Local Items of General Interest Reported

Budding Pecan Trees Is Progressing

According to County Agent, W. P. Weaver, the demand for assistance in pecan budding is stronger than usual and many growers are placing buds for the first time.

"In 1923 and 1924, pecan improvement reached its highest point in Mills county," says Mr. Weaver. "Since that time considerable work has been done each year. Now the trees worked in '23 and '24 are bearing fine nuts and this being observed has aroused great interest."

The pecan groves along the north bank of the Colorado for 50 miles, and on both sides of the Bayou for more than 20 miles and on the numerous creeks of Mills county, hold wonderful possibilities when improved, as they surely will be in the coming years.

BURTON LEVERETT SHOT

Burton Leverett, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Leverett, whose home is about three miles north of this city, on the Priddy road, met with a serious accident in the home Monday afternoon, when he was shot in the leg. The young man had just returned from school at Goldthwaite and passing through the house from the rear entered his father's bedroom, at the front of the house, where he secured a shot gun and passed into the living room when the gun was by some means discharged, a number of shots striking him in the side of the leg, above the ankle, making a serious wound. His mother, who was in her garden nearby, hurried to the house when she heard the shot and at once summoned a physician and some of the neighbors and sent for Mr. Leverett, who was in the field some distance away. The wound was found to be quite severe and the young man was carried to the hospital at Brownwood, where he still is in a serious condition, although his recovery is expected.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Joe Barnett, the 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Barnett, suffered a severe accident last Sunday, when a horse he was riding at the ranch, south of town, fell with him breaking his leg between the ankle and knee and dislocating his ankle. He was rushed to the sanitarium at Brownwood, where an X-ray picture was made of the injury and the injured limb was set and the ankle properly adjusted. He is still in the sanitarium, but it is hoped he will be able to be brought home in a few days. The injury was very painful, but it is not believed there will be any permanent results.

NO REPORT FROM BANK ROBBERS

There have been no developments in the search for the robbers who held up the cashier of the First National Bank in this city last Wednesday and secured $4200. Officers are following every clue and it is confidently believed the robbers will soon be apprehended.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor will be out of town Sunday morning, preaching the commencement sermon for the Indian Gap High School, but will be here for the regular Sunday evening services, beginning promptly at 7:45.

Listen: Because the pastor will be out of town and no preaching service Sunday morning, let every member of our Sunday school make it a point to be present. Remember that Sunday is the last Sunday in this month and let's see to it that our offering will be put in the plate Sunday morning, as the superintendent will take the regular offering. The women who have our church finances in charge speak very complimentary of all of our people in reference to their monthly contributions to our church, and just remember when we put our offering in the plate that we take off of these good women some of their work, and also show our spirit of co-operation.

The pastor attended the "Workers Conference" at Hamilton last Monday. Dr. W. R. White and his wife were present and Dr. White made two splendid addresses. The women of the Hamilton church served lunch in the basement of the church to the delight of all. In looking over the Sunday school record we noticed that we had one hundred more in Sunday school than the Hamilton church. We have about half the membership that the Hamilton church has, all of which goes to prove the loyalty of our membership. There is one thing that we as a church don't want to do, and that is to become "egotistic." That very thing has ruined more churches and more people than any other one thing. When a man gets "stuck" on himself ruin is inevitable. When a church gets "stuck" they have already failed. Although we are happy because of our progress, and because of our good fellowship that exist with the majority of our people, let it be remembered that we are doing no more than our duty. When people do their duty all is well.

We had the privilege of preaching to the Lometa saints last Tuesday night. Splendid congregation and good fellowship were the most noticeable things; also we noticed that they had over 150 in their Sunday school last Sunday, which goes to prove that there is another church that is loyal.

Services were well attended at Kelly and Big Valley Sunday evening and night. This preacher always enjoys going out to the rural communities and meeting the people. In the rural district you will find the foundation of our civilization. Read history and you will find that most of the contributions made to civilization were made by people who were reared in the country. Take away from out town the contributions that are being made now by the people in the rural district, and see how long you have a good school, good churches, and other things that go to make life worth while. Personally, I believe that the citizens of this town ought, (and when I say citizens I mean all) make our town so attractive from every standpoint that even people from other counties will be attracted and come our way.

