Outlook for a most successful fair grows brighter with each passing day and it is expected that the 1931 program will be better than the previous year. More people are taking interest in the fair heretofore and some are being developed. This same condition prevails in many of the fair officials are endeavoring over the preparations for the fair and the business of the town have been busy in their advertising in making possible a full description of the fair lists and other details. In fact, the Goldthwaite community is always in any home enterprise people of the town and should appreciate the fair to be loyal to the community when buy-ables of any kind at any

DELIGHTFUL SOCIAL

On Wednesday afternoon, May 20, Mrs. W. E. Miller entertained at home with a delightful 42 party, complimenting her numerous friends of the society group.

The springtime motif of varied flowers was pronounced in the decorative scheme and the score tallies were miniature fans. Two hours were spent pleasantly in playing the game, after which Mrs. Miller asked all guests to guess the number of a page in a designated book. Mrs. L. R. Conro guessed nearest the correct number, so was presented with a lovely pink etched glass sandwich tray. Mrs. D. G. Barnett missed the prize number further than any other guest, so received a lovely flower bowl.

Mrs. Miller, assisted by Miss Lucille Conro, served a delicious ice course in pink and white with corsages of sweet peas as plate favors.

After the refreshment course the guests were invited into the dining room, where fruit punch was served. Sweet peas and roses adorned the lace covered punch table.

LITTLEPAGE-HARRELL

Elmo Littlepage and Miss Ella Pearl Harrell were united in marriage last Thursday evening at the Baptist parsonage, Rev. G. C. Ivins officiating. The young people were unattended and thought to surprise their friends, but the only surprise was to themselves to find that all their friends knew of their intentions and even knew the hour the happy event was to take place. After the wedding friends met them and escorted them to the 10 o'clock train, where they took passage for Austin and from there went to Smithville to visit her parents and other relatives. They returned to Goldthwaite Saturday night and will make their home here.

Mr. Littlepage is associated with his brother in the R. V. Littlepage Produce Co. He was reared in this county and stands high as a business man and an upright, honorable citizen. He is courteous and accommodating and has the friendship of all who know him. He is a son of Mr. S. C. Littlepage, formerly of this county and now of Dublin. FAMILY REUNION IN PLEASANT GROVE

On Sunday, May 17, Mrs. Osenia Duncan came here for a few days visit with relatives. It was in her honor that a family reunion was planned to be held at the old Horton home on Sims Creek, near Pleasant Grove.

On Wednesday, May 20, cars began rolling into the pasture and soon sixty-eight relatives and friends had met for this occasion.

This was the first reunion the Horton family had held for 24 years and it was indeed one of great pleasure. Some are now more than fifty years of age, but they, as well as the younger ones, were thrilled to visit the old spring and the orchard and to roam along the creek bank and to talk of the many pleasant hours that they had spent there.

At twelve o'clock an abundant supply of dinner was served, consisting of all the good things it might take to make a meal complete. The memories of older times were more precious than all the dainty food that could have been prepared.

The time to say goodbye came too soon. At five o'clock each one was on his way home, realizing it was a day well spent and one that would not be forgotten soon. A MEMBER.

When control measures are taken the following formula may be used: White arsenic or Paris Green 1 pound; wheat bran 25 pounds; blockstrop or cheap cane syrup, 2 quarts, 6 lemons. Mix poison and bran thoroughly. Mix molasses, water and lemons. Dampen the poison mixture and sow along the edge of the fields.

Scott, head of veterinary science department, John Tarleton college, to give their cows the tuberculin test. Tuesday he started the test on the following herds: J. L. Cortis, W. B. Potter, F. D. Webb, J. W. Dellis. Dr. Scott will read the tests Friday and start on several other herds. All cows should be tested for tuberculosis for protection of the family, even if no milk is sold. Those desiring the work may call on the county agent for information.

PROFIT BY EXPERIENCE

The life insurance industry does a splendid work in promoting better health for the nation. Many great companies maintain large research departments, whose duty it is to use the statistics gathered from generations of experience, with thousands of individual policyholders, in preparing factual briefs on the hazards that menace life. A constant, never ending work is carried on in educating the public against various dangerous diseases, both from the standpoint of prevention and of treatment. This work may be compared to that of stock fire insurance in combating fire waste and to the casualty insurance companies in their accident prevention campaigns. While insurance companies profit from death, fire and accident prevention, the public at large, insured and uninsured, is the real and greatest beneficiary, for it is the one that pays and suffers for carelessness, neglect and waste. Healthier, happier and longer lives follow in the wake of insurance teachings.

LIVE OAK

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene, The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear;

Full many a flower is born to blush unseen, And waste its sweetness on the desert air."

I guess that is true all right, but at times I doubt it. If you do the best you can wherever you are I don't think that is "wasting one's sweetness on the desert air." Even though you are not doing the things you are most interested in, you can do good anywhere, and there was never a good deed done without helping someone.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Last Sunday was a good day in all services with 350 in Sunday school, splendid congregations at every service and two additions to the church. Certainly we do not expect to have that many every Sunday in our Sunday school, but we will come as near as any church in the land of holding up the standard as to church going. Our meeting will begin just a month from this writing and we want to do our best to be just where we ought to be. Every member of this church and all the citizens of our town, as well as people outside of town, want to make their plans to attend this meeting. We are going to hold our own meeting. We mean by that that the church will and all are requested to give us their sympathy and co-operation.

With Judge and Mrs. E. B. Anderson, we had the pleasure of taking dinner in the George Jackson home. Not only do we always enjoy the good eats that we always find in this home, but the fellowship. We always have a most delightful time.

The pastor has been out of town this week, visiting one of his old time friends. Now our visiting days are over until after our meeting any way, and we are beginning to make preparations for an old fashioned revival. We want you to talk our meeting, pray for its success, and work to that end. If our folk will work for our meeting like they work for our regular Sunday services there will be no question as to the results.

