Best for Baby

NOT "How much trouble is it?" but "Is it best for baby?"

Is the question paramount to mothers. Generations of tireless mothers have strained and specially prepared endless food for generations of babies, and now that baby food is prepared and scientifically prepared in cans, mothers, everywhere, are asking their physicians—which is best for baby?

Dr. Walter H. Eddy, of Columbia University, recently told mothers this in "Good Housekeeping Magazine":

"When vegetables are cooked and pureed in the home, the process usually leads to a considerable destruction of vitamin C owing to the access of air during the process. The canned pureed vegetables are more valuable than the home-prepared, in proportion as care is taken during the pureeing process to exclude air. Most manufacturers marketing these products pay special attention to this and, consequently, I heartily approve of these products."

The manufacturers of these foods not only maintain testing laboratories, but one of them has installed a testing kitchen which is planned as a model kitchen, suitable for the average home, and duplicating average home cooking conditions. Here a trained specialist devotes her time to questions of nutrition pertaining to infant feeding. No vegetables canned are subjected to a more intensive study than these vegetables prepared for "baby," but always consult baby's doctor first."

Motion Indorsed

Many of our customers so kindly called at the office while others phoned to learn the trouble, and we want you to feel perfectly free to do so at any and all times when interruptions occur, as you have an obligation to do so and will receive a courteous answer.

To the faithful telephone operator at Central and all others who so efficiently co-operated and rendered assistance until service was again restored, we sincerely Thank you.

Y IS YOUR RAILROAD

Record Katy Year

In 1928 the Katy handled a larger volume of freight traffic than was handled in any previous year in the railroad's history, thus indicating the railroad's increasing usefulness to the growing Southwest. Measured in tons moved and tons moved one mile, the Katy's freight traffic volume in the first half of 1928 has exceeded the first half of 1927.

The Katy Serves

Pioneer railroad in its territory—the Katy throughout its history has occupied a distinctive relationship to the Southwest. Although constructed as a private project, the Katy was conceived in a public purpose, and its importance as a Southwestern service institution has advanced steadily.

Recognizing the necessity for a railroad from the North to Texas and the Mexican border, Congress at the close of the Civil War offered a large land grant to the first railroad constructed across Indian Territory to Texas. The Katy was certified by President Grant as winner of a spectacular race in railroad construction rich in pioneer romance and thrill.

Though finally denied in the courts the promised land grant reward to which its enterprise gave it just claim, the Katy has uniformly met the obligations of public service imposed by conditions under which its construction was undertaken.

Pioneer hope of public advantage to result from its completion as an artery of commerce have been fully realized, and a Southwestern empire has grown up along the Katy. First railroad in its distinctive field—the only railroad serving all the more important centers in Oklahoma and Texas through both St. Louis and Kansas City—the Katy purposes to serve in steadily increasing degree the continued development of the Southwest.

The petite, vivacious beauty of Lotti Loder and her gay mannerisms attracted the attention of a small theater owner, and in 1927 Lotti made her stage debut, singing and dancing in an act. Her success was immediate. Her first experience was in vaudeville in middle Europe, doing impersonations. She was discovered by a prominent motion picture producer and was induced to come to this country, and soon was in Hollywood. Lotti was born in Vienna. She is ambitious and in a fair way to realize her desire to talk.

Shows on the Map
Two little boys, age six and four, were hooked at an illustrated family Bible. The older was endeavoring to satisfy the inquisitiveness of the younger by putting his own interpretation on the various pictures.
Finally they came to the colored maps and the older one was somewhat stumped, but said:
"That is a map."
"What is it for?" came the query.
"Why, that shows the way up to heaven," was the brother's reply.

Today much of the responsibility for promoting the welfare and prosperity of our state rests upon the shoulders of bankers, leaders in each community. They can favorably influence the income of rural sections by business-like guidance in the problem of fertilizing crops.
This season more than ever before bankers are recommending the use of the American-made Nitrate of Soda. This fertilizer has been tested and has proved its real value and since it is made in this country employing American labor, its use by farmers aids in promoting American prosperity.

Captain Tells Whale of Story; It Rains Whales

Boston, Mass.—The wind blew a hundred miles an hour! It rained a hundred miles an hour! More than a hundred lobeggers were sighted! So say the officers and crew of the Hamburg-American line freighter, Hagen, which arrived here recently after the stormiest Atlantic crossing in memory. Two baby elephants and 18 monkeys were part of its cargo.
The trouble started, according to Capt. Karl Windhorst, on Good Friday when the storm broke and reached a peak three days later when one of the 14 Japanese monkeys died, leaving a remainder of 13 and a bad taste in the superstitious minds of the crew.
That afternoon the wind rose to hurricane force and things happened in earnest. Two life boats were stove in, cabin doors were splintered and part of the top rail carried away. Then just before dusk a giant comb-eared rose out of the muck, and the rails of whines began.
Presumably the school was caught up by the two huge waves, which met in a thunder of foam on the forecastle head, for the officers declared that at least a hundred whales plopped into the sea on both sides of the ship, some being bumped down the steamer's steel side.
That's their story and they stick to it.

Unclassified Animals

A ferocious and dangerous beast which famous hunters have tried to capture is the Nandi bear, or, as natives call it, the chimzee, a creature between half gorilla, which lurks in the dense forests of Kenya, Africa, prowling native kraals and preying on cattle, goats, women and children. Its weird three-toed footprints belong to no known animal, but such great authorities as the late F. C. Selous and Capt. Blayney Percival for 25 years game warden in Kenya, have asserted their belief in its existence.
