JEALOUS LOVER KILLS COUPLE THEN HIMSELF

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 3.—A single bullet left in a pistol, which automobile police claim was used in the midnight killing of Otto Itin, aged 19 years; and Mamie King Metzger, aged 30 years, a divorcee; today ended the life of Raymond Ross, 25 years old, a farmer, just as he was about to be arrested for the dual murder near Felicity, Ohio. Ross, a suitor of the woman, shot himself as officers approached his home.

Pep Bottle and Airplane Have One Thing in Common
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 3.—The empty pop bottle and the airplane have only one thing in common, the aerial patrol service with headquarters at Mather Field near here has discovered. Their affinity of interest is limited to the forest fire. It has been learned that fires have often been started in grass by the concentration of sun's rays through the magnifying glass of a bottle, carelessly tossed aside by the person who has drained it. Once started the grass blaze spreads to the trees, and it is then that the airplane comes into play.

The patrol planes along the coast have no specified flying hours but have been rendering unusually valuable service this year spotting fires and aiding in the campaigns against those that have gotten underway.

KILLED TRYING TO ESCAPE GUARD

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, August 3.—Private Jesse Crow, a prisoner at the Fort Sam Houston guardhouse, was shot to death today by a guard who alleged Crow tried to escape. Crow ducked into a clump of bushes and the guard fired.

PONZI HEARING IS POSTPONED

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 3.—The hearing on a habeas corpus application by attorneys for Charles Ponzi, wanted in Massachusetts as "a common and notorious thief" was postponed until Wednesday when called in the district court here today, following Governor Ferguson's order for Ponzi's extradition yesterday. Attorneys for the Boston "finance wizard" pleaded they wanted time in which to revise their pleas.

SNAKE FIGHT AT S. A. IS "FIZZLE"

(By Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 3.—The rattlesnake-blacksnake fight here last night to determine the advisability of importing Missouri blacksnakes to kill Texas rattlers proved to be a "fizzle." The blacksnake bit two photographers and the rattlesnake bit the blacksnake, but with no ill effects. The snakes then maneuvered for half an hour and called a truce.

COLEMAN COMING TO A. L. MEETING

The Chamber of Commerce Band of Coleman and a number of Coleman Legionnaires will attend the district meeting of the American Legion here Sunday, August 8th, according to a telephone call received here Tuesday morning by Troy Simpson, a local Legionnaire, from V. Ballins Gilliland, county attorney of Coleman county, and director of the Coleman band.

Mr. Gilliland said the band and delegation would arrive in Ballinger Sunday morning about 10:00 o'clock in time for the union service which is to be held at the Baptist church, with Congressman Tom Connally, of Marlin, the principal speaker.

The Coleman delegation is expected to be one of the largest attending the convention. A massed band concert is being planned for Sunday afternoon about 3:30 or 4:00 o'clock, with the Ballinger band, the Coleman band, and the Stamford fire department band taking part. Complete details have not been arranged yet but announcement will be made as soon as possible.

COOLIDGE FAVORS GENEVA MEETING

(By Associated Press)

