SPEEDY STENO WANTED

"The stenographer we require," ran the ad. "must be fast, absolutely accurate and must have human intelligence. If you are not a cracker-jack, don't bother us."

One of the answers wrote that she noted their requirements, and went on: "Your advertisement appeals to me strongly—stronger than prepared mustard, as I have searched Europe, Airopo, Irope and Hoboken, in quest of someone who could use my talents to advantage. When it comes to this chin-music proposition, I have never found man, woman or dictaphone who could get to first base on me either fancy or catch-as-catch-can. I write shorthand so fast that I have a platinum point and a water cooling attachment, a note-pad made of asbestos, ruled with sulphuric acid and stitched with catgut. I run with my cutout open at all speeds and am in fact, a guaranteed, double hydraulic, welded drop-forged and oil-tempered specimen of human lightning on a perfect thirty-six frame, ground to one-thousandth of an inch.

"If you would avail yourself of an opportunity of a lifetime, wire me, unless you are fully prepared to pay the tariff for such service, don't bother me, as I am so nervous I can't stand still long enough to have my dresses fitted."

She got the job.

THE JUNE BRIDE

The June bride is asserting her old-time sway, filling society news columns and exciting the admiration, even the envy, of her friends. As she troops to the altar, blushing becomingly and "leaning on the arm of her proud father," the invited guests purr and say, "Well, this is the month of brides, and after this we can settle down."

There is nothing ungracious about the remark. It is just an indication of the general opinion that June is still the one month favored for a wedding. It is the month of roses, of green verdure of the new expanding season, the time when all nature and mankind are supposed to be happy. "Then, if ever, come perfect days," said the poet.

The June bride cannot be robbed of her glory, in the season of roses and lilacs fresh from mother's garden, but the brides of other seasons are entitled to their own.

GETTING EVEN

Some people think they are getting even with an editor when they come in and "stop their paper." They should be reminded of the story of Horace Greeley and his irate subscriber who though he was dealing a death blow to the great man's paper when he stopped his subscription. He waited to see the effect, but could not find any. Then he went to Greeley and told him of the crushing blow he had inflicted. "Oh," said Greeley, "now go home and stick your finger in a pail of water; then draw it out, and see if you can find the hole." The editor of The Enterprise always regrets to lose a subscriber for any reason. But when some fellow stops his paper to "get even" with us, we suggest that he follow Horace Greeley's advice.

The fellow who recklessly runs up bills and then says: "You can't get blood out of a turnip," deserves to be shown that a turnip can be very effectively squashed.

YOURS PINK OR BLUE?

Comes now the pink step-in for the verile American male. In cities throughout the country there are being sold delicate underthings to encase the bodies of the grandsons of those hardy pioneers who wore no underwear at all.

Of course, it's all right. After all, is there any logical reason why a man shouldn't wear pink or blue silk underwear if he wants to?

No, there isn't. And yet—well, in our mind's eye we can see the knobby knees, spindly calves and sunburnt neck of Mr. Average American emerging from the silken folds of a dainty orchid chemise, and the effect is ludicrous.

FLOOD RELIEF

Plans are already under way for loans to rehabilitate farmers in the flooded area of the Mississippi basin, in order that they may sow crops and restore their homes as soon as the water recedes. Business men of Arkansas contemplate a corporation to make loans direct to farmers, and the aid of the intermediate credit banks is assured by the federal farm loan board. The Red Cross has made provisions for feed and seed, which will be required for a million acres exclusive of Louisiana. It is said that flood relief and control will be made the outstanding feature of the President's message at the December session of congress.

KICKING

It is impossible to please everybody. The prosperity of the automobile business is a matter of almost general gratification. However, there is one envious exception. The shoemakers are "kicking." In convention recently they bewailed the fact that men are now buying two pairs of shoes a year where formerly they bought three. And they blame it all on the prosperity of the automobile business.

WHO WILL BE NEXT?

About one big murder trial per month seems to be the program. It takes the public about a month to lose interest in a murder trial in spite of the newspaper publicity.

Grow Them RIGHT

Growing mash is just as necessary for growing chicks as buttermilk starting feed is for baby chicks. Neither an exclusive grain ration nor laying mash will do a satisfactory job of growing good pullets. Grain puts on fat and slows up growth. Laying mash forces early growth too fast and over develops the reproductive organs and forces pullets to lay before they have attained full size.

