County OKs airport terminal building project

DAVID BOWSER
 dbowser@thepampanews.com
 The Gray County Commissioners Court voted to proceed with the Perry Lefors Airport terminal building project. County Judge Richard Peet said they were waiting for finished drawings and blueprints of the proposed $600,000 project. He said they would also talk with the Pampa Economic Development Corporation about sharing the county costs on the project. The project is presently being split between the Texas Department of Transportation and the county. The county commission also joined with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to upload the county's 911 data into a regional database for the panhandle-wide emergency notification system. Commissioners sold a 1981 mower for $1,051 and a 1977 tanker for $3,000. They are allowing Precinct 1 Commissioner Joe Wheelley to research replacing a mowing tractor. The commission also approved the County Clerk's request to spend $1,900 from her Records Management account on roller shelves. The commission also heard from Vanessa Buzzard, lawyer for the Pampa Economic Development Corporation; Clay Rice, PEDC executive director, and Ken May with the PEDC reported on the economic development group's purchase of the Pampa Energy Services Center, the old Celanese plant.

 William Howard Taft was President when Esther Morrison Bowers was born. Since then, she's witnessed two World Wars, a Great Depression, daily air travel and a man on the moon. Esther Morrison Bowers turned 100 years old on Friday.

She's the last of the original family of the Morrison Ranch north of Pampa. Sunday, she will celebrate her birthday with friends in Miami. Earlier this week, Mrs. Bowers sat in her daughter's living room in White Deer and reminisced about the past century and spoke of her plans for the next.

Esther Morrison Bowers was the tenth child of the Morrison family. "My Daddy came from North Carolina when he was about 16," Mrs. Bowers said. "He said he wanted to come to Texas." His father gave him $50 for the train trip, she said. That took him as far as BOWERS cont. on page 2

Gyurnek new face at Chamber

 rpribble@thepampanews.com

There is a new face at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office and, while she is very friendly, she talks kind of funny. Lori Gyurnek is a self-described "Yankee" who takes on the job of administrative assistant full-time Monday.

You may have already seen her smiling face behind the desk since she has been volunteering in the office for some time. "We're excited about having Lori here," said Chamber Executive Director Joe Weaver. "She comes highly recommended from her previous job. She has a lot of administrative assistance experience. She is already helping us with our bookkeeping, making deposits, making calls for chamber luncheon and sending out emails.

"We value having a good reliable person in this office, even if she talks funny."

Gyurnek, 37, hails from Schaumburg, Ill., a place she describes as a suburb of Chicago. The move here was dictated by jobs. Her fiancée, Eric Byrne, moved here as well to take a job as a corrections officer at the Jordan Unit.

"It has been a pleasant shock," Gyurnek said of her introduction to the Texas Panhandle. "To be honest with you, I kind of was preparing myself for a small town and getting away from the congestion." GYURNEK cont. on page 2

Four PPA awards for News

THE PAMPA NEWS
 It's only fitting that, after The Pampa News Editor Arnie Aurellano accepted his plaque for Best Humor Column Writing at the Panhandle Press Association Awards Brunch last weekend, he got to laugh about it. "They spelled my name wrong," Aurellano said. "My first name. I was impressed they got my last name right, then I looked to the left of it and that was the end of that high." Misspelled names or not (the plaque reads "Amie" instead of "Arnie"), Aurellano brought two first place plaques back to Pampa: one for Humor Column Writing and one for Feature Writing. The Pampa News reporter David Bowser also contributed to the newspaper's feature writing entry. Bowser took home another individual honor, a third place plaque for Feature Photography. The Pampa News sports reporter Andrew Glover was also recognized with a third place award in the Sports Writing category. AWARDS cont. on page 3

Illinois native Lori Gyurnek is the newest full-time employee at the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. She has already been helping out at the office and will take over the administrative assistant position full-time on Monday.

Gyurnek

"I like that (Pampa) is a small community, but yet it is not. It does have some features of a larger community. The people I have met have been extremely friendly. Very, very friendly, which is almost a shock for someone who is coming from the north - coming from a place where you may not know your neighbor and may never know your neighbor.

"People here are very open and welcoming. That was the other thing that kind of surprised me. I thought that since I was a Yankee, people would be a little more standoffish and they are not."

"They make fun of the way I talk, that's all."

Gyurnek's 16-year-old son, Brett Gyurnek, is finishing his junior year of high school, while staying with her parents in Chauburg. He will move down after that.

"He is like me," she said. "We like a slower pace and quieter community."

Gyurnek was formerly employed as the lead program secretary for a special education school in Illinois.

"It is one of the larger special ed districts and I worked there (as lead program secretary) for 12 years," she said. "I was with the district itself for 16 years.

"The special ed students I worked with were all behavioral needs students. It was very tough, but I really enjoyed it.

"I was wondering how I was going to adapt to being (employed) in more of a business, but I really like it here."

Bowers

Dallas, where he met Bowers' mother.

"They homesteaded here near Memphis," she said.

"They came to the panhandle in 1888," said Sammie Jo Pohnert, Mrs. Bowers' daughter.

Mrs. Bowers' father was a carpenter by trade.

As the family started to grow, the young couple moved to Clarendon because they have better schools, Bowers said.

There, her father had a lumber yard and built houses and developed real estate.

"He was one of the founders of the Farmer's State Bank," Bowers said.

She told of the 1910 Cadillac that her father bought and the trip that they took with two other families to Colorado.

"I was three months old, I think," she said.

Her father had 16 flat tires between Clarendon and Amarillo on the rough roads.

"We'd have to stop and patch the tires," Bowers laughed.

"My mother said every time the car stopped, I'd start squalling."

Bowers said that her brothers had always wanted a ranch, so in 1916, her father bought 18 sections of land 27 miles north of Pampa.

"He paid cash," she said.

Her father expanded and bought another six sections from a neighboring family.

"I started school out there," Bowers said. "I was five years old."

The teacher came from Clarendon and boarded with the Borens.

"We went to school out there for two years," she said.

Then the family moved back to Clarendon so the kids could attend school during the winter.

Bowers graduated from Miami High School in 1927. Then she went to junior college in Clarendon.

"My Dad leased 50 sections of land," Bowers said.

She said he wanted to raise more money so his sons could buy ranches.

But then the Depression hit and cattle prices fell as the Dust Bowl developed.

Bowers said one of her brothers, Grundy Morrison, had to trail 2,000 head of cattle to Clayton, N.M., looking for grass to graze.

"That was in 1936," Bowers said.

"It was one of the last, if not the last cattle drives in this part of the country," Pohnert said.

Bowers taught school near Canadian for a year before going to Texas Tech to get her bachelor's degree. Then she taught at Mobeetie for three years.

At Mobeetie, her starting salary was $95 a month. After her first year, she got a one-dollar raise.

She married Sam Bowers from Miami her second year in Mobeetie.

That union brought along Sammie Jo Bowers Pohnert, Jimmy Bowers and David Bowers.

"David lives in Pampa," Pohnert said. "Jimmy lives in Miami."

Jimmy Bowers lives in the house that his parents lived in, Pohnert said.

Looking back over the past century, Mrs. Bowers admitted that she's lived an active life and seen a lot of history.

As for the next century, she smiled graciously and said, "I think I'll just rest a little bit."

Cops' Corner

The Pampa Police Department wants to caution you about ongoing scams here in Pampa. Criminals scam in any way there is communication such as, phone, mail, e-mail, and yes, texting. They claim to be with different legitimate companies to try to gain your trust.

One of the main things they will ask you to do, unknown to the victim, is to cash fraudulent money orders or fraudulent checks and Western Union/MoneyGram the money to them. I want to STRONGLY discourage anyone sending money through Western Union or MoneyGram unless you know the person accepting the money personally.

If you do receive a check or money order through the mail there are a few things you can do. First, contact the company who issued the money order, such as the Post Office, Wal-Mart or Allsup's. The company that issued the money order will know if it is fraudulent. If you receive a check contact the bank from which the check came from. Second, NEVER send money through Western Union or MoneyGram to someone you do not know personally.

SONALLY. YOU are the number one person who can stop the criminals from scamming you!

