"I must admit that Texas has muh the advantage of Georgia, es pecially you people in Central Tex as. When a farmer out here goes to plant 100 acres of cotton all he has to do is to plow the land, but in Georgia the farmer who plants 100 acres in cotton must first spend $5.00 per acre, a total of $500.00, for fertilizer and that must be done every year. Your the Georgia farmers and save the 5.00 per acre. But I find Texas is the people of my state, nor are they near so economical. Texs wasted enough wheat this year to supply my state in bread for a ear. The ease with which Texas people grow their crops breeds a spirit of wastefulness that is simply astonishing to an outsider who comes from a country not so favor-
