

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-EIGHT

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1932

NUMBER FORTY-FIVE

LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS

At the annual election of officers Tuesday evening at the Legion Hall in Goldthwaite, the Harry F. Edmondson Post of the American Legion elected the following officers for the year beginning September 1: Commander, L. L. Wilson, Mullin; vice commander, John A. Weaver; adjutant, M. Y. Stokes, Jr.; finance officer, Coley O. Sevier; chaplain, G. W. Chancellor, Mullin; historian, T. J. Collier; sergeant-at-arms, Jack O. Reid.

Delegates and alternates to the state convention of the American Legion, which convenes at Corpus Christi on August 1, were elected as follows: Herman H. Kaufman, Frank W. Taylor, M. T. Cooke and Homer C. DeWolfe, delegates; Roy Rowntree, B. Fry, George F. Bohannon and Jack O. Reid, alternates.

Organization of a woman's auxiliary to the local legion post was discussed, and it is expected that the ladies will form such an auxiliary soon. Any wife, mother or sister of a member of the American Legion or widow, mother or sister of a service man who died in service or after his honorable discharge from the service is eligible for membership in the auxiliary.

ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Commissioners Burnett and Burnham have done some excellent work on the road from Goldthwaite to the bayou bridge in the last several weeks. In some places the road has been straightened and the grades reduced, while it has all been improved. After the bayou is reached Commissioner Duren will join Commissioner Burnett in working the road thru to Regency. Mr. Burnett has done as much work as his present finances would allow and now the other two commissioners have joined him in the improvement of this very important road, which arrangement is decidedly creditable to all of them and helpful to the county's road system.

MRS. W. M. JOHNSTON ENTERTAINS

Mrs. Wyley M. Johnston entertained her "42" club in her home Wednesday afternoon, using blue bells as a decoration. Ice cream and cake were served to Mmes. C. D. McKinley of Hamilton, Jim Cockrum, John Scholler, Robert Steen, Sallie Rudd, W. B. Jackson and Robt. Weaver of Waco, who is a house guest of the hostess.

A GUEST.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church will meet Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. J. S. Bowles. This will be a regular business session, followed by a Voice program. All members requested to be present on time.

PRESIDENT

MARRIAGE LICENSE

County Clerk Porter reports no marriage license issued since last issue of this paper.

Mrs. Ben Nix of North Bennett was in the city shopping Tuesday.

Calvin Scrivner of Mullin was a visitor to the city the early part of the week.

Miss Emaline Smith returned to her duties in Dallas the first of the week, after a visit to her mother, Mrs. F. C. Smith, in this city.

Lewis Hudson and J. E. Great-house spent Wednesday in Brownwood attending the district meeting of the Odd Fellows lodge.

Governor Sterling and party spent a short while in Goldthwaite Wednesday, while en route to Brady, where he was scheduled for a speech.

Brian Smith, manager for Sears-Roebuck Co., in Atlanta, Ga., left for his home Saturday night, after a visit to his mother, Mrs. F. C. Smith, in this city.

Mrs. Phillips, pastor of the Nazarene church of this city, will preach at South Bennett Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend the services.

Dr. Osterhout and wife of Comanche were here Tuesday and performed two operations, removing the tonsils of the Graves children of Lake Merritt community.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Faulkner left Tuesday morning for their home at McCamey, after spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Faulkner.

Misses Louella Patterson and Love Gatlin came home from the University to spend last week end and the Glorious Fourth, returning to their studies the early part of the week.

R. G. Huffman, who has been in the hospital at Brownwood for several days, was reported to be resting well yesterday and his friends are hopeful he will soon be able to come home.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Fletcher were visited Sunday by Mrs. Fletcher's sister, Mrs. Clara Logan, and three sons from San Antonio and by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Bauchman and two sons from Seguin.

Miss Bessie Crews returned Sunday night from a month's vacation, spent in Oklahoma. She enjoyed the trip and visit very much, although she is like everybody else, mighty glad to get back to Goldthwaite.

Leon Patterson and wife came in last week end from Altus, Oklahoma, for a visit in the home of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Evans. He returned home the early part of the week, but Mrs. Patterson remained for a longer visit.

Dr. S. A. Lowrie of Post, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Kate, and his granddaughter, May Abbie Sims, came in last week for a visit in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Allen. They expect to remain here over Sunday.

Editor Charley Hall and wife of McGregor passed thru the city Saturday en route to the river to spend a few days fishing, as is their annual custom. Mr. Hall is editor of the McGregor Mirror and a long time friend of the Eagle editor.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Alberthol returned to their home in San Angelo, after a visit in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Marvin Hodges, in this city. Their grandsons, Marvin Hodges, Jr., who had been visiting them, came home with them last week end.

Joe Boland, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boland, had the misfortune to break his arm last week, while at play at the home of his grandfather, D. J. Lockett, at Mullin. He was carried to the hospital in Brownwood, where the arm was set and he is at home, doing nicely.

King Childress and his wife and daughters arrived from Groesbeck last week end for a visit to the Morris family and other relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Childress were engaged in school teaching in this county a good many years, but he has been engaged in newspaper work in recent years and has a good place with the Groesbeck Journal.

CYCLONE IN GOLDTHWAITE

Cyclone Davis, the well known prohibition speaker and debater, was here last Saturday meeting some of his friends of former years. He has a national reputation as a prohibition lecturer and no man in America has ever been able to carry an audience against him in debate. He is a candidate for congressman-at-large and will get a big vote in all parts of Texas.

