

OUR ROOSTER STILL CROWS!

The vote of New York is now being counted, thirty-nine counties having been heard from, and Cleveland is still ahead.

Our Republican friends want the tariff so arranged that Vanderbilt or other millionaires may send their daughters to Europe, from whence they can bring back $20,000 worth of new finery each year duty free, while our "common farm hand's" daughters must wear calico worth 5 cents a yard and pay 8 cents a yard for it.

A law in France, passed in 1770 reads as follows: "Whosoever, by means of red or white paint, perfumes, essences, artificial teeth, false hair, cotton, wool, corsets, hoops, shoes with high heels, or false hips, shall seek to entice into the bonds of marriage any male subject of his majesty shall be prosecuted for witchcraft and declared incapable for marriage."

We have received of A. S. Johnson, Land Agent of the Atchison, Topoka and Santa Fe Railroad, a neatly printed and finely illustrated pamphlet entitled "The New King of Kansas," written by George B. Tewksbury, and printed by Poole Bros., of Chicago, giving an account, in a humorous way, of the pre-eminent standing of Kansas in the sisterhood of States for her agricultural and stock raising qualities; that is, a convention of all the products of Kansas was held to determine which should be made King, and, although each of the cultivated kind had great reason why it should be enthroned, grass, which abounds everywhere, was crowned "King of Kansas."

The B. & O. Red Book for Kansas is ready for distribution, and in more than one respect, is the most valuable of any of the editions hitherto based upon this State. As has always been the rule, the forwarding of a stamp to C. K. Lord, Baltimore is all that is necessary to secure a copy, and in fact the only way, as the Red Book issues are all for mail circulation. The present volume is replete with political statistics and condensed data, not only as regards the latest Presidential, State and Congressional elections in this State, but relating as well to elections, since admission into the Union. It would be difficult to imagine a more complete showing of past results in the State, or a more nearly put together and printed little book.

Under ordinance No. 102 passed by the City Council February 2, 1881, Hon. J. W. McWilliams, Mayor, all cattle, horses, mules and asses found running at large within the corporate limits of the city of Cottonwood Falls are liable to be taken up and impounded, the costs of which will fall upon the owner or owners. As it is the intention of the Council to enforce the same, this timely notice is given in order that our citizens may have no cause of complaint, if, after the publication of this notice, the marshal shall perform his duties.

JOHN'S PUMPKIN.

Last spring I found a pumpkin seed, And thought that I would grow, And plant it in a sunny place...

A MERITED WHIPPING.

A Traitor's Fate and Magnanimity of a Roman Leader. Once in the world's history it came to pass that it was the schoolmaster who had the whipping instead of the boys...

The boys were Falerians, of that country which is now Tuscany. The teacher was probably a Greek, but it does not matter where he came from...

The city of Falerii was being besieged by the Romans, though not very vigorously. It was a time when Rome had not so many wars as usual on her hands...

But the Romans did not begin war without giving ample notice, doing it with certain forms established years before. First, a herald, with a fillet of wool around his head, went to the frontiers...

The Falerians, however, sent no deputation to Rome to make terms, but proceeded to strengthen the defenses of their already well-fortified city...

And now the legions came pouring out of Rome: the roads through the vineyards and along the hills were thronged with men and cattle trampling and laying waste...

It had been the custom of the master to take his pupils out every day beyond the city for exercise and games, and there they had practiced gymnastics and ran races for physical education...

What boy would be dared? And he led them on till, before they knew, they had passed the guard, were within the camp, were being hurried to the tent of Camillus...

RELIGIOUS DEPARTMENT.

THE BRIDGE OF PRAYER.

The bridge of prayer, from Heavenly heights, spans the dark with spirit-realms in space; Its arches of devotion bridge the void...

It had become known in Falerii that the children were gone, and how they went and where, the news spread from house to house, and the mothers flew...

The mothers were already outside the gates, and would have rushed straight on to the Roman camp, for a cohort of soldiers could not have kept them back...

The Falerians were overwhelmed with gratitude. From every quarter they assembled in the market-place; they heard over and over, and never tired of hearing, the story of the boys...

What Energy and Perseverance Accomplished for a Friendless Young Man.

Here is a true story of successful energy. A young drug clerk wrote from the Far West to a prominent pharmacist in New York, saying he would like to come to the city and enter a store...

English and American Girls.

Is dress an insignificant element in polite society? From the English point of view it may probably be so regarded, for the typical English girl is certainly the worst-dressed girl on the planet...

Another phase of American life is criticized with more justice—that is, the independence of the American girl of all guardianship and of nearly all restraint; the girl who feels herself capable of resolving every problem and deciding on her own experience...

THE SINS OF THE FATHERS.

A SENATE PAGE.

To regret the loss of youth seems an almost universal feeling. To prize, to seek, to hold, to desire to make the most of its later fleeting years, is, perhaps, almost as natural as the love of life...