If you have any questions on whether something is a scam please contact the Pampa Police Department at 806-669-5700 ext. 259.

Thank you,

AFTERNOONRUSH Wildfire sweeps across north Texas

Saudi man's terror trial reset

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge has ordered the trial of a Saudi man accused of attempted use of a weapon of mass destruction reset for October because the case is complex.

The trial for Khalid Ali-M Aldawsari was to begin May 2. It is now set for Oct. 24.

U.S. District Judge Sam Cummings ruled the case complex last week after attorneys for the prosecution and Aldawsari filed a joint motion seeking the designation. Designating a case complex suspends the federal statute that mandates a trial start within 70 days of indictment.

Court documents allege Aldawsari hatched plans to attack various U.S. targets, including in New York City and at former President George W. Bush's Dallas home. The 20-year-old, legally in the U.S. on a student visa, was arrested Feb. 23.

Students protest teacher layoffs

KATY (AP) — Hundreds of students in the Houston suburb of Katy walked out of class the past two days to protest teacher layoffs.

Katy school district spokesman Steve Stanford says about 400 students left class Thursday, and about the same number walked out Friday.

Stanford says the walkouts came after the district began notifying teachers that they would be laid off due to budget cuts. Katy is cutting 350 teachers.

Public education has taken the brunt of the cuts as the Texas Legislature deals with a budget shortfall that could reach $27 billion.

Stanford says the Katy district faces losing anywhere from $19 million to $62 million in state funding.

A Katy high school was locked down for a time Friday to prevent more disruptions from walkouts.

Loughner psychiatrist appointed

PHOENIX (AP) — An Arizona judge on Friday appointed a San Diego psychiatrist to conduct a mental competency exam for the suspect in the Tucson shooting rampage after defense attorneys raised concerns about federal psychiatrists.

U.S. District Judge Larry Burns appointed Dr. Matthew Carroll, of San Diego, to conduct the exam of Jared Lee Loughner at a Missouri facility "in deference to the defense's concern about the impartiality of Bureau of Prisons staff."

Carroll must conduct the exam by April 29 and report all his findings no later than May 11. The exam will be videotaped and will be limited to whether Loughner is competent to stand trial and assist in his own defense, not whether he was sane at the time of the shooting.

Loughner's competency hearing is scheduled for May 25.

Nighttime speed limit to go?

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas drivers would no longer have to slow down for nighttime road trips and some highway speed limits would be increased to 75 mph under legislation approved Friday in the House.

The bill, which was approved without opposition, would eliminate the current requirement that drivers slow down to 65 mph when the sun goes down on most Texas highways.

It would also allow the Texas Transportation Commission to set highway speeds at 75 mph, up from the current 70 mph limit on most non-urban state highways. Counties would be eligible for the higher limit only if a safety study deemed it to be safe and reasonable for each portion of highway.

Houston Republican Rep. Gary Elkins, the bill's sponsor, said the changes would increase efficiency and would give Texas speed standards similar to nearby states.

Some rural counties already are allowed to post 75 mph limits, but the proposal would make all counties eligible for the upper limit.

Arson recommendations adopted

AUSTIN (AP) — A state panel looking into the case of a Texas inmate who was executed after investigators determined a 1991 fire that killed his three daughters was intentionally set recommended Friday that fire investigators receive more education and training, and establish a procedure for reviewing old cases.

Cameron Todd Willingham was executed in 2004 for setting the blaze at his home in Corsicana, south of Dallas. He didn't testify at his trial but always insisted — even in an obscenity-filled tirade the moment before his death — that he was innocent. He suggested the fire could have been started accidentally by his 2-year-old daughter, Amber, who died along with her 1-year-old twin sisters, Karmon and Kameron.

The Texas Forensic Science Commission disclosed Thursday it wouldn't decide whether arson investigators were negligent or guilty of professional misconduct in Willingham's case until the Texas attorney general's office decides whether the panel has that authority.

The panel on Friday completed an often tedious review of its nearly 50-page draft report based on his case and settled on 16 recommendations for fire investigators, prosecutors and defense attorneys and lawmakers. Its recommendations came in light of changing science and techniques after questions surfaced about whether faulty arson science sent Willingham to the Texas death chamber.

Psychologist gets death row ban

AUSTIN (AP) — A psychologist who examined more than a dozen Texas death row inmates for intellectual disabilities has been banned by the state from performing similar evaluations in the future.

George Denkowski of Fort Worth, who has been a witness for prosecutors and defendants in death penalty cases, reached a settlement with the state Board of Examiners of Psychologists on Thursday after other doctors and defense attorneys raised questions about his methods.

Denkowski admitted no wrongdoing, but agreed to stop performing intellectual disability reviews in criminal cases.

Defense attorneys say they hope to use Thursday's settlement to have appeals courts review the cases of at least 14 inmates now on death row and help those men avoid lethal injection. The order, however, says it can't be used as evidence to retry cases in which Denkowski has already testified.

DALLAS (AP) — A wildfire sweeping across 20,000 acres in North Texas have destroyed at least 30 homes, forced hundreds of evacuations — including an entire town — and closed a popular state park, state officials said Friday.

The blaze was burning in a mostly rural area about 120 miles west of Dallas, but the region also has expensive lake homes and is a popular recreation spot for the Dallas-Fort Worth area. Officials closed Possum Kingdom State Park and clear out its campsites, fearing the fire could block access roads.

"The fire, it's a bad one," Texas Parks and Wildlife Department spokesman Rob McCorkle said. "This is pretty unusual to have this many fires going across the state at the time."

GOP cuts go through House

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a prelude to a summer showdown with President Barack Obama, Republicans controlling the House pushed to passage on Friday a bold but politically dangerous budget blueprint to slash social safety net programs like food stamps and Medicaid and fundamentally restructure Medicare health care for the elderly.

The nonbinding plan lays out a fiscal vision cutting $6.2 trillion from yearly federal deficits over the coming decade and calls for transforming Medicare from a program in which the government directly pays medical bills into a voucher-like system that subsidizes purchases of private insurance plans.

The GOP budget passed 235-193 with every Democrat voting "no." Obama said in an Associated Press interview that it would "make Medicare into a voucher program. That's something that we strongly object to."

The vote sets up the Republicans' next round of confrontation with Obama and Democrats over must-pass legislation to allow the government to borrow more money to finance its operations and obligations to holders of U.S. bonds. For the first time, Obama acknowledged that raising the debt limit is "not going to happen without some spending cuts" insisted upon by Republicans and some Democrats.

Under the House Republican plan approved Friday, deficits requiring the federal government to borrow more than 40 cents for every dollar it spends would be cut by the end of the decade to 8 cents of borrowing for every dollar spent.

"We're pretty thrilled to be able to come home winners," Aurellano said. "We've worked hard to improve the newspaper over the last year, and we're excited to be recognized for that. It's all for our readers and our community. It's not The Pampa News without Pampa."

The Clovis News Journal, Clovis, N.M., won the overall Best Newspaper for larger papers, including The Pampa News.

The Canadian Record and Clarendon Enterprise tied for the Best Newspaper in the class for weekly newspapers.

The fire also prompted officials to evacuate Gorman, a city of about 1,200 residents, and set up a shelter at a church in nearby town for residents who didn't have someplace else to stay.

"The school, the nursing home and the whole city has been evacuated," City Clerk Jill Rainey said.

No injuries have been reported in the town and no structures have been damaged, said Eastland County fire official Daniel Morgan.

Texas Forest Service spokeswoman Holly Huffman said that since the fire began Wednesday, 30 homes have been destroyed, 200 homes have been evacuated and 275 people have been displaced. A firefighter suffered minor injuries Thursday, but no other injuries have been reported.

Huffman said authorities have not yet been able to survey the area to gain a complete count of the number of homes lost.

McCorkle said strong winds were increasing the chance of the fire would close off the only roads accessing Possum Kingdom State Park, and as the fire moved closer to the wooded area, county officials asked that it be closed.

"This being a weekend, it would probably be pretty full," McCorkle said. "They wanted to get everybody out."

Today in History

Today is Saturday, April 16, the 106th day of 2011. There are 259 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 16, 1789, President-elect George Washington left Mount Vernon, Va., for his inauguration in New York.

