fight hard before an election. It is equally traditional to close ranks as soon as the people have spoken. From the days of my heart I thank all of my party, and all of those independents and Republicans who supported Sen. Sparkman and me."
"That which unites us as American citizens is far greater than that which divides us as political partisans. I urge you all to give to Gen. Eisenhower the support he will need to carry out the great tasks that lie before him. I pledge him mine."

Youths Involved In Auto Accident

Two Pampa juveniles have been involved in a city automobile accident, raising the year's toll to 306.
It was the first accident reported within the city limits in four days.

The record high for a Republican—the 22,305,198 rolled up by Wendell Willkie in 1940—was smashed by Roosevelt in 1936.
Less Than Hoover
However, Ike was getting about 57 per cent of the popular vote, expected to be far in excess of the 49,829,312 record cast in 1940.
In his sweep, Eisenhower carried two states the Republicans haven't been able to capture since 1924: Massachusetts and Rhode Island. He won or was out in front in 15 states where the Republicans haven't had a presidential victory since 1928—Arizona, California, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and Washington.

children and for our grandchildren.
For the second time in the evening, he thanked the people who worked for him. Then he said goodnight and left the room. This was the final moment in the long struggle for the presidency.
Plan Short Rest
Shortly afterward, his press secretary, James C. Hagerly, announced that the President, elect, members of his family and a few people on his personal staff would leave this afternoon for a 10-day rest at Augusta, Ga.
Whether Eisenhower will begin his new task with a trip to Korea before the inauguration in January—is still not known. In the closing days of the campaign, he pledged himself to go to the scene of the Korean War for a personal inspection. He placed the achieving of peace as the first and greatest objective of his work, and he said he felt he could best make the start by visiting the battlefields and studying the Korean problem on the ground.

Ike's Home Town Has Celebration

ABILENE, Kan. (AP) — It was New Year's Eve and the Fourth of July rolled into one in Gen. Eisenhower's home town last night. To crowds estimated upward of 3,500 gathered in downtown streets the whole evening, the announcement of Eisenhower's victory was the spark that set off the wild jubilation ever seen here. They danced in the street, they sang and they laughed into the early hours of the morning. By 2 a.m. the crowd had not diminished the bands were still whooping it up and kids and adults alike had fun with firecrackers. Mayor Amos Shivers proclaimed today an official holiday. Superintendent of Schools W. C. Robinson announced that it would be a school holiday too.

Pack 81 Cubs Hosts Parents In White Deer

WHITE DEER (Special) — Cubs of Pack 81 entertained a large audience of parents and friends recently in the White Deer School Cafeteria at the first pack meeting this fall. Preceding the program, table displays of recent projects of the Cubs were shown. Noticeable among the displays were the hand-drawn and timely worded safety posters made during October — Safety month. After a welcome by Cub-Master R. H. Barnes, awards for the month were made by John Driskill.

Wolf patches were presented to Bobby Wolf, Larry Hall, Bobby Nicholson, Frank Allen Williams and James A. Gann. Arrow points went to: Don Driskill, Mark Collins, James Gann, Joe Vandergriff, Bobby Wolf, Larry Hall and Frank Allen Williams. New Cubs in the Pack receiving Pop-cat pins were: Larry Keahey, Joe Gordzelik, Billy Townsden, Gerald Ballard, Phillip Dittberner, Gene Paul Meyers and Tommy Bates. Charles Jackson, Den Chief of Den 1, received a den chief card. The Cubs of Den 1 gave a time-skit on traffic safety, assisted ed by the Den Mother, Mrs. Vic Gates. Mrs. Harry Hughes, Mother of Den 2, presented her Den in a skit depicting the September theme "The Mail Goes Through." Boys of this den had made a large stage-coach to use in the skit. Mrs. Bill Gann, Mother of Den 3, presented her Den in a "Trick or Treat" skit, in which the boys treated the parents to candy. The "trick" was a paper in several of the pieces. Those who received a "trick" were participants in a bubble-gum blowing contest. Winner of the contest was Grade School Coach, Vic Gates.

Introduced to the parents at this meeting were the new committee-men for the year. Paul Bendix is committee chairman, serving with him will be Benny Rapstine, Joe Gordzelik, and N. A. Keahey. "Cubby," the attendance award figure, was won this month by Den 3 for having the largest number of parents at the Pack meeting. The next Pack meeting will be November 20. Refreshments of punch, coffee and cake were served after the program. Mothers of the boys in Den 3 and Mrs. Gill Gann, Cub Mother, were in charge of the refreshments.

Cook's Nook

The fragrant mincemeat and mellow pumpkin pies Grandma served for Thanksgiving dinners were baking masterpieces remembered all year long and well worth the long hours spent preparing the fillings. But times have changed and you need not have all the preparation and packaged foods to help you equal her pie with only a fraction of the time and energy but you can make these feast desserts, even more festive and delicious by adding the luscious flavor and golden color of canned pineapple.