There are three outstanding things that will go along way in making any town what it ought to be. Co-operation, hospitality and fellowship. Without these any town will come to naught. While these are true in regard to the town, they are also true in reference to the rural districts. Let's remember that we should be one Common Brotherhood, and what helps you will help me, and what hurts me will hurt you. So let's all work together for the interest of all, and when we do that we will have carried out the teachings of the Master.

Don't forget to be present Sunday and Sunday night.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

A band of dogs, thought to be German shepherds, is reported to be doing much damage on the sheep ranges near Eastland. It is said the dogs jump wolf-proof fences to make their kills. One farm reports over 100 sheep and goats killed in the past few weeks.

The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Company is now making the preliminary surveys for an 800-mile gas line. A twenty-four inch line will extend from the Texas gas fields to Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn., with a thirty-five-mile eight-inch extension from the main line to Rodney and Sioux City, Iowa.

Fully 2000 people met the train at Cisco Sunday afternoon on which the remains of the late Congressman Lee were carried back to his home for burial, his death having occurred in Washington Friday morning. The congressional committee and Senators Sheppard and Connerly were included in the delegation.

Arrangements were made in DeLeon last Saturday for celebrating the 90th birthday of a lady of that community, but when relatives entered her room to awaken her they found her dead. All day letters, packages and telegrams of congratulation arrived for her from friends and relatives who had not learned of her death.

The little town of Slaton, in DeLeon county, has inaugurated quite a novel plan for attracting farmers to the town on Wednesdays. The Chamber of Commerce has an auction of farm products and all articles needed by the farmers. In this way there is an interchange of property and products and the service in making the exchange is without expense to the farmers.

It is expected that the first seven of the ten 10,000-ton cruisers to be allotted the United States under the London naval treaty will be laid down at any time suitable to the needs of the navy, presumably before 1933. The remaining three cruisers to be constructed by this country under the details of the naval agreement may be laid down one each in 1933, 1934 and 1935.

A survey of the lives of "100 average men" showed that at more than half of them were self supporting or better. Only fifteen were dependent. At 55 the number of dependents had doubled and at 65 it was still increasing. This may be taken either as a threat or a warning. It may be the source of despondency or of keen incentive accordingly as it is viewed with courage or taken as an ultimatum proclaiming the uselessness of effort.—Corseiana Sun.

The club women are holding their district meetings just now. The Spring conventions of the federated clubs of the state are among the most important annual gatherings of their kind and have been for something more than twenty years in Texas. With the end of another club year approaching, representatives of the clubs of the cities and towns of each district, together with the district chairmen and committee members who have been directing the various divisions of club activity, gather in the respective convention cities and towns and give an account of the course of their labors during the year, likewise they discuss plans for the future and deliberate on problems and questions of policy which have arisen since their last meetings. All of which is of great importance to the state, to the communities in which these women live, and to the women themselves. It is helping to build civilization in Texas.—Texas Weekly.

FIRST GET THEM THERE

A visiting British writer points out that our law-enforcement machinery, and particularly our prison system, is archaic. He declares that too much softness and ease in our prisons—with their radios, movies, books, vaudeville entertainments, etc., is responsible for the fact that crime does not decrease. The prison he thinks, should be a place of horror to the criminal.

This man is not merely exercising what appears to have become a royal prerogative of Britishers and others to criticize and lambaste everything and anything American. His idea is fundamentally sound; that a criminal will never desist from crime until it lands him in a place of acute discomfort; and until the idea penetrates his thick skull that he will continue to land there as long as he offends society.

His premise is true, but he fails to dig deep enough into the situation. The criminal will refrain from crime, true enough if he knows that he will inevitably be sent to a place of terror for even a short time. He will not commit depredations if he knows he is certain to be sent anywhere for any time.

