CRIMINALITIES.

DAVIDSON HANGED.

At Warrensburg, Mo., on the 9th, Frank Davidson, in the flush of youth, yielded up his life to satisfy the demands of outraged law. The gallows was a structure supported by eight uprights thoroughly braced, and consisting of a platform 10x12 feet, in which was a trap 4 feet square, and two parallel beams 18 feet high, was located in a little valley opening out to the west. Hardly had the rope tightened ere there was a movement throughout the crowd. Reporters pressed forward to take the statement of the physicians, and watch the man. The struggles were few. In descending, the man fell straight as a plummet. His legs were bound at the knees and met. His legs were bound at the knees and ankles, his arms drawn back and fastened by ankies, his arms drawn back and lastened by a chord about each elbow, his hands resting on his breast, where they remained until removed by the physicians. When he was taken down, it was found that the fall of five feet had drawn the rope so tightly, and so pressed it into the flesh, that the noose could not be slipped; but instead, it was necessary to cut the rope to remove it. So ends the history of the youth, guilty of the highest crime in the ken of man. A history, from which a sublime lesson in morals may be drawn. Hung for murder, in a distant land, and not a relative near to offer a word of

At Knoxvil'e, Tenn., on the 12th, Hugh W. Bonhan, a prominent lawyer, deputy circuit court clerk, and superintendant of public instructions for Anderson County, and principal of the Clinton academy, was attacked by Jack Queener, county court clerk, and John L. Shipe and his son Sam, both prominent citizens of Clinton. Bonham was struck over the head with a club in the hands of Sam Shipe. When he attempted to defend himself Queener and the two shipes fired on himself Queener and the two shipes fired on fect, three in the breast and two in the head. Bonham fought desperately and before he was overpowered had stabbed Queener in the arm and face, shot Sam Shipe fatally in the abdo-, and seriously, if not fatally, stabbed

ASSASSINATED.

At Atchison, Kan., on the 11th, E. M. Long, was foully assassinated while crossing the river bridge from East Atchison to Atchison. He was riding a horse, and got to within 100 feet of the Kansas end of the bridge, when an assassin fired the fatal bullet from the shadow of the iron pillars. The bullet took effect in the right side, near the back, and passed into the lung. Long gave three shricks, and the horse ran 50 feet and the rider fell off dead. The assassin escaped. No clue has been obtained. It is not known that Long had an enemy in the world. MURDERED FOR HIS MONEY.

A short time since a young German named Benner, representing a Galveston wholesale house, left San Antonia in company with another German calling himself Dreyer, for Corpus Christi. Dreyer returned, registered as Adolph at a hotel, bought a through ticket and left for New York. It is developed that Benner was murdered for a sum of money, supposed to be about $2,000, which he had with him. It is thought Dreyer is making his way back to the fatherland. MINISTERIAL DEVICES.

THE MARKETS.

GRAIN REVIEW Messrs. Lynde, Wright & Co., of Kan-sas City, furnish us the following reliable review of the grain trade for the past week: Wheat—Reports from the principal wheat countries of Europe during the past week have been of a very unfavorable nature. Frequent storms, and clouds of destructive insects have destroyed all hopes of any considerable out the crop prospects on the Continent are gloomy, while Great Britain is in no way im-proved.

European orders are largely increasing in European orders are largely increasing in our principal markets and cables report an ad-vance of four pence per cental on winter wheat at Liverpool. The heavy rain storms of the past few days throughout the north-west as well as through Kansas have increased the alarm with foreign buyers, and values of winter wheat in our home markets have ad-vanced 5 to 6c a bushel, and spring wheat 3 to 4c a bushel, the previous manipulations of spring wheat markets anticipating part of the advance. Until the spring wheat crop is har-vested in this country values in the near future must depend upon the weather. The factors influencing advance or decline have ceased to be for the present a question between "short sellers" or the "New York clique," but rather one of storms and fair weather. Our "visible supply" is inordinately large at this season and receipts continue liberal. this season and receipts continue liberal, so that we will enter upon the new crop year with larger stocks warehoused than ever be-fore reported, while the Old World will need more than we have yet contributed.

