"THE STORK" IS BANNED BY U. S. GOVERNMENT

(By International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 28.—Uncle Sam officially disavows the stork.
Through the children's bureau of the department of labor, the government has taken up the printing press against the old bird in a campaign of extermination.

"Do not tell the child fanciful tales about the stork and the doctor's bag," the bureau's medical experts warn in a new bulletin on child management. "This will soon be an insult to his intelligence."

Dr. D. A. Thom, director of mental hygiene for Massachusetts, author of the proposed program for scientific education of the pre-school child in personal hygiene, advocates complete frankness between parents and children at all ages.

"A large percentage of all mental conflicts and abnormalities in adults and children either are directly caused or are colored by unfortunate attitudes or experiences with this ever-present force," the bulletin says.

"The very fact that sex as a subject for discussion is always tabooed in the presence of the child accounts for the intense curiosity which many children develop at an early age regarding the subject."

"Clear, frank answers, suited to the child's intelligence and development will satisfy his interest for the moment, whereas emphasizing the matter by 'hushing' will make him only the more determined to find out why, and what it is all about."

EARTHQUAKE UNEARTHS FINE MEXICAN JADE

(By Trens News Agency)
MEXICO CITY, July 28.—Fifteen fine samples of jade were brought to light in a tomb in the ruins of Monte Alban, state of Oaxaca, which was opened by recent earthquakes. The pieces have already been classified and added to the fine collection already in the National Museum and consisting of nearly six hundred pieces.

Indications are that some of the pieces of jade were subjected to fire, probably being left on the body when this was incinerated. Some of the pieces are elaborately carved and one, a small head, is considered very valuable as an archaeological find as giving exact indications as to the period of the ruins and the race of the inhabitants.

The jade is classified as neozapotec.

GRAIN IN OLD GRAVES SHOW BARREN DESERT ONCE FERTILE LAND

(By International News Service)
CAIRO, July 27.—Small scattered settlements dating back to the oldest period yet known in the Nile Valley have been excavated by the British School of Archaeology in Egypt who for the past five years have been making researches on the east bank of the river.
Adjoining these small villages, situated on the tops of steep slopes are the remains of closely packed cemeteries containing about 250 graves. The excavators have named the place "Baadarian" after the town of El-Baadar, near which the discovery was made.

The Baadarians evidently lived at a time when there was an abundance of rain in northern Africa, a period corresponding to the last Ice Age in Europe, for the discovery of grains of cereal proves that land which now is barren desert covered with reeds and marshland, was then cultivated soil.
The Baadarians used not only stone and bone for making their implements, arms and vases. They also worked in copper. At that time, this metal was very rare, and robbers have looted almost all the copper relics from the graves.

Eclipsing all previous crowds assembled here for a political speech, during the current campaign, 2,500 people heard Louis J. Wardlaw in his final plea for election to the gubernatorial chair here last night. Worn from his intensive campaign and apparently suffering slightly from an infected throat, Judge Wardlaw expressed his appreciation for the honor paid him by Runnels county citizens in the homecoming extended him, and launched into the issues of the campaign.

Some seventy persons were seated on the platform erected specially for the speaking, and the Wardlaw family, consisting of the candidate's parents and five brothers, occupied a prominent place with the group. In presenting the speaker, Judge Paul Trimmer called attention to his family, who arose in acknowledgement of his introduction, and the audience applauded enthusiastically.

Reviewing the life of Judge Wardlaw here, Judge Trimmer pointed out that he was reared on the farm, taught in the public schools, was admitted to the bar, practiced law in nearby counties, and served as county attorney and judge of Sutton county. "We who know him resent the charge that he is any man's candidate!" Judge Trimmer exclaimed, and this statement was received with an ovation.

Judge Wardlaw paused in the early part of his address to pay tribute to those of his former friends in the county who have departed, and he mentioned the names of several who played an important role in the development of Runnels county. Summarizing their contributions to the progress of West Texas, he said, "They have gone to their reward, and left you and me a heritage of which we should be proud."

With the exception of local references, the address was similar to those delivered elsewhere during the campaign. Jibes at Governor Moody invariably brought ripples of laughter from the crowd, and when the name of Jim Ferguson was mentioned in connection with that of Moody, the audience burst into laughter. "I have been accused of being a puppet of Jim Ferguson,"

NERVOUS HEADACHE

Kentuckian Tells How Taking Black-Draught Relieved His Pains and How Well He Feels Now.

Waynesburg, Ky.—How a few doses of Theodor's Black-Draught brought relief to a man who had been suffering from frequent spells of severe headache, is told below in the statement of Mr. Charles F. Todd, of Estesburg, near this place.

