CANADIAN — (Special) — The Canadian Lions Club held a "homecoming" for former members at its luncheon meeting Friday in the WCTU Building. Eight former members were guests of the club.

President Hugh Wilson announced the Lions' broom sale which is to begin November 9 and continue for one week. The club has set for its goal the sale of 800 brooms all of which are manufactured by blind workers at the Arkansas Lighthouse for the Blind.

The Lions expect the broom sale to be a three-way benefit project—the sale will help the blind manufacturers dispose of their product; profits from the sale are already earmarked for the purchase of camping equipment for local Boy Scout Troop 17; and any proceeds remaining will go to the Lions Sight Conservation Fund.

Joe Knittel, local bird dog trainer and field trial enthusiast, entertained the group with a color film showing the training of a national championship pointer and pictures of the actual running of the National Field Trials of last year.

Marine Corps Deal

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 31—UP—It cost the U. S. Marines a 12 cent fork to get John R. Beeler, 17, as a recruit.

Beeler, a National Guardsman, volunteered for the Marines.

"You can have him but we've got to get back the haversack fork he hasn't turned in," the National Guard said.

The Marines offered to pay in cash but the guard demanded the fork. The deal was closed when the Marines found a haversack fork and turned it over to the Guard.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—UP—Greece's Queen Frederika couldn't hear what a photographer was saying so she asked a bystander.

"He says you're wonderful," was the reply.

"Why doesn't he say it louder so I can hear?" her majesty asked.

MANY FOUND NEAR PAMPA Collecting Arrowheads Is Hobby Of Retired Farmer

By ED NASH
Pampa News Staff Writer

It looks like a small storehouse, the way it's situated under the trees out behind the house.

But R. J. Sailor, a resident of Pampa since 1906, spends too much time out there for it to be only that.

Sixty-two years young, Sailor has been collecting those and all other kinds of Indian mementos for the last 20 years and intends to keep it up for 20 more.

There are a few frames of Indian arrows and bones of one type or another in his home, located just south of the Borger highway, two miles west of Pampa. But that is only an appetizer. The real collection is out back.

The four walls are filled up solid with frame upon frame of Indian arrow heads, plus rugs, bones, tomahawks, awls and more. And the floor, the middle of that is covered, too.

A retired farmer, Sailor goes looking for more every trip he makes and insists that probably one-fourth of his collection has been picked up within 50 miles of Pampa. But he won't say precisely where, for "everybody'd be out there—looking."

When F.D.R. came into presidential office, Sailor went out into the fields. He's been there ever since, not farming but looking for 'heads.

"I had nothing to do and needed the exercise," were his reasons for taking up the hobby, something he had never even considered beforehand. Now he reads up on his Indian lore, the arrow head-hunting has got him that interested.

Reared in Missouri, Sailor came to Texas early in his life and figures that he got started in the collecting business at just the right time. This is one person that the Dust Bowl days did some good for.

"When the dust blows off the ground, it's a good time to hunt arrow heads," he says, adding that this arrow head-gathering "grows on you after a bit."

One thing, though, Sailor hasn't any idea how many of the arrow heads he's picked up in the last two decades. Best he can do is figure he's got about 100 to 200 each. And "I expect I've got 10 or 12 more frames in the ARROWHEADS AND MORE — R. J. Sailor, 62, who lives west of Pampa, is a collector of Indian arrowheads and other allied items. Here he holds (in his left hand) a grooved ax and (in his right hand) he isn't sure what. On the wall are a few of the frames of arrowheads which he has been collecting for the last 20 years. On and in the display cabinet are still more Indian mementos. (News Photo)

Very proud of the popularity of his collection, Sailor beams when he says that visitors from as far away as Holland have heard of it. Of course, he continues, "residents of most of the American states have seen it and have signed the guest register."

Few are the tips that he can give to potential arrowheadmen. "If you can find where it's blown, like in this country where the water's scarce, it's good." Novices should look for pieces of flint, and broken pottery. Places like that, "the chances are pretty good, if somebody hasn't got there first."

Sailor doesn't confine his activity to the Panhandle, however. Four years ago he made a trip through Yellowstone Park, Idaho, Oregon, the Columbia River, the Dakotas and brought back a whole new bunch. At the same time, though, he's found shells, money and Army buttons—and "heads—at old Fort Elliott, near Mobeetie.

"Every trip I make, I'm looking," he says. Other items that he's picked up from time to time include beads, knives, gags, pipes, flashers (to take meat off the hide before tanning), grooved axes, even a hornet's nest which is now shellacked. Significance of the last was not explained.

Perhaps the favorite item he's acquired is the arrow head—"it's perfect"—that he carries on the end of a dangling knife-chain.

Ever think of selling part of the whole collection?

"Nope" was his definite answer. "There are none for sale, they're too hard to get." But he figures "they'd sell like hotcakes." He just can't see selling any of the items, though.

"If you have a barrel of water," he says, "and start taking some of it out from time to time, eventually it'd go dry."

His family, he claims, doesn't mind his arrow head hunting. Though once in a while on a hot day when he spends more than an hour, they get a bit restless.

More recently, Sailor has become interested in rocks as such, instead of looking for those arrow heads some two to seven feet in the ground. And he's got them scattered all over the little house, many of them on the floor.