Growing mash is not expensive to use; it costs but little more than laying mash and the results obtained makes it far cheaper to use than anything else.

To use laying mash or an exclusive grain ration means that a high percentage of the pullets will be culls and that means a serious loss to the poultryman right at the time he can least afford it; when eggs are high in price.

A car for her, too!

In thousands of average American homes there are now two automobiles—"a car for her, too," so there may be transportation for the family while "he" drives away to work.

And the family car has such an infinite degree of usefulness! Downtown shopping, taking the children to school, afternoon calls, meeting trains and the many additional trips that must be made to and from the house as a part of every day's routine.

No other car is so admirably suited to a woman's requirements as the Most Beautiful Chevrolet.

With striking new bodies by Fisher, and finished in pleasing colors of lustrous, lasting Duco, it provides in abundant measure the comfort, charm and elegance that women admire in a motor car. It is easy to start because of its Delco-Remy electric starting system—famous the world over for its excellence. It is easy to stop because of powerful, over-size brakes. And it is easy to drive and park because of a modern three-speed transmission, smooth-acting disc clutch, and a semi-reversible steering gear that gives finger-tip steering.

Visit our showroom and see the Most Beautiful Chevrolet. Note the wide variety of body types. Mark their sweeping lines and carefully executed details. And then ask us to explain the easy terms on which a Chevrolet may be purchased—terms that include the lowest combination of handling and financing charges available anywhere.

Early Production of New Model Is Ford's Promise

Detroit, May, 30.—Early production of a new Ford car superior in design and performance to any now available in the low-priced, light-car field, was announced today by the Ford Motor Company.

Henry Ford, designer of the car, and Edsel Ford, president of the Company, both stated that within the next few weeks they will give a complete description of the new model.

The famous Model T Ford, which still leads the automobile industry after twenty years of manufacture, will continue to be a substantial factor in Ford production, in view of the fact that about ten million cars of this model are still in use and will require replacement parts and service.

"The Model T Ford car was a pioneer," said Henry Ford today. "There was no conscious public need of motor cars when we first made it. There were few good roads. This car blazed the way for the motor industry and started the movement for good roads everywhere. It is still the pioneer car in many parts of the world which are just beginning to be motorized. But conditions in this country have so greatly changed that further refinement in motor car construction is now desirable and our new model is a recognition of this.

Besides the Model T itself, another revolutionary element which the Ford Motor Company introduced twenty years ago was the idea of service. Some of the early manufacturers proceeded on the theory that once they had induced a man to buy a car they had him at their mercy; they charged him the highest possible price for necessary replacements. Our company adopted the opposite theory. We believed that when a man bought one of our cars we should keep it running for him as long as we could and at the lowest upkeep cost. That was the origin of Ford service.

"The Model T was one of the largest factors in creating the conditions which now make the new model Ford possible. The world-wide influence of the Ford car in the building of good roads and in teaching the people the use and value of mechanical power is conceded. Nowadays everybody runs some kind of motor power but twenty years ago only the adventurous few could be induced to own an automobile. It had a harder time winning public confidence than the airplane has now. The Model T was a great educator in this respect. It had stamina and power. It was the car that ran before there were good roads to run on. It broke down the barriers of distance in rural sections, brought people of these sections closer together and placed education within the reach of everyone. We are all still proud of the Model T

Ford car. If we were not we could not have continued to manufacture it so long.

"With the new Ford we propose to continue in the light-car field which we created on the same basis of quantity production we have always worked, giving high quality, low price and constant service. We began work on this new model several years ago. In fact, the idea of a new car has been in my mind much longer than that. But the sale of the Model T continued at such a pace that there never seemed to be an opportunity to get the new car started. Even now the business is so brisk that we are up against the proposition of keeping the factory going on one model while we tool up for another. I am glad of this because it will not necessitate a total shut-down. Only a comparatively few men will be out at a time while their departments are being tooled up for the new product. At one time it looked as if 70,000 men might be laid off temporarily, but we have now scaled that down to less than 25,000 at a time. The lay-off will be brief, because we need the men and we have no time to waste.

"At present I can only say this about the new model—it has speed, style, flexibility and control in traffic. There is nothing quite like it in quality and price. The new car will cost more to manufacture, but it will be more economical to operate."

Poor Brakes Hurt Many Good Tires

"In our business we are often asked questions about the causes of tire troubles, and we are always glad to give whatever advice possible," said Mr. Floyd, local Goodyear tire dealer, recently.