To show you how, here are two recipes, one for Golden Mince Pie and one for Creamy Pineapple Pumpkin Chiffon Pie, that are perfect for your holiday dinners and parties. In this first recipe, fragrant pineapple blends with ruddy mincemeat to make a pie filled to the very brim with lively flavors. You can either mix the robust mincemeat and the juicy pineapple together before you spoon it into the pie shell or you can first spread a layer of mincemeat in the bottom of the pie shell and then top it with a thick layer of sunny pineapple. If you follow these latter directions, you'll have an exciting two-tone pie with all the beautiful golden pineapple decorating each wedge. The pumpkin pie lovers in your family will applaud this second recipe, for here the rich pumpkin is highlighted with the light-hearted flavor of juicy pineapples and the slight tanginess makes the pie the perfect dessert after a heavy dinner. You'll find that this pie has a little different texture than the usual chiffon pie because the pumpkin's heavy consistency breaks down some of the frothiness, making it just a little fluffier than a very creamy custard pie, and because the chilled filling is poured into a baked shell, the bottom crust is always crisp — without even a suspicion of moistness.

GOLDEN MINCE PIE
1 recipe pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie
2 cups mincemeat
2 cups crushed pineapple (No. 2 can)
Roll half of the pastry to fit a 9-inch pie pan, then line pan and trim pastry even with the edge. Spread mincemeat in the bottom and cover with an even layer of the crushed pineapple. Roll top crust, make 2 or 3 slashes to allow steam to escape and place over pineapple. Trim pastry, allowing 1-2-inch to hang over the edge of the pan. Fold overhang under bottom pastry, press edges together and decorate with lines of a fork or the tip of a teaspoon. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees F.) for 10 minutes then reduce heat to moderate oven (350 degrees F.) and continue baking for 30 minutes or until top crust is nicely browned. Serves 6.

PINEAPPLE PUMPKIN PIE
1 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 cups pumpkin
1 1/2 cup milk
2 tsps. cinnamon
1 1/2 tsp. ginger
1 1/4 tsp. allspice
1 1/2 tsp. salt
3 eggs, separated
1 tbs. unflavored gelatin
1 1/4 cup cold water
1 cup well drained pineapple tidbits
2 tbsps. granulated sugar
20-inch baked pie shell
Mix brown sugar, pumpkin, milk, spices and slightly beaten egg yolks in top of a double boiler and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Soften gelatin in cold water and stir into hot mixture until gelatin is dissolved. Cool, and when partially set fold in well-drained pineapple tidbits. Beat egg whites until stiff and gradually beat in granulated sugar. Fold into pumpkin mixture, pour into baked pie shell and chill until firm. Serves 8.

The GOP Landslide

The election is over and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will be the next President of the United States.

The landslide vote polled by the general should be interpreted as a distinct mandate by the people to clean up the mess in Washington.

Eisenhower's lead in the voting never was challenged by his Democratic opponent Gov. Adlai Stevenson. His commanding majority increased throughout the day and night and continued to grow this morning.

The tremendous vote given Gen. Eisenhower clearly shows the people of the United States are fed up with the New Deal - Fair Deal regime. They've had enough of the corruption that has characterized the Truman administration and want a return to common decency among top-level officials of our country.

The Republican victory also distinctly indicates that Americans want the brakes applied on our flight toward socialism. The general and the Republican Party have embraced much of the socialist legislation passed by the Roosevelt - Truman administrations but it is hoped they will impede our skid down the road to ruin. Maybe in 1956 we will do an about-face and return to the American system of free enterprise which made this country great.

Here's hoping.

Incomplete returns this morning showed that the Republicans were edging toward a shaky control of both houses of Congress. If Gen. Eisenhower is fortunate enough to work with a sympathetic Senate and House the job ahead will be much easier for him.

Conservative Republicans, all members of the "Class of 1946," who rolled to victory in the election were Senators McCarthy of Wisconsin, Jenner of Indiana, Williams of Delaware, Malone of Nevada, Ives of New York, Watkins of Utah, Martin of Pennsylvania, Thye of Minnesota, Flanders of Vermont and Knowland of California.

The return of these men to their seats in the Senate further illustrates the desire of Americans for a halt of leftist policies.

Lesson In Economics

A group of Omaha school teachers was recently given an interesting lesson in the economics of retailing.

A chain store system entertained the teachers as part of a Business-Industry-Education Day. A shopping basket full of groceries was collected in advance. Totaling $10 in retail value, the basket held a typical grocery order, including so-called "long-profit" items as well as those on which the margin is unbelievably small.

The items were taken from the basket one by one, the selling price of each announced, and the teachers were asked to jot down how much they thought the company had paid the producer for them. Guesses ranged from a low of $4.15 to a high of $9.35. The actual figure was $8.28, which gave the store a gross profit of $1.72.

Then the costs which had to be deducted before net profit could be found were detailed. They included salaries, rents, advertising, and so on, for a total of $1.595.

This left a profit of 12 1/2 cents on the $10 order. When the discount the company receives for prompt payment of bills was added, it came to 17 1/2 cents. Out of that, came nine cents for income taxes, leaving about eight cents. That, it was explained, was the company's net profit — eight-tenths of one cent on each dollar of stock. It was the amount available to pay dividends to stockholders, to amortize debts, and to finance expansion.

Few people realize how little of the food buyer's money stays with the store as profit. And what is true of food is true, to varying degrees, of all forms of merchandising. The modern store, chain and independent, works on the principle of big volume and small unit profits. It provides us with an essential service at an amazingly modest charge.

Mismanagement

Can Government run a business more efficiently than private enterprise? Colonel Sidney Bingham, chairman of New York City's board of transportation and recognized authority in his field, doesn't think so. He put the situation in these words: "The pressure upon private management in a competitive system, and the rewards, bring forth that maximum effort that has produced our best industrial development. Similar incentives for progress and change rarely exist in a government enterprise."