Remember that we are going to make our song and prayer services a specialty from now on until meeting begins. We hope that everyone take part in our song service. We have the books and you can help in a marvelous way. Will you do it? Let everyone be found in his place Sunday. Be on time at every service. PASTOR.

After this educational talk, Mr. McClary, another official, demonstrated and explained the savings that could be made and advantages of this modern convenience, and after he spoke, many wished that they were owners of such a household necessity as this refrigerator.

After these very educational and entertaining talks bridge and forty-two were engaged for an interesting and happy hour.

Mrs. Bob Steen, Jr., won high and Mrs. Carl Keese, low for bridge honors, while Mrs. Claud Eacott won high and Joe A. Palmer, low for forty-two honors.

How One Woman Lost 47 Pounds In 3 Months and Feels Years Younger

Mrs. S. A. Solomon of New Bern, N. C., lost 47 lbs. in 3 months with Kruschen Salts. She feels much stronger, years younger and pains in sides, back and abdomen that bothered her for years are all gone. She says she not only feels better, but looks better, as all her friends tell her.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Hudson Bros., and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back. 6-29 HUDSON BROS. DRUGGISTS.

NATION'S LIQUOR BILL

Monday's Houston Chronicle gives out an estimate of the association against the prohibition amendment that the people of the United States are paying out annually $2,848,000,000 for intoxicating liquor. Well, granting that this estimate is in the main correct, I would ask the association if liquor bill is not large enough without repealing the prohibition amendment. Evidently, from their own figures of the nation's liquor bill, we are spending enough for liquor and if their figures are correct the prohibition amendment is not troubling the man who wants to buy liquor. Why repeal it? We certainly do not want to give the country any excuse to increase the size of its alleged liquor bill. We can hardly afford to spend all of our money for liquor, nor can we all afford to be drunk all the time, even if that would make the brewers and distillers prosperous. The trouble with this association seems to be that they are figuring on the prosperity of the brewing and distilling interests. If they are getting $2,848,000,000 a year their business is the most prosperous of any in the country and it would seem to us they are prosperous enough.

But, possibly, to be fair to this association, we might surmise that these gentlemen are getting tired of violating the prohibition amendment, conscience stricken, perhaps, and want this amendment repealed as it stands in their way, possibly at times. The murderer would, no doubt, like to have the law against murder repealed for the same reason. It sometimes stands in his way when it's inconvenient for him to put his victim "on the spot" and he could do the job so much easier if it were not for the law against murder.

The head of this organization seems to be in the city of New York and we would point it out that from the killings reported by our national press in that city it appears to us that neither the prohibition law nor the law against murder is very highly regarded by its law enforcing officers. In fact, both seem to be violated with impunity. In fact, since thinking it over, I do not believe the people outside of New York City could notice much difference if the city repealed all of her criminal laws.

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS

A special from Austin Monday said: "Legislative halls were deserted today and the lawmakers were back at home. They went home anticipating a special session next month. The 131-day regular session, the longest in history, ended late Saturday. Among the important measures passed were the 3 cents a package cigarette tax and validation of titles of West Texas owners of school land to all mineral rentals and bonuses. It voted to submit a proposed constitutional amendment to exempt $3000 of the value of homesteads from the state property tax. The governor did not veto a bill while the legislature was in session."

BRADY MAN HEADS UTILITIES LEAGUE

Seymore, May 21.—Edward Geeslin, superintendent of utilities at Brady, Thursday was elected president of the Municipal Utilities League at the closing session of the fifth annual convention.

Other officials named were E. Runk, mayor of Shiner; Sid Hildreth, mayor of Farmersville, and L. R. Burrow, Spur, vice-presidents; Pat N. Roberts, Denton, secretary.

FOREIGN TRADE AND COTTON

Maintaining our foreign trade is a big order. For it goes to the very foundation of the American economic set-up and involves far-reaching international relations. Tariff revision and foreign debt adjustment to an extent that would really help the situation for the cotton farmer are easier proposed than accomplished. The same Monsieur Tneunis who inquired at Chicago whether we are downhearted gave out an interview before leaving Washington which illustrates this. By way of stating what the United States must do to improve the situation, he said: "No nation can live within itself, not even the United States. We are all interdependent. We live in a new era which calls for a greater amount of co-operation than ever before. Particularly is this true of the western world, which includes Europe and America, where industrialism has moved ahead so rapidly. We have goods to sell, you have goods to buy, and the only way we can move ahead is for the peoples of one nation exchange the goods which they manufacture for the goods made by the people of other nations. In the long run, one must offset the other. Gold is, or should be, only the medium of exchange. America, as the greatest creditor country in the world, is forced to change its policies from what they were when it was a debtor country. Today she must buy goods from other people if she expects other people to buy from her." Stated in that way it sounds very simple, even inevitable. But it must not be overlooked that to buy more goods from other countries we must buy goods of a kind we already are manufacturing a surplus of in this country. If we buy more goods from foreign manufacturers we will buy less of the same kinds of goods from American manufacturers. The only kind of tariff revision which will increase the purchasing power of the cotton farmer's foreign customers in the United States is tariff revision that will enable the foreigner to pay for American cotton with foreign goods. And that is the kind of tariff revision the industrial sections of the United States will oppose to the bitter end. We do not expect to see even the Democratic party stand for that kind of tariff revision, for to do so would mean certain defeat in the industrial states. But even if it should declare for that kind of revision, we do not expect to see a congress, whether Democratic or Republican, that actually will put it into effect. —Texas Weekly.

ROYAL PALACE AT JERICHO UNCOVERED

The great royal palace of Jericho, razed to the ground when Joshua and the Israelites burned the city 3400 years ago, has been located by Professor Garstang and the members of the British Marston Archaeological expedition. Professor Garstang, who has arrived in London from Palestine, asserts that the "discovery of the necropolis of Jericho is one of the most important of recent excavations in Palestine." There are at least 2000 unopened tombs on this site, the professor added: "One tomb has yielded 600 pieces of pottery, 250 of which are vases in excellent preservation."