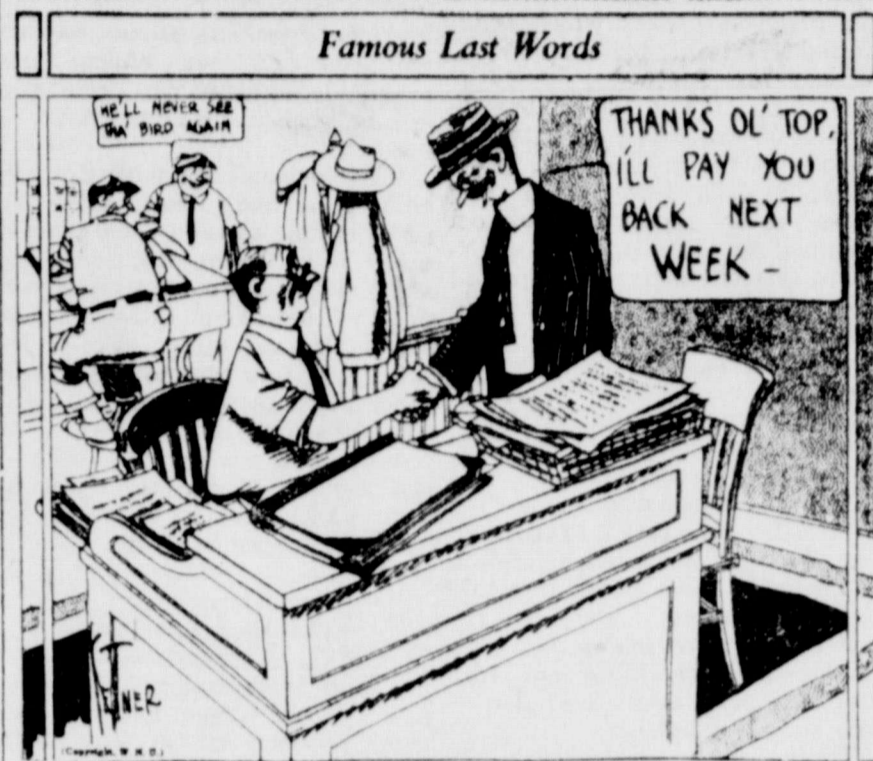

PAULS SMITH, N. Y., Aug. 3.—President Coolidge today was said to be desirous of doing all possible to assure the success of the Geneva conference for the limitation of arms. Officials said he would consider as unfortunate action toward any other limitation conference which might hinder the success of the Geneva conference.

MEXICAN CATHOLICS CONTINUE TO PRAY

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO, D. F., August 3.—Counseled by religious leaders to keep to the paths of peace and moderation, Mexican Catholics today continued praying for a solution of the problem resulting from the government's religious regulations and the withdrawal of the priests from the churches. As a further protest, the people in many parts of the republic ceased to buy anything except barest essentials, although the effect is not felt much here. President Calles rejected the episcopates proposal for a truce, but peace negotiations are going on behind the scenes. DALLAS, Aug. 3.—Veterans of three Mexican revolutions have pledged their arms to support President Elias P. Calles' religious policy, Cantu Lara, Mexican consul here announced this afternoon. The delegation from the Dallas Mexican colony called upon the consulate and offered to return to Mexico and serve in the army if needed.

Joe Whitman Dies After Being Hit by Automobile

Jodie Whitman, age 33 years, died Tuesday morning at 4:40 o'clock in the Halley & Love Sanitarium from injuries sustained Monday night about 9:00 o'clock when he was struck by a Ford roadster driven by Joe Spoons.

Jodie, as he has been known in Ballinger for the past fifteen or sixteen years, was going to his aunt's home, Mrs. J. W. Lindley, on Ninth Street, when Earl Crawford, with whom he had come to town in a car, stopped and asked him to ride back home with him. Joe was on Eighth Street near the residence of Mrs. Tom Ward, and had started out to get in Mr. Crawford's car when the car driven by Mr. Spoons hit him, carried him about ten feet and then let him fall to the ground.

Joe was carried to the Halley & Love Sanitarium by Owen Powell and James Odiorne, where an examination was made.

The examination revealed that the young man had received a fractured skull and several other injuries. He was conscious up to a short time before his death. It was not thought he was seriously injured at first.

Mr. Spoons stopped his car immediately after the accident and went to the assistance of those who were already gathered around the injured man. He later went to the sanitarium where he remained for some time.

Those who witnessed the accident declared that it was unavoidable and that Joe had gone into the street before Mr. Spoons saw him. Mr. Spoons was driving at a low rate of speed and stopped just as soon as he saw he had struck someone. He rendered what assistance he could to the injured man.

Joe's full name was Joseph Lawson Whitman. He came to Ballinger from Wyoming in 1909 with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lindley, and has lived here since.

Mr. Lindley lived on the Colorado River, five or six miles West of Ballinger for many years. He died some few years ago, leaving a widow and his nephew, Joe Whitman.

