'Know Before You Go' Safe Boating Week June 5-11

As hundreds of thousands of Texans make their summer vacation plans, those contemplating going on the water are being urged to 'Know Before You go' during Safe Boating Week, June 5-11. This message, which is being promoted nationwide by the National Safe Boating Council and in Texas by the Boating Trades Association of Texas (BTAT), is aimed at reminding non-traditional boaters of the need to understand basic rules of boating safety.

Non-traditional boaters are those who use boats for sports activities such as fishing, waterskiing or hunting. The National Safe Boating Council reports that even though these people may not consider themselves boaters, they make up 90% of the boating population.

To help spread the message in Texas, Governor Bill Clements has proclaimed the June 5-11 period as Texas Safe Boating Week. Officials of the Texas Parks & Wildlife Department also are using this week to kick off a new educational campaign among the state's more than 600,000 registered boat owners. In cooperation with BTAT, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is publishing a listing of "Boating Commandments" which it will distribute to each boat owner along with registration renewals. These guidelines will serve as reminders about procedures all boaters need to follow to ensure a safe and enjoyable trip.

"We are proud to be working with the state to provide some basic education to all our boaters," said Jimmie Vititow, BTAT president. "It is much easier to prevent a problem by knowing and heeding boating basics than it is to get out of trouble once a problem has occurred."

Rules of the road for boaters are available from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department in a pocket guide entitled "Boating in Texas." To receive the pocket guide or to inquire about the "Texas Boating Basics" course, call toll-free 1-800-792-1112.

Boating courses also are available through the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the U.S. Power Squadrons and the American Red Cross.

The Boating Trades Association of Texas is a statewide organization of boat dealers, manufacturers, distributors and others in the industry. BTAT works at the state and national level to enhance the pleasure and safety of recreational boating.

Meadows Foundation contributes Heart Education in Texas

"We are pleased to announce a generous gift from the Meadows Foundation to the American Heart Association of $36,120 to purchase a Hamada Duetto 2 offset printing press," says Michael H. Crawford, M.D., President of the American Heart Association, Texas Affiliate.

The Meadows Foundation, created in 1948 by Algor and Virginia Meadows, consistently supports programs throughout Texas in health, education, social services and the arts. "This generous contribution allows us to print and distribute quality educational literature on cardiovascular disease prevention and curriculum materials to the public and professional education materials for physicians," says Crawford.

"The Meadows Foundation is extremely pleased to support the American Heart Association's outstanding education programs. We are very interested in not only educating the public about cardiovascular disease, but in saving lives as well," said Sally Lancaster, Ph.D., Executive Vice President, The Meadows Foundation.

This is the first installation of the Japanese made Duetto 2 press in Texas. The Austin-based Hamada dealer, Thompson Litho, donated 10% of the total cost of the press to the American Heart Association.

is sponsored by the Texas Elks Foundation for Handicapped Children, the major state project of the Texas Elks State Association, Benevolent & Protective Order of Elks of the United States of America.

The camping program is open to children with numerous problems such as amputees, birth defect (physical) blind/vision impaired, cerebral palsy, hard of hearing/deaf, hydrocephalus, juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, perthes disease, tumor-having a physical effect, mute, partial paralysis, mental retardation (level 1 adaptive deviation 16; Wechsler Scales-above 55, standard deviation 15; level of retardation-"mild," educational term-"educable") polio, ricketts, scoliosis and stroke.

According to the application, campers should be able to participate in and enjoy a carefully planned camping program for handicapped children. Applicants should have normal bowel and kidney function and control. If there are internal or external devices, the child must take care of these needs. Applicants should have some degree of independent self-help skills in feeding and dressing themselves.

Six one-week sessions, allows 24 children each, will take place this summer. Sumer Session I will take place June 26 to July 2, Session II July 3-9, Session III July 10-16, Session IV July 17-23, Session V July 24-30, and Session VI July 31-August 6.

"Last year was the first year for the camp. It went very well and we extended the sessions by two for this year," said Haverlah.

Applicants may call 512-672-7561 or write ELKS CAMP, Rt. 5, Box 191, Gonzales, Texas, 78629.

between Luling and Gonzales, campers live within the main "lodge" which is totally accessible for all handicapping conditions. The camp has a fully equipped kitchen and dining hall, recreation and activity rooms.

Palmetto State Park, located next to the Elks Camp, is used for fishing, hiking and nature studies. The Gonzales Elks Lodge provides a large swimming pool.

"Some activities the campers will participate in include camp-outs, scavenger hunts, wacky olympics, creative dramatics, camp fires, marshmallow roasts, horseback riding and sing-alongs," Haverlah said.

The campers also participate in athletics such as soccer, softball, football and basketball. Haverlah said each activity is adapted to the child's need and being the best is not stressed in the activities, but participation is.

Haverlah said the camp staff members include camp director, activity counselors, group counselors, registered nurse, medical personnel, kitchen and maintenance workers. Haverlah feels the camp's 3-1 ratio of campers-to-counselors is outstanding. The counselors are college students 18 years of age or older, and each staff member goes through a week of intense training, prior to camp, which helps each counselor to be sensitive to the specialized needs of each camper.

