BAPTIST ASSOCIATION WILL MEET AT STAR

A Large Attendance Is Expected

Convenes with the Star Baptist Church August 15, at 10 a. m. As moderator of the association, let me urge every church to elect delegates that will attend. If a man is elected and he knows that he can not attend, let him say so, then some one else can be elected in his place. Let every church note another thing of importance and that is when the missionary stopped his work we owed him more than a hundred dollars. Some of the board members went to the bank and borrowed the money and paid him, and that was the proper thing to do. Now the next proper thing to do is to pay this note. Every church is morally responsible for this obligation. Several of the churches have already contributed. Some have not. Now this appeal is to all. Let every church take an offering and send to the association. We will need at least $150 to take care of all our expenses, including minutes, etc. Don't forget the date, Friday before the third Sunday in August. Every church wants to send delegates, money and letter.

G. C. IVINS, Moderator.

BUILDING MODERN FRONT

Work was begun Monday on the modern front on O. H. Yarbrough's dry goods store building. When completed this front will add largely to the appearance of the store and give much better show window space, as well as help the appearance of that portion of the business section. The overhanging awning has been torn away and will be replaced with a modern awning, giving the place a very attractive appearance.

This and other improvements being made in the business part of town proves the confidence the business men have in the future of Goldthwaite, and at the same time refutes the "hard times" stories some folk are prone to circulate.

Mrs. Gatlin's two new brick store buildings are nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy, and by fall the business men will all be ready with big stocks and ample facilities to take care of the trade.

MAIL BOXES ARRIVE

The mail boxes to be placed at the depot, for mail to go in either direction on the trains, have been received by Postmaster Harrison and will be placed in position as soon as the supporting concrete posts arrive and are placed. These boxes will be of vast benefit and great convenience to the people here and it is hoped they will remain permanently. They were secured by effort of the Lions club, supplemented by Postmaster Harrison, and the thanks of all concerned are due Congressman Thos. L. Blanton for securing the order from the postal department. Without Mr. Blanton's efforts the mail boxes could not have been secured.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

George Munsell and Miss Nora Riddle, both of San Saba county, were granted marriage license in the county clerk's office this week.

METHODIST NOTES

A wonderfully aggressive business meeting resulted from the gathering at the Methodist study Monday night. A few of our board were conspicuous by their absence, which really was their first absence for the year. We have the most loyal board to their business meetings that I have met since I have been in the ministry, I believe. Do not think that we did not have a good bunch and "Cap" Walters presides with ease and discretion. We are conscious that we have much to do, but with the help of a great constituency, such as the Goldthwaite Methodist church, who will add a bit to their sacrifices all the way round and make this usual great closing of a good year's work. We must steer clear of two extremes, the one is becoming panicky and uneasy about our task and the other is, perhaps as dangerous, being so perfectly at ease that we let things glide and fall to do our part, and help the other fellow who has had misfortune to do his part according to the apostolic injunction, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ" that we come to the last of the year with a tremendous deficit. May blessings be upon you as you give of yourselves to honor Christ in the up-building of His kingdom.

Our was a great Sunday school last Sunday. The spirit was fine and the building was nearly full, but do not stay away yet for lack of room. We will find you a comfortable seat, as there is lots of room in our welcome and you are cordially invited to share it.

If we have room next Sunday morning the children will worship in the main auditorium and part of the message will be especially for them. This service we believe will be helpful to all and all are invited to share it with us.

Our Leagues will be highly benefited by the return of our representatives from the Kerrville encampment. They are back and will be on hand full of inspiration and help to offer the Leaguers. Come boys and girls and bring your friends to enjoy a treat at the League service Sunday evening.

In the cool and quiet of Sunday evening you are invited to a very helpful service. Close the Sabbath day gloriously with a great audience on this occasion as the message comes to us from the text "One thing I do".

Yours in His service,
S. D. LAMBERT.

GAS EXPLOSION FATAL

A special to the daily papers Monday told of the fatal injury of Brooke Smith, Jr., formerly of Brownwood and later of Houston, in a camp house at San Antonio. He was the only son of a former banker of Brownwood and was engaged with his father in the banking business for a long time. The message said:

San Antonio, July 21.—Hurled half way through a closed window and burned fatally when a locked gas filled room exploded into a raging holocaust Sunday at the Grande Courts Tourist Hotel, Brooke Smith, Jr., 42, of Houston, died early today at a hospital here.