"I was suffering with nervous headaches. About once a week I would have these headaches, and have to quit work, and go to bed for about twenty-four hours. I would have pains in my neck, and right behind my right ear. A merchant at Estesburg saw me one day when I was suffering, and told me to try taking Black-Draught, which I did.

"I took a package home that night, and took a few doses. It relieved me. From that time on, I would take Black-Draught as soon as I felt like I was going to have one of those headaches—and they wouldn't come on.

"Every few weeks, I take three or four doses of Black-Draught, and I feel so well, and do my work, and don't lose any more time with headache. I haven't had a headache in six months."

Costs only one cent a dose. Get a package today. NC-189

DOES THE SHOE PINCH?

The shoe bill pinches all but the favored few—so does the new shoe.

Why not give your feet a real treat and buy new soles from our shop, instead of new shoes?

They will look as good as new—and feel better. There is as much difference in the quality of Resoles and the skill in applying them, as between good and cheap new shoes—more perhaps.

Skilled workmen in our shop, rebuild shoes with the most modern shoe factory machinery.

Hard, flinty, heavy weighing, acid-swelled, thick soles are dear at any price. In our shop, we resole with the same weight of leather that your shoe was originally built to carry. We do not "cobble"—we rebuild.

If you look in your closet tonight you will probably find several pairs of shoes needing new soles or new heels.

Bring them in to us and save the price of a new pair of shoes.

Thomas Meighan Coming in New Paramount Production

Here comes Thomas Meighan in a new type of role—two new types in fact. No Meighan vehicle in recent years has been crowded with so much action. "We're All Gamblers" is the name of the production. It was directed for Paramount by James Cruze, maker of "The Covered Wagon" and "Old Ironsides," and it opens Monday for two-day engagement at the Palace Theatre.

It's said to be a great story. It shows the star as a youngster at the start—a waif on a New York East River dock who is picked up by a policeman and taken in by a kindly woman as her son. By the time he reaches manhood, he is a contender for the heavyweight championship, a celebrity who stirs the interest of an aristocratic woman. An automobile injury prevents him from winning the title and he eventually becomes the proprietor of a night club.

The early scenes of the fight, an auto accident and East Side life are tense and exciting. The night club's New Year celebration later brings about a thrilling climax.

Supporting Mr. Meighan is a brunette beauty from Vienna, Marietta Miller. She has appeared in only one American picture before this, but her future is assured. That dear old lady, Gertrude Claire, the Grandmother in "The Goose Hangs High," adds charm to the film.

The screen play by Hope Loring is based on Sidney Howard's stage play, "Lucky Sam McCarver."

Dr. and Mrs. O. F. Sensabaugh returned to their home in Dallas Friday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Padgett here.

WARDLAW--

Judge Wardlaw declared. "Although I entered the campaign as Louis J. Wardlaw, Gov. Moody would have you believe that I am the echo of Jim Ferguson. If anyone should know anything about Jim Ferguson, Dan Moody should. He was on the same platform with him four years ago, and even sought his aid and support then."

Asserting that a campaign for re-election to the second term should be unnecessary, the speaker pointed out that if the administration of the governor had been efficient, he would not consider a campaign, but would merely give an account of his tenure. "You will recall," he said, "that Dan Moody said he would make no campaign for re-election. Later he said he would speak in the large cities only, and 60 days ago I predicted that he would be in a whirlwind of activity before the campaign closed. Now he is making from three to five speeches daily, howling Fergusonism, seeking to disguise the fact that he owes the people an accounting for his acts in office."

Wardlaw charged that the governor has been juggling figures throughout his campaign. "He has not told you all of the facts in the campaign. He has not told you that the highway commission has spent only $17,000,000 on highways, and has a balance of $3,000,000, whereas $34,000,000 was collected. He hasn't told you that taxes have increased $4,000,000, twice the amount of any previous governor. He hasn't told you that the judiciary change he instituted is costing the taxpayers $750,000 more per year. It isn't a time for the governor to howl 'Wolf!' but it is a time for him to defend his record. "But this he isn't doing," he continued. "Instead, he is stumping the state, crying out that the ghost of Fergusonism is stalking over him. You will recall that two years ago he promised to bury the Fergusons for all time through election to the office of governor, but again he is attempting to ride into office on this same horse."

Judge Wardlaw attacked the fish, game, and oyster commission, as well as the appointive power exercised by Governor Moody in the alleged "irregular selections he made. He offered remedies for the evils he attacked.

A band concert was given by the Ballinger Booster Band, under the direction of H. H. Carsey. The crowd began gathering at 7 o'clock, and a steady stream of people poured onto the court house lawn before the speaking began. Every one of the
