club entertained Tuesday night at the Inn, honoring C. Barnett, who is next day for the funeral in Clifton, where Mrs. S. P. Sullivan teacher, entertained at their amusement park, in the northern part of the city, last Friday night with a barbecue, honoring the Athens class of the Baptist Sunday school.

All day Friday the committees in charge of affairs were busy getting everything in readiness. Long tables were built, seats were placed and every arrangement made for the comfort and pleasure of the guests. The barbecue was put on to cook in the afternoon and the committees then busied themselves gathering up the bread pies and other articles of food provided by the class and it was largely due to the energy and unstinted work of these committees directed by their teacher, that a wonderful spread was placed on the tables.

Guests commenced to arrive by 7 o'clock in the evening and many members of the class were there before that time, and in a few moments fully 200 assembled on the grounds. Some time was spent in playing volleyball, golf, croquet and other games, while those who did not care to play or did not understand the games, spent the time in pleasant conversation, a lot of which was commendatory of the Wesley Workers class and their teacher.

When a summons went forth to assemble at the tables a great gathering resulted and the 200 plates prepared proved to be very few more than needed, although many members of the class served as waiters and did not participate in the feast until all of their guests and other class members had been served.

After all had eaten to their satisfaction and evident enjoyment, Supt. E. D. Stringer of Goldthwaite High school, who is president of the Wesley Workers class, took charge as toastmaster and announced a speech by Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, president of the Athens class, who responded in a most appropriate expression of thanks to the entertainers. Mr. D. H. Harrison, teacher of the Athens class, was then called and he also expressed the appreciation of himself and his class. Next Mr. T. F. Toland, superintendent of the Baptist Sunday school, was announced and he very gracefully and in well chosen words "passed it on" to Rev. G. C. Ivins, pastor of the Baptist church. Rev. Ivins made one of his characteristic speeches, filled with wit and humor, which was appreciated heartily. Rev. H. H. Dare, the new pastor of the Methodist church, was asked to talk and responded in a vein that was appreciated by everybody and proved he was in full sympathy with the young people and their undertakings. The Eagle editor was given an opportunity to express his appreciation for the courtesies extended by the class and tell of the splendid work being done by the teacher and her helpers. Supt. Stringer made a short talk expressing the pleasure of the class in having the members of the Baptist Sunday school and other friends as guests and at the close of his speech the gathering commenced to disperse, after many enthusiastic expressions of delight over having had the opportunity of enjoying the hospitality of the Wesley Workers class.

ATHENS ENTERTAINED BY THE WESLEY WORKERS

The Athens Sunday school class was highly honored on Friday night, Oct. 14, when we were the guests of the Wesley Workers at their park.

We assembled about "100 strong" at 7:30 o'clock and immediately began playing golf, croquet and cross ball, while most of the men played several active games of volley ball. After about an hour of games we were invited to the long dining table, which was piled high with barbecue, bread, potatoes, pickles, onions, coffee and pie. And to say it was enjoyed would be expressing it in a very mild way.

We were then entertained with several very appropriate after-dinner speeches, with Supt. E. D. Stringer as master of ceremonies.

Mr. T. F. Toland, our superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. Haynes Harrison, our class teacher and Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, our class president, expressed our thanks to Mrs. S. P. Sullivan and her class for this delightful occasion.

But we want to tell you again dear Wesley Workers, how glad we were to be with you and how much we appreciate your hospitality and we hope to have the honor of being your guests again.

HIGH SCHOOL FOOT BALL NOTES

Last Saturday we traveled to Brady and worked hard, but came home with the little end of a 40-7 score. The Brady folks certainly treated us nice and showed that they appreciated their own boys of the team and girls of the rooting squad.

The team made a good fight, but lost to a heavier, older, more experienced team, but not to a better. We have the fightingest bunch of little Eagles that ever hatched from Goldthwaite High school. You will have two more opportunities to see why we say that the Eagles are the best team for their size in the state. If you fail to see the next two games, you will have lost a great opportunity to see the greatest bunch of little fellows you will ever see.

Affairs look a little blue for the football team just now. Three men have been lost for violation of promises to train. We can only use boys who are trustworthy and who keep their promises. Another loss from injuries, so that leaves us short-handed. But watch the Eagles take Rochelle Friday and close out the season by cleaning house with Lometa on Wednesday, Nov. 26.

