City approves 2010-2011 fiscal year budget

ARNIE AURELLANO editor@thepampanews.com

Mayor Lonny Robbins was unable to make Thursday's special City Commission meeting, but that didn't stop the Commission from being able to pass a new budget for the 2010-2011 fiscal year.

Ordinance No. 1536 was passed on second and final reading, making the budget official. Also contained within the ordinance is an appropriation to provide for a sinking fund to pay for the City's indebtedness.

The budget projects an adjusted bottom line of $19,443 for the City's general fund. This is contingent with a tax rate of $0.62693, the same as last year's rate. Originally, the budget had hinged on a tax rate hike to $0.65, but the decision was made to leave the tax rate alone at a special meeting last month.

The Commission also approved the ordinance setting the tax rate at $0.62693 on first reading.

According to City Secretary Karen Pampa Economic Development Price, the City will vote to adopt the tax rate at the next regular City Commission meeting, scheduled for 4 p.m. on Tuesday.

City Manager Richard Morris said that the budget is available for viewing on the City's Web site, www.cityofpampa.org. On the menu on the left, click on "2010-2011 Proposed Budget."

· The City adopted a resolution approving a grant by the Corporation for the installation of eight surveillance cameras in City Parks.

Director of Public Works Donny Hooper said that a total cost for the project has not yet been finalized. Hooper added that the city is working with a company from Lubbock and that the total price is projected to be less than $40,000, with the City's part to be less than $15,000.

Homecomings old and new on Pampa's minds

dbowser@thepampanews.com

It's Homecoming week at Pampa High School, with campus abuzz with activity leading up to tonight's big football game against Wichita Falls Hirschi.

This year, it's an even bigger milestone than usual, with PHS celebrating its 100th anniversary. Many of the kids who have graduated in those 100 years have stayed close to home, growing up in Pampa with tender memories of the time when they looked forward to the Homecoming game as students. Loyd Waters, Pampa High School Class of 1958, said he thinks Homecoming was different back in the 1950s.

"We didn't have the big parades and stuff like that," Waters said. "The big thing about Homecoming was the bonfire that we had outside the football stadium. We had the wood and everything else we could steal and had a large bonfire."

He said there isn't the fierce rivalries today that they had back in the 1950s.

'There was Pampa and Borger and Amarillo High School," Water said. "There was only one school in each town."

He said the rivalry between Pampa and Borger was legend-

Jackie Harper, Class of 1968, said she remembers the Homecoming King and Queen out on the football field during halftime.

"We had a big bonfire," Harper said.

K9s for the Cure set for tomorrow

ARNIE AURELLANO editor@thepampanews.com

It's a win-win for Pampa's pet lovers this weekend: An opportunity for outdoor fun with their furry friends, with support for a worthy cause thrown in for good measure.

K9s for the Cure 2010 will kick off at 9 a.m. on Saturday at Hobart St. Park, with activities for two- and four-legged Pampa residents alike running through Registration for the event will begin at 8:30 a.m., with the first 50 entrants receiving a free gift. A $5 donation is asked of pet owners to participate in various prize drawings, as well as contests for treat catching, speed tail wagging, and the smallest and largest dog. Also, Nikki Shelton of Shutterbug Photography will be taking "pet portraits," and the Pampa Animal Welfare Society will also be present and involved.

Proceeds from K9s for the Cure will benefit the Susan G. Komen Greater Amarillo Race for the

The event is the brainchild of Marcie Costley, a veterinary technician at Easley Animal Hospital. With the 2010 Race for the Cure just around the corner (the event is set for Sept. 25 in downtown Amarillo), Costley came up with K9s for the Cure as a unique event that would help raise money as well as entertain the Pampa pet community.

"My sister-in-law (Monica Ybarra-Bennett) always participates in Race for the Cure, so she asked me to be on her team," Costley said.

PEDC to give $150K to new Clarendon EMT program

dbowser@thepampanews.com

The Pampa Economic Development Corporation will give the Pampa campus of Clarendon College $150,000 for its Emergency Medical Technician training program.