But is this sending certain? Therein is the crux of the matter. For under our present loose, lax system of prosecution and court procedure, with its thousands of technicalities and errors and appeals and reverses, with its ridiculous "insanity" pleas, only a very small per cent of the criminals apprehended ever serve sentences.

Our prisons are already bad enough that the criminal fears them—shudders to hear the clanging of their great gates between him and the world. They are bad enough that he will spend every dollar upon which he can lay his hands to avoid them.

And with his dollars, he wins ultimate freedom in the great majority of cases. With enough of them, he can command the best legal talent in the country for his defense: Tricky and unethical counsel, who are enabled to carry on their disgraceful maneuverings by reason of our ancient and outworn court system.

We may make of our prisons places of punishment, rather than entertainment and diversion; of dread, rather than pampering—but until we convince the criminal, by actual example, that crime will certainly, regularly, and promptly send him there, crime will continue to grow and wax powerful on United States soil.

And we can convince him only when our courts are trimmed of their inane mouthings about "technicalities" and "insanity" and are transferred into swift, efficient, common-sense agencies of justice.—Holland's Magazine.

MANY AILMENTS YIELD QUICKLY TO NEW KONJOLA

Manager of East Side Stone Yard Eagerly Praises Merits of New Medicine

"Stomach trouble, disordered kidneys and constipation over a period of six months, had placed me in a badly run-down condition," said Mr. James A. Cox, 630 Mathewson street, Wichita. "Gas and bloating followed even the simplest meals. Kidney weakness gave me frightful back pains and I was subject to frequent bladder actions. I was restless and found it difficult to sleep for any length of time. I had no appetite and was weak and listless. For two weeks I was utterly unable to work and it was during this time that Konjola was recommended to me by my friends."

"My appetite increased the very day I began taking Konjola. My stomach gradually began to function as it should and the back pains left me. Today I eat heartily without any discomfort whatever and am free from bloating. My kidneys are in excellent condition and I am entirely free from constipation. My general health is better than it has been in a long time. I owe all this to Konjola."

It is logical to believe that what Konjola has done for others, it will do for you—for everyone. This is especially true if Konjola is given a fair trial. Six to eight weeks is recommended as a fair trial in stubborn cases.

Konjola is sold in Goldthwaite, Texas, at Hudson Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

SULPHUR DEPOSITS

The United States is now producing about 1,374,000 long tons of sulphur annually for domestic consumption, in addition to about 700,000 long tons annually for export, according to the report issued by the United States Bureau of Mines. Nearly all of this production is coming from Texas at present, and the rapid increase in both domestic and foreign demand is causing extensive development in this state. Practically all sulphur consumed in 1903 when the Frash hot water method of mining was put in operation in Louisiana. Shortly afterward this process was applied to sulphur domes in Texas, the first mine being near Freeport, in Brazoria county. Thereafter another large mine was opened in Matagorda county at Gulf, and these two mines then produced most of the sulphur supply of the world. During the last twelve months there have been extensive development in Wharton county and a mine has been opened in Duval county near San Diego.—West Texas Today.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store.—Clement's, The Rexall Store.