The general view expressed before the eighth annual session of the Southwest shippers' advisory board which met in joint meeting with the Panhandle Grain Dealers' association, attended by 400 representatives of the grain trade, transportation agencies and eminent business leaders of the Southwest was that the only ray of hope to avoid serious congestion in moving to market early in June a record-breaking Texas Panhandle wheat crop is for government-sponsored agencies, now holding practically the entire United States wheat carry-over, estimated at some 270,000,000 bushels, to either promptly export or else move enormous stocks of grain now in Southwestern and Midwestern elevators to the North or the Atlantic seaboard and make room for the golden flood the railroads are preparing to load.

OUT TO FLUSH

PROSPERITY

It is interesting to note the fact that representatives of forty-six nations have assembled to learn, if possible, the location of the corner around which "prosperity" has been in hiding for so many months. It is the intention of these delegates to bring the old gentleman out into the light and put him to work just as soon as he can be found. In the opinion of many representatives at this economic conference, there is something about present day methods of doing business that "prosperity" doesn't like, and that he will continue to sulk behind this illusive corner until reforms agreeable to him are brought about.

Optimists have their place in the scheme of life. What would the people have done without them the past year or two? They have kept the spark of hope alive in the breasts of millions who have stayed on the job making ready to take advantage of the opportunities which they believe are bound to present themselves sooner or later.

It has taken months, however, to convince our industrial and business leaders that the times demand a new economic set-up; and we are very hopeful that the conference of world representatives will build well the foundation for a future better understanding, not only between nations, but between employers and employees. It is only recently that businessmen of wide influence have become outspoken against the tariff system, which is rapidly destroying international commerce. They have learned that building almost insurmountable tariff walls is a trade and an art that can be practiced in other countries as well as our own. There is a strong trend of sentiment for lowering the wall, not only in this country, but in others as well, and should this be done, it is believed that commerce will revive and each country will again abandon the production of commodities for which its conditions are unsuited.

There are other obstacles, however, that stand in the way of prosperity that might well be considered along with the subject of the tariff. The cause of peace should be furthered by disarmament treaties, turning millions in tax money into the fund for internal improvements. Manufacturers should also give serious consideration to the reduction of commodity prices to a level in keeping with the price of farm products. There never was a time more advantageous in which to prove the value of that old business slogan, "Quick sales and small profits."

If there is any truth in the oft repeated statement that agriculture is the basic industry

DEAD TIMBER

You wish to be known as a person with opinions you are not afraid to express.

You say that you have no use for the person who changes his opinion.

You state that you are still supporting the opinions you formed many years ago.

Time with its changing conditions has added years to your life, but has not increased your knowledge and reasoning powers.

You call it staunchness, but, in reality, you have not advanced.

SOMETHING FOR THE FARMER TO CONSIDER

It is estimated that at present there are some 30,000,000 pounds of quality dairy butter in storage. Prices are the lowest in 25 years. This may seem a tremendous surplus, but, as the Dairymen's League Co-operative association of New York points out, it could be entirely eliminated if each of the six million American farm families would use one extra pound of butter per week for a period of five weeks.

It is brought out, further, that the dairy farmer himself is not without blame. A survey of cross-roads and village grocery stores disclosed that a large part of butter substitutes sold in this country are purchased and consumed by farm families, in spite of the fact that these substitutes are lacking in the protective vitamin found in genuine quality dairy products. It looks as if the solution to the dairy phase of the farm problem is largely a matter for the farmer himself to solve thru his own dinner table.

upon which the prosperity of all others depends, the quicker adjustments are made and the farmer's dollar placed on par with other dollars, the easier it will be to locate that famous corner around which "prosperity" is concealed.

PREPARE FOR PROSPERITY

If prosperity comes before you are ready, you are in a bad way, because rising prices will increase your outgo without enlarging your income. If indications now seen mean that Dallas will have hundreds of new residents in need of homes or apartments and of rooms, what good will that do you if your property or your home is in bad repair and worse appearance?

East Texas is buying more paint, they tell us, than ever before. That's a hint to Dallas. People with money to spend on living quarters prefer a neat looking residence to a shabby one. Why not make ready for them now? You have an old frame residence, let us say. Investigate the possibilities of remodeling it. Overcoating it with brick will work wonders, and it will surprise you how the brick men will put themselves out to oblige you.

Perhaps your building is of tile with stucco and the stucco needs doing over in places. Workmen and materials are to be had on terms more within your reach than they have been in years. If you put your properties in spick-and-span condition you improve their value,

NOT FOR A THIRD PARTY

Denying the widely published report that he was preparing to discuss the formation of a new and wet third party, to be composed of members of organized labor and World War veterans, Matthew Woll says this would not be in accord with the nonpartisan attitude of the American Federation of Labor, of which he is an official. Mr. Green, president of the federation, also expresses his disapproval of any movement designed to align representatives of labor, as such, with any political organization.

Organized labor has much to lose and nothing to gain from mixing in partisan politics. And this applies to associations of soldier veterans. As individuals the members of labor unions and veterans' organizations have as full a scope as they desire for their political activities. But efforts to commit these organizations to partisan political action defeat their purposes.

take them out of the "slow" realty classification, and put them into revenue-producing status. Dallas appears to be on the edge of another bulge in the population curve. It hasn't arrived yet, but it seems to be coming. Get ready while prices are low.—Dallas News.