The man died after lapsing into unconsciousness, which followed a brief period of consciousness immediately after the explosion. He was unable to talk rationally before he became unconscious.

The explosion, which shook the entire building and was heard a mile away, brought other occupants of the hotel to Smith's room. They found the door locked and J. B. Jennings, V. Muhl and G. Muhl smashed into the room to find Smith hanging half way through a shattered window. One foot had caught in the sill and the injured man was hanging head downward.

He was badly burned and cut from the window glass. Jennings and the two Muhl's took the man from the burning room in a quick dash through the flames. He was rushed to the hospital. His death came several hours later.

A STRANGE DISEASE

Two physicians from the state health department, one from the state livestock sanitary department and three from Brownwood joined Dr. J. M. Campbell here Monday for a visit to the border of Brown and Comanche counties, where four patients are suffering with fever which is pronounced by the physicians to be Malta fever, a disease contracted from bugs off of goats. The bugs were found in a cave in Mills county, in the neighborhood where the fever patients live and the parties had been in the cave prior to contracting the fever. The physicians secured some of the bugs and took specimens of blood from the patients and also from a number of cattle and goats and took it to the state laboratory for analysis and will also submit it to the federal health authorities in Washington. A report has been received from the livestock sanitary department saying no infection was found in the blood of the livestock, but the state health department has not yet reported.

The peculiarity of Malta fever is that it runs from four months to a year, but it is not necessarily fatal.

BANK SHORTAGE AT BRADY

Announcement was made at Brady Wednesday that a shortage of $92,000 had been discovered in the accounts of the Commercial National Bank of Brady, the oldest and one of the strongest financial institutions of that town. Two of the employees were arrested and the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas sent $100,000 to the bank by airplane.

BAPTIST CHURCH

What do you think happened at the Baptist church last Sunday? Ten families who are regular church attendants were absent. Yet, we had 192 in Sunday school, almost a normal crowd at preaching service, and a splendid crowd Sunday night. My, what would we have done had these others been present. Some think they can get by and the pastor never miss them, but it doesn't make any difference whether you sing in the choir, or sit on the back seat, we all know when you are absent. Regardless of who it is, if you attend our services in a worshipful spirit you always contribute to the services, whether you are helped by them or not. In fact, the person that goes to church just in order to get something is the person that never adds anything to a service. If folk go to church to be helpers they always contribute to the services and in turn receive something that is worthwhile. Now, I am not talking about contributing money. I am talking about that contribution that is far more valuable than money. Some people think that a preacher thinks more about money and especially his salary than anything else pertaining to church life. Listen. The question of fellowship, good feeling and good will toward and for each other has always been my biggest worry. If the membership of a church will honor God with righteous living and love each other the financial problem is solved. I do not mean that we won't have reverses that may cause our financial obligations to be just a little hard to meet at times, but I simply mean, if we all do the thing that is right, all other things will be adjusted satisfactorily.

Today all over this world, and especially in our own nation, people are face to face with a financial crisis. People tell me most every day that they have never seen times just as they are, and can't see how they are to survive. And yet these same people buy automobiles, gas, go to fairs, take in all the attractions at the fair, wear good clothes, have plenty to eat. In fact, have a good time in general. I am just wondering what these folk want? To my way of thinking they have everything they ought to have and more, as to that. Now, folks, let's don't talk hard times until we have put our "tin Lizzy" in the barn and put on our cotton overalls and hickory shirt, and have biscuits only on Sunday or when the preacher of doctor comes. Now, when these things come to pass, just like they were thirty years ago, then we can begin to talk "hard times". We will admit money is scarce, that is as far as we are concerned, because we do not have it like we did three or four years ago, but the question, who is at fault? Had this preacher not spent money for things he could have done without for the past five years, he could very easily tide over this financial crisis, if most of the money is tied up in Wall street, I am not able to tell why these perilous times have come, but I know one thing. As long as every one takes a pessimistic view, and keeps crying defeat, just that long we will be defeated. We know that it is dry and everything about burned up, but

GOOD GAMES

Three excellent games of base ball were played by the Goldthwaite team and three competing teams during the Fair. All of the games were good and the teams were strong. The score stood:

First Day	Second Day	Third Day
Comanche 4	Hamilton 9	Pottsville 0
Goldthwaite 27	Goldthwaite 6	Goldthwaite 2

A BAD INJURY

Jack Johnson, who was injured some time ago by an automobile on which he was working in a Brownwood garage falling upon him, is in a serious condition. He was carried to the hospital in Fort Worth the first of the week and underwent a serious operation. R. E. Ross, his father-in-law, was with him at the time of the operation and reports he went through the operation all right, and appears to be somewhat improved.