Colonel Bingham knows whereof he speaks. At the present time New York City is negotiating with private companies to buy its municipally-owned bus lines for a reason that they are running far in the red, while business-managed lines charging the same fare make both ends meet. Still another interesting light on government ownership is found in the fact that city-generated electricity to run the subways costs New York 1.42 cents per kilowatt hour, as compared with 1.1 cents the city paid a private company, for power.

The government propagandists have made much of the claim that socialized systems can give the consumer "cheap power." Every factual and objective study of these systems has shown that claim to be fiction. When government power is sold for less than that charged by competing business-managed systems, it has been the result of tax subsidies, of certain costly services which are given the socialized systems for "nothing," and, above all, of freedom from taxation. Today the investor-owned power companies pay 23 per cent of all their revenues in taxes. The Federal plants pay little or nothing.

The whole history of government in business has been one of waste, extravagance, inflated payrolls, and political mismanagement. That is always true of a socialist economy.

The Most Un-Christian Sermon I Ever Heard

I want to comment on a sermon or a talk I heard that I think was the most un-Christian talk I ever heard from a pulpit.

In order not to reflect on all churches and preachers, I am obliged to name the preacher and the church. The preacher was DeWitt Safford of the United Presbyterian church of Santa Ana, California.

California is considering a referendum to support a law passed by the state legislature to exempt taxation on grade schools and high schools operated by nonprofit organizations. The preacher was discussing this subject in the pulpit. He professed to be presenting both sides. All his time was used on irrelevant issues. He discussed such things as whether other states have such a law. He discussed the question as to the percentage of children going to the Catholic schools being greater than the percentage of Catholic schools. He said that they had 90 or 91 per cent of the children going to these private schools. He contended that they would continue to support these private schools whether this subject is decided or not. He contended that the legislature had passed the bill after a recess — implying that there was little chance for objection. He observed that another Supreme Court had ruled that the church and state should be separate. He seemed to think that the Supreme Court made principles rather than laws. If no law is determined by the Supreme Court, then slavery was right at one time. Then it is wrong to own gold now. Then at one time it was wrong to own whiskey. The Supreme Court changes, but principles never change. The Supreme Court also gives the state the right to rob A to take care of B. So it is difficult to conceive how a minister can believe that principles are established by government bodies. They are eternal according to the precepts of the Jewish and Christian religion. It seems to me that he looks at things from the theory that might makes right rather than from a moral standpoint.

Never Mentioned Golden Rule
In determining whether it was right or wrong, he never went to the main and only issue of the question — as to whether or not tax relief for non-profit private schools was in harmony with or in agreement with the Golden Rule or in contradiction of it. Instead of using the Coveting and Stealing Commandments and the Golden Rule as the principle to determine whether or not he should vote for this proposition or against it, he used man-made civil laws and not the eternal laws as set down in the Christian religion that he is supposed to preach.

He professed to have great love for the Catholics, but it is hard to conceive how a man can have great love for another person when he is perfectly willing to use the power of the state to take part of his property from him against his will. That is about the same kind of love that Joseph Stalin had for every bureaucrat. They are perfectly willing to run to the state to get other people's property. The whole sermon seemed to leave the impression that instead of loving the Catholics that he was coveting or was jealous that they were doing what his congregation didn't have the conscience to do — namely educate their own children. When he was talking about the Catholics he never mentioned the Seventh Day Adventists and the Lutherans, but only referred to the Catholics as getting the 90 per cent benefit.

