Pampa Workforce Center to close after Sept. PRPC: 'Difficult decision,' but state and federal funding dried up

MOLLIE BRYANT
 mbryant@thepampanews.com

Facing a slew of funding cuts, the Workforce Development Board, associated with the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission (PRPC), will be closing the Pampa Workforce Center on September 30. This office has provided assistance to employers and clients seeking employment in Gray, Donley, Hemphill, Roberts and

Wheeler counties. "Our funding peaked two years ago at $20 million," said Tom Dressler of the PRPC. "Then it dropped to $16 million. In the new fiscal year, it will be dropping to $12.1 million. So we've been on a roller coaster that only goes one way." Dressler said that $7 million in stimulus money had helped delay the closure of several workforce centers around the region, but the PRPC faced a difficult decision as its state and federal funding began to dry up. "There's no way to avoid this when you lose a quarter of funding one year, and a quarter the next year," he said. "We put long, hard thought into it." Customers of the workforce center in Pampa will not be completely shut out from services after the facility closes its doors. Employers and those seeking employment can access job boards and other resources at workintexas.com, or they can reach the Texas Workforce Commission by phone at 1-800-735-2988. "A lot of what we do is on the website," said Dressler. "Folks can (access) that anywhere with access to computers." Panhandle Workforce Solutions will lose 14 staff members around the region, as offices in Borger, Childress, Dalhart, Dumas, Hereford and Tulia also close at WORKFORCE cont. on page 5

Bill Hite, owner of the Heard and Jones Health Mart in Pampa, has been filling Pampa's prescriptions since 1969. Since becoming a part of the Health Mart franchise in 1985, his store has been recognized as the Health Mart of the year, and the chain as a whole has maintained a reputation for having stellar customer service. Hite can add some more accolades to his list this year, as J.D. Power and Associates has given the Health Mart franchise its highest customer service rating since 2009, and now it has been recognized as Chain of the Year by Drug Topics, a major pharmacy magazine. "I've been in business here for 44 years, and I owned five stores at one time," said Hite. "I'm beyond blessed. I'm filling prescriptions for a fifth generation of customers." Instant contender? Perry to announce on Saturday

THOMAS BEAUMONT

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Months behind other GOP candidates, Rick Perry has something most of them don't: Buzz. The Texas governor will enter the race Saturday with splashy appearances in South Carolina and New Hampshire. At the same time, he is putting together what looks a lot like a traditional presidential campaign. The path he hopes will lead to the Republican nomination starts here, in the leadoff caucus state of Iowa, with a message of jobs and values as he tries to set himself apart from GOP front-runner Mitt Romney. The Texan's team is working to expand what it says is already a robust fundraising network and to hire veteran campaign operatives in early primary states. The cam-debt and rising energy dependence on nations that intend us harm," Perry is to say Saturday in Charleston, S.C., according to remarks prepared for delivery. Still, his hurdles on the way to the GOP nomination are high, given that Perry is later to the game than his rivals, some of whom have been campaigning and fundraising for months. "We have a consensus that we can do it — and no one's 100 percent convinced it's going to work," Perry's longtime strategist Dave Carney told The Associated Press. Perry is working quickly to assemble a network of operatives nationally and in key early-voting states Iowa, New Hampshire and South Carolina. He's attracting staff from former House Speaker Newt Gingrich's imploded campaign as well as the aborted presidential bid of Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour. Rob Johnson, who left Perry's office early this year to be Gingrich's campaign manager, is expected to be central to the Texan's presidential campaign and was headed to South Carolina on Friday. And Perry's even started siphoning staff PERRY cont. on page 7

Cops' Corner

During this time of year, we all want to start our vehicles and let them warm up before we take off, but this gives the car thief an opportunity to steal your vehicle.

The Pampa Police Department wants to encourage you to not leave your keys in your vehicle unattended.

We suggest that if you want to warm up your vehicle to make sure your vehicle is secure

We ask you to please help us in preventing car thief from stealing your vehicle.

We also want to make citizens aware that it is illegal for the keys to be left in the ignition.

Don't believe us? Transportation Code 545.404 states that "(a)n Operator may not leave the vehicle unattended without: (1) Stopping the engine; (2) locking the ignition; and (3) Removing the key from the ignition."

Let's do our part as a community and stop the criminals from getting with what they want. Thank you again for your help.

Heat made worse by AC thieves

HOUSTON (AP) — Thieves targeting air conditioning units in order to gut them so they can get quick cash by selling their valuable scrap metal is not new.

But the intense heat Texas and other parts of the country have experienced this summer has literally made it a much more unbearable crime this year.

Authorities say the thefts are not related to the weather, but rather the high prices thieves can get for the copper and other metal parts inside the units.

In Dallas, the theft of an air conditioner might have contributed to the heat-related death last month of an elderly woman whose unit was stolen two days before she died.

Other parts of the country, including Georgia, Chicago and Philadelphia, have dealt with similar thefts this summer.

Plan for oil spill trial outlined

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal judge on Friday outlined his plan for conducting a trial designed to assign percentages of fault to the companies sued over last year's deadly Deepwater Horizon rig explosion and Gulf oil spill.

U.S. District Judge Carl Barbier, who oversees tens of thousands of claims spawned by the disaster, said the trial scheduled to start Feb. 27, 2012, will be held in three phases.

The first phase will focus on causes of the well blow-out, rig blast and release of oil. Barbier called this the "incident phase."

The second phase deals with efforts to stop the gusher and quantify how much oil spilled from the well owned by BP PLC. The third phase will include testimony about spill cleanup.

Barbier will preside over the trial without a jury. The proceedings are expected to last several months.

Besides apportioning fault, the trial also is designed to determine whether rig owner Transocean can limit what it pays claimants under maritime law.

Trial preparations have included depositions by 176 witnesses and generated more than five million pages of documents shared among the parties, a BP lawyer said during Friday's hearing.

"I think we've all made good progress here," Barbier said.

Nurse accused of workplace fire

WACO (AP) — Investigators say a nurse has been accused of setting fire to the Central Texas school where she's worked for more than a decade.

Mary Lucille Gutierrez was jailed Friday in Waco on an arson charge, with bond set at $250,000. McLennan County Jail records did not list an attorney for Gutierrez, who was arrested Thursday.

Sheriff's Chief Deputy Randy Plemons says video surveillance shows a woman, later identified as Gutierrez, going in and out of Speegleville Elementary School around 2 a.m. Tuesday when the fire broke out.

No damage estimate has been provided by the Midway Independent School District.

Investigators are seeking a motive for the blaze.

Students and staff will attend nearby River Valley Intermediate while their school is repaired.

Texas AG praises health ruling

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Attorney General Greg Abbott is praising a federal court ruling that part of the federal health care plan is unconstitutional.

The 11th Circuit Court of Appeals said the new federal requirement that virtually all Americans must buy health insurance exceeded the government's authority. Texas was one of 26 states to sue the federal government over the law.

The Justice Department is expected to appeal the ruling. The Supreme Court is likely to ultimately decide the case.

Abbott called Friday's decision "an important ruling for freedom and limited government."

He added that the federal government cannot mandate any person to buy anything, no matter how well intentioned.

The Obama administration rejected the ruling, arguing that because emergency health care is guaranteed, the government can require people to have insurance.

Man accused of IED on pipeline

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A 40-year-old Seminole County man has been arrested for allegedly attaching an improvised explosive device to a natural gas pipeline.

The FBI says Daniel Wells Herriman of Konowa was arrested for attempting to destroy property used in interstate or foreign commerce.

A complaint filed in U.S. District Court in Oklahoma City says an IED was found attached to a gas pipeline at the Enerfin Resources site near Okemah on Wednesday.

A bomb squad removed and disarmed the device.

On Wednesday night, the FBI says the Seminole County Sheriff's Office received a 911 call in which Herriman allegedly said he had placed the IED on the pipeline.

A search of Herriman's residence found items consistent with the components of the IED found on the gas pipeline.

Jet fuel sparks water concerns

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Some people living in Albuquerque's Southeast Heights are no longer drinking tap water fearing it's contaminated from a huge jet fuel spill at Kirtland Air Force Base.

KOB-TV reports estimates are 8 million gallons of jet fuel leaked from underground pipes years ago, seeping into the groundwater.

Air Force officials said the contamination is at trace levels and far less than the amount that would pose a health threat to water users.

