Counties Get Orders On Voters

PLAINS--Texas Secretary of State, Martin Dies, Jr., has informed Yoakum County Tax Assessor-Collector, E. W. Craig and other similar officers around the state to begin accepting the registration of all voter applicants who are 18 years or above or who will be 18 before March 1, 1972.

Dies issued his order to the individual counties Tuesday, December 29th. Dies reminded that those who are 18 or 21 years of age may vote in federal elections as per the recent supreme court ruling on the fact that the states have jurisdiction on who is allowed to vote in state and local elections.

There are no federal elections scheduled for 1971, unless there may be a special election for a U.S. Representative or Senator post. This being the case, the youthful voters will have to wait until 1972 to exercise their privilege of ballot.

Voter registration certificates issued to those under 21 will bear a special stamp "Federal Elections Only Until 21 Years Of Age." The certificate must also carry the date of birth of the under-21 voter.

The Texas Legislature will likely consider the participation of the under-21 voter in state and local elections when the new session convenes in January.

4-H & FFA Livestock Judging Contest

By
Leo L. White
County Agricultural Agent

Saturday, January 9th, is the day for the Second Annual Livestock Judging Contest for members of 4-H Clubs and FFA Chapters. Livestock Judging teams from the neighboring counties have been invited to participate in the contest, which is scheduled to get underway at 10:00 a. m. Registration of teams will be from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. and preparation has been made for as many as 50 teams.

The contestants will place ten classes of livestock and answer questions on four of the classes. There will be three classes of sheep and four classes of swine.

Mr. Darrell Lindsey and Dr. Gilbert Hollis will be in charge of the bookkeeping work and approximately thirty other local adults will be needed to help with the contest. In order to get the results tabulated and all the placing cards graded, about twelve or fourteen people will be needed to work in the office. Ten people will be needed as group leaders and four more to handle the questions.

The livestock used in the contest will be the project animals that are owned and fed by Yoakum County 4-H and FFA members. The same animals will be exhibited in the 1971 Livestock Show held on February 19th and 20th.

The State Line Home Demonstration Club will concession stand set up in the arena building. The contest is expected to be ended soon after 12:00 noon and the results should be tabulated and ready to announce by 1:30 p. m.

The weather on January 9th will determine the exact location of the contest. If fair weather prevails the livestock will be congregated in the Plains Rodeo Arena. They will be moved inside the Livestock Exhibit Building if the weather is bad.

Latest information indicates that eighteen of the teams participating in the contest will be local teams from Yoakum County.

The general public is invited to come and look things over. There will be plenty of room for everyone during the announcing of results in the judging arena. Visitors will be asked to stay away from the livestock during the time the contestants are working.

Some trophies and plaques have been purchased for winning teams and individuals... and the local teams will be trying to win their fair share of them.

Crop Residue Management

CROP RESIDUE MANAGEMENT, MINIMUM TILLAGE, BLOWING CONTROL or what ever you might call it, there is something YOU can do to prevent soil blowing and loss of moisture. There is something you can do and there is something being done by many farmers. Week after week, we see outstanding examples of work done by land owners and operators, using whatever they have; making adjustments so it will work, but getting the job done to help the residue on the land and keep the top soil from blowing. Unfortunately, there are few who still farm by tradition; that is clean till the surface so it looks pretty, and can BLOW FLAT whatever that means. The only land I ever saw blow flat, blew FLAT AWAY. When your land is JUST smoking and you think you are not loosing anything, just remember ORGANIC MATTER, fertility and clay particles are a lot smaller than sand particles. They all blow away long before any sand begins to move.

Cotton burs are a real good way to add organic matter to your soil and 25 years research has shown them to be worth 8,000 per ton. When added to dryland, they would be worth more on irrigated land. The following are a few of the people who have added cotton burs to their land; Garland Swann, Ty Earl Powell, L. D. Hamm, Jr., Wallace Randolph, Wendell Norman, C. C. Perkins, Billy Winn, Tom Warren, Morris Lowe and Gene Phillips. The Newsom Gin folks say they have 500 tons of burs available and would be glad for anyone to come see them about hauling some.