On this date:

In 1862, President Abraham Lincoln signed a bill ending slavery in the District of Columbia.

In 1879, St. Bernadette, who'd described seeing visions of the Virgin Mary at Lourdes, died in Nevers, France.

In 1910, Boston Arena (now Matthews Arena) first opened.

In 1917, Vladimir Ilyich Lenin returned to Russia after years of exile.

In 1947, the French ship Grandcamp blew up at the harbor in Texas City, Texas; another ship, the High Flyer, exploded the following day. The blasts and resulting fires killed nearly 600 people.

In 1960, shortly before midnight, rock-and-roll performer Eddie Cochran, 21, was fatally injured in a taxi crash in Chippenham, Wiltshire, England (he died the next day).

In 1972, Apollo 16 blasted off on a voyage to the moon.

In 1991, Sir David Lean, director of "The Bridge on the River Kwai," "Lawrence of Arabia" and "Doctor Zhivago," died in London at age 83.

In 1996, Britain's Prince Andrew and his wife, Sarah, the Duchess of York, announced they were in the process of divorcing.

In 2007, in the deadliest shooting rampage in modern U.S. history, student Seung-Hui Cho killed 32 people on the campus of Virginia Tech before taking his own life.

Ten years ago: Israel launched an air strike against a strategic Syrian radar station in Lebanon, killing three Syrian soldiers.

Five years ago: In his first Easter message as pontiff, Pope Benedict XVI urged nations to use diplomacy to defuse nuclear crises and prayed that Palestinians would one day have their own state alongside Israel.

One year ago: The U.S. government accused Wall Street's most powerful firm of fraud, saying Goldman Sachs & Co. had sold mortgage investments without telling buyers the securities were crafted with input from a client who was betting on them to fail. (In July 2010, Goldman agreed to pay $550 million in a settlement with the Securities and Exchange Commission, but did not admit legal wrongdoing.)

Today's Birthdays: Pope Benedict XVI is 84. Singer Bobby Vinton is 76. Basketball Hall-of-Famer Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is 64. NFL coach Bill Belichick is 59. Rock singer-turned-politician Peter Garrett is 58. Actress Ellen Barkin is 57. Rock musician Jason Scheff (Chicago) is 49. Singer Jimmy Osmond is 48. Rock singer David Piner (Soul Asylum) is 47. Actor-comedian Martin Lawrence is 46. Actor Jon Cryer is 46. Rock musician Dan Rieser is 45. Actor Peter Billingsley is 40. Actor Lukas Haas is 35.

Thought for Today: "The only graceful way to accept an insult is to ignore it; if you can't ignore it, top it; if you can't top it, laugh at it; if you can't laugh at it, it's probably deserved." — Russell Lynes, American writer (1910-1991).

Chamber: Medication for a chronic condition

Remember that storm a couple of months ago that pretty much shut down Pampa? The schools closed, the city and county offices were closed, meetings were canceled. I had hoped to get to the office that morning as I can get a lot of stuff done on days like that, but I couldn't get out of my driveway.

The next day I listened to the accrued voice mail. (We had just set up voice mail and it has proven to be a blessing. I don't like having to use it, but it beats missed calls—usually.)

One of the calls was from a woman who was quite irate and threatened to sue the Chamber about some perceived affront. She closed by saying how lousy the Chamber was and that we didn't do anything. Not surprisingly, she didn't leave her name, a number, or what business she was calling about, making it impossible to address her particular issue. I can, however, address the issue of the Chamber doing nothing.

The whole scenario was quite ironic, as one of the other calls on the voice mail was a man from California who wanted to move to Pampa. I called him and gave him information about housing, job opportunities and other information he requested.

This is not uncommon, as we handle several contacts—phone calls, emails, letters, and personal visits on a regular basis from people seeking information on housing, shopping, addresses, phone numbers, events, dining, and what there is to see and do in the area. The Chamber is sort of like medication for a chronic condition—you take it with the confidence that it is dealing with the problem. You may not be quite sure of all it does, but the results of not taking it can be disastrous.

Chamber Music

Go with the FLO

If you haven't already, you will soon be seeing a new logo around town—FloGistics, formerly known as Fluid Compressor Partners. A few weeks ago, Mayor Lonny Robbins, PEDC Director Clay Rice, Entrepreneur Alliance representative Spencer McElhannon and I visited with Tyson Curtis, an owner and manager of the Pampa location.

Tyson informed us of the past, present, and future of the firm—an oil and gas production improvement services company that is a leader in the field, specializing in natural gas and coal bed methane compression systems.

Styles of compressors can range from liquid ring, rotary screw or reciprocating, which can be electrically or natural gas engine driven.

Much of the information Tyson shared with us is proprietary, but suffice it to say that the company is growing in a way that is good for Pampa and Gray County.

WHAT is your quest?

Last Saturday I dropped into CarQuest at 1408 N. Banks to get a couple of replacement bulbs for my vehicle. Daniel Garrison and I had a great visit, in the course of which we discussed local issues, technology, and the state of thing in general.

I don't usually "work" on Saturday, but I recalled that I had some membership decals in my car, so I brought one in for him. He immediately applied it to the window. I like that.

What's in a name?

Becky Bailey, who keeps things working at the AgriLife Extension office (that's 4H and the County Extension office, for those of you who, like me, have a hard time keeping up with their current name) told me that she used to be a "Wildcat". She swears it was an appropriate name, as she could tame any wild cat that came around.

And speaking of cats, Katherine Reeve told me she once lived in a community that had two eye doctors. One was named Seekatz. The other was named Seymour. Odd.

Joe Weaver is the Executive Director of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Smoke across the road: Don't drive into it

Texans are facing extreme wildfire danger. The following safety tips can save your life.

Never drive into dense smoke. You could become a fire fatality.

High winds may cause wildfires to spread rapidly and jump across natural barriers such as roads and even waterways. Strong winds can force smoke to stay low to the ground, obscuring roadways and traffic signs. Texas wildfires have been propelled by wind gusts as high as 60 mph.

When wildfires threaten, pay attention to TV and radio broadcasts

BEFORE you travel. Be aware of fire and weather conditions along your route. Avoid traveling into areas where wildfire activity has been reported. As you travel, monitor local radio and TV news broadcasts — and watch for highway signs providing information on fire danger.

Watch for traffic control personnel, fire fighters and law enforcement officers. Slow down and be prepared to stop if they signal you to do so.

When you prepare to turn around because you have encountered dense smoke, slow down and activate your emergency flashers. Make sure you warn vehicles behind you that you are decreasing your speed or preparing to stop. Turn around when you have checked for oncoming traffic and can turn safely.

For updates on current wildfire situation contact: newsmedia@tfs.tamu.edu

Likely GOP contenders plot tea party strategies

BOSTON (AP) - It's a tricky time of courtship.

As the tea party turns 2, the still-gelling field of Republican presidential contenders is the first class of White House hopefuls to try to figure out how to tap the movement's energy without alienating voters elsewhere on the political spectrum.

Look no further than this weekend's events marking the tea party's second anniversary to see how the candidates are employing different strategies. Some will be out front as the tea party stages tax day rallies across the country. Others, not so much.

Former Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty, an establishment Republican making a play for tea party support and clamoring to be heard over bigger names, is among those jumping in with both feet. Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour is being more coy.

Pawlenty, for his part, planned to hold court at a gathering on Boston Common in the city where colonists staged the 1773 Tea Party revolt against the British government and in neighboring New Hampshire. And he's headed for Iowa a day later for similar appearances that are likely to include "Don't Tread on Me" banners and tirades against Washington spending.

Former Alaska Gov. Sarah Palin, perhaps the Republican most closely identified with the tea party, is slated to attend a weekend tea party rally at the Wisconsin Capitol, the site of recent protests over legislation that would strip union rights for most public workers.

Tea party darling Minnesota Rep. Michele Bachman, all but drafted into the race by tea partiers, plans to share the steps of the South Carolina Statehouse with another of the movement's favorite daughters, Gov. Nikki Haley.

And little-known businessman Herman Cain, who is hoping tea party backing can make him more than a longshot, plans to hit rallies in New Hampshire, Iowa, Michigan and Texas.