One resident tells KOB the water smells like chemicals and bleach and she won't drink it. Instead she's using bottled water.

Scientists think the leak started in the 1950s and wasn't discovered until 1999.

So far no contamination has turned up in any city drinking water wells, so the local Water Authority says there is no reason not to drink the water.

EL PASO (AP) — Gunfire broke the calm of the summer morning outside Bowie High School just as the football team was preparing for practice. A few hundred yards away in Juarez, Mexico, another shootout between drug cartels had begun.

No one on campus was injured in the shootout last weekend in which gunmen who killed a police commander fired more than 400 rounds. But the bullets that slammed into the high school's walls and ricocheted off its stadium lights reminded teachers and students yet again about the dangers of a campus that sits so close to the violence-plagued Mexican city.

"We never thought it would happen so near here. ... I'm a little worried it could happen again," said 17-year-old student Gerardo Pedroza, gazing at the fence across the highway that separates the football field from the border.

Pedroza was among the players who fled the football field when gunmen began firing their AK-47-type assault rifles on Aug. 6 in Juarez. Visiting volleyball players also rushed inside the school's gymnasium as they arrived for a scrimmage.

School administrators are relieved most classrooms were empty due to summer vacation, but they are considering ways to improve campus safety when classes resume this month. Among the ideas: beginning drills to help prepare students for more shootings at the border.

"It felt as if the shooting was happening here," Bowie Principal Jesus Chavez said.

A levee along the Rio Grande blocks the campus' first floor from a direct line of sight into Juarez, but classrooms and hallways on a second floor are visible from the park where the shooting occurred.

"With the wall and the Border Patrol agents, they (drug cartel members) can't get to this side," said parent Teresa Tostado, who was at Bowie three days after the shooting to register her son for classes. "But the bullets sure do."

Juarez has seen nearly 6,000 killings in the last three years as bloody turf battles have escalated between warring drug cartels and the Mexican security forces along the country's northern border.

Spillover violence has been rare in neighboring El Paso, but there are often scares. Last summer, bullets from Juarez hit an office in the University of Texas at El Paso, and in a separate incident gunshots pelted a city hall building in downtown.

Mexican authorities have said they believe a local drug cartel was behind the latest border shooting, which left Cmdr. Victor Nazario Moreno Ramirez dead on a road near the Rio Grande. Three arrests have been made in what police suspect was a retaliation for a police sweep in downtown Juarez.

Teachers and coaches relied on a drill they practiced in the event a gunman opened fire on campus, ushering the football team into a locker room and putting the school on lockdown until the shooting ended.

Football coach Roberto Padilla said coaches initially thought the gunfire were firecrackers brought by a visiting volleyball team as a prank. His players were the first to realize the danger.

"Sadly, their ears are trained to recognize gunshots," said Padilla, adding that is team tried to persuade him to resume practice minutes after the shooting.

"It was a surprise. You don't know when it will happen again," said Eduardo Hernandez, 17, one of the football players on the field when the shooting started. "It used to be you felt safer in El Paso, but not so much anymore."

Inside the gymnasium, the volleyball teams played on "to take their minds off what happened," said coach Roel De Anda.

Chavez said he plans to bring up school safety with other administrators and consider implementing drills specifically for cross-border gunfire. He said the shooting was the first Juarez incident that forced Bowie to lockdown, but he knows many of the students are already familiar with the violence in Mexico.

"What worries me is that they have developed an emotional callus," Chavez said. "It used to be that they would get all emotional when they talked about a killing in Juarez. 'Now it's more like, 'Meh, they killed 10, 15 people, it's OK. Just 10, 15 more to the thousands that have died so far.'"

Court strikes down insurance requirement

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal appeals panel struck down the centerpiece of President Barack Obama's sweeping health care overhaul Friday, moving the argument over whether Americans can be required to buy health insurance a step closer to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The divided three-judge panel of the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals concluded Congress overstepped its authority when lawmakers passed the so-called individual mandate, the first such decision by a federal appeals court. It's a stinging blow to Obama's signature legislative achievement, as most experts agree the requirement that Americans carry health insurance — or face tax penalties — is the foundation for other parts of the law.

The 207-page opinion, written by Chief Judge Joel Dubina and Circuit Judge Frank Hull, found that lawmakers cannot require residents to "enter into contracts with private insurance companies for the purchase of an expensive product from the time they are born until the time they die."

In a lengthy dissent, Circuit Judge Stanley Marcus accused the majority of ignoring the "undeniable fact that Congress' commerce power has grown exponentially over the past two centuries." He wrote that Congress generally has the constitutional authority to create rules regulating large areas of the national economy.

The White House argued the legislative branch was using a "quintessential" power — its constitutional ability to regulate interstate commerce, including the health care industry — when it passed the overhaul law. Administration officials said they are confident the ruling will not stand. The Justice Department can ask the full 11th Circuit to review the panel's ruling and will also likely appeal to the Supreme Court.

"Individuals who choose to go without health insurance are making an economic decision that affects all of us — when people without insurance obtain health care they cannot pay for, those with insurance and taxpayers are often left to pick up the tab," said White House adviser Stephanie Cutter.

The 11th Circuit's ruling, which sided with 26 states that had sued to stop the law from taking effect, is the latest contradictory judicial opinion on the health care debate. The federal appeals court in Cincinnati upheld the individual mandate in June, and an appeals court in Richmond has heard similar challenges to the law. Several lower court judges have also issued differing opinions on the debate.

Legal observers long expected the case would ultimately land in the Supreme Court, but experts said Friday's ruling could finally force the justices to take the case.

"There needs to be a pronouncement that's nationwide," said Carl Tobias, a professor at the University of Richmond School of Law. "It would be almost impossible to implement it if we have splintered decisions from different geographic circuits. The Supreme Court may feel now it has to take it."

Today in History

Today is Saturday, Aug. 13, the 225th day of 2011. There are 140 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 13, 1961, Berlin was divided as East Germany sealed off the border between the city's eastern and western sectors and began building a wall that would stand for the next 28 years until it finally came down in 1989.

On this date:

In 1521, Spanish conqueror Hernando Cortez captured Tenochtitlan, present-day Mexico City, from the Aztecs.

In 1624, King Louis XIII of France appointed Cardinal Richelieu his first minister.

In 1704, the Battle of Blenheim was fought during the War of the Spanish Succession, resulting in a victory for English-led forces over French and Bavarian soldiers.

In 1846, the American flag was raised for the first time in Los Angeles.

In 1932, Adolf Hitler rejected the post of vice chancellor of Germany, saying he was prepared to hold out "for all or nothing."

In 1960, the first two-way telephone conversation by satellite took place with the help of Echo 1. The Central African Republic became totally independent of French rule.

In 1981, in a ceremony at his California ranch, President Ronald Reagan signed a historic package of tax and budget reductions.

In 1989, searchers in Ethiopia found the wreckage of a plane which had disappeared almost a week earlier while carrying Texas Congressman Mickey Leland and 14 other people — there were no survivors.

Ten years ago: Macedonia's rival political leaders signed a landmark peace accord aimed at ending six months of bloody conflict and clearing the way for NATO troops to disarm ethnic Albanian rebels.

Five years ago: Israel's Cabinet became the final party to sign on to a U.N. cease-fire deal with Hezbollah.

One year ago: Weighing in for the first time on a controversy gripping New York City and the nation, President Barack Obama endorsed allowing a mosque near ground zero, telling a White House dinner celebrating the Islamic holy month of Ramadan that the country's founding principles demanded no less.

Today's Birthdays: Former Cuban President Fidel Castro is 85. Actor Pat Harrington is 82. Former U.S. Surgeon General Joycelyn Elders is 78. Actor Kevin Tighe is 67. Actress Gretchen Corbett is 64. Opera singer Kathleen Battle is 63. High wire aerialist Philippe Petit is 62. Hockey Hall of Famer Bobby Clarke is 62. Comedian-writer Tom Davis is 59. Golf Hall of Famer Betsy King is 56. Movie director Paul Greengrass is 56. Actor Danny Bonaduce is 52. TV host/weatherman Sam Champion ("Good Morning America") is 50. Actress Dawnn (correct) Lewis is 50. Actor John Slattery is 49. Actress Debi Mazar is 47. Actress Quinn Cummings is 44. Actress Seana Kofoed is 41. Country singer Andy Griggs is 38. Country musician Mike Melancon (Emerson Drive) is 33. Actress Kathryn Fiore is 32. Pop-rock singer James Morrison is 27.