The latest interest in gathering systems for irrigation was reported this week by W. R. Nelson of the Pleasant Hill Community. W. R. says he plans to gather four wells into one system. He has already installed underground high pressure pipeline. How is your irrigation system working? The SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE has assistance available through your local SWCD to help design and install a new designed irrigation system on your farm. WHY NOT GIVE US A CALL.

Student Council

To Host Concert

On January 7th at 2 p. m., the Plains Student Council will host a concert featuring the Double Sextette from Columbia College, Columbia, Missouri, which is currently on tour.

In 1920 Anna Froman, head of the music department at Columbia College and mother of the famous singing star, Jane Froman, organized a sextette. It was a precision-trained group of outstanding vocalists who specialized in good showmanship as well as excellent harmony. The group soon became a touring attraction and, after doubling in number, it continues today as the Double Sextette.

Jane Froman was one of the Double Sextette's first members. (Remember Jane from Hollywood fame in the '40's and '50's? She was crippled in a plane crash while on a World War II USO tour and made her stage comeback propped on a special rolling platform. The movie, "With A Song In My Heart," was the story of her life.)

Today's Double Sextette is one of the best known college entertainment groups in Missouri. The girls must audition for membership in the Double Sextette.

Last year the Double Sextette gave more than sixty-two performances throughout Missouri, Texas and Florida. They logged more than 4,000 miles.

This year's program includes selections from FUNNY GIRL; YOU'RE A GOOD MAN, CHARLIE BROWN; APPLAUSE, APPLAUSE; and some Hal David-Burt Bacharach tunes.

The Double Sextette is directed by Don Lester, Director of the Conservatory of Music at Columbia College and former vocalist with the U.S. Army band and chorus.

Editorials

We would like to call to the attention of our readers that letters to the editor are always welcome and will be printed when a company encloses the name and address of the sender and space is available.

We are aware of the fact that our ideas and opinions do not always coincide with those of all of our readers. We realize that constructive criticism is beneficial to everyone. For this reason, we appreciate letters, both pro and con.

Some of our good friends and patrons have inferred that we have expressed a one-sided opinion in regard to the purchase of the desalination plant, and have asked why we didn't print facts supporting the opposition of such purchase.

In answer to this, we can only state that we do have facts and figures supporting the plausibility of such purchase. We have no concrete evidence or facts to support the opposition. If and when such facts are supplied us, we will gladly print them. But opinions and suppositions without accompanying fact and evidence, must be relegated to the letters to the editor column, where they will be printed with the name of the sender.

In our daily conversations with the Plains residents, we hear many comments and statements regarding the plant's costs of operation and the life of its component parts, but when researched we find many of them far fetched, and some false when tested against the bonified engineering facts available.

We are deeply interested in the welfare of our community, and would have no purpose whatsoever in misleading or persuading our citizens into any action that would be detrimental to this community's welfare.

It might be well at this time for the benefit of those who have not been informed, to state that all council meetings are open meetings and may be attended by any citizen of Plains who wishes to attend and witness the proceedings, and listen to the discussions of the city's business. Such a visit could be quite enlightening, informative, and beneficial to those who never attended such meetings.

MASTER BOWEN KYLE STEPHENS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. (Bo) Stephens of Plains, Texas, was born January 2, 1971 and weighed 8 and 1/2 pounds.

He was welcomed at home by Kay, Kim, and Kristi Stephens.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. L.O. Smith of Plains, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Stephens of Post, Texas.

Friendly Chats with Faye McConnell

"One of the most likely uses of atomic energy seems to be the cooking of the world's goose."

Well, Santa has come and gone, New Year's day has come and gone, and most people have already received their 1970 income tax forms with all those up-to-date income tax instructions.