Mrs. Lindley and Joe later moved to Ballinger, and have been living in the city for the past two or three years. Mrs. Lindley is the only relative the unfortunate man had in this section of the country. His father, Nelson Whitman, lives in Wyoming. Joe is survived by other relatives in Wyoming and Kentucky.

Joe had worked on many farms in this county and had been assistant to carpenters in this city. He was a member of the Ballinger Baptist church.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Baptist church, with Dr. Alvin Swindell, pastor of the church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Evergreen Cemetery.

The body was prepared for burial by C. G. Jennings of the undertaking department of Higginbotham Bros. & Co.

Misses May Moore and Ima McKown have returned from a ten-day visit to friends in Vernon, Wichita Falls and Quannah.

Miss Hedwig Michaelis is resting very well following an operation performed in the Halley & Love Sanitarium.

"Yakalos," a New Meat, Finer Grained Than Beef

(By Associated Press)
WAINWRIGHT, Alta., August 2.—The new breed of livestock called "Yakalos" is being developed in the national park at Wainwright by crossing buffalos with yaks.

"Yakalos" combine the meat producing qualities of the yak with the foraging characteristics of the buffalo, said G. B. Rothwell, director of the animal husbandry division of the department of agriculture. The new animals breed true to type, he said, and have proved more adaptable than "cattalo," evolved several years ago by crossing buffalo with domestic cattle. Cattalos are sterile.

The meat of the Yakalos is described as almost identical with beef, aside from being finer grained. The animals are hardy, can forage for themselves, are capable of wintering in the open, and are resistant to many of the common diseases of domestic cattle.

PASTOR AND WOMAN KILLED IN CHURCH

(By Associated Press)
MORGANTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Rev. Moss, an evangelist, and Mrs. Jerome Robinson were shot and killed last night at a church near here while the opening hymn of the revival services was being sung.

The preacher toppled from the pulpit and the woman in the front row died an hour later from bullets fired through a window.

The preacher's attacks on the bootlegger are believed to have been the cause of the shooting. Clifford Wilson was arrested following the shooting.

Calendar for August 1920 with days of the week and dates 1-31.

Over in McCullough county, at the town of Brady, two women are in the run-off for county treasurer. No doubt it will be an interesting little marathon.

Davidson was prompt in congratulating Moody and offering his services to assist in completing the job, and Mrs. Ferguson made a motion to make it unanimous by withdrawing from the race, but so far nothing has been heard from the other two ladies and Zim.

Coleman city officials hold themselves out to be better financiers than Ballinger because they put over a street paving campaign without a bond issue.

One of our subscribers finds fault with The Ledger for boosting the cotton crop, and sees calamity ahead for the farmer if the county turns out a 100,000 bale crop. A hundred thousand bale crop is hardly probable, but entirely possible, and the bigger the better it will be for Rannels county farmers and every other interest in the county.

The writer is not a pessimist, calamity howler, or anything of the sort, but we sometimes wonder what would be the result if some of the credit was squeezed out of the automobile business. We have reached that stage in motoring where every family has one or more cars to keep up while paying the installments on the purchase price.

Both the state and the defense in the Norris murder trial have been using publicity pretty freely to give their side of the story. Trying the case in the newspapers is a poor way to arrive at a just verdict, and we predict that the court will experience some difficulty in selecting a dozen men to pass on the evidence. It is a case in which the state will challenge the right of a Baptist to sit on the jury and the defense will attempt to bar Catholics, and ninety-nine out of every one hundred men who read, and who have listened in on the radio for the last few years will be disqualified to pass on the guilt or innocence of the accused. It is one of those unfortunate cases in which justice is side-tracked to give the right-of-way to prejudice.

MANCHURIAN TREES FOR PLAINS OF WEST TEXAS

LUBBOCK, Aug. 3.—The wind-blown wastes of Manchuria have been called upon by experts of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station here to furnish protection and shade for the treeless plains of West Texas.