Here is a romantic and somewhat sentimental quotation from a Kentucky paper: "The bride is a woman of wonderful fascination and of remarkable attractiveness; with manner as enchanting as the wand of a siren, and a disposition as sweet as the odor of flowers, and spirit as joyous as the caroling of birds, and mind as brilliant as those glittering tresses that adorn the brow of winter, and with heart as pure as dewdrop trembling in a coronet of violets. She will make the home of her husband a paradise of enchantment, like the lovely home of her girlhood, where the heaven-toned harp of marriage, with its chords of love and devotion and fond endearments sends forth the sweetest strains of felicity that ever thrilled the sense with the rhythmic pulsing ecstatic rapture."

"Don't bother about me, I'm just a private in the rear ranks now," Col. O. L. Bodenhamer of El Dorado, Ark., former national commander of the American Legion, told a reporter in Houston when he arrived in that city Tuesday. The visitor added that he believed the soldiers' bonus checks had aided the nation's business materially.

Their birdlike forms glistening in the sunshine of an ideal spring day, Uncle Sam's fighting air army of 600 planes roared down the Hudson Valley and across Manhattan's skyline Tuesday. Thousands of New Yorkers watched the spectacle from the battery, at the tip of Manhattan, and other vantage points as the planes, wedged in spearhead echelons, sped the full length of the island the second time in four days.

Chances of a tax increase at the next session of Congress lessened considerably Wednesday, when Senator Harrison of Mississippi, the ranking Democrat on the Finance Committee, declared against any such legislation. The Mississippi Senator assailed Secretary Mellon for talking about tax revision and called upon the administration to pare down expenditures and to slow up debt retirement during the period of depression.

Two years ago Nick Henseler lost his pocketbook containing $42 in currency, while plowing. Meticulous searching thereafter revealed no trace of it until this spring, when, plowing again, he turned up the purse. But Mother Nature had taken a hand and the bills were turned to dust. Henseler's banker forwarded the pocketbook and all to Washington in hopes that experts might determine the denominations of the bills. Tuesday the banker received instructions from Washington to credit Henseler with $42.

Capt. Frank Hawks, riding his fast airplane like a magic carpet toured Europe in ten hours Wednesday, having breakfast in London, luncheon in Berlin and dinner Wednesday evening in Paris. The three-point flight began shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning when he left Le Bourget for Croydon Field, England. He made that trip in a little more than an hour, had breakfast and went on to Berlin, covering that stretch in three hours and fifteen minutes. The flight down to LeBourget ended a little after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening and the American speedster climbed into an automobile to meet Mrs. Hawks, who had tickets for the theatre in the evening. The last leg required three hours and one minute.

Informed that the Humble Company had announced a reduction of 30 cents in the posted price of East Texas crude oil, Governor Sterling said, "something should be done about the Texas situation." "I am informed that oil is being sold so cheaply in East Texas that the night charges are paid and it would aboard ship on the Atlantic coast at 68 cents. Foreign buyers are profiting at our expense." The governor's statement indicated he would not hold an extra session before June.

However, he has received many telegrams urging him to call a session on oil legislation immediately. Lieut. Gov. Edgar Witt is not in agreement with Governor Sterling that a special session may be needed for oil prorogation. In fact, Mr. Witt doubts whether it can be of material service to the oil industry. He is not assured that a bill would be passed and if it is, he says it would be a ninety-day law and not become effective until five months from now.

ALL EQUAL

Most commentators who compare farmers and town men are trying to prove a point instead of revealing the truth.

An honest critic may picture a lazy and illiterate yokel, stupid and unclean, whose degrading poverty is the just reward of ignorance, but he should add that the same man or another like would fare as ill in town.

Intelligence has as fair reward on the farm as in the city. The man who would succeed in one place can succeed in the other. And though the farmer can not hope for great wealth, he has assurance of the things that wealth will buy—necessities, comforts, independence and security.

On one farm of modest size in the state of New York there lives a man who is the fourth of his name and breed to husband the same acre.

Like the three who preceded him, he is a college graduate and a gentleman.

He doesn't plant the usual "cash crops" that glut the market and keep both farm and farmer poor. He knows there is more profit in finished products than in raw material.

He grows legumes that draw nitrogen from the air to enrich his soil. He feeds his crops to cows; milks the cows by machinery; sells the cream at a profit and keeps the milk to feed pigs and chickens.

He works fewer hours than men in factories and men at desks.

The work he does is no more arduous than the exercise a desk man takes in order to keep fit.

He has a comfortable home, with all the conveniences of a city apartment, and he doesn't worry about the rent.

He has a car, a radio, books, magazines and a saddle horse.

He is respected by his self-respecting neighbors; he is not annoyed by regulations; he is free and independent; he has complete assurance that he never will be homeless or jobless or dependent in his old age.

He can visit the city and enjoy its advantages when he desires.

What more has life to offer that an ordinary man desires?

Thousands of jobless men now walking the streets might have abundance and security in the country.

We hear too much about "stupid yokels" and not enough about country gentlemen who possess the earth.—Robert Quillen in Dallas News.

BALLOON FLYERS

MAY BE LOST

The fate of Prof. Auguste Piccard and his physicist companion, Charles Kipfer, who took off in an air-tight aluminum ball attached to a balloon early Wednesday morning at Augsburgs, Germany, was in grave doubt that night.

Somewhat conflicting reports indicated the balloon in which the two had started out to explore the stratosphere at an altitude of 50,000 feet was "hedging napping" about Central Europe at an altitude of around 10,000 feet.

A message telegraphed from Innsbruck, Austria, said the scientists still were alive, but in physical distress. A later message from Innsbruck said, however, the airdrome official who reported having seen the balloon and the distress signal had declared the gas bag had disappeared again at 9 p. m. He expressed opinion it was continuing its drift southward at an altitude of about 9,850 feet. It was believed the scientists might have opened a port hole in the aluminum sphere in order to signal to the earth.

The goal of the two scientists, in the earth's stratosphere, would, if they reached it, have led them into spaces never before entered by man.

NATION OF MEN ONLY

On the northern shores of the Mediterranean is the little-known republic of Athos. Its population consists of 9,000 monks. For 900 years it has not permitted a woman or a female animal to enter its boundaries.—Collier's Weekly.