He's found a lot of them in the Durango, Colo., area. One of them rubs off a shade of red, "just like the glamor gals wear paint." He even has an ultra-violet lamp with which to look at them.

His lasting love, though, will probably remain those arrow heads and allied items. Once it took him three years to find all the pieces of an arrow head sharpener.

Sailor used to do a lot of fishing and hunting; but now—"I'd rather find a perfect arrow head than catch a whole boatload of fish."

Brave Heroes Cited By Fund

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31—UP—A 15-year-old schoolboy and two men who swam to the aid of a swimmer being attacked by a shark off Pacific Grove, Calif., were among 35 persons cited Saturday by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission.

The commission cited four housewives, a 20-year-old girl clerk, and 10 teen-aged boys and girls among the heroes who risked or lost their lives to save others from death by fire, drowning, and in highway, train, and industrial accidents.

Three of the heroes died and two were disabled in their rescue attempts.

A bronze medal was awarded to Brookner West Brady Jr., 15, of Monterey, Calif., who was swimming in Monterey last Dec. 7 when a 12-foot shark attacked another schoolboy, A. Barry L. Wilson, 11. Brady supported the bleeding, terrified youth for seven minutes as the shark swam beneath them.

A school teacher, John L. Poskus, 38, Pacific Grove, Calif., and Roy F. Ambrosio, 29, a Monterey traffic officer, swam out to assist the two boys. The shark attacked again and Wilson died of his wounds before they reached shore.

A spectacular rescue was made by railroad switchman Ernest L. Wall, of El Dorado, Kan., who jumped from a moving diesel engine and, running ahead of the backing train, picked up a 17-month-old girl who had stumbled between the rails in the switching yard.

One of the heroes cited posthumously was Peter McCauley, 13, of Everett, Mass., who rescued a 10-year-old boy who drowned trying to save an 11-year-old youth when both broke through a frozen pond at Melrose, Mass., last Feb. 24.

The awards are made three times annually. In addition to awarding medals in each case, the commission granted annual pensions totaling $1,740 to two heroes, death benefits totaling $1,750 to survivors of two others, and one $100 disability benefit. The 29 other medal winners received awards totaling $12,250 for educational and other "worthy purposes."

The hero fund was established in 1904 with a $5 million trust grant by the late steel magnate, Andrew Carnegie.

Memphis Given 90 Days To OK Route 287 Plan

AUSTIN, Oct. 31—UP—Memphis, Tex., was given 90 days Saturday to accept the conditions of a plan offered by State Highway Commissioners for building a more direct route on U. S. 287 along South Erast St. through the city.

The highway department proposed that it would build and maintain a minimum four-lane street section through the city, if Memphis would provide a 70-foot right-of-way, make necessary utility changes, prohibit parking along the route, provide sidewalks and driveways required, storm sewers, and take into the city street system all streets such a rerouting would take from the state or federal highway system.

Texas Parachutes Safely
LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 31—UP—Two pilots, one of them a Texan, parachuted to safety Friday when their jet planes collided in flight about 40 miles north of here. The F-80 pilots from Nellis Air Force Base were identified as Capt. Houston M. Tuel, 31, of Burk Burnett, Tex., and Pilot Officer John H. Wilson, 20, of Sidcup, Kent, England.

In 1911, Perry Rodgers completed the first transcontinental airplane hop, flying from Sheepshead Bay, Long Island, to Long Beach, Calif. Rodgers was killed in a plane crash six months later.

Port Arthur News Guttled By Blaze

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Oct. 31—UP—Fires believed to have started in a ceiling gutted sections of the Port Arthur News early Saturday.

A spokesman said damages were "heavy."

Saturday's edition was not published but the managing editor said the newspaper probably would publish its Sunday edition by using stereotyping facilities offered by other newspapers in the Gulf Coast area.

The second-floor quarters of the newspaper department and part of the first floor below it housing the advertising and business offices, were gutted by the flames.

But the first floor pressroom, the same section of the building, suffered damage only from water and smoke. A large quantity of newsprint below the pressroom was "re-ecited."

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 31—UP—Trustees for the Texas A and M Research Foundation re-elected Raleigh Hortenstine of Dallas president in a meeting here Friday. Gib Gilchrist, former A&M chancellor, was chosen vice president and C. A. Roeder of the college's fiscal department was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The fire was discovered about 6 a. m. by Ray Stover, telegraph editor, and Dick Oliver, sports editor, about 30 minutes after they arrived for work.

Managing Editor Mayo Wells said it apparently started above the matroom at the rear of the building and had a good start before it was discovered. Cause was not known.

Wells said the water-soaked press would be able to function in time to put out the Sunday edition, and sheets at the rate of 13,000 impressions an hour.

Destroyed by water but the newspaper had more at another warehouse.

The old section of the building, the "damaged part," was built in 1926. A new section built about 1945, did not burn through Wells said it suffered minor water and smoke damage.

The new section housed the editorial department of the newspaper.

Speedy Presses, which are fed paper from huge rolls in an endless stream, can produce printed sheets at the rate of 13,000 impressions an hour.

Pampa Woman Makes Many 'Gadgets' To Keep Occupied

By JANE KADINGO
Pampa News Staff Writer
"I really don't have a hobby," stated Pampa's Mrs. Clifford Dunham as she sat by a table laden with ceramic figurines, copper work, aprons, earrings and blouse "ties" she had made. "It's just that I can't sit down and do nothing."

