If your six year old saw something like this, would he know how to phone for help?

It's too important a question to leave to chance. That's why we're running this ad. If there are any six- or seven-year-olds around your house, teach them how to report emergencies. Tell them to dial "0", give their name and tell our operator where they are and what's wrong. With older children, train them to dial emergency numbers direct, since that's the fastest way to call for help. But don't stop there. Copy down the emergency numbers listed on the inside front cover or first page of your telephone directory. Add your family doctor's number. And the number of the nearest hospital. Next, tack up the list near your phone. Then get your kids to memorize it, in case it gets lost. By the time they're through memorizing those numbers, they're going to have every grownup in the house knowing them, too. Which is also why we're running this ad.

GSPA Wants Plan B Changes In Feed Grain Program

Elbert Harp, executive director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association, appealed to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz on behalf of the grain producers who signed up under Plan B of the 1973 Feed Grain Program.

On March 30, Harp sent a telegram to Secretary Butz stating that the producers who signed for Plan B were unjustly misled in having the program changed after they signed up. Harp asked that these farmers be given an opportunity to change to Plan A if they so desire.

GSPA was notified of the change in the 1973 Feed Grain Program by USDA officials on March 26. The change affected Plan A by reducing the previously announced set-aside of 25 percent to only 10 percent, with all payments

Littlepage To Attend Meet

Lubbock Production Credit Association officers and directors go to Houston April 12 for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank's annual meeting and 50th Anniversary celebration at the Houston Oaks Hotel.

PCA board member participants include C.E. Hicks of Meadow, chairman, Cleve Littlepage of Tahoka, vice chairman, A.B. Roberts of Littlefield, Dewey E. Wells, Jr. of Ralls, and Keith Young of Seagraves.

Alton Strickland of Lubbock, PCA president, will accompany the group.

A congressman, governor and president highlight the Houston bank's meeting program, Strickland pointed out. Speakers include Rep. John Melcher, D-Montana, a member of the House Committee on Agriculture; E.A. Jaenicke, governor Farm Credit Administration, Washington, D.C.; and W.H. Calkins, president, Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston.

Strickland said the more than 500 meeting participants represent Texas organizations which obtain their loan funds from the FICB of Houston. These organizations last year made loans to Texas farmers and ranchers totaling more than $1.3 billion.

Lubbock PCA makes loans to agricultural producers in Cochran, Crosby, Gaines, Garza, Hockley, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum counties.

PRICE FREEZE

President Nixon's decision to freeze the retail prices of beef, pork and lamb may have long-reaching effects on future production plans of farmers and ranchers, believes Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Production costs of farmers and ranchers are continuing to increase. Since there is no freeze on these inputs and the producer knows that he will not receive any high prices for his animals, he may just become 'fed up' with the whole situation. This could mean a pullback in resources and less expansion. And that's certainly not what is needed at this time."

Just at a time when producers should be expanding their herds to meet the increased consumer demand for red meat, they are caught in a situation that may "choke" some of them out of production or at least cause them to slow down on their expansion, notes the Texas A&M University specialist.

Uvacek believes this ceiling will stymie many farm and ranch efforts directed to herd expansion. "Producers will feel like they're in a dark room afraid to move. Still others remaining the same. Plan B restricted producers to their 1972 level of planting with no required diversion. The farmers who chose Plan B were given no opportunity to change to Plan A.

Harp says the farmers feel they signed up without having all the facts presented to them. The farmers think the change in the program -- with no option for producers to switch from Plan A to Plan B -- is unfair and misleading.

"Even though I feel the farmers should have the option to change to Plan A if they would like," Harp stated, "we hope there will not be a large increase in planted acreage as a result." The GSPA spokesman continued, "We are convinced that over-planting will cause a surplus and break the market for the 1973 crop."

may even react with a 'get even' attitude and hold back cattle and calves.