It was shown that eggs are being produced at the rate of 7 cents per dozen feed cost with a profit of 20 cents per bird for four months in 14 demonstration flocks recently visited on a tour in Runnels county, Texas, conducted by C. W. Lehmborg, county agent. There was a total of 5,371 birds in these flocks. Pedigreed roosters were used in practically every flock; sanitary conditions were excellent; labor-saving devices such as self-feeders and drinking fountains were in common use; green feed was abundant; and rations were balanced in every case. C. M. Gideon of Winters, showed a feed cost of 5 cents per dozen on a ration consisting of maize, skim milk and green feed.

With Australia and New Found land unable to meet the interest on their government bonds issued for highways and other improvements, and with Mississippi facing a seven million dollar deficit for the same reason, it appears that the old-fashioned policy of "pay as you go" is as sensible for states and commonwealth as it is for individuals.

Only half as many turkeys are in cold storage now as at this time last year, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

When a milk route driver called at the home of Rev. Walter E. Rodgers, Baptist pastor, at Eagle Lake, he hailed the milk man. He wanted help lest it might be a modern story of Jonah and the whale. A four-foot alligator had taken refuge inside the pastor's garage.

Five thousand dollars reward will continue to be paid for each dead bank robber by the Texas Bankers' Association, it was announced by the executive committee in Dallas yesterday. Although the reward has caused much criticism, the bankers are convinced that it has reduced the number of bank robberies in Texas.

A shark finally has broken up the quaint postal system of the island of Niuafoou, in the Fiji Islands group. For years a native of the island swam a mile from shore every four weeks to meet the mail steamer. The native carried with him outgoing mail and brought back a package of incoming letters. A communication from the island said the last incoming mail was lost when a shark attacked and killed the swimmer. Hereafter a large canoe will be used.

Only Aviators Wanted for This Orchestra

TOM TRUESDALE
Here you'll find Jack, and here you'll find Jill, they live in a shack on a Pinkie Hill.

Conductor Truesdale Declares Flyers Have Most Rhythm

New York City.—None but aviators need apply for places in the orchestra of Tom Truesdale, brilliant musical conductor and himself a crack aviator.

"Each of my eleven men owns a plane and flies most of his spare time," declares Mr. Truesdale. "Flying is not just a hobby with us either—it's what I call a sort of musical requirement. My theory, and I think it can be proved true without any trouble at all, is that a trained aviator will make a better musician than a man of equal musical talent who knows nothing at all about flying."

"I believe, and I have a good deal of data to strengthen the contention, that there is a definite connection between the rhythms of plane motors and music. Conversely, and for the benefit of any who employ aviators, I think it is absolutely true that a good musician will make an exceptionally good aviator. I should even go further and advise the study of rhythm in all flying courses.

"I can best illustrate my point that a musician's ear is more acute than the ear of one untrained musically, by a curious incident. An orchestra leader whom I knew went up in a plane in a European city. His delicate sense of hearing distinguished something wrong with the beat of the engine before the plane left the ground and he tried to persuade the pilot to investigate.

"The pilot could not see that anything was wrong and laughed a little at this flying tenderfoot who was trying to dictate to an old hand. But the fact remains that within a few moments the ship had to make a forced and dangerous landing!"

Mr. Truesdale and his eleven flying musicians play at the Park Central Hotel here. Another of this leader's requirements is that his men shall be young.

"The music-loving American public of today demands youth and the unusual," he points out. "A song like 'Sleepy Town Express' with rhythms so different from the ordinary will get them every time but they want even favorites like that to be interpreted by youth."

BACCALAUREATE SERMON LAST SUNDAY

The Methodist church was crowded and almost overflowing Sunday. Chairs were secured and the aisles of the church filled and the great crowd of people comfortably seated. The decorating committee and their sponsor were complimented for the artistic arrangements of the church and the lovely floral decorations.

The musical program was unusually good and very much appreciated by the attentive audience.

The citizens were proud of the graduating class of twenty-three fine young people who filed in, attired in caps and gowns.

Dr. A. E. Prince chose Moses for his theme and he held the great crowd spellbound as he ably discussed his subject and told of Moses' preparation of eighty years for the final forty years of success.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL OPERETTA

A great crowd of people attended the exercises by the grammar school Friday night. The program was snappy and full of interest. The encores were very attractive and the angels vied with them for admirers. The little folks always have excellent programs and their teachers had directed the presentation wisely and by many it was said to have been the best program of the year, for the little folks always give their very best talents with a smile.

Mrs. L. J. Smith and children went to Rio Vista on Monday night's train. They will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nanny and an aunt, who is seriously ill.

Miss Corinne McFarland of Dallas came in the latter part of the week to attend the commencement exercises of the high school. Her youngest sister, Miss Ethel Deane, is one of the honor graduates.

BUSY TIMES IN GRAIN FIELDS

The grain crops are calling for the men and boys now. The trucks are all in use and busy times are here. The cotton is not suffering, so many farmers say, for rain and a few more days of pretty weather will be very beneficial to the harvesting of the grain. Crop prospects are good and cattle are all in fine condition.

Most of the sheep shearing is over and the sheep are ready for the summer heat. The price of wool was low, but the sheep went through the past warm winter with very little feeding and the lamb crop was good and the price better than expected by the conservative sheep men.

MAY 29 IS THE DATE

The graduates of Mullin High school will receive their diplomas May 29.

They are a fine representative group of students and the auditorium will likely be crowded with visitors and friends from far and near. Judge Few Brewster will address the class and it is always a genuine pleasure to listen to this orator.

Miss Marie Rice is valedictorian of the class and Miss Ethel Deane McFarland salutatorian.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

The statute against wife and child desertion still is in effect in Texas, Attorney General Jas. V. Allred has notified District Attorney Walter Tynan of San Antonio. A recent decision of the Court of Criminal Appeals on the topic makes it a misdemeanor instead of a felony.

