U.N. accuses forces of convoy attack

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The commander of U.N. troops in Sarajevo accused Bosnian forces Wednesday of attacking a U.N. convoy and said it was part of a plan to discredit the United Nations.

In New York, the Security Council scheduled a closed-door meeting for Wednesday evening at France's request to discuss Tuesday's attack, which killed two French soldiers and wounded five.

In Paris, French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas called the assault "a veritable act of war against members of a humanitarian operation."

"The light was clear enough to see the U.N. insignia," U.N. Brig. Gen. Hussein Aly Abdulrazek said.

STATE

Substance abuse costly for Texans

AUSTIN (AP) — Substance abuse costs Texas billions of dollars in health care, crime-related expenses and lost earnings, says a study released Wednesday by the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse.

"Abuse of alcohol and illicit drugs is one of the most important public health problems facing our society today," said the study, which estimated $12.6 billion in costs for 1989.

Richard Spence, director of research and development for the commission, said, "These are the numbers we can count. There are a lot of other costs that can't be counted ... such as disruption of families" due to substance abuse.

Of the total, $7.9 billion was due to alcohol abuse, $3.7 billion to illicit drug abuse and $1 billion to alcohol and drug abuse combined.

Gore campaigns on Mexican border

McALLEN (AP) — Al Gore asked voters on Main Street here Tuesday to "tip Texas over the top for change" as Democrats stepped up efforts to win President Bush's home state.

"Texas may very well be determined by what is done here in the Valley," the Democratic vice presidential nominee told 400 listeners who braved scorching afternoon heat to welcome him.

"With heavy voting, with heavy, early voting, with a large turnout, you can ensure that Texas goes for Clinton and Gore," Gore said.

"And Texas can and will ensure that the United States of America reaches out for change, that we reclaim our future, build up this nation ..." the Tennessee senator said.

Undergraduate spending decreases in Texas

BY SANDRA PULLEY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas higher education funding increased 2 percent over the past eight years compared to a 127 percent raise in public safety and correctional spending, Texas Tech Executive Vice President and Provost Don Haragan said in a presentation to the Faculty Senate Wednesday.

"If we look at the expenditure per student, there is a significant decrease in the amount invested in higher education now," he said.

Haragan said expenditures per undergraduate student in Texas decreased 12 percent since 1985, although national average expenditures per student rose 5 percent.

Haragan said strategic planning still may be necessary to prepare for a possible 10 percent reduction in state revenues. Strategic planning, originally planned at the university level to cut annual expenses, will be implemented through individual colleges, he said.

"We are not going out this year and looking for programs to hatchet," Haragan said. "We are talking to the deans about faculty representation in the process. We are not going to be making decisions centrally."

If budget cuts are more severe than estimated, administrative guidance in the strategic planning process could become severe, he said.

Senate members also discussed staff parking problems related to the new entry station hours and a lack of enforcement in campus parking regulations.

Senators from the College of Home Economics and the College of Education said students and visitors illegally park in front of the University Center after 3:30 p.m., although faculty members require the parking spaces during late afternoon classes.

Haragan said the entry stations close earlier to save the university money and suggested faculty members park in available spaces to alleviate the problem.

"With a little bit of flexibility we can get out of this and save the money we intended to save," he said.

In addition to floor discussion, the Academic Council minutes reported committee discussion of a policy allowing students to replace a course grade of "D" or "F" by repeating the course. A subcommittee will draft a detailed recommendation for the grade replacement procedure for the senate. The measure will be considered by the Student Senate before presentation to the administration.

Mayor promotes involvement, may close meetings

BY KENDRA CASEY
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Closing some city council meetings to the public is a prospect for the city, Lubbock Mayor David Langston told the League of Women Voters in an address Tuesday.

"I think we need to look at ways to promote public input," Langston said. "Democracy demands participation. I am a supporter of open government, but open government does not always work."

Langston said the Lubbock City Council is considering submitting a resolution to the Texas Legislature that would propose amending the Texas Open Records and Meetings Act to make areas such as economic development exempt from the rule.

Langston said development projects involving various city and private entities could be made easier by closing negotiation meetings to the public.

"It is sometimes not possible to conduct these negotiations in public," he said.

Langston said if such meetings are closed to the public, they should be reopened when funds are utilized and before any final decisions are voted.

Langston also pointed out bureaucracy as a problem facing governments and the public and private sectors.

He said he thinks the fall of communism in the former Soviet Union and some other Eastern European countries did not result from a need for democracy or a dislike of communism but rather from the serious problem bureaucracy created for those countries.

Langston also continued to support his campaign promise to increase public involvement in city government. He said he thinks society has outgrown the government and gave Lubbock's city charter, written in 1917, as an example of government policy that is outdated.