The PEDC also voted to contract for $90,000 with TIP Strategies in Austin to develop a strategic plan.

Both decisions will now go to the Pampa City Commission for approval.

The PEDC decided at their meeting Thursday to fund the request from Ray Jaramillo, dean of Clarendon College's Pampa campus, to expand the EMT training program they will implement next week.

Jaramillo said the Clarendon College facility at Pampa has a student population of 416 this fall. That's up from 152, when the school opened their Pampa campus in 2007.

He said they will begin EMT classes next Tuesday in Pampa. The classes will be done in conjunction with Amarillo College and the EMS Foundation of Texas, parent of Pampa EMS.

Of the $150,000 the college is getting, $60,000 is for equipment for the EMT program. The remaining $90,000 is for a simulated human being, a sophisticated mannequin that students can use for training.

In addition, Jaramillo said the college is exploring a Registered Nurse program at the Pampa campus.

He said the city has obtained some additional grant money, although a state grant request was denied, and has squeezed more money from their initial budget to increase funding for the park from $3.7 million to $4.1 million.

Stokes said that construction on the aquatic park is on schedule, and it should be ready to open by Memorial Day next spring.

He said the entry fee to the aquatic park would be in the five to six dollar range.

"We're hoping for at least a 500 person per day minimum," Stokes said. "More realistically, we're thinking 600 to 700 a day." That would give the aquatic park a revenue

Six months for Army impostor

DALLAS (AP) - A Texas man who earlier this year tricked the Army into allowing him to join the reserves as a noncommissioned officer has been sentenced to six months in prison and a bad conduct discharge.

A spokeswoman at Fort Rucker in Alabama says Jesse Bernard Johnston III received the punishment from a military judge July 26 after pleading guilty to seven counts of wrongdoing.

The charges stemmed from a scheme in which he used falsified discharge papers to dupe the Army into thinking he was a decorated ex-Marine.

The deception allowed the 26-year-old Johnston to join a reserve unit at the Fort Worth Naval Air Station as a sergeant without going through basic training. It was uncovered while he was going through advanced aviation training at Fort Rucker.

DALLAS (AP) — Scientists reviewing a disputed arson finding that led to the execution of a Texas man are resisting efforts to clear fire investigators of professional misconduct.

The scientists on the Texas Forensic Science Commission, meeting Friday in Dallas, said they would like to interview more fire experts about professional standards used by arson investigators in the early 1990s.

The commission is balking at approving a report that says fire investigators weren't at fault in determining that a 1991 house fire that killed three girls in Corsicana was deliberately set.

Cameron Todd Willingham was convicted of setting the fire and executed in 2004.

Commission Chairman John Bradley, who was appointed last year by Gov. Rick Perry, urged the panel to decide the investigators acted appropriately.

Perry blasts Feds for levee repairs

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Gov. Rick Perry has launched another attack on Washington, saying he wants quicker repairs for levees along the Rio Grande.

Perry on Friday released a letter he sent to the Obama administration that criticizes the federal International Boundaries and Water Commission for slow spending on millions of dollars slated for levee upgrades along the U.S.-Mexico border in Texas.

Agency spokeswoman Sally Spener says she hasn't seen the letter but said levees in south Texas are in their best Perry said Hurricane Alex and other tropical systems that battered the Rio Grande this summer raised new concerns about levee security and safety.

Levee maintenance joins border security as areas where Perry says the federal government has failed to do its job.

Licensing waits to be shorter?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The wait at the state's largest driver's license offices may soon be shorter, according to a plan the Public Safety Commission approved Thursday. Instead of the current first-come, first-served process which can sometimes take hours — drivers seeking to renew a license will get what amounts to an express lane, while those with longer transactions could make an appointment. Before visiting a location, customers will be able to check online to pick the DPS license office with the shortest wait time, the San Antonio Express-News reported

The changes are part of a larger reorganization of the state's driver license division intended to improve efficiency and customer service, the Texas Department of Public Safety said Friday.

