Dedication Service Held Wednesday

The dedication ceremony for the Carbon Water System was held in the School Cafeteria Wednesday morning. Mike Collins of Eastland was in charge and introduced O. M. Boyle, head of the FHA at Eastland, who was the first speaker, followed by Mayor Clint Brittain, who called on former Mayor, John Guy, and Supt. Jimmy Hughes, for a short talk. Congressman Omar Burleson, who was helpful in obtaining the water system, was the main speaker and praised the Mayor and City Commission for their hard work toward the project. The citizens of Carbon are proud of this accomplishment and want to thank the Mayor and City Commission of Eastland and the Lake Leon Water Board for their co- operation.

1970 Rodeo Series To Begin Saturday, May 30

The 1970 series of summer rodeo sponsored by the Rising Star Riding Club will begin on Saturday, May 30. Arrangements for the 17th series of these weekly features of western entertainment were begun Friday night, March 20, with a meeting of members at the Rising Star American Legion hall in which Jerry Winfery was re-elected president of the club, Mack Elliott vice-president, and Mrs. John Yocham and John Cameron were elected treasurer and secretary, respectively. Directors chosen include Payton Scott, Jerry Lindley, Adrian Jenkins, Carter Jones and Kenneth Smith. As customary weather per- mitting, the season will be open with rodeo through the business district of Rising Star at 5 p.m. Applications for club membership will be taken until April 20, when a choice will be made. Interested girls of high school age or over were directed to get in touch with Jerry Winfery, John Cameron before deadline.

The club is planning to ex- pand the rodeo program this year to include more features of interest to young people, it was also announced.

The rodeo is held week- Friday nights after the open- ing performance on Saturday. The contests take place at the arena owned by the club on East Highway 36 about a mile from downtown Rising Star.

It Has Been

Editor's Note: The following item is taken from The Rising Star, a column written by Vada Arnold and titled "It Has Been."

Reading seems to be one of the lost arts of our day. One time reading was the chief interest in the home. One could find a home devoid of bookshelves or bookshelves of some kind.

In the home of Miss Addie Irby on North Main Street stands a beautiful solid oak book case reaching almost to the ceiling. This bookcase was bought from the Anderson-Jacobs General Merchandise Store years and years ago in Rising Star.

On the left side of the case is a bevelled mirror set in an ornate frame above a shelf 18 inches in depth. Just below the shelf is a hinged carved wood that lets down to form a desk. Above the desk are pigeon holes for records and important papers. A drawer about ten inches deep for ink, pens and paper, stationery, etc; is just above a glass door opening into a compartment filled with large books.

A most striking book is a big Bible bound in tan leather bearing the inscription "Holy Bible" and Revised New Testament Bible Dictionary of the Cities of the Bible. "On the top shelf is a Bible Dictionary by John Kitto. Also in leather binding is a Complete Works of Shakespeare.

For a number of years James Irby, brother of Miss Addie Irby, was justice of the peace at Rising Star and later commissioner of this precinct. One shelf in the bookcase holds leather bound volumes of "Revised Statutes of Texas," "Sayles Guide For Justice," "Encyclopedia of Law," and "Forms and Notes, by Spalding."

Maroon embossed leather encloses "The Pathway of Life," a Biblical volume with illustrations from original "Dante's Inferno" translated from the original of Dante Alighieri - by Henry Francis Cary.

"The Great Jackets and How They Lived and Fought and died for Dante. Approved for publication in the year 1867."

Ten volumes of "Masterpieces of the World's Literature, containing masterpieces from the pens of Phillips Brooks, Robert Burns, John Bunyan, Robert Browning, Grimm Brothers and many many other great writers are on the shelves.

There are copies of the Texas Christian Advocate, a periodical published by the Methodist Publishing House, dating back a number of years, and a Conference Journal of the Central Texas Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, dated November 6, 1914.

There are also copies of Methodist, West and Histories of America, and "The Book Of The Fair" 1904. Mr. Irby attended the Fair in St. Louis Mo., and brought the book and souvenirs home for the family. The book contains illustrations of the Exposition.

Two shelves have books of fiction, old, old school text books, books on etiquette and a Texas Almanac dated 1904, priced at 25 cents.

A Hygenic Physiology is there, belonging to John Irby, the eldest son in the Irby family. He was a high school student in the Rising Star school. The book bears the date February 24, 1897.

A book titled "Family Government," graces one of the shelves.

At last there is a family album bound in red velvet and an unidentified hard surfaced, shiny material decorated with silver letters and leaf motif.

Inside the album are pictures of the family and relatives in years past. Among these photographs are five children in a group, the children of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Roberts, early settlers in this section, and parents of Fred W. Roberts, long time banker and business man in Rising Star. One of the children in the picture is Fred at the age of nine years. There are pictures of two beautiful Buey sisters, Mary and Mattie, later Mrs. Mary Boase and Mrs. John G. Robinson, mother of Miss Mina Robinson and Mrs. Cecil Joyce, both living at Rising Star. Baby Addie Irby at the age of two years, a cherubic baby with dark curly hair is shown holding a "wax doll," in her arms. John Irby a handsome young man at the age of twenty one is pictured.

Picture postcards hold a place of prominence in the album, dating back to 1904-1907.

There are calling cards of that era too. Cards tinted a delicate pink, decorated around the edge with dainty flowers, forget-me-nots, pansies and daisies in natural colors. The bearers name printed across the middle of the card. The contents of this lovely old bookcase of other years seems to speak a message of faith, courage, endurance, stability and much good reading of our beloved ancestors.

Stadium was originally a Greek measure of length, approximately 600 feet.

Primitive man made tools of stone, bone, and wood during the Stone Age.
