APPELLATE CONVENTION.

A delegate convention of the Democrats of the central division of the Southern department of the Kansas Court of Appeals will be held in the City of Wichita, Kansas, on Thursday, Sept. 24, 1896, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the nomination of a Judge of the Court of Appeals for said division in said department.

WHY THEY DO IT.

A subscriber submits the following to the State Journal: "I observed that a large amount of gold is being shipped to this country from England. What do the parties who ship it get in exchange for it? Don't they get treasury notes? And can't they return the notes and get their gold again, when ever it suits them to do so? Then what do they gain by paying the expenses of shipping the gold, especially if the Secretary should redeem the notes in silver, as he has a perfect right to do?"

In exchange for the gold which is being shipped from England and deposited in the United States treasury the depositors get greenbacks. They can return these greenbacks and get back their gold whenever they choose. It must not be supposed, however, that they are shipping in gold and paying the expense thereof for fun, for their health or the accommodation of Uncle Sam.

While little if any thing can be known absolutely of the mysterious workings of Wall street, the most reasonable supposition is that the gold is coming over from England in obedience to the laws of trade. The foreign trade balance has been largely in favor of the United States for a long time, and it must be paid in something. When foreigners can not settle this balance in commodities they must settle it in gold. The gold comes from London because London is the world's clearing house.

Second, money is being withdrawn from the eastern banks very extensively, some of it, perhaps, through timidity of depositors, but mostly for use in the general revival of business which has started. It is not desirable on the part of the people; it would take too long to get it back. As too the redemption of the greenbacks in silver, it is certain that the present Secretary of the treasury will not even make a tender of silver for that purpose. Such a course can not be counted upon until there is a new Secretary in any event, and if the silver ticket should carry the country, holders of greenbacks will have ample time to convert them into gold between November 3 and March 4, if they desire to do so and the gold or the government credit hold out.—State Journal.

LET THEM RAVE ON.

Some of the New York papers that have taken every occasion to jeer at the West and snub all the country outside of their own provincial town are now pained almost to the point of tears because certain parties are striving to stir up sectional animosities.—Bt. Scott Tribune.

There is not an instance on record in which the newspapers of the great cities of the East have vilified the people of the West and South as they have done in this campaign. We have searched history for a parallel and have been unable to find one. The nearest approach to it is to be found in the authentic accounts of the campaign against Andrew Jackson in 1824. In those memorable canvasses Jackson was denounced as an ignorant boor and pilloried as a communist of the French revolution type.

The United States Bank with its thousands of beneficiaries and hundreds of thousands of merchants and traders dependent upon it predicted National ruin and reudation and bankruptcy if "illiterate tyrant of Tennessee" was placed in the White House. The Aristocracy of Boston, New York and Philadelphia combined to crush the "duelist, gambler and backwoods ruffian" as they dubbed Jackson, and they partially succeeded when they formed the "coalition of the puritan and Black leg" in the House in 1825 and elected John Quincy Adams to be President because no candidate had received a majority of the Electoral College.

But; "Truth crushed to earth will rise again; the immortal years of God are hers," and the hero of New Orleans was put up by the common people in 1828. Then the subsidized press of the wealthy cities, the Tories, the rich men, the aristocracy and the "Money Bags" broke loose with their sneering invectives. Jackson supporters were ridiculed as the "ragamuffins," the "Sans culotte," "the enemies of business of financial interests" and similar terms of reproach.

MORE ABOUT MEXICO.
WAGES ARE NOT SO LOW.

COLONEL A. K. KARMS OF KENTUCKY TELLS WHAT HE KNOWS.
Colonel G. R. Karms, President of the Senora Mexican Mining Company, dropped into the Gibson House, Cincinnati, last Wednesday, for lunch.
The Enquirer man asked him about the letter from Laurel, Ind. by a lady school teacher to a gold paper in this city, in which she claimed that the Mexican laborers, miners, and so on were paid only wages sufficient to keep soul and body together.