SOIL CONSERVATION

Mrs. Martha Davis, Mrs. Peggy Atwell, Mrs. Debbie Burns, and Mrs. Shirley Holloway are the Conservation Teacher winners of the Region I Texas Conservation Awards Program. The Fort Worth Area Chamber of Commerce announced these 1973 winners according to J. Don Ganel, Chairman of the 28th Annual State Wide Program. The Awards will be presented at an Awards Banquet in Crowell May 2, hosted by the Foard County Soil and Water Conservation District. Region I covers one-fifth of the state and includes all of the Panhandle and South Plains.

These four 5th grade teachers did an outstanding job of teaching ecology, environment, water, soils, plants, and wildlife and how each play a vital role in our lives, to our fifth grades last November. These teachers became aware that Better Environment Booklets were available through the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District. The district purchased five sets of booklets and made a copy available to each student. The Booklets were:

1. The Story of the Land.
2. Working Together For a Liveable Land.
3. The Wonders of Water.
4. Plants How They Improve our Environment.
5. Making Home for Wildlife on the Land.

The teachers worked as a group to develop lesson plans which were used by each teacher. To make this study relate to each student, the plans included two slide talks of conservation work being done locally and how it is related and to show the need that man do something about his total environment.

One outstanding feature of these teachers efforts is that none of them had any formal training in this field of study; however they were able to relate conservation of our renewable natural resources to their students.

The climax to the study was a poster contest sponsored by the District Directors. The teachers incorporated it into their Art Classes. The district directors presented ribbons to the students with the first, second and third place posters in each room.

Howard Moore, chairman of the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District congratulates these teachers on an outstanding job well done and on being selected as the winners of Region I. This District entered these teachers in the competitions with the other entries from the other 191 Soil Conservation Districts in the State of Texas. We should all be proud of these teachers, says Moore.

FARM REVIEW

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The ceiling on beef, pork and lamb prices, placed there by an Administration ostensibly championing a free market economy for agriculture, "makes no sense at all," according to Ray Joe Riley of Hart, Texas. Riley is President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. and a feeder of both cattle and lamb.

Just recently Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz told the House Committee on Agriculture that the Administration favors a farm law phasing out income supplement payments to farmers over a three year period "as we depend on a growing market demand to maintain farm income."

"How," asks Riley, "is a growing market demand do growing market demand going to maintain farm income if the Administration imposes price ceilings to keep that demand from increasing market prices?"

Cotton, feed grains and wheat, the three major commodities covered under present farm programs, are not affected, directly, by the meat price lid. "But it should be obvious that stockmen can't continue paying high prices for cottonseed meal and grain to fatten meat animals that must be sold under a price ceiling," Riley said.

"Nor do we have any assurance," he continued, "that the Administration won't yield to political pressures as it has done in the case of meat, and impose ceilings on prices of other farm commodities if those prices should reach levels offering a fair return to producers."

Are the interests of the public served by price controls on meat? "Definitely not," says Riley.

"What will happen is that existing plans for increased livestock production to meet increasing demand will be abandoned, because investors won't gamble on a high risk enterprise that offers little or no chance for profit. Supplies will shrink, and unless demand subsidies to the level of supplies, meat prices will remain as high as the law allows and eventually the housewife will be looking at empty shelves in the market."

Farm programs since the 1930's have helped to stabilize farm income, thereby assuring an abundance of agricultural commodities available to the public at much more reasonable prices than would have been possible otherwise, Riley points out.

"But if the Administration's thinking on future farm programs should prevail, and if the price ceilings on meat are an example of policies the Administration has in mind to maintain farm income through greater market demand, then both agriculture and the consuming public in this country will very shortly find themselves in a very unhappy situation."

Jackrabbit Banquet

You can't say that the Texas Department of Agriculture hasn't always been alert to customer complaints about the costs of beef, Commissioner John C. White reports.

Back in 1916 when all food was in short supply and high-priced because of World War I in Europe, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Fred W. Davis ordered his staff to study the feasibility of commercializing jackrabbits.