Thought for Today: "Before I built a wall I'd ask to know / What I was walling in or walling out, / And to whom I was like to give offence." — From the poem "Mending Wall" by American poet Robert Frost (1874-1963).

A little food and a lot (finally) of water

Delicious desayuno

Last weekend my wife and I decided to go out for breakfast (desayuno in Spanish), combining it with a morning bike ride, so we toiled down to El Ranchito at the corner of Price and the Borger Highway. I had eaten lunch there several times, but I kept hearing about their wonderful breakfast burritos. The reports were not exaggerated — they were indeed wonderful — and huge.

After we finished, we went across the street to poke our head in their new digs, opening soon. I'm telling you this will be one nice place. The décor is really appealing, and with the same great food they offer now — wow! El Ranchito, by the way, is one of our new Chamber members, and we eagerly await their move to the new location.

Speaking of breakfast, don't miss lunch!

We will have a special speaker at Chamber Luncheon on Tuesday. Pampa's own Warren Chisum, 22-year veteran of the Texas Legislature, will be reminiscing about his time in office, as well as what he sees for the future of Texas and the area he represented. This month's luncheon is sponsored by Fenton Motors of Pampa and Dyer's BBQ will be catering with brisket and sausage. Cost is $10 and reservations must be in by 10:00 a.m. Monday. Call 669.32341 or email harvest@pampachamber.com.

JOE WEAVER

Time to leaf?

If you've been looking for a way to honor or memorialize a loved one, we suggest a gold leaf for the Heritage Tree at the White Deer Land Museum. If you haven't noticed it, trot down to 116 S.

Cuyler (open Tues-Sat, 1-4 pm) and look at the golden tree with dozens of leaves in honor and memory of special people. Fifty dollars buys an engraved leaf—a lasting memorial.

No brag, just fact

Blake Cartrite of KVII Channel 7 came to town this week and I got to show him around a bit. We didn't have time for much, but I made a point of taking him down Million Dollar Row and into the Post Office. It's always fun to take someone there — they look around for a bit, then their gaze drifts upward and their mouth falls open.

I also got to address new PISD employees and present them with bags of information about Pampa and local businesses.

Every litter bit

The rain sure seems to have lifted people's spirits — even those for whom the rain is a detriment. It's amazing to think that so far, August is the wettest and coolest month we've had this summer. And in the midst of a positive thing, I hate to be negative but put your ear close to the newspaper and I'll whisper it. Throw your cups and other fast food residue in the trash can! We went out driving after the rain to see the creeks and I'll bet there were a thousand cups floating in the various streams. I know this will be a revelation to some people, but throwing trash out of the car does not get rid of it!!! Have some pride—put your trash in a proper receptacle!

What's in a name?

Last Sunday Mark Warner encouraged me to check wedding and anniversary announcements in the Amarillo newspaper. I did, and sure enough—there it was. A woman named Pandora Box. It appeared to be her married name—makes me wonder if she thought very hard about dating a guy named Box to begin with.

And I hate to make fun of someone's tragedy, but I was listening to TSN news on KOMX (100.3 FM) Friday morning and I heard that a man in Amarillo had been killed in a hit-and-run incident. It's not funny exactly, but definitely ironic that the man's name was Lucky. Obviously, being named Lucky and being lucky are two different things.

Joe Weaver is the Executive Director of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday in History

This is Sunday, Aug. 14, the 226th day of 2011. There are 139 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 14, 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill issued the Atlantic Charter, a statement of principles that renounced aggression, endorsed the right of people to choose their form of government and called for improving the economic well-being of nations.

On this date:

In 1848, the Oregon Territory was created.

In 1908, a race riot erupted in Springfield, Ill., as a white mob began setting black-owned homes and businesses on fire; at least two blacks and five whites were killed in the violence.

In 1909, the newly opened Indianapolis Motor Speedway held its first event, a series of motorcycle races.

In 1935, President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law.

In 1936, Rainey Betha, 22, became the last man to be publicly executed in the United States as he was hanged in Owensboro, Ky., for raping 70-year-old Lischia Edwards.

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman announced that Japan had surrendered unconditionally, ending World War II.

In 1947, Pakistan became independent of British rule.

In 1951, newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst, 88, died in Beverly Hills, Calif.

In 1969, British troops went to Northern Ireland to intervene in sectarian violence between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

In 1981, Pope John Paul II left a Rome hospital, three months after being wounded in an attempt on his life. Conductor Karl Boehm died in Salzburg, Austria, two weeks before his 87th birthday.

Ten years ago: Twenty people detained in riots at the Group of Eight summit in Italy the previous month were ordered released by a Genoa court — 15 Austrians, three Americans, a Slovak and a Swede.

Five years ago: Israel halted its offensive against Hezbollah guerrillas as a U.N.-imposed cease-fire went into effect after a month of warfare that had killed more than 900 people. Cuban state television aired the first video of Fidel Castro since he stepped down as president to recover from surgery, showing the bedridden Cuban leader talking with his brother Raul as well as Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez. Actor Bruno Kirby died in Los Angeles at age 57.

One year ago: A day after weighing in on the issue, President Barack Obama repeated that Muslims had the right to build a mosque near New York's ground zero, but said he was not commenting on the "wisdom" of such a choice. Eight people leaving a party at a downtown Buffalo, N.Y., restaurant were shot, four fatally, including a Texas man who'd returned to his hometown to celebrate his first wedding anniversary. (Former gang member Riccardo McCray was later convicted of first-degree murder and attempted murder, and sentenced to life without parole.) A truck overturned during an off-road race in the Mojave Desert, killing eight spectators.

Today's Birthdays: Broadway lyricist Lee Adams ("Bye Bye Birdie") is 87. Pulitzer Prize-winning author Russell Baker is 86. Singer Buddy Greco is 85. Baseball Hall of Fame coach Earl Weaver is 81. College Football Hall of Famer John Brodie is 76. Singer Dash Crofts is 73. Rock singer David Crosby is 70. Country singer Connie Smith is 70. Comedian-actor Steve Martin is 66. Actor Antonio Fargas is 65. Singer-musician Larry Graham is 65. Actress Susan Saint James is 65. Actor David Schramm is 65. Author Danielle Steel is 64. Rock singer-musician Terry Adams (NRBQ) is 61. "Far Side" cartoonist Gary Larson is 61. Actor Carl Lumbly is 60. Olympic gold medal swimmer Debbie Meyer is 59. Film composer James Horner is 58. Actress Jackie Harry is 55. Actress Marcia Gay Harden is 52. Former basketball player Earvin "Magic" Johnson is 52. Singer Sarah Brightman is 51. Actress Susan Olsen is 50. Actress-turned-fashion/interior designer Cristi Conaway is 47. Rock musician Keith Howland (Chicago) is 47. Actress Halle Berry is 45. Actress Catherine Bell is 43. Country musician Cody McCarver (Confederate Railroad) is 43. Rock musician Kevin Cadogan is 41. Actor Scott Michael Campbell is 40. Actress Lalanya Masters is 39. Actor Christopher Gorham is 37. Actress Mila Kunis is 28. TV personality Spencer Pratt is 28.

the end of September. "Other folks will commute to Amarillo to work, and some will be working out of their homes," said Dressler.

"We're going to figure out how to make this work," he said. "You have to get creative when you face budget cuts of this kind."

Dressler hopes that changes to Workforce Solutions offices will make services more efficient and effective.

"We will not walk away from Pampa or our other rural communities," he said. "We have a long history of relationships with these communities. We won't have a brick and mortar building, but we won't be far away."

from current candidates. GOP fundraiser Gary Slayton in New Hampshire shifted from supporting former Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty to Perry this week, saying of the Texan, "He clearly sees the peril facing our beloved nation and has decided to answer the call."

Perry is courting establishment Republicans, economic conservatives and business leaders as he tries to knit together a coalition that spans the GOP spectrum. His team believes that his support among social conservatives already is strong and that he helped himself last week by hosting a national prayer rally. It drew 30,000 people to a Houston arena and the attention of more than 1,000 churches nationwide.

His inaugural campaign trip as a full-fledged candidate provides a window into his strategy for winning the nomination.

It starts Sunday with a three-day trip to Iowa, where he will appear at iconic state venues, including the Iowa State Fair and Iowa City's Hamburg Inn, where the walls are covered with photographs of past presidential candidates.