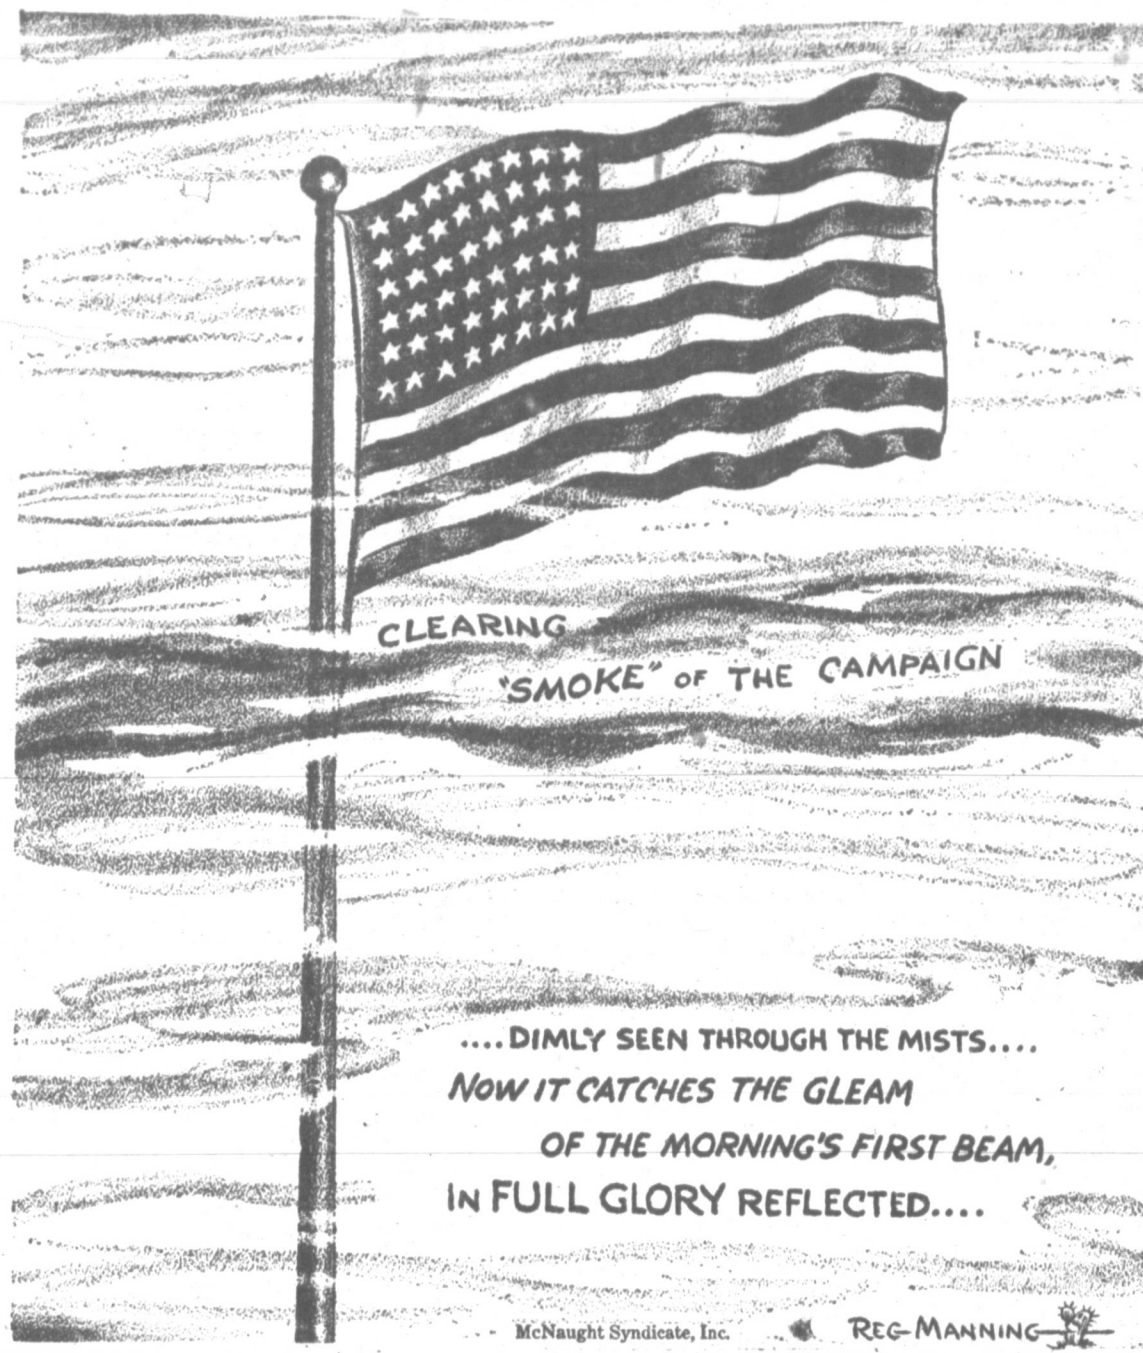

He contended that he could see no difference between a tax exemption and a subsidy, but that theory is based on the belief that everything that everybody produces belongs to the state. The state lets a man keep part of what he has produced that is a subsidy. That is the belief of every socialist and communist — that everything that is produced belongs to the state and not to the individual who produces it. It is hard to conceive how a man can be a steward of his wealth when the state determines how it should be used.

Would the minister contend for one minute that he wanted to be coerced to pay for an educational system that he believed would weaken men's character and impoverish them? The minister who sends their children to private schools believe that public schools cannot teach moral principles and that they cannot teach eternal laws — that the only way to teach the same practices that they are following — namely that the majority or might makes right and that the end justifies the means. I feel that I have not only a perfect right, but that it is my duty to discuss this subject no matter how unpleasant it may be. When a preacher goes into politics he is subject to having what he says analyzed and dissected. Tommy the Cork, Thurman Arnold, Henry Wallace and Felix Frankfurter, set us against old, reliable, dull but incorruptible defenders of the republican system of government we were amused when we should have been alarmed and angered.

We did not realize that in altering the very nature, the intent and form of our government they were wrecking the greatest creation ever achieved by the mind of man for human good. We let them personify the republic as a fat rich fool in a banker's coat and a plug hat. We let them tell us that the Republican Party and the republic were one and the same. Seldom, in all these years, has any New Dealer honestly set forth the intentions of the planners of that Brave New World. I find emotional, devoted individuals, especially young men and women who never lived under the real republic, fiercely abusing "isolationists." I hear people crying out for FEPC who simply cannot understand that the Constitution does not permit the federal government to make one man hire another to the exclusion of a third.

The federal government has no constitutional right to make one man hire — or fire — another.

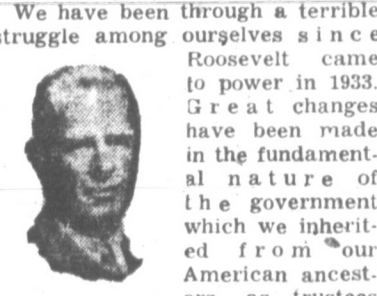

O Say, Can You See By The Dawn's Early Light

Fair Enough....

Americans Have Not Upheld Trust Of Founding Fathers

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1952, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

We have been through a terrible struggle among ourselves since Roosevelt came to power in 1933. It is hard to believe that the changes that have been made in the fundamental nature of the government which we inherited from our American ancestors as trustees for our posterity. We have been unfaithful to that trust and unfaithful as well. We weren't wise enough to understand the harm, or staunch enough to yell out and fight. We were bribed by raises, pensions, jobs on the public payroll and contracts and even by hot dogs at Hyde Park.