MRS. CLIFFORD DUNHAM — keeps herself busy making ceramic, figurines and dishes, aprons, earrings and blouse "ties". Above, she is shown holding a copper etching, another example of her handwork.

And it's obvious Mrs. Dunham keeps busy by the number of things she makes during moments "squeezed in" between taking care of her house, her husband and her 10-year-old son.

Among the most unusual of Mrs. Dunham's crafts is the fashioning of fishing corks, straight pins, tiny beads and sequins into fascinating sets of earrings and blouse ties.

"You just take fishing cork which has a hole in the center, and paint it with black airplane dope—or any color you want," Mrs. Dunham explained. "Then you string a small bead and a sequin on a straight pin and stick it into the cork." The pin, by the way, is cut to 1-3 its usual length. When two corks are covered with pins, beads and sequins, a strip of velveteen "rope" is threaded through the holes in the corks. This makes the "tie" with a decorative ball at each end.

The matching earrings are done in much the same way, only the cork is cut in half and the flat edge rubbed smooth with sandpaper. When the cork is covered with sequins and beads, an ear ring "back" is glued to the flat side.

"You can make a set in an afternoon," Mrs. Dunham declared. "It probably takes me about two or three hours."

With the aid of a rolling pin and tea strainer, Mrs. Dunham's magic touch transforms ordinary hollyhock or walnut leaves into lovely ceramic candy dishes.

A hollyhock dish is formed by placing three leaves on molding clay and "rolling" them in with a rolling pin," Mrs. Dunham advised. She then cuts the leaves out of the clay and faces the molds with paper until they are dry. Flowers for the base of each leaf can be fashioned from the clay "free-hand" and centers are added by forcing clay through a tea strainer.

After the clay dries, the ceramic is in the "greenware" stage. It is then polished and "bisque baked" (first baking). Glaze—colored or clear—is added, the ceramic is "china painted" and it is ready for the final firing.

"It takes about five or ten minutes to make the ceramic, but then you have to allow time for it to dry and for baking," Mrs. Dunham pointed out. "The whole process takes about three days."

Mrs. Dunham has made many ceramics, including a Spanish dancing girl, a parrot on a perch, a clown, a Plainsman, a picture frame, a shoe, and a horseshoe ash tray with a boot at the back for holding matches. She also makes party aprons and copper etchings.

"I make them for my own pleasure," Mrs. Dunham stated, "and as Christmas gifts for my family and friends."

In addition to her family duties and "hobbies," Mrs. Dunham directs a Brownie troop and is active on many club committees.

Dan Thornton Blasts Demos

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 31—UP—Colorado's Gov. Dan Thornton teed off at the Democrats Saturday night, calling them "political gangsters."

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Indiana Republican Editorial Association, the Republican governor, who is a close friend of President Eisenhower and often has been mentioned as a possible successor to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson, said the Republicans "are on the side of all that is good and that is decent."

"You will find today that those people who were voted out of power are still trying to smear those people who would eradicate this foul mess we inherited from the previous Democratic administration," Thornton said.

"They have not lost the will to do battle, for it means political death to them if they cannot recapture the political offices of our government. I say these people are dangerous and they are subtle; they break the country down into political segments and then auction them off."

"Today, they have the farmers' vote on the auction block, hoping to prove that the highest bidder, using your tax dollar and mine, will buy their political support," he continued. "Tomorrow the labor vote, day after tomorrow, the business vote and the following day, catastrophe and oblivion for all the free people of this nation."

"They have discovered a weapon to destroy America as surely as the atom bomb—the buying of political power, the auction block method of buying support," Thornton said.

"In the last two decades political gangsterism developed to its highest from the muddy banks of the Missouri. The slime and residue left from the former administration has been cleaned up with an obliterating acid of truth and sincerity," he said.

Auto Prices Not Likely To Decline

By PAUL E. SVOBODA
DETROIT, Oct. 31—UP—A general decline in car prices within the next few months is unlikely despite recent action by one "Big Three" automaker.
The manufacturers are inclined to let their dealers do whatever cutting is to be done through over-allowance on trade-ins, extra accessories and other "special deals" to sell cars.
The Chrysler division of Chrysler Corp. cut prices on most of its 1954 models Wednesday. Price tags dropped as much as $169 on the New Yorker line and $27 to $60 on the cheaper Windsor line.
Second Cut For Chrysler
It was the second time this year the corporation had seen fit to cut prices. Last March an average $100 across the board was cut from Chryslers, DeSotos, Dodge and Plymouth cars.
That action had no effect on the rest of the industry and the downward move by its high-priced car division now isn't likely to cause a stir.
The reductions made earlier this year were the first in the postwar era for Chrysler Corp., while there has been considerable price jockeying in other sections of the industry.