Isn't it wonderful that we can have the beautiful and spiritual significance of Christmas, and the happiness of a new Year being born before our 1970 tax forms reach us? Most of us think of income taxes as a drudgery - which it is - of additions and subtractions, of what we are allowed to take off and what we must add on.

All of the 1969 tax reform changes have gone into effect. IRS has revised the instructions and the tax form to fit the new laws. Read those instructions carefully. If you at first do not understand them, go back and read some more.

Did you eat your black-eyed peas for good luck on New Year's Day? That is almost a must for Texans as it has been a tradition for many years. The editor and I ate at the Cowboy Grill, where the peas were served to many other people who were also enjoying the traditional meal.

While we were there, Mrs. Thelma Ellis came in to eat, with her sister-in-law, Mrs. O.C. James, and Mrs. James' daughter, who is Thelma's niece by marriage. Mrs. Ellis was beaming with joy over the unexpected visit.

Mrs. James and Mrs. Paul Enger, both from Lubbock, were very disappointed that James and Laura Anne Rushing had gone home, and they missed visiting with them.

The Plains State Bank had a newcomer wanting to make a deposit in their bank Monday afternoon after closing hours. When first noted, this new depositor was waiting at the front door for someone to let him in. Later he came to the courthouse, but in only a few minutes he was back at the front door of the bank. The last seen of him, he was enjoying the warm sunshine and using the bank as shelter from the cold north wind. All that can be hoped is that it was too late to make his deposit, that he was able to find his way back home.

His description? A small red pig not much older than two months old.

The Republican-News in Marengo, Illinois says: "I can tell you what's wrong with the country, if you really want to know. And it won't take me more than a few lines to do it. Practically everybody wants a job that pays a great deal more than the average man or woman is worth, and it has got to be a job that has somebody else around to do the work, and that somebody has got to take the blame when things are fouled up because the first somebody didn't do what he was hired to get done."

"The average person forms an opinion by adding to a small measure of information a dash of imagination and a large quantity of prejudice, shaking well with emotion."

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

I freely enter into life and its activities, confident that the presence of God watches over me.

A little girl returned home from an outing with her Brownie group and announced: "Mother, I've found a horseshoe!" "That's nice," said mother. "Do you know what that means, dear?" "Sure, I do," replied the girl. "Some naughty horse is running around in its stocking feet."

Nowadays when a cowboy star adds a notch to his gun, it just means he got another sponsor.

TRIMS
The new thing in sewing is trim! A visit to a piece goods or fabric department will establish this fact.

Trims for fabrics from bur-lap to satin can be found, others are especially made to coordinate with fabrics.

Embroidery or ruffling has been done for you on matching narrow widths. These can be inserted into the garment wherever your whim or pattern decides. Matching trims are often displayed with the fabric to give you ideas on how to use them.

Other trims include braids, tassels and fringe. They can be applied to the garment or used as the belt or part of the decorative trim of the belt.

Some present day styles of tunics, vests, and weskits are held together with frogs, buttons, and loops, and buttons and chains.

For a more feminine look, there are laces, beading, sequins, and paillettes. Use imagination when trimming a dress or ball gown. Search until you find the right trim. An inexpensive fabric can be dressed up with the perfect bit of trim. Delicate beading can serve as shoulder straps. Wide braid or jeweled trim can emphasize a tiny waistline. Jeweled buttons can accent tabs or closings.

When selecting trims, keep in mind that textures and colors should harmonize. Heavy braids would be unsuitable for chiffons or voiles. Metallic trims would be out of place on piques.

Be creative in your sewing and use a special trim to make your next garment "out of the ordinary".

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

HALFWAY UP THE MOUNTAIN
 Even the man whose life goes along in rather ordinary ways, with few moments of either great heights or depths, senses at times, at least, that he is a unique creation.