He'll share the spotlight at one stop — Waterloo — with Minnesota Rep. Michele Bachmann, who changed her schedule after it was announced that Perry would attend a county GOP fundraiser in the city, her birthplace.

While in Iowa, Perry also plans to hold several meetings with elected officials, as well as headline a business round-table in Dubuque.

He'll travel to New Hampshire on Wednesday, and is scheduled to headline the traditional Politics and Eggs breakfast in Bedford Village near Manchester. Stops in six other cities also are planned.

From there, he heads back to South Carolina, a conservative state where Perry's evangelical background, punctuated last week with the day of prayer he headlined in Houston, can serve him well. He'll spend his time meeting with potential supporters and financial backers, including Barry Wynn, who met with Perry in Austin three weeks ago to start building a national finance operation.

"He has plenty of running room and available staff in South Carolina and will be popular," said Jim Dyke, a Republican strategist in Charleston who is unaffiliated with a 2012 campaign.

Perry is looking to be the answer for the GOP establishment, many of whose members are uninspired by Romney, who is leading the field as a business conservative in his second bid for the nomination.

Henry Barbour, a longtime Haley Barbour aide who is helping Perry get started, said the Texan's appeal among business and establishment Republicans and his fundraising ability fill a void in the campaign.

"And he's authentic," Barbour said. "That's a natural contrast he has with Gov. Romney and President Obama."

While Perry has never run a national campaign, his ties to the Republican Governors Association, which he chairs and has served as finance chairman, give him an entry with national GOP donors.

For now, he is working to make a swift and strong financial showing by drawing on his state's large pool of Republican donors to fuel his campaign launch. The Texas fundraising base contrasts with smaller-state local pools that Minnesota's Pawlenty can draw from, although Romney, who ran for the nomination in 2008, already has a national fundraising network.

Longtime donors to Perry from Texas, including hundreds who have donated more than $100,000 to his three winning campaigns for governor, are sending out emails. And several Texas fundraising events are in the works.

'Final Destination' series needs to die with No. 5

"The definition of insanity is doing the same thing over and over and expecting different results."

— Ben Franklin, or Einstein, or Mark Twain, one of the three

It's a quote often misattributed, and quite mercilessly overused. But watching "Final Destination 5," it's one that just kept cycling through my head.

The first one was terribly acted and decidedly unsubtle (as teen scream flicks tend to go), but it at least had an interesting premise and threw in a decent amount of suspense here and there for good measure. Then, they recycled the idea three more times, to progressively worse results. Why they decided to make a fifth one, I'll never know.

(OK, I totally know. People keep going to see them. I don't understand those people, but I wish they'd stop.)

In any case, "Final Destination 5" continues with the series' premise, that people who were supposed to die somehow managed to cheat Death. In this case, it's a young man named Sam (Nicholas D'Agosto) and a predictable group of teen horror stereotypes whom he herds of a bus before a suspension bridge collapses. There's his girlfriend, his best friend, the token black guy, the slutty girl, the raunchy comic relief guy and their boss (played by David Koechner, who surprisingly isn't being the raunchy comic relief guy).

With the cast shunted off the bus before they meet their untimely ends, the conceit of the movie kicks in. Death begins to systematically hunt them down and correct his mistake in the most Rube Goldberg-esque way possible. It's really the only remaining draw to the franchise: How many new and complicated ways can the writers think of to kill off their characters?

"Final Destination 5" doesn't even manage to pull this off well. The idea behind each death and near-miss is certainly creative and cringe-worthy — many of us have considered the dreadful "what ifs" of acupuncture and Lasik surgery — but the execution is tedious. Waiting through the horrendous dialogue and plotting just to get to the deaths is bad enough, and when the payoff isn't even worth it, you have yourself a thorough failure of a horror movie.

Let's hope that, true to the theme of the franchise, the studios finally realize that this series should've died years ago and finally put it out of its misery.

'The Change-Up' not your same old switch comedy

The "body switch" comedy isn't a new concept. There's so many that most audiences know what to expect: Two people who have very different lives and don't see eye to eye switch bodies with one another and get the chance to see how the other lives. But audiences have never seen one quite like "The Change-Up."

The new film stars Jason Bateman as Dave Lockwood, a married father of three and attorney, and Ryan Reynolds as his friend Mitch Planko, a womanizer and struggling actor. When the two go out for drinks, they end up wishing they had each other's lives while peeing into a fountain. Of course it's not just any fountain, but an inexplicably magic fountain that grants their wish and switches their bodies.

Mitch, a screwup who can never finish anything, finds Dave's life is harder than he thought. But as he prepares for a big meeting Dave has and spends time with Dave's family he slowly realizes that being a responsible adult is more than he could have ever imagined. Meanwhile, Dave discovers that Mitch's acting career is not what it seems and that his ability to sleep with any girl he wants may not be all that its cracked up to be. Eventually the two realize their own lives aren't so bad, even if they do need to make a few changes.

What makes this movie so different from the "body swap" films before it is the hard R rating. "The Change-Up" offers up a bevy of gross out laughs, foul language, and a bit of computer-aided nudity (the two lead actresses, Leslie Mann and Olivia Wilde, each have a nude scene while neither was actually naked on set — this is the digital world we live in these days). Imagine "Freaky Friday" as written by the guys who wrote the Hangover, as that duo, Jon Lucas and Scott Moore, did in fact write "The Change-Up."

But it's the cast that really makes this movie click. Bateman, who normally plays the straight, uptight guy is clearly having a blast when he's playing Mitch in Dave's body. And Reynolds, usually the funny man, is clearly enjoying playing the straight man. In addition, the cast includes Alan Arkin and Gregory Itzin in small but strong supporting roles.

While "The Change-Up" is not as funny as some of the previous R rated comedies this summer (see "Bridesmaids" and "Horrible Bosses") it is loads better than the remake of "The Hangover" which came out earlier this summer (it was disguised as a sequel, but it wasn't), and not a bad way to spend a hot summer night.

Local attorney Travis Tidmore reviews movies for The Pampa News as well as on his blog, www.thecinemaniac.com.

White Deer ISD Accountability Ratings

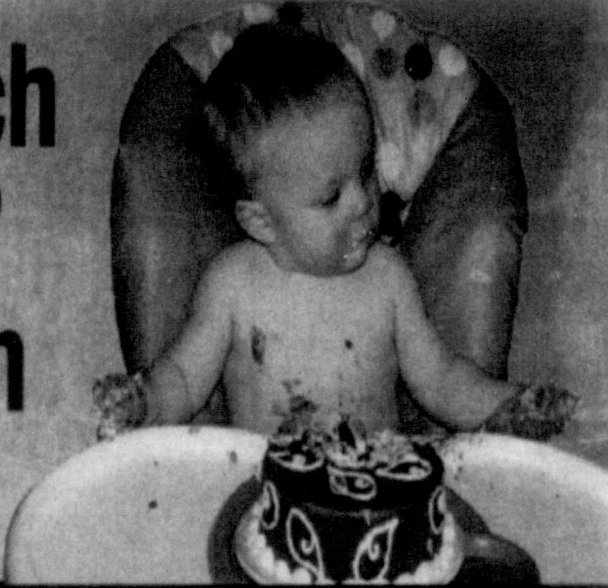

White Deer ISD is pleased to announce that the district received a "Recognized" State Accountability rating. Across the state there were only 422 districts out of 1228 districts that were "Recognized" by the state. The White Deer Elementary/JH campus also achieved "Exemplary" status again this year. Congratulations to Mrs. Lynch, campus principal, and all of her staff! It was much harder to accomplish a Recognized and Exemplary rating this year compared to last year.

White Deer ISD also received a "Meets AYP" Federal Accountability rating for the district and all campuses. Across the state, only fifty percent of the districts received a "Meets AYP" rating. Across the state, there was also a significant drop in the number of campuses that received a "Meets AYP" rating.

Superintendent, Karl Vaughn, recognizes that with the transition from TAKS to the new assessments (STAAR) that the bar must be raised substantially to prepare students to be successful. To that end, the superintendent is especially pleased with the quality of staff members who will be making the difference in the lives of students in the classroom and other extracurricular programs outside the classroom. Each new year always brings new excitement with it and this year is no exception. Our Cross Country competitors are meeting every morning at 6:00 am to work out and then the football players are on the field shortly afterward until noon. Later on each day our Buck Band students are already practicing their half-time marching show. Last Friday, they performed a short concert for the superintendent and they sounded awesome! With a great student body, wonderful parent and community support, and a top-notch staff, the 2011-12 school year promises to be an exciting and successful year.