Ten thousand Chinese elm trees have been propagated so far and distributed throughout the plains country with excellent results, R. E. Karper, assistant director of the experiment station, states. The distribution is to continue as fast as new growths can be raised, he added.

Three hundred pounds of Chinese elm seed for planting are being gathered at widely separated stations in China by the University of Nanking's representatives for shipment to the station here, Mr. Karper said. A recent letter expresses hope that "conditions will be found sufficiently peaceful where we sent the men so that there will be no difficulty in making the collection."

Because of an extensive root system, the Chinese elm has high adaptability to semi-arid sections, the assistant director declared. It is an ideal shade tree, having a dense leaf growth which adds to its value as a windbreak. Furthermore, it grows as well in the cities as on farms and because of its ability to propagate itself, provided a late fall is experienced, is destined to prove a real acquisition to the arboreal life of the West, Mr. Karper believes.

In California, just now, and not very kindly, perhaps they are talking about an "Aimee Semple McPherson sandwich" —holoney and lots of apple sauce. —Portland Journal.

GRAY AND GREEN ARE COMBINED IN NOVEL TWO-PIECE FROCK

THE fashionable two-piece frock so popular the past few seasons is being shown this Summer in contrasting colored skirt and blouse. White skirts with gray colored blouses and blending combinations of skirt and blouse are featured in the smarter shops and are expected to lead in favor for Summer wear.

Marcelline Day, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player, is one of the first to sponsor this fashion by appearing in a novel two-piece frock of gray and Kelly green in "The Boy Friend," a forthcoming M-G-M production. The skirt of pearl gray Canton Crepe is knife pleated at intervals, and the blouse of green is trimmed with pearl gray buttons down the front and the sides. Note the novel way in which the blouse is cut away in front.

Veteran of Five Wars, Texan Over 100 is Spry as Youth

(By Associated Press)

BANDERA, Tex., Aug. 3.—Almost 80 years ago Amasa Clark fought Mexicans before the defenses of their national capital and today he lives here, a spry man of 100, cutting cord wood and digging post holes.

He is the only Texas survivor of the Mexican War of 1847-48 and one of eleven veterans of that war still living. Bearded like a Santa Claus but preserved like an oak, he has resided here 74 years and has come to be an institution.

Clark has a ranch near here on which he grubs trees and repairs fences as though he were only half his age. He cut the wood for the great barbecue which celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary last September and he can swing an axe better than a man of 50 can swing a golf club.

Born in Socarrie county, New York, Sept. 3, 1825, just a few years after Andrew Jackson whipped the British at New Orleans, this old veteran has passed through five wars and has seen come to pass things that were undreamed of wonders in his youth.

At the same time, in this sage's wisdom, not everything old is to be despised as useless and not everything modern is to be desired. He attended a rodeo at San Antonio last summer, riding to the city of the Alamo in a luxurious limousine. But in the rodeo parade he declined to ride in the car, preferring a seat in an old-fashioned hackboard beside another aged pioneer.

Unlike most centenarians, he has no receipt for longevity. He says he has taken only one drink of hard liquor in his life and that was attended with such strange results that he never attempted to repeat.

"One day in Mexico City," he relates, "I was offered a drink of Mexican brandy and took a big swallow. When I stepped out onto the street my head began to swim, my feet became wobbly and the buildings seemed to be swaying. I had about decided that I was drunk for the first time in my life, but in a few minutes people began to pour out of their houses and run pell mell down the street. It turned out to be an earth tremor and I wasn't drunk after all."

Veteran Clark's stories of the Mexican struggle are sought by many in these parts, and he himself, like an ancient record, is considered something of an original source. His memory of those far distant events, which were implanted in his mind, is very fresh. He tells of the final assault on Mexico City as follows:

"We took by storm the strong position of Molino del Rey (King's Mill) on September 8th, and the demoralized enemy fled toward Chapultepec, where we had a bloody struggle. Chapultepec Castle, the residence of the Mexican president, stood on an eminence and was almost impregnable, but our men began the assault with a determination to do or die.