"One cause we have found for tire failure in many cases is the misuse of brakes, either due to being applied in such a way as to cause sliding the wheels and wearing away the tread rubber, or through improper adjustment.

"If the brakes are set so that one wheel locks and slides more rapidly than the others, it follows that the wheel is doing most of the work and the tire getting most of the wear.

"Very often the driver knows nothing about this until his tire causes him some trouble and he brings it in for repair. Then we line up his brakes and examine the brake linings, something every driver should have done at regular intervals.

"Avoid using your brakes too suddenly and have them inspected, and you will be saving your tires. We know from experience."

What This World's Record Means To You

IN APRIL, 1927, GOODYEAR FINISHED THE 100,000,000th GOODYEAR PNEUMATIC MOTOR VEHICLE TIRE

When we offer you a Goodyear Tire we offer you the benefits of world-record production.

Your money buys more because the Goodyear tire is the product of an organization that does things in a big way.

For example, Goodyear uses nearly one-seventh of all the crude rubber produced annually—almost 50 per cent more than any other manufacturer! Goodyear uses 100,000 bales of cotton yearly, operates its own cotton plantation, textile mills, rubber plantation, coal mines, factories and branches.

You get all the benefits of this efficient, economical production when you buy a Goodyear Tire.

WE'RE GOODYEAR RIGHT HERE IN YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD

When you buy a Goodyear Tire from us you make a direct and close association with the Goodyear organization. As Goodyear's accredited representative in this district we are pledged to do everything possible to see that the Goodyear Tires on your car give you satisfactory service—long, economical mileage. We offer the free service of application, inspection, inflation, and examination for any sign of unnatural wear. All you have to do is drive around at regular intervals.

WHAT'S DOING In West Texas

Stamford. — A sweeping victory which will this year be worth more actual cash to the people of West Texas than the entire cost of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the nine years of its existence has just been won by the regional organization of this great section. The victory was the favorable decision just rendered by the State Fire Insurance Commission denying the proposed five per cent increase in all fire insurance rates, which fight the West Texas Chamber of Commerce took up one year ago.

In conducting this campaign, the Robert Lee, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pace this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Collingsworth of Pumphrey, were visitors here this week.

West Texas organization kept out of its territory a duplicating agency which proposed to raise $50,000 to do no more than the regional chamber has accomplished without asking its towns for one extra penny above the membership dues. In prosecuting the fight to a successful conclusion, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce urged that insurance companies secure permanent relief by joining the chambers of commerce of the state in an effort to reduce losses, and the West Texas Chamber announces that it stands ready to join insurance people at any time in a campaign to reduce fire losses.

Among many other accomplishments the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has put over within recent months are: Preventing a five per cent increase in freight rates, which was not needed in this section by the West Texas railroads; winning the Gold Medal at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, and passage of a joint resolution by the legislature providing for a scientific tax survey of Texas intended to relieve West Texas of its present unjust share of the State tax burden.

Abilene.—An extended caravan of motor cars filled with summer vacationists, cars that vend their way through picturesque resort sections of the Davis mountains, and that thread through Eastern New Mexico's scenic wonderland, is the vision of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce toward which all staff members are now directing their attention.

The proposed motorcade will take place during the first ten days of July, assembling at some convenient point from which it will travel via Fort Stockton to Alpine for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Big Bend district convention there on July 4. Thence by easy stages, the caravan will proceed to Marfa and Fort Davis. Passing down Limpia Canyon, via Balmorhae, the party will motor into El Paso where a day and two nights will be spent. Thence, by Alamo, the motorcade will travel to Cloudcroft for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce New Mexico District Convention. From Cloudcroft, the caravan will drive to the Mescalero Indian Reservation, thru Lincoln National Forest, down the valley of the Ruidoso River, in the White Mountains, to Roswell. From Roswell, the motorcade will go to Carlsbad where the famed Carlsbad Caverns will be visited. Social affairs and entertainments will be planned for the motorcade party in various towns on the route. The travelers will be honor guests at these events, and arrangements will be made for them in advance.

The trip will be under the personal supervision of the president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and of two past presidents and their wives. Special plans will be made for unaccompanied ladies and girls. Expenses will be held to a minimum as the trip will be as economical as possible. Individuals and towns interested in the proposed motorcade have been requested to notify the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Stamford headquarters of their desires in the matter.