EPA investigates BP incident

HOUSTON (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has launched an investigation into a 41-day benzene release at BP's Texas City refinery, the site of a massive explosion in 2005 that killed 15 workers.

The EPA's investigation, announced late Thursday, is the latest blow to the oil giant, still struggling to deal with the outcome of the massive Gulf of Mexico oil spill.

The refinery incident under investigation began April 6 when a fire occurred in a hydrogen compressor. As a result, gases were rerouted to the facility's flare — a flame at the top of many refineries used to burn off toxic gases — until the compressor could be fixed and restarted on May 16. The EPA is investigating whether the fire or the release violated the federal Clean Air Act.

Texas environmental regulators have said the company released more than 500,000 pounds of toxic air pollutants, including cancer-causing benzene, during that time.

· The City adopted an ordinance amending appropriations for Fund 12 (the City's animal control donations fund)

Faustina Curry, president of the newly formed Pampa Animal Welfare Society, thanked the Commission for making the change, saying that the amendment will allow the fledgling group to pay for its start-up

"This will allow us to have some seed money to put together paying for the initial nonprofit (status) with the state of Texas," Curry said. "Eventually we will have to put up some money for the 501c3, and it will also help us get a post office box and do some things like that."

Curry added that the group has started working with Animal Control and that she is optimistic for their continued partnership

"We started this week working with (Animal Control Supervisor) Monty (Montgomery), who has been really wonderful to us in helping us get ourselves together," she said.

'There are a lot of rules and paperwork and that kind of stuff that we're just kind of tripping through, but we're learning and Monty's helping us. We hope we'll be able to keep moving forward."

 Assistant City Manager Shane Stokes was authorized to issue a change order to the contract with the Fain Group regarding the construction of the Outdoor Family Aquatic Center

The change order adds $39,600 to the city's contract with the Fain Group, bringing the new total to $4,162,703. The funds are for two UV systems, which will be used in addition to chlorination to clean the pool's water. Stokes said that the change was made because the state of Texas recently mandated that public parks have a minimum of two systems to clean pool water. The City had initially projected that such a mandate would not be passed for two years, but the new regulation was enacted, forcing the City to comply.

Construction for the Outdoor Family Aquatic Center is progressing on schedule, Stokes added.

 The Commission entered into a Financial Advisory Contract with Southwest Securities.

Knack for crazy connections continues

We don't need no stinking bachelors

I don't do "single" well. My wife has been visiting her mother this week, so I have been batching it. I always have great plans of getting things done while she's gone, but I just seem to mope around.

Connect the dots

PEDC Director and former Chamber manager Clay Rice teases me about how often I run into people I have some sort of connection with. I was introduced to Jeff Edmond at Duncan Fraser and Bridges some time ago; Jeff and I were friends at The connections between Joe Kyle Reeve and me are downright spooky. I count as friends his brother, cousin, and a former minister's wife. I was in a writing group with a friend of his, the daughter-in-law of the Friona Chamber Director. When I was in the bookselling business, one of my clients was his wife Sarita at PHS. Last month I flew to Austin and struck up a conversation with my seat mate who declared she was from Friona. "I'll bet I know someone you know," I told her. "Joe Kyle Reeve." Yes, she responded, "He's my cousin." Weird.

But if those weren't odd enough, last Friday I attended a birthday party for Jerry Lister, one of the regulars at the Woody Guthrie jam sessions (among other things). We jammed at that shindig, too, since a couple of his friends who played on the Grand Ole Opry were in attendance. As I was getting ready to leave, the men handed me their cards and I noted that Larry Ford was from Leedey, Oklahoma, a place I had never heard of. "It's north of Elk City," Larry informed me, "not too far from Butler." "Well, then" I countered, "you must be close to Foss.

His face registered surprise. "How o you know about Foss?" (It's a tiny place.)

"I had an aunt that lived there," I said. "Her name was Knauf."

His surprise turned to astonishment. "Alvin?" he said, "I went to school with him — ran into him a couple of weeks ago."