According to Haverlah, the residential camp is free of charge and

DETERMINE IF YOU ARE A SAFE DRIVER

Where there's a wheel, there's a way to drive safely. Here are ten reminders from Shell Motorist Club to help you evaluate your safe driving practices.

One safe driving practice: buckle up!

- Wear safety belts at all times.
- Before you drive, take a moment to check tires, mirrors, seat positioning, headlights, taillights and brakes.
- Stay at least two seconds distance from the vehicle in front of you.
- Give driving your full attention, avoid distractions.
- Avoid jackrabbit starts and weaving in and out of traffic.
- Yield the right of way.
- Check blind spots before you change lanes.
- Never drink and drive. It's a deadly, documented fact: alcohol is involved in at least half of all fatal collisions.
- Assemble your own emergency kit and carry it in your trunk at all times.
- Join an automobile club as an additional safeguard. Shell Motorist Club for example—an independent, fee-supported automobile club open to all drivers—reimburses members for towing and road service calls. For information on the club, write: SMC, P.O. Box 2463, Houston, TX 77001, or call toll-free: 1-800-621-8663.

Lucky Lindy

It's been 61 years since "Lucky Lindy," Charles Lindbergh, completed the first solo trans-Atlantic flight from New York to France. The 25-year-old pilot left a muddy Roosevelt Field on Long Island at 7:52 AM, May 20, 1927, in a Ryan monoplane named "Spirit of St. Louis." He arrived at Le Bourget airfield, Paris, 33.5 hours later.

His pioneering efforts won him a $25,000 prize for the first nonstop flight between New York and Paris (3,600 miles). The "flying fool," as some doubters dubbed him, became an instant hero to most Americans. He died in Hawaii in 1974 at the age of 72.

SENNA POISONING CATTLE, GOATS

A drought hardy plant that's thriving in parts of Texas is killing cattle and goats--and the situation will get worse as dry weather continues.

Twinleaf senna, which is at its best when desirable pasture and range plants are suffering from dry weather, currently is causing a lot of problems for goat and cattle producers.

Cases of livestock poisoning from the plant have been reported in Bandera, Blanco, Edwards, Gillespie, Kerr, Kimble, McCulloch, Menard, Schleicher and Sutton counties. And the situation is only going to get worse, even if rains come soon. That's because the mid-point of the growing season is at hand, and desirable grasses will not be able to produce the kind of growth that they would with favorable moisture conditions in the spring.

Key Is Grazing Management

Be On Lookout for Senna

Twinleaf senna has been found throughout central and western areas of Texas in the past, so ranchers need to be on the lookout for this poisonous plant. Its presence is often dictated by moisture conditions and grazing management practices. Twinleaf senna usually is found growing on shallow limestone and caliche hills and slopes.

Twinleaf senna has a deep taproot and thus stays green while other less hardy plants succumb to drought conditions. The plant is named for its leaflets which are in pairs. It grows up to 2 feet high and has showy yellow to yellow-orange flowers with five petals. Its seed pods are about 1-1/2 inches long.

Twinleaf senna is most toxic to livestock when in the bloom to early seed pod stage. Goats and cattle tend to be more susceptible than sheep, with younger animals, especially goats, being particularly vulnerable.

Sudden death is likely in young animals grazing twinleaf senna. Early signs of the poisoning include disorientation, weakness and wobbliness. Animals may develop diarrhea and have coffee-colored urine. Most affected animals die within 24 hours after symptoms develop. Adult cattle may take on the "downer cow syndrome" and live for two to three days.

No treatment is currently available for animals affected by twinleaf senna poisoning help prevent plant poisoning in animals.

If an animal dies and twinleaf senna poisoning is suspected, a post mortem examination may be in order. Consult a veterinarian to send a fresh sample of the rumen content along with affected muscle and cardiac tissue and the liver to the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory at Texas A&M University. A veterinarian or the county Extension agent can also assist in diagnosing plant poisoning problems in livestock. The best approach to reducing toxic plant problems on pastures and ranges is to have a sound nutritional and forage management system. That means continued attention to grazing management based on forage availability as affected by weather conditions and forage use by livestock.

SPIDER MITES-- TINY PEST CAUSES BIG PROBLEM

Spider mites are tiny, but they can cause big problems in home gardens.

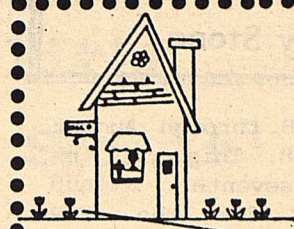

These pests prefer tomatoes, beans and peas and do most of their damage in hot, dry weather.

Spider mites, also called red spiders, are only 1/60 inch in length and vary in color from white to green to red.

The tiny pests can build up quickly and completely engulf plants. Eggs laid on the underside of leaves hatch in four to five days. A complete life cycle takes three weeks, and as many as 20 overlapping generations can occur in a single year.