MODERN RESIDENCE

D. Albert Trent's modern brick residence, in the southern suburbs, is rapidly being completed and will be one of the most attractive and comfortable homes in this section. This residence is located on the site of the old Ed. Kirby home, south of the San Saba highway.

HEAVY VOTING

There has been an unusually heavy absentee vote cast this campaign, which indicates an unusual interest in politics, suggesting a large vote in the primary Saturday. Every citizen should perform the duty of citizenship at the polls.

FARMERS SHORT COURSE

W. P. Weaver, county agent, expects to leave Sunday for College Station, to attend the Farmer's Short Course, where every branch of farming and stock raising will be taught. He expects to be away all of next week.

let's remember that God who is omnipotent and omnipresent will provide if we will only trust Him. When people through out this nation turn to God and walk in His footsteps they will have no more worrying. All will be well.

Forget these little ailments that we have in a temporal way. You have health, plenty to eat, and plenty to wear. Come on down to the Baptist church next Sunday and worship with us. If you have the blues the Baptist church is the place to have them cured. If you come frowning, you will leave smiling. You can't stay around this bunch without being optimistic. Try it.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

A head-on collision between automobiles on the Bankhead highway near Odessa last week resulted in the death of one or two and the injury of eight or nine others.

A girl at Plainview was released from the hospital, after receiving treatment for a broken hip and on her way home the car in which she was riding was wrecked and she was so badly injured that she had to return to the hospital.

The presence of a great run fleet operating along the Atlantic seaboard, under direction of powerful shore radio stations, was disclosed Saturday by the arrest of seven men and seizure of four radio stations in the fashionable Long Island district.

Texas farmers will find themselves generally more prosperous after the coming harvest than they have been for many years, according to J. A. Moore, superintendent of agriculture at the State Fair of Texas. He has just completed a tour of the state studying agricultural conditions.

A woman at Fort Worth wrote a "black hand" letter to E. T. Renfro, wealthy druggist of that city, demanding $5000 be left at a designated place, under penalty of death. A bundle of blank paper was deposited in the place directed and the officers kept a close watch for the woman, but nobody appeared to get the package.

The acting United States Consul at Foochow, notified the Legation Friday that he was leaving by launch for Yen-Ping Fu, about 100 miles up the Min river, in an effort to rescue 36 American missionaries. The missionaries are marooned in the area controlled by Lung Sing-kuo. Both sides promised the consul safe conduct through the region.

A native of the Turkish empire, Zaro Agha by name, has arrived in New York and purges a ton of America. Zaro says he is 156 and has a birth certificate and a passport to corroborate him. So that unless you happened to be stopping in Sibilis, Asia Minor, on Feb. 16, 1874, and knew for a fact that the health department did not list his birth that day, you are in no position to dispute his claim. The world's oldest resident took time off from his job as honorary door keeper at Constantinople's city hall to tour the United States in order to get a new set of false teeth and save up some money for old age.

The Jews of the world have best their "wailing wall" at Jerusalem and there seems to be no prospect of regaining possession of it. The Arabs are in control and it is not likely any consideration will be given the claim of the Jews. The Jewish newspaper at Jerusalem reports a statement by the Muf-ti, which says: "There isn't room for a compromise between Jews and Arabs. The wall belongs to Moslems of the whole world, and Palestine Arabs don't want Jews at a Moslem wall. Any decision opposing these principles, whether taken by the wailing wall commission or any other body, will not be accepted by Arabs."