 Panama Canal cost about $100,000,000, according to an issue of the Weekly News Letter of the American Farm Bureau. We have been building roads for each year, half this year, for road building. Yet the amount of American farm roads is only 2,484,822 miles of unimproved roads in the country. Situation retards farm production and is a menace to agriculture. According to a figure prepared from a study of the state of New York, a farmer on a dirt road loses 20 per cent, or more, less each year than a farmer who lives on a hard road, and his automobile travels 100 miles less. Agriculture is a large item on the national tax bill, and it has been accorded its share of billions of dollars. Billions of dollars have been spent on trunk roads, which go from city to city by the shortest possible route, leaving rural areas unimproved. It has only recently been recognized, in progressive states, that for every mile of highway, eight, ten or twelve miles of feeder or farm roads should be constructed at the same time. In fact, yet efficient, modern roads make it possible to travel year round, long weatherproof rural roads at a low cost. As long as a overwhelming majority of farmers live on roads which are impassable many months of the year, the outstanding agricultural problem will remain un-can industry in the past has never been over-looked but it has been making a steady growth for many years. Agents, in counties there is much nature, have created a new era of interest in budgeting top-working trees. In other sections many orchards have been planted of which are already producing. As a result, the supply of papershell nuts is small native nut market with the papershell nuts. It is not much danger in applying the market for nuts if proper methods of raising are used. There is a surplus some growers of fine nuts to insist that their nuts worth from 60 cents a pound. That kind of nuts was justifiable a few years ago, when papershell nuts were almost a curiosity that day is over. Nuts are not in general use in the North and East. All there is up there for nuts is a holiday. This is due, in a very measure, to the fact that the generally has not even the opportunity to see the merits of the better nuts. The small, hard-pecan is difficult to crack without breaking the kernel. Cracker adapted to such as most of us own in the Southwest, are unknown in the North. If the shell hammer is resorted to, nuts are not satisfac-

TEACHERS MAY NOW BE GIVEN LONGER CONTRACT BY TRUSTEES

Austin, Texas, April 14.—S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, has called attention of school officials to provisions of House Bill 57, passed by the fifth called session of the 41st legislature, now in effect, authorizing boards of trustees in independent school districts having scholastic population of fewer than 5,000 to employ a superintendent, principal, teacher or other executive officers in the school for a term not to exceed three years and in those over 5,000 for a term not to exceed five years.

"There are many deserving teachers and school executives who should be rewarded by being tendered a contract for more than one year," Superintendent Marrs said. "Annual re-election produces a feeling of unrest and does not contribute to efficiency of service. Boards of trustees should compliment competent and faithful employees by electing them for a longer term than one year. The policy should be adopted for re-electing for one year when first chosen, the second election should be for two years and then gradually increase the term to the maximum so long as excellent service is rendered. Failure to elect for a long term when due according to previous employment, would be a warning to the teacher that her position is insecure and unless she made decided improvement would result in her being dropped at the end of her contract.

"This law is a part of the general program which seeks to increase the efficiency of the school system by making the administration more permanent. It is one of the enabling acts which puts into operation the constitutional amendment adopted in 1928 that conferred the power upon the legislature to extend the terms of all school officials not to exceed six years.

We have come to the close of another hatching season and it is time to dispose of the rooster. Late hatched chicks are as a rule not profitable. Fertile eggs entail great losses to the poultry industry. Why keep the rooster.

CONFEDERATE PENSIONS

Under the condition that developed last year, through an unfortunate legislative faux pas, the State of Texas frankly robbed Petrina to pay Pauline. There were hundreds of Confederate widows who got nothing in order that others should get more. Any name entitled to go on the pensions list is entitled to its mathematical division of the pension fund. It was not that way last year, although nobody in particular seems to have been responsible for the injustice wrought. Very likely it is true that there are beneficiaries on the pension list who have no real right to be there. But when the authority that authorizes their listing lists them, then they are entitled to fair treatment. Under the new law, the pension department may borrow from another department to make up a deficiency, charging same against the pension fund. Before long, the pensioners will have passed away, after which the 7c ad valorem tax will contribute enough to repay all loans. This means happiness for many who justly felt ill-used. The old Confederate and his old wife can subsist themselves in some comfort on $50 a month. The old widows can be happy on $25 a month. Much money is not required for those who have few wants. One of the miseries men and women subject themselves to unnecessarily is the misery of wanting much when a little would do them as well, or better. It isn't how great the fortune is that counts in the final summation, but how secure the little income may be.—State Press in Dallas News.

MILLIONAIRE TEXAS CATTLEMAN IS DEAD

El Paso, Texas, April 18.—John N. Janes, 63, millionaire Texas cattleman, died in an El Paso hotel Wednesday night after a heart attack. The cattleman came here from Hot Springs, Ark., for a visit with a daughter, Miss John Anne Janes, student at an El Paso school for girls. He was owner of the famous Rocking Chair ranch in Bailey county, where he had been a resident for more than thirty-five years. Burial will be in Amarillo, where Mr. Janes had made his home in recent years. In addition to his daughter, the cattleman is survived by a brother, J. D. Janes, of Abilene, and a sister, Mrs. Julia Holden of Childress.