STOCK MARKET LOSSES

Farmers are not the only class who have lost money and lots of it within the past few years. Owners of stocks and bonds have been deflated faster than the man with the hoe. American Telephone and Telegraph Co. stock has for many years been considered one of the best and safest investments. In 1929 it sold for $329 a share, but now you can buy it for $77, or less than one-fourth of the top price. To buy one share each of Commonwealth & Southern, International Telephone and Telegraph, Ludlum Steel, Missouri, Kansas and Texas and Pure Oil stock now takes only about $10 while in 1929 they would have cost nearly $500. Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock, which sold for over $100 a share only two years ago, and for much more than that in 1929, is now being offered for $9 to $10 a share.

LIVE OAK

The revival meeting at Bethel is in progress, and it will continue through Sunday, July 10. Rev. Francis from Indian Creek is doing some splendid preaching. You are cordially asked to attend the services.

Mrs. Nolan Horton and Nolan Horton, Jr., and Miss Margie Featherston of Wichita Falls have been visiting in the C. G. Featherston home this week. They returned home Thursday and were accompanied by Miss Ila Fay Featherston, who will spend the remainder of the summer taking courses in the Van Buren beauty school.

Jess Harwell and family and Frank Horon of Dallas spent last week end visiting relatives at Live Oak. They returned home Sunday afternoon, but Jess Harwell, Jr., remained for a longer visit.

Miss Ruth Featherston, who is a student in Southwestern University at Georgetown this summer, spent last week end in the C. G. Featherston home.

Miss Eunice Denman of Houston is now visiting her mother, Mrs. Lottie Denman, of our community. Mrs. Travis Long and daughter, Bobbie Jo, of Lake Merritt, and Mrs. M. McGirk of Goldthwaite visited in the C. G. Featherston home Wednesday.

CHAPPEL HILL

Mrs. Edna Wheeler and her four boys, Marlon, Mervin, Murrell V. and Dixie Lee, all of Austin, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Liss Walker.

Liss Walker transacted business in Austin last week.

Luther Forbes visited his parents at Cottonwood last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Shirley of Pioneer visited their daughter, Mrs. Ernest Eakin, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. J. W. Aldridge and son, Ray, visited Mrs. Liss Walker one day last week.

Dewey Gerald will leave soon for Carlsbad to take treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Graves of Pioneer visited Mrs. Graves' sister, Mrs. Ernest Eakin, and family Sunday.

Mrs. Rause, mother of Mrs. J. W. Aldridge, is very low at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eakin and children, Hazel, Marvin, Pauline and Ponta Ray, visited Mrs. Liss Walker one day last week.

Ray Aldredge will leave soon for the west, where he says he will grow up with the country. Mrs. Luther Forbes and children, visited Mrs. Liss Walker and family Sunday. Well, according to the idea of the scribe, with Roosevelt and Garner in the National Capitol, and Ferguson in the State Capitol, there are better times ahead.

BAPTIST CHURCH

One hundred and fifty-six years ago today, (July 4) a number of distinguished gentlemen gathered in Philadelphia to read and sign that immortal document that had been written by Thomas Jefferson. These men gathered in open rebellion against King George of England, thereby risking their lives for what they called liberty. Mr. Franklin said, "Gentlemen, we must all hang together, or we shall all hang separately." They did hang together and look what America has today. More than a hundred millions of people with more money and more estates than in the history of this nation, and yet with more distress. These men did not intend for such a complication to arise.

It might be interesting for some to know that some of those men that put their signature to this document were past four score years of age. There has been a cry for the past quarter of a century that when a man gets beyond fifty he ought to climb on the shelf and let the younger men take his place. This has been done in many instances, but by no means does it always prove to be the best. We ought to be anxious to see young people be successful in their chosen line of endeavor, but no one ought to be given a place of responsibility merely as a stepping stone for something greater. When a man is given a place of honor and trust, with responsibility, he ought by all means serve to the best of his ability to promote the welfare of those whom he serves and not to promote his own interest to the extent that he forgets his obligations to those who have befriended him.

We have several years before passing the dead line and feel perfectly free to express our opinion. We believe that we need men today as never before, not to play politics, but to be men. We have no use for any man that is so full of politics that he can not discharge his duty to his God and his fellowman. We have too many men that will jump on every band wagon that comes along if they think it will be to their interest, regardless of the interest of those whom they serve. We need men today with good judgment, men with sober minds, men that are courageous, men that stand for something, men that are impartial, men that will suffer if need be for that which is right. We do not need any more politics, but we do need service.

Many thanks to those who were so kind to offer assistance in helping to take care of our kinsman. When kinsfolk visit preachers they always carry their beds and eats, making it very pleasant to entertain them. Otherwise we would have responded graciously to the invitations.

We understand that Mr. L. J. Gartman had some visitors not long ago and took away all of his winter supplies, and they did not stop at that, even took away his fourth of July celebrations. That is what a man gets by not attending church regular.

During the fire that was consuming the Rev. Moreland's smokehouse, we incidentally asked a Methodist about its origin, to which he replied his canning machine blew up. We had an idea something of that kind had happened, because there were too many Baptists around. We asked a gentleman the other day why he was not at church and he said: "We were out of town." I am wondering if there is not some way of getting the lake inside the city limits.

We had splendid services Sunday. Lawrence Hays preached an able sermon Sunday night and everyone appreciated his message. But Sunday of this week is gone. What are you going to do Sunday of next week? Stay at home, go visiting or go fishing? Better come to church. We will guarantee if you will come to church you will feel better and go away happier. Just try it. Going to church will do more good to drive the blues away and to keep people out of trouble than anything else you can do. Some of you won't believe it, but there

CENTER POINT

Our section of the country was blessed with a rain the past week end. Grain threshing was delayed for a few days.