Rains Hike Hopes In Panhandle Area

GOODWELL, Okla., Oct. 31—UP—Recent rains have brought the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandles out of two years of drought without the sand storms and wholesale abandonment of farms and ranches that marked the "Dust Bowl disaster" of the 1930s.
Optimism and higher cattle prices are spreading throughout the Panhandles and adjacent High Plains areas in Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.
Dr. Marvin McKee, president of Panhandle A&M College here, said Saturday the High Plains drought "critically depleted the livestock census, but by no means was it anything like the disaster this country saw in the 1930s."
Recall Migration of '30s
McKee, in an interview, recalled the disaster of 1934 to 1936, when tens of thousands of Panhandle residents fled this "dust bowl" country which drought had turned into a Sahara-like desert. McKee said the recent drought caused no migration.
"If anything, this country has gained population in the past several years," McKee said.
He said rains which have been received since July—starting only a few days after President Eisenhower made a one-day drought survey to nearby Amarillo, Tex.—have "suddenly and dramatically" ended the High Plains drought.
Rains Help Wheat
"The rainfall has come at an opportune time for winter wheat," the educator said, "because it has created the prospect of abundant wheat pastures in the High Plains."
McKee said if present trends continue, millions of head of livestock will be grazed on the wheat fields of this region. The demand for stocker and feeder cattle at Guymon, the county seat, has caused a $3.50 to $5 price increase there in that type of animal during the past 10 days.
"Farmers in this country have received a bonanza," McKee said. "In addition to wheat pasture, they have a large acreage of grain sorghum which provides rough pasture."
Texas county (Okla.) alone has an allotment of 421,000 acres of wheat, while its grain sorghum roughage acreage is estimated at 200,000. Some of this land will pasture 10 steers, averaging 1,000 pounds each, to the acre.
Good Winter Pasture
McKee said that explains the jump in cattle prices at the Guymon community auction. It also explains why only 1,200 animals were offered to buyers there this week, about a third of the average in recent months. Farmers, anticipating further price increases, are holding their herds.
"This situation can be multiplied many times in the counties which were once in the Dust Bowl," McKee said. "Wheat and roughage acreage in many counties of Oklahoma, Texas, eastern New Mexico, southeastern Colorado and southwestern Kansas will prove a good attraction to cattlemen seeking winter pasture."

Young Waco Man Killed In Crash

PORTER, Tex., Oct. 31—UP—A 19-year-old Waco man, Harvey Les Boswell, was killed instantly in a head-on collision during a hard rain north of here on U. S. 59 early Saturday.
Boswell's convertible rammed head-on into an empty tank truck driven by Cye Robert Harper, 48, of Houston.
Harper told Highway Patrolman Clarence Bruton that Boswell was on the wrong side of the highway when the mishap occurred about 5:35 a. m.
"I did everything possible to avoid him," Harper said. Harper was not hurt.
Boswell's body was taken to the Humble Funeral Home in Humble.

Political Experts Awaiting Outcome Of Tuesday's Voting

By JOHN L. CUTLER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—UP—Democrat and Republican national leaders Saturday anxiously awaited scattered elections Tuesday for signs of what to expect in 1954's crucial mid-term campaign.

New Jersey and Virginia governors, a New Jersey congressman and mayors of more than 100 cities were among those to be elected in Tuesday's voting.

One more congressman, filling the last remaining vacancy, will be chosen in a special election in California a week later.

Interest of national political leaders focused particularly on the New Jersey battleground. Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall swung into the state on behalf of the GOP candidates—Paul L. Troast for governor and George Hatfield for Congress. The Republican theme is: "Give the President a team he can work with."

well known in New Jersey for the televised crime investigations which reached into the state, played into the battle on behalf of Democratic candidates—Robert B. Meyner for governor and Harrison A. Williams for Congress. Kefauver's theme was that the New Jersey GOP was too closely tied to a crime-politics alliance his committee exposed.

The Virginia governorship race—between Republican Ted Dalton and Democrat Thomas B. Stanley—produced the strongest GOP effort for the office since post Civil War days.

Virginia is one of the Southern states which went Republican for President in 1952.

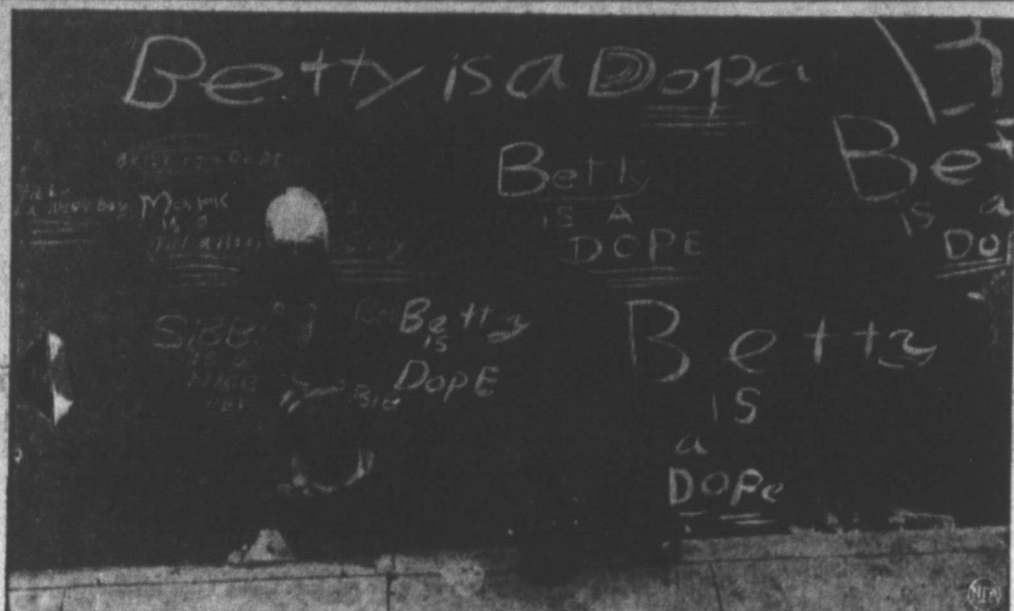

Four in California Race
Top mayoralty race meriting national attention is a red-hot contest in New York City.

