Turkey Market Opens at 30c

The 1928 turkey market is officially open today, following a custom of several years not to open the regular marketing of birds until some time after November 1. A good number of birds were offered this week and the price was considered fair by the producers, the birds bringing as high as 30 cents. The market price for the birds is only 28 cents but buyers are paying as high as 30 cents. It is estimated by poultrymen and produce buyers generally that the crop is at least one-third short of normal this year and for this reason it has been expected all along that the price would be unusually high.

While 30 cents is a good price for the turkeys, many producers are waiting for better prices before disposing of their crop. Buyers argue, however, that to hold birds 30 days and feed them is to lose in the long run on account of the cost of feeding.

At least two and possibly three dressing plants will be in operation here, and the Farm Bureau will ship live birds. It is not yet known when the dressing plants will start, but it is thought the supply of birds will be big enough to justify the operation of the plants in possibly another week or 10 days.

Not to Issue Ledger Monday

The Daily Ledger will not be published Monday. In order that the employees of this office may take advantage of Armistice Day they will be given the day off. When night time rolls around on Monday and you have received no paper, don't blame the carrier boys for the failure to receive your paper, because none will be published. In memory of those who gave their lives for the purpose of ending wars, we should all set business aside Armistice Day and we join with the other millions of American citizens who will observe this day.

Child Run Down By Automobile Is Badly Crushed

Christine, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gibbs, of Brownwood was struck by an automobile, driven by a woman, the car passing over the child's chest and crushing it badly. This accident occurred in the vicinity of a private school in Brownwood which the child was attending, just as she had started to cross the street. The little girl stepped from behind one car into the pathway of the car which hit her, Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sturges of this city, after being notified immediately went to be at the bedside of the child and to offer condolence to the loved ones, Mrs. Sturges and Mr. Gibbs being sister and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Sturges returned Friday after the child had rallied and had shown signs of recovering from the accident. Last reports from the home of the parents indicated that without unforeseen complications the child was now well on the road to recovery.

It is not known whether his condition is serious.

Smith, defeated democratic candidate, will deliver a radio address next Tuesday night over a nation-wide hook-up, in which he will appeal to the democrats to forget recriminations of the past campaign and look to the future. (By International News Service)

Justices of Peace May Get Their Fee

(By International News Service)
 AUSTIN, Nov. 10.—Following the decision of the court of criminal appeals in holding that the fee system of compensating justices of the peace was unconstitutional, the attorney general's department today in an opinion to County Attorney W. J. Holt of McClean county held that justices of the peace shall continue to discharge their duties of their offices, but are not authorized to charge or collect fees, and also held that the commissioners' courts are authorized to pay ex-officio compensation to justices of the peace for services for which they are not authorized to collect fees.

Four Held for Daring Robbery

(By International News Service)
 FORT WORTH, Nov. 10.—Two women and two men are in custody of the police today in connection with the $53,000 train robbery of a mail train last night, when a lone masked bandit held up Texas & Pacific train No. 4, near Aledo and escaped with the loot which was being sent by Cisco, Abilene and Seymour banks to the Dallas Reserve Bank. All but $2700 was recovered in a handbag under a Summit Avenue viaduct.

When Fate Dealt the Cards

A "busted" royal flush was the last hand that Fate dealt to Arnold Rothstein, suave little king of the gamblers. The above poker hand symbolizes his colorful life: Ace of Diamonds, Rothstein got his first "break" in a poker game with Charlie Gates, the $40,000 he won starting him on the road to fortune; King of Diamonds, luck was consistent and Rothstein bought apartment houses and hotels right and left; Queen of Diamonds, he was happily married, shielding his wife from publicity of his profession; Jack of Diamonds, a royal flush seemed about to be his, and Rothstein pushed in all of his chips; Deuce of Spades, and the last card he got was death by an enemy's bullet.