Real estate magnet Donald Trump, who claims he's serious about running, picked a tea party rally in Boca Raton, Fla., to make his stand.

Other contenders are proceeding with more caution.

Barbour plans weekend stops at county GOP conventions in Charleston,

Columbia and Lexington, S.C. But he had no big tea day rallies on his schedule in a state where tea party activists have gained influence. As he weighs a presidential bid, Barbour has been more subtle than others in courting the movement. He talks about issues the tea party cares about, first and foremost the economy.

It's the same approach that former Massachusetts Gov. Mitt Romney has been taking. He talks about lower taxes and reduced government and was set to appear at a central Florida anti-tax event. He decries the Internal Revenue Service, a top target of tea partiers. And in his defense of the Massachusetts health care overhaul that he pushed through, he invokes the 10th Amendment that guarantees states' rights.

In an opinion piece published Friday in the Orlando Sentinel, Romney praised the tea party-style activists: "The growth of government is not some inexorable force. In a democracy, we the people decide. Thanks to the tea party, there's real hope that we can rein in our profligate federal government."

But he spends the bulk of the column decrying President Barack Obama on policy, not invoking the Founding Fathers.

Indiana Gov. Mitch Daniels has followed a similar model. He had no public events scheduled for anti-tax rallies but has proved eager to criticize Washington spending.

The tentativeness toward becoming a tea party candidate is understandable.

No candidate can afford to ignore these anti-establishment, anti-tax, conservative-libertarian rabble-rousers whose enthusiasm fired up the GOP base and helped Republicans win control of the House in November. But wrapping themselves in the tea party mantle carries risks for candidates.

They could get pushed too far to the right during the primaries if they embrace the tea party's conservative platform. There's also the potential stain of being linked to a group that Democratic critics have labeled extremist, if not racist.

Even so, the Republicans must compete in early primary states where tea party activists have made inroads in the GOP establishment and made clear that they intend to have a say in the presidential race.

"We want to find the best candidate and the best vehicle for us to reclaim our republic," says Jerry DeLemus, a tea party leader from Rochester, N.H. "The Republican Party is a vehicle that we can use to effect positive change."

Iowa's tea party leaders, meanwhile, have mapped out a strategy to engage supporters and road-test presidential candidates with hopes of influencing the leadoff nominating caucuses. They are planning a bus tour through the state this summer, featuring at least four GOP presidential prospects, as well as a series of caucus training sessions.

New Hampshire's tea party activists made gains within the state's central GOP committee, and elected Jack Kimball as the state GOP chairman over the establishment's pick in January. And the tea party footprint in South Carolina also has expanded, with activists becoming more influential inside GOP county organizations.

The tea party's birth can be traced to spring 2009, when libertarians and conservatives rose up in small towns and big cities alike to oppose Obama's policies, including the $787 billion economic stimulus measure, Wall Street bailouts and Obama's health care plan.

Some activists point to a CNBC anchor's televised tirade about taxes as the launching point. Others dispute that.

Whatever its origin, there's no doubt about the tea party's power.

"We've changed the political landscape in Washington and in statehouses across the country," says Amy Kremer, chairwoman of the Tea Party Express. "We have to keep going and keep beating the drum."

Associated Press deputy polling director Jennifer Agiesta and writers Jim Davenport in Columbia, S.C., and Tom Beaumont in Des Moines, Iowa, contributed to this report.

Tomorrow in History

Tomorrow is Palm Sunday, April 17, the 107th day of 2011. There are 258 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On April 17, 1961, some 1,500 CIA-trained Cuban exiles launched the disastrous Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in an attempt to topple Fidel Castro, whose forces crushed the incursion by the third day. More than 1,000 invaders were captured; about 100 invaders and 150 of Castro's defenders were killed.

On this date:

In 1524, Giovanni da Verrazano reached present-day New York Harbor.

In 1861, the Virginia State Convention voted to secede from the Union.

In 1911, the town of Palm Beach, Fla., was incorporated.

In 1941, Yugoslavia surrendered to Germany in World War II.

In 1961, "The Apartment" won the Academy Award for best picture of 1960; Burt Lancaster was named best actor for "Elmer Gantry," while the best actress award went to Elizabeth Taylor for "Butterfield 8."

In 1969, a jury in Los Angeles convicted Sirhan Sirhan of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. The First Secretary of Czechoslovakia's Communist Party, Alexander Dubcek, was deposed.

In 1970, Apollo 13 astronauts James A. Lovell, Fred W. Haise and Jack Swigert splashed down safely in the Pacific, four days after a ruptured oxygen tank crippled their spacecraft while en route to the moon.

In 1975, Cambodia's five-year war ended as the capital Phnom Penh fell to the Khmer Rouge, which instituted radical policies that claimed an estimated 1.7 million lives until the regime was overthrown in 1979.

In 1986, the bodies of kidnapped American Peter Kilburn and Britons Philip Padfield and Leigh Douglas were found near Beirut; they had been slain in apparent retaliation for the U.S. raid on Libya. At London's Heathrow Airport, a bomb was discovered in the bag of a pregnant Irishwoman about to board an El Al jetliner to Israel; she'd been tricked into carrying the bomb by her Jordanian fiancé.

In 1991, the Dow Jones industrial average closed above 3,000 for the first time, ending the day at 3,004.46, up 17.58.

Ten years ago: By a nearly 2-1 margin, Mississippi residents voted to keep the Confederate emblem on their state flag. San Francisco Giants slugger Barry Bonds became the 17th major leaguer to reach 500 career home runs.

Five years ago: A Palestinian suicide bomber struck a Tel Aviv restaurant during Passover, killing nine people; in a sharp departure from the previous Palestinian government's condemnations of bombings, the Hamas-led administration said the attack resulted from Israel's "brutal aggression." A bus crash in Mexico claimed 57 lives. Former Illinois Gov. George Ryan was convicted of corruption (he was later sentenced to 6-1/2 years in prison). Robert Cheruiyot (and Rita Jeptoo pulled off a Kenyan sweep of the Boston Marathon).

One year ago: Some 100,000 Poles filled Warsaw's biggest public square, joining together for a memorial and funeral Mass for the 96 people killed in a plane crash a week earlier. (A thickening cloud of volcanic ash over Europe caused some world leaders - including President Barack Obama - to cancel plans to attend a state funeral the next day.) Pope Benedict XVI began a pilgrimage in Malta, a Catholic nation buffeted by the worldwide clerical sex abuse scandal. Ubaldo Jimenez pitched the first no-hitter in the Colorado Rockies' 18-year history, dominating the Atlanta Braves in a 4-0 victory.

Today's Birthdays: Composer-musician Jan Hammer is 63. Actress Olivia Hussey is 60. Actor Clarke Peters is 59. Rock singer-musician Pete Shelley (Buzzcocks) is 56. Actor Sean Bean is 52. Rock singer Maynard James Keenan is 47. Actress Lela Rochon is 47. Actor William Mapother is 46. Actress Leslie Bega is 44. Actress Kimberly Elise is 44. Singer Liz Phair is 44. Rapper-actor Redman is 41. Actress Jennifer Garner is 39. Country musician Craig Anderson (Heartland) is 38. Singer Victoria Adams Beckham (Spice Girls) is 37. Actress-singer Lindsay Korman is 33. Actor Paulie Litt is 16. Actress Dee Dee Davis is 15.

Thought for Today: "I think America is richer in intelligence than any other country in the world; and that its intelligence is more scattered than in any country of the world." - Will Durant, American historian (1885-1981).

Heritage Art Club meets at center

Attending were members Theresa Maness, Edie Hudson, Barbara Pipkin and Roxanna Hendricks, with members Jennie Barker and Barbara Stubblefield absent. Guests and prospective members visiting were Marilyn Kirkwood and Nola Moore.

Members answered roll call, then minutes of the last meeting were read by volunteer Hendricks in the absence of regular Secretary Stubblefield.

Nominees for officers for the club year beginning in August, 2011, include: President - Hendricks; Vice President - Barbara Stubblefield; Secretary - Hudson; and Treasurer - Jennie Barker. The nominations sparked conversation concerning the office of "treasurer" and the fact that it's generally beneficial to have the same treasurer for more than one term, given the necessity for keeping bank signature cards current.