"We approached with a rush, going from tree to tree, and many times having to take open ground under a withering fire from the Mexicans, but we kept right on until we went over the walls and the castle was ours. From its tower our flag soon floated and cheer after cheer rent the air. The next day General Scott at the head of our army entered the Mexican capital in triumph. That was almost 80 years ago, but I still remember it with a thrill."

"PERSONALITY" OF GREAT AUDITORIUMS NOW RECORDED

Acoustical Individuality of Mormon Tabernacle Captured by New Scientific Development.

The Great Tabernacle at Salt Lake City

AMONG the world's great auditoriums recognized as having a distinct acoustical "personality," one of the best known and most unusual is the "Mormon" Tabernacle, at Salt Lake City, that unique structure which arose in the desert, out of the dreams of the Utah pioneers. Recently as a result of scientific research, the individuality of this auditorium has been successfully recorded for talking machine records so accurately that a person familiar with the acoustical properties of the structure could, it is said, identify from a hearing of the records the place in which they were made.

Begun in 1847, and completed nearly fifty years later, the Mormon Tabernacle is one of America's most unusual structures, architecturally as well as acoustically. Designed and built by the early Mormon pioneers, without any kind of technical or engineering assistance from the outside, the building was so well constructed that it has never required any substantial repairs.

Tied With Buffalo Hide. Its vast trussed and domed roof, built in conformity with correct principles of acoustical design, is of wood, held together with wooden pine, and tied with strips of the hides of cattle and buffalo. The original shingle roof has in late years been replaced with metal, but the vast wooden trusses re-

White as Cotton Face Now Ruddy

Says Mrs. Wolcott—All the Terrible Aches, Pains and Sour Bills Sickness Gone

Like many other folks thereabouts, Mrs. Wolcott was a picture of misery. She says: "I was ghastly white as cotton, all thinned out, bilious all the time, terrible headaches, bones creaked as if they would snap apart, ached all over, could hardly walk or lift an arm; had been taking calomel steadily, and it made me so deathly sick I was completely discouraged. Then one day my cousin who lives near the state line came on a visit and she had a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic. My! what a change. It gave me new courage. We sent to town for two bottles, and since then my face is filled out, with a ruddy glow. Gained over twenty pounds and am the picture of health. Whenever I feel bilious or constipated I take a dose of Dodson's Liver Tonic and it works just fine. This wonderful liver tonic is sold by all druggists and is absolutely guaranteed to start your liver without making you sick. Get a bottle today, and when you feel sick, bilious, sluggish, constipated, with dull headache, Dodson's Liver Tonic will put you to rights every time. Try it today."

WEAK, RESTLESS

Tennessee Lady Had So Little Strength She "Couldn't Get Around." Took Cardui With Benefit.

Gassaway, Tenn.—"I wasn't able to do any of my work, and it seemed like I had so little strength I just couldn't get around," says Mrs. Frank Murphy, who lives near here. "My mother knew of the good Cardui could do, so she told me to take it. I sent and got a bottle, and seemed like all the time I grew stronger. "I had been suffering with pains in my sides all the time, and Cardui helped this wonderfully. I needed a tonic for female trouble, and Cardui just fitted the need. I was awfully restless and could not sleep at night, but after taking two bottles of Cardui I could sleep 'like a top'. I got along all right, and I know it was due to Cardui. I can certainly recommend it to women suffering from women's troubles. "My present health is just fine." Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui relieved them of pain and suffering, and helped them to improve in health and strength. Cardui is perfectly harmless, being an extract of mild-acting herbs, and contains no dangerous drugs or harmful ingredients. Sold everywhere. NC-176

Create Amazing Ballroom Jungle for 'The Savage'

One of the most elaborate sets that has ever graced a First National picture is seen in "The Savage," which will be shown at the Queen Theatre here Wednesday and Thursday.