The next four weeks are apt to develop sud-der fluctuations due as much to the nervous den fluctuations, due as much to the nervous ness of the "shorts" in covering contracts as to the demands of foreign buyers. There are plausible agreements for both buyers and seller in the present crisis, but to those whose wheat has not yet been cut, we would say, "don't sell it ahead." Exports are lighter "don't sell it ahead." Exports are lighter than previous week, but still very large (1,886,151 bus.), while exports of flour are nearly doubled. The new wheat arriving in our local market is for the most part unmerchantable. Occasional cars are dry enough to grade but three-fourths of the receipts are dry and tough. We would particularly caution our shippers against sending this wet and ill-conditioned grain to market. There is no actual ditioned grain to market. There is no actual market for it anywhere and a little care in handling until dry will repay the worker 15

Pretty little girls wading and paddling in the surf make an attractive spectacle. But when a pretty young lady of 20 summers or thereabouts, and wearing a jaunty Gainsborough hat, undertakes the same pastime, the scene is a novel one. Such a young lady, on a part of Manhattan Beach which was secluded for the moment, thought it would be nice to join the little children, and, pulling off her shoes and stockings, ventured in. It was evidently a most difficult task to adjust her dress to the rising and lowering tide, for she gave her whole mind to it, and succeeded very poorly. Everybody passing that way paused, and the young men took seats, determind to fight it out on that line if it took all summer. In fifteen minutes a crowd of nearly 200 persons, mostly men, had gathered. The smile on the young lady's face changed to a tragic frown, and a mother's sharp cry hastened her withdrawal to the background, where,

"The Federal Courts are paralyzed There is no money to pay for the execution of civil or criminal process." This is owing, says the New York Times, to "the refusal of the Democrats in Congress to pass a bili appropriating money for the payment of United States Marshals' expenses in enforcing Governmental Judicial process." The fact is undoubtedly as it is stated by this esteemed paper; but there is a mistake repecting the cause of this fact. The truth is, the Democrats in Congress passed a Botter than any Saleratus of money for these very expenses; but Mr. Hayes vetoed it because they had not also appropriated money for other purposes. The responsibility rests entirely with the President, and not with Congress. The bill was passed, and the money was ready; but Mr. Hayes struck it with his veto. The fault is wholly his.

Without doubt it will early become the most popular line in the West with the traveling public. The Horton reclining chair is immeas urably superior in point of comfort and ease of management to all others now in use, and those placed in the Hannibal and St. Joe cars are of the finest workmanship and materials; but to the traveling pub lic it is useless to speak of the excellence of these chairs. They have proved so entirely successful, and so fully meet the wants of the pers to parties who have not or traveling community, that they have become a necessity. Mr. H. for so doing. Ayer's Cathartic Pills. For all the purposes of a Family Physic, and for curing Costiveness. Jaundice, Indigestion, Foul Stomach, Breath, Headache, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, as a Dinner Pill, for Purifying the Blood,

Are the most effective and congenial purgative ever discovered. They are mild, but effectual in their operation, many and without pain. Although gentle in their operation, they are still the most thorough and searching cathartic medicine that can be employed: cleansing the stomach and bowels, and even the blood. In small doses of one pill a day, they stimulate the digestive organs and promote vigorous health.

AYER'S PILLS have been known for more than a quarter of a century, and have obtained a world-wide reputation for their virtues. They correct diseased action in the several assimilative organs of the body, and are so composed that obstruetions within their range can rarely withstand or evade them. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every-body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, the safest and best physic for children. By their aperient action they gripe much less than the common purgatives, and never give pain when the bowels are not inflamed. They reach the vital fountains of the blood, and strengthen the system by freeing it from the elements of weakness. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates, containing neither calomel nor any deleterious drug, these Pills may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar-coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take; while being purely vegetable, no harm can arise their use in any quantity.

And put the boys in my place, Kate, with an easier life ahead,
But now I must give the prospect up; that comforting dream is dead.

'I'm worth more than my gold," eh? You're good to look at it so,
But a man isn,t worth very much, Kate, when his hair is turning to snow;
My poor little girls, with their soft white hands
and innocent eyes of blue, Turned adrift in the heartless world—what can and what will they do?

and what will they do? "An honest failure?" indeed it was dollar for dollar paid, a creditor suffered, whatever people

Better are rags and a conscience clear than a palace and flushes of shame.

One thing I shall leave to my children, Kate, and that is an honest name.

What's that? "The boys are not troubled?
They are ready now to begin
And gain us another fortune, and work through thick and thin?"

The noble fellows! already I feel I haven't se much to bear,

Their courage has lightened my heavy load of misery and despair.