Other old business included discussion of the club's annual quilt project, where members paint squares for a themed quilt and chances are sold for a drawing held in the late fall or early winter, with proceeds donated to the Pampa Senior Citizens Center. This year's quilt is one featuring Santa Claus.

Moore will prepare the squares for painting and they will be distributed at the May meeting. Maness and Hendricks will bring patterns for members to peruse. A workday will then be held in June with Maness and Hendricks bringing fabric paints and dyes to share with other members as they paint the Santa squares.

Moore, who both assembles and quilts the yearly project, gave several pointers for successful painted squares.

Following adjournment, Hendricks and Maness guided members as they painted and embellished large, wooden jingle bells with additions, turning them into "Jingle Frogs," an original project by artist Chris Haughey. The project instructions, materials and demonstration Jingle Frogs were prepared by Stubblefield, who was slated to teach but was unable to attend.

The group had lunch together, then opened Secret Pal gifts following completion of their projects.

Moore had prepared the Hostess Table in the absence of scheduled hostess Barker. Finger foods and juices were prepared by Moore and another prospective member, Catrina Howells.

The May meeting is set for Monday, May 2, 2011, with Hendricks as Hostess. Barker will instruct the group in a surprise project.

Simon follows brother on diamond and in school spirit

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

After the Harvesters' district opening victory against Perryton March 29, senior second baseman Mitch Simon felt soreness in his left shoulder. It turned out the senior had problems with his tendon and rotator cuff.

"Basically my tendon is falling apart and is causing me to have a bad rotator cuff," Simon said.

The injury allowed Simon to do what he has all year, and that's cheer on the Harvesters.

Simon said it's been tough not being able to participate during district.

"It's a pretty bad feeling," Simon said. "You are on the bench you are down by one or two and there's nothing you can do."

Throughout the year, Simon was one of loudest people in a student section known as the Rowdiest Individuals in Texas (R.I.O.T) at home Harvester and Lady Harvester athletic events. Simon said his brother Max started it.

"It definitely died off in the past three or four years," Simon said. "It wasn't what it should have been. Me, Tyler (Malone) and all our buddies figured we would get that going again."

Senior volleyball player Taryn Eubank said Simon was a huge part of the R.I.O.T.

"He always brought the energy to the crowd no matter the sport or school event it was," Eubank said. "Not only did he make the R.I.O.T. exciting again, but he even was part of the Crunk Time Crew, which was a group of senior guys that were always on the front row of the stands getting crunk."

Head coach Kaleb Snelgrooves said Simon is a great leader and motivator that is easy to like.

"Having him in our program has made a great impact this year and on our underclassmen," Snelgrooves said.

Simon's brother pitched for the Harvesters from 2000-2003 and went on to play for Kansas State and Texas A&M. Simon said it was a challenge playing after his brother.

"He was a huge guy and I'm a soaking wet 150," Simon said. "I was trying to follow some big and heavy shoes. It was tough. I knew there was no way for me to do what he did or anything. I'm still trying."

Unlike his older brother, Simon settled in at second base. The senior said he likes playing middle infield because of the action.

"Middle infield is awesome," Simon said. "It's one of the most challenging positions. You are always moving and going somewhere."

Simon, who has been on the diamond from t-ball, said he likes the mental aspect of the game.

"You can be the best athlete in the world and still not be a baseball player," Simon said. "It's fun because it's a challenge."

Hickman returns to Harvesters, hopes for similar success

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

Tyson Hickman was part of some of the most successful Harvester baseball teams, winning back-to-back district titles in his junior and senior season. After his playing career at West Texas A&M ended, Hickman returned home but not just to the city he grew up in. In fact, Hickman is again sitting in the same dugout he did as a player but this time he is hoping to experience similar success as a coach.

Hickman is currently working as a student-teacher for fellow assistant coach Clint Allen and got in connection with head coach Kaleb Snelgrooves when he was looking for a position.

"My mom (Marie) mentioned to Mrs. (Becky) Snelgrooves that I was coming back and looking to student teach," Hickman said. "She told Coach Snelgrooves. Coach Snelgrooves contacted me and asked if I wanted to come back and help. I said, 'Yeah I would like to.'"

Hickman said being back in the dugout has definitely brought back memories.

"I think every day I think about something that happened in high school or a situation where one of us did something funny or stupid," Hickman said. "In games, the feel of the game it has brought back the love of the game a lot."

Being a player, Hickman has had no problem relating to the players under him.

"They go through the same things in school and after school," Hickman said. "On the field I can relate to them a lot. It's good. I think it helps me being younger too, closer to their age. A lot of guys still call me Tyson and not Coach Hickman."

Snelgrooves said having Hickman back is great for his program.

"He has similar baseball beliefs which spills over to our kids," Snelgrooves said. "I coached Tyson in summer league, so he has heard my beliefs as player and now as a coach. His experience and knowledge are unmeasurable, we are lucky to have him working with us."

Hickman said he wants to be a head coach and hopes he will be wearing green and gold.

"I love baseball," Hickman said. "I want to stay here and if that means being an assistant or anything. I really want to stay here, I don't want to go anywhere else... Eventually I want to be a head coach. Baseball is my life and now with this coaching thing, I'm addicted to it."

Hickman played for Frank Phillips College and West Texas A&M, where he will finish his education degree this May.

More on Tyson Hickman

- Hickman batted .314 in two seasons at West Texas A&M
- In his senior season at Pampa, Hickman had a .542 batting average and hit four home runs.
- Hickman won the best hitter award at Frank Phillips College in 2008.
- At West Texas A&M, Hickman stole 11 bases in 16 tries.
- In his senior season, Hickman had the game-winning hit against Southwestern Oklahoma State.
- Hickman played under Dennis Doughty and Clay Wilson.

NBA to submit revised CBA to players

NEW YORK (AP) — NBA Commissioner David Stern said Friday the league plans to submit to the players' union a revised proposal for a new collective bargaining agreement within the next couple of weeks.

Stern also said Sacramento Kings owners Gavin and Joe Maloof have been granted an extension until May 2 to file paperwork requesting a move to Anaheim.

The league's labor situation and the Kings' future were the key items on the owners' agenda during two days of meetings that wrapped up Friday.

Neither Stern nor deputy commissioner Adam Silver would offer details of what would be in their proposal to replace the current CBA, which expires June 30, though Stern said during a conference call later that it would indicate to the players "some modicum of flexibility in our approach and we're trying to engage the union in a dialogue."

They have reason to hurry. Though Silver said there's plenty of time to reach a deal, he said fear of a lockout is "beginning to have an impact on our business."

"We are in discussions with sponsors and other partners about relationships for next year, and we can't assure them that we are going to have games," he said. "They, as you might imagine, begin to pull back some of their spending on the NBA."

The league submitted its original proposal in January 2010 and the players quickly rejected it during a meeting at the All-Star weekend in Dallas. The union offered a counterproposal last July, but the owners had no interest in it, and there has been no progress since then.

But the league seems willing to reopen negotiations. Stern said his negotiating committee would look to set up a meeting with the players' side once the new proposal has been delivered.

"There are other ways to reach the same goal, and that is a system in which all 30 teams can compete, and, if they are well managed, to make a profit. We have never suggested to the union that there's only one way to accomplish that end. And so, we have gone back to ownership," Silver said.

"But the goal has not changed and will not change from the team standpoint. We need a new system, and the current system is broken and is unsustainable."

'Rio' light as a feather, but still passes with flying colors

Many animated films these days have made it a point to reach an olive branch out to adult viewers. From "Up" to "Despicable Me" to, latest and most notably, "Rango," kid flicks have seemingly taken it upon themselves to sneak in a knowing smile or two for the grownups who chauffeured the film's main audience to the theater, launching a joke here and there squarely over the children's heads.

"Rio" seems intent on bucking the trend. From the very beginning, it's clear that this is a kid's movie: the bright colors, the quick-step pacing, the simple, over-familiar plot. It works. It works quite well.