Something in us, no matter how ordinary the aspects of our lives, will not settle for mediocrity, for in every man there is a dream, a dream perhaps all but forgotten, but a recurring dream of greatness and wonder. The dream is there in every man because no man is ordinary, no man is mediocre in God's sight. The true nature of man, the Christ, that lies all but buried in most men, breaks through now and again in moments of insight and he is.

Do you know that the word mediocrity comes from a Latin word "mediocris" meaning "halfway up a mountain." Somehow this puts a whole new slant on this idea of mediocrity. It is not something to be disdained or to be ashamed of. Rather, it is a halfway mark. And it does not necessarily indicate that this is as far as you can go. It says, "This is as far as you have come."

Halfway up the mountains is not a bad record. Better halfway than not at all.

In climbing a mountain and reaching a halfway point, there are two things you can do. You can look up and say, "I can never make it. It's beyond me." Or you can look behind you, look down, and see how far you have come. You can see the difficulties you have conquered, the climb you have made. Then when you look up, you look up not in dismay but in faith and with new resolution.

God sees in us the capacity for reaching greater goals than any we have set for ourselves. We are restless and dissatisfied with ourselves when we feel that we are marking time, when we know within ourselves, even if no one else knows, that we are capable of far more than we have yet been able to achieve.

Psychologists say that most of us do not use even ten percent of our capacities and abilities. Some say that ten percent is too high a figure, that it is more like six percent. No wonder most of us are only halfway up the mountain! Perhaps the real wonder is that we are that far along!

"To every man there openeth a Way, and Ways and a Way, And the High Soul climbs the High Way, and the low soul gropes the Low, And in between, on the misty flats, the rest drift to and fro.

To every man there openeth a High Way and a Low, and Every man decideth, The Way his soul shall go."

Income Taxes Whats Deductible?

The tax year 1969 gave us a "new look" in the Federal income tax forms filed by millions of American taxpayers. No longer did we see the old familiar form 1040 A, usually referred to as the "short form" or "card form". In its place we were greeted by the new form 1040 which was used by all taxpayers, regardless of income or deductions. The new forms were based on the "building block" system under which additional schedules were to be added to the basic form 1040 as needed. To the seasoned tax professional, this change in forms involved nothing more than re-learning schedule names and line numbers, since there was really no change in the basic tax law. For the do-it-yourselfer, particularly the man who had been filing the short form, the results verged on the chaotic and the Internal Revenue Service learned to its dismay that its easy-to-follow instructions were not all that easy. A major culprit was line 15b (Adjustments). The professional tax man knows that adjustments to gross income fall into four categories: sick pay, employee business expenses and contributions to a self-employed person's retirement plan. Nowhere on the form was there a definition of adjustments and the result was itemized deductions, exemptions, etc., all being placed on line 15b.

This year the tax forms themselves will remain substantially unchanged from last year. The major problem confronting the average taxpayer in 1970 will be the effect of the changes brought about through the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1969. This highly publicized piece of legislation could mean significant changes for many taxpayers, and could increase the burden placed on the individual who tries to prepare his own return. As a matter of fact the new law has been facetiously referred to as the "Attorneys and Accountants Relief Act of 1969" and for good reason.

Critics of the Treasury Department charge that the tax forms are becoming so complex that it is virtually impossible for the average individual to prepare his own return and that he has no recourse but to seek professional help. It is true that the tax forms have increased in complexity over the years, but it is important to remember that in order to be fair to everyone they must be complex. The simplest form of taxation would be a flat percentage assessed against everyone's income, regardless of how large or small the income is. However, this method would be unfair, because it would eliminate tax advantages urgently needed by elderly or handicapped persons, or taxpayers with large families or excessive medical bills.

TOPIC: TAX BOOKLETS

(Dallas, Texas)--Are you looking for additional help in preparing your 1970 income tax return? Do you need some extra tips for cutting your tax?

The Internal Revenue Service has two books to help you. "Your Federal Income Tax," the book that has become an annual best-seller, is for individuals and costs 75¢. The new 1971 edition has all the information you need on dependents, deductions, what is income, and all your other tax questions. It's completely up to date with recent changes in the tax laws and can save you real money on your tax return.