We need the support of the town to offset our shorthandedness. How about you? We have tried to play fair, clean, hard football and be worthy representatives of our school and town. Our conduct away from home has been of such a nature as to reflect credit on Goldthwaite. We have advertised, boosted, and supported our home town. Will you do the same for your football team?

BAPTIST CHURCH

It is a strange thing to me that the sheriff's department has to make a trip to Del Rio every year just before the Christmas holidays, and we note that they always take John Chesser along, because everybody has confidence in Mr. Chesser's preparations.

Seems to me that a court of inquiry would not be amiss in order to get a little information about these deer hunters. Some have gone to El Paso, when there are plenty deer just across the country around Mason. Another thing the season opened last Sunday and some of our citizens had venison Monday morning for breakfast, and it was killed around El Paso.

The entertainment given by the Wesley Workers Sunday school class last Friday evening at their park honoring the Athens class of the Baptist church, was a real treat. Not only did we enjoy their hospitality and good fellowship during the recreation period, but the eats prepared for the occasion were just what we were looking for, appetizing, and nourishing.

Thursday, November 27, is Thanksgiving Day, and most people will not stop to think what the day is set apart for, or even who founded the day, or when, or anything else about it. About the only thing we look forward to is, that we will have an opportunity to spend a day "frolicing." For that reason we want to observe the day Sunday morning at our regular morning service. Listen! Do one thing that the preacher asks you to do, if you never do anything else, and that is, read the 103rd psalm before coming to church Sunday. The message will be founded on this psalm. If possible let everyone, old and young, memorize one verse in the psalm. There are just twenty-two verses and I am wondering if some Sunday school class that has twenty-two or more in their class will not get their heads together and give that scripture, reading next Sunday morning, each of the twenty-two giving a different verse. I am going to ask for the raising of hands on reading this psalm Sunday, young and old alike. Don't disappoint us. Let everyone read it. If it is a pretty day we ought to have the largest Sunday school and the largest crowd that we have had this season. Invite your friends to worship with us Sunday, in observing the morning service as a Thanksgiving service, showing our gratitude to God. Some one will read these lines who will not attend this service or no other, and it will be the last time they will ever have the opportunity to attend a Thanksgiving service. Will it be you? Get up Sunday morning determined to go to the Baptist church to Sunday school and preaching. Let every one stay for the preaching service Sunday. People don't have to stay but 45 minutes longer to be in our preach services. Why not stay every Sunday? That is the thing that everybody ought to do. Are you going to do it next Sunday? Well we see if you do. G. C. IVINS, Pastor.

REGENCY BRIDGE

The question of repairing the Regency bridge across the Colorado river has been worrying the Commissioners' court for some time. The bridge had been condemned a long time before the October high water and since then it is a nightmare to the people who have to cross it.

Hilton Burke, secretary of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, speaking for Brown county and Brownwood, has proposed to the San Saba Chamber of Commerce, that they will co-operate in this work and go fifty-fifty on condition that the bridge be moved to a location agreed upon.

The present site of the bridge is between San Saba and Mills counties and Mills county flatly refuses to take any interest whatever in the upkeep of the bridge.

The Regency bridge is in a badly dilapidated condition on the approaches and the flooring is completely rotted out, according to information. The cost of repairs is far beyond the financial reach of Commissioner Knight of the Richland Spring beat and the estimated cost of repairs absolutely essential will cost more than the Commissioners' court can spend without a bond issue. It begins to look like the Regency bridge may have to be closed. And the bridge has been there so long that the old ford has long since been abandoned and the bridge is the only way the people of that part of the two counties have of crossing the river at Regency. It is a perplexing problem. — San Saba News.

TRAPPER'S LICENSE

A hunting license does not authorize a person to hunt or take fur-bearing animals or their pelts.

A person who takes fur-bearing animals by any means must have a trapper's license.

All persons except those under the age of seventeen years who take the pelts of fur-bearing animals are required to procure a trapper's license.

It is unlawful for persons over the age of seventeen years to hunt with a gun in a county other than the one in which they reside.

A trapper's license permits a person to trap or take fur-bearing animals in any county of Texas, but when such person hunts with a gun in a county other than the one in which he resides he must procure a hunting license in addition to the trapper's license.

Wolves, coyotes, cougars, rabbits, wild cats, bob-cats, weasel, mountain lion, Mexican lion, and ocelot are not classed as fur-bearing animals. They are not protected by law. They may be killed at any time of the year and no tax is due on their pelts.