MRS. CRYER HOSTESS TO SELF-CULTURE CLUB

The Self-Culture Club met with Mrs. H. H. Cryer on last Wednesday afternoon in the last meeting of the season.

Very excellent papers were given by Mrs. Pyburn on "The Economic and Aesthetic Value of Teaching Children to Know and Love Birds, and How to Accomplish It;" Mrs. Robinson, on "What the Government Has Done For the Protection of Birds and How to Obtain Its Printed Matter;" Mrs. Hall gave a sketch on "What Audubon and His Humane Societies Have Done and Their Literature."

The following topic came under general discussion: "Birds From a Door Yard," Mrs. Pyburn; Curious Birds From South America," Mrs. Thompson; "The Woodpeckers," Mrs. Cryer; "The Mocking Bird," Mrs. Deffebach.

The hostess served cake and ice cream.

G. A.'S PLAN CAMPING TRIP

Woman, Inspired by Song of Lark, Finds Bird-Music Basis of World's Melodies

FAME travels strange roads. War, the arts and different causes, have conspired to wrap its mantle about other humans. But in Oak Park, Ill., lives Mrs. Jesse Daggett Moxom, who achieved international reputation through the joyous carol of a meadow lark.

In this country and abroad, Mrs. Moxom, a quiet, well-past-middle-aged mother of six grown children is celebrated as the "Bird Woman."

"The Bird Woman" puts a sweet field song on paper

Volumes of Lore
For the last ten years or so she has been amassing ponderous volumes of evidence to prove that there is similarity between the classics of man-made music and the meaningless twitterings of feathered songsters.

Her well-attuned ears, grown skilled at the practice, for that length of time, have been deciphering operas, symphonies and the motifs for countless melodies of rare beauty from the joyous chirps of the robin and other birds.

Mrs. Moxom, a musician principally for her own pleasure before she took up her bird studies, came to distinction quite by accident.

She attributes all her laurels to an unknown meadow lark which one morning years ago greeted the rising sun with full-throated refrain in a vacant field adjoining the station where Mrs. Moxom was waiting for a train.

Mrs. Moxom paused in rapt wonderment when in the surrounding countryside silence she thought the bird had hit upon an army bugle call.

Sings 14 Motifs
Before her train came along the lark had sung 14 different motifs from "The Campbells Are Coming," and practically every rudimentary tune in the "Bohemian Girl," she says.

That set her thinking. Since then she has accumulated overwhelming evidence that most of man's music has either found its inspiration in bird songs or is a duplicate.

With pencil and scale book in her hand the "Bird Woman" wanders afield to hear and record the delicate bird themes which she has made the basis for expanded melodies.

These have been acclaimed of such rare color and tune that Mrs. Moxom now has difficulty keeping up with her schedule of engagements, so many are the audiences that want to hear her.

"No bird sings the entire tune," she says. "But the motif is there—the basic theme or tune on which the great oratorios and operas are built."

The "Bird Woman" refuses to sell any of her bird songs. Nor does she depend on them for her living. Her studies are more a hobby which occupy most her time now that the children have grown.

Translating the Themes
Sitting by an open window in the summer time, Mrs. Moxom has transposed on her piano the unfinished masterpieces suggested by scores of birds.

She has heard a pee-wee sing the original strains of the second phrase of Wagner's "Swan Song," while she played the complete work.

Sparrows with their chirping have rendered motifs for what later under Mrs. Moxom's skilled hands blossomed forth into cantatas of exquisite beauty.

The most wonderful music of all, Mrs. Moxom declares, is the wooling song of the cardinal. This she has never been able to translate for human perception due to the tiny so-called "fourth-notes" which birds can master but no instrument has been able to duplicate.

PETER'S PREACHING

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 3: Peter Preaching to Gentiles. Text: Acts 10:34-48.

Text: Acts 10:34-48

Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:

But in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ: (he is Lord of all):

That word, I say, ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached.

How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost and with power; who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

And we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; whom they slew and hanged on a tree

Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly:

Not to all the people but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead.

To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter,

Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?

And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

ONE of the hardest tasks that Peter faced in preaching the gospel was his lack of simple appreciation of the fact that God is no respecter of persons and that a Gentile may claim as much of an inheritance of love and righteousness as a Jew.

This is one of life's amazing facts—a man professing a high and holy creed, intelligent and sincere in his profession, yet far from that creed in actual practice.

In Dealing With Men

The man who sings hymns of patience and brotherly love on Sunday may be most unbrotherly when it comes to dealing with men in general, especially where racial and religious differences intervene.