"O! I suppose," said Colonel Karms with a smile, "that an American lady school teacher knows all about the wages paid the laborers and miners in the remote mountain regions of Mexico, where an American woman is rarely, if ever seen; but I must say, after years of business experience, down there, frequent trips and sojourns, our observations are diametrically different—although opposed in every particular.

"Our pay roll runs $4,900 a month I have our pay roll for May, June and July with me, and will let you see for yourself what we actually pay. Here they are: We paid our engineers $5 a day; office men, pumping service $2 per day; blacksmiths, $3 per day; hoisters, $2 per day; watchmen, $2 per day; lumbermen, $2.50 $3 per day; miners, $1.50 $1.75 $2 and $4 per day; our ordinary outside common laborers, wheel barrow men and the like, $1.50 to $2.50 per day.

"Living is very cheap. We furnish our force with all supplies, and I will give you a sample all through the pay roll, showing what they earned a month, and what they had left after paying their living bills.

"Here they are—names of the men, what they earned and what they had over at the end of the month:

- "Wages earned, $93; living bill $53.
- Wages earned, $62; living bill, $18.
- "Wages earned, $155; living bill, $62
- "Wages earned, $75; living bill, $23.
- Wages earned, $124; living bill, $40.
- Laborers earned, $64; living bill, $16.
- Skilled laborers earned, $150; living bill, $47.
- Skilled laborers earned, $150, living bill, $50.
- "These are matters of fact, and show you that they live well, and have some money left over every month. In May we paid the laborers by contract so much per foot, and their wages run along $2.50, $3.55, $3, $3.80 and $4 per day.

"A fellow named Gordon has been writing articles on Mexican matters, and says the field laborers get only 25 cents a day. That is true in some instances, but their work is light, and the cost of living one fourth of what it is here. I can get farm laborers in my State of New York and over in Campbell county for $10 a month, and they are glad to get it. Then look at the heavy clothing, fuel and high priced goods of all sorts (high priced in comparison I mean) they have to pay for.

"The Mexican laborer gets more for his work than he ever did before, and his dollars buy more. They are contented and happy. We pay our smelters $10 a day and I pay my superior tender $10 a day, or $8 American money. The Mexicans live on beans and tortillas mainly. He drinks water mezzal when he can get it. We will have a splendid display set up on Fourth street next week, showing the whole process of silver mining, smelting, etc.

"Is there any danger of that 'damping' and 'deluge of silver' the Republicans and gold Democrats predict if we adopt free silver?"

"Not a bit of it; don't you believe it. That is one of their gags and scarecrows. We have a steady, spot market for all the silver we can mine. Here, I will read you a letter from Liverpool soliciting, almost begging for our silver. I have sold much of it to English firms, and great quantities to go from Mexico to Great Britain,

Germany, China and Japan—steady, spot cash markets. When they tell you that Mexican dollars and bullion will be bought up and brought to this country in the event of free coinage here remind them that Mexico had an export duty on silver, a fact that I have never seen mentioned in any paper. If we adopt free coinage that export duty will be increased sure.

"The entire production of silver silver for the world in 1894 was 167,752,571 fine ounces, and its coin value was $216,892,200. Now suppose that had all been dumped into the United States it would have raised the per capita to $3, and all the other nations would have gone without silver for coinage and the fine arts. The coin value of the gold production for that year was $180,626,100. So you see they were close together, and silver is used much more in the fine arts than gold. The total coin value of the gold production since the discovery of America down to 1894 was $8,582,457,400. That of silver, $10,131,314,100. Those are the latest statistics before me."

CANNOT SAVE A FORTUNE

Presidents of This Republic Are Not Well Remunerated.

They Have Expenses Which Howlers for Economy Do Not Take Into Consideration—How Our Affairs Are Administered.

[Special Washington Letter.]

The plain people of this republic are about to confer upon William McKinley, of Ohio, or upon William Jennings Bryan, of Nebraska, the highest office within their gift—that of president of the United States.

There are three great branches of our government, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. The legislative branch consists of 356 representatives, who are elected every two years, and 90 senators, who are elected for terms of six years each.