MR. COBB'S LETTER

It looks if your scribe was wanted in the ring with his rambling remarks, the editor or some one would give him a mild hint through the Eagle that he had not entirely escaped the memory of other years; they would say so. As silence reigns I will assume the attitude of Mr. Buttinsky, raise the sights of my long range gun and blaze away, hoping to hit some one and remind them that the part of man called human nature, has a place in the make up of a scrub that, when thoroughly analyzed, has some appearance of that more prominent in the higher-ups, and when revealed to him he can't help being proud that he has at sometime had the same touch of the Divine Being who has called us into action.

If you will indulge me in personating, I am willing to leave it to Brothers French and Sam Say to say is it a pretty good foundation for an interesting and helpful letter to the public, coming from the source it is. The prominent thought worming its way through the intellectuality of his fertile brain, if not led off by some whirlwind of egotism, is to land on some subject for profitable discussion that will interest the reading public and make those further up the ladder of fame say, "Well done old boy. Come again."

Now Brother Bob you can groan, grunt or say amen. Politics, murders, robberies, divorces, big men and women entwined with big things for the uplift of humanity suffer them selves to lend a listening ear to the seductive influences of pride, popularity, money making and other wicked, devilish indulgences, until accusations hardly believable are thrust in the faces of those further down the ladder, as they are forced to read or not read at all from the papers of today, but little that is calculated to lift the mind above the doings of that which is so near akin to the underworld, until the space in our dailies is limited for more wholesome and elevated reading matter, on account of the burden of downright cussedness demanding superiority over that which is or would soon be more interesting and elevating toward the goal the great I Am would have us aspire. How can we expect the rising generation to raise above these evils which are thrown in their way every working hour?

SATURDAY NIGHT BURGLARY

Last Saturday night some one broke into the Weatherby Auto Company's building, by removing a glass from a back window, through which they crawled and opened the large door in the rear of the building through which they drove a 2-door used Ford, 1930 model, and made a get-away with it. Nothing else in the building was disturbed, as far as could be ascertained and, fortunately for the company, the car was insured. There were several new cars of late model in the show room and just why the thief should have chosen a used car is not clear, unless he thought a new car would be more easily traced.

The same night some one stole the radiator and top wind shield from a Ford touring car parked in a wagon yard by a Mexican who was here picking turkeys.

Some one also cut the water hose at the filling station at the north end of Fisher street and left the water running all night. This was, doubtless, the work of some mischievous boys, as the hose was of no benefit and was only valuable to the filling station owner.

worthy of notice the government of the U. S. won't allow them shipped through the mail and yet they are being sold to and read by young people, who are learning to clamor for them as though they were thing of great value. How can we expect anything else but robbery, seduction, divorce, murder, house breaking, bomb throwing, lying, stealing, Sabbath desecration and such like to be foremost in their minds when allowed to revel in much of the literature they are indulging in?

The Book says, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."

Where can we find a place for an enticing wedge of purity in much of our literature, on the screen and general clamoring for money and pleasure? Let someone who has the answer to let us have it.

No. Mr. Editor and those who read, will you please let your scribe disabuse your mind of any thought of him thinking he is equal to handling the problem, but is merely starting the ball to rolling that others more competent may come to the rescue.

Success, peace, good health, and happiness to all.

SUCCESS OF THE CHURCHES

"The churches in Goldthwaite ought to be much encouraged as a result of their labors in trying to bring in the Kingdom. The work has been steady and aggressive without much sensation.
This is the most dependable work in lifting up a community. We have been having approximately five hundred attending our Sunday schools and preaching services each Sunday morning. With that number of earnest souls gathered each Sabbath morning to study God's word and get an inspiration from the preaching of the word there is something being accomplished. There is a price being paid for these results. To run this machine it is costing the community something less than one thousand dollars per month.
We have been going through a financial depression and many earnest souls have been unable to contribute their mite, yet others abler financially have come to the rescue of the institutions and they carry on in their usual way. The greatest price that has been paid is by the earnest throngs that have thrown themselves wholeheartedly into the work with no thought of anything but success of the cause. Many are the teachers and workers that have been conspicuous in making this sacrifice.