It was my turn to be astonished. "That's my cousin," I said. "I haven't seen him since 1962, though he called when my dad passed away a few years ago. Tell him I said hello."

Small world.

Boomtown Christmas

There are big plans for Christmas in Pampa this year. The Chamber and local merchants will host the annual "Shop at Home" event culminating in the Christmas parade on Saturday, December 4, at 2 pm. Since this is the Chamber's 85th year, we are hearkening back to 1925 for the theme: Boomtown Christmas. Pam Dalton, Myra Jimenez, representing Shepherd's Helping Hands and Shepard's Home Health, along with the Downtown Business Association are putting together an extravaganza for that day which will incorporate traditional activities as well as introduce some new ones. If you'd like to help, have a booth, or just need more info call 665-0356.

True.

WILMINGTON, Del. — For the first and only time in a remarkable political career — which began in 1966 when he captured a "safe" Democratic state legislative seat and included winning campaigns for the state Senate, for lieutenant governor, for two terms as governor and then nine terms to the U.S. House — Mike Castle, on a Tuesday night in September 2010, lost an election.

In the crowd of admirers who heard him concede, there were more than a few tears, some disbelief and a ton of anger.

Joe Meloy, 76, a veteran Republican activist in Delaware, was solemn: "Mike Castle is totally principled, the finest gentleman in the world." And the tea party-Rush Limbaugh-Sarah Palinbacked opponent who defeated him, Christine O'Donnell? "She's a flake — a complete whack job."

There was understandable fury at Limbaugh's ugly smear on his election-day radio show that Castle in 2008 had nefariously supported sending a resolution calling for the impeachment of President George W. Bush to the Democratically controlled House Judiciary Committee. Limbaugh deliberately chose to ignore the fact that two of Bush's strongest fellow Texas conservatives, Reps. Kevin Brady and Sam Johnson, along with the senior Republican on the House Rules Committee, California Rep. David Dreier, voted with Castle to send the impeachment resolution to legislative oblivion, where as they intended, it died a silent win Delaware U.S. Senate seat Democrats had privately conceded to Castle before O'Donnell pulled her upset. But as Democrats learned in the 1970s, the newcomers' energy and enthusiasm comes with a stiff price for the party. Forty years ago, the issues and the causes and the constituencies were different: fierce, largely youthful, opposition to the Vietnam War, uncompromising supporters of abortion rights and gay rights, and environmental activists.

But the same fever of abolitionist morality - seen in the current tea party — characterized the "New People" to politics who then, as now, were free of self-doubt and brimming with passion and a sense of their own rectitude.

Ronald Reagan's "80 percent rule " — that someone who votes with you 80 percent of the time is an ally and a friend and NOT a 20 percent traitor - is heresy to all tea party types. In their unreflective conviction, cooperation on any issue with those on the other side is disloyal and compromise of any kind is treasonous.

After the "New People" the insurgents, whether on the dramatically Democratic left or the Republican right — prove by their energy and numbers they can defeat a targeted incumbent in a primary, other elected politicians and party leaders are terrified. They quickly sue for peace with the activists, embracing their agendas and being overly careful never to make them angry or even unhappy.

This was the case from 1972 forward in the Democratic Party presidential nominating contests. Candidates relentlessly, even shamelessly, solicited the bless-, ings, if not the endorsements, of the antiwar, pro-choice, gay rights; and environmentalist lobbies. A veto from one of them could cripple a Democrat's White House prospects.

Look for the 2012 Republican presidential field to totally embrace; the tea party program. The only place you will find the word bipartisan will be in the dictionary. Candidates, ignoring the contradictions in their positions, will swear allegiance to a balanced federal budget while simultaneously, and hypocritically, championing trillions more in tax cuts for the most affluent.

Watching the 2012 GOP pander to the tea party will be dispiriting and politically damaging and could well be the key to the beleaguered incumbent, President Barack Obama, winning a second White House term.

Remember: If that happens, you heard it here first.