ANOTHER FINE VICTORY WON BY NEW KONJOLA

Lady Was About To Give Up Hope Of Finding Escape From Stubborn Ills

MRS. FLORA STANLEY

No wonder Konjola has won a million friends; no wonder seven million bottles were used in two years! Would you not like to know all about the medicine that wins such triumphs? Ask your druggists about it, but right now before you do anything else, read the words of Mrs. Flora Stanley, 315 North Mc Masters street, Amarillo, Texas. Praising Konjola, Mrs. Stanley says:

"I was in miserable health for five years, the result of stomach, kidney and liver disorders. My back ached terribly and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. Gas formed after each meal, and I endured awful pains. Dizzy spells and bilious attacks were other sources of distress. My husband insisted that I try Konjola, and now I have a good appetite, food digests as it should, dizziness and biliousness are gone and my weight is back to normal. We will always recommend Konjola after what it did for us."

Konjola does work swiftly yet a full treatment of from six to eight bottles is advised for best results.

Konjola is sold in Goldthwaite, Texas, at Hudson Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

HOOVER PROSPERITY

We Democrats would be uncomfortable if our party were in power at Washington and wheat and cotton doing what they are doing now. We would deny that our party's policy had anything to do with hard times and low prices. Naturally, the Republicans are trying to do what we would have done. They are denying their responsibility. But if the Democratic party had been in control of the Government, we might have a larger foreign outlet for our farm crops. The Democratic party believes in trading on fair terms with all the world. The Republican party, as indicated by its recurring tariff laws, favors restricting world trade, so that favored industries in this country can have a protected home market. The result is good profit for those industries most sheltered by the tariff, and bulky surpluses of agricultural products. The tariff touches the farmer's pocket only to take it out, never to put in. Wheat and long staple cotton have tariff protection, but it is chimerical. They are both export crops, therefore a tax on imported wheat or imported cotton amounts to nothing, or next to nothing. The present condition has opened the eyes of the more advanced group of powerful influences in the East. It has shown them that agriculture can not consume if it can not sell, and the protected home market is there by foreshortened. No country can have the good times when half the population is having bad times. — State Press in Dallas News.

SOUND ADVICE

W. H. Oglesby, who is spending some time amid the scenes of his youth in Mississippi, has found an article in one of the papers in that section he believes is applicable to this section as well. It says:

Hold Those Cows!

We have little patience with the editor, banker, radio operator, or business man, who elects to advise the farmer "how to farm." We have always held that the man who lives close to the soil and follows old Beck down to the end of the furrow knows far more about farming than his city or town brother.

Therefore, it is with no spirit of advice that we bring up here the question of Webster county farmers holding on to their dairy cows.

The dairy business at present is discouraging of course. No money is being made. Several cow-owners are endeavoring to get rid of their cows. Lots of work and no money, they say. They are probably telling the truth.

However, we venture the opinion that the dairy business is just as profitable as other businesses today. We are all going through a depressing period of re-adjustment. The mercantile business, the newspaper business, the lumber business, the farming business, the dairy business, all are in the same boat.

But what would happen to the world if every one should quit just because of a little hard times? There have been hard times before—there will be hard times again. The Lord is mighty good to us. He probably knows best when he mixes a little hardship with our prosperity. But one thing is certain,—this is no time to quit! The man who improves himself in hard times and stays in the game, is the man who ultimately makes the biggest success.

ACTION NEEDED

Only 12 states require all automobile drivers to pass tests before they are licensed, and in 12 other states anyone, however incompetent, may operate a car, according to Dr. Julius Klein of the Department of Commerce. "In the absence of a driver's license law," he states, "all of these potential killers and wreckers can be let loose with the utmost freedom and impunity upon the roads of the community."

Statistics show that the accident rate, in proportion to the number of automobiles registered, has increased much more rapidly in states where examinations of drivers are not required than in states where they are required. Even if all the 48 states had strict examinations for drivers the accident problem would not be solved. But it is the consensus of much expert opinion that nationwide laws which will force potential drivers to learn how to drive, are the greatest single need. The fact that last year 31,000 people were killed by automobiles should cause a demand for quick action in every state.

50 Years' Use of Black-Draught

"About fifty years ago," says Mr. Lewis G. O'Shields, of Portersville, Ala., "my mother gave me the first dose of Black-Draught, and I have taken it ever since, when I needed a medicine for constipation. I have used this remedy all my married life, in raising my children.

"I have used Black-Draught for heartburn, as I have had spells of this kind, off and on, for years. This follows indigestion, and indigestion comes close on constipation. I have found that the best way to head off trouble is to begin taking Black-Draught in time. It relieves me of dizziness, tightness in the chest and backache.