"Rio" is the story of Blu (voiced by Jesse Eisenberg), an incredibly rare (as in "the only one left" rare) blue macaw living in happy captivity, content with his life as a pet despite never learning how to fly. That is, until he finds out that he isn't the last of his species after all, a realization that whisks him halfway across the globe to Rio (duh) to replenish his species.

Not long after arriving in Brazil, Blu and would-be mate Jewel (Anne Hathaway) are grabbed by greedy bird smugglers who see the two birds as an endangered, exotic money train. The two stage a daring escape from their captors, but with the birdnappers quickly back on their heels, Blu realizes that the only way to freedom is to finally spread his wings and fly.

Yeah, it's fairly predictable, but again, that's OK. Even if you demand a little more meat from your children's movies, there's plenty going on in "Rio" to keep you amused. It starts with the visuals, which are drenched in a vibrant tropical palette. Brazilian-born director Carlos Saldanha brings his native city to life on the big screen with sun-drenched yellows, popping pinks and bright sapphire blues, an enthusiastic, loving tribute to a place with a flavor all its own. It's quite a contrast to the "Ice Age" films, which Saldanha also directed; not that "Ice Age" wasn't fun in its own right, but trading in barren ice scapes for vivid exotic locales, Saldanha takes the ball and runs with it. Voice actors Eisenberg and Hathaway are perfect for their roles. Eisenberg imbues Blu with his trademark, negative-but-charming energy, and Hathaway's voice fills Jewel with immediately likable spirit. The cast is rounded out with names like Jamie Foxx, George Lopez, Tracy Morgan and Leslie Mann, so you know the character in the vocals leaves nothing to be desired.

"Rio" is light-as-a-feather family fare, but it delivers for what it is; the animation, cast and sheer, evident enthusiasm in the movie make sure it doesn't lay an egg.

'Scream 4' a bloody good throwback to the original

"Scream 4" (or "Scre4m") is the latest installment in the 15-year-old "Scream" franchise, and the first new film in the series in 11 years.

It was worth the wait.

The film begins with its trademark opening in which someone dies early on, and while I won't spoil it, I will say it's the best one since the original killed off Drew Barrymore. The movie then quickly moves on to reacquainting us with the survivors of the first three films, Sidney Prescott (Neve Campbell), Dewey Riley (David Arquette), and Gail Weathers-Riley (Courtney Cox), as well as the series' new blood (in most cases, quite literally): Jill (Emma Roberts), Kirby (Hayden Panettiere), Robbie (Erik Knudsen), Charlie (Rory Culkin), and many more.

It's been a decade since the last film, Sidney has finally moved on from her life as a victim and is back in Woodsboro on the first stop on the tour for her first book, "Out of Darkness." Dewey and Gail are married and living in Woodsboro, and Dewey is the sheriff. Meanwhile, Sidney's cousin, Jill, and her friends spend every year celebrating the Woodsboro massacre and the "Stab" films it inspired. When two of their friends wind up murdered the kids are less scared and mournful, than they are intrigued that they are living out the movie series they so adore.

The new film continues the Scream tradition of self-referential humor and nods to the horror movies of the day. In this case the series takes on torture porn, Japanese horror, and more, with torture porn being the brunt of a lot of the jokes in the film (which this reviewer enjoyed, as torture porn is the bottom of the barrel in terms of horror.) The movie also reflects on the current trend of rebooting and remaking horror films, establishing new rules based on the trend.

