Cowgirls Win Area Contest

Cowgirls advanced to Regional competition this weekend by triumphing in a two game battle with Bronte, Tuesday night in area volleyball competition. They will square off against Ft. Hancock at 9 a.m. today (Saturday, Nov. 11) at the Texas Tech Recreational Center. Grand Falls will take on Water Valley at 10:15 a.m. with the winners meeting in the Region 1A Championship match at 3:15 p.m.

Momentum went back and forth between the Cowgirls and the Longhorns in game one with the Cowgirls grabbing their biggest lead at 13-7. After seven side outs, the Longhorns had put four more points on the scoreboard and only trailed 11-13. The Cowgirls went through two servers before a Cowgirl kill and a Bronte hitting error ended the game at 15-11.

With the Cowgirls ahead 6-3 in the second game, the Longhorns rallied with five consecutive points for an 8-6 advantage. The Cowgirls reclaimed the lead on the next side out, and after several more rotations, reached match point at 14-8 when Bronte was called for a bad set. The Cowgirls lost the ball on a missed serve and gave Bronte another chance. The end of the match was ten rotations away with Bronte scrapping for five more points. At 14-13, the Cowgirls killed the ball to force the final side out and the offense put together one last point for a 15-13 win.

Cowgirl statistics included Marsha Farnham, eight kills, three blocks, eight points, one ace; Melissa Green, five kills, two points; Rena McElroy, ten kills, four blocks, eight points; Leslie Patton, two kills, one block, six points; Sandra Ramos, one kill, one ace; and Corie Spencer, five points, one ace.

City Ordinance #101 Explained By Plains Supt. Dean Andrews

With the passing of the City Ordinance 101 by the Plains City Council, Tenth Street, which runs in front of our school, has become a one way west bound street.

According to Dean Andrews, Superintendent, beginning on Monday, Nov. 13, 1989, the street directly in front of Plains Schools will become one way street beginning at the auditorium (Ave J) and ending at Avenue H. Right turns only will be allowed when entering Hwy 380-82 from Tenth Street. Ferrell Avenue, Avenue J and Avenue H will remain open to two way traffic.

Diagonal parking lines have been painted on Tenth Street and we encourage you to legally park so that we might create a safer student loading and unloading area. This street will remain a 20 m.p.h. zone during school.

"We realize that this is different from the practice of past years," said Mr. Andrews, "But it is also a much safer procedure for our students."

Andrews said that the school appreciates the help of the City of Plains, and especially appreciates the parents' help in making this change work to the benefit of our students.

This is the seventh in a series of eight articles based on research entitled "What Works at Home". I hope you are finding these articles useful and interesting. Each student is an individual and has individual needs. The articles offer a variety of suggestions and hints and contain information which can be beneficial to everyone.

Research Finding:

Many highly successful individuals have above-average but not extraordinary intelligence. Accomplishment in a particular activity is often more dependent upon hard work and self-discipline than on innate ability.

High academic achievers are not necessarily born "smarter" than others, nor do people born with extra-ordinary abilities necessarily become highly accomplished individuals. Parents, teachers, coaches, and the individuals themselves can influence how much a mind or talent develops by fostering self-discipline and encouraging hard work. Most highly successful individuals have above-average but not exceptional intelligence. A high IQ seems less important than specializing in one area of endeavor, persevering, and developing the social skills required to lead and get along well with others.

Studies of accomplished musicians, athletes, and historical figures show that when they were children, they were competent, had good social and communication skills, and showed versatility as well as perseverance in practicing their skill over long periods. Most got along well with their peers and parents. They constantly nurtured their skills. And their efforts paid off.

Developing talent takes effort and concentration. These, as much as nature, are the foundation for success.

EXERCISES:

Encourage your children to try many different activities. Urge them to take part in school clubs, in music, art, sports, etc. If they are in programs, make sure that as many family members as possible go and watch - even if you don't know the other people or understand the activity. Ask your child's teacher or counselor about free summer programs in your community.

Find role models for your children. Not just famous people, but successful students a few years older. Encourage them to imitate or follow the path of those both you and they admire.

Be positive rather than negative. If your child says "I want to be a movie star," don't say "You couldn't do that; your poor and ugly and dumb." Say, "Why don't you give the drama club a try and see how it goes. The only rule is that you have to give it a good try."