"By getting rid of impurities, Black-Draught helps to keep the system in good order. I always keep it in the home, and have recommended it to many people, in my time."

FARM ROADS AND SMALL TOWNS

A nation-wide movement is underway to bring about the construction, on an extensive scale, of secondary or farm-to-market roads. So long as 75 per cent of American farmers are cut off from their markets during several months of each year by impassable roads, we will have an "agricultural problem." Good secondary roads would benefit many persons besides farmers. Such roads would bring business to storekeepers in many small towns. They would allow the farmer to go 20 or 50 miles for his necessities or amusements. They would allow the attraction of new territory and freedom from traffic congestion found on main highways. They would bring greater prosperity to the farmer and give him more money to spend. Brains, rock and a little asphalt can pull the farmer out of the mud for much less cost than the loss now suffered because of bad roads.

manure to the soil, you have not taken away without putting something back; thus you have enriched your soil, increased its organic content, making it easier to conserve moisture, which in the end will produce crops more abundantly. Livestock on the farm uses marginal land out of cultivation. It is the best acreage reduction plan ever offered. If you want more and better cotton on fewer acres, balance your farm program with livestock. — Farm and Ranch.

Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes: "I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 65 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can. "I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a run-down condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

CARING FOR POULTRY

"Build your poultry good poultry houses, good feed troughs and good nests" and they will show a surprising return in the investment." J. H. Hinds, head of the poultry department, told the men at the poultry group session of the Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas. Good houses will save the farm wife many weary hours and these saved hours will allow for bigger flocks at no extra cost, thus increasing profits, he pointed out.

To avoid disease, chicks should be kept off the ground in the early spring until they are six or eight weeks old. Mr. Hinds continued. An inexpensive brooder house properly equipped will serve for this purpose. The laying flock needs a good open front house that will keep the chickens dry, shut off the north wind and keep out pests before the farmer can expect to realize a good profit from that industry. A house with poultry netting sufficiently small to keep out the sparrows and with wooden floors high enough from the ground to discourage rats should prove advantageous. A spray of crank case oil and crude carbolic acid for the interior of the building was suggested to deal with the problem of mites.

A MEANS TO BETTER LIVING

Standardization of a large variety of farm home products on a high quality basis and the establishment of simple, co-operative markets have made it possible for thousands of home demonstration club women in Texas to earn money for improving their homes and family living, according to a Home Industries Specialist in A. & M. College extension service. "Every woman desires a certain degree of financial independence," she says, "and we have found that a new source of income is often needed to enable the farm wife to increase the living standards of her family. Our home demonstration marketing simply gives the farm woman a weapon with which to continue her fight for better living conditions."

All home demonstration marketing is based on quality products. To secure uniform quality, standard recipes have been worked out for certain foods such as strawberry preserves, grape juice, jam and conserve, canned beans and peas, okra and tomato gumbo, watermelon rind products, pickles and relishes, fruit cakes and steam puddings, sugar-coated pecan halves in three flavors, and candied pork.

Fire was discovered on the roof of O. E. Smith's home in the southern suburbs of town Friday night. Just as the Church services were dismissed at the Assembly tabernacle, the wild cry of fire sent many helping hands to the roof of the Smith house and the blaze was soon extinguished and it is one of the unsolved mysteries how the roof caught fire, as there was not a flue near the fire and unless a match and a mouse started the fire, it can not be solved.

visitors on the parade ground of the brigade's annual encampment. The Governor pointed out that in its 94 years of "glorious history" Texas never before had decorated one of its citizen soldiers.

There is a lot of guessing going on as to the relative strength of the various gubernatorial candidates and many estimates have been promulgated, but the chances are about half of the guesses and estimates are wrong. Texas has never experienced a campaign like the present one and even now, the day before the primary election, one-half of the voters have not fully determined how they will vote. S. J. Tullios, as his custom is, last Saturday brought the Eagle editor one of the finest watermelons ever grown in this county, and supplemented it with a cantaloupe that was delicious. Mr. Tullios grows delightful melons on his farm north of town and this year secured the blue ribbon on his watermelons, as well as a blue ribbon on his maize and a red ribbon on his corn at the Mills County Fair. He is a real farmer and makes farming pay, no matter whether the weather is wet or dry, hot or cold, and he is a fine fellow with it.