The California congressional election, to be held Nov. 10, is a "sudden death" affair involving two Democrats and two Republicans. It is for a Los Angeles county seat vacated by Republican Rep. Norris Poulson when he was elected mayor of Los Angeles.

The candidates are Republicans Glenard L. Lipscomb and John L. Collier, both state assemblymen, and Democrats George Arnold and Irving Markheim. Lipscomb and Arnold have the backing of their respective party organizations.

Money Lenders Now Seek 'Outlets' To Home Builders

By NEIL MACNEIL
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—UP—Federal Housing Commissioner T. O. Hollyday said Saturday the mortgage market has "definitely" turned and lenders are now seeking "outlets" for their funds.
 "We've turned—definitely," Hollyday said in an interview. "The market is still tight but there now is a different attitude. Money is beginning to seek outlets."
 Hollyday reported mortgage bankers now are calling up home builders and asking whether they want mortgage money.
Praises Builders
 "Of course, the property must be good," he said. "But it's been many a month since a banker called up a builder and asked what he has on his shelves."
 The FHA commissioner had nothing but praise for the way builders have met the difficult months during the past year.
 "There's no bellyaching now," he said. "I take my hat off to them. They've come through a difficult time, but they are buckling down and facing the problem in a practical way."
Home Buyers To Profit
 Hollyday said he regards the "same time" before the housing market would return "to the good old days." But he said home buyers are going to profit from the altered market.
 "The public is going to find some real competition among the builders," he said. "The buyers are going to get right careful scrutiny to the houses they buy. So are the bankers who put up the mortgages."
 Hollyday said he regards the competition as "a right good thing."
 "By and large," he said, "the long-range experienced builder has tightened his belt and is going ahead with his building."
 In recent trips throughout the country, Hollyday said, he has found builders "adjusting" to the new market situation.
 "You don't find them complaining," he said. "The fire that purged them hurt, but they are still on the job. They are in there fighting."
 The commissioner, in summing up the general situation of the building industry, said builders "have come through a pretty severe test." But he indicated the worst was behind them and their business would now improve.
FHA Applications Increase
 Hollyday said FHA loan applications in September were 15 per cent higher than the August total for one- to four-family homes. He said the upward shift was not enough on which to predict a new trend towards increased building.
 "But it's right interesting," he said.
 In the week ending Oct. 23, the FHA received 8,817 applications. In the week ending Oct. 16, the agency had received 6,351 applications.

Poll On Video

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 31—UP—Miss M. Isabelle Hall, a high school English supervisor, said she polled 37 sophomores on how television affects teenagers' reading and these were three of the answers.
 "Miss Hall, I suffer when I read."
 "I'm going to read a book sometime. Last night I saw a quiz show and the contestant didn't get the jackpot because he hadn't read a book."
 "Who wants to read a book, Miss Hall, it makes you feel petunia—you know, petunia (petunified)."

By WALT SWITZER
 Pampa News Staff Writer
 There is much more work involved in the operation of a police department in a city the size of Pampa than the average citizen realizes, according to Jim Conner, chief of the Pampa Police Department.
 The average citizen, he said, thinks that all the members of the department have to do is cruise around the city to protect life and property and make arrests.
 "This certainly is not true," the chief stated. "I wish that these people who feel this way could come in to my office and see the stacks of paper work that have to be done every day."
 Special forms are required in making reports on certain types of crimes. For major crimes, the chief pointed out, such as murder, arson, rape, robbery with firearms and other similar crimes, as many as three different reports have to be made out.
 The handling of parking meter receipts and violations has developed into a full time job and is now handled by one man who does nothing else, unless called upon to do so in case of an emergency, he stated.
 "Another thing that the public doesn't seem to understand is that with our limited personnel, we can't possibly give the kind of service that some people demand," he said.
 "For instance, we have 16 men on the force, including J. O. Dumas, assistant chief, and me," he declared. "and, of course, we operate on a 24-hour day basis and this limited personnel just can't give that kind of service. Also, two of these 16 men are on relief duty, taking the place of the other men on their days off."
 Chief Conner stated that it was his opinion that the department is being operated very efficiently and that every effort is being made to keep it that way and, at the same time, to try to improve on present police methods.
 In addition to the 16 men on the force, there are two ladies, Mrs. Marian Clark and Mrs. Mary Walker, who are desk clerks. Mrs. Clark has been with the department since 1941. Mrs. Hazel Sherer is corporation court clerk. While she is not directly classed as an employee of the police department, her services are provided for in the police budget.
 "This is far different from the personnel lineup of 10 years ago, when Chief Conner first joined the department here as a rookie patrolman. At that time, he said, there were five patrolmen, two men on the desk and the chief, Ray Dudley. "We really were short-handed then," he added.
 Many calls are received by the department during a day's time, he said. Many of these are of a minor nature, he added, but "no matter how trivial the report might seem, it is our duty to make a complete investigation into the situation."
 The most frequent calls that come in concern prowlers, disturbances, barking dogs, crowing roosters, cats, skunks, etc., he declared.
 Chief Conner began his service with the department on Sept. 8, 1943, when he was hired by Chief Dudley as a rookie patrolman. He came here from Wise county. In 1946 he was promoted to the rank of sergeant and was the first man ever to hold that rank here. He again was promoted to the rank of captain about 1950. On April 1, 1952, he was named chief, succeeding John Wilkinson.
 He is married and has two children, a daughter 7, and a son, 5. Dumas has been a member of the department since April, 1944. J. R. Manning, a patrolman, is the oldest man on the force. In point of service, having joined the department on May 23, 1945, and had served as a policeman here several years before World War II.
 Other than those already mentioned, members of the force include Preston E. Bailey, the newest member of the department, having started Oct. 20; Sgt. Floyd D. Roan, Donald F. Brooks, G. W. Campbell, Robert E. Crouch, W. A. Crump, D. L. Day, F. E. Dyer, J. B. Goad, Ed Johnson, Jess Taylor, A. B. Turner and G. W. Callahan.