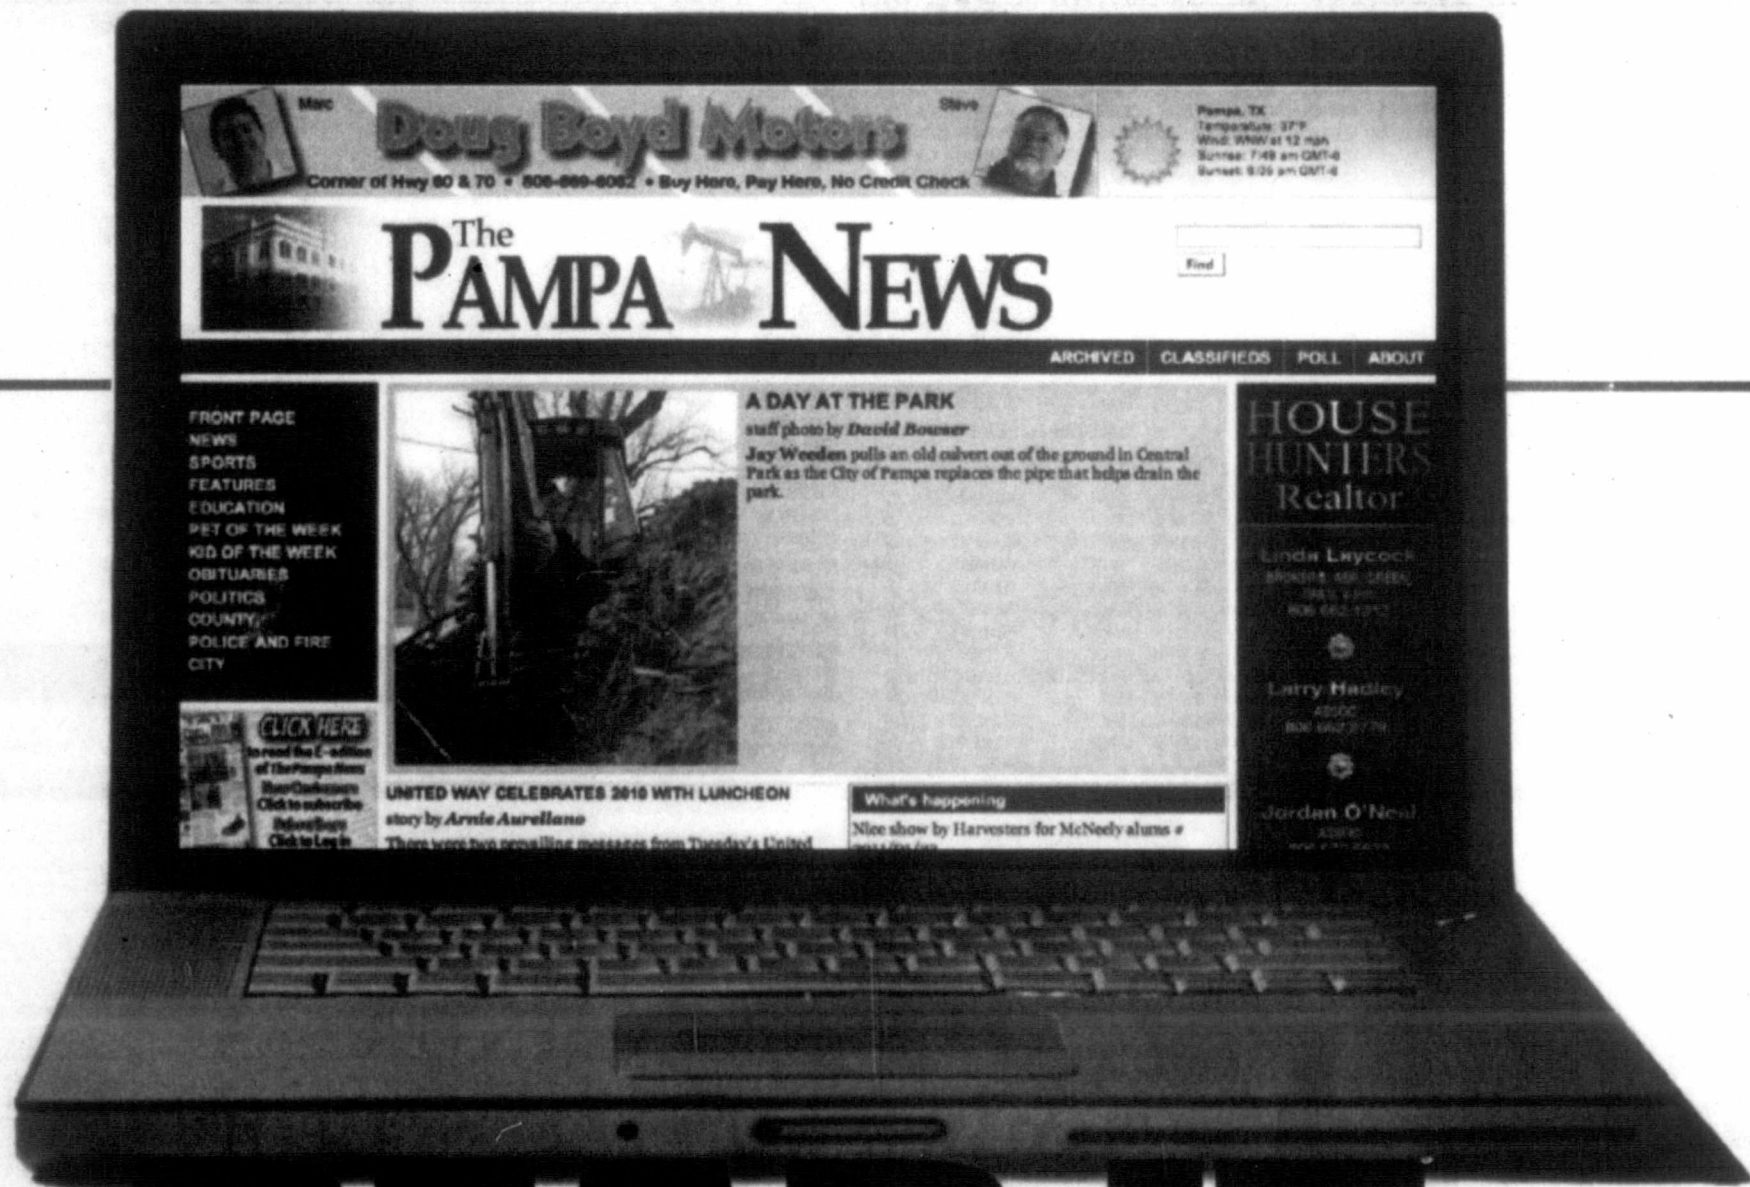

If the film suffers from anything, it's that some of the characters don't get fleshed out as much as they should. Because of this, the audience doesn't care about the deaths of some characters as much as we did in the original film. But, it still has more in depth characters than almost every horror film that has come out in the past decade.

Probably the best thing about the new film is the way it mirrors the original film in many ways. From the series of killings to the character archetypes, the new film has found a way to both pay homage and remake the original film, while also remaining original and true to its own concept. Overall, it's the best film in the series since the original. For fans of the series, or those just looking for a good, old fashioned slasher flick, this movie is for you.

Scream 4 ★★★★★
Rated R for strong bloody violence, language and some teen drinking

★ ★ ★ sunday horoscope

A child born today, April 17, 2011, has a Sun in Aries and a Moon in Libra if born before 11:19 p.m. (PT); after that time, Moon will be in Scorpio.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, April 17, 2011:

This year, you have the ability to relate to many people. The issue becomes your boundaries. You might wonder how much is too much. When do you say no? You will find the correct balance because of the intensity with which you eye this issue. If you are single, you can see the full dimension of this struggle when relating, even at the early stages. If you are attached, sometimes you might be resentful, as you give too much of yourself. Other times you feel guilty for not giving enough. Know that this swing back and forth will become smaller and smaller. LIBRA is a people person and easygoing.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★★ If you wonder where all the energy is coming from, look at the Full Moon. Investigate what is going on by being open to a loved one's ideas. Yes, they are different! Tonight: The only answer is "yes."

This Week: Deal with key people directly. Listen and integrate information.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★ If you aren't the epitome of energy and glee, don't worry. You might need a more mel-low Sunday than usual. If you had no obligations, what would your next 24 hours look like? Draw from this well of information. Tonight: Design the night for you.

This Week: Defer to others. You will come into your power Wednesday.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★★ Your upbeat nature adds change and dynamic energy to the mix. A loved one is happy to be part of your plans. You express unusual spontaneity. Tonight: A smile goes a long way.

This Week: Dive into work. Get the job done. Network from Wednesday on.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★ Someone you respect could be pushing hard; this person wants you to join him or her. As a result of how you look at this person, you will want to follow through on his or her request. As a child of the Moon, your mood could be all over the map with today's Full Moon. Tonight: Remember yourself, too.

This Week: Ingenuity, mainly yours, dominates. Push hard with work.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★★ You might be juggling people, ideas and plans. Consider the possibility of canceling something. You could go from frenzied to happily relating. Those around you will appreciate an easier attitude. Tonight: Hang out.

This Week: Play it low-key at work. In fact, if you can take a few days off, do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★★ Many people will be off with their own concerns. Getting certain errands accomplished and feeling good about yourself both can happen, if you plan. A loved one or friend chips right in, making mixing responsibilities and relating easier. Tonight: Remember, you do have self-discipline.

This Week: Keep conversations moving. Don't get caught up in a trivial issue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★★ The Full Moon adds to your allure and desirability. You know how to juggle many different concerns and not allow someone to feel less than good. Many people want to be around you because of this innate skill. Tonight: As you like it.

This Week: Your possessiveness doesn't make a situation any better. Talk through your feelings.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★ You might feel the need to explain where you are coming from. You have a strong desire to pursue a path that to many people seems antisocial. Take care of yourself first, or else you cannot be as sensitive to others. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

This Week: You roll into the week a force to be dealt with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★★ Zero in on a friendship and include this person in your plans. He or she might be quite touched by your thoughtfulness. Juggle many different ideas. Be where people are. Tonight: Fun times are here.

This Week: You need to get information and reflect on present issues. Midweek, you know what to do.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★ Don't you want to take off that mantle? You don't always have to be the responsible party. Know when to let others assume the kingpin role. You need time off ... now. Tonight: You can't stay off center stage, can you?

This Week: Manifest a goal this week, but get started Monday.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★★ If your thoughts stray to someone at a distance, why not pick up the phone and at least chat? You can be sure of a strong reception. Consider making plans to meet halfway. The only question is, Why not? Tonight: Daydream all you want.

This Week: Work hard and play hard.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★★ Deal directly with others, knowing what needs to be eliminated. Though you might be pulled between two different interests, a choice seems inevitable. As you look around, emotions might be out of control, even for you. Tonight: A nice, cozy meal for two.

This Week: Take in new vistas. Be willing to take a risk. Others watch how you handle a problem.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I recently returned from a vacation where we had a disagreement regarding hotel service and towels.

Regarding the towels, my wife thinks we should hang them to dry daily for reuse later. I say the cost of washing the towels is included in the price of the room, and I want a fresh towel daily.

The other issue is my wife feels obligated to tip the housekeeping staff. I have never felt that obligation. Not a single housekeeper has been exceptional, regardless of the hotel we stayed in.

We're hoping you could shed some light on hotel etiquette. — WEST VIRGINIA TRAVELER

DEAR TRAVELER: Your wife appears to be a conservationist. Although you prefer fresh towels daily, many travelers voluntarily forgo this service to help hotels conserve water and save energy. If you prefer to do otherwise, that's your privilege — and it's not worth arguing over.

As to tipping the housekeeping staff, has it occurred to you that you have never received exceptional service because you never offered a tip? Some hotel guests talk to the housekeeper at the time they arrive to request extra hangers, soap, washcloths, etc. — and offer a gratuity at that time. And when they do, the staff usually goes out of their way to be accommodating. Try it — they need the extra money, and they'll spoil you if you let them.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, "Parker," and I have a 4-year-old son, "Ethan." Recently, my mother-in-law suggested we have a will drawn up, stating who will take care of Ethan if something happens to us. She's an attorney and has offered to do it for us.

Parker and I agree that it is a good idea and appreciate her offer to do the paperwork. The problem? We don't want her raising our son. We have another relative in mind.

My mother-in-law is a nice enough person and would not be cruel or abusive to Ethan, but she was not a good mother to Parker and his siblings. She's extremely selfish and self-absorbed. We know she'll be extremely offended if we don't name her as our child's guardian.