And the girls are so glad it was honest?

They'd rather not dress so fine
And think they did it with money that wasn't honestly mine. They're ready to show what they're made of,

My blessed, good little daughters! so generous and so brave!

and you think we needn't fret, Kate, while we have each other left, No matter of what possessions our lives may be bereft?

You are right. With a quiet conscience and a

A SECOND TRIAL.

It was commencement at G--College The people were pouring into the church as I entered it, rather tardy. Finding the in the center of the audience-room already seats taken, I pressed forward, looking to the left for a vacancy. On the very front row of seats I found one.

Here a little girl moved along to make room for me, looking into my face with large gray eyes, whose brightness was softened by very long lashes. Her face was open and fresh as a newly blown rose before sunrise. Again and again I found my eyes turning to the rose-like face, and each time the gray eyes moved, half smiling to meet mine. Evidently the child was ready to "make up" with me. And when, with a bright smile, she returned my dropped handkerchief, and I said, "Thank you!" we seemed fairly introduc-Other persons, now coming into the seat, crowded me close up against the little girl, so that we soon felt very well

"My brother's going to graduate he's

"The one with light hair?" I asked.
"Oh no," she said, smiling and shaking

In an eager way she looked from me to him, and from him to me, as if some important fate depended upon my identifying her brother.
"I see him," I said. "He's a very good looking brother."

"Yes, he is beautiful," she said with artless delight; "and he's so good, and he studies so hard. He has taken care of me ever since mamma died. Here is his name on the programme. He is not the valedictorian, but he has an honor, for all

I saw in the little creature's familiarity with these technical college terms that she had closely identified herself with her brother's studies, hopes and successes.
"He thought, at first," she continued

"that he would write on the 'Romance of Monastic Life.'"
What a strange sound the long words had, whispered from her childish lips! Her interest in her brother's work had stamped them on the child's memory, and her they were ordinary things. "But then," she went on, "he decided that he would rather write on 'Historical Parallels,' and he's got a real good oration, and he says it beautifully. He has said it to me a great many times. I 'most know it by heart. O! it begins so pretty and so grand. This is the way it begins," she added, encouraged by the interest she must have seen in my face: "'Amid the permutations and combinations of the actors and the forces which make up the great kaleidoscope of history, we often find that a turn of Destiny's hand—'"

"Why, bless the baby!" I thought, looking down into her bright, proud face. I can't describe how very odd and selfish it did seem to have those sonorous words rolling out of the smiling infantile mouth.

The band, striking up, put an end to the quotation and confidences. As the exercises progressed, and approached nearer and nearer the effort on on which all her interest was concentrated, my little friend became excited and rest-Her eyes grew larger and brighter, two deep-red spots glowed on her cheeks the front that he was tiembling. The hands hung limp; his face was pallid, and the lips blue as with cold. I felt anxious. The child, too, seemed to discern that things were not well with him. Something like fear showed in her face.

He made an automatic bow. Then a bewildered structure look.

wildered, struggling look came into his face, then a helpless look, and then he stood starm vacantly like a somnambulist, at the waiting audience. The moments of painful suspense went by, and still he stood as if struck dumb. I saw how it was; he had been seized with stage-fright.

Alas! little sister! She turned her large, dismayed eyes upon me. "He's forgotten it," she said. Then a swift change came into her face; a strong, determined look; and on the funeral-like silence of the room broke the sweet, brave, child-voice:

"Amid the permutations and combinations of the actors and the forces which make up the great kaleidoscope of history, we often find that a turn of Destiny's

Everybody about us turned and looked The breathless silence; the sweet child-ish face; the long, unchildlike words, pro-duced a weird effect.

But the help had come too late; the unhappy brother was already staggering in humiliation from the stage. The bund quickly struck up, and waves of lively music were rolled out to cover the defeat. I gave the little sister a glance in which I meant to show the intense sympathy I felt; but she did not see me. Her eyes, swimming with tears, were on her brother's face. I put my arm around her. She was too absorbed to notice the caress, and before I could appreciate her purpose, she was on her way to the shame-stricken young man sitting with a face like a sta-

When he saw her by his side, the set face relaxed, and a quick mist came into his eyes. The young men got closer to-gether, to make room for her. She sat down beside him, laid her flowers on his knee, and slipped her hand in his. I could not keep my eyes from her sweet, pitying face. I saw her whisper to hun he bending a little to catch her words Later, I found out that she was asking him if he knew his "piece" now, and that he answered ves.