While this battle is raging and a struggle is being made to save and lift up the community, there are individuals and homes that are still indifferent or antagonistic. The rescuers will not have met their full obligations till by the power of love they shall have compelled their friends to respond to the higher demands of their inner nature that the inner nature is making of them.
If we take a survey of Mills county we will find that many communities are carrying on in a successful way to meet these obligations. Many other communities are distressingly indifferent as to these obligations. If we will continue carrying on even in a more heroic way, following our leaders, as we have done, we will see results that will make us glad in the future.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Information from Washington has reached Austin that more than $10,000,000 in federal aid for highway construction had been made available to Texas.

The salary of Rev. Crayton S. Brooks, pastor of the First Christian church of Ardmore, Okla., according to an agreement with the church, consists of what remains after all of the expenses of the church have been paid.

A chance to build an extension of the Abilene and Southern Railroad from Ballinger to San Angelo may be afforded after all for the Texas Railroad Commission has been advised by the secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that the federal body had ordered the case re-opened, with Commissioner Meyer dissenting. No date for the new hearing has yet been set.

Charging that his office has shown no co-operation toward the project to secure execution of the alleged inaccuracies and misrepresentations in the geographies used in the public schools of the state, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has forwarded to S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, a protest on his attitude toward this and other matters of concern to West Texas.

Six west Texas counties which have been under pink boll worm quarantine for about three years have been released from quarantine. The counties were Dawson, Howard, Borden, Glasscock, Martin and a part of Midland. It was planned to release these counties and three others some time ago but these plans were abandoned at a meeting in Dallas on reports that signs of infestation had been found.

Federal Judge Barrett tentatively has set Jan. 19 as the date for the trial of a $250,000 libel suit brought against Collier's Weekly by R. B. Creager, Republican National Committeeman for Texas. The Federal court of appeals assigned the case for trial before Judge Barrett after Judge J. C. Hutcheson of Houston, Texas, disqualified himself. The suit was based on an article in Collier's touching on alleged patronage in Texas.

The Federal government recently made a shipment of 34 head of young musk oxen from Greenland. They will be sent to Fairbanks, Alaska, where they will be put on a 1,200 acre enclosed range. From this shipment the government hopes to establish a great herd of musk oxen in Alaska. At one time they were plentiful in that country, but were killed out before the United States purchased Alaska from Russia in the sixties. They are similar to the buffalo and furnish excellent food.

At least 3,400,000 persons "able to work and seeking employment" are estimated by the Commerce Department to have been jobless in September. The total, which was said to be "the probable minimum," includes the unemployed without jobs and those with jobs who had been laid off, but does not include persons working less than the normal work day or work week. It is likely the estimate is made up of such reports as those from Mills county, which show 80 able-bodied persons out of work, but it would be a big job to get most of them to work.

"KONJOLA DID WONDERS FOR ME," SAYS THIS LADY

Stomach Trouble And Headaches Are Banished When New Medicine Is Put To Test

MRS. AVEY KESWSKI

"Konjola did wonders for me," said Mrs. Avey Keswski, Box 205 A, Route 1, Galveston. "For several years I suffered dreadfully with stomach trouble. I had a severe and sickening headache almost constantly. Gas accumulated in my stomach after every meal and I had the cramping pains of indigestion. My nerves were so weak that I could not rest or sleep well at night. I am now on my fourth bottle of Konjola and I feel better than I have in five years. Pains and headaches have been banished and I have not had an attack of indigestion since I began taking Konjola. My nerves have quieted and I enjoy sound, restful sleep at night. My entire system has taken on new life and I will always praise Konjola for the good it did me."

Taken regularly after meals over a six or eight week period, this master medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness has done as much for thousands as it did for Mrs. Keswski.

Konjola is sold in Goldthwaite, Texas, at Hudson Bros. drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TYRANNY OF BUREAUCRACY

A speaker's reference in his speech to "the tyranny of bureaucracy" needs no elaboration for Americans who understand and value their heritage of liberty. But there are many Americans who do not. If there were not many we should not have had in recent years a vast growth of bureaucracy, repeated invasions by government in spheres of private activity, the tendency of discontent or impatient reform to turn to politics and government for relief which could do better be had from private initiative and co-operation.

Our fathers knew better. They were wisely jealous of all forms of political or governmental power, and sought earnestly to put checks upon it and to restrict it within the limits of essential authority. For they knew that the state is government and government is officialdom and politics.

To establish the tyranny of bureaucracy in America would be not only to barter our heritage for a mass of pottage, turning away from the inspired lessons of our own progress, but it would put a fatal check upon that progress and submit America to a man-headed monster, entrenched at the sources of all power, would be impossible to destroy. —Chicago Tribune.

