Try Color Magic

Present fashion trends saw strong preference for lighter wall colors in tones of beige, brown and greens of the sage family These earthy tones, highlighted with bright rust and yellow, sharp orange and copper red make up the currently popular palette. These are soft, easy-to-live-with background colors and have an unusual kinship for lovely polished wood, providing an extremely effective background for both dark and light furniture. Try matching or slightly deeper value of your wall color for your floor covering if you are proud of your furniture and would like it to be the most important part of your room scheme. Bright acccents in sofa cushions or upholstery will play up your favorite pieces and add excitement to the room.

Crazy War

Those who were old enough in 1939 to know what was going on in the world still remember that for some time after the war with Hitler commenced military action was so slow on both sides that someone called it a "phony" war.

The phrase caught on and was heard everywhere. But it wasn't the war that was phony; it was the phase. So now people are saying that the war in Korea is a "funny" wind of war. It surely is not "funny." A war in which there have been 110,000 casualties in the American forces and perhaps half a million on the Chinese - North Korean side, is no joke. The only joke was in calling it a police action.

But the war in Korea is certainly peculiar; so peculiar that the like of it has never been fought before.

Alexander the Great, Xerxes, Hannibal, Julius Caesar, Napoleon Bonaparte, Robert E. Lee and U. S. Grant never heard of a war like this.

Suppose President Lincoln had advised General Grant to fight his way to within, sav 10 miles of Richmond but not to take Richmond.

Or had ordered General Meade to fight at Gettysburg not three days but 300 days and to take good care not to win. "Just stand your ground, General, and keep on standing until further orders."

Until further orders - not from you rown government, the U.S. A., but from a group of governments, among them Afghanistan, Hindustan and Monaco who are telling the U. S. A. how the war shall be fought.

Suppose Lincoln had ordered Sherman to proceed to Atlanta but not to the sea. Suppose the English war office had directed Wellington to drive Napoleon cut of Waterloo but not out of Belgium. Or suppose the Pope had agreed that the Crusaders should drive the Moslem back from Vienna but not all the way to Constantinople. Would not those valiant warriors have cried out in fury "What kind of war is this?"

Well, we have a war of that kind on our hands right now, and no American is supposed to see anything strange about it. If he calls it a phony war or a funny war, he is held guilty of a crime somewhat akin to lese majesty. But that isn't all.

In the kind of war we are now waging — if we are waging war - some of our allies are shipping supplies and material to the enemy:

Our enemy and their enemy. Yes, their boys are fighting and dying at the front with ours while their business men, with the consent and connivance of their own government are at the back door handing in weapons or the makings of weapons to the enemy.

The fact that English business has pulled out of China does not mean that the English are not doing business with China. Our government makes no protest, or only a token protest because, believe it or not, our own government was until recently guilty of the same sort of Congress has now passed a law torbidding Americans to trade with Red China, but has empowered the President to ignore the law if and when he sees fit.

So let's have the parallel again. Suppose that in our Revolution the French, who had sent Lafayette and Rochambeau to help us, were also sending men and ships and supplies to England to be used against us. Impos-

Impossible then but not impossible now? Nothing is impossible in this strangest of all wars. England is now fighting on our side, yet the English government maintains diplomatic relations with Red China which is, as England very well knows, the real enemy behind the puppet North Korea.

But who are we that we should complain against England for maintaining ostensibly friendly relations with our enemy? We are doing it ourselves. We are sitting day after day in consultation with Russia for the purpose of bringing about peace. This is not phony or funny but just simply crazy. And how about the recent and humiliating experience at the prisoner camp on Koie? What does all Asia think of fighting with up-to-date weapons prisoners behind barbed wire armed only with knives and home-made spears? Must we blunder in a hundred ways in a war that was due to blundering? John Foster Dulles in a speech at New York declared that the whole policy of containment was "futile," that it is "doomed to failure" and that it "exhausts the defenders by efforts beyond what their economies can support. But the Korean war is a war of containment. So why the Korean war? It is the most illogical and indefensible as well as the most curious war in which a merica or any other nation has ever engaged.

Viewing With Alarm

The world in our flaming century seems beset with terrors unprecedented in all human history. There's the A-bomb - and the coming, more fearful H-bomb. International tensions are so ominous that some sort of "one world" political solution is cried up in many quarters as the only hope for civilization's survival.

Twas ever thus, however, points out one journalist, Willard R. Espy, who reviews crises of history in terms of newspaper reports, had newspapers been with us all the way. For example:

"VATICAN CITY. — Prompted by widespread fears that a new weapon of mass destruction might wipe out western civilization, the Pope today issued a Papal Bull condemning the use of it by any Christian State against another, whatever the provocation."

The Pope was Innocent II; the year, 1139; the weapon, the newly invented crossbow!