Only a few attended Sunday school Sunday morning.

Arlliss Davis has been real sick the past few days.

Walter Conner and Otis Hutchings called on Bro. J. D. Long Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ola Belle Williams spent part of last week at Mullin attending the revival at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Spinks and children of Blanket visited in the Will Spinks home Friday night.

Quite a few have been attending the Baptist revival at Mullin the last few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Davis and children of Rock Springs visited Mrs. Ed Davis Saturday.

Quite a few gathered themselves together the fourth of July and loaded their wagons with everything good to eat and started for the picnic grounds in Sherfield's pasture on Brown's creek. The starting hour was early and a long day before us. After arriving, fishing was the first thing to draw time and efforts. Needless to say the water was inviting to all. At an almost impossible early hour the word was sent out that lunch was ready. The eats were delicious. About 4 or 5 o'clock the tired party disbanded, each expressing their pleasures of the picnic. Those who attended were as follows: Mesdames Walter Conner, Ida Smith, R. J. Hallford, Florence Conner and Julia Taylor. Messrs. Walter Conner, Otis Hutchings, J. N. Smith, Joe Adams, Haynie, Lewis and William Conner and Johnnie Curtis and Joe Taylor. Misses Besse Hutchings, Thelma and Vera Conner, Faye French, Arlie and Lucille Taylor, Era King and Hattie Miller. In the afternoon the above were joined by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Taylor of Dallas, Miss Oma and Miss Katie Evelyn Smith and Bud Smith.

Miss Lillie Conner is making a several days visit in Coryell county.

Mrs. Charlie Stark and Mrs. Julia Taylor canned peas one day the past week.

Mrs. R. J. Hallford and Mrs. Ida Smith were guests in the Calvert Hallford home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Dempsey of Nabors creek and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Terry of Goldthwaite were visiting Mrs. Adams Sunday.

Viva Delbeck made a trip to Brownwood last week and the doctors gave her very little encouragement for further successful treatments.

Bro. and Mrs. I. A. Dyches are in Coryell county, where he is conducting a revival meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Steinmann were Sunday visitors in the Ed Davis home.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dunever of Fort Worth spent Sunday night with Will Spinks and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer and children left Thursday for New York, after a short visit here with relatives.

Mrs. Ed Davis has been real sick the last few days.

Miss Elsie Hill visited in the Hutchings home part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Conner returned home, after a weeks stay at Trigger Mountain, where they have been working.

Mrs. Jim Randles is on the sick list.

Verne French spent Saturday night in the Edging home at South Bennett.

The scribe failed her post of duty, so many of the news items this week failed to reach my ears.

CENTER CITY

We are rejoicing over the fine rains which fell Saturday and Sunday. Crops are fine and garden stuff is plentiful. Much canning is being done.

Singing Sunday afternoon was enjoyed by a number. Rain and mud kept many away.

It has been a custom with our people here to enjoy each July 4 on the river. On account of a high rise we could not go Monday. However, Bennett creek was a fine substitute and a number had just as nice a time nearer home.

Miss Gladys Casbeer is operating doing nicely, after an operation for an infected hip bone in a Brownwood hospital. We certainly hope she continues to improve and will soon be able to return home.

We regret to report that Mrs. Lewis Jones is not doing so well. She was operated on for appendicitis in Temple on Thursday of last week.

Grandma Langford is quite ill at the home of her son, Joe. She celebrated her 92nd birthday Sunday. Grandma had been an unusually strong woman until about two years ago, when she suffered a stroke of paralysis. Her long life has been thrilling and interesting. She was born in Indiana and came to Texas in the early days. She has two other children, Wm. Langford and Mrs. J. M. Geeslin, who are with her most of the time.

Mrs. Elta Eden of Cottonwood, Arizona, came in Monday night to be at the bedside of Grandma Langford.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawton McBeth was brought home from the Brownwood hospital and is improving in the home of its grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Reid.

Wendall Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Evans, had the misfortune of falling from a tree, breaking an arm, one day last week. He is doing nicely.

Neal and Ronda Hette Cooke of Wink are pleasant visitors in the Everett Evans home.

The ball game Monday afternoon between McOirk and Center City was enjoyed by a large crowd. We had rather not report Center City team as losing, but they did.

FLOODS SWEEP TEXAS

Uvalde, Kerrville, Brady and Coleman suffered damage from floods Saturday and Sunday, after torrential rains had turned the creeks into raging torrents and caused rivers to overflow and become lakes.

Four lives were reported lost after a nine-inch rain at Coleman. Santa Fe trains to and from Sweetwater had to detour by way of San Angelo because of track washouts between Merton and Barnhart. A Talpa man was drowned.

Thousands of summer visitors at Kerrville had to abandon their summer camps and homes, and several automobiles were washed away by the mountain torrents. Four lives were lost in that section.

The little town of Hunt, 15 miles from Kerrville, had every building except a new school building swept away by the waters of the Guadalupe river.

Uvalde was isolated for hours, and news of its leading citizen, John Garner, being nominated for vice president was received only by radio.

A fifteen-foot rise in Brady creek caused citizens there to fear a repetition of the costly flood two years ago.

No completed estimates of the total damage done throughout the state are available, but losses from lost and damaged buildings, washed out roads and bridges, drowned livestock will certainly approach a million dollars.

RIDGE

(Too late for last week.)