The municipal government of Buenos Aires is endeavoring to reduce living costs in the city by taking over the selling of food. Flour, bread, potatoes and meat are being sold directly from the producer to the consumer by the city and the expense of middlemen is eliminated.

Retail food prices dropped about 2 per cent in April from March prices. Since April a year ago the decrease has amounted to 18 per cent, the bureau of labor statistics has announced. Butter, with a decrease of 6 per cent, topped the list of 34 food articles that declined in price during the month.

Comparatively speaking, the pedestrian is safer than ever, the National Safety Council reports. The council made public figures showing that pedestrian deaths increased but 5 per cent since 1927, whereas, there was a 35 per cent increase for motorists. The report also said that it had been found that country folk are more careless than those in the cities.

Texas Woman's College at Fort Worth will be closed and its property sold to pay $280,000 indebtedness, it was announced Friday. The announcement was made by Marvin D. Evans, secretary of the executive committee of trustees, after the chamber of commerce directors decided "it would not be possible for the chamber to raise the needed funds." The college is 16 years old.

The stroke of the pen of Judge R. L. Murray in Criminal District Court at Beaumont freed St. Jefferson county men on charges of wife and child desertion. His action in dismissing charges against this number followed a decision of the Court of Criminal Appeals that the present Texas law governing these offenses is null and void, in that it makes the desertion a felony instead of a misdemeanor.

Purchase of the property of Mrs. T. B. Coelhan in Austin by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs as the site for the new state headquarters building of the federation has been announced. The property was purchased at a cost of $12,000 cash. The federation agreed to assume the debt for paving of West Twenty-fourth street as one of the conditions of the purchase. The site faces 180 feet on San Gabriel street and 248 feet on West Twenty-fourth.

Changes in the state's workmen's compensation act were among the major legislative proposals made in resolutions adopted just before the 1931 convention of the Texas State Federation of Labor closed in El Paso. Austin was given the state headquarters of the federation, which will be moved from Dallas. Fort Worth got the 1932 convention. One resolution adopted favored legislation to change the workmen's compensation act to permit more employment for men over 45 years of age. The legislative committee also recommended that the legislature investigate the Texas Employment Insurance association in an effort to reduce rates on compensation insurance.

THE COLORADO DAM

News that the contract has been let for the construction of the first large dam on the Colorado river, to be known as the Hamilton Dam, is good news for those Texans who have been hoping that the steady industrial progress of recent years is to be continued and to include larger projects in the future.

Texas is only one of several southern states which will see in the next decade a greater development of the water power resources of Dixie. North and South Carolina, Alabama and Tennessee, all have made notable progress. Now the Lone Star state makes adequate provision for the needs and uses of a population, which will far exceed in number the six millions citizens who inhabit Texas today.

How big is that Colorado Dam? Some 9000 feet long, the highest part 137 feet from the base of the river. It will form a lake between two and six miles in width and more than 30 miles in length. Highway No. 29 will be submerged for about six miles between Burnet and Llano. The dam will create a reservoir, which will impound the flood waters of the Colorado for the use of Texas. It is a $6,000,000 project and one whose completion will contribute greatly to the future growth and prosperity of the state.

Central Texas, of course, most directly affected by the developments along the Colorado. Yet the whole state reaps a substantial development. Here is a large industrial project, financed by Chicago capital, one which will furnish work for several hundred men. Its successful completion will do more than furnish Texas a large hydro-electric dam. It will advertise the state and the state's resources as nothing else could.

Burnet and Llano counties will enter upon a period of active development. And that large area which lies below the dam in Texas, and which today is menaced by the danger of flood waters in a river on the rampage, can breathe more freely after a series of dams harnesses the energy of that Texas stream for the benefit of man.

NEW 25c COIN Secretary of the Treasury Mellon soon will invite artists throughout the country to submit designs for a new 25-cent piece, which will be issued next year in connection with the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. The coin will be the first to bear the image of Washington. It is authorized by legislation passed in the closing days of the last session of congress. On the front of the 25c piece now in use is a full-length figure of a woman, while the back is engraved with an eagle in flight.

A Critical Time In Every Woman's Life. "During a critical time in my life I took Cardui for several months. I had hot flashes, I would suddenly get dizzy and seem blind. I would get faint and have no strength. My nerves were on edge. I would not sleep at night. "Cardui did wonders for me. I recommend it to all women who are passing through the critical period of change. I have found it a fine medicine." —Mrs. Hettie Murphy, Poplar Bluff, Mo. ADVERTISING AND MERCHANDISING

"A greater responsibility rests with advertising today than ever before, because the present strategy of business is not so much production as merchandising. Business is leaning to a greater extent, consequently, on both advertising and intelligent, intensive merchandising plans. It is our big hope for a more rapid recovery. And I believe advertising is especially proving its worth at this time, through the business it is making for the big and outrageous companies that have either continued or increased their appropriations.

This was the summary of the relation between business and advertising as related by H. T. Ewald, president of the Campbell-Ewald Co., which handles the advertising for all General Motors cars and is one of the largest agencies in the country. Mr. Ewald made the trip to Texas with H. J. Klingler, vice-president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor company, who is holding meetings with his field organizations in the larger cities in the Southwest and on the Pacific Coast.

"Last year," continued Mr. Ewald, "P. Lorillard and R. J. Reynolds, large tobacco companies and the National Biscuit company were among the large concerns which increased their advertising appropriations and increased their sales by millions over the banner year of 1929. This year the American Tobacco Company, Coca Cola, Ivory Soap, Campbell Soup and all the General Motors cars are backed by large advertising appropriations and are either showing a tremendous gain STYLES may come and styles may go, but in furniture as in everything else, but one kind of upholstery — mohair velvet — remains in constant popularity ever since the invention of power machinery put it within the reach of everyday folks, and not just of kings and nobles, as in previous centuries.