If Jesus came to school with me... FUMC to hold fashion show

"I would ask him for all the answers. I would buy him lunch," says Bobby, age

Yes, it would be nice to not study and have the answers to those pesky tests. Then, there's the other trial that takes the fun out of school - homework.

"I would tell Jesus about the 1,000 pages we have to read," says Eric, 9. "I would tell him about my homework Mrs.

Wright gave me."
Eric, do you think Jesus would decrease your reading or homework? Don't count on it. This might be hard for you to believe, but most teachers have the best interests of their students in mind.

When Jesus walked on the Earth, his homework was heaven's work. He always listened to his Father's voice and obeyed perfectly. Because of his obedience in dying on the cross, our disobedience doesn't have to keep us out of heaven.

Ellyn, 9, has another plan for dealing with school: "I would ask Jesus to get my brother out of school, get on a cloud and fly us home."

wonder if the Lord could arrange a cloud-ride home about two minutes before a final exam. What teacher could argue with being whisked away on a cloud?

"If Jesus came to my school, I think I would show him how I can do the monkey bars," says Lauren, 7. "I would ask him to swing me. I would also ask him what heaven is like."

Some of us can't imagine Jesus taking time to swing a child on a playground. It seems so ordinary. We like the stories of Jesus walking on the water, feeding 5,000 people or healing a man born blind. If we always look for Jesus in the miraculous, we'll miss him in the ordinary details of life.

"If Jesus was right here at school, I would jump up and down, and give him a big hug," says Caroline, 6, "because I want to make Jesus smile, and I would bow down to him in respect.

Our lives would be radically transformed if we lived to make Jesus smile. Eliminating thoughts, words and actions that make Jesus weep would start us toward this lofty goal.

Think about this: Forget about your rights. If God gave us our rights as people who have sinned against him, we would have no hope of spending eternity with him. Every day, our hearts should be jumping for joy with gratitude and bowing down before God with reverence for his grace and mercy to us.

Memorize this truth: "Now to him who is able to do exceedingly abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that works in us, to him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus to all generations, forever and ever. Amen." (Ephesians 3:20-21)

Ask this question: When is the last time you made Jesus smile?

The First United Methodist Church Women's Group was looking for a fun fellowship idea, something different from the usual fellowship events churches usually

The president of the group came up with a perfect idea with something that women love: fashion.

The group will hold a fashion show 11:30 a.m. September 25 at the church.

Mary McDaniel said this is the first year they are doing the event and all women are welcome.

"We were going to do it just for our church, but anyone is welcome to attend," McDaniel said. "We will have a luncheon."

The Plaza will be catering for the luncheon and tickets will be $10. McDaniel said this event is not a fundraiser.

"We're hoping to break even," McDaniel said.

Whether they do this in the future depends on how successful the event is. Tickets can be purchased at the door. First United Methodist Church is located at Foster and Ballard across the street from the Chamber offices. Blossom and Nick Matthews are the pastors.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to "Emile" for eight years. We have been together for the last 15. Emile has always been demeaning and sarcastic to me. When he gets upset about something he blames

This has been going on so for so long I don't know what to do anymore. I am so depressed and hurt that all I can think of is "going away" permanently. I don't think I'd ever harm myself, but I feel more desperate and hopeless every day. I'm down so low I don't know how to come back up. Please advise. — NO TEARS LEFT IN LAS VEGAS

DEAR NO TEARS
LEFT: Has no one told you that the effects of constant put-downs can be equally — if not more — debilitating than being physically abused? After 15 years of having your self-esteem chipped away,
I'm pleased that you finally found the strength to ask for help.

If you have family, arrange to visit them — a LONG visit. If you can afford to separate from your husband, pick up the phone and call the National Domestic Violence Hotline ((800) 799-7233) and ask for help to safely get away. I'm not exaggerating when I say your mental health depends on it.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a suburban neighborhood where the homes are very close together. My back yard is too small to have a clothesline. Because I love the smell of my bed sheets after they have dried outside, I hang them out to dry by pinning them to the chain link fence that surrounds the perimeter of my back yard.

