Tax Evasion 'Shocking'

WASHINGTON — (AP) —

House investigators came out today with what they called a "shocking example" of poor administrative work within the Justice Department. They suggested more "vigorous top direction" to prevent recurrences.

But for a change the Justice Department was not held wholly to blame. In the sixth of a continuing series of reports, a House judiciary subcommittee detailed the case of Norman E. Miller, Detroit industrial engineer, as an example of the delays and frustrations sometimes besetting officials.

Taxpayer Blamed
The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Chelf (D-Ky.), has been sharply critical of the Justice Department and its officials in past reports.

In its current finding, a follow-up on public hearings earlier this year, the investigators put the primary blame on a taxpayer, Miller, and his techniques for avoiding prosecution in a war contract case. The government, they said, lost by default.

Miller was indicted in 1944 on charges of defrauding the government in connection with work for contractors. After that the subcommittee termed eight years of "stalling and subterfuge," both criminal and civil actions against Miller were dropped.

Although picking out the case as an illustration of "all the problems that confront denizens of attorneys," the investigators said the record was "in fact highly creditable to some who did their best to avoid its sorry outcome."

Outmatch Government
The report, unusual in its tenor, asserted at the outset: "This record is not really an indictment of any individual, except Miller himself. . . . Yet the net result is to demonstrate that an unscrupulous defendant, possessed of influence, misrepresentation, attempted bribery, intimidations, and the like, can sometimes outmatch the entire resources of the government in bringing him to account in court for his wrongdoings."

Then in almost the same breath, the subcommittee says: "This case stands out like the Washington Monument as the worst possible example of how not to handle a piece of criminal and civil litigation on behalf of the government."

Search Crews See Plane Wreckage

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) —

Unidentified airplane wreckage has been sighted in high mountain country on the route of a plane which disappeared Saturday with 52 persons aboard.

Air Force officials said last night that a search plane had reported the wreckage in an inaccessible spot near Whittier, approximately 50 miles south of here. This is in almost a direct line of flight from McChesney Air Force Base, Wash., where the Globemaster started its trip to Elmendorf Air Base here.

Maj. C. W. Hinkle, public information officer at Elmendorf, said the wreckage might possibly be from two other missing planes. One is a C-119 which disappeared 11 days ago with 20 men aboard and the other is a jet fighter which dropped from sight last month.

Army Giving Troops $1.50 Turkey Dinner

TOKYO (AP) — The U. S. Army with its wholesale connections will give American troops in Japan and Korea a Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner at a cost of $1.50 each.

Maj. Leland Ecklen of Fair Oaks, Calif., said the same turkey dinner in the United States would cost about $5.

Last Missionary From China . . . Chinese Said Filled With Hate

HONOLULU (AP) — The last American Methodist missionary to leave Communist China said here last night Chinese Reds "are so filled with hate and fear of America" it is impossible to argue with them.

The Rev. F. Olin Stockwell said he gained his release from a Communist prison when he "realized that to argue with the Communists was as useless as to argue with a drunkard."

Stockwell, who passed through Honolulu en route to Los Angeles after two years in Communist prisons, said, "I signed such statements as they desired" to gain release. He told reporters he hoped to meet his wife Esther in Los Angeles.

Dr. Bartel To Speak For Scout Meet

A Boy Scout executive from Kansas City, Mo., is scheduled to speak Dec. 15 to the 24th annual Adobe Walls Council meeting in the Phillips school, Phillips.

A prominent civic leader and humanitarian, Dr. R. Roe Bartel will talk at 8 p. m. in the school's auditorium. The public is invited. Speaker at last year's Amarillo Chamber of Commerce banquet, Dr. Bartel has appeared at many state and national educational conferences.

Prior to his speech, there will be banquet for council, district and unit scouts and their wives. Also featured in the auditorium program will be the announcement of Adobe Walls Council officers for 1953 and the presentation of Silver Beaver Awards to two Scout leaders for outstanding service to boyhood.

Red Area Set Aflame

SEOUL (AP) — Allied fighters bombers slammed high explosives and flaming jelled gasoline on Communist splotches of northern Korea's Allied pilots made no claims of damage or destruction.

Along the battlefield, U. N. infantrymen hurled back an assault by about 120 screaming Chinese Reds who stormed their Central Front positions on the heights. The savage, close-quarters fighting raged four hours.

Children Wait For Mommy To Awake

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three young children waited 15-12 hours for "mommy" to wake up, while upstairs in the bedroom both parents were dead from shotgun blasts.

Police said Peter T. Lang, 32, apparently shot his wife Katherine, 29, before turning the weapon on himself.

A neighbor told police she heard shots about 11 p. m. Monday night. Yesterday afternoon a visitor dropped in and found Peter Jr., 5, John, 4, and Sharon, 2, sitting on the living room floor in their nightclothes.

One of the boys whispered, "Mommy's asleep upstairs."

Dr. Stockwell told reporters at Honolulu Airport that he spent 14 months in solitary confinement in Chungking but suffered no physical violence.

"Many other missionaries fared worse," he said. He said the Communists "prided themselves on the fact that they did not subject their captives to electric shock or the water treatment," he said.

He said his food consisted of rice and one vegetable twice daily, "with a taste of meat twice a month."

Dr. Stockwell is a veteran of 23 years missionary work in China. Asked if there were any American Methodist missionaries left in China he said, "No, I was the last one."

Red Hunt Is House Group's First Business

WASHINGTON — (AP) —

An investigation of communism in government is expected to be the first order of business of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in the new GOP-controlled Congress.

Rep. Velde (R-Ill.), slated to become committee chairman in January, said the Communists-in-government probe would have priority, with investigations of Red influences in labor and education coming next.

Co-operate With President
"Subject to the views of the other committee members, our first duty will be to co-operate with the new President, and especially with the attorney general, in determining whether Communists, or pirks, or any subversives are on the payroll of the executive department of government," he told a reporter.

"Our next duty will be to function as a watch dog against the infiltration of subversives in the new administration. The Communists always attempt to infiltrate the political party and administration in power."

Maintain Constant Check
Velde, a former FBI agent, said he felt the committee should maintain a constant check to make certain that "no offshoots of Americans" find a place on government payrolls.

Coming early in the committee activities, possibly "simultaneously" with our activities against Communists in the federal government," Velde said, will be further investigation of any communism in the labor movement.

The committee for the past year or two has been inquiring into the extent of Communist infiltration into defense industry through labor unions.

Police Probe Dallas Killing

DALLAS (AP) — The downtown mystery shooting of a well-known Dallas barber had detectives busy with a full-scale investigation today.

Two barbers who worked for him discovered the body of George C. (Joe) Underwood, 61, slumped on the floor of his shop, fatally shot yesterday. Underwood had been proprietor of the South and Hotel Barber Shop for 25 years.

Gun Beneath Body
There was a bullet hole in Underwood's head and a .38 caliber pistol he kept in his safe lay beneath the body. One of its six shells had been fired.

There was no sign of a scuffle but Homicide Detective Will Fritz said there was a tree with blood on it. On two occasions in recent years Underwood had been robbed and assaulted in his shop. One of the barbers who discovered the body, W. H. Greer, told reporters Underwood had said the assailants might have been the same man.

Yet at the time of the robbery the elderly barber described the hijackers differently to police.

Receipts Missing
Greer quoted Underwood as having said he wasn't going to take another hijacking—that he was going to get out his gun and shoot the next man who tried to rob him.

Fritz said $190 of yesterday's receipts had not been turned into the hotel desk, where Underwood usually took them, or found elsewhere. Greer said when he came to work both the safe and cash register were open.

Justice of the Peace Glen Byrd ordered an autopsy. The bullet will be checked to see whether it came from the pistol found in the shop. Identification experts took casts of the dead man's hands to find out whether powder marks from firing a pistol were present.

Before Thanksgiving . . . Pampa Prepares For Yule Season

While Pampans were still preparing for Thanksgiving, the bell notes of Christmas are already in the air ushering in the holiday season. Decorations are up, a Christmas party is planned and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus are preparing to fly here for a pre-Christmas visit.

At 6:30 p. m. Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus are to arrive at Pery LeFors Field, flown in by Ralph Prock, Cabot Company aviator. They will come directly to the City Hall north lawn where a special Christmas program and party is to be held, sponsored by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce Merchants Activities Committee.

The committee has asked that persons do not try to greet the couple from the North Pole unless roads dry up considerably.

Included in the party activities will be a 30-minute concert of special Christmas music starting at 6:45 p. m. by the Amarillo Air Force Band.

Mrs. Roy Johnson will play organ music and Roy Johnson, First Methodist Church minister of music, will lead group carol singing.

Indian Peace Plan Is Given Top Priority

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The U. N. Political Committee voted today to give top priority to India's Korean peace plan despite violent Soviet opposition. The vote was 49 to 5 with one abstaining.

The Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky denounced it as a "gross violation of democratic rights." He said the decision was "illegal" and taken under the leadership of the United States.

Closed Meeting
A special closed-door meeting of 21 Western powers decided last night to support the priority vote as a tipoff that a majority has been found in the committee to back the U. S. view that the Indian resolution must be clarified to spell out the handling of prisoners of war more carefully. They based their reasoning on the fact that the U. S. had previously said it would not vote for priority unless these assurances were given.

Astounded Delegates
Vishinsky astounded delegates when he cited the Indian plan as a device of the "North Atlantic bloc with which no co-operation is possible." India has no connection with NATO and has striven to maintain a neutral position in East-West quarrels.

Youngster Has Christmas Early

MANFIELD, O. (AP) — Little Linda Harmen does not know she may not live until Christmas.

Doctors have told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Harmon, that Linda, 5, is suffering from an incurable kidney cancer.

To make up for a possible missed Yuletide, Linda's great-stepcousin arranged with fellow workers at the Westinghouse plant here to have a Christmas party Monday. They fixer a tree with all the trimmings and piled presents beneath it.

Linda suffered an attack of pain, which she gets periodically, but managed bravely to finish the festivities with a house crowded with friends and well-wishers.

Former Mountie To Describe Exploits For Knife-Fork Club

A former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is scheduled to speak Dec. 9 before the Pampa Knife and Fork Club.

MAKE WAY, WE COME, Jack Zverker, right and Charles Peacock, left, warned the cameraman this morning just a few seconds before they plunged down the Russell street hill on their sleds. Kids' sleds got their first workouts for the 1952-53 snow season this morning and yesterday. With school dismissed for the rest of the week, Pampa's youngsters set last night too anxious for the streets to be completely cleared of snow—sleigh runners just don't work on hard-top streets. ## Ike Indicates More Women To Be Selected For Cabinet

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower neared the end of his designations for top-level government offices today, declaring that more high positions will be assigned to women administrators. He has named the seventh member of the normally nine-man cabinet. And along with that designation, he announced yesterday that he will propose the names of two women—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest of Bountiful, Utah—for administrative offices in the government he is forming.

Mrs. Hobby was named to head the Federal Security Agency and Mrs. Priest as treasurer of the United States.

These, he said in a formal announcement, are "the first of other appointments of women in the coming administration."

The designation for the cabinet was Arthur E. Summerfield of Flint, Mich., for postmaster general. Summerfield is chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Two Posts Remain
Only two cabinet posts now remain: the secretaries of commerce and labor. There has been no indication at the general's headquarters as to his choices.

He has an appointment today with Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, one of his early backers in the fight for the presidency and the man who nominated him for the office at the GOP convention in July.

There has been speculation that McKeldin may get one of the two remaining cabinet positions. The governor, however, said yesterday his appointment with Eisenhower is only a friendly call and has no other significance.

Eisenhower also called in today an official who can tell him a good deal about Korea—Mrs. Anna Rosenberg.

In War Time
Mrs. Rosenberg is assistant secretary of defense in charge of manpower. She has been in the war zone within the past two weeks.

Traffic Begins Moving Again Over The Area

Pampans were digging out today from under a sheet of ice-and-snow which blocked traffic, closed schools and interrupted communications.

Hard-crusted snow, shimmering in the morning sun, greeted area residents following a freezing norther which has brought seven inches of snow to the Top of Texas since late Sunday evening.

Pampa's mercury dropped to a season's low of 8 degrees early today from a Tuesday high of 25.

Most of the major roads servicing Pampa were open at noon today, but officials were warning motorists to use caution — and chains. Snow removal crews worked late and early to get the remaining roads in operation.

Snow scraped from the city streets was piled a foot or more high. And low temperatures quickly turned most of it to ice.

Ike Tuesday, schools over the county were closed except for McLean School-goers in the Pampa school district had a real break — no school till Monday.

Warmer Weather
Phone lines in the Pampa area were reported in good order today, although there are "far too many local calls," caused by youngsters being at home. Telephone officials complained. Western Union has maintained service throughout the entire snow siege.

Forecast for the Panhandle, according to The Associated Press, called for slightly warmer weather this afternoon and tonight and somewhat warmer Thanksgiving Day.

Blue skies, crystal-clear air and practically no wind today portended the absence of any more snow in the near future.

No planes landed at Pery LeFors Field Tuesday, according to Central Air Lines, and early flights today were cancelled. All roads leading to the airport were blocked by snowdrifts.

The Pampa Harvester - Borer Bulldog football game will be played at 2 p. m. Thursday, as scheduled, according to a school business office official. A snowdrift, two feet deep, at the south end of the field was graded off late Tuesday night.

Most Roads Open
Roads open into Pampa at 11:30 a. m. today, state highway department officials said, were U. S. 80 to Amarillo; Hwy. 152 to Borger; Hwy. 70 to Clarendon and Hwy. 152 to Wheeler.

The Wheeler road is "rather dangerous," as cars must travel by way of a construction detour, 12 miles east of Pampa, highway department workers said.

U. S. 40 to Miami and Canadian was blocked on both sides of Miami, though the Pampa side of the road was expected to be cleared by noon today.

Hwy. 273 to Lefors and McLean was reported impassable, though a few vehicles are reported to have got through. It, too, was expected to be opened today.

Mercy Mission Carried Out Despite Temperature, Snow

The thermometer read 19 and most people were home hugging the fire in Pampa and the rest of Gray County last night.

But, there was acute sickness at Lefors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Dunn whose two-year-old son was suffering from a lung congestion brought on by the cold.

Medicine had to be rushed. Twice sheriff's department cars were forced back to Pampa with the medicine.

Sheriff E. H. Jordan grew desperate. Finally, he tracked down J. D. Wright Jr. to seek his aid. Wright warmed up the heavy-duty oil field truck, loaded Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard

Girl Tells Of Killing Baby

SEATTLE (AP) — A high school girl who said she lost her temper when a baby she was tending wouldn't stop crying told officers she choked a 4-month-old boy to death with a cloth last night.

The girl, Ellen Noreen Fern, 15, was caring for Gary Payne, son of her next door neighbor who had gone to the grocery store. Gary started crying soon after the Paynes left the house, she said in a statement to Detectives C. F. Kirschner and R. W. Wall.

The detectives said she told them: "I took him into the bedroom and laid him on the bed. He was still crying; he wouldn't be quiet. I looked him over and everything but he wouldn't be quiet."

"I then lost my temper and grabbed a striped cloth, similar to the pajamas on the bed. I had such a headache, and to keep him quiet I pushed with my fingers and shoved the rag down his throat."

Rites Today For Mrs. Ella Stewart

Postponed funeral services for Mrs. Ella Stewart, 82, of Borger, have been scheduled for 2 p. m. today in the Duemmel-Carmichael Chapel.

Mrs. Stewart died Sunday afternoon in North Plains Hospital, Borger.

Officiating at the service will be Rev. M. O. Hollis, pastor of Pampa Missionary Baptist Church. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

"I guess we just have to eliminate that violently emotional passage in the second movement!"

Teed Wins JC Contest

John Teed, 16, Pampa High School student, has won the local Voice of Democracy contest with a speech in which he said "democracies are the only governments in the world that have become finally successful."

Others competing before the weekly meeting of the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce were Burk Brehm and Peggy Richmond, both 17, who also talked on the subject, "I Speak for Democracy."

A tape recording will be made of Teed's speech and submitted for the Panhandle contest in Amarillo. Later winning recordings from Texas' district contests will be entered in the state finals in Grand Prairie.

Winners from all American states and possessions will compete in national finals in Tulsa next spring. The five top finalists will be awarded a trip to Washington, D.C., where they will visit the White House and various historical sites in the vicinity.

Judges for the local contest were Coy Palmer, Aubrey Steele and Frank Pata. Introducing the speakers were Billie Hutchins, high school speech director.

Prior to the formal part of the program, President Jim Evans expressed thanks to employees of the city, Davis Electric Co., and Southwestern Public Service for their help Sunday in putting up Pampa's Christmas decorations. An election will be held Tuesday, Evans said, to elect five new members to the Jaycees' board of directors.

Local Student Wins Honors At WTSC

Sterlin Holmely, brother of two Pampa residents, has been selected as a member of West Texas State College Who's Who, according to recent reports from the college.

Holmely is the brother of Mrs. R. A. Anderson, 1344 Coffee and Mrs. John B. White, 1344 Christine.

He is an art major, journalism minor, was sports editor of "The Prairie" (college publication) his freshman and sophomore year and managing editor of his junior year football paper for an Amarillo radio station and writer of a sports column for the Amarillo Globe News.

Jap Prisoners Get Bit Of Freedom

TOKYO (AP) — This was a big day for Japan's 610 war criminals from Sugame Prison.

They saw — for the first time since their convictions at the end of the war — Tokyo's colorful streets and a professional ball game.

They saw, too, families and friends who crowded near their section of the stands at Korakuen Stadium.

Officially they were not permitted to talk to or have any contact with relatives. But their guards frequently were very busy watching the Daiei Stars beat the Tokyo Whales, 6-1.

At one of those times a girl, 7 or 8 years old and clad in a red dress, accented by a pink hair ribbon, slid past guards and threw her arms around her father.

He hungrily returned her embrace before she was hustled away.

The guards turned away as a flashbulb popped. Pictures had been forbidden. Newsmen were not allowed to approach the prisoners.

The outing was arranged by the Justice Department and the baseball teams.

Two Auto Accidents

First big snow of the year in the Top o' Texas has brought along with it two automobile accidents within the city limits, boosting the 1952 toll to 328.

The AP reported, "Vineyard, 29, of Pampa, and Roman Chekhat, 33, of Okmulgee, Okla., collided at Foster and Frost at 6 a.m. Tuesday, according to police.

Both tried to stop and both skidded, officers said. No casualties and no citations were reported, but damages to Vineyard's car were estimated at $100.

Arthur L. Love, 17, of 1040 S. Banks, and Freddy Pierce, 9, of Pampa, met about three hours later at Cuyler and Francis, police said.

Damages to the cars were calculated at $70, but again there were no casualties and no citations.

Nor was there any indication today when Eisenhower himself would leave on his trip to Korea. Security measures are covering all details of his departure from New York.

Meanwhile, one of Eisenhower's cabinet designations brought a blast of criticism from Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

Speaking last night in New Haven, Conn., before the Yale Political Union, a student group, McCormick attacked the selection of John Foster Dulles as the next secretary of state. McCormick said of him:

Socialist Crowd
"Dulles belongs to the millionaire socialist crowd who would put European interests before American interests, a policy to which Eisenhower seems to have been attracted by his command of armies."

The appointment will cause trouble in the Republican party, McCormick said.

"This presages a split between Eisenhower and a large majority of Republicans," McCormick said. "How we shall go from here nobody can know."

Eisenhower's own nomination as the GOP candidate, the publisher continued, was the result of cleavages within the party. He said, "A queer assortment of millionaire socialists in the East brought about the nomination of Eisenhower by sharp practice which caused great defeat."

WHITE DEER (Special) — A community Thanksgiving service is slated at 7:30 p.m. today in the Presbyterian Church at White Deer.

Rev. Howard Lyons, pastor of the First Baptist Church, is director of the program. Rev. Ruel Baxter, pastor of the Assembly of God Church will read the Scripture and offer the Thanksgiving prayer. Rev. J. A. Cooley, pastor of the First Methodist Church will bring a message on the Thanksgiving theme.

Special music will be given by the Young People of the Baptist Church.

The public is invited to attend the service.

Tennessee Adopts Push-Button Learning

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Push-button learning has come to the University of Tennessee with experimental use of a meter to measure lecture reception in the College of Engineering.

It works like this: When a student fails to get a point in the professor's lecture, he pushes a button that works an electronic device.

A meter on the professor's desk shows him how many students are not understanding him. If the number is large, he can back up and try again.

On a third party. The publisher, a life-long Republican, advocated such a third party before the election; but his Chicago Tribune in the later stages of the campaign endorsed Eisenhower "with reluctance."

"Advocates of a third party this year were embarrassed for lack of a candidate," McCormick said. "If a third party is to be formed it will have to be formed before the next conventions, and a candidate will have to be found who can accept defeat in 1956... with the idea of having a victorious party in 1960..."

half of a government of the people."

Miller was accused of falsifying employe records and allegedly pocketing "probably hundreds of thousands of dollars" from contractors having cost-plus contracts.

The subcommittee asserted that Miller hired a "whole crew of attorneys" and "ruthlessly exploited" the courts and the government to win delay after delay until his case eventually "expired of old age."

The criminal charge against Miller, involving $14,000, was dropped in October, 1950, and the civil action, involving $36,800 in January, 1951.

The litigation extended through the regimes of four attorneys general, and the final outcome "doubtless reflected sheer frustration on the part of federal attorneys in Detroit to bring the case to trial, the report said.

trucks — spent Tuesday and today pulling stalled cars from drifts and ruts. One truck alone hauled 18 cars out of snow banks.

Large number of cars freed was underestimated by city engineering employes.

Work on midtown streets did not get underway till the wind died late yesterday. Then two motor graders and the small loader were pressed into service. Working dusk to dawn, city crews bladed, loaded and hauled away the snow.

Only vehicles with occupants inside were processed, for it was considered "too dangerous to bother with unattended cars."

Traffic accidents within the city limits appeared at a virtual standstill. No collision — not even a fender-bender — had been reported by city police since 9:30 a.m. Tuesday. But the chances were good that some had gone unreported.

As they were Tuesday, motorists were being urged by all law enforcement agencies to drive with extreme caution if at all. For the streets in the Panhandle were slick with ice and considered extremely hazardous.

At 11:30 a.m. today the mercury had only managed to rise to 14 degrees.

The season's first big snow was not confined to the Top o' Texas by a long shot. It was part of a storm which clamped an icy grip over most of Kansas and Nebraska Tuesday and reached into Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota and Oklahoma. At least six deaths, the AP reported, were attributed to the storm.

Total moisture of .63 of an inch dropped on the Top o' Texas during the two-day onslaught of snow.

After the visit with Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, winners of merchants' Christmas gifts will be determined. Approximately 60 area merchants are participating in this part of the program.

The 21-inch console television set is to be given following this. The television set is a gift of the merchants activities committee.

Firemen have completed sacking bags of candy to be given to the children by Santa Claus's helpers. Children are asked by Bunny Behrman, in charge of candy distribution, to form a line through the city hall to receive candy.

Kicking off the holiday season will be the Christmas shopping edition of The Pampa Daily News. The edition will be included in the Thanksgiving Day paper — to be delivered Thursday morning.

Local stores are to stay open until 7 p.m. Friday to accommodate early shoppers. Stores will begin staying open until 8 p.m. daily Dec. 15 and continue the schedule through Dec. 25.

Concurrent with the Christmas party all down town lights and decorations which were installed by Jaycees Sunday, will be lighted.

Local merchants report they will have inside and window store decorations up Friday.

WSCS Officers Give Quarterly Reports

SHAMROCK (Special)—Quarterly reports were given by officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at 9 a.m. Friday in the home of Mrs. H. B. Hill.