Hands Are Tied
 PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31—UP—John S. Weiss, who is digging a well in his yard, was under court order Saturday not to strike oil. If he does the well must be sealed.
 Township officials went to court when Weiss began digging a well for natural gas. They were afraid he would strike oil and begin transporting it... a violation of zoning ordinances.
 Judge William H. McNaugher ruled Friday Weiss could go ahead with his plans, provided he strikes only natural gas and uses it all himself.

Bird Eyelids
 Two of the three eyelids of a bird are much like our own, except that most birds use the lower one to close the eye, while we use the upper one. The third lid, the nictitating membrane, is inside the others and moves across the eye from side to side.

It's Your Deal

By OSWALD JACOBY and ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Written for NEA Service

"Please settle a dispute about the game of hearts," requests a Chicago correspondent. "Is it a rule of the game that the player who holds the queen of spades must get rid of it at his first opportunity?"

"I played the game at a friend's house recently, and I had a chance to discard the queen of spades. I thought it was quite safe to hold it, and wanted to discard it when I could be sure that the trick was going to be taken by the player who was winning most at that chance to discard it, the big winner protested vigorously. What do the rules say in this situation?"

No definite rule covers this situation. When you play hearts in a club, you are usually required to throw the queen of spades at the first safe opportunity. That is, you throw the queen if some player has previously played the king or ace of spades or if you have a chance to discard it. This rule is followed in clubs to avoid giving the impression that you are "ganging up against" any particular player.

In a home game, this rule is not widely followed. When people know each other pretty well they aren't afraid of deceptive appearances. Hence it is customary in a home game to let a player save the queen of spades until he finds the right time to discard it.

The answer to the problem therefore boils down to the kind of game you are playing in. If there are several strangers in the game, you should discard the queen of spades at your first opportunity to avoid creating a bad impression. If all the players are friends, do as you please.

Q — Does the queen of spades count 7 points or 13 points in the game of hearts?

A — The game is played both ways. This should be settled by agreement among the players before the game begins. If the matter is not discussed, the previous practice, if any, should be followed. If there is no previous practice, the queen should be counted as 13 points, since that is the more common practice.

A Huntin' We Will Go

A HUNTIN' WE WILL GO — Yes, get out of bed before the sun even thinks of coming up — get dressed and grab a cup of steaming coffee and out we go — scrambling through weeds shoulder high (all of that is done in the shivering cold). After a hike of what seems like miles and miles we finally spot a nice little clearing ahead and find a good hiding place to sit down . . . and then we just wait for some poor little animal or fowl to come by and then . . . WHAM! Now we have won our title as a modern William Tell. Why? Perhaps to please the menfolk? No, women nimrods of this modern day and time enjoy hunting just as much as the men do — as sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. PAMPA WOMEN participating in this wonderful pastime include Mrs. L. M. McWright, 1530 Williston; Mrs. Charles Duenkel Jr., 321 N. Frost; Mrs. W. H. Hipp, 310 S. Cuyler; and Mrs. C. H. Ashby, 916 Christine.

While a student at PHS she was a Harvester cheer leader. The prospective bridegroom is attending college in Las Cruces, New Mexico, where he is an engineering student. He was graduated from PHS in 1950.

Oldest Pension — England's oldest pension dates back to 936 A. D., when King Ethelred founded an annual grant to the parish priest of Purhoe, a small village near Exeter, for the bravery against Danish invaders. The payment has been made to the vicar of the parish ever since that time.

Texas Federation Of Women's Clubs Will Hold 56th Annual Convention In Austin

WORTHAM — (Special) — "Free Enterprise Is the Answer" will be the theme of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs 56th annual convention at Austin November 9-12. Mrs. Van Hook Stubbs, president, reveals in her plans. The 1953 theme answers last year's convention challenge, "What Are You For?"