The republic, which was entrusted to our protection, is badly damaged and distorted. The so-called social security system, the so-called civil rights program and the labor relations system administered by the Labor Relations Board and numerous minor boards, are monstrosities built on the republic with our approval or against our listless opposition.

The United Nations, with its ultimate authority and intention to supersede the sovereign republic, is the machine which the prophets and promoters of the Brave New World of the Future had in mind when Roosevelt came to power.

Practically none of us who heard Roosevelt's melodious clap-trap that lay about the money-changers and the fear of fear had the slightest appreciation of the fact that in a terrible sense of the term, he really did "take power."

Had we known what he and his mysterious strangers were planning to do, we might not have resisted anyway. Very few of us knew anything about government. One reason was that the majority of us were survivors of a day when we got along with the minimum of government which is said to be the best kind of government.

So, when the New Dealers began tinkering to make our government work better and such impudent fellows as Harold Lickes, Tommy the Cork, Thurman Arnold, Henry Wallace and Felix Frankfurter, set us against old, reliable, dull but incorruptible defenders of the republican system of government we were amused when we should have been alarmed and angered. We did not realize that in altering the very nature, the intent and form of our government they were wrecking the greatest creation ever achieved by the mind of man for human good. We let them personify the republic as a fat rich fool in a banker's coat and a plug hat. We let them tell us that the Republican Party and the republic were one and the same. Seldom, in all these years, has any New Dealer honestly set forth the intentions of the planners of that Brave New World. I find emotional, devoted individuals, especially young men and women who never lived under the real republic, fiercely abusing "isolationists." I hear people crying out for FEPC who simply cannot understand that the Constitution does not permit the federal government to make one man hire another to the exclusion of a third. The federal government has no constitutional right to make one man hire — or fire — another.

the few German words that most Americans knew and the Heines, in their muddy, weather-beaten rags, called back and asked for cigarettes or for tidings from Chicago or Milwaukee where they had been or where they had relatives. The doughboys threw them cigarettes and chocolate bars.

When Pershing got back to Chaumont he sent a memo to the press section deploring the fact that American soldiers didn't hate the Germans and inviting cooperation to improve this fault.

Few of us understand that social security, disguised as a system of pensions for decrepit senior citizens, is also a trick to let the federal government control the public school system, dictate the thoughts which must be taught rising Americans, forbid the teaching of other thoughts and advertise "Democracy" as the official Godless religion of the nation.

In Germany, old Ludendorf, a stout pagan, preached faith in the German soil as a holy patch from which the Germans absorbed spiritual rays or impulses and Hitler made National Socialism, or Nazism, the state religion.

This Democracy of ours has many points of similarity. A German who sneered at Nazism went to a concentration camp and lost his job and business and his family suffered. There are Americans today who are afraid to speak freely on the phone, and to say that you detest Democracy is to look for trouble. Democracy is almost, if not quite, the state religion, but there is no official definition of Democracy. It is hard to avoid blasphemy or sacrilege when every school teacher is the class theologian.

In this campaign cops grabbed citizens and booted them around for just yelling remarks at candidates.

Truman's outriders and bodyguards were as menacing as Hitler's, protecting the beloved little man of the people — from the people. It wasn't thus when I was a boy under the republic.

National Whirligig... Incoming Administration Will Face Opposition Among Allies

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The incoming administration and Congress will have to recognize the existence of growing opposition among our overseas allies to American domination of world affairs through our allegedly one-sided use of our great military and financial power.

Although these threatening developments have been obscured by the campaign excitement, they will necessitate a complete review and possible revision of the Truman-Acheson foreign policy.

When it is fully revealed, the extent and depth of this revolt against our international manners will probably fall on resentful ears in this country, especially on Capitol Hill.

In view of the fact that the United States has spent $40 billion for foreign aid and recovery in the postwar years, the charge of ingratitude will be hurled at the expanding circle of critics.

SEEK TO ALLAY FEARS — But Secretary Acheson and our diplomatic corps are aware and alarmed at this trend. They are seeking to allay these fears and prejudices in quiet talks with foreign representatives at a recent current United Nations session in New York. But it is obvious that no definite or positive remedial reforms can be undertaken by the outgoing regime.

Only the next President can pass judgment on this extremely difficult and ominous questioning of our motives and objectives. As a result, after Jan. 20, almost every trans-Atlantic plane will carry to Washington the most distinguished invasion of European emissaries since World War II days, possibly including Churchill, Schuman, Adenauer, etc.

BIG BOSS — Despite attempts to suppress the fact until after the election, our European associates have flatly informed us that they will not accept any more American money for economic help. They complain because in return, we have demanded a certain right to supervise their use of our funds.

We have tried to boss them on such items as profits, taxes, prices, labor relationships, etc. We have acted like a combination of banker and shop foreman in their internal affairs.

They endured this interference in the early postwar years. But their prolonged dependency has a grating on them. It also furnishes ammunition to their political opposition, especially the Communists, who declare that their governments have become "wards of Uncle Sam."

REINFORCEMENT IN KOREA — No savings in forthcoming presidential budgets will result from our compliance with their demand, greatly increased funds for military assistance, especially the purchases of arms manufactured in their own countries.

As further evidence of the insistence on getting away from our apron strings, even friendly United Nations members have turned deaf ears to Acheson's current pleas for more military reinforcement in Korea. The U. S. has become the U. N.'s agent in fact as well as in name.