The candidate rally was given last Friday night and quite a few of the candidates attended. Their speeches were enjoyed by a real large crowd.

G. W. Stanley was in Goldthwaite Monday.

Mrs. W. J. Kelso has been ill the past week, but is able to be up and canning now.

Mrs. Oneita Edmondson and daughter, Margaret, Mrs. Miller, Ruby Cunningham and Billie Jack Kelso, took dinner with Mrs. Pearl Hollis and family Sunday.

Flowers Lindsey took dinner with Marietta Atkinson.

Those who met at Mrs. Pearl Hollis' and made candy to sell at the candidate rally were Mrs. Lindsey and Flowers, Mrs. Edmondson, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Kelso, Mrs. Ketchum and Zella Kelso. They made plenty of candy and felt like Thursday evening was well spent.

Mrs. G. W. Stanley spent Monday with Mrs. Kelso.

Zella Kelso spent Friday night with Marietta Atkinson, who returned home with her and spent Saturday.

Bill and Elvin Ketchum visited in this community Tuesday.

Ed Jones of Regency was hunting bee trees here Tuesday evening.

C. C. Meeks and Joe Curtis, Jr., took a truckload of feed to Brownwood Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Edmondson and Mrs. Miller went to Brownwood Tuesday.

Leona Lane spent a few days with Arlie and Beatrice Curtis.

W. H. Freeman, Jr., return home Sunday from a visit to his grandmother, Mrs. Carlock, of Goldthwaite.

Most of the gardens here are burning up and everyone is wishing for a good rain.

GAS ENGINES TO RUN UNDER WATER ON OWN EXHAUSTS

By adding oxygen to exhaust gas, the approximate composition of air can be maintained at the intake of submarine engines so that they may be used to drive the craft while submerged. In addition, no bubbles rise to the surface to betray the submarine's position. The engine, with the addition of oxygen, is practically a closed circuit, using its own exhaust gas time after time. This method solves the problem of obtaining sufficient air for combustion in the engine. Weight would be reduced by removing electric storage batteries now used for driving submerged submarines, while danger of battery fumes in disabled craft would be eliminated.

ROCK SPRINGS

There wasn't any Sunday school Sunday morning. Sunday night there wasn't any B. Y. P. U. program. Mr. Chadwick gave us a good quiz lesson. After the quiz we sang.

There were eight at prayer meeting Saturday night. Mrs. McClary was leader. Mrs. Joe Davis will lead next time.

Saturday night and Sunday will be church day. Sunday afternoon is singing. We hope to have a large crowd.

J. F. Davis stood his operation fine last Thursday in the sanitarium in Brownwood.

The fourth was a beautiful day for those who could celebrate it. From all reports I heard the picnic was fine on the river, where Landy Ellis lives. The crowd wasn't as large as it has been, as sickness kept some away and others were busy canning.

Those who enjoyed the day and good dinner Sunday in Landy Ellis' home were Sam Meazelle and family and Reginald Ely and wife from Duncan, Okla., Roy Long and family from town and Mrs. Eula Nickols.

Mrs. Duke Clements and daughter and Joe Roberts and family from town helped can corn in the Nickols home last Friday.

Beryl Vann Roberts is spending his vacation with his grandparents.

Dwight Nickols and wife and Miss Claudie Carroll visited in the Nickols home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Duke Clements and son from town and Fred Faulkner, Jr., from Fort Worth helped can corn in the Nickols home Monday morning.

R. C. Webb and wife, Louie Ponder and James Nickols enjoyed ice cream in Marvin Spinks home Saturday night.

Ethel McClary and Nellie D. Cooke helped Mrs. Nickols can corn last Friday. They also spent the night.

Saturday night, when Mr. McClary and wife and Mrs. J. C. Stark were going home from prayer meeting they met William Wilcox and family and the McClary lights blinded Mr. Wilcox, so they ran into each other. The Wilcox car's fender was disfigured and the McClary car had to have help from the garage men. There wasn't anyone hurt.

Homer Doggett and family visited Dwight Nickols and wife in town this week.

E. D. Roberson and Joe Davis and wife visited in the sanitarium in Brownwood Sunday. Their sick ones were better.

Lawrence Ballard from Houston is spending two weeks with his parents.

Mrs. Homer Doggett and daughter and Mrs. Eula Nickols spent Saturday afternoon

Alton and Oscar Gatlin visited their mother in town the fourth.

Mrs. J. T. Robertson visited her daughter, Mrs. Woody Traylor, last Friday.

Otis Hutchings from Center Point, Lindon Davis, Joe Davis and Joe Roberts, Dwight Nickols from town helped the Nickols boys thresh last Wednesday.

The Renfro thresher was in this community last week. They have finished their threshing for this season and it is a good thing, for James Nickols had already worked two horses down and Oliver Cavothers would soon have worn out his regular jellybean hat to protect him from the sun. Maybe he was like Ishmal Long. He wanted a sun tan complexion.

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

The Santa Fe railroad bulletin says:

"The Texas cotton crop is still about two weeks late, but continued hot weather will help it catch up. High temperatures and scattered rains during the last month have been very beneficial. Chopping is finished, with stands from average to good. Fields are clean and the growth is satisfactory. Insects are present over the entire state, but thus far the damage has been negligible. A change to rainy weather would make these pests extremely damaging. Cotton acreage in the western half of the state is close to that of last year; it has been considerably reduced in the eastern half.

"Moisture is generally satisfactory, but some sections, particularly east Texas, will need rains soon.