VISITORS PRAISE MILLS COUNTY FAIR

Over twenty Brownwood people attended the Mills County Fair at Goldthwaite Thursday, many staying until after the night program. The day had been set aside as Brownwood day at the fair and special entertainment was provided. Reports from those who visited the fair, state that it is one of the best held in this section in some time.

The grandstand at the races Thursday afternoon was packed with many standing near the rail of the track. The races were better than at any previous fair at Goldthwaite, was the opinion of some who have visited the Mills county fair in the past.

The exhibits were well arranged and exceptionally good exhibits of sheep and goats were shown, displaying good quality and fine breeding. Other livestock exhibits were well arranged and showed good bred stock.

Everyone who attended the fair were more than pleased with the entire performance and were heartily endorsing the first fair in the Heart of Texas circuit.—Brownwood Bulletin.

LOOSE RUGS A DANGER

The loose rug as a menace to the physical well-being of American housewives was depicted at the convention of women's clubs in Denver, in an exhibit by the United States Bureau of Standards, in charge of Harold S. Norton, associate safety engineer.

One fourth of all accidental deaths are in the home, said Mr. Norton, and to lesson the hazards an educational campaign is conducted by the government in an effort to eliminate the more obvious causes of accidents. The exhibit shows that every 25 seconds a person is injured in the United States by a fall.

Every six minutes an accidental death occurs. Miniature rooms show typical hazards to life and limb, including loose rugs, unscreened open fire places, ravelled lamp cords, rocking chairs used as improvised step-ladders and improper lighting. Included among the exhibits is the ideal home from the standpoint of safety.

A compilation of accident statistics shows, said Mr. Norton that falls comprise 51 per cent of the accidents in the home, cuts and bruises 26 per cent, burns and scalds 15 per cent, poisons 3 per cent, miscellaneous 5 per cent. Figures compiled by the bureau show that one out of every 36 accidents in the home is fatal. Half of the injured are children.

POLITICAL PREJUDICE

It is not always actual prejudice, but associational influences that induce some of us to despitely use the names of candidates we have never seen and who have never done us any harm at all. Street conversation is notoriously uncensored. The friend of one candidate will mouth the most absurd allegation against his opponent, not sincerely, but by way of giving emphasis to his favorite. Good men, whose only crime is to be candidates for office, are orally libeled a thousand times a day in common discussion of the corner assemblies. Our people never seriously concern themselves with politics until the summer advances and the weather heats up. Then they plunge, by word of mouth, and express their more or less sudden sentiments in terms that contribute to the super-heated temperature. This is not serious. The greatest talkers in the market place, the foremost outgivers on the side-

CENTURY OF NITRATE OF SODA

This year marks the century use of nitrate of soda as an important element in a balanced fertilizer. One hundred years ago the first nitrate was used for the purpose of stimulating crop growth, and it has been used in increasing amounts in all parts of the world ever since.

The opening of the Panama Canal in 1914 was a boon to importers and users of Chilean Nitrate of Soda. Since that date, 27,000,000 tons have passed through the canal, and, according to a conservative estimate that one dollar's worth of nitrate has been worth $2 to the farmer who uses it, more than a billion dollars have been added to the agricultural income.

Chile possesses the greatest known deposit of nitrate of soda. It is in an area about 450 miles long and 15 to 90 miles wide, and varies in richness from 5 to 70 per cent. Under modern methods and with American capital, about 500,000 are being produced annually as against 150,000 tons under old processes.

Chilean Nitrate of Soda has a very interesting history, and early in the industry it was made available to farmers only after undergoing much hardship. The deposits are in an arid section of the country and the work of securing the mineral and processing for shipment required much labor and expense. Today it is made ready for the market at a cost that enables it to compete with nitrates secured from the air, and continues to be a very important factor in increasing acre production of American crops.—Farm and Ranch.

COTTON FARMER REDUCTION

Now, it is certain that something must be done about cotton. And it occurs to us that the one thing which is not being considered is the one that offers the surest solution of the problem. What is needed is "cotton farmer reduction". Cotton farming is an overcrowded vocation. But the solution is not merely to put cotton farmers to growing other things. The fact is that farming, without any adjective, is a crowded vocation in the south. The extent to which cotton farmers can be put to growing and producing other things is limited by the market for those other things. And experience shows that that limit is quickly reached. Agriculture has progressed to the point where it is possible to produce more of all kinds of agricultural products, including cotton, with fewer farmers than are now engaged in farming. We have reached the place where we have "technological unemployment" in agriculture—only the displaced farmer continues to hang on chiefly because there is nowhere else for him to turn. The road of progress for agriculture is toward other employment for the displaced farmer who is still hanging on.