The rabbit was regarded as a pest because it would insist on eating the farmer's grain. It looked like a chance to decimate the rabbits and fight the high costs of beef at the same time.

A banquet was given by Commissioner Davis at the Driskill Hotel in Austin on December 6 and duly reported by the Austin American as a "success." The rabbit was served in soup, fried in country style, broiled in a fricassee and served in a salad.

All praised the rabbits which they had eaten and endorsed rabbit meat as an offset to the high cost of living. What was said about the jackrabbit and "his little the cotton tail, would made them blush with ure, if they had not been stew," the American ed.

"It didn't work," commented. "They didn't rid of the jackrabbits, people found Texas were better than ever. I know housewives, the bunny better watch

JOLLY'S FISHING TRIP

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. Al Jolly with part of the fish they caught at Langtry, last week. Accompanying them were their sons, Billy of Tahoka and Thomas of Snyder. The Jolly's caught a total of 112 fish, 57 cat and 55 bass. Cat fish weighed from 23 lbs., 11 lbs., 8 lbs., and 3 lbs. Bass weighed from 1 1/2 to 2 pounds. This is an annual for the Jolly's.

Take four very-much-alike steers, or four lambs, or four hogs. Place the animals of each class side-by-side. And judge them on their desirable versus undesirable characteristics for whatever purpose they were produced. Then with their placing in hand, stand alone before an expert judge and give your reasons for placing them first, second, third and fourth.

A class in animal husbandry this is not. It is part of the District 2 4-H Eliminations Contest that determines who will participate in the State 4-H Roundup at College Station in June.

Young 4-Hers from 20 counties will converge on the Texas Tech campus Saturday to compete in Dairy Cattle Judging, Livestock Judging and Quarter Horse Judging. These are just part of the eliminations contest. The biggest part of them will be held May 5. This is the first year the event has been divided.

"These contests -- at county, district and state levels -- are designed to train leaders of tomorrow." "Awards are nice, but the important thing is the character traits developed in such contests which will produce the kinds of citizens America needs."

An awards presentation will be held at the Aggie Auditorium Saturday afternoon at 3:00. First and second-place senior winners and first-place juniors winners will be named. The winning senior teams will compete in the state contests.

Dr. A.R. Bertrand, dean of agriculture at Texas Tech, will welcome the groups with Pete Ballew, Gaines County, presenting the 4-H Motto and Prayer. Discussing the value of judging will be W.L. Stangel, dean emeritus of Texas Tech and representative of the State 4-H Foundation. Awards will be presented by Billy C. Gunter, district agent of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Ed Garnett, area 4-H specialist of Amarillo, and is the story of Bill Jones, a parking, law-abiding young store clerk who small children and a salary of $9,000 per year.

Bob Carthel, agricultural representative of Pioneer Natural Gas. Matt Williams of Yoakum County will preside.

Organized Crime

and his wife, Beth, saved for four or enough cash for a new car but the family budget wouldn't allow credit or an easy loan.

When Bill came home excited one night in "almost new" auto he had discovered on the recently opened used car lot in the street, his wife went along with the car.

When he bought the car and for one week he was in seventh heaven.

On Saturday afternoon, a uniformed officer knocked on the door, asking whose car was sitting in the driveway.

"It's mine," said Bill.

"I'm sorry," the officer replied, "but this is a stolen vehicle, and we have to take it."

Bill and Beth were stunned. They couldn't get the papers because the title, to be had not yet arrived. A quick check of the used car dealer revealed he, too, was sitting in the driveway.

"It's mine," said Bill.

"I'm sorry," the officer replied, "but this is a stolen vehicle, and we have to take it."

Bill and Beth were left holding the bag -- the stream exploded -- the victims of a racketeered organized crime car theft.

Organized auto theft and theft of personal and household property pours millions of dollars yearly into pockets of Texas.

and other vehicles head the list, but the thieves also make off with everything from television sets to hair brushes from Texas each year.