"The Mitten Tree," Korean Christmas project of the Church School Children's Department and the WSCS, was discussed.

Attending were Misses E.C. Hoffman, president, Lyle Holmes, J.W. Goch, Albert Cooper, C. L. Reav, Albert Ryan, Eli Smith, A. R. Hugg and the hostess, Mrs. Hill.

HD Council Meeting
Plans Christmas Party

A Christmas party was planned for Dec. 4 at a Gray County Home Demonstration Council Meeting recently in the Home Demonstration office.

Judging of club scrapbooks was discussed with date and judge to be announced.

Mrs. Walter Noel conducted the meeting.

MATURE PARENT

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

When Mrs. M. tells us about her troubles, she blames Fate for them.

She was the child of a generation that thought jealousy didn't happen to nice little girls. So, though she hated her little sister for having pretty brown curls, nobody knew it. Nobody suspected that she wanted to cut off Kit's curls so that people could no longer admire them. One day, when she hacked off her own hair, instead, everyone thought it was just her "impulsiveness."

Later, she ran off and married a spoiled boy she had known two months. Again it was just her "impulsiveness." Nobody related it to Kit's recent marriage. Nobody suspected that she was trying to prove she was just as attractive as Kit.

After Mrs. M.'s divorce, her family hoped she'd settle down and control her fatal "impulsiveness." She couldn't control what she didn't know she felt. So the summers she and her fatherless son spent with Kit and her family were too much for her.

She apologized so often to her boy for her failure to provide the advantages his cousins enjoyed that he got to thinking he was badly abused. This impression finally led him to steal from his school lockers. He was caught and expelled in disgrace.

Mrs. M.'s life was destroyed, not by Fate, but by unrealized jealousy.

I report her story for a reader who says that children should be encouraged to express love, not jealousy and hate.

If they feel love, fine. Let's encourage them to express it. If they don't feel it, it is dangerous to ask them to express it.

It is dangerous because hate that is not expressed turns back upon the person who feels it.

CANADIAN (Special) — Mrs. Maudaline Hutton, Canadian Chapter Order Easter Star, has been appointed Deputy Grand Matron for District Two, Section I, of Tex. Mrs. Hutton has been a member of Eastern Star since 1926, was secretary the last seven years and served as Chapter Worthy Matron in 1940. She has been a teacher in the Canadian School System about Chapters in Section I, District II which Mrs. Hutton will officially visit during her year as Deputy.

Officers are Follett, Darrouzett, Booker, Perryton, Spearman, Gruver, Stinet, Borger, Pampa, Miami, Moebete, Shamrock, Wheeler, Canadian and Higgins.

Canadian Chapter will be hostess chapter with 14 co-hostess chapters, for the fraternal visit Dec. 8. Honorees at the banquet will be Mrs. Mildred Garlitz, Fort Worth, Worthy Grand Matron; Mrs. Mollie Goodpasture, Brownfield, Grand Examiner; Mrs. Willie Laura Howington, Abilene, District Deputy Grand Matron and Mrs. Hutton.

A banquet is scheduled in the dining room of the First Christian Church, preceding the visit to the Chapter Room.

An Eastern Star School is to be held in Pampa Dec. 9. The four grand officers are to preside.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Any woman who wants to turn interior decorator on her own will, with a small investment in time and money, be able to produce lampshades with a custom look for her living room.

Most women, at some time, eye with envy the lampshades that can be ordered made up in a fabric matched to their own drapes, upholstery material or even slipcovers. But since these shades are necessarily expensive, the average woman forgets about them and settles for plain old vellum.

Tips on transforming this very vellum shade into the fabric-covered type with a custom look come from interior decorator Harriet Sherry. To get the right results, you'll need these things: fabric, lampshade, wrapping paper, piece of cord, clothespin clips, milliners glue and braid or ruffles for finding.

Start by marking off equal halves of the shade. You do this by holding a piece of cord at the bottom of the seam, bringing the cord straight up along the seam and across the top, down the opposite side of the shade and back to the beginning of the cord at the bottom of the seam.

Now, using the cord as a guide, mark a straight line from top to bottom opposite the seam.

RUTH MILLETT

Johnny and Susie are starting a new school year. Whether or not it will be a happy one for them depends to some extent on their parents' attitude toward the school and their teacher. If you want your child to get along well at school DON'T: Criticize his teacher or modern methods of teaching in front of your child. Even if you are convinced that the old-fashioned methods were better, your child is being educated today and since you can't put him in the kind of classroom you remember, quit making comparisons.

Send your child off in the morning upset and unhappy because he has been rushed and hurried or because he has had to suffer through a family quarrel.

Let your child call his teacher by such terms as "Old Lady such-and-such." He'll show little respect for his teacher inside the classroom if you let him get away with speaking of her in disrespectful terms at home.

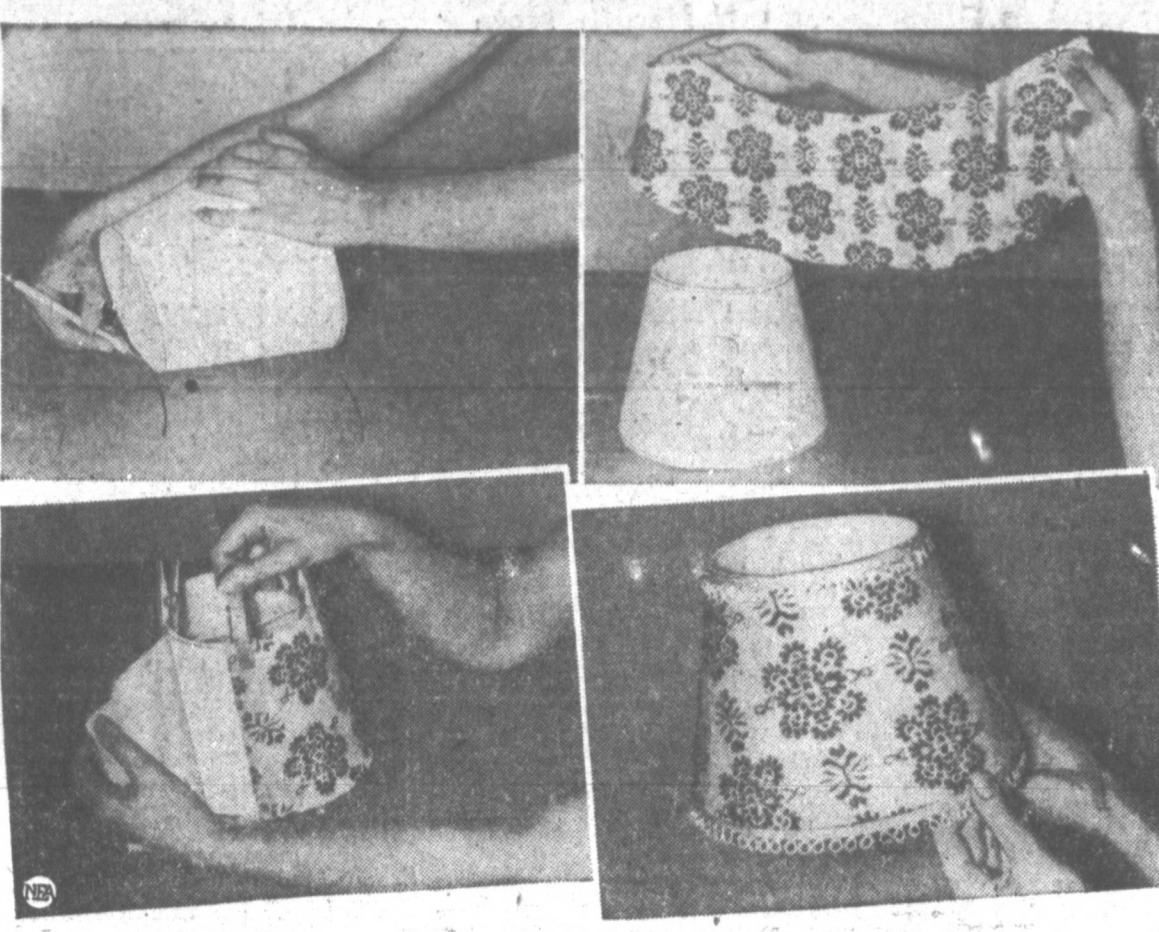

Sympathize with him when he insists that the teacher has "peta" or "that she isn't fair."

Give him too much help with his homework. What he needs is supervision not a parent who will tell him the answers to questions and let him write them down.

Make a snob out of him, by and drives him to destroy himself.

We teach children to get this ugly emotion out because we want to protect them. By showing a little daughter that we are not alarmed by her evil wish to cut off her pretty sister's curls we make the wish appear harmless to her. Then the wish loses its power to make her feel evil and ugly.

This is not a new idea. The Bible warns us of hate's power to turn upon the one who feels it by giving it the form of the snake. It is the serpent's special skill to recoil upon itself.

To make your own fabric lampshades with a custom look, you've only to follow simple directions. Make a pattern (upper left), using wrapping paper and with seam of the shade facing up. Next, cut the fabric after the pattern (upper right), making sure that the center fold of the pattern is straight up and down on the fabric as you cut it. Now, use clothespin clips (lower left) to fit the fabric along the top of the shade. This is the way the finished shade looks (lower right) in a medalion pattern, a hand-printed over-all design on cotton satin.

New Lampshade Tricks Save Time And Money — Add To Interior Decorating of wrapping paper in half, vertically, and place the paper flat on a table. At this halfway mark on the paper, hold the bottom of the shade horizontally, seam upward and perpendicular to the edge of the paper. (The portion of the shade containing the bisecting line you just drew will be face down on the paper.)

Starting at this bisecting line draw short, straight lines on the paper along the top and bottom edges of the shade. Without lifting the shade from the paper, roll it to the right and draw two more lines. As you do this, you'll see that the short, straight lines are rising in two arcs.

Continue these arcs until the seam of the shade is face down on the table and the bisecting line upright, facing you. End the arcs about half an inch beyond this point. Connect the two arcs with a straight line.

Now then, remove the wrapping paper from the table. Fold the left half under the right and cut a pattern after the lines you just drew. Then, holding the pattern across the fabric, selvages at the sides, cut the fabric after the pattern.

Use the center fold of the pattern as a guide to be sure it's straight up and down on the fabric (parallel to selvages) as you cut it.

With clothespin clips, fit the fabric to the base of the shade. Adjust the fabric to fit the top. If the top fits correctly, a tiny slight deviation at the other edges can be corrected when you overlap the fabric to finish the shade.

You're almost through. Starting at the seam of the shade, glue the fabric to the vellum base with milliners' glue. Be sure that the fabric is perfectly smooth as you go. Glue the beginning of the fabric flush to the shade, overlap the end, and glue to the first part of the fabric.

Trim the raveled threads at the top and bottom edges. Finish with braid, ruffles or bias binding.

Ice cream, like orange juice, has advanced from seasonal enjoyment to year-round availability. Now we hardly remember when two such good foods weren't on our tables all year! Homemade Cranberry Ice Cream Deluxe is one of the best ice creams to come our way — perfectly delightful for autumn meals.

Cranberries can be used, too, to make economy meals. For instance, Cranberries with Sweet Potato Blanketed Sausages is a 20-minute main-dish wonder which can be partially prepared ahead of time to save last-minute preparation.

Cranberry Ice Cream
1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
2 cups light cream
1-2 cup sugar
1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, dash cloves
1-4 teaspoon ginger, dash cloves
3 cups fresh cranberries
1-2 cup light corn syrup
1-2 cup sugar

Dissolve rennet tablet in water. Heat cream to lukewarm; add 1-2 cup sugar, and spices, stir until dissolve. Stir in rennet and let stand undisturbed 10 minutes. Turn into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until firm. Meanwhile, combine cranberries, corn syrup, and 1-2 cup sugar. Bring to a boil. Cook gently 10 minutes. Cool. When rennet mixture is firm, remove from refrigerator tray. Beat to a mushy consistency. Fold in 1-2 the candied cranberries, reserving other half to use as sauce. Return ice cream to refrigerator tray. Freeze until firm. Serve with remaining cranberries.

Youthful Fashions
Flatter Teenagers

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

When you teen-agers select a hair style for your young face, remember that for your best style is the least style. Leave complicated "artistic" looking hair arrangements to your mother and her friends.

A slight wave can be encouraged through proper cutting to shape and frequent brushing with the wave while damp. Naturally curly hair frames most faces well if its feather-cut. Even straight hair can be permanently just on the ends for a natural look. Be sure to cut off the old permanent before giving yourself a new one.

Some "trainable straight" hair can be set once a week with good results even without a permanent. Pin it up dry every night in this case.

There is a correct way to make pin curls. They should be round and flat against the head without bumps caused by the pins you use. They should lie in the exact position in which you plan to have them lie when combed out. The number of curls you make depends on the thickness of our hair. Many pin curls will make a longer-lasting but less soft hair-do.

Section off the hair, holding the sections apart with rubber bands. Then comb smooth each piece to be curled. Turn them up with your fingers or a rat-tail comb.

If you want the hair to lie away from your face when combed out turn the curl away from your face.

The back hair curls should continue the same direction until you reach your ear on the other side of your head. Then reverse the direction. The bottom row of curls should turn in the opposite direction from the top row. Most of you can use a piece of rag, heads of hair take two rows of curls nicely. Some will take three or more.

Secure the curl with a hairpin and then cross it with a rubber-tipped hobby pin. Long hobs that are difficult to roll will turn up nicely with tissue paper wrapped around a pip-stem cleaner, if you can use a piece of rag.

Easy on the budget

Cranberries and Sweet Potatoes

1-3 cup sugar
1-3 cup water
2-3 cup fresh cranberries
3-4 cup mashed sweet potatoes
1 egg
1-2 teaspoon salt

1 can (8 oz.) pork sausages
1-4 cup finely crushed cornflakes
Boil sugar and water 5 minutes. Add cranberries and cook without stirring, until all the skins pop open—about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; cool. Combine potatoes, egg and salt. Form into bars about 2 x 3 inches 1 cm g; put groove down the center of each. Put two sausages, end to end, in each groove. Cover with potato mixture. Let sausages stick out at ends. Roll bars in cornflakes. Chill. Bake in greased shallow pan at 375 degrees F. for about 20 minutes. Top with cranberry sauce and serve.

Makes about five servings.

A Meal in Itself — Mince-meat Cheese Cake

WHERE are some desserts whose function it is to put a finishing touch to a hearty meal, and there are others that deserve to be treated as the main course. In fact, they rate as a meal in themselves. Just such a special dessert is this Mince-meat Cheese Cake. The recipe introduces tangy, spice-laden mince-meat as an inspired flavoring, while fluffy cottage cheese ensures that unique cheesecake texture.

This dessert can truly lay claim to being a meal in itself, its main ingredient being a complete protein. Serve it with lots of piping hot, stimulating coffee as a complete bridge party or after-theater meal, and you and your friends will be both nourished and charmed.

Because of its nutritional nature, seconds on Mince-meat Cheese Cake are in order—as if anyone could resist anyway—and it is seldom that anything so utterly delectable is as easy on the conscience. Don't forget to make seconds on coffee—the sustenance of the spirit—too.

Mince-meat Cheese Cake

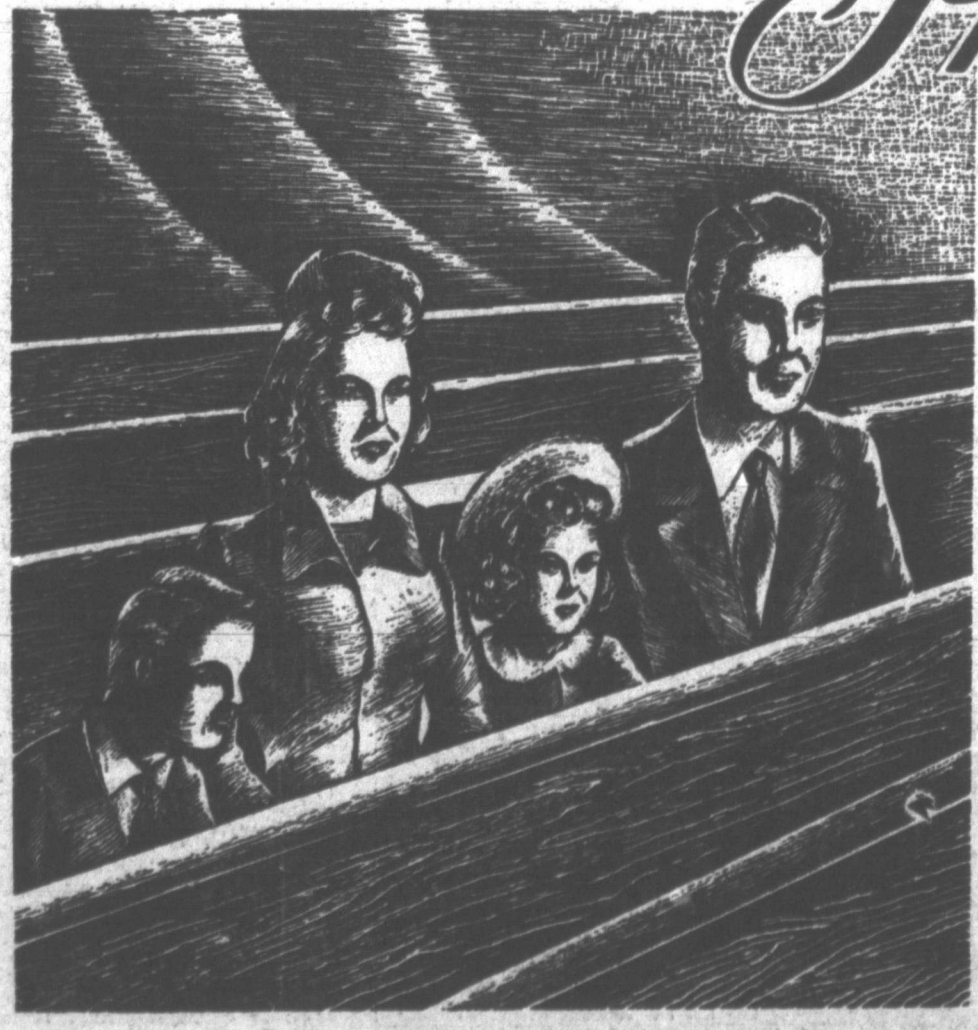

Crust
1/2 8-oz. package zwiebach, crushed (13 pieces)
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/4 cup mince-meat

Thoroughly mix crushed zwiebach, sugar and butter or margarine. Pat crumb mixture on bottom of 8-inch greased spring mold pan, reserving a few tablespoons for topping cake. Spread mince-meat over crumb layer.

Cake
1 1/2 lbs. creamed cottage cheese
(1 3-oz. can) mince-meat
1/2 cup mince-meat
1/4 cup flour
2 whole eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar
1 tablespoon grated lemon
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

Put cheese through food mill to break up large curds. Combine cheese, mince-meat, flour and 2 whole eggs. Blend thoroughly. Beat together 2 egg yolks, 1/2 cup sugar, lemon rind, salt and vanilla until very thick and light. Stir cheese and egg mixtures together. Fold in whipped cream. Fold in 2 egg whites beaten stiff with remaining 1/2 cup sugar. Blend thoroughly. Turn into prepared pan. Sprinkle top with reserved crumbs. Bake in a slow oven, 250° F., 1 1/2 hours. Turn off heat and let cake stand in closed oven one hour longer. Remove from oven and cool in pan at room temperature. Remove spring form when cake is cold. Makes 6-8 servings.

Thanksgiving

The one day of the year dedicated to giving thanks for the many blessings we enjoy as Americans... the one day when many will pause to say a prayer for peace throughout the world, for plentiful and nourishing food for everyone, for integrity and honesty in governments, and for love and understanding in the home. May the prayers of Americans for these things be answered.

A Sign Of Hope

One of the false premises on which the Democratic administration that is retiring from federal control in January has rested is that government is an inexhaustible financial horn of plenty. Not even a torrent of votes can change this fundamental belief of Harry Truman & Co.

Reports from Washington disclose that the administration will submit to Congress when it convenes in January an $80 billion budget. Fortunately for the taxpaying populace the Democratic financial proposals are no more than a sardonic gesture from a disavowed regime.

The fiscal advisors of Dwight D. Eisenhower report they are aiming at a $70 billion top for the 1953 budget and they'll start soon on ways and means to prune back federal costs although their plans may not be unveiled until the White House gets its new occupant.

If the GOP fulfills its promises their first budget in 20 years will be approximately $9 billion less than the last effective Democratic budget, the current one for 1952-53. That will be a move down a long, long road to national solvency.

It is an illusion that government can spend and spend with impunity. The truth is that government creates no wealth and derives all its revenue from taxing its citizens or from borrowing. By the first method it imposes a burden that automatically lowers the standard of living that the citizens would be entitled to by the results of their labor, and by the second it reaches into the future to seize the fruits of production which haven't yet been created. When a man dies his sons can liquidate his assets and forget their father's debt after paying whatever share the assets will provide. They can assume the remainder as a moral obligation if they will. But a government debt offers no such alternative. It is not only a moral but a legal obligation on the present generation and its sons and their sons after them. The only escape is to sacrifice the government and their own economy with it. Otherwise, the debt will ride them — like the old Man of the Sea on the back of Sinbad the Sailor.

Forty years ago, the citizens of this country were lured into freeing their purse strings to government by passage of the income tax amendment to the Constitution. In four decades we have created a financial monster that would cause Frankenstein to gape with horrendous envy — a monster that no longer exists on the coins we suffer it but rather claims as its due a vested right in our earnings and through some of its high priests, asserts an authority to tell us how much of our production we may keep.

There's no hope the next Republican administration or its immediate successors if any will be the St. George to kill this governmental dragon but they may possibly curtail its appetite. And if the citizens are smart enough and stern enough, they may in the next four decades get the master-slave status with their government in proper alignment.

Pattern Changes

Despite reports that the American family is functioning in an atmosphere charged with deep concern and cynicism, there is no real evidence that it is disappearing. But the family pattern is changing and the family unit is growing smaller due probably to the influence of urban living.

According to a study made by Dr. Charles B. Spaulding, associate professor of sociology at Santa Barbara college, Americans are among the most married of the people of technically advanced civilizations of these times.

Americans marry younger than formerly and a larger percentage of the widowed and the divorced remarry more frequently than they used to.

Dr. Spaulding maintains in his study that the classic picture of a large patriarchal, economic partnership type of family cannot exist easily in modern city life.

There is now less living under the control of the family. The smaller number of children and the changed economic roles of women and children have increased "freedom" and the influence of these members of the family group. The loss of intimate neighborhood contacts leaves the pattern of family living more completely in the hands of the small family group itself. These are conditions, of course, which primarily prevail in metropolitan communities and are not so evident in towns like Pampa.

Easier divorce and greater tolerance of the divorced in social activities doesn't strengthen the family role, and the loosening of family ties is surely further encouraged by the great growth of governmental agencies to care for those who are "victims of life's crises."

The problem of the older widow, according to Dr. Spaulding, is one of growing importance. "The average wife," he explained "can expect to be a widow for about eight years under present circumstances."

Increasing numbers of families must adjust to what Dr. Spaulding described as the "empty nest," because of the increasing age of the population, coupled with the decrease of the birth rate.

The Spaulding study indicates that the trend toward suburban living probably means some increase in family life and it also seems, he says, to mean a slight trend toward matriarchy in family affairs.

We think the doctor is somewhat conservative about the matriarchal trend. We think the female of the species has had a firm grip on more than family affairs for a long time and a lot stronger influence than the sociologists suspect.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

The Cause of ### Corrupt Government

Since most of our trouble comes from not enough people knowing the cause of corrupt government I want to reproduce an address made by Clarence Manion, Dean of the College of Law, Notre Dame University, before the Annual Meeting of the National Small Business Men's Association, Washington, D. C.