After Quarter Century of Service Electric Light Globe Goes to the Bad

Sam Baker of the Ballinger lights plants, reminds us of the Stats Bank tells us a story about a light globe that he had put in his bathroom at his home on Thirteenth Street when the first light plant was installed in Ballinger more than 25 years ago. The globe had given continuous service over that number of years, when on Thursday night of this week it burned out and had to be replaced. Mr. Baker, like some of the rest of Ballinger's citizens, has been here almost as long as the town itself and knows just about when every institution in the city was started.

Ballinger's first light plant was established some time in the late '90s but it has been impossible to ascertain just exactly when. It is known, however, that Uncle Billie Miller, who ran the old flour mill here, and who established Runnels county's first gin, also established Ballinger's first light plant, later selling the same to Walter Norman, Gaston Hargrave and others. These men sold the property to the Ballinger Oil Mill and it in turn sold out to the Interstate interests who later sold to the West Texas Utilities company. The light globe in question was of the old carbon type and its long service is attributed to that fact. And again referring to the first

Stock Sale Will Close Tuesday

The sale of stock of the Oklahoma Natural Gas company, which was inaugurated some two weeks ago, will come to a close next Tuesday evening, after which time it is thought no more stock will be procurable. Judge O. L. Parish is the Ballinger representative for the company and is authorized to take subscriptions up to Tuesday night.

The company promises to pay its stockholders four dividends a year and features the fact that it comes just like Christmas, only four times as often.

Unique indeed is the company's idea of sharing their profits with their employees and we feel certain that an investment in this stock will not be a misplaced investment. The stock is selling at par, the company is serving some 70 Oklahoma and Texas towns with natural gas and it has local representation and is also serving Ballinger citizens. It expects to make extensions and improvements from time to time.

One example of the progressiveness of this firm, and done from which Ballinger will undoubtedly feel effects in a business way for many years to come, is the erection of its booster station just north of the city, near Hillcrest. Four cottages, a pump station and other improvements are being made. Besides this, the company maintains gas mains in the city, and also uses gas from the Watchhorn-King well in Runnels county. The possibilities of an investment in this corporation can not be foretold too readily, but to one uninterested, who is simply an observer of progress and improvement, it would seem to be a safe investment with the chances in favor of the investor that his stock would ultimately increase in value to where it would be worth many times the initial value.

MOVIES

Fairbanks Film a Rollicking Romance

Film enthusiasts will welcome the appearance of Douglas Fairbanks soon at the Palace Theatre when, from all indications, seating accommodations will be taxed to the limit.

Douglas Fairbanks as The Gaucho is a United Artists picture of Gauchos, pilgrims, banditry and conquest, and is heralded as a romance of unusual force and a spectacular appeal. The scenes are laid on the South American border in the pampas countries. Picturesque riders and vast herds appear, and there is a whirl of fierce conflict and plot suspense. The capture of the rich shrine city under the nose of the dictator of the country begins the story proper, following a spectacular prologue.

In the cast are Lupe Velez, as a wild, mountain girl; Eve Southern as "the girl of the miracle"; Gustav von Seyffertitz, the usurper; Michael Vavitch, his lieutenant; Charles Stevens, a Gaucho aide; Nigel de Brulier, the padre; Al MacQuarrie, a beggar; Fred de Silva, a cavalry officer, and a Cr-lotta Monti, a dancing girl.

Taking Law to the Lawless Theme Of Maynard Film

"Code of the Scarlet," Ken Maynard's latest western feature now playing at the Palace Theatre, tops anything this popular daredevil has ever done before, in the way of action, speed and dramatic appeal.

Ken has won a large and faithful following among screen fans, through his efforts to give everything he has to every picture, and "Code of the Scarlet" will not only maintain his reputation, but win him many new followers.

The action is laid in the Canadian Northwest, with Ken playing the part of a Royal Northwest Mounted Policeman, sent to a new and lawless region to maintain law and order. The story, it is said, has an unusual twist for plots of this kind.