(Several Pampans will attend the convention. Mrs. George Vineyard will represent the Twentieth Century Club. Also attending the meeting will be Mrs. Knox Kinard, state board member, and Ed Progreso delegate. Parent Education Club delegates are Mrs. Gene Fatheree and Mrs. Tom Ross.)

Headline speakers highlight the varied convention program, with Mrs. Stubbs leading off Tuesday morning in her keynote presidential address.

Cattle, cotton and industry heads from every segment of Texas economy will join in a "Free Enterprise in Texas" dinner panel set for Tuesday night in the Driskill Hotel in the day's top program event. Attorney General John Ben Shepperd will moderate the distinguished panel, which includes Wesley Izzard, Amarillo newsman.

The group was reminded by the president, Mrs. S. J. Meador, of a Council of Church Women's meeting to be held Nov. 6 and all members were urged to attend.

Good Body Posture Is Essential To Beauty And Health

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

After lugging groceries, making beds, washing dishes, ironing, scrubbing, answering doorbells and the telephone, driving the youngsters to and from school and preparing meals, a woman has a right to feel downright weary.

Tell yourself that and wallow in your weariness, if you wish. Or, you might look more closely at the neighbor (there is always one) who breezes through an equally taxing day.

Perhaps you will find that you are just as healthy and as cheerful in your approach to homemaking as she is. You may note, however, that there is a difference in the way you carry your loads.

Poor posture, according to the Posture Research Corporation, is responsible for most end-of-the-day weariness. So the establishment of good posture habits not only is important to grooming, but also to your general well-being.

One thing very pleasant about learning proper posture is that it can be done without taking time out from your daily routine. All you have to do is to be conscious of your bodily movements until you have perfected them.

Before starting a posture-improvement program, be certain that you have a very clear picture of what constitutes good posture. Misconceptions have kept many people from achieving proper stance.

Good posture consists of the holding of the parts of the body in positions which lend ease of movement without putting undo stress on any one part.

Keeping this definition in mind, try this old posture formula: Chest out, shoulders back. Not much ease of movement, but plenty of stress around the waist in the back.

What this most famous of misconceptions does is to give you a sway back. And in pulling the shoulders back (in addition to inducing a most uncomfortable feeling) it forces your arms to fall behind your hips in an extremely unflattering line.

Now, hold your chest high and let your shoulders lower naturally. This feels good, looks good, and it's good for you. That's good posture. It is not something to be endured for the sake of health and beauty. It is a means to more relaxed living.

You will note that holding your chest and shoulders correctly helps to flatten your abdomen. When you succeed in tucking the tip of your spine under, your abdomen will fall perfectly in line.

The purpose is to line up the parts of the body so that balance is perfect. Think of the parts as stacked blocks. If one is placed a little out of line, it threatens the whole stack. If one part of your body is allowed to wander out of line, the whole body will suffer.

With your body blocks evenly distributed, you will find the late-afternoon backache has disappeared and that your poor, tired feet are no longer so dejected. And you, in turn, will find your housework an easier task.

Most end-of-the-day weariness, we are told, is due to bad posture. So take stock of your stance, particularly if your career is homemaking. Do you hold your back straight when sitting? This housewife (left) irons while sitting on a chair that cradles the small of her back. She'll use it while washing dishes and preparing vegetables, too. Young matron (upper left center) demonstrates the correct method of getting out of a car. Putting right foot first, she throws the weight of her body on it as she draws her left leg forward. Then (lower left center) she shows wrong way to get into car. Leaving her left leg dangling, she puts her right leg in and braces her arms on seat and dashboard in an effort to drag her body in. She should have put her left leg in first, sat down and then drawn in right leg. With bundles gripped under her arms (right center), her weight is thrown off balance. With them at her sides (right) she achieves perfect balance and can stroll along posture-perfect, relaxed, graceful.

Blanch Groves Circle Meets In Home

The Blanch Groves Circle of the Calvary Baptist Church met recently for Bible study at the home of Mrs. Bert Mitchell. Mrs. Mitchell is the current Bible study chairman.

Plans were made for visitation and help for the aged. Closing prayer was given by Mrs. E. M. Boyd.

RUTH MILLET

This is going to be a left-over column. It is going to be made up of advice left over from numerous letters from my readers. They wrote in answer to a housewife's plea: "How can I go about streamlining my housework?"

A 28-year-old housewife with three small children offers this: "Never let a whole week's work stare you in the face on Monday morning. Sometime each Sunday, when I can snatch a little peace and quiet for myself, I take six sheets of paper, head them for the workdays of the whole week. Then I divide out the week's special jobs, and from then on until the next Sunday I never view a whole week's work at once."

A wife who obviously has a prize husband writes: "I have the responsibility of caring for the children and the work to do all through the day so when my husband gets home at night I turn the children over to him.

"The kids look forward to their two hours with their Dad in charge. I certainly look forward to it."

"And so far their Dad seems to have not only survived, but he is better acquainted with his children than a lot of dads who hide from their kids behind the evening paper."

And here's still another suggestion: "The only way to streamline housework is to get the cooperation of your family. Unless every member of a family is good about hanging up, putting away, and cleaning up after themselves a housewife isn't the lady of the house, but its constant slave."