When the young man next on the list had spoken, and while the band was playing, the child, to the brother's great surprise, made her way up the stage-steps, and pressed through the throng of professors and trustees and distinguished visitors, up to the college President.

"If you please, sir," she said with a little courtesy, "Will you and the trustees let my brother try again? He knows his piece now." For a moment, the President stared at her through his gold-bowed spectacles, and then, appreciating the child's petition, he smiled on her, and went down and spoke to the young man who had failed.

So it happened that when the band had again ceased playing, it was briefly announced that Mr. — would now deliver his oration—"Historical Parallels." "'Amid the permutations and combina tions of the actors and the forces which make up the great kaleidoscope of history——'" This the little girl whispered tory—, "This the little girl whispered to him as he rose to answer the summons. A ripple of heightened and expectant nterest passed over the audience, and then all sat stone still, as though fearing to breathe lest the speaker might again take fright. No danger! The hero in the youth was aroused. He went at his "piece" with a set purpose to conquer, to redeem himself, and to bring the smile back into the child's tear-stained-face. I watched the face during the speaking. The wide eyes, the parted lips, the whole rapt being said that the breathless audiforgotten, that her spirit was moving with his. And when the address was ended with the ardent abandon of one who catches en-thusiasm in the realization that he is fighting down a wrong judgment and con quering a sympathy, the effect was really thrilling. That dignified audience broke into rapturous applause; boquets intended for the valedictorian rained like a tempest And the child who had helped to save the day,-that one beaming little face, in its pride and gladness, is something to be forever remembered.

"No, sir, I won't. You can't prove the ducks were not wild ducks."

"All right," and the farmer started off to the nearest village.

"Where are you going? What do you intend to do?" asked the other. "Well," said the farmer, quietly, as he leaned against a tree, "I am going to a 'squire to make an information against you for killing wild ducks out of the sea-son. If you insist that them ducks was wild, it'll cost you $5 a duck. If you come to the conclusion they were tame, it'll only cost you $2.50 a duck. Now, what'll you do?"

A lady should always pack her own satchel when preparing to travel. Into snould be put everything she will need for twenty-four hours. If she is to sleep on the cars a dressing-sack is preferable to the ordinary night robe, since few ladies like to undress entirely on the train many remove order to the state of paralysis and headache.—

Bradford Wayne Co., N. Y.

My mother says the Hop Bitters is the only thing that will keep her from her old and severe attacks of paralysis and headache.—

Ed. Oswego Sun.

Bradford Bradf this, if there is a possibility that she may many remove only their outer garments. A convenient dressing-case of linen with pockets for holding brushes and other toilet articles may be rolled up, and oc-cupies the minimum space possible. Another article used for traveling is a case for wraps, etc., from dust, but can be used to hold various articles on the journey. If desired, a pocket may be made on the outside, open at both ends, to hold an umbrella, and an inside pocket in three or four compartments, for cards, station-ery and other small articles. Upon an emergency a great deal may be packed in such a case, and it has the advantage of being far lighter to carry than an ordinary satchel.

Good taste as well as prudence, suggests that but little jewelry should be worn on the route, and that what is worn should not be handsome enough to attract attention on account of its intrinsic value. The watch should be kept in an inside pocket and the chain hidden under the dress. When going any distance, the safest plan is to pack valuable jewels in a secure case and send them by express to their destination. It will cost more, of course, but the express companies are responsible for their safe delivery.

When traveling for pleasure take as little baggage as possible. No one who has not tried both methods has any idea of the comfort of moving in light marchis really necessary. At Saratoga or New-port, it is true, many clothes are needed, and many trunks required to hold them; but these may be checked straight through, and await you at the end of the journey.

New York's Growth,

New York Letter. The city directory contains some 8,000 more names than last year's. This is supposed to represent an increase of about 40,000 in the population. If we keep on at this rate it won't take us long to catch up with Paris. In 1875 we had a total of nearly 1,100,000. Next year's census will probably give us fully 1,250,000. Counting Brooklyn and Jersey City as part of New York, as they really are, the total population now must be very close on 2,000,000.

MARVELOUS SUCCESS OF A MANU-FACTURING ENTERPRISE.

How the Hop Bitters Company Have Built Up Their Mammouth Trade.