The story is by Forrest Sheldon, who also wrote the adaptation and continuity. The cast includes such prominent players in support of Ken as Gladys McConnell, feminine lead, Ed Brady, J. P. McGowan, Dot Farley, Sheldon Lewis and Joe Rickson.

The direction was in the capable hands of Harry J. Brown who has supervised all of Maynard's productions. Another point to be stressed is the magnificent scenery and scenic effects obtained as the background for the action.

DEATHS

H. M. Kendrick

H. M. Kendrick of Concho county, whose home was 10 miles south of Paint Rock, died Thursday morning at 4 o'clock, at the age of 57 years 7 months and 17 days. Some four years ago Mr. Kendrick had the misfortune to have to undergo an operation in which one of his legs was amputated. He had overcome this to an extent and was, prior to his death, suffering with Bright's disease.

Mr. Kendrick was a prominent farmer and ranchman of Concho county and those left to mourn his death are his wife and three daughters.

Funeral services were held at Paint Rock, and interment was made in the Paint Rock cemetery at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, with Rev. Nicholson, Baptist pastor of Paint Rock, in charge. Higginbotham Bros. undertakers were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Bertha English, Mrs. Clara Adkins, Clyde, John, Guy, Melvin, Lawrence, Viola and Florence.

The Summers family is one of the most prominent in the Crews country and have resided in that section for many years. The family has a large circle of friends who will join The Ledger in extending sympathy in their hour of sadness.

Interment will be made in Evergreen Cemetery with Higginbotham Bros. undertakers in charge at the grave.

PRESERVING FLOWERS BY NEW PROCESS PLANNED BY SALZBURG BOTANIST

VIENNA, Nov. 10.—A new process for preserving flowers and other plants in any stage of development and for any length of time, has been discovered by Dr. Paul Tratz, director of the Salzburg National History Museum, according to a recent announcement.

The new process prevents decay of cells and consequently the plants retain their natural color and form, and a perfectly life-like appearance.

A collection of plants treated by the new process is now being prepared in the museum, which will be the only collection of its kind in the world.

LILL DILENZ PLANNING NEW ATLANTIC HOP WITH GERMAN WOMAN FLYER

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Lill Dilenz, beautiful Viennese actress, and Thea Rasche, noted German aviatrix, are secretly preparing a transatlantic flight from Berlin to New York next spring. Thea Rasche will pilot.

Frau Dilenz has twice attempted to make a transatlantic flight

Her first attempt failed when bad weather stopped her flight at the Azores. This spring she organized a second attempt and was just about ready to purchase the Junker's plane "Europa," sister ship of the Bremen in which Herman Koehl and Huenefeld crossed the Atlantic when her German backers withdrew after a dispute.

Thea Rasche, too, was balked in her attempt to fly from America to Europe by differences with her backers.

A Sale That Will Soon Be Over

Your banker will tell you that investment in public utility corporations is one of the best and safest available at this time. This is true of any well managed organization serving the public, but is especially the case with a concern like the Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation with a record of more than 20 years of success, which is serving nearly 70 cities and towns in Oklahoma, Kansas, and Texas, and which is dealing in so essential a commodity as natural gas.

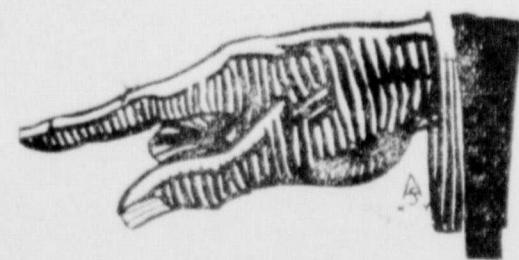

Now comes the opportunity to buy preferred stock in this corporation and make yourself a partner in one of the largest concerns of its kind in the United States.

As Regular as Christmas and Four Times as Often

The preferred stock of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation pays dividends at the rate of six and one-half percent annually. The dividend payments are made quarterly and come to you as regular as Christmas, only four times as often. Just as natural gas shields you and yours from the bitter blasts of winter, so will an investment in this preferred stock help repel the wolves of want in the cold days of old age. This stock will work for you tirelessly and unceasingly when you are no longer able to, and bring you an assured income, year in and year out. This stock may be purchased outright, or you may buy it on the installment plan, $10 down and $10 a month.