"Production of tomatoes in east Texas territory will show a heavy decrease compared with that of last season. Dry weather has cut yields as small fruit is maturing under a hot sun. Quality is also being impaired by dry rot and sun cracks. Yields were fair and growers received good returns from their crop, despite the fact that a late freeze set the crop back two weeks later than normal.

"Early potato movement is about over and production shows a twenty-five per cent decrease under last year. Early markets were strong and growers received good profits.

"Onions are moving in good volume from north Texas as unit yields continue to run higher than were expected. Markets remain weak but growers are receiving good acreage returns. Production will show an increase over that of last season.

"Wheat harvest is in progress in the northwest, and the yield for the state is placed by the government at 31,650,000 compared with 57,433,000 last year, and the five year average of 22,749,000.

"The corn crop is coming along fairly well in most parts of the state, dry weather having caused spotted damage. Feed crops generally are in good condition."

PRICES POINT TO BUSINESS REVIVAL

Improvement in the purchasing power of farmers and other producers of raw materials, due to a greater decline in finished goods prices than in the excessively depressed level of raw commodity prices, according to unofficial estimates for June, is hailed as "a definite start toward price equilibrium that will mark the beginning of business recovery" by the current Business Conditions Weekly of the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Comparing the trend with 1921, the Institute says:

"After the extreme spread was reached in the 1921 depression, the general price index declined 7.6 per cent before price equilibrium was sufficiently restored to provide the basis for a recovery in the general price level. This suggests that there will be a drop in the index of all commodity prices from 64.4 in May to 59.5 before the extreme bottom is reached. The manufactured goods price index will decline from 70.3 in

ARROW IN MAMMOTH'S SKULL SHOWS MAN FOUGHT BEAST

Buried at the same depth as the bones of saber-tooth tigers and other animals that roamed the earth 20,000 years ago, a mammoth's skull containing an arrowhead has been found near a Florida beach. Scientists interpret the discovery as evidence that man and mammoth existed on the earth at the same time.

May to 59.5 while the price index of raw materials will rise from 53.9 in May to 59.5. If commodity prices move in this manner from now on, as is indicated by current evidence, then manufacturing activity should be at a higher rate at the end of 1932, than it is at present and 1933 should be characterized by still further expansion. Factory output dropped to a new low in May. It would not be surprising if this was the extreme bottom or close to it."

Gay Breakfastcloths Are Popular Now

DISHES of cheery colors and contrasting hues are now being widely used for breakfast, when the family needs a note of uplift for the beginning of the day. The table corner above shows a tablecloth of the new lacquered fabric in an all over double leaf pattern on a small polka dot background. It has a hemstitched border both attractive and practical. Table cloths of this sort are in need of the laundry and may be cleaned with a damp cloth. They come in various smart new patterns, not only the conservative white, but in pale blue, navy, low, soft green and other past shades.

LET'S HAVE LESS LAWS

Whenever I am in London, I have to spend at least one morning in an English court. Amazingly impressive to an American is the dignity, the dispatch and the inflexible precision with which the courts are operated and the guilty are punished.

I do not believe for a minute that Americans are less law-abiding than the English. But our whole legal set-up is hopelessly complicated and moss-grown.

Counting all our aldermen, state legislators and members of congress, it has been estimated that there are almost 100,000 Americans engaged in passing new laws every year. A new York City policeman must be familiar with 16,000 different ordinances.

Once upon a time the Roman Empire became so cluttered up with laws that the Emperor Justinian appointed a learned lawyer to do something about it. These gentlemen decided that 2,000 laws were all that were necessary, codified the 2,000 and threw the rest into the ash can.

Something of the same sort is needed in this country. I am in favor of electing legislators who will promise to get more laws repealed than are passed. I will support any group that will seek to make our court procedure more simple and effective. I would require every candidate to pass an examination on the ideals of the founding fathers, who held that "that government is best which governs least."

"There ought to be a law," has been our motto long enough. Let us have fewer laws; let us quit meddling all the time with personal liberty; let us label as "crimes" only those which really are crimes.

And when a real crime is committed, let us have courts that can and will punish—and soon.—Bruce Barton in Redbook.

MEXICO CITY. LAREDO ROAD

Writing in the current issue of the July Survey Graphic, Eyer Simpson forecasts changes in courtly old Mexico as the hot dog stand and the soda pop dispensary crowd along the new highway system of the republic. Still, though the highway program of Mexico is being rushed through to completion at the utmost capacity of available men and money, it is far from complete.

You can go from Mexico City to Laredo today, says Mr. Simpson, provided you are willing to accept the delays and risk the actual dangers of "150 miles of the most awe-inspiring but at the present writing the most dangerous mountain road in existence." To compensate for it, however, there are 140 miles of well paved roads from Laredo to Monterrey.

The use to which that completed stretch of highway is being put both by tourist and commerce bears out his theory of a social revolution in Mexico attending the completion of the highway system. Eager visitors are pouring across the border to wonder at the scenic beauty of Old Mexico and to interest themselves in its foreign customs, yet it will be a pity to have these broken up by more frequent contact with a world attuned to greater degrees of speed.

This side the border, we may regard as a not unmixing blessing Mexico's arrival at good roads consciousness. This has already added Mexico to the nations with a noticeable accident death toll. But, for Mexican trade, the new highways will prove a powerful stimulant and make for increased contact and understanding between Texas and its quondam parent. The two are foregrounding now between Laredo and Monterrey, but when the highway is completed—manana—Mexico City will be only a step farther on.—Dallas News.