From here on Dean Manion is speaking:

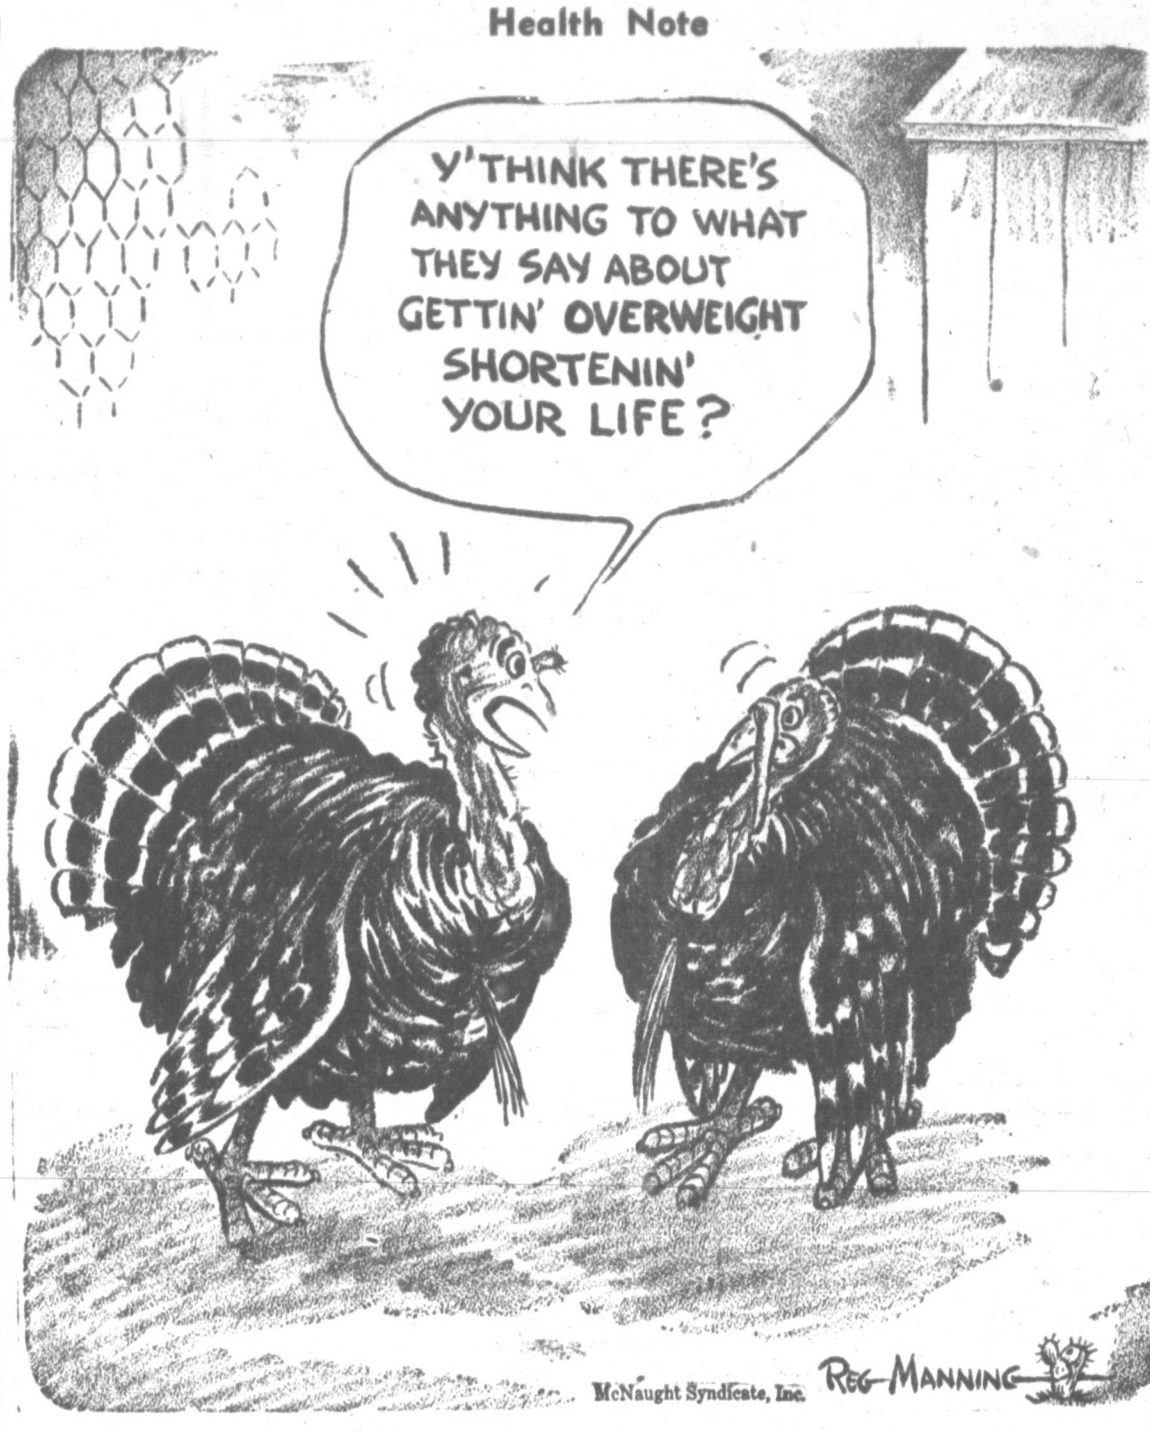

A precision tool designed for one purpose will be entirely ineffective—may, it may even be destroyed—in an attempt to use it for another purpose. Every housewife knows that you cannot use an electric dishwasher as a garbage disposal unit. Yet, the same American people who know so much about tools and the use of tools have completely lost sight of the purpose, object, and use of the tool of government. Government is not now regarded merely as an instrument to restrain men from injuring one another but as a sort of all-purpose around-the-clock device to make men happy and secure from the cradle to the grave. It is this perversion of government that now makes it both ridiculous and corrupt. Government does not create liberty; on the contrary, government is the one persisting danger to human liberty. Forty years ago, Woodrow Wilson said: "The history of Liberty is a history of limitations of governmental powers, not the increase of it. When we resist, therefore, the concentration of power, we are resisting the concentration of power is what always precedes the destruction of human liberties."

"This role of government as the enemy of liberty is well understood by the founding fathers of the Republic. They wished government to have sufficient power to 'restrain men from injuring one another.' But beyond that, they tied it down securely with constitutional limitations, separation of powers, bills of rights, and other legal barriers and barbed wire entanglements. When somebody asked James Madison, the father of the Constitution, how such a crippled and restricted government could be expected to function, he replied: 'But what is government itself but the greatest of all reflections on human nature? If men were angels, no government would be necessary.' And he further stated that our government is based on 'the capacity of mankind for self-government'—in other words, upon the ability of each man to control and govern himself according to the commandments of his Creator. As men lose the power and the desire for self-control and self-reliance under God, government moves in to take up the slack. One hundred years before the Declaration of Independence was written, William Penn anticipated the foregoing conclusions of the founding fathers when he said that the people who will not be governed by God will be ruled by tyrants. This was true in Penn's time, and it is true in our own time. The growth of government evidences the shrinkage of the American people in their capacity and in their desire to control and govern themselves.

"A swelling is one of the infallible signs of a sickness underneath, and the swelling of government in America today merely evidences the moral sickness of the people under it. Big government is for little people. The better the people, the less necessity there is for government. This simple, vicious relationship between the citizen and the government is obscured today in the fog of our confused political councils. It is unfortunate that we regard the growth of government as 'progressive liberalism' and the democratic process. This is the great error that has fabricated the fog which causes our confusion. This is the error that interrupts the peaceful process of American production and confounds our purpose in fighting the Communists at home and abroad.

"We cannot defeat communism abroad by the simple device of giving government more and more power at home. Remember that communism is merely the climax of despotic governmental power; and as the concentration of the powers of our own government becomes greater and greater, we rapidly take on the likeness of the enemy we are trying to defeat. In this process, we are not defeating communism; we are rather surrendering to it. 'Government is no longer contained behind the walls of the Constitution. It roams where it pleases, throughout every walk of life and throughout every department of business. From workers to wages to materials to products, the government is everywhere. We no longer have a government of laws; we have government by 100,000 ruling-all-powerful agents of government. In sheer desperation, the American citizen now tries to appease these representatives of government with bribes and corruption. Governmental corruption is not the fault of the administration nor of any man nor group of men in government. Governmental corruption is the necessary consequence of the unreasonable, unconstitutional, and scandalous concentration of power which Woodrow Wilson warned us about 40 years ago. Unless this scandalous concentration of power is dissolved, corruption will not only continue, it will grow worse—and this regardless of the political complexion or personal honesty of the president of the United States."

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON
Every now and then it is a good thing to hang up the motley of Broadway and get into a suit fit to wear inside the Met's Golden Horseshoe, which is a piece of architecture and not at all what it has sounded like to me since 1924, which is the first time I ever saw it, sat in it or gandered at it, and if Rudolph Bing has all his buttons, she will be there before very long. The girl's name is Dolores Wilson.

Dolores Wilson is not an ideal name for an operatic singer and the Italianate of perfectly good American names. Tenors now come right out and admit they are from 47th Street, complete with Ohio accent and you do not even need to change a ballet dancer from Mark Platt to Marc Platov, which happened to a friend of mine. So by the time Miss Wilson suits earning opera honors in Europe, which she is, she probably will go on the 40th Street high canary roster as plain Dolores Wilson. Except that she isn't plain.

Dolores, postcard pretty as they would say in TIME magazine, set out from Philadelphia to Europe two years ago and at the time I was nursing two things, one of which was a cold. I didn't feel like passing on to a traveling soprano and the other was a hunch that Miss Wilson was going to have a rough and rugged time piecing the walls of operatic Italy. So I didn't go down to the boat to wish her off to Better Things. As it turned out I was wrong on both counts: she had a cold, anyway, and she hasn't three times, dear sir, this Philadelphia boblink was—chosen—that is the word, maestro, chosen—above all contending soprani: Italian, French and, probably, Spanish.

It is not necessary to cozen Mr. Bing, who runs the Met in New York and runs it well. He knows as well as I do that Dolores is tumbling the opera fans out of the balcony. They scream and yell and because he has scouts all over Europe, spying for him I'm certain that he has a nice fat dossier on Miss Wilson and must, by now, realize that this American girl is exceedingly hot operatic material.

National Whirligig... Study Discloses Congress Has Lost Control Of Public Funds

By RAY TUCKER
WASHINGTON — Such technical terms as "re-examination" and "de-authorization" will become increasingly familiar to Congress and the American people under the Eisenhower administration's plan to cut federal expenditures by $10 billion for fiscal 1954 and an additional $10 billion in the following year.

Such economies in the swollen budgets of recent years may permit a possible reduction of 10 or 12 per cent from the current peak rates, which now produce a revenue of almost $70 billion annually. The transfer of this amount from the tax collector's till to consumers

CONTROL LOST — Several Capitol Hill committees have been studying federal finances in executive sessions during the summer. Their surveys show that Congress has lost complete control of public monies because it has been giving a blank check for long-range periods to downtown spenders, and then forgotten about and failed to police the handout branch of the government.

UNEXPENDED BILLIONS — The military, for instance, now has an unexpended balance of almost $60 billion, and President Truman is expected to ask for another $40 billion for the 1954 fiscal year, which ends on June 30 of that year. The total will represent funds allocated over a 3-year period.

CONDITIONS DENOUNCED — Senate Bridges of New Hampshire has promised an inquiry and report that may disclose what he regards as "scandalous conditions." Since he may be Senate majority leader, and will also have his choice of chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee, he has first presented their requests for funds. There has been an era of blind appropriating and blind spending at both ends.

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

WE HAVE JUST conferred via phone with Ernie Brock, chairman of the drive to transfer the Oiler franchise to Plainview, and Mr. Brock seems optimistic that the drive will be successful.

But the Plainview boosters still have a long way to go before reaching their goal. Yesterday's count had totalled $45,000, according to Brock and their goal is $80,000.

The goal was first set at $100,000, but Brock said it was lowered because the land where the park would be built came much cheaper than expected.

Brock said about 150 fans had subscribed for stock in the club that is selling for $50 per share. A two-hour radio appeal by the Plainview station netted $10,000 Monday night that brought their amount raised above the $40,000 mark.

"We're after the 'big boys' now," Brock told us yesterday. "We have gotten most of the 'little fellows' in on the proposition toward buying the club and with the short time that is left to reach the goal, we've got to have some big buyers," Brock pointed out.

Here at home we also talked with Oiler owner Doug Mills and he is holding "tight" until the Plainview drive has been completed. Mills has given the Plainview fans until Dec. 1 to raise the cash to buy the club.

When we asked him what his next step if the Plainview drive fails, he said "I'll keep the club here in Pampa for at least one more year." If the latter happens, we feel if the Oiler club will get behind the Oiler next summer and make it a paying proposition. But we may not get that next year.

We can certainly see Mills' side of the situation and if he has a chance to buy the club in a steady of gambling on making a go of it here like he has done the past three years, we doubt if anyone would blame him. The way it looks like now, the Plainview drive is going to fall short of the goal but there's always a chance for some "big wheel" to step in and save the day.

Here's hoping Pampa fans will get one more chance to prove they can support professional baseball.

THE HARVESTERS' NON-DISTRICT opponents have done right well in their own district this season. The Harvesters met three non-loop foes and two have already won their district titles and the third will likely gain that honor this week.

The mighty Demons of Duncan, Oklahoma, have rolled merrily along since meeting the Harvesters, just like they had done before meeting the Green and Gold. You'll recall the Oklahoma came to Pampa boasting of a 15-game win streak and determined to beat the Harvesters only to drop a crushing 32-12 decision.

Well the Demons haven't lost a game since then and finished their regular schedule last week with a 26-14 win over Ardmore, giving them their district title. They will enter the state playoffs this week. Their season record is 10-1.

The other non-district foe who has already nailed down their district flag is Austin of El Paso whom the Harvesters defeated, 37-27, in the season opener. Austin won the 2-AAAA title and next week meets Lubbock in his district.

Vernon, the other non-conference foe met by the Harvesters, sure Pampa fans will get a week by defeating Lamesa and the Lions are heavily favored to do just that. Pampa downed Vernon, 44-21.

So, it looks like Coach Tom Tipps of the Pampa high school has a chance to arrange the Harvesters' pre-conference schedule.

ATTACKERS—Halfback Frank Brady, left, is one of the big guns Navy will uncoil against Army in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, Nov. 29. Quarterback Jimmy Lear, center, whose passing snapped Maryland's streak, again will pitch for Mississippi against Mississippi State at Oxford. Halfback Jim Sears will continue going both ways for Southern California at Notre Dame. (NEA)

12 Seniors To Play Irish Aims Last Game For PHS At Upset Over Trojans

Twelve seniors will be playing their final game for the fighting Pampa Harvesters Thursday afternoon when the Harvesters host the Borger Bulldogs in the season windup for both teams.

Five of the seniors are backs and seven are linemen. The backs will be David Enloe, Reggie Mayo, Jim Keel, Joe Tynes and Paul Radcliff. The forward wall graduates are Jimmy Martindale and Lee Fraser, ends; Buddy Cockrell and Richard Qualls, tackles; Bill Phippen and Jack Traywick, guards; and Tommy Sells, center.

One of the seniors, Cockrell, will likely miss the final because of injury. Cockrell received a severe ankle sprain in the San Angelo game last week and will not be ready to go tomorrow against the Bulldogs.

The Harvesters were driven indoors for the second straight day yesterday due to the heavy snow that blanketed their practice field. Weather permitting, the Harvesters may take a light outdoor drill today which will be their last drill of the year.

In the series dating back to 1922, the Harvesters hold a wide edge in the 18 games played with Borger. The Pampans have won 15, lost one and tied two with the Bulldogs. The Harvesters have scored 459 points to 125 for the Bulldogs. Borger's lone win was in 1946 when the Bulldogs romped to a 24-7 victory. The two ties came in 1940-18-18; and 1948-14-14.

Pampa won last year's contest, 26-13. Borger, at times this year, has shown plenty of strength and Coach Tom Tipps is warning his Harvesters charges that the Bulldogs can't be taken lightly.

The Bulldogs were all square with the mighty Lubbock Westerners at halftime—13-13—before finally bowing, 32-20. Besides the Westerners' 7-0 win over Odessa, that 12 point loss to the Bulldogs was the closest difference that Lubbock has been in to this year. Lubbock defeated the Harvesters by 13-points, 20-7.

Following is the year-by-year scores between the Harvesters and Bulldogs:

1922—Pampa 10, Borger 0
1923—Pampa 25, Borger 6
1924—Pampa 27, Borger 7
1925—Pampa 21, Borger 0
1926—Pampa 13, Borger 6
1927—No game
1928—Pampa 7, Borger 6
1929—Pampa 21, Borger 0
1930—Pampa 18, Borger 0
1931—Pampa 46, Borger 12
1932—Pampa 14, Borger 6
1933—No game
1934—Pampa 39, Borger 7
1935—Pampa 33, Borger 0
1936—Pampa 7, Borger 34
1937—Pampa 21, Borger 12
1938—Pampa 14, Borger 14 (tie)
1939—Pampa 14, Borger 7
1940—Pampa 71, Borger 6
1941—Pampa 26, Borger 13
1942—Pampa ??, Borger ?

Charles Fights Bivins Tonight
CHICAGO (AP)—Ezzard Charles, who says he has forsaken his Little Lord Fauntleroy contour in the ring and now is like a dead-end kid, will try to smash veteran Jimmy Bivins into oblivion tonight at Chicago Stadium.

Their scheduled 10-rounder will be televised nationally 9 p.m. CST but about only 4,000 customers will be at ringside to see if Charles, the ex-heavyweight champion, keeps his promise.

Charles at one point of his boxing career was recognized as quite a chiller, having scored 42 knockouts. But then he decided on a good defense is better than a good offense and promptly lost his title to Jersey Joe Walcott. Now he appears to be returning to the killer type of fighter who seems to delight the fans.

Tom Tamm, co-manager of Charles, says his tiger is "a much better fighter now than when he won the title."

Football Rough Enough As It Is Without Helmet-Block--HR

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor DALLAS (AP)—If something hasn't done about this helmet or "butt" block in which a player ducks his head and uses his hard plastic headgear to stop an opponent—sometimes with devastating effects—it is reasonable to believe football games will resemble a flock of billy goats—they'll merely be butting contests.

There is nothing illegal about the helmet-block—now. But anything that causes serious injury, if that be true then why should it be illegal? Why should a player use the risk of injury?

Football is a rough game. There are enough ways for a fellow to get hurt without adding one that comes from the equipment used.

Baylor has been the center of the discussion. Apparently it is the only team employing the butt connection with the Southwest Conference meeting in December.

There are two things that can be done: Cover the top of the plastic headgear with soft material and pass a rule that in the event it is apparent the helmet block is used deliberately to injure that a penalty be assessed. Of course, it will be difficult to determine if the helmet block is used deliberately with intent to commit bodily harm. A player making any kind of block or tackle ducks his head. So it would appear the best way to handle it is to be sure there is soft material on the dome of headgear.

The plastic headgear should not be barred. That is one of the best things that has come along to take the hazard out of football—head injuries now are almost obsolete. Jim Tatum, the talkative Maryland coach who sometimes says things, then cries that he's "misquoted" when they backfire, now can show what he meant by his declaration last summer that the coach at his school was under no pressure—didn't have to win.

Maryland has taken two straight lickings. One of them was caused, so it is said, partially by what Tatum had to say before the game. That was the Mississippi game when Maryland was supposed to wear out the ground with the Rebels. Tatum was quoted by a sports writer as saying, "he would give his reserves a chance as soon as his team had run up a three-touchdown lead. The quote was used by Coach Johnny Vaught of Mississippi to fire his team up. Mississippi beat Maryland in a jarring upset.

Texas, SMU, Rice Picked in Finals
By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference football race rolls down the last mile in an anti-climax this week. There'll be color and all the trimmings in the Southwest's greatest rivalry tomorrow at Austin when Texas and Texas A&M meet, but the boys are playing only for the glory of beating an arch enemy.

Saturday, Southern Methodist and Rice will be pushing for second place. SMU can win it by leading Texas Christian at Dallas. Rice can finish in the runner-up spot by defeating Baylor at Waco in the event SMU loses to TCU.

Texas, already the champion, can finish the campaign undefeated in conference play if it wins Texas A&M. But a loss would only take away some of its glitter of being the Cotton-Bowl host team.

Texas, Baylor Favored Texas is a 14-point favorite to beat A&M. Southern Methodist is given a six-point edge over Texas Christian and Baylor the same over Rice.

There appears no way one could figure that A&M has a chance against Texas. The Longhorns beat everybody that beat or tied A&M, have the conference's offensive and defensive record, the three leading ballcarriers, the 9.1 passer — if A&M wins that game it will go down as probably the greatest upset in history.

Baylor and Rice appear as close to being equal as any teams ever did. Baylor, which has gained almost as much publicity this season with its "helmet blocking" as its generally fine play, has been double tough for everybody. Rice, however, is staging a typical November stretch drive and looks like the best bet.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice had some comments to make about Baylor's helmet blocking which got it in bad with Texas and Southern Methodist. Where the officials and other coaches say helmet blocking is legal, Neely makes this observation: "It comes under the head of unnecessary roughness and a vowel found guilty of that should be put-out of the game."

This is the last go-round in "experiencing" this college football season: Texas-Texas A&M — 'R'll be a bitter struggle but the Aggies only don't have the guns but are short of ammunition: Texas by two touchdowns.

Baylor-Rice — Rice is moving a little late perhaps but just at the right time to beat Baylor: Rice by a touchdown. Southern Methodist-Texas Christian — Either one would be a good choice but we'll take SMU by a whisker.

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP)—Sam Snead, his putter still his best friend, won the Julius Boros Open and its $1,000 top money yesterday. He had to come from behind to get a one-stroke edge over Doug Ford over the 54-hole route at the Mid Pines Club course.

Sammy saw a five-stroke 36-hole lead melt in the face of the determined play of Ford. Snead had to birdie the 14th and 15th holes to get back even par for the day and post a 207 score for the 54 holes.

Ford had a sizzling outgoing 31, but fell off to 37 on the back nine for a 68, making his total 208. He pocketed $750.

Other top scorers included Pete Fioming, St. Andrews, Ill., whose par 72 gave him a third place tie with Lou Barbero, Deal, N. J.,

Claassen Picks Steers Over Aggies; Irish Over Trojans

By HAROLD CLAASSEN NEW YORK (AP)—Making the final college football picks of the season while surrounded by turkey feathers. The feathers effectively hide last week's record of 33 correct and eight incorrect choices for an average of .790.

Navy over Army: The Cadets are vastly improved over last year. In fact they are much better than the Army team which started the present season. However, Navy's defensive unit is the best to represent the sailors in recent years—and you can't lose if you can keep the other team from scoring. This game is your TV tidbit Saturday afternoon.

Notre Dame over Southern California Saturday: Figuring that the Trojans were at their best last Saturday when they got by UCLA and gained the Rose Bowl assignment. Also, the Irish apparently have cured their fumbling habits.

Pennsylvania over Cornell Thursday: The Quakers need this decision to keep Coach George Munger from having the first losing season in his long stay at Pennsylvania. Tennessee over Vanderbilt Saturday: It is Vanderbilt's turn to win this traditional contest but the Vols' tie with Kentucky last Saturday has awakened the team.