A PHILOSOPHIC WIFE ADVISES

A wife with a more philosophic outlook than most advises: "Tell the wife who wants to know how to streamline her housework that the work is always going to be there for her to do. She can't work miracles in streamlining, but she can do a lot to change her attitude toward her work. I don't worry and fret about all I have to do; I just pitch in and do it as quickly as possible. And if it's a boring, routine job, I don't think about it. I think about something pleasant instead."

"And I've found it really makes me feel like less of a drudge if I don't look like one. When I scrub the kitchen floor I don't look like a scrubwoman, I've got my lipstick on just so, and my hair is tied back with a ribbon."

Missing Baby Sitter Case Recalls Weckler Mystery

FORT ATKINSON, Wis., Oct. 31—The baffling disappearance of teen-aged Evelyn Hartley at La Crosse Saturday recalled the case of little Georgia Jean Weckler, who vanished from her farm home near here six years ago.

To this day, no trace of the golden-haired eight-year-old has been found — even though there was a confession in the case. Buford Bennett, a 22-year-old convicted rapist-murderer, was quoted as admitting in his prison cell that he and an unnamed accomplice seized the Weckler girl.

But Bennett's directions on where to find the child's body were no help to southeastern Wisconsin lawmen, who were ready to go to the extent of diverting a river channel to find it.

Last Seen in Lane
The case began May 1, 1947. Georgia Jean, daughter of George Weckler, a farmer, was on her way to the road that passed the family's 100-year-old farm. She was last seen walking up the lane from the farmhouse to the highway.

After that — nothing. A truck driver told of seeing a black car near the lane and seeing the girl at the mailbox. He gave police a sketchy description of the driver. That was the only clue.

Then on Nov. 14 a University of Wisconsin student was killed and his sister-in-law attacked by two men who picked them up after a football game in Madison. Two days later, Bennett and Robert Winslow, 24, were arrested at a Clark county farm, speedily tried and sentenced to life terms in Waupun State Prison.

Immediately officials began checking Bennett's activities at the time the Weckler girl vanished. They found a number of clues that led them to believe he also was responsible for the girl's disappearance.

Few Clues Found
A month after the killing of the student, District Attorney Francis Garity announced Bennett had confessed the Weckler abduction. Bennett was hustled from the prison at Waupun to a bridge over the Wisconsin River — the same place where the college student's body was found.

He pointed to a spot in the river and for almost a month divers, diggers and draggers scoured the river in an attempt to recover the child's body. They found a few meager clues — a piece of binding was among them — to indicate Bennett was telling the truth. But no trace of the body was found.

Sennett said his companion gave Georgia Jean an overdose of sleeping tablets which killed her. He described the kidnaping in great detail, but Winslow stoutly denied any connection with it. Even then, there was speculation Bennett made up the confession.

Resumption Of Jurymen In Murder Case

BLOOMFIELD, Ia., Oct. 31—UP—Selection of jurors for the murder trial of New Mexico rancher Walter M. Mayer, which has developed sharp clashes between attorneys, is scheduled to resume Monday.

The state has indicated it will seek the death penalty for Mayer, 56, for shooting cattle buyer John C. Wisdom, 51, of Des Moines, Ia. Mayer claimed he shot Wisdom in self defense.

Selection of the jury is expected to run until about Wednesday because of detailed questioning and clashes between the defense and state over each prospective juror.

Ten jurors were tentatively chosen when the court adjourned for the weekend Friday. The court must approve 32, then trim that selection to 12.

Mayer, of Santa Fe, was relaxed during the questioning, but his wife Katherine buried her face in her hands occasionally.

District Judge Harold V. Levis ruled that Pearl Garmon, 49, a farmer, be excused from duty because he said he was "not sure" whether he could follow court instructions on the law of self defense.

The attorneys wrangled over the seating of Harrison McVey, the defense protesting when he admitted he would give more weight to a peace officer's testimony than to that of other witnesses. Levis excused McVey from duty.

County Attorney Charles Pettit asked each person on the 10-member jury panel if they were prejudiced against capital punishment, indicating he will seek the death penalty.

Defense Attorney R. E. White, Ottumwa, Ia., is expected to try to prove that Wisdom acted like a "wild man" when Mayer tried to collect from some sheep Wisdom allegedly sold without permission, and that Mayer fired in self defense.

You're in the driver's seat for less than you think

It's your money, of course—but we'd like to see you make the most of it.

That's why we want to show you the price of the big Buick SPECIAL illustrated here—to make Point #1: you can buy this great performer for just a few dollars more than the "low-price three."

But Point #2—the smart point—is this:

When you put up those few extra dollars for the Buick pictured here, you're in the driver's seat of a lot more automobile.

You boss extra power — more satisfying power — walloping Buick Fireball 8 power — highest ever found in a Buick SPECIAL.

You get extra room—a lot more comfortable room—real, man-sized, 6-passenger room—as much room as you get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

You enjoy extra satisfaction—more solid satisfaction—in the ride of this big, broad, road-steady traveler that's cushioned by coil springs on all four wheels, and engineered with all the other costly features of the Million Dollar Ride.

And, speaking of extras—here you get, at no extra cost, a long list of standard equipment that most other cars at or near the price of this Buick charge you for, as "extras" on the bill of sale.

So, as we said—it's your money—and it's your move.

If you're aiming for the driver's seat of a hard-to-beat buy—for a lot less than you think—come in and see us soon.