POLITICAL RESULTS OF THE REPEAL PLANK

The movement which swept the Democratic party into the declaration for repeal was expressive of a rising tide of sentiment in the North and East, extending from New England and New York on the Atlantic Coast to Illinois and Wisconsin and in the extreme West, centering in such states as California and Nevada. These states have a majority in the electoral college, and if all of them were to vote the Democratic ticket this year because of its declaration for repeal, that ticket would be elected even if the rest of the United States, including all the Southern states, were to go Republican. But all these states, of course, are not going to vote the Democratic ticket, repeal or no repeal. Nobody expects Pennsylvania, for example, to line up in the Democratic column. But the Democratic leaders do expect that such states as New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana, may be carried by the Democratic ticket because of the declaration of beer and light wines. Their expectation in this respect is all the more confident because the major part of the unemployment in the United States is in the industrial centers of the North and East, which circumstance has caused widespread discontent in that region and rendered President Hoover extremely unpopular among a large class of normally Republican voters.

Because of this, it can be confidently predicted that the most hotly contested campaign in the history of the country will be witnessed during the next four months in the North and East, and there is good ground to expect that some of the Northern and Eastern states will be found in the Democratic column after the votes have been counted.

But what about the South? Four years ago Texas, Florida, North Carolina and Virginia voted for Hoover. Will there be any danger of anything like that happening again? Frankly, we think not. It must be noted that in Texas a change in 13,003 votes would have changed the result. In Florida it would have required only 21,203, in North Carolina only 30,458 and in Virginia only 12,232. Conditions are so very different from what they were four years ago that it does not seem possible for President Hoover to carry those states again, for there certainly has been a change of votes to a much greater extent than that necessary to change the result of four years ago. For one thing Mr. Hoover was then at the very height of his popularity. He cannot be said to be popular today, and certainly not in the South. There was comparative prosperity four years ago, there is record-breaking depression today. There has been greatly increased sentiment against prohibition in the South, and finally the religious issue, which certainly influenced a percentage of the votes against Governor Smith, will not figure in the campaign.

It would seem then that the Democratic party has increased its chances of election by going on record for repeal. This is not to say that it has insured its election, for it remains to be seen what percentage of the wet Republicans will place that issue above party loyalty, and while in the North and East there are more Republicans than Democrats among the dries, dry defections from the Democrats to the Republicans are to be expected. But unquestionably in most of the Northern and Eastern states the Democrats will make a stronger appeal than usual this year to the average voter, because of the enormous sentiment against prohibition which will seek expression.—Texas Weekly.

SPEED DRUNKENNESS

That menace of the highways which in the United States is commonly known as "speed mania" is called by a recent English writer "speed drunkenness." The symptoms, he says, "are an extraordinary feeling of over-confidence, an exhilaration in taking risks that no sober man would take, a wild passion for pursuing the car ahead as though it were an enemy that must be caught at all costs."

The authority cites the fact that during the last three years 20,691 persons have been killed and more than 500,000 injured on British roads. Most of these accidents he attributes to "speed drunkenness," and he says that while doctors are frequently called in to test an offending motorist for alcoholic drunkenness they do not as yet recognize the prevalence and the seriousness of this other type of intoxication.

It is enlightening to learn that the British psychology is so closely akin to ours in the matter of motoring. The spirit of mad rush had been popularly regarded as typically American, but apparently it is a common human attribute in the driving of automobiles.

The important point is that speeding is regarded in England as it is being increasingly recognized in this country, as the most prolific cause of automobile accidents. Whether it be termed a "mania" or a species of "intoxication" is a point of small importance. The British term, we should say, is rather the more accurate of the two. The effect is an emotional exhilaration that in a degree temporarily removes the ordinary inhibitions of caution, prudence and sound judgment. For the time being there is an emotional upset that is full of potential danger.

It is the sense of power, of course which produces this disastrous effect. The knowledge that one is in control of a high-powered engine capable of extraordinary speed is likely to be devastating to a mind that is lacking any sense of power in the rest of its life experience. The effect is literally defined as "intoxication." But there appears to be no known test for speed drunkenness and until there is one we may hardly hope for any appreciable diminution of the American annual record of more than 30,000 deaths and nearly a million injured.—Providence Journal.

U. S. LEADS WORLD IN RADIO WITH 16,679,253 SETS

With 16,679,253 sets, the United States leads the world in the number of receivers in operation. The Union Internationale de Radiodiffusion, Geneva, estimates there are more than 32,000,000 sets in the world, with an approximate audience of 128,000,000 persons. Present estimates for the United States, indicate an increase of more than 4,000,000 receivers in the past two years, as the number of sets in use here in 1930 was 12,078,345. Denmark has more sets than the U. S., based on population, as there are 133.9 receivers per 1,000 persons, while in this country the ratio is 133.1 per 1000.