The set was designed by Milton Menasco, art director for the Eastern units of First National, and just about presents the last word in jungle scenes. If a person were suddenly to awake in the middle of this set he might well think he had been transported during his sleep to an island far below the equator.

Cocconut trees, jungle growth, monkeys chattering in the tree tops, a sparkling stream of water pouring down over the rocks and finally disappearing in the thick jungle growth in a small stream, wild animals darting here and there—these are but a few of the sights to be seen in this magnificent setting.

It is here that one of the most colorful scenes of the picture was staged. It is a jungle ball. About one hundred extras were used in this scene, in which many innovations have been introduced, one of which is a monkey orchestra perched in the tree tops furnishing the music for the dancers, who are all attired in the skin of some wild animal.

The exteriors of the picture were filmed later in the lower end of Florida, where the units went aboard a specially chartered yacht.

Ben Lyon is seen in this picture in the title role of the Savage. He spent a full month developing a beard and shaggy hair especially for the occasion, and at the start of the picture he needed little aid from the make-up man to look the part.

May McAvoy is the charming, as usual, feminine lead.

Fred Newmeyer directed under the supervision of Earl Hudson. Nick Barrows did the "gags." "The Savage" was screened from an original story written by Ernest Pascal. The continuity was written by Jane Murfin and Charles Whittaker.

Bailey is 1904 Beau Brummel in "Lazybones"

William Norton Bailey, who plays Elmer Ballister in the Wm. Fox production of Owen Davis' "Lazybones," showing for the last time tonight at the Queen Theatre, is supposed to be the richest man in town and therefore the Beau Brummel of the picture.

Each of the suits in which he appears is the last word in the fashions of the time, as are all the little accessories. Much time was spent going over the old prints gathered from the various men's magazines of the periods represented in the picture. Cravats and collars had to be carefully copied and out-of-the-way stores in the older sections of Los Angeles were ransacked for the ornate jewelry of the time. Frank Borzage, who has a long line of screen triumphs in his favor, directed the picture, his first under the banner of William Fox.

Charles ("Buck") Jones heads an exceptional all-star cast which includes Madge Bellamy, Zasu Pitts, Jane Novak and Edythe Chapman.

"DOUBLE BARREL" COW BRINGS IN THE PROFITS

(By Associated Press)

CROCKETT, Tex., Aug. 3.—The "double barrel" cow has brought money into the pockets of F. A. Smith, owner of a farm near here. A herd of 60 purebred milking Shorthorn cows, headed by a bull for which he paid $1,000, has proved the most worthwhile investment of the farm.

A "double barrel" cow, as defined by Mr. Smith, is one that will produce a fair quantity of milk of reasonable fat content and when the lactation period is over will put on flesh, so that a good sale can be made as a beef animal. The calves will make good veal, baby beef, or if there is sufficient cheap pasture land, produce a profitable feeder steer.

"A calf from a dual purpose cow will be profitable to feed and maintain," Mr. Smith said.

Horses of 3500 Years Ago Buried in Coffins

(By Associated Press)

CAIRO, Aug. 3.—The first mummified horse known to history has been unearthed here near Sakkara pyramid by the Department of Antiquities of the Egyptian government.

The horse is estimated by American archaeologists to be about 3,500 years old. It was found in a large wooden coffin, indicating that animals in ancient Egyptian times were buried in a similar manner to human beings, the Egyptians believing them to be possessed of a "soul."

The horse is more than sixteen hands in measurement and is in remarkably good condition.

Cattle Association Still Trails Texas Cattle Thieves

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, August 3.—Wherever the cattle thief is to be found along the "last frontier," the field inspector of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association is redoubling his vigilance since the recapture of Milt Good. For Tom Ross, Good's "partner," is still at large.

Ross and Good still have more than a hundred years to do between them in the Texas penitentiary on conviction of killing two field inspectors of the cattle raisers at Seminole, Texas, in 1924—W. D. Allison and H. L. Roberson. Aided by the association, the state captured Ross and Good, convicted and confined them. Then they made a sensational escape.

Good was recently captured.

"Ross next," was the only comment the inspectors had to make.