Mites spin a thin web which often can be seen on the underside of an infested leaf. They feed by inserting their mouth-parts into plant tissue and sucking juices. While feeding, they inject toxic substances into the plant.

Infestations of spider mites can be

New Detergent Can Damage Washer

A new laundry detergent could cause problems in washers if not used exactly according to instructions.

The Coin Laundry Association is warning consumers and the laundry industry that the prepackaged detergent-softener combinations should not be put into automatic soap dispensers of front loading washers.

The product is a packet containing detergents and softeners that is designed to be placed directly in the washer tub and then go with the washed clothes into the dryer. If put in the automatic dispenser it will not dissolve like most liquid and powder detergents, instead working its way through the inlet hose of the dispenser and preventing water from entering the washer tub.

The water eventually bubbles out of the dispenser and onto the floor, creating a mess and a safety hazard. To fix the machine the inlet hose must be taken off the dispenser to get the packet out.

The detergent will not cause a problem if used correctly, but the instructions carry no specific warning about front loaders.

While most front-loading washers are located in commercial coin-operated laundries and apartment complex laundry rooms, some models are used in homes. Only liquid or powder detergents should be used in the automatic dispensers in these machines.

Mauro Unveils New Mascot For Beach Clean Clean-Up Program

AUSTIN--An Atlantic bottle-nosed dolphin named Lucky, who survived being trapped in an abandoned fishing net, has been recruited as the state's official mascot in its war against ocean and beach garbage, Land Commissioner Garry Mauro announced today at an cut sioner Garry Mauro announced today at an Austin press conference.

Lucky, unable to attend the press conference due to prior commitments, is one of the "lucky" ones when it comes to marine life and garbage. Near death, Lucky was scarred and bleeding when he was rescued by the Texas Marine Mammal Stranding Network in June, 1977. Fortunately, Lucky recovered and went on to star in the Dolphin Revue at Sea-Arama Marineworld in Galveston.

"Trash on our beaches hurts us in a lot of ways, but it has a particularly tragic effect on marine life" Mauro said. "You can see how Lucky got his name when you think back a few weeks ago to the whale at Matagorda that wasn't so lucky."

Lucky and Texas musician Joe "King" Carrasco are starring in a public service announcement aimed at increasing public awareness of the problems created by beach garbage. Produced by the Texas A&M Sea Grant College Program, the PSA was distributed to television stations across the state last week.

The latest phase of the Adopt-A-Beach Program is designed to educate and inform all Texans, from grade-schoolers to grandparents about the hazards of beach litter. The statewide educational campaign includes a coloring book, puppet shows, billboards, bumper stickers and an educational slide show.

Mauro said that while other segments of the Texas economy are struggling, tourism has become one of the state's key industries. But he said Texas can't compete for tourist dollars with fouled beaches.

"Tourists spend more than $16 billion a year in Texas, and one-third of that is spent along the Texas coast," Mauro said. "With the hard times that afflict the oil and gas industry, agriculture, real estate and financial institutions in Texas today, we can see how important the coastal environment has become to the economy and prosperity of this state."

"HELLO, DOLLY!"

Odessa, Tx. - "Hello, Dolly!" the irresistible Broadway musical about Dolly Levi, comes to life at the Globe Theatre for a limited engagement June 23-26, and June 30-July 2.

Over 50 actors, actresses, and crew members have begun work on the show.

"Hello, Dolly!" by Michael Stewart with music and lyrics by Jerry Herman, is the story of Dolly Levi, played by Dana Ritter, and her efforts to capture the heart, and purse, of the well-known half-a-millionaire, Horace Vandergelder, played by Bill Weir. The show is the musical version of Thornton Wilder's play, "The Matchmaker."

Along the way, Dolly succeeds in matching up the young and beautiful Widow Molloy, played by Patsy Allen, with Vandergelder's head clerk, Cornelius Hackl. Cornelius' assistant, Barnaby Tucker, played by Matthew Tucker, winds up with Mrs. Molloy's assistant, Minnie Fay, played by Stephanie Weir.

Mr. Vandergelder's weeping niece, Ermengarde, played by Laura Gilbreth, finds herself matched to a struggling artist, Ambrose Kemper, played by Sean Benjamin. Assisting in all the excitement is Earnestina played by S. Lynn Schofield.

The action of the play begins as Dolly tracks Vandergelder to his hay and feed store in Yonkers. From there, they proceed by train to Mrs. Molloy's hat shop in New York and out into the streets of the city where they are all caught up in the great Fourteenth Street Association Parade.

SCRIPTURE

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER
By Michael A. Guido Metter, Georgia

"I wish," said a preacher, "that we could package religion in spray cans. It would be more popular." Maybe, for some prefer their religion in "short bursts." They're a little too bad to be good, so they'd like a "shot" every now and then just to be respectable, but not too religious.

There are many who'd like to make use of their religion only when they're "under pressure." They turn to God in their pain, but they turn from Him in their pleasure.

Many pastors would like a "hair-spray-can religion" for the "hard-to-hold" members so they'd "keep their religion in place all day."

But the Lord will do that for you, if you'll turn your life over to Him. Why don't you do it now?