That is why it is true that industrial development is the surest farm relief that can be provided in Texas. The marginal farmer must be transformed from a producer to a consumer of surplus farm products. This will at once reduce the number of persons engaged in farming and increase the demand for their product. Of course, this solution is more easily stated than applied. But progress is made every time more people realize that this is the path we must travel.—Texas Weekly.

walk rostrum, are really not much in earnest. They are merely vociferous, declamatory, lurid. The influence of the outside forum often creeps into the columns of the newspapers, for editors are people—they really are—and are not left unmoved by the clamor of their own constituents. DESTROYING OUR FORESTS

The wanton destruction of timberland is one of the most tragic phases of our fire waste record. In a period of ten years, between 1916 and 1925, an average of 51,021 forest fires occurred each year, entailing an annual destruction of property value of $20,994,916. It requires 40 to 100 years for a tree to reach maturity. Yet, by fire, whole forests can be totally destroyed in a few hours. Great fires, wiping out all timber over broad areas cause the extinction of wild life, radical changes in climate and damage to agriculture. The state and national governments do everything in their power to prevent such catastrophes. But they cannot be successful without public co-operation. Tourists, by carelessness with tobacco, matches and camp fires, are leading offenders. Some of the worst forest conflagrations in our history have occurred when camping parties moved on without completely extinguishing their fires.

It should be our patriotic duty to help protect and conserve our great forests.

COULD YOU DO BETTER?

If you had your life to live over again, do you think you could do better?

If you could start with your present knowledge, possibly you might.

As you have passed from one period to another you have realized that you have missed or passed up opportunities for greater accomplishment.

In many cases you might have created opportunities but you did not make the effort.

It would take hard work, close application and attention to make them fruitful and you were not willing to sacrifice at that time.

You were reluctant to change your mode of living, indifferent toward fitting yourself for something better, and if you were given another chance to live your life over again you probably would not do any better.

You'd have to conquer pride and work harder.

Added knowledge would only emphasize the fact that your personal efforts must be expended without thought of personal comfort if you would shine at the top.

Until you can put success ahead of self you won't gain eminence, and since that means a complete change of heart, if you won't change principles now, there is serious reason to believe that you would not live things over any better.

But at least be a good sport and don't cry you might do better if given another chance, for you wouldn't.—Houston Chronicle.

BATTLING FOR WORLD MARKETS

It is hard for the farmer who occupies his time amidst peaceful surroundings, in plowing, cultivating, harvesting, and in feeding livestock, to consider himself as a soldier participating in the battle of the century for the markets of the world. Never before in the history of the industry has the such strenuous opposition in American farmer met with the disposal of his products, Europe, Asia, Africa, and South American—even the islands of the sea—are speeding up production, and a surplus of the principal food products of the world seems inevitable.

American farmers are meeting this competition on major products by increasing output per man through a large use of power machinery, thus reducing the cost of production. Low production plus quality of product is proving a powerful weapon in this war of commerce. But, the American farmer has no monopoly on power machinery. While we are producing wheat in the Panhandle of Texas and in western Kansas as low as $6 per acre, Russia is sending orders to our manufacturers for tractors in twenty thousand lots. How long will it be before Russia, with power machinery, sold for less than the American farmer pays for it, with cheaper labor, be producing wheat for Europe at $5 per acre or less? How long will it be before South America and Australia will be as equipped with tractors and combines as American farmers?

Because of the great prosperity in the United States and our high tariff walls, this country has become the target for European industry, both agricultural and manufacturing.

