Plains Independent School District

'Home of the Cowboys & Cowgirls'

From The Superintendent's Desk

Dean Andrews

This week, I would like to discuss curriculum and how we decide what subjects should be taught in our schools.

The Texas Education Agency has the authority to approve or disapprove any course taught in Texas schools and failure to teach required courses will result in lack of accreditation for the local school district. All schools work to attain accreditation in order that their students might be accepted by Texas colleges and universities. To be accredited, all minimum requirements for a balanced curriculum as set by the Texas Education Agency, must be met.

A well balanced curriculum in the elementary and junior high school shall consist of English language arts, mathematics, fine arts, health, science, social studies, physical education, and computer literacy. On the high school level, the curriculum must include English, mathematics, science, social studies, economics, physical education, health, business education, vocational education, other languages, speech, and computer science. In the secondary teaching fields, two or three courses will be taught in each subject area.

Courses such as swimming, radio, TI-IN, communications, arts and science training are electives to Plains and must have T.E.A. approval as electives.

I think that you can see that the Texas Education Agency will pretty much determine the courses offered by all Texas Schools. At Plains I.S.D. we continue to comply with rules and regulations set by the Texas Education Agency and feel that we offer our students a quality education.

Six Graduate From SPC

"We would like to congratulate the graduates of 1990 for their hard work and achievements during two years of studies at SPC and wish them the best in the future," said Dr. Orlo Sundre, SPC vice president for academic affairs.