It is not our crying "Lord, Lord," that marks us as Christians. It is the execution of the injunctions that the Lord left us in his commands of brotherly love.

Peter's Test

Peter for long had been close to Jesus. He had gone forth to preach the gospel of God's love and had dared to stand hardships and suffering for it. But when it came to the test of that love toward those who were not of Peter's race and religious ideas, Peter was not sure he could be even socially decent to those in whom this experience took place.

It required a miracle to break down Peter's conviction against those not of his own. Looking around us in life we sometimes wonder if more miracles are not required today—with intolerance, bigotry, racial hatreds in evidence wherever we go.

Preferred List?

God is no respecter of persons. Does God despise or hate the Jew or Chinaman or Japanese or Negro because he is so? Is there any particular sect on God's favored list? In the name of perfect justice no one who reads the New Testament in a broad spirit can imagine such a thing.

Jesus enunciated a great text in the parable of the Good Samaritan. A man of a different race, a different creed from the unfortunate, here showed the true spirit of neighborly love.

Makes New Record

Spurred on by the greatest demand in its history, Chevrolet in April again set up a new production record with a total output for the month of 111,937 units. This exceeds by 4,037 units the best previous monthly performance in the history of the company and establishes an all-time record for the monthly production of gear-shift cars.

Equally as spectacular as the remarkable monthly production feat and dividing the spotlight with it was the mark established April 29, when in the short space of a day's working hours, the factories built 5,347 Chevrolet cars and trucks. This was 272 units in excess of the best previous day's record.

It was particularly fitting that the record day happened to be the same one that Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation, chose for a visit to the Flint plant. Mr. Sloan, with C. S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors Corporation, arrived at the factory early in the day as guests of W. S. Knudsen, president, and C. F. Barth, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

Before Mr. Sloan had completed his inspection of the big Flint plant, where men and machinery were combining to build the eight types of Chevrolet cars now available, it was evident that a new production record was in sight.

Mr. Sloan waited for number 5,347 to come off the line, congratulated Mr. Knudsen on the remarkable showing being made by the Chevrolet Company and its product and rode off the line in the epoch marking model which again happened to be a coach.

A RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

The discussion scheduled for the evening of the 22nd at the Church of Christ, Height Street Tabernacle, did not materialize on account of the absence of one of the disputants, Mr. Brunson, but by mutual agreement will start Saturday evening, June 4, at 8:15.

We will discuss first the establishment of the church Saturday evening and Sunday morning, Sunday afternoon beginning at 2:15 we will discuss the scripturalness or the un-scripturalness of the modern Sunday School. Other subjects may follow at the will of the disputants.

Paul says, "Come let us reason together." "Prove all things, hold fast to that which is good." Jude says, "Contend earnestly for the faith."

Your Convenience OUR JOB

Of course you wouldn't want to be without the telephone or transportation service of today. How would it seem to go back forty years or so to a time when these conveniences did not exist?

With the telephone in your office or residence you have instant communication with your neighbors anywhere—at your command day and night, as much as you need.

If you could see all of our central office equipment as well as the miles of cable and wires, you would know our job is not simple.

But the harder the job the greater satisfaction is in getting it done. We are proud of our work. And we are prouder still when now and then someone tells us that our service is good.

AT YOUR SERVICE

West Texas Telephone Company

Have you ever made good on one job... for 39 years?

THE extra mileage you get from Dunlop tires starts with the fact that Dunlop has had thirty-nine years of tire-building experience—more than any other tire-maker.

Each part of each Dunlop is built right. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills to spin selected long-fibre cotton into the special Dunlop cable-twist cords.

These cords mean extra strength—an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

They mean extra "stretch"—so the tire carcass will give under blows, and come back to its original shape without the slightest injury.

Every Dunlop you buy has extra miles built into it because Dunlop knows each part of its job. That is why we recommend you put Dunlops on your car.

Quick Turn-Over- Small Profits

It stands to reason that the store that sells the most can sell the cheapest. Firms which have grown from small beginnings to large proportions and practiced this method have succeeded. And that is our policy. Although we are not advertising our prices this week, you are fully acquainted with our methods and know that you can buy cheaper at the M System. Our patronage has been wonderful; our regular prices advertised in the past have attracted the thrifty—so they came, bought and saved, and marvelled at how we could do it. It is simply quick turn-over at a small margin of profit, and we are getting a volume that enables us to do it, and the larger the volume grows the cheaper we are going to sell you and your neighbor.