If you're a business man, "Tax Guide for Small Business" is for you. It costs 75¢. It includes a handy checklist and tax calendar designed to show your tax obligations as clearly as possible.

The "Farmer's Tax Guide" has the best price of all. It's available free to all IRS offices or at your county agent's office. You can obtain either "Your Federal Income Tax" or "Tax Guide for Small Business" by sending a check made payable to Internal Revenue Service to Tax Booklets, Internal Revenue Service, 1600 Patterson Street, Dallas.

TOPIC: IRS COMPUTATION OF TAX
There has been some confusion on what IRS is going to do for taxpayers on figuring their tax returns this year. IRS will not take your shoe box full of records (?) and put it down on your Form 1040 for you--however, you can have IRS's computer figure your tax return by simply following the instructions with your Form 1040.

"Your Federal Income Tax," says, "If you in come on line 18, Form 1040 is $26,000 or less, and consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities and you choose the standard deduction instead of itemizing your deductions, -- you may have IRS compute your tax for you. If you want IRS to do this, fill in LINES 1 through 18 and 24, 26, 27 and 28, if applicable. If you are entitled to a retirement income credit, attach Schedule R and enter "RIC" on line 22 of Form 1040."

If you meet the requirements and you figure that the computer can "out figure" you, just mail it to the Austin Service Center and the computer will do the rest.

Productivity in the Service Industries

The American economy has become more service-oriented. Ours is the only major industrial country in the world with a majority of its workers providing services--such as education, trade, housing, housing finance, health, recreation, transportation, communication and government. But we are not gaining the increases in productivity that we gain in producing goods. In the last five years, the price of services (except rent) rose three times as fast as prices of durable goods. It takes more labor to produce services and people are demanding more services, so their prices rise. But we must learn to produce services more efficiently if we are going to avoid inflation in the future.

Accent on Health

When you invite a visitor into your home, it's usually someone whom you know and like to be around.

But there's one visitor you seldom see and don't want even though you provide him with the run of your home and all the comforts which you enjoy. That visitor, says the Texas State Department of Health, is the rat.

Just as surely as if by invitation, you welcome the rat into your home by providing harbor and food--the two necessary ingredients for infestation on any premises. This may come as a surprise to most persons since Texas and the United States have long prided themselves on being highly sanitized.

But, let's take a look at the problem to determine whether you may be guilty of encouraging rats. A rat must have food to exist. If you have a cat, dog or other pet and overfeed it--leaving scraps around--the rat can survive quite well. Grain is another standard diet of rats and mice. How about that bird feeder? Is it constructed so that grain spills onto the ground, or so placed that a rat can climb onto it? And how about your garbage can? Is the lid tight, or does it fit loosely? Do you always keep the lid on the can?

The answers to these questions may give you a clue as to why there are rats around. Now, for the harborage requirements. Rats take up residence in sewers, in piles of junk and lumber, in heaps of boxes and leaves, in storage sheds, in the attic or under your house. Have you heard strange noises in your walls or attic? It could be rats scampering around.

With winter upon us, rats are more prone to seek shelter in the warmth of someone's home. You'd be surprised just how little space they need to squirm through a hole--around a water or gas pipe or ventilator duct--and get into your house. If the hole isn't big enough, they'll enlarge it with their sharp teeth. Then they'll head for your kitchen pantry.

In addition to health hazards from rats, which transmit many diseases, rats love to chew on things, including electric wires which produce short circuits and fires.

Texas participates in rat reduction programs, and Texarkana, Waco, Houston and Austin have rodent control activities through Model Cities Programs, Local Health Departments direct programs in other cities. The Public Health Education Division and Vector Control Division of the Texas State Department of Health cooperate in offering a school covering insect and rodent control. But you as an individual can take a big step in rat control by taking away harborage and food.