The demand for furniture covered with fabric made from the fleece of the angora goat has increased steadily until now the United States leads the world in angora goat raising and consequently in the production of mohair materials.

Its great durability is undoubtedly the chief reason why mohair velvet is an upholstery perennial. Not even the beauty and luster of its soft texture would suffice to win the housewife's repeated approval if mohair velvet, or velmo as it is often called, did not surpass all other materials in wearing quality.

Some knowledge of the physical structure and chemical composition of the mohair fiber is necessary to understand why it makes a superior upholstery fabric. Seen under a microscope the mohair fiber is smooth and shiny, with fewer scales or serrations than on the wool fiber. This means that it does not attract dirt so quickly, that dust tends to slide off the smooth hairs and that actual dirt is easily removed with a swift brushing with soap and water if necessary, without affecting the color.

CIVIL WAR

The Civil War was a foolish and unnecessary conflict. The statesmen of that period, North and South, were poorly informed and inefficient. They lacked the courage to face facts, although not lacking in physical courage. It is not the part of a statesman to show battlefield bravery. It is his part to determine dangers, avoid frenzy, correct error and legislate out of wisdom and patriotism. The Civil War was brought on by intolerance at the North and inflammation at the South. The bigotry of one side and the belligerency of the other prepared the ground for conflict, with its consequence of waste, death, poverty and festering wounds. The South should have known that slavery could not endure in a civilization superior to it. The North should have known that peaceful negotiation and proper compensation would have served to abolish slavery. But passion was preferred because politicians were not statesmen and the voice of the orator was not the voice of God.

Next to the salesman, for actually consummating the sale, nothing can take the place of the newspaper. Advertising is the great force that is putting dollars into circulation at the present time, for no one doubts but that the money is in the country and that people desire. I also believe the public is gaining confidence and just in proportion as people have confidence just in that proportion will they loosen their purse strings.

Most of the successful men you read about never got that way on an eight-hour, five-day schedule. Life is much like a motor. The faster you drive a car, the less mileage you get per gallon. But why pile up money in savings banks? Locking the horse in the stable isn't the sure way to get plowing done. A better name for the back seat of a roadster, if you've ever driven in one in cold weather, is the grumble seat.

SAYINGS OF PARAGRAPHERS

It is veally humorous, what people sometimes laugh at. Bills for spending billions on unemployment and drouth relief, already introduced, go to show that congressmen are willing to be generous — with Uncle Sam's money.

"Accept this," said the man as he turned over his second-hand car, "with my kindest deprecations."

Captain Campbell of England was knighted because he drove nearly three hundred miles an hour. Over here when a fellow drives fifty miles an hour he is liable to get arrested.

Our idea of a real optimist is a fellow who will buy a pocket-book on credit.

Snakeheels, the office boy, says that a man's mind is like a bookshelf: There's the little pamphlet of what he knows, the great big book of what he doesn't know, and the huge volumes of what he thinks he knows.

If you notice a well known man hereabouts, wearing a plaid vest, it's because his doctor told him to keep a check on his stomach.

Italy now forbids the exportation of genuine antiques, but it is not expected that the trade with American tourists will be injured.

Gandhi, the great political leader of India, hasn't a pocket to his name. And this is another difference between him and our American politicians.

Considering some of the people in the public eye, it looks like the public would wear goggles.

Thus far the legislature has refrained from engaging in any investigation escapade. Perhaps they recognize the fact that very few people can stand a thorough investigation.

Then there was the young bride who grew suddenly jealous when her husband revealed he was in love with his work.

Blue and green sidewalks and buildings.

"to aid in preservation of the eye," will be a development of the near future, Dr. Melvine of the American Academy of Optometry, recently told members of the Colorado Optometrists. Doctor Melvin also forecast the use of artificial ventilation and lighting. He said: "Today very little green is seen. Our streets are of cement, white in color and a most excellent medium for glare and reflection; buildings are light colored and frequently have highly polished surfaces. Some day, no doubt, the paving and sidewalks on our streets will be in a subdued green and likewise our buildings will be constructed of brick of a green color or about eight or ten feet up. The remainder will be sky blue, and all of these are materials which will absorb light rather than reflect it."

When children are weevily, grind their teeth restlessly, have digestive disturbances, lack of appetite, have itching eyes, and doctors will not cure them, they are suffering from pin worms. Many mothers, too, who think their carefully bred children can have worms, remains that these worms yield, in a great measure, to a few doses of White Mifuge, the sure expeller of pin worms. If you have any of these symptoms, you can get at 35c per box.

THERE'LL BE NO REGRETS

WAY back in Old Testament times, when a day of atonement was at hand, the sins of the people were symbolically placed on the head of a goat which was then allowed to escape into the wilderness; hence the word scapegoat, or blame-bearer, which has come down through the ages.

No longer made to endure this, the goat is, however, still serving mankind in a variety of other ways, especially the angora or mohair goat as it is called from its fleece.

All the time they are doing this they are growing a wonderful fleece of long, silky, white mohair which is clipped once or twice a year and sent to the mills for manufacturing into fabrics.

The pile material resulting, known as velmo or mohair velvet, is in great demand as upholstery for automobiles, trains, busses and airplanes, as well as for fine furniture in the home, because it will wear practically forever, and is as easy to keep clean as it is beautiful to look at.

It is one of the most satisfactory fibers known for dyeing. Mohair, unlike wool, cannot be felted, but is permanently resilient and springy and therefore cool and comfortable as a seat fabric.

THE SMALL TOWN

Some people are attracted by the rush and whirl of the city, where people stay out nearly all night and sleep all day, but we prefer the smaller city, where life is lived a day at a time.

People who insist on living their own life without any regard to the rights of their neighbors or the common decencies of life will not find much appeal to them in the small town.

The small town has its faults—plenty of them, the main one being the concern of others in your own private affairs.