FACTS about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values? . . . Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially? . . . Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.

3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Sometimes it is; but sometimes it is not.

4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.

5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

WHEN YOU are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of a new car.

PAULINE Malligate, strangely absent from her home in London for 18 months, is believed to be "Mrs. Creswold," mistress of "The Moat," a mystery house in Yorkshire, not far from the country place of Mrs. Bertha Northwood, friend of the Mallingates.

HENRY Emerson, wealthy stepfather of the girl, has vanished mysteriously from a summer resort where he had been staying with his wife and another stepdaughter, Lorna.

DR. JULIAN Emerson, claiming to be related to the missing man, has taken Lorna and her sick mother from the resort to Mulberry House, an old estate in Paxton Common, where he is holding them captive.

GERALD Craven, Lorna's lover, has joined with Mrs. Northwood and Noel Shannon, British war ace, in tracing the missing family. Through information obtained from Ellen Storey, a maid at "The Moat," Craven and Shannon fly to Paxton Common. There Shannon accepts a heavy fee for taking Dr. Emerson to Yorkshire.

Craven, remaining at Paxton, manages to make his way into the grounds of Mulberry House and to have a secret conference with Lorna. They decide that Craven shall go for help; while Lorna, to avoid suspicion, shall remain with her mother, who lies in the house under the influence of a drug administered by Dr. Emerson.

In the meantime a storm has forced Shannon down midway of his destination. His passenger is so unnerved that he refuses to go on. Shannon continues his way alone and arrives at the home of Mrs. Northwood, who reiterates her suspicion that "Mrs. Creswold" is Pauline Malligate. Shannon decides to go to "The Moat" and settle the question.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"If you are right," Shannon said, as they got up and walked across the lawn towards the house, "this would explain to a certain extent her association with this conspiracy." Mrs. Northwood took Mr. Shannon up to her favorite sitting room.

"I never sit in the bigger rooms when I am by myself. This is my favorite spot. I have such a lovely view from this window. Please smoke and make yourself at home."

She turned on the electric lamp as she spoke, and Noel Shannon lit a cigaret and then walked round the charming room looking at the various pictures and photographs. After a while he took up one of the framed portraits in his hands and studied it for some little while, and then he held it out to Mrs. Northwood.

"Who is this boy?" he asked.

Mrs. Northwood turned round and glanced at it.

"Oh, that! That," she said, "is a photograph of my godson, Patrick Creswold-Withington. His mother was a dear and an old friend of mine. I have never ceased to fret and grieve about her. You will find another and a later portrait of Pat on the bookcase, but not such an agreeable one. He was such a good looking lad when he started out."

"I have seen him somewhere," said Shannon, still studying the photograph. "I never forget a face—but he wasn't as decent looking as this picture. Indeed, just the opposite. Now let me think!" And then he laughed. "The world is very, very small place," he said, "and life is a queer thing! Why, Mrs. Northwood, I saw this fellow only this morning when I went to look up the person to whom that telegram was sent yesterday! As I told you just now, Carter was not there, but another man was—a drug fiend; a terrible looking object. I realized that he was or had been one of the right sort—a well-born chap gone under."

Mrs. Northwood put down her pen and turned round in her chair.

"You have seen Pat this morning? How extraordinary!" Then she gave a sigh. "A little while before she died, his mother wrote to me and poured out all the grief and all the heartache she had suffered about Patrick," she said in a low voice. "Evelyn begged me if ever the opportunity came to me, to do what I could for her boy, for her sake. She told me she could not give me any information as to where he was; he had left the army, of course, because he had been knocked about or so she imagined, and she believed that he was in Paris. But he never answered her letters; he never wrote, and he was one of the dominating causes which put her into her grave."

"He has other people belonging to him, of course?" queried Shannon.

"Oh, there are many relatives," Mrs. Northwood answered, "but they all washed their hands of Pat. That's the picture of his mother, Lady Evelyn Creswold-Withington. She had to take the name of Withington when an old aunt died and left her a considerable amount of property."

"Creswold," said Noel Shannon meditatively. "The plot thickens! This young woman who you declare to be Mrs. Henry Emerson's daughter and Lorna Malligate's sister, calls herself Creswold. I have seen Patrick Creswold-Withington today—brought face to face with him thru following the clue which you and Jerry discovered last night. Now we know for certain that we are on the right track! Is your letter ready Mrs. Northwood? Then I think I'll make a start. It's just possible that that fine gentleman whom I left behind may arrive here quicker than I imagine, and I want to get to The Moat before he comes."