London points out that, in addition to her forces engaged in Malaya, Burma and elsewhere, she has done as much as she could in the "police action." Paris notes that per expenditures in resisting Communist invasion of Indo-China has cost twice what she has received from us under Marshall and Mutual Security plans.

Both nations regard their efforts in these areas as important to "containment of Communism" as the U. S. sponsored war in Korea.

REBUFF — Another premonitory "isolation" occurred at a recent indication of our involuntary U. N. session, when 21 members voted against us on the question of making Yugoslavia a member of a key committee. The rebuff to ourselves and our Balkan ally was generally overlooked because we were more concerned with political than with world affairs.

Our opposition consisted of Asian and South American countries, together with Russia and United Nations members have turned deaf ears to Acheson's current pleas for more military reinforcement in Korea. The U. S. has become the U. N.'s agent in fact as well as in name.

TRUE IT IS THE HARVESTERS met their first defeat of the year Saturday against the potent Lubbock Westerners but it didn't by any means knock them out of the District 1-AAAA title contention.

The Westerners have three tough foes to meet yet and could lose at least one of 'em. Their three remaining opponents are Abilene, Midland and Amarillo. The latter is a team that could spoil an afternoon for any school boy team despite its record of two wins and five losses.

The Sandies, as Puff Powell puts it, have gotten over being "snake bit," with their 41-7 lacing of San Angelo last week.

Amarillo's five defeats have been a combined total of 29 points. But we don't believe that by beating San Angelo is sound proof that the Sandies have overcome being snake-bit.

When they can win a close game then maybe they have overcome this dreaded "disease."

The Sandies meet Midland next week in their next outing and the game should be close. If Amarillo wins the Sandies will no longer be labeled as a snake-bit team.

Getting back to the Harvesters which was our original subject, we sincerely believe that should the FHSans sweep their three remaining games they'll at least earn a share of the 1-1A title. We can't keep from feeling that Lubbock is going to drop one before the race is over.

Sweeping the last three games isn't going to be easy for the Harvesters. In fact, Odessa, their next opponent, is just about as rugged as Lubbock. And having to play the Broncs in their own ball yard is going to make it even worse.

Odessa and Pampa meet the day following Lubbock's tilt with the Abilene Eagles at Abilene and should the Abilene slip up on the Westerners it is very unlikely they will be Broncs.

Frogs Point Heavily To Longhorn Fracas

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian will play Texas — or Wake Forest — this week. Don't get confused, too. What was meant was that while the Horned Frogs will be meeting Wake Forest on the gridiron they actually will be playing Texas — that is, in the minds of the players.

The Wake Forest game doesn't count anything but the big one comes Nov. 15 when the Frogs meet ancient enemy Texas. The way things are shaping up that might be THE game of the season.

Texas leads the Southwest Conference race with three victories against no defeats and is a top-heavy favorite to win the title. It plays Baylor at Waco Saturday.

But the Frogs, with a conference record of one victory and two ties, could still horn into the picture and might even get the Cotton Bowl spot if —

It's a big "if." Their record gives the Christians a mark of two loop victories and one defeat; tie games count a half game won and a half lost. Thus, if they could best Texas and take their two remaining games against Rice and Southern Methodist, they could tie for the title — but still get the bowl bid since they would have defeated the other conference champion — we'll have to win 'em all," grinned Coach Dutch Meyer, "and that means Texas, of course."

So, whether or not Texas gets by Baylor this week, the Frog-Steer setto on Nov. 15 will still be of prime importance. As yet, the game is not sold out. About 7,000 end zone seats are still available, according to Amos Melton, business manager of athletics. That means 27,000 tickets already have been sold.

FFA At Dalhart Meeting Saturday

WHITE DEER (Special) — The White Deer chapter of the Future Farmers of America and its sponsor, E. G. Gaston, are scheduled to attend the area FFA meeting in Dalhart Saturday to enter competition with 12 other schools in the Amarillo district.

The meeting will be held in the Dalhart vocational department. Activities will include a farm radio contest, junior and senior chapter conducting contest, junior FFA quiz district FFA sweetheart contest and the chapter's farmer demonstration contest.

On White Deer's demonstration team will be Roy and Ray Eiler, Marion Bichel and John Robert Cramer. They will demon-

Dudley Paces Offense

Ed Dudley hiked his lead in the individual rushing among the Harvesters gridders for the season last week when he ground out 76 yards on 15 carries against the Lubbock Westerners.

Dudley now has tallied 572 yards in 108 times carried for an average of 5.4 yards per carry. David Enloe is second leading rusher with 428 yards and John Darby is third with 314 yards. Dudley also continues to lead the scoring with 58 points and in punt returns with 128 yards on eight chances.

Other individual leaders are J. N. Wright in passing with 31 completions on 72 attempts; Jimmy Martindale in pass receiving with nine catches for 171 yards; David Enloe in punting with a 39.5 average on five kicks; and Harold Lewis on kickoff returns with 306 yards on 12 chances, an average of 25.5 yards.

Campanella Stars Win Again, 10-7

WACO (AP) — Roy Campanella's All-Stars defeated the American All-Stars, 10-7, here last night to end their barnstorming tour before a crowd of 2,300 fans.

Campanella, who started as catcher, led his team's hitting with a home run and two doubles. Hank Thompson, Larry Doble and Suitcase Simpson also starred at the plate for Campanella's outfit.

strate how to throw an animal and the treatment of lumpy jump, a disease common to animals.