One officer recalled not long ago "the hardest thing I ever had to do in my life was go into the small home of a low-income family and take away the television set a hard-working mother had finally been able to bring home for the kids."

"She bought it from a shady dealer, and it turned out to be stolen goods. It wasn't easy to walk out with all those kids crying for something they had waited for all their lives," he added.

The Texas Organized Crime Prevention Council, co-chaired by Attorney General John Hill and Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, reports motor vehicles are prime targets for organized thieves.

Using Dallas as an example, criminal stole property valued at $15.7 million last year. More than $6 million of that total was cars -- although ultimately $4.4 million worth of autos were recovered.

An end-of-the-year tally for 1971 estimated $50 million or more worth of motor vehicles were reported stolen in Texas. That figure represents an estimated 40,000 vehicles stolen in the state during 1971.

Many average Texans conclude the absence of complaints means the absence of organized crime in the car theft racket. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"At the present time, 80 to 85 percent of all stolen vehicles are recovered," said Colonel Speir, "but many of those not recovered are taken by professional thieves and organized theft rings."

Car theft, as a matter of record, often is the "kindergarten" for a young thug. Underworld bosses, especially a "fence" (the receiver of stolen goods) often sponsor fledglings in "lower level" crimes such as home burglary, hijackings and auto theft.

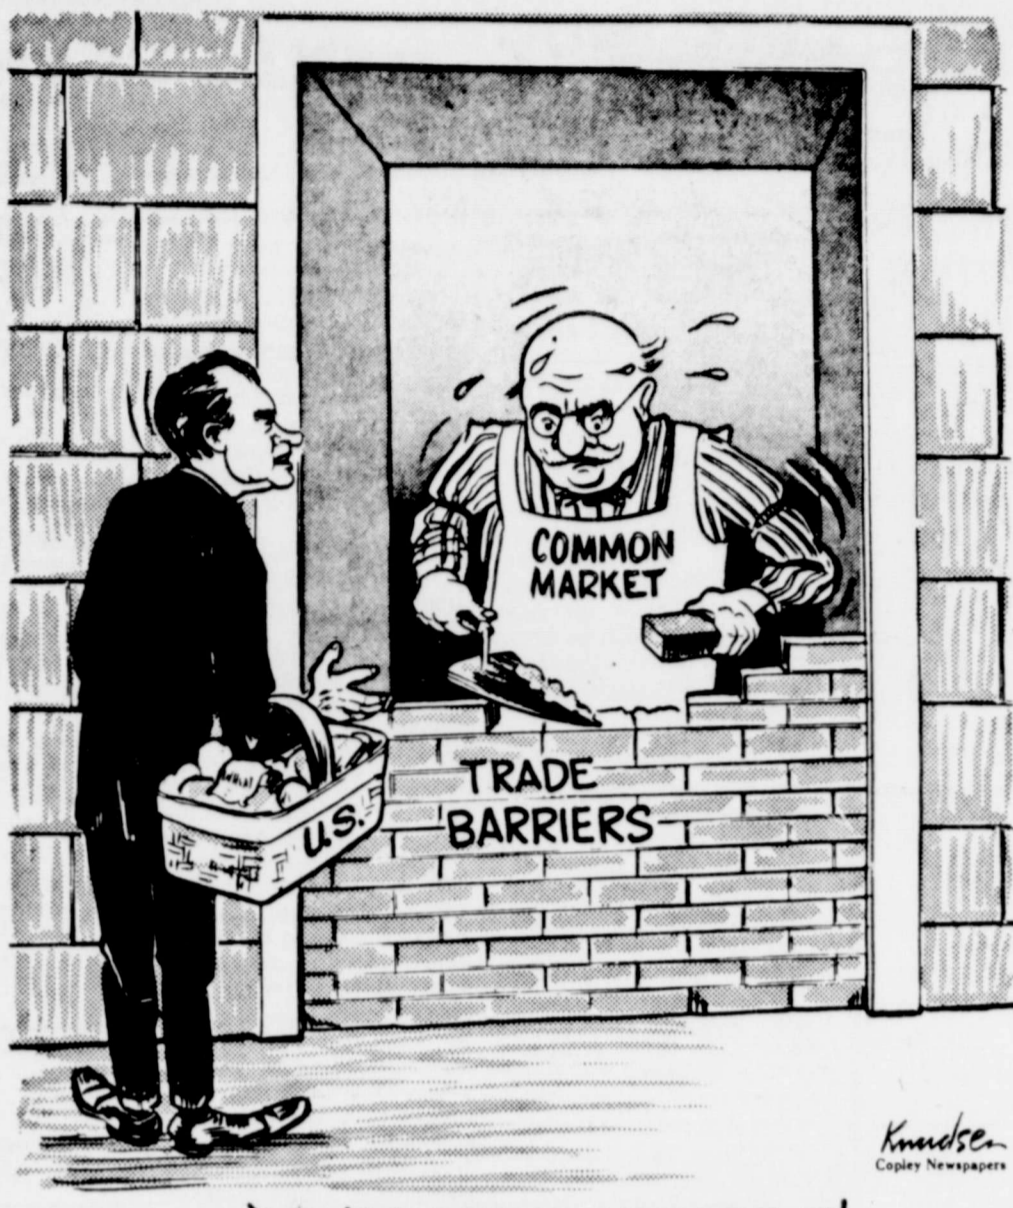

By bankrolling prospective employees, whom they are actually training and testing, the organized criminal element is the catalyst for street crime.

As former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell has said, "When you read of housebreakings, shoplifting and industrial thefts, you should realize that organized crime provides a major network for the disposal of these stolen goods."

The DPS Criminal Law Enforcement Division and local authorities have uncovered evidence on more than 40 auto theft rings. In 34 instances, positive identification of the leader was made and names of members and method of operation discovered. Many arrests have resulted.