Just Two Days and this Sale of Stock Will End

Ballinger's quota of this issue of preferred stock is limited. The stock has met with an enthusiastic sale in every city where the Oklahoma Natural Gas Company does business as it has in Ballinger, and it is entirely possible that the entire issue may be sold before Tuesday night, November 12th, the date the sale closes. Your opportunity is now. Take advantage of it now. O. L. Parish will be more than glad to go into details of this proposition with you, and will take subscriptions up to Tuesday night, November 12th. The San Angelo District and one Oklahoma district, are the only ones that have not already oversubscribed the quota allotted to them.

POULTRY SHOW IS ATTRACTING INTEREST

Cotton Palace Records to Be Exceeded November 9 to 18

This year's poultry show at the Texas Cotton Palace Exposition in Waco, November 9 to 18, inclusive, is attracting more interest than any held in previous years, says John K. Strecker, who is in charge. Considering the fact that last year's show was one of the most notable held in the Southwest anticipations for a first class exhibit this year are justified.

Entries of the American Bantam Association, the Southwest Bantam Association, the Texas Silver Wyandotte Club, and two which were in the show last year: the Texas Branch of the American Cornish Club and the Texas White Plymouth Rock Club, are announced.

On account of the dates of the Cotton Palace, Nov. 9 to 18, is the time when poultry is in the best show condition, and the fact that the exhibit will last only 10 instead of 16 days, entries will be greatly increased, Strecker believes. Also, the Cotton Palace poultry show will follow the Dattas and the Shreveport fairs without overlapping their dates as formerly.

Special interest is being shown by local fanciers and breeders of fancy poultry throughout Central Texas and the state. Many of the national specialty clubs, including the National White Holland Turkey club, National White Leghorn club, National White Wyandotte club, and others, are offering special ribbons for Cotton Palace winners. Judges will be C. P. Van Winkle, editor of Poultry News, Dallas, and Walter Birkin, superintendent of the poultry department of the Texas State Fair, at Dallas.

COMFORTS FOR THE RELIEF OF VISITORS

Waco Exposition Makes Special Arrangements for Convenience of Guests This Year.

Any visitor who gets sick or loses a child while visiting the Texas Cotton Palace at Waco Nov. 9 to 18 this year, has already been provided for by the management of the exposition, it is learned. A hospital is being installed in the east end of the main building, with two beds, a trained nurse on duty 12 hours a day, and all necessary comforts for the relief of a sick person. No charge is to be made for service rendered the public.

Lost children will be taken to the hospital and put in charge of an attendant there until their parents call for them, and mothers losing track of their youngsters in the rush of fairground activity are advised to notify the hospital.

Lost articles will be turned over to the office in the main building and held for identification.

TRADES BALL TO BE HELD NIGHT NOV. 17

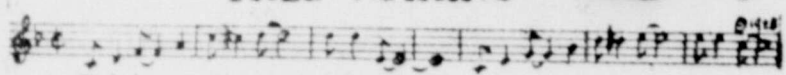

Revival of a custom of former years has been made by the Texas Cotton Palace exposition at Waco this year for the entertainment of Central Texans with the Waco Junior Chamber of Commerce to be in charge. This is the "trades ball" at which Waco merchants are hosts in the coliseum of the exposition, entertaining crowds that gather there on the night of Nov. 17 with stunts and novel exhibition of their wares.

It was at a trades ball several years back that a tiny girl, dressed in strings of balloons to represent a candy manufacturing concern, almost disrobed herself before the time for her stunt came by eating her costume. Whether any such fatality will happen this year remains to be seen, but the Junior chamber of commerce in Waco and Cotton Palace authorities are working together for a lively, amusing evening. Wholesale, retail, manufacturing and miscellaneous concerns are to compete in four classes for $200 in prizes.