Texas over Texas A&M Thursday: Only Notre Dame and Okla-

Texas, SMU, Rice Picked in Finals

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Editor DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference football race rolls down the last mile in an anti-climax this week. There'll be color and all the trimmings in the Southwest's greatest rivalry tomorrow at Austin when Texas and Texas A&M meet, but the boys are playing only for the glory of beating an arch enemy.

Saturday, Southern Methodist and Rice will be pushing for second place. SMU can win it by leading Texas Christian at Dallas. Rice can finish in the runner-up spot by defeating Baylor at Waco in the event SMU loses to TCU.

Texas, already the champion, can finish the campaign undefeated in conference play if it wins Texas A&M. But a loss would only take away some of its glitter of being the Cotton-Bowl host team.

Texas, Baylor Favored Texas is a 14-point favorite to beat A&M. Southern Methodist is given a six-point edge over Texas Christian and Baylor the same over Rice.

There appears no way one could figure that A&M has a chance against Texas. The Longhorns beat everybody that beat or tied A&M, have the conference's offensive and defensive record, the three leading ballcarriers, the 9.1 passer — if A&M wins that game it will go down as probably the greatest upset in history.

Baylor and Rice appear as close to being equal as any teams ever did. Baylor, which has gained almost as much publicity this season with its "helmet blocking" as its generally fine play, has been double tough for everybody. Rice, however, is staging a typical November stretch drive and looks like the best bet.

Coach Jess Neely of Rice had some comments to make about Baylor's helmet blocking which got it in bad with Texas and Southern Methodist. Where the officials and other coaches say helmet blocking is legal, Neely makes this observation: "It comes under the head of unnecessary roughness and a vowel found guilty of that should be put-out of the game."

This is the last go-round in "experiencing" this college football season: Texas-Texas A&M — 'R'll be a bitter struggle but the Aggies only don't have the guns but are short of ammunition: Texas by two touchdowns.

Baylor-Rice — Rice is moving a little late perhaps but just at the right time to beat Baylor: Rice by a touchdown. Southern Methodist-Texas Christian — Either one would be a good choice but we'll take SMU by a whisker.

Ike-HST Meeting Strikes Hank As Being A Little Ridiculous

By HENRY McLEMORE
I was delighted to read that Gen. Eisenhower was briefed on war, money, and diplomatic problems by the present administration. It probably was funnier, that briefing, than anything Martin and Lewis ever did, and should have come close to a Bob Hope show. I wish that the White House had sold tickets, because I would have bought one for the laughs.

I assume that Gen. Vaughan briefed Gen. Ike on things military. That would be a good opening act. Just what did Gen. Vaughan say to Ike?

Asked the man who headed the Normandy invasion how to salute, probably. Or how to stand at attention, or how to inspect a rifle, or what is meant by "marching fire," or if there is any place in the army for a five percent.

Being a dignified man, the President-elect undoubtedly kept a straight face. But no one will ever tell me that when he got home he didn't tell Miss Mamie about Gen. Vaughan briefing him, and they both had a good laugh.

Of course, it is possible that the President briefed Ike. After all, he WAS a captain in the

Boyles Boycott The Blue Book

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — I don't know how your family feels about it, but our family is boycotting the Social Register.

As far as we are concerned, the blue book can go and turn blue.

"As a matter of fact, it has already turned black—with rosy stripes.

The 1952 edition has dropped Winthrop Rockefeller and his wife, Bobo, and to the credit of the "Chin up, kids. Don't let it get you down. Life can still be gay."

Our own family isn't being dropped by the 1952 Social Register. We got darned good and sore at it when we found that there wasn't a single Boyle listed in the 1952 edition.

Fretty Shaken

"I'll admit we Boyles were pretty shaken at first when the 1952 index of the socially acceptable snubbed us altogether. We held a convention. The hoary old patriarch of our tribe, dressed for the occasion in his best Sunday suit, said despairingly:

"Hasn't a single one of us Boyles been caught loafing on the sands at Palm Beach or lifting a pinky at a Newport Tea?"

Well, the awful truth was, none had. We all were gainfully employed.

Then we got to thumbing through the 1952 social register and found it contained two pages of Robinsons, three pages of Johnsons, four pages of Williamses, five pages of Browns and eight pages of Smiths (including five Smythes but no Smythes).

"Why it's simple," said our fine old tribal leader. "Us Boyles have been outvoted by the hot polled. What Boyle wants to be smothered in all those Smiths? Let's stay out of that book altogether."

Only 25 Roosevelts

He pointed out that the blue book was down to 25 Roosevelts, 21 Rockefeller (only 20 now with Winthrop gone), six Astors and five Vanderbilts.

It was explained to him that when a list was caught standing on his head at the Metropolitan Opera, riding a horse into a hotel or marrying somebody from the wrong side of the railroad tracks, he was dropped from the next edition.

"No wonder they are weeding out the fine old American families and getting swamped by Browns and Smiths," said our tribal leader. "If a fellow named Brown is picked up for cop fighting, they probably don't even bother to check their index. But a Vanderbilt? If he gets arrested, they ought to volunteer to go bail for him because he lends class to their book. But instead they just start rubbing his name out."

"That may be high society, but it ain't loyalty — and I say to heck with it."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
The match between England and Ireland in the recent European Bridge Championship provided some interesting and unusual bridge situations.

The East's jump to three diamonds apparently is used by the English to show this type of long suit in an other wise worthless hand. In America this type of bid is used to show a far better suit, although the rest of the hand may be just as worthless.

The Irish South made a fine attempt to climb the hurdle with his ambitious bid of four diamonds. This demanded a takeout by North in one of the unbid suits.

Poor North found himself bidding spades for the first time at the level of four on a three-card suit. When West promptly doubled (and who can blame him), North decided that spades must be the wrong spot.

There was a chance, he thought, that West had opened the bidding on a short club suit, and that the best suit for North and South might be clubs. He therefore ran to five clubs.

From here on, of course, there was no safe contract for Ireland. Five hearts was set two tricks, for a loss of 300 points.

Curiously enough, although the hearts look much stronger than the spades, four hearts cannot be made, but four spades is a cinch.

At spades South can take the heart finesse, draw one trump, and ruff out the king of hearts with one of dummy's low trumps. West will make three trump tricks, but nothing else.

At hearts South had to lose a trick to the king of hearts as well as three spade tricks. Even four hearts would have been set, and five hearts was out of the question.

I wonder how many players would have the nerve to bid four spades with the North hand and then sit tight after a double by West.

Jacoby has written a complete new booklet on POINT COUNT BIDDING for readers of his daily bridge column. You can get your copy by first class mail by sending 25 cents in coin with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby The Pampa News, P.O. Box 483, Times Square Sta., New York 18, N.Y.

It's Going To Cost More To See Ike Inaugurated

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Even the prices of tickets for the President's inauguration parade are going up.

The parade tickets more or less went on sale this week at a price of around a third more than they cost four years ago. People paid from $2 to $10 for a seat to see President Truman ride by. It will cost from around $3 to $15 to watch President Eisenhower.

Most of the increase is due to taxes. Four years ago the parade committee either forgot—or didn't know about—the amusement tax. They later had to cough up 20 per cent of the gross for the tax collector.

15-Year-Old Knew Answer.

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A 15-year-old student knew too many answers in an exam at McKenzie High School here.

Amazed teachers found he was tuned in on a private broadcast from a fellow student, who was standing outside the hall, answer book in hand.

The pair, rating an "A" for radio engineering, used a microphone the size of a tiny wrist watch and speakers so small they could be fastened with adhesive tape to their ears. The midget transmitter and receiver cost about 100 dollars and took three months to build.

School authorities told the boys to take their engineering ingenuity elsewhere next year.

TRANSPORT ARRIVES
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Transport Gen. John Pope arrives today with 3,723 service personnel from the Far East.

One survey reports that 44 elements have been found in sea water.

"But, Susie! All I said on the phone was, 'Let's go out for a coke.'"

Right Out of Santa's Toy Bag

Here are eight good reasons why Christmas is for children—right out of Santa's 1952 toy pack. In big photo, above, a young doll mother feeds her "baby" with the aid of a doll feeding set. Next to her (left to right) are crayons that make a circus zoo; a scale model dump truck, and a cowgirl with cap rifle that makes smoke (she's riding sidewalk bike with outrigger wheels). Across the page at bottom (left to right) are a scale tractor-bulldozer, a seven-way pull toy for toddlers, a glamor doll with fur coat, and an inflated plastic rocket about to be launched by a space-suited lad.

Two teenagers with the same Christmas gift idea in mind—slipper socks—are equally delighted with the gay colors, unusual designs and obvious comfort the socks will provide.

Finding The Right Gifts For Teens Takes Advance Planning

Tiny Toiletries Will Delight The Small Fry

If you are looking for original gifts to delight the small fry in your family on Christmas morning, don't overlook the possibilities of children's toiletries.

Enchantingly packaged, these "grown-up" preparations will cause quite a stir. An added feature, which you needn't mention is that they will also serve as an excellent introduction to good grooming habits.

For the little girl whose fragile beauty is apparent to all, choose a real jewel box lined with toiletries. One most appealing set, complete with brass lock and key and made of simulated shining gold-etched red leather and satin lining, features a wide assortment of preparations.

A powder mitt rests on a swinging tray, and in the compartment below are fragrant toilet water with a delicious woodland scent, a pure castle soap shampoo, and hand lotion that has a rich lanolin base to keep small hands pretty and smooth. All this beauty is economically priced, and the box can be used for the young lady's jewelry after the toiletries are used up.

Since every little girl loves her hair to look shining and smooth, miniature brush and comb set will be a delightful Christmas find. Take your choice of ruby, crystal or sapphire jewelry. Brushes are available in a variety of styles, all of them patterned after regular-size sets.

And don't think the young man of the family has to be overlooked when it comes to cosmetics. Not at all. Some sure-fire Christmas toiletry gifts for young Hopalong can be found in the guise of toys.

Especially designed for junior-grade cowboys is a cardboard replica of a ranch-type wagon with tiny cutout figures of a Wild West boy-and-girl pair driving from the spring seat. The set can be assembled easily by any youngsters and it really rolls to serve as a play cart after the toiletries are unloaded.

For cargo, you can choose slick-tum for the hair, shampoo, bubble bath and a novelty soap in any two, three or four-item combinations. The soap is a cowboy figure carved out of castile, and is guaranteed to take the reluctance out of daily scrubbing. The other good groomers come in cowboy-decorated plastic bottles that hold no hazard for young hands.

The collections of children's toiletries are versatile and available in a wide price range. Like Christmas trees, candy canes and sugar plums, they are designed to excite the fancies of the young and help them to remember the holiday season for a long, long time.

Finding just the right gifts for your teen-age friends requires some advance planning.

Since price is no doubt an object, you should make a tour of the stores and see what is being shown and approximately how much money you will need.

To get you started along the right track, here are some suggestions which may fill the bill.

Any one of your girl friends will be overjoyed with a scarf or necklace. One lavish scarf features squares of antique automobile motifs, the heraldic neckpiece is certain to be a conversation piece wherever she goes.

If you are feeling particularly generous, combine the scarf with a handsome gold heraldic necklace. Fore-runner of coming Coronation motifs, the heraldic neckpiece is wrought with all skill and workmanship of a royal court jeweler. Both of these gifts are priced amazingly low, and will surely fit your budget.

Ideal Christmas gifts for friends of both sexes are gaily colored and designed slipper socks. This year you will find new authentic Indian patterns and they are more comfortable than they have ever been before.

For the musically inclined, whether it be your brother, sister or best friend, pick an economically priced ukulele. It is easy to learn how to play, and will offer many hours of fun.

One particularly popular ukulele features nylon strings, a new type of non-slip pegs and solid brass frets.

A happy surprise for every teenager is a camera which has a flash attachment. Brilliant, extra large viewfinder lets you see the picture exactly as you will take it. Lumar lens always in focus and precision shutter give clear, bright pictures in black-and-white or color.

Use your imagination and ingenuity when you Christmas shop. If you do, you will be amazed at what wonderful gifts you can find for everyone on your list.

Gifts Go Places To Please Travelers

Gifts that help traveling are popular with people who are always going places.

Always-useful items such as luggage, folding irons, miniature ironing boards, and padded bottle guards are not exactly new, but still fine gifts for those who don't have them.

You'll find less standard items, too, such as a separate shoe-accessory bag, folding plastic hangers, or a rubber-wheeled skete that straps onto the bottoms of heavy suitcases so that the lady traveler can push, rather than carry them, thus freeing herself from the scramble for porters.

Cobra's the rage this year for gifts of wallets, key cases and compacts for women. It's available in almost every color of the rainbow.

Ladies Invade The Railroads

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

Note to girl career-seekers: Want to be a pioneer and see the world? Then go into the railroad business, young woman.

This seems like a good time for girls to make good in the traditionally male stronghold, because the first and toughest barriers already have been broken by an intrepid and distinguished group of women who now hold down such jobs as vice president, assistant to the president, passenger traffic manager and such on many of the nation's top rail companies.

annual convention of the newly named American Council of Railroad Women at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where I collected some new conceptions of the opportunities for women in this field.

The railroads, you see, are engaged in a valiant fight against the encroaching competition of airlines, buses and private automobiles for the traveler's dollar — and they have realized that they're going to have to use women to win.

The members of the American Council are the real pioneers in the business. They faced shocked incredulity from male co-workers when they first got their railroad jobs.

There's Miss Olive W. Tenniss of Baltimore, for instance, who was one of the country's first women engineers and who has piled up a distinguished record with the Baltimore and Ohio.

Chicago, new president of the council, who occupies the executive job of secretary and assistant treasurer of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad Company and who has spent most of her adult life in railroading.

The Burlington also has Miss Velma McPeck of Chicago as supervisor of passenger service.

Among the younger group of bright young women is Miss Mary E. Buchanan of Los Angeles, who started out in a public relations job for Union Pacific and now has been advanced to a sort of ambassador-at-large for the line, traveling all over the country and drumming up trade and prestige.

Mrs. Ann Stevenson of Washington, D. C., holds the title of assistant to the vice president for the Chesapeake and Ohio. She gets around on every train on the line, smartening up decor and service.

These are just a few of the women who have made names for themselves in a business once considered exclusively a male province.

There are going to be more of them every year because the railroads have discovered that it takes a woman to sell a woman.

To make these handsome Christmas gifts, you need not possess sewing skill. They are easily and quickly put together, using sheeting, terry cloth and huck toweling. Hostess apron (upper left) is made of pastel sheeting, trimmed with ready-made organdy flowers. Place mat (upper center) is cut from sturdy huck toweling, finished with contrasting fringe ends. Sewing bag (upper right) is also huck toweling, contains spool rack bought in a variety store.

Aprons, A Personal Gift Touch, Patterned For Useful Giving

Aprons, as Christmas gifts, are so popular with women as to be almost traditional by now. The ones that are made for the wearer are best, because they combine the personal touch with practicality.

When they're made from cotton feed bags, according to patterns, gift aprons have another asset: they're thrifty. But thrift doesn't mean dullness. Vary the patterns that you use with the needs of your friends and make everyone happy.

For a friend who likes to entertain, a party-time apron will be a welcome gift. A 100-pound feed bag in a soft blue, maroon and white ballet print was chosen for the apron we made. It's easy to do, pretty when it's finished, and big-pocket-provide-contrast and trim.

Another half-apron for a hostess uses a 100-pound print bag and part of a plain bag. Plain fabric is inset in inverted triangles and forms the waistband. Print is a light blue and rust against white, with plain fabric dyed a matching rust.

A practical apron that looks pretty is done in plaid, bound in red tape, given a red patch pocket. Wide shoulder straps criss-cross in back, button in front.

The overall is a handy apron and one that many women pick as the backbone of an apron wardrobe. We made a overall apron in an apple print, gave it an applied pocket, in red, shaped like an apple. A woman wants a real cover-up for kitchen work but she doesn't want it to shout out its practicality.

Another overall apron, which we did in a green-and-white check, overprinted with a rose-and-navy floral design, has princess lines. It's darted, with buttons in back at the upper edge and tip strings for the waistline. Note: To obtain patterns for any of the aprons shown, except No. 5188, send 30 cents in coin, your name, address and the pattern number for each pattern desired to Anne Cabot (The Pampa News, 1150 Avenue of the Americas, New York, 19, New York). Pattern No. 5168 is 25 cents.

Gifts Of Fragrance Sure To Rate With Christmas Belles

A gift of perfume or cologne is a gift that bespeaks your thoughtfulness, and consideration of a woman's femininity!

This year's fragrance collection here is a collection of wonderful excitement. There are gay and lovely containers, beautifully assorted perfume and cologne duos, trios with perfume, cologne, dusting powder, or sachet.

Yes, from all the famous toiletry houses and perfumeries in the world, come a bright assortment of dainty and sultry fragrances.

One popular toiletry house has packaged a wonderful treasury of seven fragrances in one handsome box! Another has four dainty flacons of its fine perfumes at a price far less than you'd pay for just one bottle. Remember to choose floral scents for most feminine types, mixed bouquets for the tailored gal, exotic, heavier blends for ultra sophisticate! And, for the gal, who is a happy combination of all types, and most are — be right with one of the fragrances that combines the woody charm, and pert interest of the andie-woods or spicetoned odours.

Nut bread is wonderful to have in the house! It's good sliced thin and served for a television-time snack. It makes a fine addition with a cream cheese and jelly filling, for a lunch box. It's delicious served with soup and a salad for lunch.

For Father on Christmas Day, there's this personal shaving mug made of pure white imported clay, hand-painted in color and trimmed in gold. Mug comes complete with cake of soap, has other uses when soap is gone.

Santa Has Many Gadgets For Men

American men are collectors. They collect gadgets, they collect Americana. For Christmas this year, then, you'll delight them and ease your shopping tasks if you simply add to these collections.

Back in the 1800's, nearly every man owned his personal shaving mug. It was kept on a shelf at the barbershop and, as identification, bore his name in gold script along with hand-painted symbols that indicated his profession or trade.

These mugs have long since disappeared from the American scene, to the extent that those still in existence bring very high prices. But just in time for Christmas giving are a whole series of authentic copies, made of pure white clay imported from England. Each is hand-painted, in colors and gold. Each holds a flat cake of shaving soap. When the soap is gone, the mug can be used for ivy, for soft drinks, coffee, sugar, mustard or relish.

In the inexpensive gadget department, there are lots of small things to delight the heart of a collector. You might start with a new aid to metered parking that's made in lustrous, shatter-proof plastic. Circular in shape and water-tight, it holds two nickels and a penny in notched-out slots. Reverse it and there's a clock face, with adjustable hands, to remind the motorist of his parking time. There's a key chain attached.

Gas Lighter Is Rugged A new flare lighter that uses butane gas will operate for months on one refill and uses no wick. The light-weight plastic case will take rough handling, is molded in alligator leather pattern.

A quick, clean method of applying shaving lather is made possible by a new gadget that screws onto the top of a tube of shaving cream, replacing the regular cap. The gadget holds a small sponge. The user squeezes the tube, forcing the cream in to the sponge. Then he moistens

Christmas Wreaths Are Easy To Make

There is true economy and lots of fun in making your own Christmas wreaths — and the job isn't a difficult one at all. Perhaps the easiest method is to bend a wire coat hanger so that it forms a circle, then wrap it, handle and all, with laurel or holly.

If it's a wreath that you plan to hang on the front door, use bright red ribbon for the bow, as ribbon is likely to be ruined by snow and rain. String a few small bells on the wreath, so that every time the door is opened the wreath will tinkle a greeting.

Pack Gifts In Popcorn When sending packages of perishable food through the mail, pack them with popcorn or peanuts in the shell. These are light in weight, will prevent rattling, and can also be eaten and enjoyed by the recipient.

Designed For Christmas Belles

Many women, feeling that the Christmas season calls for something special in the way of personal adornment, are discouraged when a trek through the shops produces nothing more exciting than some colored pine cones or a cluster of holly berries. The answer is to make your own.

Patricia Easterbrook Roberts, well-known New York floral designer, offers these suggestions for those who wish to add a sparkle both to their appearance and to party prattle.

A decided conversation piece is a hubble crown which bestows regality upon its wearer at pin money cost. All that's needed to create this gleaming magnificence is a handful of Christmas tree balls — the kind with self-stems and a half-dozen pipe cleaners.

Silver pipe cleaners, which catch the eye with a tinsely glitter, are available at your florist. Twist these into a circle to fit the crown of your head, then loop on additional cleaners to form pegs for the silver balls. Attach the ornaments, and then you're all set to be the most brilliant Christmas belle at the ball.

Christmas Table Is High Spot Of Year

It's the high spot of the year — the long-awaited traditional Christmas feast!

Naturally you want your table to be a lovely and holiday-bright background for this wonderful dinner that brings your family and Yuletide guests together to celebrate.

It's fun to mix gay, colorful Christmas decorations with the sparkle of your finest china and glassware.

You can make your table decorations fun or formal to suit the mood of your dinner. On the fun side, you can use a sleigh full of tiny wrapped Christmas packages as a centerpiece. To make the sleigh, use a white shoe box and cut the sides in the lines of a hill ones are twined together.

The body under the feet of the gossamer insect are made of red pipe cleaners, which are looped under at the bottom to form little hooks for securing the butterflies to your shippers.

A Juliet cap is an accessory that's sure to create a stir of admiration at teen age holiday festivities. Pipe cleaners are again the heroes of the tale.

Green metallic and white chenille ones are twined together to form a circle to fit the head. and to serve as cross bars from ear to ear and from front to back. Little white straw flowers, tucked on around the circle and at the peak of the cap, give a translucent delicacy to the design.

Silver-plated gravy boat and tray make gift that will last for years. Servers are in same design to make completely coordinated set.

Silver Makes A Regal Gift

Silver is a coveted gift at any time. Its attractive to look table, any room. And it is some at, it's durable, it brightens any how especially pretty and shiny when it's lifted from gay wrappings and ribbon on Christmas morning.

Silver, though lovely, needn't be costly. If it's a fine sterling unalloy silverplate, it will look well, and wear well, for many years.

A versatile gravy boat and tray with matching servers, for instance, makes a silver gift that's smartly coordinated and yet budget-priced. The gravy boat can hold sauce as well as gravy.

For another gift that will make a dazzling appearance for a pitance, you might try tying a dozen after-dinner coffee spoons to the branches of a miniature spruce tree with bits of red ribbon.

This, by the way, makes a gift that's good for the career girl, the young married couple, or the older married couple.

In fact, it's a gift ideal for practically anyone but a small child. And children have their own silver gifts. One set is made up of a tiny fork and spoon set into slots in the wings of a brightly-colored small plastic duck. Fork and spoon are designed for good balance and easy use by small hands. Both come in patterns to match adult silverplate.

Almost any household would welcome a pair of tall, slim table lighters in period styling. Use full any place in the house, they're particularly right on the dining room table. It doesn't matter if no one in the house smokes since undoubtedly there are guests who do.

A Veritable Toy Wonderland Shown For Kids This Year

From Santa's workshop to the under-the-tree excitement of Christmas morning, come a host of wonderful toys for boys and girls of all ages!

There are toys, games and wearables for young cowboys and inter-planetary adventures!

Chaps, guns, hats, "real" Western shirts and ride 'em cowboy-hobby horses to thrill all the "Top-Along-Tagalongs".

Influenced by Space Patrol, Buck Rogers and all the other outer-space heroes and tales of T.V. and comic books, come a host of space helmets, "ray-guns," "official" uniforms, "gravity belts" and others.

This Christmas, let your clever table decorations set a gala mood. Entire Western villages, inter-

Holiday Spirit Means A Home In Gay Decor

The home that's gaily decorated for the holidays is the home that truly expresses the Christmas spirit! Imaginative decorations will heighten your holiday mood and lend a festive air to your Yuletide entertaining.