Other contestants will be the White Deer chapter's six officers: Jerry Kotara, president; George Colla, vice president; Melvin Kalka, treasurer; Robert Preston, secretary; Wayne Howard, sentinel; and Billy Aaron, reporter. A seventh member of the team will be Alvin Kalka.

This contest, the junior conducting contest, will be a demonstration on how to conduct a procedure business meeting.

White Deers entry in the area FFA sweetheart contest will be Janice Hess, attended by Shirley Keel. The contest is scheduled to be held in the afternoon.

The 12 members of the White Deer FFA will take their own animals to the demonstration.

Champ, Ex-Champ On Mat Program

The champ and the ex-champ wrestle on tonight's professional card at the Southern Club arena—but not against each other.

Ivan Kalmikoff, the bearded Russian who is actually a smiling, soft-spoken gentleman outside the ring, meets clean cut, athletic type Tommy Martindale of Milwaukee, in the main event. It goes two out of three falls, to a one-hour time limit, and could develop into one of the more sensational matches in recent weeks.

Kalmikoff won the Southwest States, title in Amarillo October 18 in a real wrestling match with Gory Guerrero, popular Mexican City native, which left both men limp and exhausted.

Scribe Gives Sooners Nod Over The Irish

CHICAGO (AP) — Here's a vague vote from a puzzled pigskin precinct on a puzzled pigskin precinct: Oklahoma 28, Notre Dame 19.

The nation's TV viewers will see a routine-toutin' affair with everybody going that-way in football suits. Against two common opponents, Pittsburgh and Texas, Oklahoma amassed 98 points. The Irish got a paltry 53, but weren't charged up the way they'll be Saturday. Oklahoma, on other hand would like to leave some clear marks on Notre Dame for Michigan State to peruse the following Saturday.

Purdue 21, Minnesota 13 — The Bolleymakers better not take their eye off the ball against the Gophers, who are still in the Big Ten running themselves. If Purdue forgets about playing Michigan the next Saturday, Dale Samuels and Max Schmalzing should neatly chase the Gophers to oblivion.

Michigan State 28, Indiana 7 — After their collapse at Pittsburgh the Hoosiers loom only a slight pebble in the path of the roaring Spartans. Michigan State needs those first-place votes in the Associated Press poll in which Maryland is crowding Biggie Munn's Mustangs.

Wisconsin 20, Northwestern 14 — The Wildcats fought to lock the barn door against Ohio State, but it won't do any good to bolt it against the Badgers. Alan (The Horse) Ameche is kicking his heels again. Wisconsin also is in the Big Ten crowd chasing a Rose Bowl bid.

E-Texas Coach Catfish Smith Fears 'Jacks

COMMERCE (AP) — As Stagg feared Purdue, Catfish Smith worries himself sick just thinking about Stephen F. Austin last Saturday.

Smith's East Texas State football team is the only undefeated, untied college team in the Southwest. Stephen F. Austin hasn't been a ball of fire this season, winning three while losing four, but it seems the Lumberjacks all ways pick the day of the big game with East Texas State to get tough.

East Texas State hasn't lost a game in 14 starts but the biggest scare it got was when the Lions played Stephen F. Austin last year. East Texas had to come from behind to win 21-19 in the last 40 seconds.

Mitchell Torok, who did the passing for Stephen F. Austin last year, that near upset last season, is back and he has a lot of help.

Catfish rather dreads Saturday afternoon at Nacogdoches when his Lions try to make it 15 straight.

Wagner Fights Sabotin Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dick Wagner, Topponiak, Wash., fighter will be at the top weight of his fighting career at 174 pounds tonight in a 10-rounder at the arena against Earl (Lulu) Sabotin, Warren, O.

But the 26-year-old Wagner, who fought middleweight for 12 1/2 years, doesn't expect the extra pounds to handicap him for tonight's scrap, which will be televised nationally.

Illini Lad Like Is Most Sports Minded President

NEW YORK (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the President-elect, is perhaps the most sports minded chief executive in our nation's history.

He recalled the game he played against Caliste Indians. "It was a pleasure to see a guy like Thorpe running by," he said.

It was against Tufts in 1913 that Eisenhower suffered a torn cartilage in his knee, cutting short his athletic career. "It took five days to straighten out the leg," he said.

Ole Miss Hopes For Better Luck With Houston

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (AP) — Mississippi football teams have tried their luck in Texas on eight occasions and have found it consistently bad.

The Rebels have beaten Texas teams, but never in Texas. In the Lone Star State, against Texas A. & M., Texas Southwestern, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian, they've dropped eight straight.

That's the record as Ole Miss gets set this week for its seventh trip and ninth game in Texas with a brand new foe, the University of Houston.

The Rebs beat TCU twice in Memphis, by 13-9 and 19-7 scores, but in between lost to the Frogs, 22-7, in 1949 at Fort Worth. Rest of the business goes back a good many seasons with Southern Methodist, a 23-0 winner in Dallas in 1929. Texas A&M won 31-7, and 14-7 decisions in 1911 and 1934. Texas scored 53-14 and 66-7 wins in 1912 and 1914, and Southwestern took an 18-0 verdict in 1914. The Longhorns made it three straight in 1923 by 25-0.

The 1914 visit covered ten days with Ole Miss taking on Texas in Austin on Nov. 17, Southwestern at Georgetown on Nov. 20, and the Aggies at Beaumont on Nov. 28.