White Deer ISD is now taking transfers! For more information please call 806-883-2311.

PHS tennis enters 2011-12 with higher expectations

ANDREW GLOVER
aglover@thepampanews.com

Last year, the Pampa Harvesters tennis team reached highs it hasn't reached in a long time, finishing the season with a winning record (9-3) and sending a pair to state. This year, the Harvesters are hoping to achieve higher goals.

Head coach Sarah Corse said the boys side will be strong and the girls are coming along.

"The guys are solid," Corse said. "Out of six guys, five of them are seniors. The girls we got some new ones. Delaney Clendening decided to play tennis for us this year. She looks like she is going to be an asset for our team this year. We're going to be young on the girls side but we should be all right."

Junior Makayla Hampton one of three female returners from last year's team, said the new girls are doing well.

"(New girls) are fast learners," Hampton said. "It shouldn't take us too long to get going."

The boys' side returns three regional qualifiers in senior David Moore and juniors Nick Nelson and Logan Karbo. Moore said it should be a good year for the males.

"(Nelson and Karbo) are doing pretty good," Moore said. "I've played them already and they have improved a lot over the summer. I think they are going to do really good and I think we will do good as a team."

During Friday's practice, tennis team members played against each other to establish their ranking on the team.

This year's fall schedule includes matches with Randall, Dumas, Amarillo High's junior varsity, Berger and Perryton. Corse said they want to challenge themselves before the spring.

"We're playing some 3A teams," Corse said. "We're playing a few 4A schools... We're playing Amarillo High, they are 5A. We'll be going against their top JV. They will be out to get us because we beat them last year."

Moore said the success the team experienced last year definitely motivated it during the offseason.

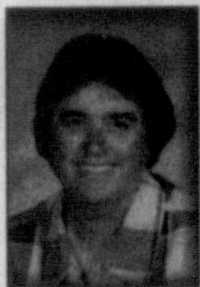

"It motivates us because we've been there before," Moore said. "We've seen those other teams and know what to expect. We know what to do and it makes us excited because we can go to regionals and go to state."

Hampton said she is hoping to make it to state in the spring.

"Last year I only made it to district," Hampton said. "I think I could go further."

Corse said she hopes this year ends similar to last season.

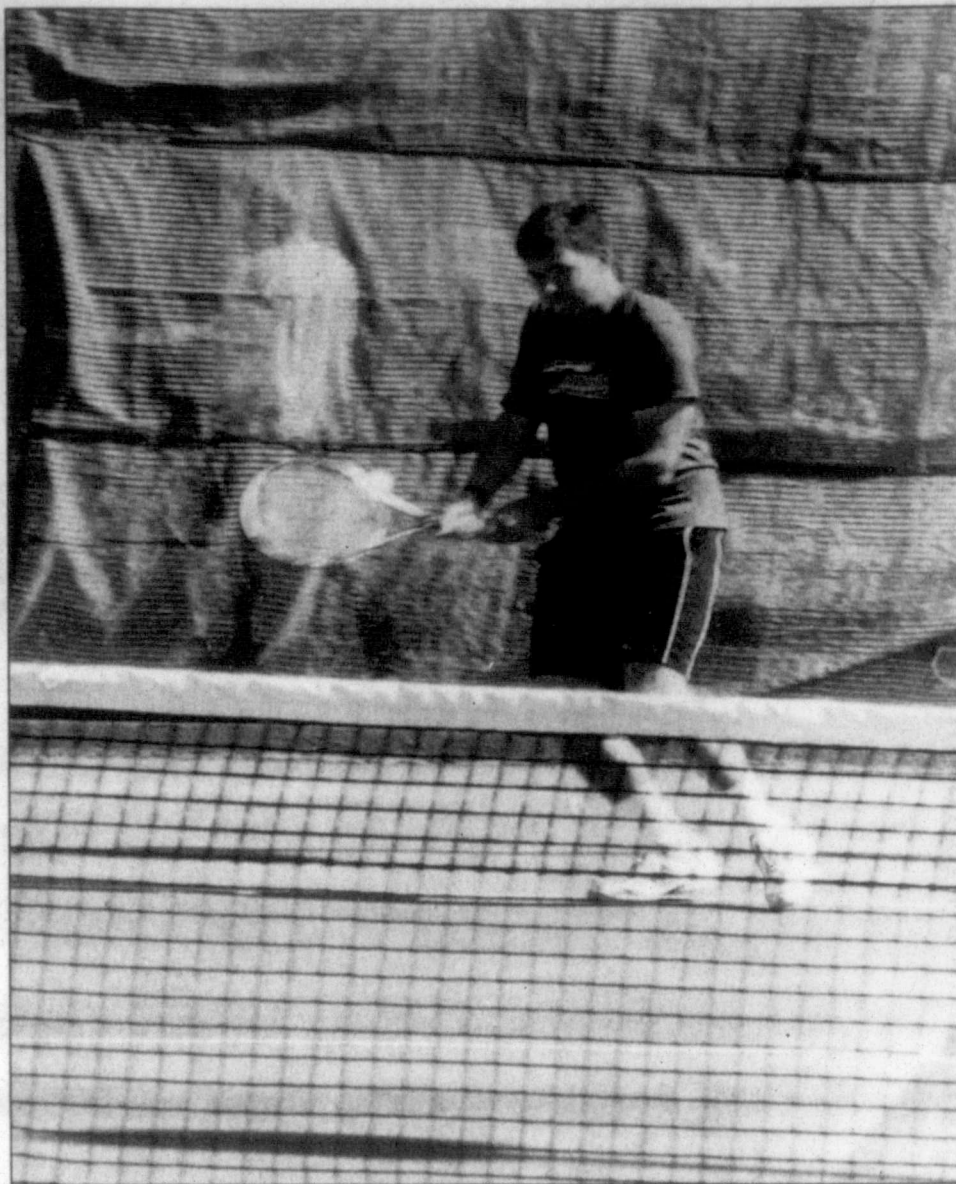

"Regionals is tough," Corse said. "You got some great teams. Vernon and Abilene Wylie will bring out some tough players for us. That is their goal. They set it high, they want to make it farther than they did and maybe we can make a trip to Austin again."

David Moore returns a ball in practice Friday at Pampa High School. Moore is one of five seniors for the boys.

In depth look at the Harvesters

- Last season: 9-3, 5th in team regionals; six regional qualifiers and two state qualifiers.
- Key Returners: David Moore, Sr.; Nick Nelson, Jr.; Logan Karbo, Jr.; Makayla Hampton, Jr.
- Key Departures: Aaron Silva, Holly Gage, Camila Vallejo
- Player to watch: David Moore, Sr.: Moore qualified for regionals in singles last year and had a strong performance in doubles. Look for him to lead a senior-laden boys' side.

PHS D-line more aggressive in '11

aglover@thepampanews.com

Last year, the Pampa Harvesters struggled defending the run, a deficiency that this year's defensive line vows won't happen this season.

Senior Marshall McGrath, who is playing his first season on varsity, said this year has been an adjustment.

"It's been tough," McGrath said. "I haven't played since my freshman year. Just getting everything down is tough, but I'm getting there with a little help from my teammates."

Junior Josh Owen, who played on the junior varsity last year, said size has been the biggest difference.

"Everyone is a lot bigger than on JV," Owen said. "They are a lot tougher and a lot heavier. They are tougher to move."

Defensive coordinator Stacey Alexander said they will have to wait until scrimmages to see how McGrath and Owens are adjusting.

"We are waiting to evaluate the progress when we have some scrimmage film on them," Alexander said. "Right now, everyone is working hard and doing what we ask."

Parks said the line worked hard in the offseason.

"We've improved our reaction to the ball," Parks said.

Alexander said the line improved its strength and speed.

"I think our linemen had a great winter," Alexander said. "They got bigger and stronger, more athletic."

McGrath said the line has progressed well in practice and said he is optimistic about the season.

"We should be able to make a lot more plays," McGrath said.

Owen said he has seen improvements in run defense, but admitted there are still some to be made.

"We can really stop the outside run," Owen said. "We're having trouble adjusting to the inside run."