Thus the three branches of our government consist of the congress of 446 senators and representatives as the legislative branch; the president, who is only one man, constitutes the executive; and the supreme court, comprising nine men, constitutes the judicial branch.

On next election day the people will elect a president and vice president; and also 356 representatives, commonly called members of congress. They will also elect state legislatures, and those legislatures will elect senators to go to congress to fill vacancies.

The supreme court is made up of nine judges who are not elected by the people. The president appoints the judges for the supreme court, with the consent of the senate; and no judge can serve who is not confirmed in his position by the senate.

The senators and representatives each receive a salary of $5,000 per annum. They are also paid ten cents per mile in going to Washington and returning to their homes.

They also have each a private secretary at $100 per month. The expenses of the congress, which is the legislative branch of the government, are very high. The vice president and speaker of the house of representatives each receive $8,000 per annum.

The president receives a salary of $50,000 per annum. That seems like an enormous salary, but, as a matter of fact, it is no more than is paid to the British ambassador to this country.

It is a small pittance compared with the salaries paid to the chief executives of other nations of the civilized world. The kings, emperors and rulers of European nations not only receive large annual incomes, but they have perquisites of all kinds.

It is expected that out of his salary of $50,000 per annum a president should save enough to keep him comfortably after life, for we never want to see an ex-president in want, or obliged to work when he is in the serene and yellow leaf of life.

He must receive and entertain the representatives of all the nations of the world. He must give public receptions to the senators, to the representatives, to the ambassadors, ministers, consuls, and other foreign dignitaries.

The president is obliged to buy his own horses, keep his own carriages, maintain the expenses of his equipages and provide for his family besides. There is one private citizen in Washington who expends upwards of $50,000 annually in the maintenance of his family according to social customs.

Some of our good old-fashioned people, who believe in simplicity, will say that because others wear diamonds and silks, and costly ornaments, that is no reason why the president's wife should have such things.

Wiping the gore from his glitzy weapon the desperate-looking young man seized a piece of cloth and removed as well as he could all traces of horrible work from the face of his victim.

Then he straightened himself up, pushed the unhappy wretch away from him, and in a voice of thunder called out: "Next!"

UNDER DIFFICULTIES.

Mr. Wesley Higgintop's Proposal to Viola Jarvis.

"I hope you will not accuse me of taking an unfair advantage, Miss Jarvis," began Wesley Higgintop, slipping into the unoccupied seat by the side of the young woman.

"I know what you are about to say—I am taking a liberty not warranted by our short acquaintance, and all that sort of thing. But I am not. I have been in this car nearly a quarter of an hour.

"That between a young man of at least average respectability in appearance and a seedy old hunk with dyed whiskers no young woman of taste could hesitate for a moment. Hence—" "Upon my word, sir—" "Hence I am here. Of two evils, Miss Jarvis, always choose the better-looking.

The train had been going at the rate of 40 miles an hour. The sudden application of the air-brakes brought it quickly to a stop.

"I decided to seize the first opportunity to tell you—" "For heaven's sake, what—" "To tell you that I—" "No, no! I mean what is the noise about? Something dreadful is happening! I am sure it is!"

"There's some disturbance at the forward end of the train, I presume. Viola Jarvis—" "O, Mr. Higgintop, at such a time as this how can you—" "A man as far gone as I am doesn't stop to reason about things. I have only known you about six weeks, but I think I have wanted you all my—"

"I don't believe in long engagements. Four weeks from this day—take your hands away from mine and I'll kiss you before all these people, you willful girl! There! now you're acting sensibly—hello, conductor, what's the matter?"

"Train robbers," replied the uniformed guardian of the train, who had just entered the car. "They've looted the express car and got away with $25,000. The danger's over now, though. The gang's gone. Those last three shots you heard were to keep everybody scared till the thieves had got clear.

When the train moved off again, however, after a further delay of 15 or 20 minutes, he still held those little hands in his.—Chicago Tribune.

"My future movements are uncertain," said Mr. Lockhart at parting. "I will remain in London for some time, but before the summer is over I expect to make a visit to Europe."