INSURANCE AS A REMEDY

It seems that at last the compulsory liability insurance problem came to a crisis in Massachusetts.

Some time ago the proposal for a monopolistic state fund to administer this insurance was declared unconstitutional by the Massachusetts Supreme court. Now its backers are behind a new bill which would create a competitive state fund to give citizens their insurance "at cost". If the bill passes, we may look forward to endless argument over just what "at cost" is.

The other side of the problem is presented by Governor Allen of Massachusetts, who recently stated that the law has been unsatisfactory to all concerned and that he would be willing to have it repealed if a satisfactory substitute could be found.

So there are now two factions in Massachusetts — the proponents of a state fund and the advocates of a change in the law to make it workable. The experience of the past few years has been disheartening. Accidents have not decreased, there has been an endless squabble over rates resulting in the withdrawal of at least one insurance company from the state, and faked claims have abounded. Those who believed that reckless drivers would become careful out of a strange desire to save money for the insurance company that pays for their damage have found that they were sadly mistaken.

PAPER FROM PINES

The announcement of Dr. Charles H. Herty, former president of the American Chemical Society, that white newsprint and book paper can be made from Southern "slash pine" may have an important economic aspect for the south. Dr. Herty this week exhibited in Atlanta specimens of paper made from "slash" pine which are said to compare favorably with spruce paper, and declared experiments show that it can be made with existing processes and at about the same price as spruce paper.

Heretofore, "slash" pine has been considered too resinous for use as pulp wood for making white paper, though it has been used for making some varieties of yellow paper. Dr. Herty seems to have shown that the high resin content does not appear until the trees are about 25 years old, too large for pulp wood.

If "slash" pine can successfully be turned into pulp for making newsprint or other white papers, one of the big problems of reforestation in the south will be solved. Dr. Herty says something like 150,000,000 acres of cutover lands and abandoned farms can be profitably reforested by turning the "trim" or thinned-out trees into pulp. This item alone would bring a large income, for while 200 mature trees are being produced on a reforested acre, about 800 young trees suitable for the new pine pulp process must be removed in the regular thinning-out process. —Philadelphia Public Ledger.

POWER DETERMINES FARM INCOME

The income of the modern farmer is determined, to a large degree, by the amount of mechanical power employed in his work, according to a recent survey by the American Research Foundation of Chicago.

The survey analyzes the average farm income by states. In one state, with an average of only one horsepower per worker, the average crop value per worker is $475 a year. In another state, where each worker has the equivalent of 14.1 horsepower, the average income is $1,700. It is said that mechanical power will reduce labor about one-half or double the speed of operation.

The case was tried twice in San Saba county, then transferred to Llano county, and has been twice there. Each time a conviction has been secured and the case has been reversed and remanded.

Confectionery Window Inspires Musical Hit

DOLLY MORSE
Baby your mother like she babied you — Back in your ba-by days—

Protest Against Neglect of Mother Is Song Theme

New York City.—A confectionery store window filled with elaborate boxes of candy and the slogan, "Remember Mother's Day," was the inspiration for the fox trot ballad, "Baby Your Mother, Like She Babied You," by Dolly Morse, Andrew Donnelly and Joe Burke.

"I was wrathful at the thought that Young America needed to be reminded of a 'Mother's Day,'" Miss Morse agreed with me, and our indignation wrote itself into a song through which we tried to express the pathos of the mother who is forgotten on "Mother's Day" and every other day in the year." Dolly Morse is known as the "lullaby lady," because she has written many all-American grown-up lullabies, among them: "Indiana Lullaby," "Sing Me Love's Lullaby," and "Hawaiian Lullaby."

OIL—THE "NUISANCE"

It is interesting to note that sudden demand for what was hitherto considered a nuisance—crude oil—led to the founding of the American petroleum industry. Many years later a similar demand for another nuisance—gasoline—was responsible for the industry's amazing expansion and development.

In 1859, crude oil was regarded as a valueless substance encountered by salt drillers. Then the world need for a satisfactory illuminant—kerosene—found a use for it. Years later, the discovery and application of electricity to lighting seemed to forecast the sudden death of the oil industry. Then the automobile came into existence and a tremendous demand was created for gasoline which, to the industry, had been a waste found in distilling crude oil.