The practice necessary to master any skill can be lonely, frustrating, and boring. This is where your child most needs your support and company. Ask the child learning a musical instrument to practice so you can listen while you do your work. If your child is learning a sport, take a watch and time her when she runs; catch for him while he practices pitching.

Never pass up the opportunity to mention someone who has succeeded because of hard work and effort. Point out, wherever possible, that your child has always reminded you of this hardworking, disciplined "star". Let everyone know that you are convinced that your child was born with the character and discipline to succeed no matter what the odds.

DEAR EDITOR:

To The Editor,
The Plains Pride:

On the morning of Monday, Nov. 6, 1989, my little boy Joshua and my wife Lynne were almost run down by a car speeding in front of Plains Elementary School. In our anger, we called all our public servants we could think of to complain about the situation and the lack of crosswalk striping.

I am writing this letter to thank those servants for their quick response. To his credit Superintendent Dean Andrews ordered a crew and had the crosswalk stripes and the curbs painted by the end of that day.

To his credit, Sheriff Jim Rice had a deputy posted there the next morning. I understand from Ruth Murphree of City Hall that the street in question will shortly become a one way street and that will alleviate the problem further.

Many thanks again to the public officials of the school, county, and city for quick, responsive, and courteous action taken on behalf of my children and the other children of Plains.

Sincerely,
s/Keith Bayer

Whiteface Antelopes Lessen Play-Off Hopes For Cowboys

Two weeks ago the Cowboys were able to secure a first place tie for the District lead with a 25-6 victory over the Petersburg Buffaloes.

That tie and the hope of going into the last regular season game against O'Donnell with a post season play-off spot a sure thing, vanished in the waning moments of the Plains-Whiteface encounter.

Whiteface opened the scoring with 13 seconds left in the first quarter when Nathan Demel carried the ball 14 yards for the TD. The extra point kick was no good.

The Antelopes next scored on a one yard plunge by Demel. The two point conversion pass was incomplete. The score was Whiteface 12, Plains 0.

The Cowboys got on the scoreboard before halftime with a 44 yard pass from Monte Pierce to Shawn Booth. Mario Medina ran the two point conversion over to make the halftime score Whiteface 12, Plains 8.

The Plains defense played very tough the second half, holding Whiteface until the final moments of the game.

The Cowboys moved the ball well, but were hampered by six turnovers the second half.

Pierce scored on a one yard quarterback sneak in the fourth quarter. The two point conversion failed, but Plains was ahead 14 to 12.

With just over two minutes left in the game, the Cowboys were on the move again when Whiteface picked off a Cowboy pass. In four plays, the Antelopes covered 70 yards, the last being a five yard plunge by Demel for the TD. The two point conversion was good. The score was Whiteface 20, Plains 14.

The Cowboys were once again moving the ball. The clock showed only nine seconds when Whiteface's Leland Joiner kicked off a pass and ran it 60 yards for the final score with no time left on the clock. Because of a penalty, no extra point try was allowed.

Medina ran 20 times for 88 yards; Henry Gonzales, eight for 68 yards; Pierce 12 for 36 yards. Pierce threw 25 times with 11 receptions, three interceptions and one TD for 193 yards. Booth had eight receptions for 143 yards; Dain Guetersloh, one for 19 and Medina, two for 31 yards. The Cowboys had a total of 385 yards.

ENERGY MANAGEMENT
ELECTRIC WATER HEATERS

Hot water is an absolute necessity for most modern day families. But the energy required to provide continual supply of hot water can be costly particularly when we're not attentive to good energy management. In most cases, energy cost for hot water is second only to heating and air conditioning expense. Studies have shown that water heaters account for 17-22 percent of home energy consumption.

Money can be saved through diligent energy management. A "traditional" water heater can be made more efficient by installing an "insulation jacket" around it. Thermostat settings should be no higher than 120 degrees. Fahrenheit (or 140 degrees is you have an automatic dishwasher). Repair leaky hot water faucets - a hot water faucet dripping at the rate of two drops per second can waste 2,500 gallons a year, water that you paid to heat. Take showers instead of baths and install a flow restrictor on the shower head. Operate clothes washers and dishwashers only with a full load, and use shorter cycles, and "cold" and "warm" settings for laundering when possible.

And finally, a little common sense goes a long way: Don't use hot water when cold or warm will do!