Mr. Janes lived in the Williams Ranch section in the long ago and is remembered by many friends in this county. He visited this city several years ago, at the time of the burial of his sister at this place. Both of his parents are buried in the Goldthwaite cemetery, as well as the sister.

The good roads movement in the United States has been productive of so much enthusiasm that we are likely to reach the conclusion that our present highway mileage is adequate for all purposes and that there is no necessity for going to the expense of further building on a large scale. The facts show differently. The United States has three times as many automobiles as the rest of the world, but Europe has four times our surfaced roadway. We stand twelfth in the world in the proportion of highway mileage to square miles of territory. A vast field for highway development remains almost untouched in this country. Great stress has been laid on construction of trunk highways. Farm-to-market roads now need attention.

SAVING OIL

It is hoped that some of the oil conservation experiments now being carried on in various important fields will result in the creation of a nation-wide program to prevent waste of our invaluable petroleum resources. In Texas, and to some extent in California, the so-called unit system of field work is being extensively tried out. Under this system, development of a field owned by a number of interests, is pooled in the hands of a committee with absolute power. The returns are divided among the owners, and overproduction is prevented. The California gas conservation has excited much interest. In the early stages of its existence it failed, due to the refusal of "independent" and irresponsible operators to abide by the restrictions. Success is now forecast, as, according to a recent report, California operators are curtailing production in practically every field in order to conserve the natural gas which will be needed in the future to lift the oil from the depths to the surface. Every citizen, whether he knows it or not, has a direct interest in oil conservation. We are producing most of the world's supply, yet we have but a comparatively small percentage of the resources. To allow irresponsible producers, interested only in quick profits, to waste oil, amounts to criminal folly.

A REAL ROAD PROBLEM

The good roads movement in the United States has been productive of so much enthusiasm that we are likely to reach the conclusion that our present highway mileage is adequate for all purposes and that there is no necessity for going to the expense of further building on a large scale. The facts show differently. The United States has three times as many automobiles as the rest of the world, but Europe has four times our surfaced roadway. We stand twelfth in the world in the proportion of highway mileage to square miles of territory. A vast field for highway development remains almost untouched in this country. COLOR INFLUENCES SALE OF NEW HOUSE

Home owners are demanding more color in houses of all types. The style appeal as indicated by color is exerting a stronger influence in the purchase of a home than do many construction features. This was the opinion of Mr. McCullough of Baraas & McCullough, local distributor of du Pont paints, varnishes and Duro. He continued, "The popularity of many types of architecture such as the English type for small houses, is due to a large extent to the opportunity for more color. It is said that one of the things which lure families from city apartment houses to the suburbs is the more colorful effects which are possible in a house."

Back Quit Hurting. I was in a very weak condition from a serious sickness. Mrs. L. Leonard, of 571 Joseph St., New Orleans, La. "I was so weak, I wanted to sleep all the time. I did not have strength to do anything. My back ached nearly all the time. I was just in misery. My mother told me I must arouse myself from the sleepiness, and take something to help get my strength back. She had taken Cardui and had been helped, so I decided to take Cardui, too. After my first bottle, I could see that it was helping me. I took four bottles at this time. My strength came back and I gained weight. Pretty soon, I was my old self again. My back quit hurting, and I haven't had any more trouble since I took Cardui." CARDUI Helps Women to Health