I would like to hire another attorney, but she will take offense to that as well. She hasn't stopped hounding us about this issue. Please tell us how to handle this. — TRAPPED IN THE GOLDEN STATE

DEAR TRAPPED: Hire an attorney and have the document drawn up. And when your mother-in-law raises the subject again, you and Parker should thank her and tell her it has already been done, so she doesn't have to worry about it anymore. The woman may be selfish and self-absorbed, but she is absolutely right that you should have your wishes put in writing.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I were taught differently regarding how to serve ourselves a meal. Typically, we each "plate up" a desired amount of food in the kitchen, where it is prepared, rather than bring serving dishes to the table. Then we carry our plates to the table to eat.

Should my husband serve himself first (as I was taught the cook/hostess is served last), or should I go first (as he was taught women precede men)? — DINERS' DILEMMA

DEAR D.D.: You're not "the hostess"; you are the wife. If your husband wishes to defer to you, let him spoil you. You'll both be happier that way.

P.S. I'm sure you can find a way to spoil him back.

Large wildfires rage throughout western part of Texas

ROBERT BURNS
Texas AgriLife Extension

COLLEGE STATION — West Texas is burning. Fueled by record levels of drought-parched grasses and brush, driven by winds 30-35 mph with gusts up to 50 mph and encouraged by low humidity, wildfires burned hundreds of thousands of acres of West Texas, according to reports by Texas Forest Service and Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel.

From April 4 - 7, the Forest Service responded to 83 fires on 309,526 acres of that region. By April 11, some of the bigger fires were largely contained. Fire stretching across more than 100,000 acres of Stonewall, Knox and King Counties was 80 percent contained, according to Forest Service sources. A fire that burned more than 35,000 acres in Garza and Crosby counties was 90 percent contained. Many other smaller fires, from a few acres to a few thousand, were also squelched or under control.

However, as of April 11, fires in Presidio in Brewster counties were rated zero-percent contained. From all indications, the fire in Presidio County started on April 9, a Saturday afternoon, about 1 p.m., by someone burning trash about a 1½ mile west of Marfa, said Jesse Schneider, AgriLife Extension agent for agriculture and natural resources in Presidio County.

"We had steady winds of over 30 mph, gusting over 50 mph, and it raced across the flats toward Fort Davis, across several ranches, narrowly escaping the Marfa airport, jumped the highway, went into some suburbs of Fort Davis, burned some houses, then went to the south side of Fort Davis and burned some more houses there," Schneider said.

The fire split at Fort Davis, one arm traveling up into the Davis Mountains, one taking a lower route. "Both arms of the fire continued to burn houses," she said.

The Forest Service, the Texas Department of Transportation, local volunteer fire departments and city fire departments, all joined forces to fight the fire on all fronts, Schneider reported.

As of April 11, 185 counties had burn bans in place.

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force webpage at <http://agrilife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summaries:

PANHANDLE: Warm, windy and dry conditions continued, raising the risk of wildfire throughout the area. Soil moisture was mostly very short. Wheat was in very poor to fair condition, with most counties reporting poor. Farmers continued to prepare land for spring plantings. Most producers were irrigating corn and cotton ground as heavily as possible, hoping to raise soil-moisture levels enough to get the crops started.

Rangeland was mostly in poor condition. Cattle were in good condition with continued supplemental feeding. There were reports of increased numbers of mites, Russian aphids and greenbugs in area wheat fields.

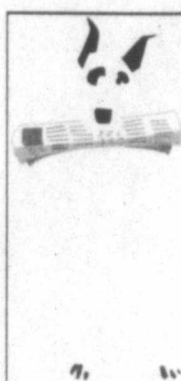

ROLLING PLAINS: Hot, dry conditions persisted. Burn bans were in effect, and there were numerous wildfires. One in Stonewall, King, and Knox counties consumed thousands of acres and was yet to be contained as of the time of this report. Wheat was heading out. A lot of wheat was being inspected by insurance adjusters, who were predicting yields as low as 1-2 bushels to the acre. Cattle were being turned out on insurance-adjusted fields for graze out. Irrigated wheat continued to hold on. Cotton producers needed rain to even plant. Stock tanks were getting low, though most will have water for a couple of months even without rain. The spring calving season drew to a close.

SOUTH PLAINS: Dry conditions, warm temperatures and high winds continued to raise the risk of wildfire. Farmers were pre-watering fields to prepare for planting. Dryland wheat was in poor condition, and irrigated wheat was only marginal. Rangeland and pastures were very dry, and producers were supplementing cattle with additional feed. Burn bans were in place with no rain in the immediate forecast. One fire burned 2,200 acres south of Post in Garza County. There was nearly 15,000 acres burned by wildfire in the region to date this year. All aspects of agriculture are struggling due to the extremely dry conditions.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Monday, April 18, 2011

This year, you might act, only to wonder later if there was a more effective path. Consider taming your innate enthusiasm. Taking your time to act on key decisions can only help, but it will demand unusual self-discipline. If you are single, you want what you want. Of course it is good to know what you want, but perhaps you could be stomping on a valid tie. If you are attached, realize the impact of your unusual strength this year. Remember that a relationship is a two-way street. SCORPIO understands you better than you might like!

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic, 4-Positive, 3-Average, 2-So-so, 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★★★★ Don't be surprised if you are tired. You have pushed and fought for certain key elements. Others play devil's advocate; they like this role! Let these same people run with the ball while you worry about other matters. Tonight: Chat over munchies.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★★★★ Understand the role of timing. Though you might be pushed to make a presentation or express your thoughts on an important matter, irritation keeps mounting within. There are simply days that are better than others. You are experiencing this now. Tonight: Listen to suggestions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★★★★ Maintain a more solid and direct pace. You know what is possible, but are you prepared to go to battle? Others will not cave in to your ideas without some convincing. Honor someone's suggestion. Tonight: Working late.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★★★★ Tap into your imagination if you are feeling frustrated or exhausted. Your ability to move through your emotions will help you. Realize what is happening within you. Do you feel negative? Tired? Not cared about? Tonight: Have a little fun on the way home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★★★★ Distraction occurs if you are having a disagreement or are too much in your head. Do be careful, knowing you might be accident-prone. You'll find out how little control you have. Laugh and relax when dealing with a frustrating person. Understand where he or she is coming from. Tonight: Let your mind roam.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★★★★ You might see a problem arise financially. By now, you could be an expert at handling money problems. Understanding evolves to a new level. See someone as realistically as possible. Make it OK not to agree. Use these differences positively. Tonight: Have an inevitable talk.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★★★★ Try not to use negativity to restrict others. You might be making a judgment that is not valid for other people, though it could be for you. Note the power of positive thinking. Tonight: Go over your budget. Pay bills.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★★★★ You'll strengthen your position through leadership, charisma and communication. You wonder how anyone can say no to you. Just watch and maintain a sense of humor. Take criticism with a grain of salt. Tonight: What would make you smile?

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★★★★ You could be exhausted. Do stop and look to see if this fatigue could be taking its toll on you. You might need to take steps to recycle, whether it is taking part of the day off or changing your plans. Tonight: Make yourself primary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★★★★ Zero in on what you need, and ask for support. You might keep finding yourself among a crowd of friends or associates. Listen and see where a boss or respected leader is coming from. Rethink your position. Tonight: Whether it's pushing the broom or taking a walk, get some exercise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★★★★ Others make demands, and you need to make a statement about what you think. Many people look to you for leadership. Make an effort to learn more and expand your intellectual perspective. Tonight: You could go till the wee hours.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★★★★ Push to gain a different perspective. Don't get locked in a struggle of wills that could be usually difficult. The only way out is to clear out your present thinking and find a new route. Tonight: Put on a favorite piece of music.

TONGUE TWISTER

THIS PUZZLE CONSISTS OF TWO SEPARATE CHALLENGES:

- SEE HOW MANY DIFFERENT WORDS YOU CAN UNSCRAMBLE WHICH CONTAIN ALL THE LETTERS AT LEFT.
- SEE HOW MANY OF THESE WORDS YOU CAN TRACE WITH A CONTINUOUS LINE. EACH TRACING MUST BEGIN AT THE BLACK SPOT. NO PASSAGE OR INTERSECTION MAY BE USED MORE THAN ONCE PER WORD.

IT IS POSSIBLE TO SPELL THESE WORDS:

- * BARED
- * BEARD
- * BREAD

HOWEVER, ONLY THE WORDS MARKED BY ASTERISKS CAN BE TRACED.