My girlfriends say they would be offended if they were my neighbors. I say it's environmentally friendly, and because I'm hanging out only linens and not underwear, nobody should be offended. Who is correct? — IN THE BREEZE IN OTTAWA, ONTARIO,

CANADA
DEAR IN THE BREEZE: Many neighborhoods have codes, covenants and restrictions that dictate what can and cannot be done within their boundaries. Review the documents to ensure you are not breaking any rules. If you're not, you have had no complaints from the neighbors, and your laundary isn't becoming soiled from lapping against the chain link fence or freezing solid in January it's all right with me.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago, we got a new neighbor. When I was out walking my dog one day, my neighbor was doing the same. At first I thought this person was female, but as we got to talking I began to doubt myself.

First off, my neighbor is petite, has a boyish haircut, no breasts, dresses like a guy and speaks in a voice that could be male or female. I stood there and decided I'd ask for a name, thinking it would solve my problem. Wrong! The person's name is "Chris."

Abby, I don't know what to do. I feel bad for not knowing this person's gender. Is there any way I can find an answer without Chris knowing? I don't want to refer to this person as a "he" if she's a "she," and vice versa. — GIRL NEXT DOOR, MISSOULA, MONT.

DEAR GIRL NEXT DOOR: Refer to your neighbor as Chris. Asking other neighbors what they have learned about Chris could create more conversation - and problems - than it would solve. My advice is to continue being kind and neighborly to Chris. The more you get to know this person, the more likely the answers you're seeking will present themselves.

TO MY JEWISH READERS: Sundown marks the beginning of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. During this 24-hour period, observant Jewish people fast, engage in reflection and prayer, and formally repent for any sin that might have been committed during the previous Hebrew year. To all of you - may your fast be an easy one.

Coach Kaleb Snelgrooes said this win is a confidence booster for the team.

"I've never been around a bunch of guys who have worked so hard and keep coming up a little bit short," Snelgrooes said. "They deserve this win tonight. They come out and work hard every day.

The freshman trailed 8-0 in the second quarter, but that's when they got their momentum swinger. Freddy Jackson intercepted a pass and returned it over 20 yards for a score. Pampa failed on the two-point conversion but cut the deficit to two. Ryan Powell put the Harvesters up for good with a 12-yard touchdown run. Jackson converted the two-point conversion to give Pampa a 14-8 lead.

On Pampa's next possession, Jackson got to the outside and used a couple of iukes to score a 25-yard touchdown. White Deer got on the board one more time with a 20-yard touchdown pass. Pampa led 20-14 at halftime.

Jackson and Daymon Flores scored the final touchdowns for the Harvesters. Snelgrooes said they worked all week on tempo on the offensive side of the ball.

"We worked on hustling to the line," Snelgrooes said. "We worked on taking runs to the outside or inside. When you have three or four running backs that can do that it makes it nice.

Snelgrooes said Jackson has become a leader on the team. "He has great potential," Snelgrooes said. "He played well on defense and

In the early game, the young Reapers and Plainview battled to a 14 - 14 tie. In the first half, Joseph Radke had a 10-yard scamper for a score and an early lead for the Reapers. Rhett Harden and Austin Hendricks also had good runs. Matthew Lewis pounced on a loose ball to get a take away for the Reapers. In Game Two, the Pampa Green Team ran all over the Bulldogs. The night for Plainview started with a 70-yard return by Pampa's Cade Engle on the opening kickoff. Rickie Johnson soon followed with a 15-yard touchdown run behind some tough blocking by Francisco Salazar. Engle and Jared Burr both came up with big interceptions. Ricky Johnson had a long 50-yard kick-off return and then added a 5-yard touchdown. Mercheenan Hair and Alec McClendon had some great perim-

Down in Plainview, the 8th grade Green and Gold teams squared off with the Dogs. In the early game, Pampa fell 12 - 0. The Reapers played well all night and just had a few miscues to allow Plainview to score. The offense moved the ball but was unable to ever punch it in. Tyler Hooper had a great game at quarterback.