Blotter Plays Part In Making of Popular Song

FRED WARING

At Least So Inquiring Foreigner Is Told

New York City.—Music is our best goodwill ambassador. Fred Waring, band master de luxe says so, and he ought to know. Right now he is playing at the Ambassadors in Paris. His popularity is exceeded only by Lindbergh's in that city.

"I find good music can keep people in good humor, better than any other device," he declared. "I wish of our lands never stopped playing in war time, there never would be any fighting. I have had peoples from dozens of countries come up and tell me that they can now understand why America is such a happy prosperous country."

Show Interest
"The questions foreigners have asked and the interest shown in American music is amazing. Everyone here wants to know how we write our music. Last night I was playing one of my favorite numbers, 'Say Yes Today,' and an Indian rajah came over after I had finished, and wanted to know all about the song. He was interested in knowing how it was written, and, trying to be accommodating, I gave him this yarn.

"The impression left on a blotter used by a worried young man at a writing desk in the lobby of one of the world's largest banks was the inspiration for this song, I explained.

Good Yarn
"The composer, Walter Donaldson, was making out a check at the same desk, and when the young man rose the composer picked up the blotter, which the young man had been using, to blot his check. Across it in large letters were 'Say Yes Today.' It was a new blotter and with the aid of a mirror as he held it upside down he read the sentence, 'You said you'd say yes soon, why don't you?' Donaldson liked the rhythm and then and there on the spot wrote the song. He never knew who the young man was, nor if she said yes, but he is making enough royalties out of the song to forget ever seeing else.

"For days after I had told this tale, the banks and hotels were flooded with Indian servants collecting used blotters."

WEST TEXAS NEWS NOTES

The section known in Hamlin as the Theatre Block because two of the theatres are there, is undergoing some beautification with the remodeling of the Palace. B. S. Ferguson, owner of the play house, is putting up a new front and adding new seats.

The new $100,000 schoolhouse at Post which was occupied for the first time November 5, has president's office, ante room, principal's office, book room, library, study hall, nine class rooms, auditorium, vocational agricultural laboratory, and chemistry, physics and home economics laboratories.

G. C. Magruder of Mertzon sold 4500 pounds of mohair at 83 and 73 cents to D. E. Hughes of San Angelo. This constituted the entire amount in storage in the warehouse at Mertzon. He also sold several hundred pounds of short wool for 34 and 35 cents.

Fifty-five rooms have been completed of the Glider Hotel at Roswell, N. M., each equipped with private bath and telephone. The ladies' parlor, coffee shop, lobby and dining room have not yet been completed.

Ground has been broken in Stratford for two new brick and the buildings with a 90-foot front on Davis street. These buildings will be modern and up-to-date in every respect and will be occupied by a general merchandise and hardware store.

Construction has started on the new residences in the northwest part of Alpine the total cost to run around $15,000. These, with new construction work started last week gives the building program in Alpine a substantial boost.

A woman in Lamb county, according to a Littlefield paper, will realize over $5,000 on turkeys this year. She is Mrs. White of "Happy Hill Farm," who raises purebred large bronze turkeys, and will sell 700 for breeding purposes this year.

James E. Briggs, field representative of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in charge of the northwest district, has been secured as one of the principal speakers for the Dalhart Chamber of Commerce annual banquet, to be held November 17.

The main streets of Abernathy are now cleared after having been torn up during the last few days. The improvement machinery which hindered traffic for a few days left a nicely graded and leveled roadbed behind it.

November 10 is official West Texas Chamber of Commerce day at the Waco Cotton Palace. Many West Texans went and will enjoy the exposition and the football game between Baylor and Texas University. The M. K. & T. railroad had special reduced rates at that time.

HUNGARIAN BELLE MARRIES HER FATHER'S MURDERER

Berlin, Nov. 10.—Irma Ujl, 19, belle of the Hungarian village of Borsos, proposed to and married the murderer of her father in order to spite her mother whose lover the murderer had been. The murderer had just been released after a prison term of 15 years and the mother's release was due soon.