Pool shark at work

Vincent Mountain watches over the shoulder of his new young friend Shawn Guyett as they play pool in the basement of the Ronald McDonald House. Mountain was waiting for his daughter to recover, while Guyett waits for his sister who will be getting out of the hospital in a few days.

Hospital-chair beds and vending-machine dinners once awaited the families of children admitted to Lubbock hospitals until the Ronald McDonald House opened its doors to support the local medical community in 1985.

"People have opened their hearts and pocketbooks to help children who are ill," said Executive Director Jean Curtsinger.

The Ronald McDonald House provides accommodations for families with children in local hospitals who live outside of Lubbock for a $10 per night fee.

Although rooms cost $35 a night to maintain, the charity keeps lodging prices low to help keep expenses for families facing medical emergencies minimal, Curtsinger said.

"When you have a medical emergency, expenses at home are still mounting," she said. "Even $10 a night can add up."

The Ronald McDonald House, complete with game room, laundry facilities and kitchen appliances, can house up to 10 families a night. Each family contributes to the daily housekeeping of the facility.

"People who stay here are buying into this house," Curtsinger said. "They take pride in it."

Curtsinger said that even families who can afford to stay in local hotels prefer to lodge at the Ronald McDonald House because the families suffering medical emergencies provide a support group.

"If you want to come home and cry, we'll give you a hug. If you want to giggle, you have people to share your joy with," she said. "Everyone here is under the same stress."

"Unfortunately, we are going to have to turn away a lot of families this year," Curtsinger said. "The

SA president addresses city council about Tech involvement

BY KRISTIE DAVIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Student Association President Chris Loveless will ask Lubbock's City Council to support Texas Tech in future higher education proposals during a 10 a.m. meeting today.

Loveless said voters can ensure that higher education gets the attention it deserves. As it stands, higher education is not a top priority of the Texas Legislature, he said.

"Higher education is definitely worth supporting," Loveless said. "Actively supporting Tech by calling the legislators will make a big difference. If costs (of attending Tech) continue to rise, students will stay home to go to college."

He also said it is important that the city be aware of the economic impact Tech students have on the city, and said he will propose a way for businesses to give something back to Tech.

"The Student Association is currently working on a program to allow local restaurants an avenue to give back to Tech on the football game days when Tech attracts so many potential customers," Loveless said.

He also will ask for Tech student representation on the task force concerning the proposed multipurpose arena. He said because events at the coliseum are targeted at Tech students, they should have input in the proposed arena. If taxes have to be raised, Tech students will be affected, he said.

"Students need to have a voice on it," Loveless said. "I'll be interested to see their reaction."

To gain the city's support, Loveless also will discuss the history between Lubbock and Tech.

Career Day recruits 85 companies

BY KRISTIE DAVIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

About 85 companies will widen the career choices of Texas Tech students during Tech's annual Career Day from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Tuesday in the University Center.

Students will meet prospective employers and learn about opportunities available to them.

Career Planning and Placement Center Director David Kraus said the representatives are not attending Career Day to hire, but to inform students about the companies they represent.

"We're hoping for a really good turnout," said Tom Casey, assistant director of the center. "This is their (students) opportunity and they need to jump on it."

Students can ask representatives from different companies general questions about the companies during an informal panel discussion at 8 p.m. Monday in Holden Hall, room 150. The panelists also will discuss interviewing skills and how to write a resume. They also will inform students about questions they may want to ask employers at Career Day.

Panelists will include Don Sather of Frito-Lay, Beckie Ball of Dow Chemical, Lynette Springer of K-Mart Fashions and Kraus.

Casey said students need to be aware of different job requirements because each company has different criteria employers look for in potential employees.

Career Day is a perfect way for students to lay their groundwork, Casey said. Those students preparing to graduate should attend the program in professional dress and with a resume. However, all students, whether freshmen or graduating seniors, will benefit, he said.

Because students should be informed about companies they plan to interview with, they should ask representative questions they may not want to ask in an interview, Casey said. For example, students who are environmentally conscious may want to learn what companies are doing for the environment before interviewing for jobs that may go against their values.

"This is a good opportunity for students to gain some exposure," Kraus said.

This year the different entities represented will be sectioned into companies, graduate schools or military and government agencies.

Tables offering co-op programs will be marked, and representatives will be available to discuss internships with students.

The number of graduate schools to be represented this year has increased. Last year, about 10 graduate schools attended Career Day. This year, about 25 schools from across the United States will be represented. Tech's graduate schools also will be represented.

Casey said the economy has caused more students to attend graduate school rather than join the work force.

"Graduate schools know this, and want to jump on the bandwagon," he said.

The number of government agencies attending Career Day has decreased. Casey said the FBI and CIA are on a hiring freeze, and budget cuts will not allow the agencies to attend Career Day.