Alexander said the intensity of the line is a big improvement.

"I think the enthusiasm is a big improvement," Alexander said. "The guys' attitude, the way they approach practice, the effort they have in each rep is a big plus for them."

Parks said the line will have more of a presence in opposing backfields.

"We're pretty intense out there and will be in the backfield more," Parks said.

Owen agreed and said fans should see more sacks.

"We're going to be going for the quarterback every play," Owen said.

"Just light him up and take him out. We aren't going to allow him to get any deep passes."

McGee outshines Tebow in preseason opener

ARLINGTON — Tim Tebow scrambled far to his left, inches from the sideline, saw some resistance and headed back the other way. He was around the middle of the field when he decided to pass, lobbing the ball over a defender to a waiting teammate, who took off toward the end zone.

It could've been the latest addition to Tebow's legacy -- if only he hadn't gone a full stride over the line of scrimmage, a lineman hadn't illegally down the field and another teammate hadn't clobbered someone in the back.

Instead, by the end of it, even one of the officials was chuckling.

Tebow's schoolyard play came just before halftime and stood as the play of the game, until Dallas' Stephen McGee threw a 13-yard touchdown pass and a two-point conversion with 15 seconds left, giving the Cowboys a 24-23 victory over the Broncos on Thursday night.

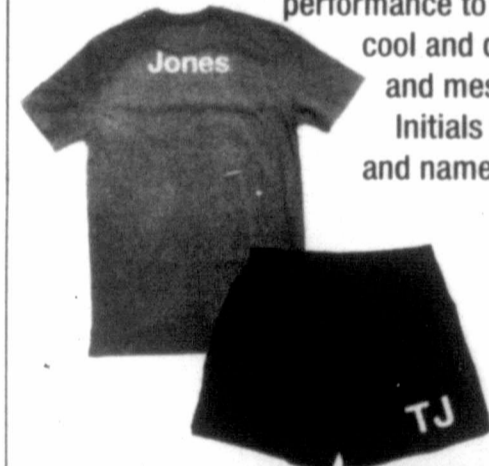

McGee, an option quarterback in college just like Tebow, showed the moxie he displayed in two quality outings at the end of last season. He finished 14 of 24 for 208 yards, with three touchdowns, plus ran four times for 25 yards.

"It's always fun to win no matter how it comes," McGee said. "For me, this is my regular season."

Tebow's numbers were good. He completed 6 of 7 passes for 91 yards. He also ran twice for 15 yards, producing a pair of field goals in four drives.

A&M regents mull SEC

HOUSTON (AP) — The Texas A&M System board of regents has called a special meeting Monday that includes an agenda item about conference alignment. The session comes amid speculation that Texas A&M is leaving the Big 12 for the Southeastern Conference.

The item, part of the executive session agenda, is called: "Authorization for the President to Take All Actions Relating to Texas A&M University's Athletic Conference Alignment, The Texas A&M University System."

Texas A&M considered switching to the SEC last year before staying in the Big 12. The university hasn't confirmed it is again discussing a jump to the SEC, but talk has been intensifying that the Aggies are looking to leave.

The news of the meeting comes on the heels of the Texas House Committee on Higher Education calling a Tuesday hearing, to which Big 12, SEC and Texas A&M officials have been invited, to discuss possible realignment of college conferences in the state.

Florida State is another school that has been mentioned as a potential new addition to the SEC. But university President Eric Barron said he hasn't had any talks about his school leaving the Atlantic Coast Conference for the SEC. Still, he didn't say it would never happen.

Aggie internet message boards and blogs are lighting up with chatter about such a move and several posts on Friday said that students chanted: "SEC! SEC!" as university President R. Bowen Loftin walked to the podium at Texas A&M commencement ceremonies.

Such a move could jeopardize the future of the Big 12 and has state legislators concerned. The Higher Education committee said Commissioners Dan Beebe of the Big 12 and Mike Slive of the SEC have been invited to testify, as have Loftin and A&M system board of regents Chairman Richard A. Box.

There was speculation that administrators from other schools in the Big 12, who would be affected by such a move, would be invited to the hearing as well, but they were not included on the list.

2011 Property Tax Rates in City of Pampa

This notice concerns the 2011 property tax rates for City of Pampa. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual tax rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers start rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$2,669,605
Last year's debt taxes	$457,554
Last year's total taxes	$3,127,159
Last year's tax base	$498,805,130
Last year's total tax rate	$0.626930/$100
This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$3,089,804
- This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of new property)	$497,531,176
- This year's effective tax rate	$0.621027/$100
(Maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearings.)
This year's rollback tax rate:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for any transferred function, tax increment financing, state criminal justice mandate, and/or enhanced indigent healthcare expenditures)	$3,807,914
- This year's adjusted tax base	$497,531,176
- This year's effective operating rate	$0.765362/$100
x 1.08 - this year's maximum operating rate	$0.826590/$100
+ This year's debt rate	$0.104538/$100
- This year's total rollback rate	$0.931128/$100
- Sales tax adjustment rate	$0.232842/$100
- Rollback tax rate	$0.698286/$100

Statement of Increase/Decrease

If City of Pampa adopts a 2011 tax rate equal to the effective tax rate of $0.621027 per $100 of value, taxes would decrease compared to 2010 taxes by $-5,640.

Schedule A - Unencumbered Fund Balance

The following estimated balances will be left in the unit's property tax accounts at the end of the fiscal year. These balances are not encumbered by a corresponding debt obligation.

Type of Property Tax Fund	Balance

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING TO DISCUSS BUDGET AND PROPOSED TAX RATE

The Grandview Hopkins ISD will hold a public meeting at 7:00 PM, August 24, 2011 in Board Room at Grandview Hopkins ISD, 11676 Farm Road 293, Groom, Texas. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss the school district's budget that will determine the tax rate that will be adopted. Public participation in the discussion is invited.

The tax rate that is ultimately adopted at this meeting or at a separate meeting at a later date may not exceed the proposed rate shown below unless the district publishes a revised notice containing the same information and comparisons set out below and holds another public meeting to discuss the revised notice.

Maintenance Tax	$0.970000/$100 (proposed rate for maintenance and operations)
School Debt Service Tax	$0.118000/$100 (proposed rate to pay bonded indebtedness)
Approved by Local Voters

Comparison of Proposed Budget with Last Year's Budget

The applicable percentage increase or decrease (or difference) in the amount budgeted in the preceding fiscal year and the amount budgeted for the fiscal year that begins during the current tax year is indicated for each of the following expenditure categories:

Maintenance and operations	-21.61% decrease
Debt Service	48.00% increase
Total expenditures	13.20% increase

Total Appraised Value and Total Taxable Value (as calculated under Section 26.04, Tax Code)

	Preceding Tax Year	Current Tax Year
Total appraised value* of all property	$148,734,427	$121,812,737
Total appraised value of new property	$26,780	$179,990
Total taxable value of all property	$123,193,981	$96,487,908
Total taxable value of new property	$26,780	$179,990

*Appraised value is the amount shown on the appraisal roll and defined by Section 1.04(8), Tax Code

New property is defined by Section 26.01(2)(7), Tax Code

Taxable value is defined by Section 1.04(10), Tax Code

Bonded Indebtedness

Total amount of outstanding and unpaid bonded indebtedness* $1,000,000

*Outstanding principal

Comparison of Proposed Rates with Last Year's Rates

	Maintenance & Operations	Interest & Sinking Fund*	Total	Local Revenue Per Student	State Revenue Per Student
Last Year's Rate	$0.970000	$0.000000*	$0.970000	$15.392	$5.350
Rate to Maintain Same Level of Maintenance & Operations Revenue & Pay Debt Service	$1.052590	$0.118470*	$1.171060	$16.247	$12.872
Proposed Rate	$0.970000	$0.118000*	$1.088000	$10.348	$6.968

*The Interest & Sinking Fund tax revenue is used to pay for bonded indebtedness on construction, equipment, or both.

The bonds, and the tax rate necessary to pay those bonds, were approved by the voters of this district.

Comparison of Proposed Levy with Last Year's Levy on Average Residence

	Last Year	This Year
Average Market Value of Residences	$54,187	$39,199
Average Taxable Value of Residences	$39,187	$24,199
Last Year's Rate Versus Proposed Rate per $100 Value	$0.970000	$1.088000
Taxes Due on Average Residence	$380.11	$263.29
Increase (Decrease) in Taxes		$-116.82

Under state law, the dollar amount of school taxes imposed on the residence homestead of a person 65 years of age or older or of the surviving spouse of such a person, if the surviving spouse was 55 years of age or older when the person died, may not be increased above the amount paid in the first year after the person turned 65, regardless of changes in tax rate or property value.