When Josef Mosdos, the village Don Juan, loved her mother and killed her father, Irma was only four years old. Her mother, then 22, was the moving spirit of the murder. She and a midwife, whom village superstition considered a witch, urged Mosdos so much that he grabbed a gun and shot Ujl from ambush.

That was in 1913. Since then, the village legend had practically exonerated Mosdos, representing him as the poor, deluded victim of a Circe. Irma had grown up with this legend, hating her mother intensely.

When Josef returned from prison, therefore, having saved a few years for good behavior, he again became just "Joshka" to his old cronies and took part in the village games and the dances of the young folk in the village cemetery, which also served as the village playground.

There Irma met him, and the plan to marry him ripened. "Joshka" was startled at first and refused, but Irma's persistence won him over.

Magic Shoes Will Be Put on Exhibit

(By International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—A pair of shoes, made from emu feathers and human hair, and once used in magical rites by medicine men of primitive tribes of Australia, has been received at Field Museum of Natural History, it was announced today by Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum. These odd shoes will be included in a proposed Australian ethnological exhibit.

At the present time such shoes are worn in Australia only occasionally as a protection against the burning hot sand, but they are still regarded with much superstition by natives because they are popularly supposed to have been worn when the murder of an enemy was planned, according to W. D. Hamblly of the museum's anthropological staff.

The medicine man was said to don sandals of this kind when tracking a victim from whom he intended to secure fat for use in magical practices," said Mr. Hamblly. "The shoes are rounded in the same fashion at both ends so that the tracks would not indicate in which direction the wearer was traveling. Native belief required that before a man could wear them he must have the little toe of one of his feet dislocated. For this operation the man had to place his toe on a red-hot stone, which was believed to soften the joint and make the pain of dislocation less severe. During this ritual a refrain, 'Intorlina turla attipa, interlina attipa' was chanted. It means, 'Shoes, stick to me fast.'"

Another curious article in the Australian ethnological collection now being assembled at the museum is a "pointing bone" which was believed to be empowered by chanting, "May your heart wither, and your body be torn asunder," and then jerking the bone in the direction of an enemy.

Harrisburg, N. C.—Mr. M. F. Pink of this place, says, "It must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly. It wasn't so long after I married.

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating. "My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night, another. In a few days I felt much better. I was hungry and the dizziness was gone.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year. "Thedford's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headaches in thousands of cases that were due to constipation. PRESIDENT ELECT MAY MAKE TRIP TO SOUTH AMERICA

1500 PRIVATE ROADS IN PARIS ARE GIVING TROUBLE

(By International News Service)
PARIS, Nov. 10.—The closing of a private road in Auteuil recently by the prefect of police because the necessary work for its upkeep had not been carried out by the proprietors, has drawn attention to the fact that there are nearly 1500 private roads in Paris today. That the owners of a private road are not allowed to do exactly as they like with it is proved by this recent closing of one of them to traffic; but this was in a part of the town where the owners of house property are fairly well-to-do. There are many private roads where the owners are of such modest means that it is difficult to force them to pave and light the road and run a main drain along it—all of which things they are supposed to do—by any means short of expropriating them altogether.

How little likely the municipality is to take this extreme step is shown by the extent to which another law has been neglected. By the month of August of next year every house in Paris is bound, by a law passed since the war, to install a drainage system. The number of houses where there is still none, and where no steps to make one have been taken, shows how confident owners are that the law will not be enforced. As for the older law about the periodical cleaning and painting of house fronts, which made Paris so bright a town before the war, nobody pays any attention to it at all.

DISCOVER REPLICAS OF LIBERTY BELL IN OLD CARPATHIAN CAPITAL

(The International News Service)
 LONDON, Nov. 11.—An exact replica of the American Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, has been discovered in Uzhored, capital of Carpathian Russia, according to dispatches from Prague.

The discovery was made by Edward T. Heyn, formerly American vice consul in Roshenberg.