Husbands Prefer Wives Who Go In For Careers

JEANE JOYSON

So Says Jeane Joyson, Whose Spouse Put Her On the Stage

New York City.—Are husbands getting reconciled to wives with careers? "They certainly are if my experience is any criterion," says Jeane Joyson, vaudeville headliner. "It's no secret to any of my friends that I never would have been on the stage at all if it hadn't been for my husband. I had studied voice all my life and was accustomed to sing at charity affairs and for friends, but it never occurred to me to think seriously about the stage. "Anyway, I should never have thought myself good enough for a stage career. But my husband, bless his heart, thought so much about my singing that, without saying a word to me, he decided I ought to have a wider field for it. We had no children and he was not selfish enough to want me to sing off the stage merely because I was a wife. "He told Sophie Tucker about me and had her sing for her. I did not know that I was on trial and never dreamed that Miss Tucker was passing judgment on me and deciding from my rendition of the song 'Hit While the Years Go Drifting By' that I would do for vaudeville. Yet that was just what was happening and before I knew anything about it I had been booked and there was a contract ready for me to sign. "In six weeks, I had recovered from my surprise, was successful and wondered how I ever managed to live without my career. And I owe it all to my husband. I believe the sort of spirit he has shown will eventually make a real partnership of marriage and career."

AS A WOMAN THINKETH

Count Your Blessings

(Clarice Annie Heath)
Why, do you suppose, is there so much discontent?

We either have too much rain or not enough. Winters are too cold and summers too hot. Spring brings cream of tartar and sulphur pills and languidness and we are all too busy, especially the farmers, to enjoy autumn, but if we weren't too busy we'd manage to find something wrong with the weather I suppose. Somebody has a new car and we still have to ride in a "28" model or some one said some one else said our new Easter bonnet looked terrible on us. The baby is cutting teeth. Jimmy in his first year of school is always fighting and coming home with torn clothes or worse still a black eye or a missing tooth. And says "huh?" when you speak to him instead of "Maam" as we tried so long and earnestly to teach him.

Sometimes we want to throw up our hands in despair and when we do feel that way why not stop for a minute and count our blessings. Don't they outnumber our woes?

We may still ride in a '28 model car, but it's paid for anyway and we heard that so and so's new car wasn't. The baby may be cross from cutting teeth and it has never been really sick in all its short life. Jimmy may fight and not come up to our standards of politeness but he is among the best in his class. We all have good health and about as much as the majority of people.

Aren't most of our worries imaginary anyway and most of our troubles petty? This is a good old world after all, if we will only look for the good.

Next time we are feeling blue let's stop and sing this line of a song most of us know.

Count your blessings, Name them one by one, And it will surprise you what the Lord hath done.

Remember, Laugh and the world laughs with you, Weep and you weep alone, For this sad old Earth Must borrow its mirth But has troubles enough of its own.

IS BEST INVESTMENT HE EVER MADE SAYS PIERCE

"My nerves were 'shot to pieces,' I couldn't half rest at night, my appetite was poor and I suffered a lot with indigestion. This weakened and pulled me down so that I'd tire out before a day was half over. Nothing seemed to fit my case until I started Sargon and the money I spent for this medicine was the best investment I ever made. Now my appetite is good, my nerves are steady and I sleep fine. I put in a full day now without tiring in the least. Sargon Pills put my liver in fine shape and completely ended my constipation."—H. T. Pierce, 402 Crawford St., Fort Worth.

SATISFYING DEMAND

More and more the rest of the world is coming to depend on the United States for products and commodities of all kinds. During 1929, according to the Department of Commerce, foreign sales of American industrial machinery totaled over $257,000,000. The significance of this is shown by the fact that in 1913 the total was but $87,129,000, and during the last ten years the average has been $194,533,000. The World's Work points out that this achievement was made in the face of sharp competition from foreign machine manufacturers who suffer from overproduction at home and are forced to dispose of their products in the world market. American machinery was sold in the heart of the foreign market, and at prices somewhat higher than those asked by the foreign manufacturers, solely because of its superior quality. The efficiency and economy of American manufacturing industries are not equaled elsewhere. Adequate, low-priced electric power, our splendid transportation system, the application of gas to thousands of industrial operations—such factors as these are responsible for our international eminence.