The Seminole slayings are but an episode in the history of the association, an organization unlike any other in the world. After fifty years, romance still rides with the field inspector of the cattle raisers. For him, the Old West is far from history. Cattle stealing is still an organized industry. Two-gun desperadoes still vow vengeance on the field inspector.

The Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association was organized in 1877 as the Northwest Texas Cattle Raisers, for the purpose of making the great cattle drives of that day. Its first foes were avowed outlaws who drove cattle openly from their owners' ranges. "Shooting it out" was then the principal recourse. Occasionally it is still the only recourse.

Allison and Roberson went into the Seminole country to arrest Ross and Good on information that they had stolen more than 500 head of cattle belonging to association members. They were sitting in the lobby of a small hotel at the county seat town when two men appeared. There was a volley and the field inspectors fell dead.

The association retains Dayton Moses as its permanent attorney to prosecute cattle thieves and slayers of its inspectors. Through his efforts and those of the field and market inspectors, who know every one of the 3,000 brands of its members, thousands of dollars are saved the membership annually.

"Mavericking" and "brand burning" of association cattle have long been risky enterprises.

Women Prisoners Make Clothing for Entire Penitentiary System

(By Associated Press) HUNTSVILLE, Tex., Aug. 3.—Clothes for the entire prison population are made by the women prisoners on the Goree prison farm, one of the most interesting units of the system. About two score negro and one score white women on the average are kept on this prison farm, where the population slowly changes.

In the Texas prison system, nearly all the convicts wear white straight pants and jackets. A few of the desperate ones, those particularly detested by fellow convicts, wear the black and white striped trousers.

It is quite some job, the women prisoners say, to make the clothes for the 3,600 men who work on the 14 farms and behind the Walls in the different shops at Huntsville.

The clothing shop is under the direction of N. A. Quist, a cutter who came from Sweden and who has had charge of the shop for 17 years. Mr. Quist cuts all the material for men's clothing, while the women are permitted to cut their own from a bit better material.

J. D. Black is manager of the Goree farm, which is several miles from here. The farm is on a high hill, for this low region, and consists of 1,000 acres, 125 of which are under cultivation and which furnish vegetables for the women.

The farm has a herd of beef and dairy cattle, and the prisoners in charge of the herds take great interest in their products.

The white women have quarters separate from the negroes, and after working hours are over they are permitted to sew, enjoy the radio and have music. In the clothing shop, where most of them work, the negro women work on one long bench, while the white women, on the other side of the building, do most of the sewing on machines.

The buildings on the farm are the regular type of prison building provided in Texas. Although the prisoners are permitted considerable freedom on the farm, they are not permitted to leave the farm and at night are kept in the iron-barred buildings.

A few white and negro men trustees from the Walls at Huntsville are kept at the farm to do the heavy work, such as running the power plant and doing the plowing and other manual labor. However, many of the women, most of them negro women, like to work in the fields, particularly if they find it difficult to adapt themselves to sewing and other work at the farm.

One feature of the women prisoners was pointed out in regard to their apparent youthfulness. Because of the regulated and undissipated lives they lead on the farm, wrinkles disappear from their faces and they look about half as old as they say they are. They do not use cosmetics, their sleeping, working and eating hours are regular, and gray-haired women have youthful faces.

The women are sometimes punished, usually by solitary confinement. Occasionally, a prisoner is whipped. A negro woman recently was whipped because she tried to stab another negro, and another who attacked the wife of the manager was whipped.

There is only one Mexican woman prisoner on the farm. The only thing she remembers is that she was sent up from Webb county so many years ago that she cannot recall the crime she committed.

On this farm is one woman, Ellen Etheridge, who is called "406." She was sent up from Bosque county for killing four step-children, being sentenced to 100 years for each death, and then was sentenced to six years for attempting to kill a fifth child.

"Four hundred and six" said she didn't mind prison life so much. "I pick berries in the summer time and make rag carpets in the winter time. They treat me pretty well."