Called the Liberty Bell of Czechoslovakia, it has long been sought by Czechoslovakian officials. It was cast in the United States and brought over for the signing of the last Czechoslovakian declaration of independence, at which time it was rung by the school children. For a time it was kept in the government house in Prague, but mysteriously disappeared several years ago.

Acting on a hint from a lumber dealer, Mr. Heyn, accompanied by Anthony Ambrose, president of the Slovak-American bank for Czechoslovakia, went to Uzhored and found the bell buried in a wooden framework in the court yard of the government house. It was covered with dust and chickens were roosting on its edges.

It is now being brought back to Prague in state, under a military escort.

Ballinger Boy Designs New Magnet Machine

Oscar Zappe, son of Mrs. A. J. Appe, of 303 Sixth Street, this city, has designed a new machine which is to be used for the purpose of picking up nails, tacks and other metal materials from public highways and thoroughfares. The machine was given a test at Amarillo recently and was pronounced a success. If the machine should be universally adopted for ridding the highways and streets of nails and other metals it would seem that Mr. Appe would be benefitted very materially by the success of the machine.

The Amarillo Globe, in commenting on the test recently made in that city, has the following to say:

The electro-magnet machine or nail picker built by the estate Highway department in its Amarillo shop is a success.

Tests this morning before highway, city and board of city development officials, indicated that the machine would be worth its weight in gold to everyone but the tire shop proprietors.

Even on Polk street the big machine picked up a gallon of nails, tacks and other metal objects in three blocks of travel. On an unpaved street it drew up two big boxes of material within a short time. A Pathé news cameraman made pictures of the demonstration.

The machine was designed by Oscar Zappe of the Southwestern Public Service company and built in the highway shops at a cost of $1,500. A discarded wartime truck chassis and an engine and generator that had been used to light a small army camp were used in building the machine.

The demonstration was in charge of W. A. French, division highway engineer.

SOVIETS RIDICULE NEW CLAIM CZAR AND FAMILY WERE NOT MURDERED

(The International News Service)
 BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Czar Nicholas II, the czarina and the whole imperial family are not dead at all, the Russian Prince Galitzin-Muravine claims in the Hungarian government paper Neszeti Ujsag.

They escaped, he asserts, the very same night of August 18, 1918 on which their execution had been ordered. Lenin, however, to hide the failure of the executioners and to make the Russian monarchists believe their ruler was dead, ordered that the story of the imperial family's annihilation be spread far and wide.

Czar Nicholas, Prince Galitzin believes, is enjoying a more or less pleasant family life somewhere, awaiting the hour which he thinks suitable to return to the world stage again.

In the meantime, however, every Russian who pays allegiance to another czar breaks his oath to Czar Nicholas II, Prince Galitzin declares.

The Soviet embassy says the prince's story is nonsense.

Ben Matthiesen, with his family, will spend Sunday and Armistice Day in Rowena, as the guests of relatives and friends.

BIG OCEAN LINERS ARE DANGER TO CHANNEL FOLK

(The International News Service)
 SOUTHAMPTON, Nov. 10.—The big Atlantic liners which pass between the Isle of Wight and the mainland on their way up to Southampton docks are causing trouble again on account of their wash. People on both sides of this narrow channel are complaining bitterly of the waves that are thrown up on the shore, and the danger to bathers during the holiday season.

The main trouble is that the waves often reach the shore so long after the ship has passed that many people disregard the warnings of those who know, under the impression that if there was any danger it has passed away.

Formerly it was generally the Cunard liner Mauretania which was blamed, but lately hard things have been said about the United States liner Leviathan.

Recently the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Austria has been in trouble. Complaints have been made that her wash caused the paddle steamer Lorna Doone to surge so violently that she did a good deal of damage to one of the piers.

Her owners complained that the liner was responsible. The liner's people replied that her watchman should have seen the liner approaching and should have taken precautions accordingly. It is probable that the whole matter will be thrashed out in the courts.