"I have only written a few words," said Mrs. Northwood as she took up the sheet of paper. "This is what I have said:

"Pauline Dear—I know that you are in trouble, and I am very anxious about you. Anxious, too, about your mother and Lorna, who are in need of you. Won't you let me help you, my dear? Somehow there was a look on your face when you refused to recognize me the other evening, which I cannot forget, and as a very old friend, I entreat you to turn to me if there is anything I can do for you. This will be given to you by Mr. Shannon, in whom you can trust absolutely.—Affectionately yours, "Bertha Northwood."

As she sealed it and addressed it,

Mrs. Northwood gave a little laugh. "Of course, I may be just wasting my time writing this," she said, "but I cannot be so near and yet stand aside and do nothing. You will, of course, come back for dinner, and I hope you will sleep here, Mr. Shannon?"

As he held her hand, Noel Shannon said: "I should like nothing better but I want you to be so kind as to leave me quite free. I don't know what lies in front of me, only as I said to you just now, my seventh sense warns me that I am up against something very evil and dangerous, and I must deal with these things as circumstances permit."

He bent over her hand and kissed it.

Gerald Craven stood a brief while to get his breath after he had dropped from the wall. Then he started to run across the rough ground, following the wall which surrounded the gardens of the Mulberry House. He had left his cap lying on the wall; it was cut by the glass and he did not require it.

As he turned the corner that gave on to the road which would lead to the village, he almost collided with two men. They were the two men whom he had watched going into the public-house.

"Say! Who are you? Where are you going? Where have you come from? What are you doing sneaking round the wall like this?"

Had Craven been less excited, less strung up, he would have ignored the rudeness and have managed to get away. But he forgot caution; he only remembered all Lorna had just told him and his answer was to jerk his arm out of the man's grasp, and shooting out his fist, to strike the speaker a violent upward blow, making him stagger and almost fall to the ground. Unfortunately the bully was not knocked down, nor was he made insensible; he was only convulsed with rage.

"Oh, so that's your game, is it?" he spluttered. "Well then, just you look out for yourself, my fine sir!"

He rushed forward only to be met by another scientific blow, which again staggered him and brought the blood from his mouth. Just for a few seconds he seemed knocked out, but quickly recovered and made another rush forward. As he did so, he shouted to the Indian standing a few yards away:

"What are you waitin' for? If you don't look out he'll go for you." Like lightning the native moved, and lying a loaded stick which he carried, he struck Craven violently on the head. The young man dropped like a log to the ground, and the man he had fought came forward and gave him a savage kick.

"I'll show you!" he shouted. "I'll show you how I fight!"

And he kicked the unconscious man again, and would have gone on kicking, only the Indian drew his attention to the fact that someone in the distance was watching them.

The individual who had frightened them into this disappearance proved to be a boy who was running towards them. As he saw Gerald Craven lying so still on the ground, this lad got frightened and ran back toward the village as quickly as he could go, pouring out his tale of what he had seen to a group of men who were chatting together before dispersing for the night.

Mother! Come Out of the Kitchen

NO LONGER need you stay at home near your cooking, to watch it and see that it is properly done. No more guessing at cooking temperatures. No more uncertainty about results.

With the Hotpoint Super-Automatic Electric Range you can place a complete meal in the oven—roast, potatoes, vegetables en casserole and a dessert, for instance.

You can go out for precious sunshine hours with the children, for golf, shopping, bridge or a matinee—for all day if you like.

When you return at dinner time, open the oven. You will find a hot dinner more deliciously cooked than if you had remained at home constantly watching it in the old-fashioned tied-to-the-kitchen way.

Come in and see this wonderful range—let us explain our easy-to-pay plan.

Mother Gregory Died at Killeen

News was received here Tuesday of the death of Mother Gregory, which occurred at Killeen at 3:30 that morning.

Mother Gregory was seventy-one years of age at the time of her death and is well known here, having made her home with her son, C. W. Gregory, until the past few months when she went to be with her daughter, Mrs. Young, at Killeen.

Funeral services were held Wednesday and the body was laid to rest at Killeen.

Many friends here will regret very much the passing of Mother Gregory and extend deepest sympathy to the bereaved relatives.