It is extra fun when the Christmas decorating becomes a family project. Many, many clever things can be made at home and pride in the decorations will soar!

Collecting evergreen boughs and red Christmas berries for your home decorating can be a gay expedition that will become a traditional holiday occasion for the family.

There are dozens and dozens of decorating ideas that you can adopt for your home. They may be simple and dignified or gay and elaborate, depending upon your taste.

Of course, the focal point of your decorations for the holiday season will be the gaily decked Christmas tree! The trimming of the tree differs with every family and usually is handed down as one of the cherished traditions of the family. So let your memories and your preference determine how you shall trim your tree.

planetary communities, gas stations, farms, ranches and others — can be set up on a table top, complete with buildings and all!

Young craftsmen, can experiment with chemistry . . . build workable airplane, auto and boat models . . . enjoy woodcraft . . . leather tooling . . . plastics making, and others.

Use plastic and metal model toys that are tractors, dump trucks, road scrapers, tow cars and racers. These can be towed or pushed by hand . . . operated by battery . . . powered by fuel and are guaranteed to give any action-minded youngster hours of fun!

The newest trains bow authentic whistles . . . and are powered for real action. They can be accessorized with everything from a road gang to animated station (complete with waiting passengers).

Of course, no boys' list of toys would be complete without a round-up of wheel toys: bikes, trikes and others . . . sporting goods: bats, balls, basketballs, footballs, archery sets, and so on down the line — something for every young athlete.

The girls are not forgotten this year for there's everything to make "little women" as happy as can be.

DOLLS . . . DOLLS . . . DOLLS

They walk, they talk, they drink milk and water; they wet their dities, they cry real tears. Their outfits are as gay and lovely as the world's finest designers can make them. Their hair can be curled, tinted and some even carry their own chignon!

Little ladies will be enthralled with real electric irons, miniature replicas of all the kitchen-ware; laundry equipment, toy cutlery, cook and bake sets and other domestic toys!

There's everything from traditional to modern in the way of doll furniture.

Boys and girls, both — no matter what their age — will find enjoyment in a gay book — picture puzzles — games — musical toys — and the many other gift items to be found in all the toylands 'round town.

Decorating your front door is a wonderful way of giving your guests and passers-by a gay holiday greeting. You can let your imagination run riot in this phase of your Christmas decor.

But be sure your decoration is in keeping with the style of your entrance.

Try hanging a festoon of evergreen boughs decorated with Christmas tree ornaments over your doorway.

Or, outline your front door with Christmas green and trim with colorful tree lights. To do this, tack chicken wire about 12 inches wide all around the door and tuck the evergreen boughs into the wire. A Christmas wreath hung on your door completes this decoration effectively.

Fashion a huge Christmas card out of cardboard that bears the message "Merry Christmas" in large letters. Tack it on your front door for a cheery holiday greeting to all.

A bough of evergreens accented with red Christmas berries and tied with a huge red bow adds a striking note to your front door.

It's fun to make your own Christmas wreath. Use an ordinary wire coat hanger as the frame and wire greens and berries to it. Finish it with a perky red bow.

There are innumerable merry ideas for Merry Christmas decorating inside the house!

Dramatize your mantel with holiday-bright red candles, either huge round ones or tall and graceful tapers, amidst a mass of Christmas greenery. Or create a base for your candles with a group of colorful ornaments placed around each candle.

Christmas Shopping For Men

Women, shopping for Christmas gifts for men, find the job just as puzzling as do men, shopping for women. One temptation is to buy a man a half dozen shirts just because they happen to need them. Another temptation is to come buy a man a gift that he'll like right out and ask the man what that will surprise him and at a when powder is gone. Butane lighter (upper right center) gives two thousand lights before it needs cartridge refill. Shirt (lower right center) in all-viscose rayon tartan clan plaid comes clean in washing machine. Scottish cashmere jacket (right) with deep pockets is worn over pure wool cashmere sportshirt in Glen Urquhart plaid. Wool sportshirt can be washed by hand.

Need Not Be a Puzzling Chore

price that isn't staggering. Most men use, or would like to use, after-shave talc. When talc comes packaged in a black boot topped by a tan suede cuff, you've got a gift with originality. The boot can hold pencils or cigarettes when it's empty, making it twice as useful. The house that makes it also packages a fine shaving soap in a flat horseshoe-shaped clear glass container that's grooved ready for new use as an ash tray. For the man who travels a lot, there's a new travel kit in a woven plaid that holds six unbreakable squeeze bottles, containing shave lotion, talc, cologne, spray deodorant, brushless shave cream and hairbrushing. And there's plenty of room for a razor, toothbrush and other essentials. A lighter is always a good gift for a man. When it's a butane lighter that boasts a disposable butane cartridge good for more than two thousand lights, it's a Merry Christmas indeed. Two cartridges last the average smoker a year, and the lighter comes in satin-finished chrome or in gold or silver plate. Getting back to this matter of shirts, they're fine Christmas gifts when they're not run-of-the-mill. No man ever has enough, just as no woman ever has enough hats. An authentic clan tartan pattern in all-viscose rayon that's completely washable makes the ideal gift shirt. It comes in plaids of the Mac-Cleod, MacPherson and Gordon clans, and can be laundered in the washing machine. Another shirt that's a good gift possibility is a Glen Urquhart plaid in pure wool cashmere that's washable, but not in the machine. This one has to be done by hand. The sports coats that go over these shirts might be in Scotland's cashmere, but deep pockets are for pipe. Another good choice

Poor Timing Of Truce Veto A Serious Blunder For Russ

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Foreign News Analyst

The timing of Moscow's rejection of India's compromise proposal for a Korean truce may go down in history as a serious Soviet blunder. But the Kremlin probably considered itself forced into the hasty rejection. The Soviet move could have been predicted with confidence—but not the time element. There is no question Moscow dictated the orders hurriedly. Satellite Poland's delegate suddenly called off his plans to speak on the proposal Monday. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky wanted to speak, and in a hurry. What Vishinsky had to say indicated several things:

1. The USSR is not interested in peace in Korea but simply in talking about it.
2. Moscow did not believe there was a real British-American split over the Indian proposal.
3. Moscow has tightened the screws on the Communist Chinese and is dictating to Peiping on every step of the Korean discussions. This impression grows with the continuing heavy burden of the Korean War, differences between the Chinese Communists and their Russian allies have been coming more to the fore.

illuminate the whole Soviet maneuver which began in the summer of 1951 with the Moscow proposals purportedly looking toward an armistice. It indicates that having gambled desperately and unsuccessfully to secure the whole Korean Peninsula for the USSR, the Russians intended to perpetuate a stalemate costing Moscow little and United States a great deal. It could also serve as a constant irritant in the relations among the free nations allied in the defense of South Korea.

The surprise came with the haste of Moscow's rejection of India's proposal. This suggests that Moscow suspected the British and Americans of cooking up the appearance of a deep split to maneuver the USSR into an untenable position. But it suggests something more important. Ordinarily, Moscow would have revealed in the prospect of a widening split in British-American relations and would have done all possible to fan it.

However, Moscow believed it had to act swiftly. There seems only one answer to this. That is, that the Indians, before going ahead with their proposal, had some sort of green light from the Peiping regime. Possibly, the Communist Chinese actually do want to get out from under the awful cost of the Korean War by any face saving device available.

Vishinsky, thus, apparently has given a firm "no" to Peiping. In so doing, he has depressed and outraged the Indians and other Asians who appeared to have pinned great hopes on the proposal. He has also, automatically, healed the British-American differences brought on by the Indian proposal.

There is no quick way of gauging Peiping's disappointment. But the Soviet action may be one more straw on the camel's back.

New Ideas In Books To Thrill Children

New ideas in children's books for 1952 Christmas giving feature play activities, among other things. "American Heroes," for example, has a variety of illustrative stamps to be pasted in appropriate parts of the text, encouraging careful reading as well as giving extra play value. Flags of the UN appear in another activity book with a variety of stamps for pasting. There's even a new idea in the classic crayon-book combination, called "My Circus Zoo," which uses crayons as removable cage bars covering the animal pictures to be colored.

Celery seed is a delicious addition to the dressing used for potato salad.

Treats Revive Old Yuletide Memories

Our Uncle Dick was always the Santa Claus. That was in the days of red candles burning on the tree (with buckets of water standing near by in case of trouble) and special gingerbread men with silly faces baked for each child in the family.

Uncle Dick was tall and heavy and sometimes laughed so violently Aunt Kitty would put her foot down. The women of the family would dress him up in a bright red suit with cotton trim and a cap with a bell on it and grandfather's rubber boots.

First, he would solemnly give each of us our gingerbread man. Then he roared "Merry Christmas to all" and swung open his pillowcase bag and gave us our presents.

I can still actually remember how my mother's gingerbread men smelled and tasted. But the recipe in her frayed note book is a little confused. Mother was more affectionate than literal. So I've asked Aveline Day, a noted home economist, to put the family recipe into more reliable terms.

GINGERBREAD MEN
(12 gingerbread men, 6 1-2 inches tall)

Four cups sifted enriched flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons ginger, 1 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup unsphured molasses.

Sift together first 3 ingredients. Melt shortening in a saucepan large enough for mixing dough. Add sugar and molasses; mix well. Gradually stir in the flour mixture. Roll dough 1/8 inch thick on lightly floured cookie sheet, having waxed paper between dough and rolling pin. (Do not use flour for rolling). Place a damp towel on table underneath cookie sheet to prevent pan from sliding.

Cut a pattern out of brown paper, having men stand singly or holding hands, whichever you prefer. Place it on the dough. Cut through the dough around the pattern with a pointed knife. Bake cookies with excess dough intact so that they will be more nicely shaped. Bake 12 minutes or until edges have slightly browned in a preheated, moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Quickly retrace lines with a pointed knife to separate gingerbread men from excess parts. Do not remove cookies from pan until cold.

Make faces on gingerbread men with icing. If these cookies are to stand upright, they must be reinforced with a piece of brown paper cut to size and shape of cookies and pasted to the back with icing.

Attach an easel (1 inch by 4 inches), made of cardboard or from baked excess cookie dough, to the back of each cookie. Bake a cookie strip 3 inches by 13 inches on which to stand the gingerbread men hold in place with icing. These gingerbread men are attractive to use as Christmas decorations on the buffet or table. To eat cookies, peel the paper from the backs.

ICING
One egg white, 1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon water, 1-2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar.

Beat the first three ingredients together until frothy. Gradually beat in confectioners' sugar until the mixture is stiff enough to stand in peaks. Mix frosting just before using and keep the bowl covered with damp cloth to prevent it from drying.

Puritans Bitterly Opposed Yuletide

In the early Puritan days of New England, Christmas was a celebration to frown upon, rather than to celebrate.

There was even a law passed in 1659 in Massachusetts that set a five-shilling fine for "observing any such day as Christmas, or the like, either by fire-bearing of labor, or feasting in any other way."

The law stayed on the books for 22 years, but eventually the spirit of Christmas overcame the attitude of the Puritans, who had regarded the gayety of Christmas as frivolous excitement. It became a legal holiday late in the first half of the 19th Century.

China Counts Its Insects

HONG KONG (AP) — Somebody in Red China has been counting insects.

A report from Peiping says 18 1-2 billion flies and mosquitoes were "wiped out" during the first half of 1952. The statistics were submitted to the Government Administration Council on the Patriotic Health Campaign.

It didn't say how or by whom the count was made.

Father Makes Sure Youngsters Know Him

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Capt. Pete J. Messina, just back from a 14-month tour of Army duty in Korea, solved the problem of not having his youngsters forget their daddy.

While he was away, Messina sent his wife one or two reels of home movies a month in which he was the principal actor.

When Capt. Messina entered the house his daughters, Rosalie, 4, and Elizabeth Ann, 3, rushed up with open arms crying:

"This is our daddy!"

Bath Pillow Different

For someone who likes to soak in the tub and relax, a bath pillow of quilted rubber is a different gift. It attaches to the tub with suction cups and provides a comfortable cushion.

END SCHOOLBOY CAREERS — The above Pampa Harvester will close out their careers as high school footballers today when the Green and Gold take on the Borger Bulldogs at Harvester Park. The Harvesters will be seeking their eighth win of the year in 10 starts. Three of the seniors served as tri-captains for the '32 Harvesters. They were Buddy Cockrell, Tommy Sells and Bill Pippen. Cockrell, however, will miss today's game due to an injury received in the San Angelo game last week. Cockrell is the only two-year letterman on the squad. All other seniors will see action today.

The Giants of 1923 were the only club in National League history to hold first place from the opening day of a season through to the finish.

The Brooklyn Dodgers' widest margin in the '32 race was 10 1/2 games. The Brooks never further than 2 1/2 games off the pace. They trailed the Giants by that margin on May 28.

Fighting Harvesters End Grid Season Here Today

Tilt To Be Last For 12 Harvester Seniors

The curtain will fall on the 1952 football season for the Pampa Harvesters and the Borger Bulldogs this afternoon when the two arch rivals clash at Harvester Park.

Kickoff time will be 2 p. m. It will be the 19th meeting between the two schools and the Harvesters hold a wide edge in the series, winning 15, losing one and tying two of the previous 18 engagements.

But almost every game has been hotly contested and today's contest will be no exception.

The Harvesters, by virtue of their season record of 7-2 as compared against Borger's 3-6, will rate the favorites nod in today's battle. However, the Bulldogs have turned in some good performances this year and could make it rough for the Green and Gold.

Twelve Harvesters will be making their last appearance in a Green and Gold uniform. One of the graduates, however, will be unable to take part in the finale. Buddy Cockrell, 2-year letterman tackle and tri-captain for the Harvesters this season, will have to sit out today's clash due to an injured ankle.

Cockrell was injured in the San Angelo game last week and although he is able to get around without crutches now, his injury still hasn't healed enough to see action.

In addition to Cockrell, the other Harvester seniors are: Jimmy Martindale and Lee Fraser, ends; Richard Qualls, tackle; Bill Pippen and Jack Traywick, guards; Tommy Sells, center and David Enloe, Reggie Mayo, Joe Tynes, Red Radcliff and Jimmy Keel, backs.

Buddy Seeks 3rd Letter — Cockrell is bidding for his third letter this season while Sells is seeking his second numeral. All others are bidding for their first letter. Fraser, Martindale, Qualls, Traywick, Mayo, Tynes and Enloe were squad members last year while Pippen, Radcliff and Keel were on the B squad in '51.

Replacing Cockrell today will be Ronnie Elliott on offense and Dick Prigmore on defense. Cockrell has been doing double duty

66,000 Due For Longhorn-Ag Clash

AUSTIN (P) — The Longhorns are highly favored, but it will be the same old rock-rubbed rivalry when Texas and Texas A&M meet here tomorrow in their Thanksgiving football game.

The Longhorns have already sewed up the league title with five consecutive victories. The Aggies are in sixth place with three lost for their conference record.

But a win or a tie with the Longhorns would be a boon to Aggie spirits, and some would settle for a close-scoring contest and not feel too bad about it.

Both teams go into tomorrow's game in top condition. Workouts this week have been light to keep them that way.

The Aggies will be looking to elusive Ray Graves as their most potent offensive weapon against the Longhorns. Graves is a fine passer and runner, and could deal misery to anybody's defense.

Texas will depend on repeat performances by Dick Ochoa, Gib Dawson, T Jones and Billy Quinn to keep its scoring high.

Ochoa, Dawson and Jones will be appearing in their last regular conference game here, along with 11 other Longhorns. Fourteen Aggies, including Graves, are making their conference bow-out.

4-A Champs To Be Concluded Today

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF, Associated Press Sports Editor — The Class AAAA and Class AAA divisions of Texas school boy football round out their state championship play-off brackets Thursday while Class AA and Class A start the fights.

In Class AAAA three championships will be determined in two districts — Fort Worth and Dallas. North Side can win the Fort Worth title by beating Paschal. North Dallas can take the Dallas championship if Woodrow Wilson loses to Sunset. Otherwise there will be a three-way tie and the district committee will have to pick the representative.

In Class AAA three championships go on the line with Breckenridge, defending state title, at Brownwood, in the feature battle. It is for the District 2 pennant. Vernon can win the District 1 championship by beating Lamesa. In District 4 a triple tie is expected. Gladewater, Marshall and Texarkana are deadlocked for first and each is due to win its final game Thursday.

Lubbock, Austin (El Paso), Wichita Falls, Ray (Corpus Christi), Reagan (Houston) and Baytown already are district champions in Class AAA. Denison, Temple, Port Neches, Edison (San Antonio) and McAllen have titles in the bag in Class AAA. Classes AAAA and AAA each has only eight districts but Class

AA has 31 and Class A 32. There will be 31 bi-district games Thursday and Friday with Huntsville of Class AA drawing a bye.

The top game of the AA and A playoff matches Phillips and Playdada at Amarillo Friday. Both are undefeated and untied and have similar records. The winner will become a big favorite in the Class AA championship.

The St. Louis Cardinals did not drop a double header during the 1952 season. They also topped the National League in one-run victories.

Benners Giving Giants Big Lift

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (AP) — The hottest topic of conversation among this town's football fans in recent days is the manner in which Freddie Benners, the former Southern Methodist passing ace, has suddenly lifted the New York Giants up by the slack of their pants and pitched them into the thick of the race for the professional championship.
 The tall, rangy rookie had been sitting on the bench and picking up nothing but hip bunnions during the Giant's first eight games in which they had posted the not impressive won-lost record of 5-3. After a fine start, the club's regular quarterback and passer, Charlie Conerly, had lost the knack of hitting his receivers.
Benners Gets Chance
 As far as three games back, the cry had gone up for Coach Steve Owen to forget his loyalty to Conerly and at least give Benners a shot at the job.
 "Do you want me to shoot Conerly just because he has a bad game or two? Owen demanded. "Anyway, Benners is too fine a prospect to be thrown in there and ruined before he has learned the T-formation thoroughly. He never worked from anything but the spread formation in college. I won't put him on such a spot until I know he's ready."

 And that was how matters stood when Sunday's game began against the Redskins. It was taken for granted that if the Polo grounders lost that one they would be out of the running for the title in their division. There was Conerly still crouched behind center, and the discontent among the Harlem alumni was vast.
Benners Sparks Rally
 Before one quite knew what had happened, Washington was holding a 10-0 lead. The end of the first period marked the seventh straight in which the Giants under Conerly's direction had not scored a touchdown. About midway of the second quarter, Owen finally made up his mind that Conerly had a sore arm and flagged Benners in.
 The reaction of the Giant's was somewhat electrifying. The kid looked as though he had been weaned on the T-formation. In 11 plays, mixing his tactics skillfully, he drove his club 77 yards to a touchdown, then he went 48 yards in seven plays for the winner. Another long march in the fourth period was broken up by a fumble near the goal line. In the course of turning an apparent rout into a vital 14-0 victory, Benners hit on eight of 13 passes for 113 yards.

Protest Stock Car Winners

EL PASO (AP) — A formal protest was made to Mexico's Pan-American road race officials today that Lincoln stock car entries which took the first three places were illegally "souped up."
E. C. Kiekhaefer of Fond du Lac, Wis., sponsor of another Lincoln which took fourth, telegraphed his complaint to the road race committee in Mexico City. Kiekhaefer requested a full investigation and said he was flying later today.
 His protest came shortly after the committee in Mexico City rejected an earlier and informal complaint against the first three Lincolns. The five-day, 1,934-mile race, run the south-north length of Mexico, ended Sunday at Juarez.
 Kiekhaefer said he was refusing to accept fourth place money of $1,744 won by his Lincoln entry with Capt. Bob Korf of Dayton at the wheel.
 Korf, timed at 21:25:09, finished 9 1/2 minutes back of the first place Lincoln, driven by Chuck Stevenson of Fresno, Calif.
 Coach Johnny Vaught cleared the Mississippi bench in the 54-4 opening game grid win against Memphis State. He used 58 men including 11 freshmen.

"Blind" Tackle Intercepts Pass To Lead Team To Win

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — The last of the giant gridders explained. "Oh, guy you'd expect to intercept a pass is a giant, nearsighted tackle who can't even see a football in the air."
 But "Blind Bill" Turnbaugh did it Saturday and gave Auburn the break that led to a 3-0 victory over Clemson. It put the ball in position for an 18-yard field goal.
 It was a spectacular performance for the 265-pound lineman whose eyesight is so bad he can't see the opposing backfield from the line of scrimmage. And it was the biggest thrill in the 22-year-old senior's already sensational gridiron career.
 Turnbaugh isn't blind, but he's as nearsighted as you can get. His own hand at arm's length is just a blurry object. But turn him loose on the field and he's a sputtering crate of dynamite.
 It was part luck and a lot of quick thinking that enabled him to grab one of Clemson quarterback Billy Hair's passes late in the Auburn game, hold onto it and rumble 10 yards down the field before he was stopped.
 "Something hit me in the chest and it was a second or two before I realized what it was," he said before the game.
 The largest attendance for any World Series game was 26,228 when the Boston Braves faced the Indians at Cleveland on Oct. 10, 1948.

Penn - Cornell, Steer - Aggie Tilts Top Turkey Day Menu

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ivy-festooned clash between Penn and Cornell and another chapter of the hardy Texas-Texas A&M rivalry top the Thanksgiving Day football program.
 Penn can clinch the Ivy League championship if George Munger's team bounces back from three straight losses to handle awakened Cornell at Philadelphia. There is talk that Munger's job may hang in the balance if the team finishes under the .500 mark for the first time since 1938.
The team records — Penn (8-3-2) and Cornell (2-6) — are reflected in the two-touchdown odds favoring Penn.
 Texas (7-2) also is a two-touchdown choice over the Aggies, who have won only three games and only one in the Southwest Conference. Texas already is in the Cotton Bowl with Tennessee as a result of winning the conference title.
 Colgate (4-3), making a comeback, is another two-touchdown pick over oft-beaten Brown (2-6).
The Skyline Conference crown can be decided when Utah and Utah State meet at Salt Lake City. Utah can sew it up with a win while New Mexico still in the running, faces Wichita in a non-conference game.

 Other games on tomorrow's program include Santa Clara and San Jose State; Wyoming at Denver; VPI and VMI; Miami (Ohio) at Cincinnati.
 The last heavy firing of the season comes Saturday with Army-Navy at Philadelphia and Southern California-Notre Dame at South Bend, commanding top national interest.
 Navy is a seven-point favorite over Army and Southern Cal., is given only a slight edge, western Rose Bowl representative, over the Irish, beaten by Pitt and Michigan State.
 Mississippi, selected to oppose Georgia Tech in the Sugar Bowl, winds up Saturday against Mississippi State. Other all-state pairings find Georgia Tech's unbeaten club facing Georgia, Alabama's Orange Bowl team playing Auburn, and Oklahoma facing Oklahoma A&M.
 Saturday's program also includes Holy Cross-Boston College, SMU - TCU, Tennessee - Vanderbilt, Washington - Washington State; LSU - Tulane, Baylor-Rice, Tulsa-Texas Tech, Wake Forest - South Carolina, Houston-Detroit, and Arizona State (Tempe) - Brigham Young.

Lefors Plays At Olton In Bi-District

The Lefors Pirates, who clinched an up-and-down season last Friday night with a thrilling 6-0 win over rival White Deer will meet Olton today at Olton in the first round of the state Class A playoffs.
 Kickoff will be at 2:30 p.m. The Pirates are the District 1-A champs while Olton capped the budding in District 2-A.
 Winner of today's game will advance into the quarterfinal round of the state playoffs.
 Much of Lefors' victory hopes rests on the shoulders of fullback Jimmy Doom and Joe David Martin in the rushing department and Bill Watson in the passing.
 The Pirates compiled a 7-3 won-loss record for 1952. They had a 4-1 district record, their only loss being to McLean.