Notice of Rollback Rate: The highest tax rate the district can adopt before requiring voter approval at an election is $0.000000. This election will be automatically held if the district adopts a rate in excess of the rollback rate of $0.000000.

Fund Balances

The following estimated balances will remain at the end of the current fiscal year and are not encumbered with or by a corresponding debt obligation, less estimated funds necessary for operating the district before receipt of the first state aid payment.

Maintenance and Operations Fund Balance(s)	$812,384
Interest & Sinking Fund Balance(s)	$0

A farmer disks corn stubble in the Texas Blacklands. Most corn in the area either failed or had extremely low yields, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel.

It's back: Is your cup of La Niña half-full or half-empty?

COLLEGE STATION — Recent predictions by the National Weather Service of a 50 percent chance there will be another La Niña in the southern Pacific Ocean this fall can be taken two ways — with optimism or pessimism, said Dr. John Nielsen-Gammon, Texas A&M University professor and Texas state climatologist.

Some may view the prediction with a sense of gloom, but before they get too pessimistic, they should remember the Weather Service is saying there's "only" a 50 percent chance, Nielsen-Gammon said.

The contribution of the very strong La Niña pattern of mid-2010 to the worst drought in Texas history, continues to be felt throughout the state, according to Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel reports.

"To look on the optimistic side, there is an equal 50-percent chance of having no La Niña at this time," he said. "And even if there is a moderate La Niña, it doesn't necessarily mean we will definitely have a dry winter again, it just means it will be more likely."

It's also important to remember that the large computer models used by the Weather Service are predicting "a weak to moderate" La Niña, Nielsen-Gammon said. "Not nearly as strong as the forecasts were saying at this time last year."

In comparison, the La Niña that developed in mid 2007 and lasted into 2009, was a moderate one, and though it was associated with a dry summer, it was not nearly so devastating as the current weather pattern, he said.

If you view the cup as half-empty, and assume that we will have another La Niña starting this fall, it still shouldn't herald as a severely dry year as what we're currently experiencing, he said.

But, Nielsen-Gammon warned, better than worst doesn't guarantee the hardship the agricultural sector is experiencing will just go away. Abnormal La Niña or not this fall, a second year of even moderate drought would leave many water supplies in even worse shape.

"We already have had an extremely dry year, so we should see more precipitation next year, but there is still a very good chance it won't be good enough take us out of the drought, and we will still be having problems with dry conditions even into next summer," he said.

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force website at <http://agrilife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

AgriLife Extension district reporters compiled the following summaries:

PANHANDLE: The region remained hot and mostly dry. Some counties reported receiving from a trace to 1 inch of rain. Soil moisture continued to be mostly very poor, and crops were suffering. Producers were diverting water from corn to other crops and less acres. Cotton was in mostly poor to very poor condition. Rangeland and pastures continued to decline. Cattlemen were culling deeper into their herds and trying to find other states with grazing available, where they could ship their cattle.

ROLLING PLAINS: Conditions remained extremely hot and dry, with temperatures surpassing 100 degrees on a daily basis and no moisture. Pastures, crops, livestock and residents were all suffering. Most of this year's cotton crop was already "disastered-out" for crop insurance, with only irrigated cotton left. And some irrigated cotton was beginning to show signs of playing out with plants blooming at the tops. Farmers couldn't put enough water out to meet the crops' needs. Pastures also were in bad condition. Two large area ranches secured leases in Wyoming and Nebraska, and planned to move more than half their brood herds to those areas. Other producers were liquidating herds as the drought lagged on. Forages that had been planted and germinated died. Producers that still had cattle were moving them around trying to find greener grass and feeding supplements on a daily basis. Many ranchers who had already culled cattle and shipped calves early were still trying to hold on to a few head in hopes some relief will come soon. Many producers had not yet begun to prepare their fields for wheat planting. Pecan trees and fruit trees were being watered.

SOUTH PLAINS: All counties remained under burn bans. There were continued high temperatures in the triple digits, averaging 27 heat units per day, with little to no rainfall. The remaining irrigated crops were stressed. Many cotton fields were rapidly moving into cut-out stage, and some growers now expect to harvest in September. The big question for producers was when to terminate irrigation without risking significant yield and quality loss. Cattle were being sold off due to lack of forage and short supplies of hay and water. Some locations are relying on miles of water lines to supply cattle. Local state and federal committees were applying for U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency Emergency Conservation Program aid for waterlines, wells and trough construction.

daily horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Aug. 13, 2011:

This year, you juggle many different people, feelings and issues. You seek a midpoint or resolution. Issues of guilt and resentment could arise. Reaching a place where both parties in a marriage can feel that they have enough say or dominance will be important. If you are single, knowing your boundaries remains instrumental when dating. Your charisma shines this year. You have many options in your life. AQUARIUS often expresses the other side of the issue.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
★★★★ Remember a friend. Make plans to get together — if not today, then soon. This person cares a lot. Why not bring loved ones together for a spontaneous party? Tonight: Where the action is.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ Be aware of an implicit demand from an authority figure. Though you might want to spend your day as planned, you might not have much of a choice right now. Follow through on an obligation. Tonight: As late as you want.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★ Respond to a distant drummer and follow that voice. You will enjoy the adventure and change of scenery. In some sense, you will want to walk out of your life for a short time. Where is the grass greener? Tonight: Go exotic.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You might want to understand your limitations and choices. A partner could be stressing you out by asking too much from you. Establish limits and boundaries. Ultimately, it will make your relationship work better. Tonight: Who is going to treat?

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★ You might want to rethink a personal issue, as you might not have a choice. Many people around you cannot help but play devil's advocate, no matter what. A serious attitude colors a moment or two. Share more of your feelings. Tonight: Just don't be alone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★ Complete a project before you decide to go out. Your sense of humor comes through, though some people might not get your wit. Consider adding to your health routine to make yourself better. Tonight: Disappear. Say little.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Others try to lighten the moment. You will lighten up, but you like the friendly coaxing from friends and loved ones. Don't go to extremes if you can avoid it. Stay within your immediate social routine. Just do what comes naturally. Clearly, someone wants you to join in. Tonight: Fun and games.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Don't hesitate to step back a little. You might be tired or overwhelmed by what you have to do. Not everyone responds to stress like you do. You can stand a lot before you have to take a break! Consider taking a nap. Tonight: The action is at your pad.

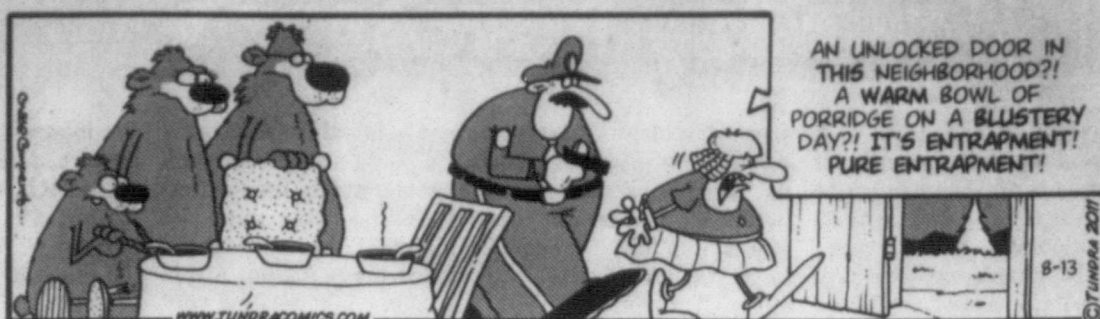

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★★ You might be juggling a lot of changes, calls and discussions. Look at the situation as invigorating as opposed to aggravating. You will fare well. In the end, recognize what a good time can be had. You enjoy hearing from all quarters. Call someone if you haven't heard from him or her of late. Tonight: Enjoying where you are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★ Watch what you do, and be aware that some actions will draw strong reactions. Chill if you can, but put a stop sign out if someone tries to cross a financial boundary. The word is "no." You cannot make a decision in this atmosphere. Tonight: Indulging doesn't mean overspending.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ Today's Full Moon hits you. Depending on how you handle energy, you could use this moment to expand your horizons, solidify a relationship or make a move toward growing your immediate circle. Certainly what this day is about is socializing, commitments and caring. Tonight: You ultimately make the call.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★ You need some downtime. You often give so much of yourself that you tumble into exhaustion and fatigue. Even in the best of worlds, everyone needs a break from the here and now. Take yours with grace. Tonight: Play it low-key.