INDEPENDENCE

"When every farmer in the South shall eat bread from his own fields and meat from his own pastures and, disturbed by no creditors and enslaved by no debt, shall sit among his teeming gardens and orchards and vineyards and his dairies and barnyards, pitching his crops in his own wisdom and growing them in independence, making cotton his clean surplus, and selling it in his own time in his chosen market and not at a master's bidding, getting his pay in cash and not in a receipted mortgage that discharges his debt, but does not restore his freedom—then shall be breaking the fullness of our day."—H. W. Grady.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat—to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

Hues For a Cheerful Kitchen

By KATHARINE CRUMBAUGH If we all went to Nature for hints on decoration, results would often be much more satisfying. The grass and trees are in deeper shades of color, distance makes things grow lighter and the sky is lighter of all. So we should have our floors the darkest, the walls next and the ceilings lightest. The "arcer trees and bushes are in the darkest colors of all, greens, dark reds and browns. These may represent the furniture just as the flowers, which are brightest and most outstanding, may give a hint for the accent of colors in the room that is being decorated, a lesson direct from Nature to keep the most brilliant colors in small quantities. Take, for instance, a kitchen with a southern exposure. The floor may be painted a dark green, the walls a lighter seafoam green and the ceiling the lightest green of all. The kitchen cabinet may be colored jade green which is a stronger color than the wall tone but not so strong as the floor. Bright mandarin red will do well for the trim or accent color. Or the kitchen cabinet may be in mandarin red and the trim in jade green; though, if the large piece is done in a strong color like red, we must quiet things down by painting the breakfast nook in jade. If all the furniture were in red it would seem to rush at one as soon as the door were opened but, by using the red in the right proportion, harmony is secured just as a red line woven in and out of a rug sparkles and attracts more than if the rug were pure red itself. Blue and yellow make green, so perhaps the dishes may well be yellow with some few of the bigger ones in delft blue. Dotted Swiss curtains with red dots, or with dots of yellow or green, will help in the color balance. So, the basic color of the room being green, orange-red, yellow and a little blue may be used to give it interest and, if used in the proper proportion which is about the proportion that Nature would arrange for herself out-doors, the result is a perfectly balanced room, full of cheerful but not too garish coloring, and eminently well suited both to stimulate by its color harmony as well as to wear well for what is so commonly called, "practical purposes."

THE NINE AMENDMENTS

Texas voters should take thought lest in the heat of personalities surrounding the decisions of various individuals to hold office for the next two years, they overlook the necessary job of informing themselves well upon the nine proposals for change in the fundamental laws of the state, which likewise will be voted on this fall. These nine amendments, submitted to a vote of the people by the legislature last year, are as follows:

The amendment restricting the right to vote on bond issues to owners of property duly rendered for taxation.

The amendment giving exemption from state taxes to $3000 of the assessed value of all homesteads.

The amendment allowing investment of university funds in county bonds, city school bonds, municipal bonds, of Texas counties and cities, as well as in federal and state bonds to which investment is now restricted.

The amendment providing a new system for tax sale of delinquent property, with lower redemption costs if redeemed in the first year.

The amendment prohibiting release of indebtedness to the state of any unit thereof except delinquent taxes, which have been owing ten years.

The amendment permitting retired United States soldiers to vote.

The amendment authorizing the Texas centennial celebration and permitting the legislature to make appropriations therefor.

The amendment changing the law governing the voting of bonds so that Gulf counties may issue bonds for seawalls and other protective works with a favorable vote of two-thirds of the property owners voting, instead of two-thirds of all property owners, as at present.

The amendment combining the offices of tax assessor and tax collector in all counties having 10,000 or more population.

Several of these amendments are of great import, involving radical changes in various practices of government, which will have far-reaching effect. For instance, the exemption of $3,000 of the assessed valuation of homesteads would necessitate levy of new taxes in other fields to make up the loss in state revenue. The statement of the other amendments indicates in each case the need for measured consideration by the public before its verdict is returned at the polls.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

NIGHT SKY IS RED, NOT BLACK, TO CAMERA LENS

If the human eye were sensitive enough, the sky would appear red or orange at night, instead of black. Photographs taken with a spectroscope reveal that the night sky has a visible spectrum or series of colors. It does not come from the light of stars, but appears to be an emission of light from some other source. The radiation is the same thing as sunlight, although vastly less in quantity. The first night-sky picture showed an auroral spectrum line, green-yellow in color. The same line is emitted in the light of the Milky Way. The next photograph showed an orange line, and another red light.

MACHINE KEEPS TAB ON AMERICAN POPULATION

On a big panel in the Census Bureau at Washington, D. C., colored lamps and flashing figures keep tabs on the ever-changing population of the United States. Recently this "population clock" recorded a total of 124,765,651 men, women and children.

The Census Bureau estimates that one birth occurs every fourteen seconds and one death each twenty-two seconds. An immigrant arrives every twelve minutes, while an emigrant departs every seven minutes. As a result the Bureau figures that there is one new head to count every thirty-six seconds.

THESE COMMUNISTS

News accounts begin to come in now about how Communists are being run out of this town and that.

An organization is formed in Texas to enact restrictive laws designed to combat radicalism. We are on the edge of an emergency period hysteria against the man who wants to do something that the bulk of us do not want him to do. We won't even let him talk about wanting to do it.

There is something to be said for the thesis that it is better to arrest a Communist according to law and put him in jail according to law than to put him on a rail and ride him out of town contrary to law. In fact, there is a great deal to be said for the thesis that it is better to put a Communist in jail rather than to put a Communist in jail. In one sense of the words—for the express protection of Communists. That is to say, the only reason for putting into a solemn public covenant a guarantee of the right to free speech was to protect the right of unpopular speech.

Until we become concerned about demanding the right of a man whom we despise to say his whole mind against the government we love and champion, we can not honestly claim to be loyal to the principle of free speech. As a matter of fact, when government oversteps the constitutional guarantees and suppresses Communists, it does a favor to Communism—for it shows that government is unjust, which is one of the claims of its opponents. Texas has little to fear from Communism. Our people are not the sort of cattle to be led off by its teachings. Even if they were, it would be foolish to try by statute to keep them individualists in conduct, after they had become otherwise at heart. Short of incitement to violence, any crack-brained heresy of church or state should have its exhaust—as a sort of social sewer on that matter. But the constitution to be confined dangerous ly.—Dallas News.