The Rebel's engagement with Houston Saturday will land them in Houston for the first time. Their hope is that the Cougars in the National Amateur Championship at Seattle last summer. Westland, 47, ran for Mustangs and the Frogs.

Texan Gridders Resume Drills

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Texans resumed practice today while their owners called a meeting to discuss ways and means of raising sufficient money for the professional football club to finish the season.

Back from California where they lost their sixth straight game to the Los Angeles Rams, the Texans face that same team in the Cotton Bowl here Sunday.

Directors of the Texans will discuss methods of refinancing the club since the Citizens Council of Dallas, an organization of civic leaders, denied them a $125,000 loan. They plan to contact business and civic leaders individually to see if they can't get enough money to play the remaining six games on the schedule, three of which are at home.

If they don't get the cash alternatives are to make the Texans a road club, to quit or to hope for increased attendance at their games from here on out. Thus far they have averaged only 12,000.

2 Frosh Games Carded In SWC

By the Associated Press

Two games are scheduled this week in the Southwest Conference freshmen football free-for-all.

No team is undefeated and Baylor leads with three victories in four games.

Southern Methodist lost for the first time last week, tumbling before hitherto winless Texas, 21-20.

Baylor beat Texas Christian, 12-4, while Arkansas took a 17-0 drubbing from Oklahoma A&M.

Thursday night Rice and Texas A&M meet at College Station. Friday afternoon Southern Methodist plays Oklahoma at Dallas.

America's New First Lady

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —
What manner of woman is the nation's new First Lady?
One thing is sure. Whatever
Mrs Dwight Eisenhower was,

did, liked or disliked before, it's going to be a lot different for her for the next four years at least.
Mamie Eisenhower has probably had as good a preparation for the job as any one woman can get. But it happens that being First Lady of the Land involves a combination of responsibilities and duties for which there is only one adequate training course: the job itself.

Caesar's wife had it easy by

It's a Flavor You Always Remember!

You can always tell that famous Folger Flavor! It's so different—in such a wonderful way—you just know it's Folger's!
You see, Folger's is actually a special kind of coffee—Mountain Grown. A blend so rare, a flavor so rich, a tang so keen and winy, comparison. Cornelia's job description didn't specify keeping above suspicion in an age of television, gossip columnists, women's magazines, the League of Women Voters and the New York Dress Institute which takes it upon itself to select the country's ten best dressed women. A woman in high position today can come under suspicion if her dress happens to be a half-inch longer than yesterday's accepted length.

Today's First Lady is expected to be the living symbol of motherhood and wifehood to all the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Brownies and Job's Daughters. Yet about noon each day she must also become the leading hostess or most honored guest in a town which has the fastest party pace in the country.
It's not easy to be your sweet same self under these conditions. Take everything that's been written about Mamie and there has been plenty—and you can start from there guessing as to what kind of a First Lady she will be.
For instance, Mrs. Eisenhower abhors the thought of making a public speech. When it comes to facing a crowd smiling waving and saying hello, she's the best. But the longest actual speech she has ever made contained 20 words.
For better or for worse the First Lady has to make some public speeches without her husband at her side. Mrs. Truman probably abhorred the idea more than Mamie does now. But Mrs. Truman, with all her Missouri independence and distaste for the public platform, quickly had to hire herself a public speaking teacher and learn the rudimentary tricks of the trade.
Mrs. Ike has always claimed that her principal hobby is taking care of Ike—to the extent, it has been reported, of buying his clothes. "That's something Mrs. Truman said she did, too."
Unfortunately, the President of the United States is well insulated against a devoted, helping wife by Secret Service men, staff physicians, personal secretaries, aides, assistants and a fantastic burden of work.
The answer? The First Lady finds herself another main hobby. Stated hobbies two, three and four for Mamie are lying in bed reading mystery books, shopping around town for bargains and redecorating.
The simple administrative chores of running the White House preclude the time for reading in bed. They will also probably cut into her favorite habit of a leisurely breakfast of fruit juice, toast and coffee followed by reading the papers and writing her letters—all in bed.
Bargain hunting, another of Mrs. Truman's pre-First Lady favorites, is denied the President's wife. Hagging over the price of a bit of feminine finery is robbed of its charm with two Secret Service men and a redecorating in the White House without having nearly every necks monitoring the transaction. That leaves redecorating. But the only trouble there is that it's against the law to do any a hobby. But isn't there any fun being the wife of the most important man in the world? The answer to that is yes, if what you call fun happens to coincide with the rigid dictates of the job, like it did for Mrs. Roosevelt—for instance.

Fortunately for Mamie Eisenhower, and in spite of the above mentioned somewhat unpleasant adjustments she is going to have to make in her new life, she has real talent for, and takes great pleasure in much of the routine which will be hers at least until 1956 if she and Ike survive the strain.
Basically, Mrs. Ike is a gregarious person. She loves being surrounded by good friends. She enjoys meeting new people. She sparkles and entertains in the middle of a gay throng. Small chitchat and exchanging the latest gags with the girls can keep her enchanted for hours. She loves long afternoons of bridge and canasta.
White House protocol will limit and take some of the gay edge off of those activities for Mamie. She admits complete ignorance of "heavy" subjects like economics or politics. And a good share of White House company will be persons who seek a more intellectual brand of conversation.
But Mamie has proved on many Army posts, as well as in Washington and Paris, that she can take those adjustments in her social life in stride, still keep the affection and loyalty of her old friends, and continue to enjoy life.