DIRECT ACTION NEEDED

The failure of unconditional compulsory automobile liability insurance is due to the self-evident fact that a careless or incompetent driver cannot be made careful or competent by an insurance policy. There are two ways by which accidents can be reduced. One is to educate drivers and pedestrians in the fundamentals of safety. The other is to enforce modern, sensible traffic laws. During the past several years accidents to school children have materially decreased because of the innovation of safety education in the curricula of progressive schools. During this same period accidents to adults have rapidly increased. We cannot send all drivers to school. But we can pass licensing restrictions that prevent them operating motor car unless mentally and physically competent, and we can, through rigidly enforced traffic codes, do much to remove the congenitally reckless driver from the highways. Unconditional compulsory insurance adopts the wrong method in working for a good end. Direct action is what is needed to remedy the growing accident problem.

MACHINE HUMAN FACTOR

Despite the widespread assumption that development of the machine has dwarfed the importance of man himself, the human factor is more vital today than ever before, in the opinion of H. G. Taylor, Manager Public Relations Section of Car Service Division, American Railway Association. "As great industries have become greater, their wide-flung activities have made contact between management and employees increasingly difficult and increased the possibilities for misunderstanding and friction," he says. "Consider that last year over 52,000,000 carloads of freight were handled by the railroads of the United States. Assuming only two transactions in the handling of each carload of this traffic, there were over 100,000,000 transactions involved. The fact that the traffic was handled with such a degree of satisfaction to all concerned indicates that the railroads and the public are in accord. To make such a statement, however, is sufficient to express the importance of attention to the human element involved. "Railroading has always been a romantic adventure. With the perfection of machinery and automatic equipment, we have reduced dangers and improved service, but we have not decreased the importance of the human element. Rails, cars, engines, bridges, terminals are only inanimate agencies after all. Lacking the touch of the human hand and the direction of the mind of man, they are impotent and useless."

VILLAINS VANISHING

During the past quarter century there has been a tremendous and significant change in the attitude of the average citizen toward "capitalism" and "capitalists." "Time was when every rich industrialist was of necessity a villain," writes Haywood Brown, the celebrated columnist. "The captains of finance were the men behind the trusts and the trusts ground down and exploited the poor. Once upon a time the notion held sway that if the Government would only compel competition in every form of business we should all be rich, happy and possessors of full dinner pails." Now the old days and the old attitude have passed away. We have found out that the way to get rich and happy is not to enforce ruinous competition on business, or to "bust the trusts" but to allow capital to progress to the limits of its possibilities in order to expedite the common welfare. We have found out that general prosperity is the natural result of corporate and industrial prosperity; that high wages for millions of workers can only be paid by wealthy and prosperous businesses managed by "capitalists." As a matter of fact, America is coming to be a nation of distribution of ownership of basic industries. Instead of reviling capital, we now make it work to serve all of us.

Women Wreck Careers By Their Jealousies

There goes Precious, sweetest like the thing, (Sweet Precious) Just as fresh as flowers in the Spring!

But the Home's Their Element, Insist Lido Entertainers

New York City.—Women are all right in business so long as they have a straight field ahead and no rivals. It is only when the rivals menace their supremacy that they become tigresses and wreck the business and themselves.

This is the solemn opinion of George Walsh, Tommy Purcell, Billy Mann and Chick Endor, four good-natured young men who entertain at the Club Lido.

whole organization and their good luck as well.

"Women," said Tommy Purcell, wisely, "are jealous. They want to be the whole show, or nothing at all."

"Whereas we," broke in Billy Mann, "share everything equally. There is no leader among us. No one of us has more responsibility than the others. It's an ideal arrangement—for men."

"Yes," added Chick Endor, "we have made our reputation singing about girls—beautiful girls, lovable girls, kissable girls, such as the one we laud in 'Precious,' but we don't want one in our act!"

Then the interviewer got in a word. "What about women in the home?" he wanted to know.

At that, the four proved that they really do everything together. They yelled in concert: "That's where she shines! We're all married!"

The four call themselves the Yacht Club Entertainers.