Lawmen in North Texas recently disrupted a multi-city car theft ring employing one of the more common methods -- to steal a car.

In the raids and resulting arrests, officers recovered 13 stolen cars which had illegally obtained salvage titles and salvage vehicle identification numbers (VIN) and license tags.

Colonel Speir explained the thieves get the tags, certificate of title and identification plates from a vehicle which has either been wrecked or totally destroyed.

"Then," Colonel Speir said, "a member of the gang goes out and steals a car similar to the wrecked one."

After transferring the plates from the salvaged vehicle, the thieves re-register the stolen car and sell it -- usually to an unknowing customer like the used car dealer who sold the car to Bill and Beth Jones.

Last spring, the FBI and agents from the DPS working with the National Auto Theft Bureau (NATB) recovered 24 stolen vehicles believed to be part of a haul by a nationwide car theft ring.

The late model luxury cars were stolen from Pennsylvania and sold in Houston through two motor companies and a local businessman.

The cars were registered on counterfeit titles and financed through various banks, apparently by innocent buyers, the FBI said.

Another frequently used method is use of a counterfeit title obtained from a non-title state.

Two major investigations in Houston and Dallas in June, 1972, netted 62 recovered stolen vehicles. In one instance, the criminal subjects utilized salvage into identification plates from Alabama on cars stolen in Tennessee.

The other group specialized in counterfeit Pennsylvania titles and stolen Pennsylvania vehicles.

Department of Public Safety agents and Abilene lawmen cracked down on an auto theft ring found to be operating out of that city. The investigation led to the recovery of 44 stolen vehicles and several conspirators were arrested on auto theft charges.

The thefts cleared in this case involved the of salvage vehicle identification number plates.

"At the present time, there are indications of other large rings operating in Texas," said Colonel Speir, reinforcing the assessment of other Texas lawmen.

Suspected operators of what the investigating officer described as "quite a large theft ring" were arrested after several months of undercover work by DPS intelligence agents, officers of two coastal counties, and a representative of the NATB.