★ ★ ★ sunday horoscope

Note: Bigar's Stars is based on the degree of your sun at birth. The sign name is simply a label astrologers put on a set of degrees for convenience. For best results, readers should refer to the dates following each sign.

A Baby born today, Aug. 14, 2011, before 9:07 p.m. (PST), has a Sun in Leo and a Moon in Aquarius. Afterward, the Moon is in Pisces.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Sunday, Aug. 14, 2011:

This year, many doors open if you can stay fluid and let go of upset in awkward moments. Many people come forward this year. Your ability to listen and work with new ideas emerges. You can only gain through your openness. If you are single, you attract others like honey attracts bees. Have fun deciding who will be your next sweetie. If you are attached, the two of you will learn how to balance your different needs. PISCES zeros in on basic issues.

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

★ ★ ★ ★ Listen to news. If need be, sit down and do some heavy thinking. Clear out a problem at work, which might take an attitude adjustment on your part. You could be upset by a personal matter later in the day. Tonight: Take some much-needed personal time.

This Week: Note what is unsaid Monday and Tuesday. Integrate that information.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

★ ★ ★ ★ It might feel like you are carrying the weight of the world on your shoulders. How you discharge a problem could be very different from in the past. Choose your words carefully, especially if you are frustrated or angry. Tonight: Find your friends.

This Week: Meetings play a big role at the beginning of the week. You need to reflect on a decision.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

★ ★ ★ ★ Let someone else have more say so. A mutual agreement might need some touching up. You will discover that you can regain the same understanding as in the past. Assume responsibility where someone drops the ball. Tonight: A must appearance.

This Week: Take your bows in the limelight. Know where you are going.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

★ ★ ★ ★ A partner explains a lot more than in the past. Think positively. This person keeps trying to keep communication open. Work through frustration by gaining another perspective. Tonight: Listen to a favorite piece of music.

This Week: Detach and work on seeing the big picture.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

★ ★ ★ ★ Defer to others, as you might not have an alternative. Why fight city hall? A discussion occurs later in the day as you attempt to gain a better understanding. Frustration could come out. Express your strong feelings so that they are heard. Tonight: Chat over dinner.

This Week: Others dominate during the week. Realize what is happening without triggering. Everyone needs the limelight once in a while.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

★ ★ ★ Bring friends and family together. Whether it is a picnic or a family get-together makes little difference. The event might be important, but the people define the occasion. A discussion could become very lively. Tonight: Are you ready?

This Week: Defer to others, knowing full well where you are going.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)

★ ★ ★ ★ You wake up with mischief in your heart and are likely to act on it as well. If with children, the bonding between you can only grow by letting your inner child out. Even friends will love relating to the playful Libra, which has been suppressed of late. Tonight: If you're tired, call it an early night.

This Week: Pace yourself. You have a lot of ground to cover. Network from Tuesday night on.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)

★ ★ ★ ★ Make it OK to lay around at home. You might not be tired or feeling lazy, but you are smart enough to know when you need some downtime. Make phone calls to those at a distance. Catch up on news, perhaps making plans for a visit. Tonight: Now that you are energized, what's next?

This Week: Your imagination could take you down many strange paths. Practicality finally plays into the mix Wednesday.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

★ ★ ★ ★ Take a hint from Libra. Make time for a late brunch, and invite a close family member. Feed togetherness! Someone feels left out and lets you know it. Avoid an argument. Tonight: Air out your feelings.

This Week: Stay anchored. If you're tired, honor that feeling. By Wednesday, you are back in the saddle.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

★ ★ ★ ★ You might be in the mood to treat and share with others. Listen to what is happening with a child or loved one. He or she needs to share. This person feels a natural discomfort with what is going on. Help others talk about their feelings. Tonight: Hang out.

This Week: Keep asking questions and communicating. By Wednesday, you will need some thinking time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)

★ ★ ★ ★ Share your good mood. In fact, someone might delight in the fact that your humor and attitude are contagious. Make plans for some exercise, whether it is raking the yard or hiking with a friend. Tonight: Treat a loved one.

This Week: Make sure your house is in order financially. Keep conversations rolling.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)

★ ★ ★ Take some much-needed private time. You need less stressful moments to stay chipper. Let your mind wander. Later on, you will feel the difference. Your energy soars because of this timeout. Tonight: Another person voices his or her displeasure.

This Week: Beam into the week a force to be dealt with. Be savvy about spending.

Dear Abby...

By Pauline & Jeanne Phillips

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old and I have a boyfriend, "Zak." Since it's summer, we don't communicate with each other as much as usual. Most people would think we'd be more in touch, but since we're both on vacation, we haven't been. I always text his phone, but most of the time I never get an answer back. Or he'll text, "I'm busy, I'll text you later," or "Sorry, can't talk. I'll call you later." But he never does.

Not long ago, I talked to Zak on the phone for a short time and he said he'd call back the next day around noon. He never called at all that day. Sometimes I don't hear from him for days on end.

Do you think I'm overreacting? Do you think he thinks I'm annoying? Maybe he feels I'm obsessing over him, I'm pretty sure if he wanted to end our relationship he would just come out and say it, but do you think he really does but doesn't want to hurt me? Help, Abby! — CRAZY ABOUT HIM IN ARKANSAS

DEAR CRAZY: Zak appears to be a normal adolescent boy who has many interests — and possibly parents who keep him busy. That would account for his not calling you later or returning your texts. Rather than worrying about why he's not performing up to your expectations, you should develop some other interests and activities so you won't have so much time to worry about Zak. That way you'll appear less needy, clingy and insecure, and you'll be more attractive and interesting to be around once school starts again. And one more thing: Think positive! Dwelling on the negative will only make you feel more unhappy and insecure than you're feeling right now.

DEAR ABBY: Last fall, a horrible car accident claimed the life of a young local man. A roadside memorial of wreaths and memorabilia was erected. Since then, no one has tended the site, and the elements have taken their toll on it. The offerings look like litter now. Would it be appropriate to remove the battered items? Or would a respectful cleanup of the site be in poor taste? — PASSERBY IN MAINE

DEAR PASSERBY: Roadside memorials are usually placed there by the family or friends of the deceased, who also tend to them. They are sometimes removed by street cleaning or highway maintenance crews when they have reached the stage you have described. A report made to the city or state department that's in charge of maintaining the road would be better than attempting to do the job on your own, and also safer.

DEAR ABBY: My sister is an alcoholic and prescription drug abuser who causes a scene at every family gathering. There will be an important family event soon, and we don't want to invite her for fear she'll ruin it by showing up drunk or high. My mother is mad and says it's not right to ostracize my sister, and if she's not invited, my mother will not attend, either. What should we do? — NO DRAMA, PLEASE IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR NO DRAMA: You have two choices. Invite your sister with the clear understanding that if she shows up drunk or high, your mother will remove her from the premises and see she gets safely home. Or, refuse to give in to your mother's blackmail and tell her that if she chooses not to come, all of you will miss her. Period.

DEAR ABBY: I recently ended my 11-year relationship with my high school sweetheart, "Kent." During the two years we were engaged he had become a cheating, abusive alcoholic.

My problem is my mother. She hired Kent while we were together, and he's still with her. I asked her to let him go, but she refused. She's the closest thing to family Kent has left. She feels she can "help him get on his feet." I have a restraining order against him and feel his employment with Mom is in direct violation.

I cannot forgive her for this betrayal, and I will no longer have a relationship with her. The person who should be there for me — my mother — is not. I don't know how to get through to her. She thinks she's doing nothing wrong and refuses to accept that she's enabling Kent. She reads your column, Abby, so please give us some advice. — LOST IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR LOST: That a mother would provide "aid and comfort" to a man who cheated on her daughter and was so physically abusive that it required a restraining order, indicates she may have as many problems as he does. Her reaction is not normal, and I don't have the power to make her see the light any more than you do. I do, however, have some advice for you. Get professional counseling, go on with your life and do not look back.