In the small town when illness, death or misfortune comes to a home the finest qualities of the people always come to the surface.

The spirit of helpfulness does not exist in looking out for himself. In a small town in time of trouble everyone tries to help.

She had been to a neighbor's house and returned to her home about 10 o'clock. The family moved to Goldthwaite from Ranger about thirty-two years ago and have a wide circle of friends, all of whom deeply sympathize with the bereaved husband and children and other relatives. Mrs. Ervin leaves, besides her husband, four children—three sons and one daughter, a son and daughter make their home in Dallas, another son lives in Pecos, while a third son lives in California.

The remains were carried to Caddo Tuesday for burial. VETERAN'S STORY

S. M. Scoggins is 85 years old and lives at the Texas Confederate Home. He enlisted at Arcadia, La., was sworn in at Monroe, La. John Gibson was his captain, R. L. Clayton, brigadier general. He says:

"My first fight was at Corrent, Miss. We first retreated, but were reinforced and came back and made them do some retreating."

"The next fight of any note was at Nashville, Tenn. We sure gave the Yankees a good thrashing there. This was in the spring of 1863."

"After this fight we were sent to Mission Ridge. This was some fight, for we fought three days and had to run like scared wolves and were glad to get the chance under the circumstances. I have heard lots of fellows say that they never ran, but I have it down that they never were there to run. I ran and was glad that I had legs to run with."

"The next battle in which I participated was at New Hope, Ga. I was not in the fight, but in something worse. I was detailed to help with the build a brush arbor for a hospital. We worked all night getting this arbor ready for the battle. I was detailed to help with the wounded, while the doctors removed or set the broken limbs. Now a man need not tell me he would rather have a job like this than to be in the line of battle. The pitiful cries and moans of the wounded, while the doctors were removing broken limbs and arms rang in my ears for days afterward. The doctors had to go to work an hour before medicine or anesthetics came. After medicine did arrive everything went more quietly among the poor wounded.—Dallas News."

BLUE BELL.

PUBLIC EXPENDITURES THAT BRING RETURNS

Three main causes are advancing the secondary road movement; the need for relieving congestion on main highways, the efforts being made in all states to reduce taxes and keep down governmental expense, and—of perhaps greatest importance—the necessity of giving farmers year-round contacts with markets and the outside world.

Good secondary roads are a perennial attraction to tourists who welcome the opportunity to see small towns and rural and semi-rural areas that would otherwise go principally to the larger cities. It has been found that the average cost of a good, year-round secondary road, made waterproof, dustless and mudless by use of asphalt or road oils, and suitable for a fair amount of traffic, is but $4,000 a mile—about one-eighth the cost of standard hard paving. Up-keep expense is likewise low and such roads may be adapted to their territories by using local materials as the base.

From the standpoint of the farmer, good roads are indispensable. They mean an end to the time when he stayed home in the bad weather, or started for town and got mired. They remove the obstacles in the way of receiving medical attention and fire-fighting facilities, of sending his children to and from school. They are the best investment the states have ever made in behalf of agriculture and the small town.

It is no wonder the good roads movement is making great progress even in a time when money is tight. The public is learning that tax money invested in good roads is one of the few forms of public expenditures for which the people get more in return than they pay out.

Mrs. L. C. Pitts underwent a serious operation at Belton the early part of the week and is reported to be doing nicely. Her Goldthwaite friends are indeed glad to know of her improvement.

FIFTY YEARS AGO—AND NOW

What an old timer thinks of conditions in the cities today as compared with 50 years ago is set forth in the following letter to the Daily News Record:

1881

Fifty years ago women wore hoop skirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings, high-buttoned shoes, ruffled cotton drawers, flannel nightgowns, puffs in their hair, did their own cooking, baking, cleaning, washing, ironing—raised big families—went to church Sunday—were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square hats, ascot ties, red flannel underwear, big watches and chains—chopped wood for stoves, bathed once a week—drank 10 cent whiskey and 5 cent beer—rode bicycles, buggies and sleighs, went in for politics—worked 12 hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

Stores burned coal lamps—carried everything from a needle to a plow—trusted everybody—never took inventory—placed orders for goods a year in advance—always made money.

Today women wear silk stockings, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear, have bobbed hair, smoke, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs, and go in for politics.

Men have high blood pressure, wear no hats, and some no hair, shave their whiskers, shoot golf, bathe twice a day, drink poison, play the stockmarket, ride airplanes—never go to bed the same day they get up—are misunderstood at home—work five hours a day, play 10—die young.

Stores have electric lights—cash registers, elevators, never have what the customer wants—trust nobody, take inventory daily—never buy in advance, have overhead, markup, mark-down, quota, budget, advertising, stock control, annual and semi-annual, end of the month, dollar day, founder's day, rummage economy day sales, never make any money.

If you like these conditions and think life worth living, I wish you a happy 1931. TERRY

NEWSPAPER WORTH

Country weekly newspapers have not, as a rule, received a fair price for subscriptions. In view of their value to the people of a community, and of the fact that it costs just as much to prepare newspaper forms for the press on which 1000 copies are to be printed as it does when several times that number are to be printed, a subscription price of not under $3.00 a year would be none too high. Such a price would not cover more of the cost of preparing the community newspaper than the subscriber should be expected to pay. It has taken several years for the publishers of country newspapers to reach a price of approximately $2 a year. While some other commodities are dropping slightly in price the weekly newspapers of the nation are still underpriced, and any change should be upwards instead of downwards for the newspapers that are worthy of the name.—Auxiliary Publisher.

Anthony Silas, 115-year-old negro at Spring near Houston, claims to remember when "the stars fell" in 1822. The aged negro for years has been janitor of the Spring High school and is still spry.

He says he was about six years old when the stars fell. His parents were slaves on a North Carolina plantation and it was while gathering fruit that he saw the shower of meteors.