The investigations showed that car theft rings on the uppercoast steal cars, especially late sport models, and strip them for transmissions tires or whatever parts they need.

"Then they'll put some old tires on them and drag them off and leave them," said the lawman.

Throughout the state, farm equipment is a popular target for theft rings. Peace officers in Texas and New Mexico recently seized $100,000 worth of farm tractors, tractors, truck tractors, and a big combine. Authorities believe the confiscated equipment was stolen from points throughout West Texas by a ring headquartered in the Texas Panhandle.

Professional thieves in the Rio Grande Valley appear to specialize in new or nearly new pickup trucks.

Investigators said 30 trucks were stolen in one Valley city in 1972 and apparently taken across the border into Mexico.

Less easy to identify and return are valuables stolen in home burglaries. For example, in a medium-sized North Texas city, residents of 481 homes reported being burglarized in 1971. Only 63 got any property back.

Merchandise such as television sets, watches, furniture and stereo sets usually difficult to identify. They're easy to transport and simple to market but extremely difficult to trace.

Such items find their way into pawn shops or to the "friendly neighborhood fence" -- for the thief, that is -- and are unloaded or resold.

Many homeowners now are using electric pencil devices to mark the more valuable items within their homes.

Of course, the more obvious precautions such as locking your car when you leave it or never leaving the keys in the ignition certainly should be practiced by all motorists.

This may not prevent your car from being stolen, but it makes the thieves' job more difficult and greatens the chances of their being seen.

Car thieves and burglars who prowl cars for tape decks or other items must move swiftly.

Law enforcement officials also could use some changes in the penal code and authorization for modern surveillance techniques to help catch the fence.

Fences usually are difficult to run to ground, doing much of their business by telephone or in some cases selling off stolen goods a few items at a time.

But progress is being made in the theft and burglary field, as far as most law enforcement officials can tell.

A more aware and better educated public holds the best promise for solutions to the problem.

"We may never wipe it out completely, but if the public will help giant progress can be made," Colonel Speir noted.

The next in this series of stories will deal with so-called "Victimless Crimes"

Just after we wrote that story appearing elsewhere in this paper about those Grassland citizens planting cotton, we were told that T.I. Tippitt living about three miles east of Tahoka began planting Monday.

And there are probably many others in the county by this time doing likewise. May it all turn out fine, as it frequently does in Lynn county.

Returns of the election held in the O'Donnell and Joe Bailey school districts on the proposal to consolidate the two districts were canvassed by the Commissioners court last Monday and the court found that the vote was favorable to consolidation.

In O'Donnell district the vote was unanimous for consolidation, though only 66 votes were cast. A spirited contest was waged in the Joe Bailey district, the court finding consolidation and 28 against, with two votes which could not be counted for the reason that it was impossible to determine what the intentions of the voters were.

Following the announcement of the result by the court, there were some rumors to the effect that the matter would be taken to the courts, but so far as we are advised no action has yet been taken.

Those winning places in the contest were Misses: Katherine Allen, a senior, first; Doris Nell Gates, a junior, second; Thelma Turner, a sophomore, third; Ruth Williams, a junior fourth; Virginia Mae Shoemaker, a junior fifth.

The above young women with their club president, Miss Averil Henderson, and their teacher, Miss Moore, are planning to attend the state home economics rally in Dallas, soon. Miss Ovel Itle and Mrs. E.I. Hill of Tahoka judged the exhibit.

A fishing party consisting of Jack Applewhite, Bill Burleson, Joe Heare, W.T. Bovell, Levi Noble, Skinner Connolly, and Jack Fenton left Sunday morning bound for Tampico, Mexico, where they claimed they intended to pull some big ones from the waters of Tampico Bay. This is the first time within our knowledge that a fishing party has gone from this place to Tampico, though, since the boys left, we have been hearing that it is an awful good place to fish.

Tampico is so far away that the people of Tahoka may expect to be regal with a lot of big fish yarns when the party returns.