SMU Colts Win SWC Fresh Title

FORT WORTH (AP) — SMU captured the Southwest Conference Freshman football crown for the third straight year Wednesday when the Colts closed with a 13-0 triumph over the TCU Wogs.
 It gave the first-year Mustangs four victories and a loss, with Rice, Baylor and Texas Freshmen tying for second with 3-2 records.

Alabaman Is Back Of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Ciel Hobson, quarterback of Alabama's Orange Bowl-bound Crimson Tide, was named Associated Press back of the week today.
 Hobson, who switched from left half to signal calling late in 1950, played a big role in Alabama's surprise 27-7 trouncing of Maryland Saturday.
 The youngster from Tuscaloosa, Ala., crossed up Maryland with a fine running game. Hobson is better known for his passing.
 Hobson got the Tide rolling late in the first period. He sparked a 73-yard touchdown march by picking up 40-yards in five carries. Hobson also figured in a second period touchdown drive that wrapped up the decision.
 Bert Zagers, Michigan State right halfback, is called the "penguin" by his teammates because he hails from the northern part of Michigan.
 Virgil Trucks of the Detroit Tigers was the only American League hurler to pitch a no-hitter during the '52 season and he twirled two of them.

Glamour in Christmas gifts is expressed in these new lingerie designs by Ruth Flaum. Gown and peignoir (left) are in black nylon with the peignoir lined in pale pink to relieve the lily look of the black. Yoke and collar of the robe are in nylon lace; huge puffed sleeves are worn pushed up into airy circles. Bodice and hem of the fitted gown are in the same lace used for the robe. The dress-length ensemble (right) comes into its own in this robe of imported basket weave wool over nylon gown. Both are in pale blue. The robe buttons nearly to the hem; has cotton eyelet lace trim at neck, cuffs and on pockets. Fitted gown is trimmed with nylon eyelet lace.

Your Friends Will Treasure Gifts You Make

By GAILE DUGAS

The gifts that you make for your friends this Christmas should have originality, practicality and beauty. They should also cost you less than buying similar gifts since you're trying to stretch your gift money as far as possible.

We've made up even gifts that we feel will fill the bill on all counts. They are easy to make, even for the woman who sews very little.

To make them, we used sheeting, terry cloth and huck towel. All three come in white, pastels and the deeper colors as well so that you can work out your own color schemes.

The first gift we made was a hostess apron. To do this, use the top hem of a pastel sheet or the bottom hem of the apron, because it saves you that much sewing. Cut your piece of sheeting 35 inches across and 20 inches long. The waistband should be cut five by 17 inches, folded in half lengthwise and stitched. Gather in the skirt of the apron as you stitch.

Now, cut your apron ties 2 1/2 inches long by three inches wide and hem them all the way around, tapering the ends to sew on the waistband. Stitch them on to the band. Last, tack on ready-made organdy daisies, available at any trimmings counter, to waistband and hem.

Simple Bath Mitt
To make a terry bath mitt for a busy-loving friend, trace the outline of your hand, then draw a mitt to the outside dimensions. Leave an extra inch on each side and two inches for the cuff. Stitch two pieces of terry toweling together on the wrong side, using white for the palm and a color for the back.

Stitch an elastic around the wrist to make it fit snugly. Reverse it and you have a gift mitt.

Terry is used for the glass holder, too. You can make this gift either a woman or a man will appreciate. They're handy in a travel case, ideal for storing away a pair of shoes.

To make them, use a dark shade of terry toweling to prevent soiling. Cut it to fit an average size shoe, leaving extra room so the shoe slips in easily. Sew the two pieces together with French seams, hem the top and leave room for a drawstring. Insert a grosgrain ribbon and use matching grosgrain to initial the sides of the bags.

We made place mats in pastels and darker colors of sturdy cotton huckling. Cut the huckling to the size you want and hem the sides. Now, finish the ends with contrasting cotton fringe and embroider one corner in a monogram or any design you like.

Our sewing bag is made of cotton huckling, too, and provides an extremely useful gift. To make it, get a round plastic tray to hold spools of thread. This you'll find at any notions counter. Trace around this base and cut the huckling to size. Now, cut the sides about 11 inches deep and long enough to fit the base. Make a deep two-inch

Yule Log Old Custom

The Yule Log represents the ancient custom of lighting huge fires during the festivals that celebrated the Winter Solstice. The name comes from the Yule rites of North European countries, and eventually burning of the log became part of Christmas lore.

Your tea-drinking friends would be pleased to have a silver-plated tea bag holder. The luxurious little gadgets keep tea leaves out of the cup.

turn-back hem at the top, sewing one inch from the top and then 1 3/4 inches from the top to allow room for a drawstring. Sew in the top of the lining (use pastel sheeting for this) and stitch the lining to the base. Now, finish the opening for the drawstring with a buttonhole stitch and insert the drawstring.

Your Food Store Santa's Workshop

Delicacies to eat, gaily packaged and dancing with holly and bright ribbon, make the best of all Christmas gifts.

Whether you decide to give beloved friends or relatives bright boxes of imported biscuits, tender canned hams from Denmark, Holland or Germany, beribboned plum puddings or rich fruit cakes, you'll find them and many other suggestions for the ideal Christmas surprise gift at your local food shop.

Jack Simon, one of the most famous buyers of food specialties in the United States — now acting as "first deputy" to Santa Claus — says the most popular Christmas-gift food items are fancy biscuits from England, the United States, Holland, France, Italy and Denmark, dried figs from Turkey, raisins from California, and those super-de luxe boxes of brilliantly colored and selected dried fruits that people enjoy eating out of hand.

Simon, director of a New York department store's noted delicacy shop, talked with me for two hours about the type of food gift that makes an appropriate Christmas gift.

He said the gift must be something unusual, something a little finer than average, something that carries a note of glamor and out-of-this-worldliness.

"It doesn't have to be imported to be fine," he insisted. "However, there are some wonderful gift foods from overseas that seem designed for gift-giving."

"I think French glace fruits, melon glace, pate de foie gras in these attractive little earthenware tines, jebuchen from Germany, French and Italian hors d'oeuvres in smartly designed bottles and marrons in syrup are a few of them."

Fancy olives are another perfect Christmas gift. Ripe ones from California and green ones from Spain.

Simon listed some of the stuffings used in the green olives he makes a specialty of — cheese, orange, anchovies, cucumbers, filbert nuts and almonds, capers, onions, garlic and pimiento.

Fine jams and marmalades in stone jars that have many other uses are also high on the Christmas list. He mentioned one from Oxford, England, a not-too-sweet "vintage" marmalade, over two years old. There are wonderful jams from Holland, too, in lovely blue Holland china containers.

Honey is popular on the Merry Christmas list, particularly when presented in delicate china bowls or teapots or other containers with after Christmas uses and reminder value.

Fine teas in handsome painted metal containers bring delight to the tea drinker and you'll find several varieties at your shop.

Cheese, too, is one of the most popular items. You can order it from our own Wisconsin and New York state cheesemakers or from English, Danish, French or Italian sources. Simon warned that he doesn't think the famous-name French cheeses are quite up to par anymore.

Minicement in handsome five-pound wooden pails or in decorated jars, holding 1 3/4 pounds, are welcome gifts, too.

Crystalized strawberries from France and also French prunes are in the something-different group of gifts.

So are whole goose livers in 25-ounce tins or 18-ounce tins. These make exceptionally exciting gifts to friends who entertain a lot.

And of course, those special Christmas food baskets, bright with ribbon, are always 100 per cent successful in carrying your good wishes. Your food store will fill them as you wish.

Simon suggested that one assortment might well be bottles of imported and unusual hors d'oeuvres, branded fruits in jars, imported biscuits in tins, jars of de luxe olives, a terrine of pate and a package of Turkish figs.

He recommended, too, baskets of Florida fruits with small jars of jams and citrus candies in them, and also half crates of selected fruit.

But be sure, Simon cautions, that the fruit is all guaranteed perfect and see that each piece of fruit is separately wrapped. Christmas food gifts, he repeated, must be something very special, carefully chosen and rich with surprise.

Wide Variety In The Male Holiday List

There's a deluge of exciting gift tips straight from Santa's headquarters for the men on your Christmas list! And, this year, Santa Claus has paid particular attention to rounding up distinctive gifts that men will really welcome — gifts that will be received with pleased surprise!

If he has a hobby, your gift inspirations are endless. Choose a tool kit if he spends hours in his home workshop. If he's a photography enthusiast, give him a new camera, a carrying case for his present camera, an exposure meter for assuring fine pictures, or equipment for his darkroom.

There are numerous sporting good gifts for the sports lover. Visit your favorite sporting goods store and just see the gift possibilities for the golfer, skier, bowler, fisherman, or hunter!

Speaking of sports lovers, one of the famous-name manufacturers of jewelry for men features matching cuff links and tie bar in smart designs that reflect his favorite athletic interest.

For the card player, choose a double deck of bridge cards, a handsome leather-bound score pad, a sturdy card table, or a Canasta or Samba set.

Is the family car his particular pet? Then shower him with special extras for the car to delight him on Christmas morning. A browse through an auto supply store will give you a dozen gift

Let Your Budget Be Your Guide For Christmas Shopping

When making your shopping list for Christmas gifts for the home-maker, you'll find that here, your budget is really your key to the final selection!

For the woman who performs miracles in the kitchen, give appliances that take over and do the work! From combination waffle irons and grills — to electric broilers and roasters — to automatic roasters, to electric bean pots, liquidizers, poppers, deep-fat fryers and egg cookers, there's something electrical for everyone!

Or treat the home, to a new clock! Select a modern version that seems to have no works and casts interesting shadows on the wall. Or an electric hand clock, or an electrified steeple clock, or a table clock, or a tall, attention-getting grandfather!

Other gifts sure to please the home-maker's fancy are — fancy linens for the bedroom, kitchen and dining room, the bath and the many places around the house where linens show off to good advantage.

Occasional chairs, tables, a new rug, perhaps; pictures, mirrors, ceramic pieces for decor; new accessories in wrought iron; a period piece if she collects antiques — are but a few of the many ideas that suggest gifts for women about the home.

Or perhaps, she'll thrill to kitchen accessories — such as matched canister sets; serving pieces; cutlery; matched gadgets; rubber and plastic mats for sinks, table tops and range tops; or any of the myriad kitchen brighteners.

Or, give her a personal radio . . . sewing equipment . . . yarns to knit . . . or threads to crochet!

Broken Decorations Are Easily Salvaged

Just because a Christmas tree bulb has been broken is no reason to throw it away. It can still be salvaged as a decoration.

After picking up the fragments with a piece of wet absorbent cotton cut stars or other attractive designs from cardboard and cover the cut-outs with shellac.

While the shellac is still wet, sprinkle the cut-outs with the bulb fragments, attach a piece of string to each one and hang them on the tree. You'll find they make pretty, and original decorations.

Ideas — car radios, spotlights, cigarette lighters, or a car visor to protect the windshield from glare, rain, or snow.

Make his Christmas a big success by giving him smart accessories for his office desk. There are handsomely-styled desk clocks being shown, some combined with memo pads and compartments for paper clips etc. Or choose a good-looking desk pen on a standard, a cigar or cigarette box with matching ash tray, or a rich-looking desk ensemble styled of leather.

Every man loves comfort during his leisure moments, so don't overlook the gift possibilities to increase his comfort. Robes are handsomer than ever. They come in a wonderful array of new fabrics that are as soft and warm as wool, yet are washable! This year, gift robes are being shown in beautiful plain colors, fringed in contrasting colors, bright plaids and checks, or dressier brocades.

Sweaters make wonderful gifts, always! The selection of fine yarns, wonderful colors, and smart styles are unlimited.

All in all, Christmas promises to be thrilling for the men on your gift list!

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
Human nature is not always a beautiful thing. Babies are kissable. They are also soft and weak. Even when they grow old enough to chuckle and walk, they are still soft and weak. However, an enthusiastic young father like Mr. C. might conceivably forget this. Undoubtedly, he might become so entranced with delicious chuckles he evokes by tossing his two-year-old son in the air that he would want to provide more chuckles. He so understands, he might not notice when the chuckles become something else.

Yet this seems to be the case with Mr. C. When he approaches his little boy, he does not seem to realize that George is backing away from him. He laughs "firrs down his pants" and grabs. When he's got George, he rolls him around on the floor, tugging him in the neck and body.

While he does this, he is so busy laughing at George's scowls that he doesn't even realize that the chuckles he's long since become shrill cries.

To Mr. C. this is hearty masculine roughhousing. When his mother suggests that it may be tearing her hair out, the roughhouse, he is angry. He says, "George and I understand one another."

"Please say this is wrong," writes his mother. "Make what you say strong."

I have sat in courts where judges sent fathers to jail for failing to know the difference between good roughhousing with their children and bad roughhousing.

To make what I have to say stronger, I asked psychiatrist David Abrahamson for comment on Mr. C.'s curious idea of play with a baby son. Author of the recent book "Who Are The Guilty?", he is one of the nation's leading students of human nature.

Said Dr. Abrahamson to me: "This father may not want to know why he thinks his abuse of others is 'fun'. So long as he can regard this kind of maltreatment as innocent and funny, he can avoid learning how he it needs to demonstrate his sup-

Dear Grace Friend:

I am going to a church wedding soon. I will wear a navy suit with navy bag and white gloves. I have no costume jewelry nor flowers to dress my suit up with. I shall have to buy whatever it is and I cannot afford to get a new hat. Will you give me some suggestions about what kind of hat to buy.

Bill Thomas Ward Feared On Birthday

Bill Thomas Ward was honored on his first birthday with a party at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Crocker, 319 Purviance.

Hostesses were his mother, Mrs. Frances Ward and grandmother, Mrs. Crocker.

Participating were Mr. and Mrs. Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Taylor and David and Debbie, and Mrs. Dale Bennett and Charlotte, Mrs. Ward, H. E. Crocker, Jr., and Miss Dolores Davis.

Mr. C. should suspect that he is such a disappointment to everyone that he has to show off by terrifying his baby son. But Mr. C. should make it his business to discover why. His success in his work—and in the deed in all his human relationships may depend upon his recovery from his bad opinion of himself.

The world always knows when we think that we are no good. But though it senses that our beautiful acts are cries for consolation, the world will not give him any. Like a wolf, he will pursue us and tear us down.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The happiness and healing derived from the knowledge that God loves and cares for His creation will be stressed in the Lesson - Sermon entitled, "Thanksgiving" to be read at the special Thanksgiving Day service in Christian Science churches Thursday morning, November 27.

The Golden Text is Psalm 96:1 which reads, "O sing unto the Lord, all the earth."

In the Christian Science textbook, Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer of Christian Science, asks this question and then gives an answer: "Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech" (p. 3).

From I Chronicles will be read this verse which inspires reverence: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all" (29:11).

Time will be given for audible expressions of gratitude appropriate to the occasion from Christian Scientists in the congregation. The public is cordially invited.

Junior High PTA Holds Annual Father's Night

The Junior High Parent-Teacher Association's annual "father's night" was observed recently with a program in the Junior High auditorium.

Program leader was Dr. Malcolm Brown. Special music was provided by Miss Carolyn Boyle.

Rev. Tom M. Johnston gave the devotional and Mr. J. L. Spencer presented the subject. A rummage sale is scheduled to be held in December by the organization. Clothes, baked goods, dishes and miscellaneous items are being sought for the sale.

A panel discussion of the book "The Iron Curtain Over America," by John Bealy was the program at a meeting at 3 p.m. Nov. 25 of the Twentieth Century Club.

The club met in the home of Mrs. J. R. Donaldson, 1137 N. Starkweather. Program leaders were Mrs. H. H. Hahn and Mrs. Michael Wilson.

During a business meeting plans were discussed for making up a Christmas box to give to a needy Pampa family. Attending were Meses Jess Bearden, Frank Fata, Hann, L. H. Hart, E. L. Henderson, V. L. Hobbs, Rufe Jordan, Myles Morgan, Doyle Osborne, N. Dudley Steele, Wilson and L. J. Zachry.

Cook's Nook

This sumptuous sandwich suggestion is designed to spark new interest in leftover turkey. If there's still slice-able turkey, it is used thusly atop the ham, then crowned with the creamy mustard sauce and shredded cheese.

HAM AND TURKEY BURGERS DELUXE
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1-4 teaspoon salt
1-6 teaspoon powdered thyme
1-3 cup boiling water
1-2-3 cups evaporated milk (1 tail can)
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 cup shredded American process cheese (1-4 pound)
6 hamburger buns
6 slices boiled or baked ham

Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat. Blend in flour and thyme. Stir in boiling water. Add milk, a little at a time, and stir after each addition until mixture is smooth. Cook over very low heat, stirring frequently, until thickened, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and blend in mustard. Sprinkle ham and turkey sides lightly under broiler heat. Place a slice of ham on bottom half of each bun. Then top with a turkey slice. Then spoon about 1-3 cup sauce over each and sprinkle with the shredded cheese. Place under broiler, about 5 inches from source of heat, until cheese is melted and lightly browned, about 3 to 5 minutes. Remove from pan to a serving platter with pancake turner. Serve with toasted bun tops. Makes 6 sandwiches.
Note: If the 1 cup diced turkey or 6 two-third cup molds or 8 is used, fold it into the sauce, one-half cup molds.

SYMPHONY IN SATIN

Newest style note in metal furniture, in addition to the distinctive square-tube styling of the latest chairs, tables and other modern pieces, is a smartly conservative new finish called satin-chrome. Here, Roberta Richards is comparing the new finish with an actual piece of satin fabric which inspired the new styling. Smarter and more restrained than the well-known bright chrome, long a distinctive feature of metal furniture, the new satin-chrome is also said to be stronger and more durable for use in professional and commercial interiors.

5 slices turkey, or 1 cup diced turkey

Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat. Blend in flour and thyme. Stir in boiling water. Add milk, a little at a time, and stir after each addition until mixture is smooth. Cook over very low heat, stirring frequently, until thickened, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and blend in mustard. Sprinkle ham and turkey sides lightly under broiler heat. Place a slice of ham on bottom half of each bun. Then top with a turkey slice. Then spoon about 1-3 cup sauce over each and sprinkle with the shredded cheese. Place under broiler, about 5 inches from source of heat, until cheese is melted and lightly browned, about 3 to 5 minutes. Remove from pan to a serving platter with pancake turner. Serve with toasted bun tops. Makes 6 sandwiches.
Note: If the 1 cup diced turkey or 6 two-third cup molds or 8 is used, fold it into the sauce, one-half cup molds.

then place sauce mixture on top of ham. Sprinkle each sandwich with cheese and broil as directed. LIME-GRAPEFRUIT SALAD
1 No. 2 can grapefruit segments
1 package lime flavored gelatin
2 tablespoons lime or lemon juice
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup cold evaporated milk
1-2 cup chopped pecans
1-2 cup chopped celery

Drain juice from segments. There should be around 1-1-4 cups. If not, add water to make that amount. Heat juice. Add lime gelatin and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add lime or lemon juice and salt. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Stir in milk, pecans, celery and grapefruit segments that have been cut into small pieces. Pour into individual molds or a ring mold. Chill until firm, about 2 to 3 hours. Makes 4 cups salad mixture and will fill a quart mold.

RUTH MILLETT

We forget so many of the promises we make ourselves through the years, and so many of the flashes of deep insight that come now and again, that it would be a wise and helpful thing if we women would keep a written record of such evidence of growing maturity.

Such a record would not only help us to better understand ourselves and to keep our lives headed toward some worthwhile goal but it would teach us to better understand others.

What woman, able to look back on a written record of how she felt at age 16, wouldn't better understand her own 16-year-old daughter?

What new mother-in-law who could look at a written record of the part, either good or bad, or both that her own mother-in-law had played in her life could not help but be more aware of her own daughter-in-law's viewpoint and problems?

What woman who once faced what seemed unbearable tragedy and came through it, would not get fresh courage to face another blow if she could read that old record?

MEMORY NOT TOO RELIABLE
Perhaps we should remember these things. But memory is often short and not always to be trusted.

A written record of our own lives could teach us much about ourselves and a lot about other people too.

We need that understanding.

Costume Jewels

By GAILE DUGAS

The elegance, formality and glitter of the coming coronation ceremonies are fully expressed in costume jewelry for this year's Christmas gift-giving. Tiaras, bibs, cuff bracelets and drop earrings in rhinestone, fake pearls, crystal and jet all bear the queenly touch.

Rhinestone jewelry boasts baroque, marquise and pear-shaped stones this year, many of them cut so carefully as to create a diamond look.

Fake rubies, emeralds, topazes and sapphires are fine substitutes for the real gems and furthermore, they're top fashion colors in jewelry. The girl who gets them can wear them with the current costume reds, greens, beiges and blues.

Jet stones, combined with marquis-shaped crystals, make another good gift idea. Some of these are done with a three dimensional stone-on-stone treatment for added depth and sparkle.

These are ideal for wear with the black-and-white combinations in tweed and other fabrics that are high fashion this year.

Pearls appear often, sometimes encircled by sparkly rhinestones in matched sets. A trio might include necklaces, earrings and a ring. You're quite safe in buying two out of three since few women care to wear all three at once. If, however, you do add the third piece, it gives her a chance to switch the combination for variety.

A quarter teaspoon of pure monosodium glutamate may be added to a cup of French dressing to help point up salad flavor.

Ground nutmeg, mace or cinnamon taste good added to hard sauce for fall puddings.

Electricity Makes A Gift To Turn On—Or Tune In

Electrical gifts are high on the nation's shopping list every Christmas. It isn't just the initial pleasure they give; it's the knowledge that for many Christmas masses after, they'll be making life easier and more pleasant.

New for shoppers this Christmas is an electric sheet that's both practical and pretty. Made of merged broadloom in decorator colors, it has single or dual controls.

It's washable and compact enough to pack easily in an overnight bag. The control case goes either on a night table or in a special metal hanger that clips to the headboard of the bed.

A brand new waffle baker, one with 81 square inches of griddle area will bake four king-size waffles at a cooking. Any waffle lover will be won over by the grids, which require no greasing or browning.

Further, there's a built-in battery to catch the overflow and prevent it from dripping onto the table top. The baker also has five automatically controlled settings that offer a choice of browning texture from light and tender to

New, and medium-priced, is a portable radio that plugs on ordinary house current or its own battery power. Constructed with a sturdy, enameled steel case with satin brass trim and a plastic cover in maroon or forest green, it has an automatic switch that turns the set on the moment the flip front cover opens. Control knobs are protected by the cover unless the set is in operation.

An alarm clock that's designed for cliff dwellers in a small apartment or young couples furnishing a new house on a tiny budget doubles as an occasional clock. Dial face is in tweed fabric.

A new styling of the standard iron produces, in time For Christmas giving, an iron with an open handle designed to reduce the whole task to a minimum of physical effort.

The handle fits the palm of the hand so that there's no gripping under pressure. And because of the open handle, the iron slips easily into pockets, piests and thus cuts ironing time and effort.

Luxury at budget prices is offered by these two gifts in elegant brocade. Attractive jewelry box (left) contains three purse-sized bottles of perfume nestled within its removable tray. Tiny evening purse (right) contains mirrored compact and has a loop at top for lipstick case. Present them separately, or as duo.

Fine Cosmetics Offer Package Luxury Gifts

By ALICIA HART

Few things please a woman more at Christmastime than small offerings of packaged luxury—the sort of thing she continually yearns for, but somehow never gets around to buying.