For another example:

"PHILADELPHIA. - Only by uniting immediately into one great State can Europe end the wars and trade struggles that are destroying her, the grand old man of American politics said here today. The sole solution, he declared, is for Europe to call at once a constitutional convention which would 'combine all her different States and kingdoms into one federal union'."

That would have been hot news in 1787, when Benju min Franklin urged a union of Europe on the American model!

Former Congressman's Appraisal of Present

Political Situation

I want to quote the appraisal that former Congressman T. W. Phillips, Jr. of Butler, Pa. sent me, I have had considerable correspondence with him. He is an old school Republican. His views were given in a letter he addressed to a former Senator of the United States. I quote:

"Dear Senator:

for future generations. Never before has the doubt expressed by Benjamin Franklin been so real. When asked what kind of govern-"A Republic if we can keep it."
Franklin, Hamilton, Madison, and others who were the principals in writing the Constitution knew full well, what we are finding out the hard way, that no democracy, covering an extensive territory, containing a large population, having diverse interests could function efficiently or could long endure.

"At first very gradually, recent-ly, very rapidly, we have been changing our system of government from a workable Republic to an unworkable Democracy. Jefferson and Jackson, patron saints of the Democratic Party always referred to our government as a Republic, never a Democracy.

"I know you are far from optimistic; otherwise you would not have asked me the direct question you did a year ago as to whether thought our system of government could be preserved. My answer was, 'no.' But, I added that intended to keep fighting for as long as I lived. Hatton W. Summers of Dallas, Texas, whom I onsidered the ablest member of the House of Representatives when was a Congressman some twentyfive years ago, said, several years after he had retired when addressing a meeting at Wichita, Kansas, that there was not more than a fifty-fifty chance of preserving our system of government, A few years ago when in the course of a casual conversation with Chief Justice Vinson, who was also in Congress when I was there, I referred to Sumner's statement, the Chief Justice pooh-poohed the idea. "It is quite obvious to me that unless we succeed in placing in executive, legislative and judicial positions those who realize our imminent danger, and rise to their patriotic duty, the historian in the not remote future will summarize in four words our glorious attempt to establish a free society—Repub-lic, Democracy, Socialism, Dicta-torship. When a republic degenerates, it becomes a democracy. A democracy in practice becomes a mobocracy. Then comes socialism, or its big brother, communism. After it, only a dictator can prevent phis expressing an interest "official as well as personal." Three weeks later, on Nov. 26, at a meeting of the chiefs of staff of Nato nations in Rome, he was more specific. He said, "We must pool sovereignty—we must attempt the impossible. When he assumed the NATO command Jan. 16, 1951, he referred to his post of supreme allied commander in World War II, then to his new job as commander for 12 Atlantic pact nations. "Five years ago," he said, "I only had to be one-half American and one-half British, Now I am one-twelfth American. I shall attempt to conduct myself in just that way. The appearance of Sen. Nixon, a declared proponent of Atlantic union, as Eisenhower's running mate suggests that the forces that dominated the Republican convention had a clear design. Atlantic unionists are few in number in the United States, but here one of the major political parties winds up with both of its candidates recruited from the ranks of these superinternationalists. Then, just to button up everything tight substantially the same people who put over these candidates on the Republicans have much the same plan for the Democrats. Sen. Kefauver, as the prime mover of Atlantic union in congress, is the favorite Democratic candidate of these elements. If they can't have him, they insist that it be another internationa at of similar outlook who can be counted upon to forward this pet scheme. Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, a former state department functionary and American representative to the United Nations, is the alternative choice. Thus the New York Times, which printed Streit's letter in a prominent position, called editorially upon the Democrats two days earlier to emulate the Republicans and sweep what the Times chooses to call "the Old Guard" into the discard. The Times praised as the rallying points of such a movement both Kefauver and Stevenson. Either directly of by inference it declared any other Democratic candidates unsuitable. What is the purpose here? Is there a concerted movement to place before the American people only candidates who will pool America's independence out of existence in a political union with Britain and the old world? The evidence suggests as much.

BOSS OF CAIRO - Lt.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib Bey, Cairo garrison commander, leads Egyptian army forces in control of the city after ousting Premier Naguib El Hilaly Pasha's newly formed government.

ONE-MAN SHOW—Dwight D. Eisenhower proudly displays some of the paintings he executed during his vacation at the Rocky Mountain ranch of his old friend, Aksel Nielsen, left. Chief among them was a portrait of Nielsen, Among the other "early Eisenhowers" were paintings of local landscapes and an Indian head, copies from a calendar.

"ME. TOO!"-Jane Wyman makes a welcome contribution as she joins the latest Hollywood trend of "movies are hotter than ever." Jane began her screen career as a dancer, but not for several years has she worn such revealing outfits as this one, which shows her as a Broadway song-and-dance star in "Just for You."