This woman is in her late fifties. Her hair is grey, and she wears spectacles, just like anybody's grandmother. When asked if the women were punished, she said, "Yep, sometimes, but they deserve it. They are not whipped half as much as they ought to be. Some of these women are just naturally mean ones."

Lillian Broussard, of Fort

Worth, is here serving the first part of a 20-year sentence for murder. When she was tried several years ago in Tarrant county, her case attracted considerable attention.

The state has to care for the young children of the women sent to the prison farm. At times there are several small children on the farm, and they are usually petted by the other prisoners.

Among these women prisoners are found murderers, forgers, drug addicts, bootleggers and thieves. Most of the negro women are forgers and thieves.

Raging About the Bobbed Hair

(By Associated Press) JERUSALEM, Aug. 3.—That bobbed hair existed 3,000 years ago and was the preferred style of hair-dress among the women of certain early races is the belief of Dr. William Bode, professor of Old Testament and Semitic Literature in the University of California.

Professor Bode's evidence is a marble head of Astarte, the "Queen of Heaven," mentioned in the Bible, which he found among the ruins of Mizpah. The hair of this sacred stone lady is luxuriant, is lopped short at the neck, plastered down on the cranium and is carefully parted in the middle.

LANDAU, Bavaria, Aug. 3.—The city council by a single vote defeated a bill which called for a tax of fifty marks a year on bob-haired women. The object of the measure was to tax the bob out of existence, as even the parents of bob-haired girls above ten years would have had to pay the tax.

But the fight on the "budi-kopf," as it is called, continues apace. Councilman Siebersberger, father of the defeated bill, threatens to make a political issue of shorn locks, the sight of which, he said, "brings pain to every real German man's heart."

PARIS, Aug. 3.—A Paris court has decided that a wife who has her hair bobbed without her husband's authorization justifies her husband in addressing severe remarks to her and which do not excuse her if she abandons her husband on account of them.

The case arose when a husband obtained a separation order on the grounds of desertion, which the wife allowed to go by default. Later the wife, nineteen years old, opposed the judgment declaring that she left her husband only because he had insulted her with his remarks about bobbed hair.

The court sustained the separation order saying:

"However unpleasant the epithets used by the husband may have been, they were based on the fact that the wife had had her hair cut short without her husband's authorization."

VIENNA, Aug. 3.—Officials of the Juvenile Club of Weissenbach, comprising 2,000 members, have given notice to female members of the organization that bobbed hair will no longer be tolerated. They declare that bobbed hair is "barbaric" and "unfeminine." Those girl members who have clipped their hair will be given a year in which to allow it to grow.

SOLD $3,000 WORTH OF TOMATOES OFF 4 ACRES

(By Associated Press)
 McALLEN, Tex., Aug. 3.—Starting the plant in cold frames, transplanting it to the field when the weather is favorable, and staking and pruning of the plant is the formula for success in tomato raising given by H. J. Weisman, who this season sold more than $3,000 of tomatoes from four acres on his farm a mile and a half from here. Mr. Weisman moved to the Rio Grande Valley from Peoria, Ill. This season he raised his first crop of tomatoes. The tomatoes were generally uniform, with few culls. Mr. Weisman attributed this to staking and pruning.

Mr. Weisman considers that he was fairly successful, considering that this is his first attempt at growing tomatoes and that he disregarded all local advice by staking. Anyhow, Mr. Weisman did stake and prune his tomatoes, and he raised so many that it is said staking and pruning will be decidedly popular in the Valley next year.

He started the plants in the cold frames in January and planted in the field with a transplanting machine. He was much pleased with the character of work done by the transplanting machine.

CREDIT AND DIVERSIFIED FARMING

When a farmer applies for a loan he is usually asked a very significant question.

"How many crops do you plant?"

The reason for this credit inquiry is that the financial safety of the farmer is almost certain if he does not depend on one or two crops for his investment returns.

The far-sighted farmer runs no risks, and thus guarding against failure, is considered a good liability when he is in need of financial assistance.