All military branches, the Texas Department of Human Resources, the Department of Agriculture and the IRS will be represented.

Lubbock Chamber looks for Maid of Cotton

BY JENNIFER SANDER
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

A tradition on the South Plains of more than 20 years will soon show its face again with the annual Maid of Cotton competition in October. Applications for the competition are now being accepted at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

The competition is open to females between the ages of 19 and 25 in a 23 county area. Candidates can be either residents of, or attend school in, the South Plains area. The South Plains Maid of Cotton is an automatic finalist in the national Maid of Cotton selection held in December in Dallas. The local winner receives a $1,000 scholarship, a cotton wardrobe and other prizes.

The national winner receives a $10,000 scholarship and appears at the Cotton Bowl.

"The benefit is that the winner travels around the United States making appearances and promoting the cotton industry," said Grey Lewis, vice president and general manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

"Personality, speaking ability, modeling well and photogenic ability are usually what the judges are looking for," he said. "They need to be able to appear well on television."

Knowledge of cotton and the cotton industry is helpful, but not a requirement, said Cheryl Sebastian, chairwoman of the Maid of Cotton Committee of the Lubbock Chamber.

"The girls need to know more about cotton besides knowing that shirts, sheets and towels are made from it," she said. "They are required to give a two to three minute speech at the luncheon about cotton, so pre-knowledge about it shows up then. But if the girl looks and acts intelligent, and it appears that she can learn about the industry and communicate well, it is taken into consideration."

medical community is expanding. We have grown to capacity, and we are bursting at the seams."

Although the Ronald McDonald House paid $10 for its 49-year property lease from Texas Tech, the terms of the contract require the facilities to remain debt free. The charity spends more than $7 million a month to keep the facility running.

"The $10 a night does not even cover a large part of our expenses," Curtsinger said. "There are little things that Tech students and members of the community can do to help." Curtsinger said volunteers are always needed to perform administrative functions and help with facility upkeep. People can also donate canned goods, hygiene supplies and services. The house also allows community groups to provide dinners for the families.

Bass Line: Venue serves up hot jazz without any smoke

BY JENNIFER SANDER
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's only jazz club, The Bass Line, will open again with traditional jazz music in the University Center Friday night to provide an alternative for students to the loud and crowded club scene.

"The Bass Line is an alternative to the smoke-filled bar settings where jazz groups are often heard, and which some individuals don't frequent either by choice or because they are too young to get in," said Gail Littleton, activities advisor with University Center Programs.

The Sandra Dudley Quartet will perform Friday night. The Houston-based band consists of typical jazz instrumentation of piano, bass, drums and vocals.

and those interested in alternative entertainment, Littleton said.

Littleton said UC Activities decided to sponsor the event again this year because program directors felt a great demand for an alternative form of jazz entertainment.

The Sandra Dudley Quartet will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday in the UC Ballroom. Tickets cost $8 for Tech students and $10 for others. They are available at the UC Ticket Booth or can be reserved by calling 742-3610. Bass Line T-shirts also will be sold for $12 at the door.

Frosh players just waiting for chance to shine

BY CHARLES LECKBEE
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

If the names Rebert Mack, Marcus Coleman, Verone McKinley, Claskel Freeman, Zach Thomas, Anthony Armour and Jerome Lang are unfamiliar to Tech football fans, they should be.

These players are all true freshmen, and all have impressed the Raiders' coaching staff with their potential to make immediate contributions to the team.

At his first press conference of the new season, head coach Spike Dykes expressed his surprise with the number of true freshmen he would not be redshirting.

He praised Tech's recruiting efforts, and said he felt that all the true freshmen playing could see playing time.

The number of true freshmen who have seen playing time this year is especially unusual considering that among the current senior class there is only one player who saw playing time as a true freshman, senior free safety and pre-season All-American Tracy Saul.

Perhaps one of the unstated reasons for the surprising number of true freshmen in uniform this year is the Raider's lack of depth.

The team has a number of experienced players, but the reserves are thin.

Marcus Coleman of Dallas Lake Highlands is a strong safety who has already focused on team goals.

Coleman was ready to play as soon as he decided to become a Raider, but did not expect it to be easy.

"There's always a lot of pressure, you just have to respond," Coleman said. "I expected that if I worked hard, I would be playing."

Coleman has a simple motivation when he comes out onto the playing field, to make contact and make the big plays.

"I like hard contact; I consider myself a hitman," Coleman said.

Coleman indicated that the player he would most like to emulate is the infamous Jack Tatum of the Oakland Raiders, a bone-jarring safety known for laying out the offensive players, and feared throughout the league.

Coleman did not regret his decision to come to Tech, and has a definite team-first attitude.

"I just wanted to go somewhere far enough away from home and make a contribution to the team," Coleman said.