Fine cosmetics come under this heading, particularly for those women on your list who limit their own purchasing strictly to work-a-day make-up. For them, it's really femininity and glamor you're presenting when you choose a fine dusting powder, an exciting perfume, or an extravagantly packaged lipstick.

For elegance-on-a-budget, you'd be sure to please with a richly-brocaded little evening purse that contains a small mirrored compact fitted with its own automatic powder puff. Lipstick fits into a brocade loop at the top.

Designed also to make a woman feel cherished is a brocade jewelry box which contains, nestled in the removable silk-lined tray, a selection of three purse-size perfumes.

If you're seeking something in perfume that will grace her dressing table with magnificence, a new scent by a noted French perfume house is an excellent choice. The bottle, resting in a white satin niche, is patterned lavishly with gold leaf, contains a matching stopper laced with gold.

Also for the luxury-gift lists of discriminating shoppers this year are dusting powders so lavish both in quantity and quality as to make a woman feel beloved for months to come. Nearly two-and-a-half pounds are contained in a box of red silk for those with tailored tastes. A somewhat smaller box, containing a still-generous quantity of 19 ounces, is the height of feminine frivolity in pink or blue shirred chiffon. Also for the tailored woman is a bath powder in a celebrated French scent, boxed handsomely in black and white hound's tooth check.

If you like a bit of whimsy at Christmastime, an elfish Santa with a minute round nose peeking out above a fluffy white beard is a good choice for you. His body is a bottle of cologne, one arm a matching purse perfume and the other arm a color-right lipstick.

Lipsticks are lavish this year. If you're feeling extravagant, take your choice of lipstick cases sheathed in ranch mink, ermine, broadtail or leopard. Or, if gems are more to your fancy than fur, moisten the gummed surface on a red suede case be-dazzled with

Those who feel they wish their gifts to be a little more special than simply a bottle of cologne or a box of dusting powder may find a happy answer in a duo of these cosmetic products offered by a well-known firm.

A snowman, concealing under his white styrofoam rotundity a bottle of magnolia-scented cologne, beats merrily upon a drum which is in actuality a box of fragrance-matched bath powder.

Small fry who are looking for attention-flagging gifts for mother at penny-bank prices might consider a new trio of hand lotions packaged in a transparent case to show their delicate colors. The lotions, one pink, one blue and one ivory, are all scented with the light fragrance of blended fresh flowers.

Another gift well within the reach of juvenile purses is liquid skin sachet, which is distributed for Christmas in a see-through pyramid twinkling with stars and angels.

Display Your Cards Insignia Decorates Flexible Flasks

It is becoming a more and more popular custom to make a colorful display of the cards received at Christmas.

The greeting cards are so gay them during the holiday week, and so attractively designed that any type of display adds greatly to the holiday atmosphere of your home.

One clever idea is to take a large sheet of cardboard and frame it with eye-catching red or sprigs of evergreen. On this board you can mount your Christmas cards in an attractive display and place on a prominent wall.

Many prefer to stand their cards in a bright grouping on the mantel or on an occasional table so that guests may pick them up and look at them. If you display your cards in this manner, try hanging a festoon of evergreens decked with ornaments on the wall above to add drama to the grouping.

Or, fasten your cards to red ribbons of varying lengths and hang them vertically above an occasional table that is decorated with Christmas berries and Unbreakable plastic flexible flasks, which have become popular in the past year or so for everything from medicine to portable refreshment, have been dressed up for Christmas-giving this year.

Now they're available with the insignia of the various branches of the armed forces or college seals—printed on them in color. A handy present for the traveler or sportsman, they can safely be carried in the pocket, the glove compartment of a car or in luggage.

If you want your Christmas wreaths to stay fresh longer, make sure they are hung outside the window instead of inside.

candles. Tie a gay bow at the top of each strand of ribbon. Your Christmas cards will mean much more and be enjoyed by everyone, if you devise some clever and unusual way to display

These Christmas gifts for her look glamorous, are practical from a woman's point of view. Robe (left) is budget-priced bemberg quilted crepe. Tiny evening purse (upper center) in bemberg brocade has own matching compact and lipstick and a small price. Maltese cross (upper center) is studded with colorful cabochons, is worn at the neckline. Necklace and bracelet (lower center) are in Far-Eastern mood of design. Black velvet lounging pajamas (upper right) have pink brocade coolie coat. Unique timepiece (lower right) folds like an envelope, can be used as watch for night-table. Every gift here will be useful long after the holidays.

Round Wrist Watch Stylish Man's Gift

Now that the man's round wristwatch has become a top man's fashion, outdistancing all other styles in popularity, it's an ideal Christmas gift for the No. 1 male on your list.

For a man who already has such a watch, Jacques Kreisler has just introduced the first watchband custom-designed to suit the round case. Called the "Golden Crescent," it's a thin, flexible expansion watchband, made with curved links that conform to the round shape of the watch.

The new band comes with gold-filled top and stainless steel back in pink and yellow gold. It is also available in stainless steel.

Wise Ways On Gifts For Gals; Jewelry A Good Place To Start

—By GALE DUGAS

Even during the Christmas season, men are abashed about shopping for women. They take the first large, economy size bottle of French perfume or the first black lace lingerie the salesgirl shoves at them. They know there must be something around in the stores that women like. But what, they can't imagine.

They need help. They need to know how to pick things that women won't exchange on Dec. 26 and they need to consider their wallets when they shop.

Costume jewelry is a good place to start. A handsome Maltese cross, for instance, looks expensive pinned at the neckline of a suit. But it costs little.

The same thing can be said for necklace, earrings and bracelet in twisted gold, tipped with Oriental spikes. And it holds true for a watch that slips shut like an envelope, slips readily into a handbag. It can double as a watch on a bedside table because it can stand upright.

Brunch coats and lounging pajamas are popular as Christmas gifts and with good reason. They're priced as reasonably as you like and they're the kind of gift any woman loves but hesitates to buy for herself.

Lounging pajamas in black velvet bemberg topped by a pink brocade coolie coat with tremendous sleeves are pretty and inexpensive. Mandarin collar, sleeves and jacket bottom are edged in velvet.

A bunch coat would look equally nice in a big white box under the tree on Christmas morning. Pick one that's washable, in a pale yellow quilted bemberg crepe. Lovely at breakfast on Christmas Day and for many days thereafter.

One of the many small gifts that looks luxurious and is priced for pennies is pastel bemberg brocade. It comes equipped with matching compact and lipstick.

The French purse in metallic bemberg brocade is a wonderful and deceptive gift; deceptive because it looks so trim and flat and actually holds so much. Inexpensive, too, though it has a costly look.

These are just starters. There are also checkbook covers in twisted gold yarns or in velvet studded with rhinestone crowns. There are glasses and comb cases in beaded velvets. Or satin belts alight with iridescent bugle beads.

For the older woman, try a spray of red velvet rosebuds on navy satin stems or black velvet roses with rhinestone dewdrops shining on the petals. Or she might like an engagement book or shopping list case in lovely silk brocade. All of these are gifts any woman would love to own and none of them are costly.

Clifford F. Hood U. S. Steel President

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Clifford F. Hood, 58, who says he would be an Illinois farmer but for the persuasion of a young engineering friend, will become president of the world's largest steel-producing company Jan. 1.

United States Steel Corp.'s Board of Directors elected Hood to the top post yesterday at a meeting in New York. He is now executive vice president in charge of production of the subsidiary United States Steel Company.

Hood succeeds Benjamin F. Fairless, who will continue as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of U. S. Steel Corp.

The parent U. S. Steel Corp. will become an operating company the first of the year when U. S. Steel Company is merged with it.

Public's Reaction To Comedy Varies With Personalities

By ADELAIDE KERR

NEW YORK (AP)—Did you ever wonder what makes you laugh at a cartoon or a comic strip while somebody else looks blank? Kenneth Bird will tell you its partly the kind of character you are. Bird should know. He is editor of one of the world's most famous humor magazines — Britains Punch. He is also known to its readers for the drawings signed Fougasse.

"If you laugh at a good time or humorous drawing or strip, you are one of those who have an intense interest in your fellow man and an affection for him," he said on a recent visit here. "You are able to put yourself in his place. You laugh with him, not at him. In other words, you're interested in the man next door."

"One can learn more about a person and about the people of any country by studying what they laugh at, than by studying their politics. You can judge whether they are domestic, whether they are cruel or kind."

The subjects they treat in their humor are the subjects closest to their hearts.

But your character is not the only thing that determines what you laugh at. The times and the place you live in have a lot to do with it, too.

"Radio and the talkies had a tremendous effect on humor," Bird says. "Twenty-five years ago people got all their amusement from the printed word. Illustrations were detailed and captions were long. Papa used to read it out to the family. If they didn't catch it the first time, they could go back over it till they did."

"With the radio and talkies, everything became streamlined. You soak up impressions quickly. Humor must make its point on the wing. In time this had a terrific effect on humorous drawings. Contrast those of 25 years ago with James Thurber's barking seal and you will see what I mean."

Investigator Given Three-Year Sentence

BALTIMORE (AP) — A former OPA investigator who went on a spree with $5,400 and wound up a week later in the gutter with 37 cents was sentenced to three years in prison yesterday.

William T. Rinn, 47, admitted in court that he stole the money from a Baltimore cab company office where he was cashier. He said he spent a good share of it on a party that moved from Baltimore through Ocean City and Salisbury, on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

More than $1,500 of the money was returned to the cab company before the spree ended, it was testified.

Black is a perennial favorite for Christmas lingerie. To most women, it spells glamor and beauty. This year you'll find it's been cut into lace-trimmed, form-fit gowns of nylon topped by floating nylon peignoirs that have been given pale pink linings to relieve the inky look of absolute black. Sleeves are huge, flirty circles worn pushed up. The short robe, a fashion now firmly established, appears for Christmas this year is a beautiful wool basket weave that's imported. In pale blue, it's fitted and tied at the waist, has deep woman sleeves and delicate trim of cotton eyelet lace. It's worn over a companion short gown in blue nylon that's trimmed in nylon eyelet lace. There's a full-length version of this set in pale pink. Soft nylon challis looks new for Christmas giving particularly when it's cut into peignoirs and teamed with gowns in nylon ripple sheer or nylon georgette. Nylon challis is used for gowns, too, cut peignoir style. Pleats of all kind register heavily for lingerie and are particularly appealing in gifts. The pleating is permanent, of course, and takes several forms. It may be fan pleating, space pleating, knife pleating, box pleating or honeycomb pleating. Anyone of them is both pretty and practical. The type that you choose for your gift depends entirely on the appeal to your eye.

Fringe Makes a Gift You Can Make Yourself

Even the woman who can't sew will find these gifts easy to make. Triangular stote (upper left) is monk's cloth trimmed in wool fringe. Evening bag (left center) is made of cosmetic bag and silver satin fringe. Guest towels (lower left) are made individual by fringe trim. Evening stote (above) is cotton satin in an oblong shape. Evening bag (upper right) is easily handmade of gold upholstery brocade. Ordinary cotton gloves (right center) become high fashion with fringe trim. Burlap place mats (lower right) take on expensive look through cord rope and bushy fringe trim. All gifts take minimum time to make.

Not every woman who must pull and you'll have a gift fit for Christmas presents out of a budget. A glamor girl. A second evening bag can be made drawing style from heavy gold upholstery brocade. You'll want a quarter of a yard in the 64-inch width. At one end of the fabric, cut two perfect circles, each 5 1/2 inches in diameter.

From heavy cardboard, cut another circle five inches in diameter and insert it between the two fabric circles, basting to hold the cardboard intact. This is the bottom of the bag.

Now, cut a strip of material 8-inches long. Baste a lining to this strip, using satin cotton. Along one length of the fabric, sew a conso shirring tape. This has a cord running through the center which, when pulled, creates an even-shirring.

Close the two sides of the fabric strip together by hand hemming. Hem the top of the bag, insert two gold-colored cords, each cut twelve inches in length. When you've pulled them through, knot each end. That's the draw-matic bag and sew the fringe trim on in even rows so that each row overlaps the one below. When rayon bouillon fringe in a one-inch width. At the bottom of the completely covered with fringe bag, sew around four rows so that each overlaps the one below. Stuff the bag with tissue paper, wrap it and that's all there is to it.

Simplest gift to make is a pair of fringe-trimmed gloves. You buy the gloves, in a beige cotton and a plain style. Then, at the cuff, you sew on chocolate-colored fringe in gauntlet fashion. Quick, easy way to a handsome gift.

A stote will make any girl, from teen-age on up, happy on Christmas Day. Try one cut from a yard and a half of black cotton satin and edge it with a border of satin-scalloped trimming in black or white. The stote may be an oblong or a triangle.

Another stote, this one for practical daytime wear, can be done in beige monk's cloth and a triangular shape. Edge it with an all-wool fringe in dark gray. You'll need four yards of the fringe and a yard and a half of monk's cloth. This stote needs no lining, takes minutes to make.

Household gifts appear on almost everyone's list because they are useful. A set of six table mats and center mat are all made of burlap, have an expensive look because of their trim.

Try gull-gray burlap bordered with bushy brown cotton fringe. One-half inch in from the edge of the mat, sew another border of the brown rope trim. These mats, by the way, will launder readily. You'll want two yards of the burlap and 13 of the bushy cotton fringe plus 11 yards of the cord rope.

Lots of people will get guest towels as gifts this year. But if you want your towel gifts to have originality, buy them in a vivid, glowing color and edge them in cotton-knotted cream bedspread fringe. You'll need a yard.

If you can embroider, you might do initials on each in a heavy, cream-colored yarn. Or, try something like "The King" on one towel "And Me" on the other.

Drivers' Ideal Watch

For someone at the top of your list whose passion is motoring, there's a new self-winding car watch that attaches to the steering wheel.

The traditional Christmas poem, "The Night Before Christmas," was written by Clement Clarke Moore in 1822 and published anonymously the following year. He finally acknowledged authorship in 1844.

Communism Wouldn't Work For Pilgrims

This is a "different" Thanksgiving story. It's about communism and the Pilgrims.

It isn't generally known that those hardy American pioneers were the first to practice the communal way of life in the United States. But it's a fact.

However, the Pilgrims learned the impracticability of the communistic system in a relatively short time and kicked it out the window.

An account of the experiment is contained in the "History of Plymouth Plantation" written by William Bradford, who was governor of the Pilgrim colony for most of its first 25 years. The original manuscript was lost for many years but is now well guarded in the Massachusetts State House in Boston.

The Pilgrims began their new life on these shores under a common agreement which specified that all crops belonged to the colony as a whole and not to the individual members who worked the fields, according to Gov. Bradford's history. It was a beautiful, idealistic dream, he recalled.

The "dream" scheme was in force from the time the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock in 1620 until 1623 but Bradford reports it did not produce enough workers in the field to raise the necessary crops to feed the colony.

Then after three lean years of near starvation they decided to get rid of communism and operate under a system of individualism.

"... at length," wrote Gov. Bradford, "after much debate of things, the Governor (with the advice of the chiefest among them) gave way that they should set every man for his own particular, and in that regard, trust to themselves. . . This had very good success, for it made all hands very industrious. . . much more corn was planted than otherwise would have been. . . and gave far better content. . . (even) the women now went willingly into the field, and took their little ones with them to set corn, which would before dilige weakness and inability; whom to have compelled, would have been thought great tyranny and oppression."

The involved Elizabethan sentences employed by Gov. Bradford don't make easy reading today but they get over the point that the "dream" communal scheme was a howling flop. It is further evident in the history that the communistic system which was supposed to be the perfect way of life actually operated to kill individual initiative and self-respect. The governor also noted that there was no hope for "godly and sober men" in the false belief that "the taking away of property. . . would make them happy and flourishing; as if they were wiser than God."

The original plan of the Pilgrims, according to Gov. Bradford "was found to breed much confusion and discontent, and retard much employment that would have been to their benefit and comfort." He concluded: "God in His wisdom saw another course fitter for them."

Not long after the communistic scheme was abandoned, the history continues, there were plenty of workers in the fields and food enough for everyone. In sincere gratitude after their success, the Pilgrims set aside a "Solemn Day" for proclaiming "glory, honor and praise with all thankfulness to our good God." The motivating spirit of the custom inspired Abraham Lincoln to issue the first Thanksgiving Day Proclamation in 1863.

Farming Is Attractive

It has only been a generation since the first World War started. On the average farm at that time there was a "hired man" who received a modest wage plus room and board. He helped with the chores, such as milking, and the ordinary work of the farm which was largely done with human and animal labor.

That war swallowed men by the millions, and when it was over many of them never returned to the farm. The Second World War imposed far greater strains on our manpower. At a time when farms had to produce record crops, the labor shortage was a devastating problem. The thing that saved the day was the ability of our industries to turn out labor-saving machines for peace, as well as weapons for war.

On the average farm today the "hired man" is virtually a thing of the past. Horses have disappeared. The tractor which uses fuel only while it works, instead of 365 days in the year, is the mode of power. The milking machine has taken the place of hand labor. Everything from land preparation, harvesting, irrigation, drainage, etc., is done with power equipment.

The ingenuity of our country's farm machinery manufacturers has enabled the family farm to become the backbone of our nation's food supply. Crops can go in on time with a minimum of labor. The elimination of back-breaking drudgery has made farming more attractive to boys. They can see an independent future in it as a real business.

"The precept that government is all-knowing — the fixation that a group of bureaucrats should decide what is best for the people — is foreign to our very traditions. It is the harbinger of the socialist state in America." —Irving M. Fess.

How Irrational Can A Price Stabilizer Be?

A news report states that Price Stabilizer Tighe Wods called on his meat price experts to have an order ready for rolling back retail meat prices or let him know the reason why it can't be done.

Of course, it is hard to tell who would be an expert in determining what prices should be. I personally know of no such expert, it takes all the people in the world to get a true value or price of anything. No man, no matter how wise he is, would be able to tell what would be the right price for any article.

Free enterprise or the American way of life is based on all people having the right to help establish values. But when men come to believe that they are so omnipotent and can hire people who are so omnipotent who can tell what prices should be it shows what kind of mentality those persons have.

Woods is quoted as saying: "At every meeting I've had with housewives the question comes up about meat prices remaining high while prices to livestock raisers are declining."

Some Reasons Some of the reasons for this greater spread between the farmer gets and what the housewife pays are the increased wages for the packers, increased wages for the retailers, increased wages for the salaried men and truckers, increased wages in all racketeering unions and, most of all, increased taxes.

If Mr. Woods really wants to know why meat prices should not be rolled back let him look at the price that the stock in the leading packing companies is selling for. Swift, the largest meat company, has a book value of its stock of $36.28 that is based on prices when the costs were probably half what the book value would be if reproduced at present prices. Swift is selling for $32 which is about one-third of what its book value would be at reproduction prices. Its average earnings for the last 35 years has been $2.53 a share. Its dividends have been much less than that. Its real earnings on its present replacement book value would be around 2 1/2%, and yet Tighe Woods wants to know why meat prices cannot be rolled back.

Agmour, the second largest meat company, has a book value of $12.38. This is the book value when the company was built up when prices were about half what they are today. Agmour is selling for $10 a share. It has not paid its preferred dividend for a couple of years.

Cudahy has a book value of $24.30 and is selling for less than $7. Wilson has a book value of $35.33 per share and is selling for $10.00 per share. Most of all get the stock in the meat packing business. All are selling at a fraction of what is invested in them. It is hard to see how any rational man would be wanting to roll back prices when the stock in the meat corporations is selling for a fourth or half of their book value or their replacement value.

What we need of course is to get the government out of price controls and that would include controls on credit and control of banking and get back to money that has value in itself. Let the government out of controlling education — and let every individual help establish values.

If we were not mis-educated, we would not have men in government offices who believe that there are some individuals smart enough to know what prices should be. It is a nice example of the fruits of the majority rule education where the most stupid person has as much to say in electing board members who select the textbooks as the wisest man has to say. The majority rule education is that the men without vision always outvote the men with foresight.

A free market is the only way to determine what is fair and just price.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORAN, M.D.

B. H. K. writes "I am suffering from bronchitis, but I am told that it is not serious enough for surgery. It is sometimes difficult to breathe. Will you discuss this condition?"

Bronchitis is a condition of the lungs in which the small airways in these organs, which are usually filled with air when a person breathes, are broken down into large pockets which are partly filled with mucous fluid or other semi-solid material.

When large areas of the lungs are involved and are examined by X-ray by a method which shows up these pockets, they will look much like a bunch of grapes.

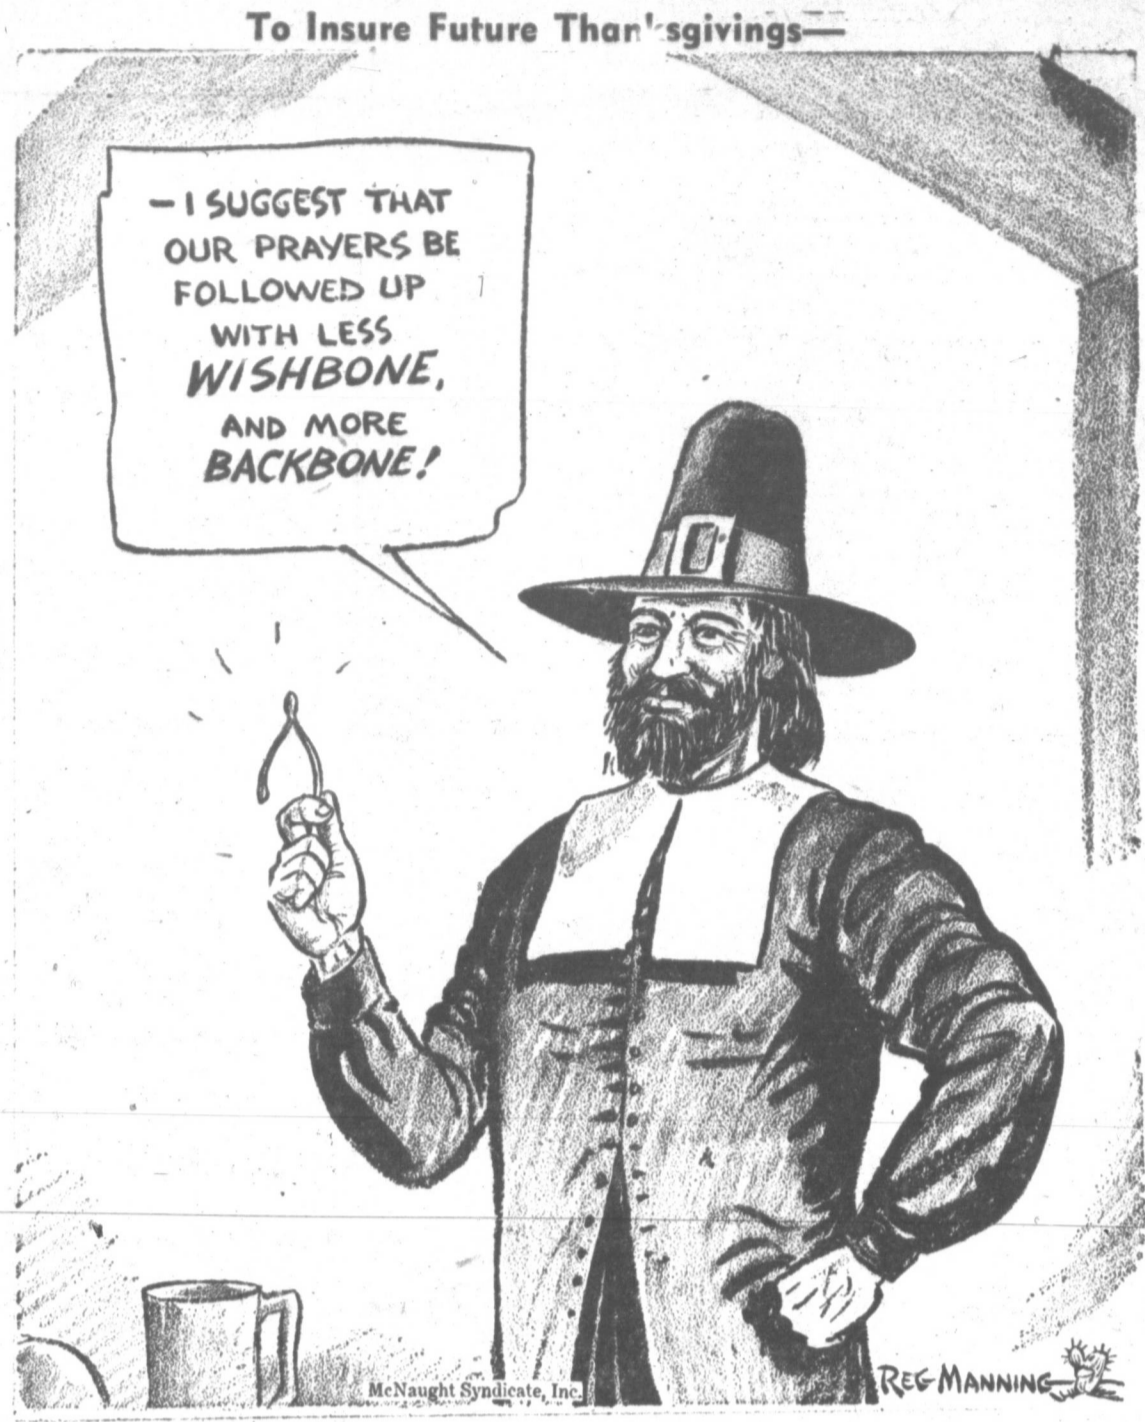

Almost any condition, such as repeated attacks of bronchitis, chronic sinus infection, or anything else which leads to a long-lasting cough, may eventually bring on bronchitis. Once this condition has arisen, the cough generally persists and often brings up heavy mucous sputum that frequently has a foul odor.