Since the close of the war other countries have been striving to become self-sustaining, and they are approaching that point as regards many of our export commodities. Europe is underselling us on many things, and they will continue to undersell us until we are able to produce for less, making our profits on low cost production instead of high cost to consumers. The trend is in that direction in this country. Wheat is being produced in large acreage. The time required to harvest and thresh an acre of wheat has been reduced from five hours, when binders and threshing machines were used, to 45 minutes with the combine. Cotton is being planter four rows at a time, and in the near future, it will undoubtedly be harvested by power machinery. Four row planters and cultivators are being used in the Corn Belt, and in Iowa and other states, a pig becomes a market hog in five months instead of 12 to 14 months. America is making progress, or at least holding her own in this battle of markets, but we must continue to improve if we are to maintain our high standards of living. The farmer must sink his individuality when it comes to marketing. He will be forced to modernize his ideas concerning the independence of his position, and like others engaged in industry of a different kind, he will find that in union there is strength.

There are many millions of acres of agricultural lands in the United States not easily adapted to large scale farming. These, of course, will have their uses, and as population centers become larger, his market for foodstuffs will increase in importance. Such farmers, however, will find it to their advantage to abandon their efforts to produce crops that can be grown on a larger scale at a minimum cost. Let the big farmer fight for the world market, while the small farmer intensifies his production of foodstuffs and food luxuries for American consumption.—Farm and Ranch.

ONLY CHILDREN

Men are indeed boys grown tall. The women do know that. On the other hand, women are girls a little less tall than the boy men. We never quite outgrow our juvenility. We remain naive, credulous, ingenious as long as we live. Unless we become cynics. Confirmed cynics grow up quickly and grow old rapidly. They never accept the world for what it is. They disparage it for not being what they think it should be—which is like themselves. As for the prosperity factor and the poverty factor, they always are fluid. When we have what others call prosperity we call it normality. When we have what we think is normality others call it prosperity. Our country traveled in high gear for nine years. Now that it has had to come into low gear, there is a wail over the reduced speed. When we get used to rapid transit we agonize over horse and buggy slowness. If we were very smart we would consider that the gait at which we go is of less consequence than the destination in view. When jogging along, we have time for sober thinking. When hurtling through the air at a mile a minute we don't think at all—we only amuse our minds with road signs or bird's-eye views. That the country needs dull times occasionally, in order that the people may pay their debts and take new bearings, has been demonstrated over and over again in this America. Every long period of prosperity breaks more people, demolishes more fortunes, throws more men out of employment, than any preceding term of hard times. It is when times are hard that sensible resolutions are made.—State Press in Dallas News.

S. J. R. No. 7

PROPOSING A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON NOVEMBER 4, 1930.

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Section 11 of Article VII of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

Section 11. In order to enable the Legislature to perform the duties set forth in the foregoing section, it is hereby declared all lands and other property heretofore set apart and appropriated for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas, together with all the proceeds of sales of the same, heretofore made or hereafter to be made, and all grants, donations and appropriations that may hereafter be made by the State of Texas, or from any other source, shall constitute and become a permanent university fund. And the same as realized and received into the Treasury of the State (together with such sums belonging to the fund, as may now be in the Treasury), shall be invested in bonds of the United States, the State of Texas, or counties of said State, or in school bonds of municipalities, or in bonds of any city of this State, or in obligations and pledges for the construction of dormitories and other buildings for the use of the University of Texas, or in bonds issued under and by virtue of the Federal Farm Loan Act approved by the President of the United States, July 17, 1916, and amendments thereto; and the interest accruing thereon shall be subject to appropriation by the Legislature to accomplish the purpose declared in the foregoing section; provided, that the one-tenth of the alternate sections of land granted to railroads, reserved by the State, which were set apart and appropriated to the establishment of the University of Texas, by an Act of the Legislature of February 11, 1888, entitled, "An Act to establish the University of Texas," shall not be included in, or constitute a part of, the permanent university fund."

Sec. 2. Said proposed amendment shall be voted on by the electors of this State qualified to vote on constitutional amendments at an election to be held throughout the State on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1930.

"My feeling is that our business, taking the country as a whole, is much better than our business psychology," says Martin J. Insull, president of the Middle West Utilities Company. "I think comparisons with 1929 would prove the former and our comparisons with 1929 cause the latter. We seem to forget that 1929 was a year of the greatest business the country ever knew and far above a normal basis. It reached its peak about the middle of the year. So far this year, therefore, we have been comparing with a rising curve. From now on it will be upward and our business psychology should improve. The fact seems to be that fluctuations, whether booms or depressions are not so important in the long run as they appear close at hand. The trend of business activity and prosperity is gradually higher every year and this is more significant than the short-term changes."