It is but a few years since the addition was made to materia medical of what is now everywhere known as "Hop Bitters," and yet this valuable remedy for so many of the ills that flesh is heir to, is to be found in nearly every household in the land. No sooner had the efficacy of this compound been fairly tested than the com-Is now being successfully employed in the cure of consumption and weak lungs. Drs. Dickerson & Stark, of the Kansas City Surgipany set about advertising it on a most ex-tensive scale, succeeding thereby in inducing a trial-that being all that was necessary to secure a trade. In every case where a person tried it immediate relief followed, and the medicine received general approval. For a long time the company were unable to prepare the bitters fast enough to meet the demand, but, with their enlarged establishment and increased facilities, they are now able to manufac ture in unlimited quantities. Orders are constantly coming in from every part of the United States and Canada, and even from across the ocean. The medicinal virtue of hops and other herbs has been known and universally acknowledged from a remote period, but it has remained for the Hop Bitters Company, of this city, to extract the essential elements and present them to the public in a palatable and efficacious form. All the herbs used in the compounding of Hop Bitters are familiar as household remedies, and they have never before been prepared in shape to become generally popular. As a remedy for liver complaints, fever and ague, kidney diseases, nervousness, dyspepsia, costiveness and general debility this remedy is highly prized. Its combination with buchu, mandrake, dandelion, etc., gives it great curative power, and it is emphatically a "cure" in the broadest sense of the term for a variety of diseases that will not yield to ordinary remedies. It is the intrinsic value of the medicine and the judicious manner in which it has been brought before the public, that have combined to secure the immense success achieved by the enterprising Rochester company that manufactures and controls it. In the course of a short time Hop Bitters has reached a sale that is unprecedented in the history of popular medicines.—Union and Advertiser, of Rochester. WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT IT.

They are compounded from hops, buchu, mandrake and dandelion—the oldest, best, most renowned and valuable medicines in the world, and in addition contain all the best and most effective curative properties of all other Bitters, being the greatest blood purifier and life and health restoring agent on earth. No disease or ill health can possibly long exist where these Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations. They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To clergymen, lawyers, literary men, ladies and all those whose sedentary employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary or gans, or who require an appetizer, tonic or mild stimulent, these Bitters are invaluable, being highly curative, tonic and stimulating without intoxicating. No matter what your feelings or symtoms are what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you are sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use young girls which once matrons blushed to mention. Of the main avenue for escape of refuse from the human system is utterly subversive of regularity among the other organs. Let con-stipation become chronic, and, leaving out the imminent danger of inflammation of the bowels and their total obstruction occurring, jaun of the comfort of moving in light marching order, as compared to lugging around half a dozen huge trunks. It is wonderful to the unintiated, how little baggage is really necessary. At Saratoga or Newport, it is true, many clothes are needed, ach Bitters, a prime tonic alterative, prevents or remedies these results and their cause, as the case may require, and is also signally efficacious in overcoming flatulence, heartburn and variable as well as constipated action of the bowels. It renews nerve power, improves the appetite, stays the progress of early decay, relieves the infirmities of age, and is a pleasant appetizer.

Truth is Mighty.

As the little leaven hid in the measure of meal, made all leaven, so truth gradually overcomes all doubt and disbelief. When Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., announced that his Favorite Prescription would positively cure the many diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women, some doubted, and continued to employ the harsh and caustic local treatment. But the mighty truth gradually became acknowledged. Thousands of ladies who had uselessly undergone untold tortures at the hands of different physicians, employed the Favorite Prescription, and were speedily cured. Many physicians now prescribe it in their practice. So sanguine is Dr. Pierce of its power to cure, that he now sells it through druggists under a positive guarantee. As the little leaven hid in the measure of Gentlemen:—Some three months ago I began the use of Dr. Harters's Iron Tonic, upon the advice of many friends who knew its virtues. I was suffering from general debility to such an extent that my labor was exceedingly burdensome to me. A vacation of a month did not give me much relief, but on the contrary, was followed by increased prostration and sinking chilis. At this time I began the use of your Iron Tonic, from which I realized almost Immediate and wonderful results. The old energy returned and I found that my natural force was not permanently abated. I have used three boiltes of the Tonic. Since using it I have done twice the labor that I everdid in the same time during my illness, and with double the ease. With the tranquil nerve and vigor of body, has come also a clearness of thought never before enjoyed. If the Tonic has not done the work, I know with what. I give it the credit.