The war accelerated the demand for petroleum. The birth of the machine age brought with it a need for lubricants of all kinds. The airplane came into being as an important consumer.

As a result, the oil industry, almost overnight, found that its facilities were entirely inadequate. New fields were discovered, new refineries built and old ones enlarged, transportation facilities extended. More efficient processes were developed and market outlets increased. No other industry has ever been called upon to make so great a capital outlay within so short a time, or to so enlarge its scope.

This cataclysmic progress was responsible for the industry's present problem—mainly that of overproduction. Once it was called upon to perform a necessary public service in producing more oil. Now it is giving every effort to achieving another and equally important public service—that of adjusting supply to demand and conserving our invaluable petroleum resources.

A "HITCH-HIKER" LESSON

In Colorado the driver of a truck owned by a corporation gave a ride to a "hitch-hiker." The self-invited passenger fell while emerging from the truck at the end of the ride and sustained serious injury. He sued the owner of the vehicle for damages and the trial jury awarded him $4000.

That is the newest lesson on the bothersome subject of "hitch-hiking." Fort Worth is well acquainted with the practice. Recently a new traffic ordinance penalized it, but there seems to be little observance of the edict. Mornings and afternoons find the usual number of youths lined up in the streets adjacent to the public school buildings. They express the familiar gestures of disdain toward those who ignore their importunities. The Fort Worth-Dallas pike has its regular patronage, also. It may be presumed that there is an attractive percentage of rides to be found among the auto drivers or the system would automatically disappear.

It is to be regretted that the friendly old time system of giving rides to people walking must needs be discarded. It would be a nice privilege to pick up people along the route and it might be said parenthetically that the majority of people practiced it happily before it became too dangerous. First, the inventive genius of the petty criminal saw many potentialities in the friendly act and began a new species of "hitch-hiking" that shortly included murder. Then it was discovered that the simple appearing act of kindness carried damage responsibility. The Colorado instance is an example of the latter.

It is merely self-preservation to harden the sympathies against those who are walking or waiting while we are riding by. Those who would appreciate a ride are made to suffer with those who enjoy doing acts of kindness because of the consequences both criminally and civilly.

The "hitch-hiker" is due to permanent elimination. —Star-Telegram.

DEMOCRATIC CONTROL

The Democrats will not have control of either branch of Congress. They are still the minority party, and both Senate and House doubtless will be organized by their opponents. Even had the Democrats won a recognizable majority in Congress, would have been powerless to pass reform legislation over the President's veto. And the President could not have approved Democratic legislation without stultifying himself in the light of his approval of the Republican measures which Democrats opposed. It goes without need of re-emphasis that the Democratic party favors laws which has always opposed the insular policy, the subsidy practice, the special favors to special interests, to which the Republican party long ago committed itself. The arrogance of the Grundys, the impudence of the Bingham, the effrontery of the Moses whose prehistoric minds contributed to the new tariff bill, and made our country hated all over the world, was indorsed by President Hoover with his approving pen. He couldn't have gone back on his own signature had the Democratic party been triumphant in the mid-term elections. So, it is just as well that the responsibility for what has happened remain on those who let it happen or helped it to happen. There can be no permanent prosperity for any Nation which is not organized on the basis of live-and-let-live. —State Press in Dallas News.

LIVE OAK

Do you like to hear the wind whistling around the corners of houses like it has been for several days? I do. I like it almost as well as these beautiful days when the sky is blue and hazy and the Spanish oaks are all colors. In fact, I like it all.

But I am writing to tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simpson and children spent Sunday with relatives at South Bennett and that Mrs. Roy Simpson is spending part of this week with her sister at Moline, Mrs. John Duncan.

Next I want to tell you that Miss Ruth Featherston, Hi-League secretary for the Llano district, spent last week end in San Antonio attending a meeting of the West Texas conference Epworth League cabinet. Her sister, Ollie Mae, taught her school at Big Valley for her Friday.

Now I want you to know that Mr. Williams, our worthy pedagogue, spent the weekend at his home near Mullin.

Now let me say that some from here went to the party at Mahon's Saturday night. In spite of the fact that there were seven girls and about forty boys. But everyone had a nice time.

And in conclusion I think you ought to know the League at Bethel Sunday afternoon was good and that the house was full and overflowing at the same place Sunday night. Isn't it a pity that we can't get such a crowd out for church sometime? However, it may be a blessing in disguise, as the shock would probably kill Brother Mitchell.