Coleman was confident of the Raiders' chances and pleased with the players around him.

"Everybody goes out and works hard. We're going to go far this year,"

Thomas

Coleman

Coleman said.

Playing professional football would be a nice bonus for Coleman who considers that only secondary in his goal of finishing his education.

"I just want to graduate and get my degree in physical therapy. Playing at the next level would be nice though," Coleman said.

Zach Thomas, an outside linebacker from Pampa, is another defensive player who can make the big hits, but was less confident that he would be playing so soon.

"I really didn't expect to be playing so soon. I thought I might be redshirted, but it really doesn't bother me," Thomas said with a laugh.

Thomas also said he felt that playing as a freshman did cause increased pressure.

"I think there's some big pressure, they don't know me and they don't know what I can do yet," Thomas said.

Thomas emphasized that he still had a lot to learn, and that playing at Tech was a great learning experience.

"I've got to work from now on, and move up to the position I want," Thomas said.

Thomas's motivations are simple, and he has a wide-open approach to his future.

"I really love the game. I've played it all my life, and it keeps me out of trouble. I can just go and play and get all my frustrations out on the field," Thomas said.

"I have many personal goals, but it's most important just to be a team player."

Thomas was confident of the Raiders' chances this year and pleased with the other players around him.

"Once we start clicking we can go as far as we want; we've got some really good players," Thomas said.

Thomas said the player who he most admired shared his last name.

"I like the way Derrick Thomas plays, and of course he's got a great name," Thomas said.

Mack and Freeman are both on the offense and are expected to see playing time this season in many situations.

McKinley, Armour and Lang are participating on special teams but could see action on the defense this year.

Dykes did admit there were dangers in not redshirting the freshmen. If they are injured or do not contribute as they should, they will have lost a year of their eligibility.

PRINCIPLES OF SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

TIAA-CREF's
Five Easy Steps
To Building
Your Retirement
Nest Egg

- 1 Look for ratings.
Check out how an insurance company has been rated by the three leading ratings analysts: A.M. Best Company, Standard & Poor's and Moody's Investors Service. TIAA has earned the highest ratings: A++ (Superior) from A.M. Best, AAA from Standard & Poor's and Aaa from Moody's.
- 2 Look for rates.
TIAA offers a guaranteed minimum rate of 3%, plus dividends (which are declared annually). New premiums to TIAA Retirement Annuities currently earn 7.5%* (guaranteed interest plus dividends), while our "old money" earns between 8% and 8.5%, depending on the year the funds were received and the actual investment performance that year.
- 3 Look for a combination of safety and growth.
TIAA's traditional annuity gives you security, while CREF's variable annuity gives you the choice of several distinct and diversified investment accounts. Like all variable annuities, returns will fluctuate and are not guaranteed.

- 4 Look for reputation and resources.
TIAA-CREF has been serving the education and research communities for over 70 years. We can help you with all your retirement needs, and you get a full range of products along with a variety of services that are absolutely free.

- 5 Look for low expense charges.
With TIAA-CREF, each dollar invested on your behalf is working for you right from the beginning. We have no sales charges of any kind, and only a minimal expense/operating charge is deducted each year from overall annuity assets.

Damron to serve as interim tennis coach

Ron Damron, an assistant athletic director at Texas Tech, will serve as interim men's tennis coach after Steve Clark left the job after one season at the Red Raider helm.

According to Director of Athletics T. Jones, a permanent coach will be named later.

Damron served as coach for 12 years but gave up the position in December to concentrate on his job as assistant athletic director. Jones said no specific timetable has been set for the permanent coaching change.

"We are prepared to make the change at mid-term if that's what we have to do," Jones said.

"Do I take 'The Microbiology of Potentially Pathogenic Beta-Hemolytic Streptococci.' Or 'The Evolution of the Situation Comedy.' Do I really want to live with Judy the neat freak-again. I can't believe I've got until Monday to decide if I'm a Biology or a Theatre major. Have I completely lost it? Will I ever be able to make a decision, again? Wait a minute, just yesterday, I was able to pick a phone company with absolutely no problem... Yes, there is hope."

With AT&T, choosing a phone company is easy. Because when you sign up for AT&T Student Saver Plus, you can pick from a complete line of products and services designed specifically to fit your needs while you're in college. Whatever they may be.

Our Reach Out® Plans can save you money on AT&T Long Distance, no matter where and when you call. Call Manager will separate your

AT&T Long Distance calls from the ones your roommates make. And the AT&T Calling Card makes it easy to call from almost anywhere to anywhere. Also, when you sign up for AT&T, your first call is free*.

And with AT&T, you'll get the most reliable long distance service. AT&T Student Saver Plus. It's the one college decision that's easy to make.