The diagnosis of bronchitis can be established by several special examinations, including the taking of an X-ray film and the use of an instrument for looking into the lungs called a bronchoscope.

Bronchitis interferes with health and ability to work, and it can produce dangerous complications and even death. It is better to prevent than to treat.

Since it can come from so many different causes, a person who has a long-continued cough, regardless of what he or she thinks is producing it, ought to try to get at the bottom of the trouble early and stop the difficulty before bronchitis can have a chance to develop.

The medical treatment of fully developed bronchitis has not been highly successful, at least until recently. Now, however, there have been some reports on the use of penicillin — usually given by the inhaling method — which seem promising.

Five Big Steps Would Reduce America's Problems To Sanity

By THURMAN SENSING, Southern States Industrial Council, Nashville, Tennessee

There will be much stirring about as we enter into a new administration as to what steps should be taken to assure our economic well-being and our national safety in the days ahead. The discussions concerning these measures are likely to be so involved and so wordy that we may lose sight of the fundamental issues. In an effort to reduce our main problems to plain language, the following five steps to sanity are submitted as of first order of importance:

1. We should return to a sound dollar. This would solve more of our troubles than most of us perhaps realize. A return to an honest dollar would have a great moral, as well as economic, effect. It would do more than any other one thing to stop inflation. It would largely solve the problem of unessential federal spending. It is traditional that government, of any sort, will always spend all the money it can get; and so long as our government can print money without placing any tangible value back of it, there is no limit to our spending. We should return to a gold standard — now.

2. We should protect our profit system. The incentive that one would prosper in proportion to his effort has been the force that has brought our people a standard of living unknown before in the world. The primary consideration in arriving at an equitable tax system should be the preservation of this motivating force. Our prosperity is based on profits. The incentive held forth not only to the individual, but to the beginning of our nation that any poor boy who had the energy and the courage and the ambition to do so could become wealthy accounts for the marvelous material welfare of this country.

3. We should strengthen the labor law of the land. The Taft-Hartley Act, which is more nearly a workers' bill of rights than any labor law we have ever had, still contains some glaring weaknesses. In order to preserve the right to work, which is fundamental to our way of life, and in order to protect the well-being of the nation as a whole, this law should be amended to abolish its present provision for a union shop and to place labor monopoly under the same anti-trust laws as industrial monopoly.

4. We should be realistic about foreign aid and quit our "give-away" program. We should tell the world that we believe in charity and are glad to help those starving and in distress when possible. We should also be willing to form military alliances for our mutual protection with those who believe in the democratic way of life. But we should let it be known that we are not laboring under the idea that there is no limit to our resources and that the less a people do for themselves the more we are likely to do for them. We should not continue to kid ourselves by acting on the principle that we can preserve democracy by subsidizing socialism.

5. We should act on courage — not on fear. We have been entirely too much afraid in recent years of what the Communists might do or Russia might do or what somebody else might do or say or think. There is no nation in the world today that has less

The Nation's Press

MANY PERSONS CONDONE COERCION (Christian Economics) BY V. ORVAL WATTS, PH. D.

More or every many of "our best people," including teachers and clergymen, condone coercion when government uses it for what they consider to be good ends, such as compulsory charity, compulsory saving, compulsory military service, compulsory education, compulsory pricing, or compulsory investments.

Under these circumstances it should not surprise us that many persons conclude that might makes right in human relations. They decide that bullying gets them more than honest service or persuasion. It is among these deluded persons that unions get the strong arm men who form the backbone of the picket line in a strike and who help "keep order" in union meetings as they cow those who might dispute the pronouncements and orders of the officials.

This violence is rife throughout the union movement, and it is the corrupting cause of union excesses and exactions. Yet rarely do those who are supposed to be our moral leaders denounce this violence and intimidation which aggravates the evils of war, which is violence between nations. They make a great or about a rare lynching in which race prejudice seems to play a part. But they pay little attention to the everyday occurrence of violence in their own communities, especially UNION COERCION.

Unless and until citizens are willing to put an end to union violence, every other sort of government interference in labor disputes merely aggravates the evils of union monopoly and union dictation. Government mediation and arbitration, for example, give legal recognition and support to a private government by union officials and their hirelings. And since union officials make their own laws, the form of that private, union government is feudalism or even totalitarian dictatorship.

So warped are citizen ideas and government policies now on this matter that, in the name of keeping order, the police often stop the efforts of non-union employees to break through picket lines and go to work as is their lawful right. Thus government illegally supports the criminal coercion by union pickets.

The first duty of government is to protect individuals against violence and intimidation, whether from foreign foes or domestic bullies. When government fails in that duty, there is retreat towards anarchy, civil war, and the way of the jungle.

JUSTICE CANNOT BE PARTIAL I realize that the common excuse for union violence is that it is merely a "natural" reaction to employer violence.

This is mostly a trumped-up falsehood. When public opinion is so partial to unionism that it tolerates flagrant violence by union organizers and pickets, as it so often does today, one may be sure that the police and courts are not tolerant of employer violence.

In any case, one wrong does not justify another. The law must stop ALL violence, whatever its source, or the citizen loses his freedom. Union violence is also condoned on the ground that an unorganized reason to be afraid than the United States of America. Yet we have been running around in confusion, afraid of where the Communists might strike next, uncertain of whether to send troops one place or another, pouring out dollars here and there in an effort to stop holes in the side of freedom. We haven't acted like men of courage; we haven't stood up for our rights.

That is not the traditional American way. That was not the way of Washington or Monroe or Jackson or even Teddy Roosevelt. We could at least be as courageous as when our nation was young.

These are five major steps to sanity on which we should center our attention and around which we should base our decisions.

National Whirligig Truman Used Taft-Hartley Law Nine Times During Presidency

By RAY TUCKER

(Every week this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' letters of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.)

WASHINGTON — "Why do not the House and Senate elect the chairman of their committees?" asks M. T. of Elizabeth, N. J., "instead of giving such important positions to them under the seniority system? Wouldn't that advance younger, more energetic men, and less hidebound members?"

Answer: This question was raised by the Democrats in the campaign as an argument against the election of Eisenhower. They maintained that the GOP controlled both houses of Congress, he would suffer from the fact that so many committee heads would be extreme conservatives or outright isolationists.

Despite its admitted faults, however, progress by seniority seems to be the only practical procedure. Otherwise, a President seeking tight control of the legislative branch could — and might — use his influence to place his own men in positions of power. That would upset the structure of a balanced government, with the legislators having a check on the executive agencies.

The election of committee chairmen would be conducted with log-rolling by economic and regional groups, and there is too much of that on Capitol Hill now.

Moreover, if the committee membership wishes, it can always override a chairman, for he has only one vote. Time and again, committees have reported on measures or authorized investigations in the face of opposition from the nominal boss.

TAFT'S POSITION — "Why does Senator Taft want to be the Republican leader of the Senate, asks G. P. of Sandusky, O., "as well as head of the Policy Committee? Is he simply grasping for personal power?"

Answer: The explanation for Sen. Taft's leadership try is simple. The chairmanship of the GOP Policy Committee is a responsible job when a Fair-Deal President sat in the White House, for it enabled Taft to provide effective opposition and to give direction to "his party's" course.

With Eisenhower in the White House, basic policy will be fixed there instead of on Capitol Hill, although Congress may modify or reject it. As Senate majority leader, the Ohioan would be both an adviser and pilot of White House legislation.

I do not believe that Taft seeks more personal power. He has never impressed me as that kind of man. He has definite ideas and theories about the federal government's function in our society, and he wants to be in a position to execute them, if possible.

USE OF TAFT-HARTLEY ACT — Numerous readers, including E. V. R. of Russell, Ky., and J. W. of Springfield, Mass., ask how many times President Truman invoked the Taft-Hartley Act, which he calls "the labor law" in industrial disputes.

Answer: According to the latest tabulation, Truman used it 13 times in his first term. Why this attractive assembly isn't out in lotus land earning $5,000 a week is something the boys in Hollywood will have to answer for themselves, but until they do, I suggest that Miss Marion Colby, currently the lady working with the skilled Blackburn Twins, be called in for a film test and a business talk.

The Blackburn Twins have occasion to find a new partner every year or so, since all other forms of show business combined kiddy their partners. Miss Janet Blair, for example, left them for the touring company "S.O.B. Pacific" and is now ending her way back into movies. Miss Martha Stewart, after getting a start with them, lit out for television, as which she has been a success in the touring company "S.O.B. Pacific" and is now ending her way back into movies. Miss Martha Stewart, after getting a start with them, lit out for television, as which she has been a success in the touring company "S.O.B. Pacific" and is now ending her way back into movies.

The legitimate aims of collective bargaining do not justify unlawful and evil means. Union coercion of the unorganized workers corrupts the entire union movement. It turns collective bargaining into collective racketeering.

COERCION CORRUPTS It is because union violence is subject their members and employers to this violence and intimidation that they can ignore the interests of wage earners, employers, and consumers. They force their members to subscribe to union journals filled with anti-capitalist falsehoods. They force members to go to meetings and listen to slanderous denunciations of employers and management, in general and in particular.

In well-organized towns, the union bosses "discipline" members for remarks which these union "authorities" consider disloyal, and that discipline may take any form from a private beating to expulsion from the union and consequent expulsion from the industry.

This union rulers seek to set up an Iron Curtain of class hatred and misunderstanding in order to keep control over their subjects.

The remedy for the union dictators that now cost this nation so dearly is easy to describe. It will even be easy to apply whenever enough people understand the folly and evil of violence against their fellow men.

FAMILY — "General Eisenhower will be our next President," observes Mrs. S.D.S. of Walla, Walla, Wash. "According to regulations, the FBI immediately surrounds the President-elect and his family. But Eisenhower's son is in Korea. Do some FBI men go to Korea to protect him, or is he brought home?"

Answer: First, it is not the FBI but the U.S. Secret Service which is charged with safeguarding the President, the President-elect and their families. The S.S. considers itself a far finer body than the FBI. Don't confuse them.

Maj. John Eisenhower gets no special attention or protection while in military service. From my own experience in the Army, however, I doubt if his commanders will assign him to dangerous or exposed positions. Incidentally, FDR's sons, James and Elliott, never had any Secret Service guardians in World War II.

EXPENSES — Although I have answered them before, questions still roll in as to who paid President Truman's whistles-top expenses. Although "broke," the Democratic National Committee says that it put up the cash.

CORRECTION — In a recent column, I said inadvertently that Eisenhower favored Taft-Hartley repeal. He doesn't, of course. He advocates amendment, with preservation of the law's basic tenets.

LOOKING SIDWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

It is not my sworn mission in life to go about looking for girls with pretty legs, but as an old-time admirer of what nature has done for Miss Betty Grable I have an amateur enthusiasm for discovering other pairs of equal eye-catching proportion. A cross a spin to the studio, I would confess that rivals for Miss Grable have been pathetically few and it was not until recently that I came across a set of gams which, if I ran a movie studio, I would place under immediate, firm contract for acting and dancing purposes.

Although not exactly an authority on Miss Grable's walking equipment, the truth is that we have been within eye-shot of each other a good many times. Back around 1938, when she was still a spin in a movie studio, I belonged to a little chowder and card-playing outfit in Los Angeles and on odd evenings Mr. Coogan would drop in and risk a spin with me. I would bet a dollar and no one could ever get fanged for more than three or four dollars in the course of an evening.

About every other session, Miss Grable would accompany her husband and sit by, kibitzer-fashion, while he tussled with Luck. I remember thinking at the time that I could not fathom how a girl with such a modest figure could be so bored. Later, when both of us had changed our worldly status, I had occasion to try to foist a ranch on Miss Grable who was, at the time, seeking a place to stable her husband, Mr. James, and a few horses. She didn't go for the ranch, but we walked around all 10 acres of it and I could not help but notice that she had harmed her pins in any way.

And now I have come upon a set of legs equal in every way to Miss Grable's, and like hers, which he calls "the legs of a figure that is comely, a throat that can sing and a face that is extraordinarily handsome and easy to look at."

Why this attractive assembly isn't out in lotus land earning $5,000 a week is something the boys in Hollywood will have to answer for themselves, but until they do, I suggest that Miss Marion Colby, currently the lady working with the skilled Blackburn Twins, be called in for a film test and a business talk.

Thanksgiving Day

Does Thanksgiving Day classify you on the platter level or on the prayer level? Will this day leave you with a singing soul, or only a stuffed stomach? Which day is it with you... Turkey Day or Thanksgiving Day? The "founding fathers" declared it a day of Thanksgiving to God. Then in all our supplication, may our much more abundant occasion for Thanksgiving make us even more humble. With Thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God (Phil. 4:6). A-MEN.

Buzz Sawyer

ME... UNDER ARREST? BUT WHAT HAVE I DONE?
I REPEAT, SENOR, I AM MEMBER OF SECRET POLICE. I TAKE YOU JAIL.
PLEASE, HE WAS JUST TALKING TO ME THRU THE WINDOW.
THE HECK YOU WILL!
SUDDENLY A TOOTING OF WHISTLES! FROM ALL SIDES POLICE SPRING OUT OF HIDING.

Jackson Twins

I'M POSITIVE THAT GIRL SAW HER REFLECTION IN HERE... YET I CAN'T SEE A THING?
EEEK! THERE'S NO GLASS IN HERE AT ALL! I MUST BE LOSING MY MIND!
I MUST TELL HORACE ABOUT THIS!
PST! JILL? I'LL MOVE OUT OF HERE BEFORE ALITTLE DRISALIA SPREADS THE WORD!
OKAY, HIDE BEHIND THOSE WINDOW DRAPES OVER THERE!

Blondie

BLONDIE, I'M BRINGING AN OLD FRIEND HOME FOR SUPPER TONIGHT.
I'M SORRY DAGWOOD BUT WE MUST HAVE A BAD CONNECTION-- I CAN'T HEAR A WORD YOU SAY.
I'LL BET IF I TOLD HER I WAS BUYING A NEW DRESS, SHE COULD HEAR ME.
WHAT COLOR?

Alley Oop

SEE! I TOLD YOU THERE WAS SOMEBODY IN HERE!
YES, I'D SWEAR SOMEONE JUST WENT OUT THAT DOOR!
WELL... WHOEVER IT WAS GOT AWAY!
NOW WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE THAT WAS ALL ABOUT?
COULD IT HAVE BEEN SOME-BODY TRYING TO SABOTAGE THE TIME-MACHINE?
I CAN'T SEE ANY EVIDENCE OF IT!
Mebbe you will when the power is restored.

Bo

Proclamation:
To all our readers we wish a most sincere...
Happy Thanksgiving
AND BACK AT THE LANE A LONG SLEEK ONE TURNS ONTO A DIM ROAD...
THE UNUSED BARN WHERE THEY AWAIT YOUR HIGHNESS IS NOT FAR AWAY.

Ozark Ike

WITH RAZ DAZZIL MOVING THE RUSTLERS THROUGH THE AIR AND OZARK IKE PACING THE WILDCATS ON THE GROUND, THE FIRST HALF ENDS WITH THE RUSTLERS LEADING 21 TO 20...
NOW LET'S SEE YOU BIRDS INTERCEPT SOME OF THOSE PASSES!
SHO, COACH... IF N' RAZ DAZZIL WILL JUST QUIT A-TROWIN' 'EM WHAR WE AIN'T!
AND AS THE WILDCATS CHARGE ONTO THE FIELD FOR THE SECOND HALF...

Chris Welkin

STRANDED BY DARKNESS WALLMAN LANDS HIS COPTER- CRUTE ATOP CHRIS WELKIN'S LABORATORY IN THE RESTRICTED AREA.
NOW TO FIND APRIL!
COULD SWEAR I HEARD SOMEONE UP HERE!

Mutt & Jeff

ME AND EENEE'S ENGAGED AND WE WANT YOU TO COME TO OUR PARTY TONIGHT AT HER APARTMENT!
OH, FINE! IS IT?
HERE'S THE ADDRESS! WHEN YOU GET THERE KICK THE FRONT DOOR OPEN WITH YOUR FOOT!
THEN PUSH THE ELEVATOR BUTTON WITH YOUR LEFT ELBOW AND GET OFF ON THE THIRD FLOOR!
I'N GO TO AP. 21MENT 3C AND PUSH THE BUTTON WITH YOUR RIGHT ELBOW AND I'LL LET YOU IN!
WHAT'S ALL THIS KICKING AND ELBOW PUSHING FOR?
YOU'RE NOT COMING EMPTY-HANDED ARE YOU?

Bugs Bunny

I HIRED YOU TO SWEEP! EAT WHAT YOU WANT, BUT KEEP WORKIN'!
WHAT A SLAVE DRIVER!
HMMM!
EVEN TH' HOLE IN A FLOOD IS TASTY GOOD!
REMEMBER! IF YOU WIN THE WISH-BONE THAT MEANS YOUR WISH WILL COME TRUE!
HOORAY! I WON! I GOT MY WISH!
YOU MEAN IT CAME TRUE ALREADY?
SURE! I WISHED I'D WIN THE WISH-BONE!

Fancilla's Pop

THESE ARE THE WORST REPORT CARDS YET! WHERE'S DEWEY'S?
DONALD DUCK
GOOD NEWS, UNCA DONALD. I DON'T HAVE T' WORRY ABOUT MY REPORT CARD ANY MORE!
SWELL! HOW COME?
TODAY I GOT EXPELLED!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE

I HAVEN'T BEEN ABLE TO DO A THING ALL AFTERNOON! I TOLD HER TO PRACTICE HER MUSIC LESSON AND SHE SAID 'OH, FUDGE! AS SNIPPY AS COULD BE!' YOU TALK TO HER-- SHE HAS NO MORE RESPECT FOR ME!
MAJOR HOOPLE, I SAW YOU GOING INTO THAT OWLS CLUB YESTERDAY! I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO RAID IT BUT YOU CAME OUT ALONE, AND I DISTINCTLY HEARD YOU HICCUPE FROM CLEAR ACROSS THE STREET!
MY WORD, MISS ALCORN! HOW ALERT YOU ARE!-- UM-YAS! I DID ENTER THE PLACE, IN SEARCH OF EVIDENCE-- HAK-KAFFE!-- ON YOUR WAY HOME PHONE ANY OFFICE IF YOU DETECT ANY BOYS RIDING BIKES ON THE SIDEWALKS!
I'VE ROLLED NICELY WITH THAT PUNCH.

Vic Flint

VIC FLINT, PRIVATE EYE, LIKES TO DROP IN AT HIS FAVORITE FLOWER SHOP OF A MORNINGS FOR A CARNATION.
EVEN? SINCE FIVE O'CLOCK THIS MORNING, THAT'S A WON- PERFECT! NO! HAVE THE CISAR, MR. FLINT!
THANKS, TONY, HERE I GO BUY MYSELF A FOOTBALL, YOU'VE GOT ENOUGH KIDS NOW FOR A TEAM.

CHIP

CHIP I'VE HEARD A LOT ABOUT YOU!
YES! BUT YOU CAN'T PROVE IT!
CHIP JEWELRY
YOUR CREDIT IS GOOD HERE!
I WISH HE'D OPEN A CANDY STORE!

Wash Tubbs

WHAT DID YOU HEAR, COMRADE?
I'VE HAF BEEN ONLY A RAT, BUT WE MAKE SURE!
AND BACK AT THE LANE A LONG SLEEK ONE TURNS ONTO A DIM ROAD...
THE UNUSED BARN WHERE THEY AWAIT YOUR HIGHNESS IS NOT FAR AWAY.

DAVEY! BAH AH-HH! NIX ON THE EAVESDROPPING!
YOUR MOMMY AND CATY? I THOUGHT SO!
YEAH! WHY DO WHIMIN TALK SO MUCH?
I GUESS IT'S A HOLDOVER FROM THE OLD DAYS WHEN MRS. WOODSWAY LET 'EM DO MUCH ELSE!
SNIP MIMBZ PTT!

Mickey Finn

WELL, IT MAKES ME FEEL MIGHTY GOOD, PHIL-- KNOWING IT WAS BROOKSVILLE THAT PULLED YOU THROUGH!
I'LL NEVER FORGET IT, ELMER! AND IF YOU EVER WANT A FAVOR, YOU KNOW ALL YOU'LL HAVE TO DO IS ASK!
THE OTHER ONE IS HIS NEPHEW?
YES! I HEARD THE SHERIFF INTRODUCE HIM TO GRAMPS!
HUMPH! DID YOU HEAR IF THEY'RE STAYING FOR LUNCH?
YES-- THEY ARE! BUT I'LL HELP YOU WHIP UP SOMETHING!
I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING DOWNTOWN-- TO HAVE LUNCH WITH HAZEL LOCKHART!
I WAS, MOTHER-- BUT I'VE CHANGED MY MIND!

Penny

WHAT'S THE TROUBLE, PRINCESS, BEEN HIKING?
HE'S MURDER, REALLY!
HEH, HEH.
I'VE BEEN TRYING TO TEACH BRUZ HOW TO DANCE, AND HE'S MURDER, REALLY!
HE HAS TWO LEFT FEET.
DEFINITELY FATHER, AND WHAT'S MORE...
I'M LUCKY I HAVE TWO FEET LEFT!

Freckles

QUIT WORRYING, LARD! TRY AND FORGET IT'S ALMOST TIME FOR YOU TO GO ON!
HOW CAN I WHEN WEARY KEEPS MUMBLING ABOUT A CLOCK!
WHERE?
WHY RIGHT UP THERE (YAWN)--- CLOSE ENOUGH TO DISTURB THE SLEEP OF THE JUST!
AND CLOSE ENOUGH--- IF IT'S AN ALARM CLOCK--- TO GO OFF AND DROWN OUT MY SPEECH! GULP!

Donald Duck