The prayer was hardly finished when nearly all the Senators began to clap their hands in every part of the chamber, making quite a racket. They had a habit of doing that immediately after the opening exercises...

HOUSE PLANTS.

How to Attain Success in the Cultivation of Indoor Plants.

Success is not always attained in the cultivation of indoor plants, not alone in producing bloom but in even retaining life, and the reason may be charged to the neglect of some minor details. It is not necessary to have a large pot and large bodies of soil, as too often that will induce the growth of roots at the expense of bloom and beauty...

WIFE SAYINGS.

In a duty nobly done sleeps a victory.—C. D. W. Bridgman.

A rich dress is not worth a straw to one who has a poor mind.—A. Z. Zuluaga.

Faith is the pencil of the soul that pictures heavenly things.—T. Burbidge.

Blessed is he who loveth God, and his friend in God, and his enemies for God.—St. Augustine.

Said Mr. Moody at Tremont Temple: "I'm tired of hearing people say that they haven't the ability to engage in Christian service, or the time, or the fact, or some other excuse. Why don't they be honest and say they haven't the heart?"

There are many ways in which it would be well for us all to carry our childhood with us, even on into old age, if it were possible, in its truthfulness and open-heartedness, and willingness not only to love, but to show that we loved, as well.

The solid materialistic thinkers of to-day are decidedly less antagonistic to orthodox religious truth than they were a dozen years ago.

THE DAIRY.

It is said that cheese greased with butter in which a red pepper has been steeped will not be molested by flies.

Prof. L. Arnold says that cheese, when properly made, and thoroughly cured, so that all its substance is available for food, has twice the value of butcher's meat for sustaining life, and is quite as easily digested, and is as wholesome.

It is just the time now for all owners of cattle to look well to the fodder. Dry, hard, indigestible food promotes what is known as murrain, red water, mad itch, and other diseases which prevail in the fall.

In many places milk is so valuable that it sends many calves to the butcher that should be saved for cows. With milk until it is a week old it may be largely dispensed with thereafter.

SALTED AND UNSALTED BUTTER.

How to Properly Season a Thoroughly Gilt-Edge Article. The question whether tests should be reported in salted or unsalted butter is one deserving brief discussion.

Particular attention is asked to the other churning. The butter came too soft, but of excellent color, and was treated precisely like the other sample.

Here we have an apparent gain in the first instance of seventeen ounces, but a final loss from original unsalted weight of twenty-seven ounces.

Subsequent experiments led me to the following conclusions: 1st. That if the butter is worked soiled, or is washed in clear water, it will lose by salting, and the loss will average from one-half to one ounce to the pound.

2d. That if it is washed in a brine of moderate strength it will gain by salting, seldom, however, as much as one-half ounce to the pound.

3d. That if washed in a very strong brine it will gain above the weight of the added salt, but it will contain quite too much salt to be a first-class table-butter.

4th. That if the butter is worked, washed, and salted in the usual manner, then set aside for twelve or twenty-four hours and reworked, it will be fair to compare it with any other sample that has been similarly treated.

A strange plant has been discovered growing in the northern part of Portland, Oregon, in soil which had been brought there as ballast in a ship.

A Florida physician says that many consumptives die in that State, but that many others are cured by the climate. He does not advise consumptives to visit Florida unless there is some well defined hope of their recovery.

Increased Wants of Farmers.

The present comparatively low price of farm produce is leading many farmers to inquire why it is that they are unable to make money, or at least to save it, at prices which fifty to sixty years ago would have been regarded as ample, if not liberal.

It is to these increased wants of modern farmers that the prevailing discontent with the result of farming is mainly due. Crops are quite as high in price as in the earlier days, and with the best farmers, who use fertilizers, thorough tillage and skill in the business, the crop is quite as certain as it was then.

According to the statement of a prominent dealer in furniture woods, our cherry and hickory are coming rapidly into demand, and for foreign woods the mahogany and the comparatively little known coco bolo are much called for by makers of fine furniture.

Medical Herbs.

The indigenous plants of Great Britain are too much neglected in the present age, for persons are apt to run after all that is rare or novel in the form of medicine in preference to cultivating our native herbs, so many of which are rich in curative properties.

Dandelion is admitted into our British Pharmacopoeia under the name of Taraxacum, and regularly prescribed in diseases of the liver and spleen; but the poor people were at one time accustomed to make a decoction with the roots, which answered nearly as well as the chemically prepared dandelion.

Furniture Woods.

A generation or more ago the most admired wood for furniture purposes was mahogany. Until quite recently the taste for mahogany has been held in abeyance, and black walnut has long reigned the king of the furniture woods.

According to the statement of a prominent dealer in furniture woods, our cherry and hickory are coming rapidly into demand, and for foreign woods the mahogany and the comparatively little known coco bolo are much called for by makers of fine furniture.