J. A. (Jim) HAMILTON

Jim Hamilton announces this week as a candidate for commissioner for precinct No. 2 and is making an active campaign. Many of the citizens of that precinct favored Mr. Hamilton for the place and were hopeful he could be induced to make the race, knowing he was well qualified to discharge the duties of the office. He was solicited by a great many of those who felt he could give the precinct and the county good service and would be a valuable member of the court. He was reared in the precinct, having moved there with his father's family when he was a small boy and he has been active in farming and ranching since he became big enough to work. He is a careful and economical business man and knows all about the needs and resources of his precinct and the county generally. While he feels he understands the work of a commissioner and intends, if elected, to give his careful attention to the work, he will always be in the attitude of gladly receiving suggestions from the citizens of the precinct and county, weighing carefully the opinions of his constituents and co-operating with them as far as good business judgment and the interest of the county will justify. He is universally recognized as a strong man and will have the support of many of the voters. He lives between Star and Center City and is known to most of the voters at those two boxes, while he has a considerable acquaintance at Payne and in the other communities in the precinct.

The voters in that precinct will be required to write his name on the ballot, as he did not enter the race in time to have his name printed on the ticket. Write Jim Hamilton in the space and that will be sufficient.

W. C. McNIEL

The friends of W. C. McNiel will be glad of the opportunity to vote for him for commissioner for precinct No. 2, he having announced as a candidate for that office this week. He was reared in the precinct, his father having moved there from Goldthwaite while Cloyes was a small boy. He has been engaged in farming all of his life and understands the problems and difficulties of the farmers and stock raisers, as well as being familiar with the resources of the county. He is a son of Mr. J. W. McNiel, one of the best known men in the county, who has a wide influence. The family lived near Center City for a number of years and Mr. McNiel is now located between Center City and Caradan and is well known and popular with the people in both communities, besides having a considerable acquaintance at Mount Olive and in other parts of the precinct. All who know him realize that if he is elected commissioner the county's business will be in safe hands and the road work of his precinct will be well done. He is as conscientious in his work as he is faithful and it is a feeling that he will be able to render his precinct a service that has induced him to offer for the place. He is a hard worker and has an intimate knowledge of the amount and character of work a man should do when drawing public money, therefore, as supervisor of roads he will be of benefit to all of the precinct and exert his every effort to see that every part of the precinct gets its full share of road work.

It will be necessary for his supporters to write his name on their tickets in the primary, as no name is printed in the space allotted to commissioner candidates in that precinct.

A STATEMENT

From J. R. Eanes, Candidate for Representative, 104th District: In announcing for the Legislature last February I stated:

That I was a native Texan and the son of a native Texan, and that I hoped to assist in giving to the people of Texas a better, simpler and more economical government.

That our government, state and national, was top heavy and too complex, too much of it too far from home, too many bureaus and commissions with too much power.

That taxes were now unbearable and our entire tax system should be overhauled and simplified.

That our court procedure, civil and criminal, should be simplified, and some of our statutes rewritten in the interest of honest folk.

That trucks should be regulated in the interest of the general public and that at present we did not have such regulation.

That I did not believe the question of road bonds would come before the legislature, but should the question of submitting the road bond issue to the people arise I would oppose it.

The foregoing I now wish to reiterate. I am convinced that when we have disposed of a major part of our bureaus and commissions and curbed the powers of those remaining, we will have a better, simpler and more economical government, and it won't be so top heavy and complex.

That when our tax system is simplified and the number of taxing agencies materially reduced, we will have a simpler, better and more economical government.

That when our court procedure is simplified and some of our statutes rewritten in the interest of honest folks, the number of our district courts reduced and our eleven courts of appeal abolished, we will have a simpler, better and more economical government.

In regulating truck traffic we should have regard only for the safety of the traveling public, the interest and welfare of the general public and the preservation of the roads.

I am convinced further that if we had a house of fifty-one members and a senate of seven members, all on a salary basis, with the legislature meeting twice each year, we would have a simpler, better and more economical government. With this arrangement the legislature could keep in closer touch with the state's business, with a reasonable salary the legislative expense would be less than at present. The state government is nothing more than a huge corporation whose duty is to attend to the people's business, and the legislators are directors. No other corporation would attempt to do business with its directors meeting every two years.

WRITE NAME ON TICKET

On account of a misunderstanding of dates I did not get my name printed on the election ballots, but I am still a candidate for Commissioner in precinct No. 2 and ask my friends and all other voters in the precinct to write my name on their ballots, with the assurance that if elected I will give them the best service of which I am capable. While I have not been able to see all of the voters personally, on account of having to keep up with my farm work, I will appreciate all the support given me. Write my name on your primary ticket.

Yours to serve,
ED. CARTER.

WITH THE WORLD'S INVENTORS

Writing in the dark is made easy by a pencil that has a tiny lamp inside. Enough light is thrown on the writing pad to make a drawing or to write. Designed for soldiers, airplane pilots and others who work in the darkness, it makes the writer independent of other sources of light.

Fire victims may escape, one at a time, by lowering themselves to the ground in a safety belt that slides on a rope. The device is offered as a portable fire escape. One end of the rope is attached firmly in the room or hallway, and the belt is slipped around the shoulders. The rapidity of the descent can be regulated.

Talking and giving demonstrations of the goods, a robot super-salesman has been produced by synchronizing the photo-electric cell with an automatic phonograph and with contact disks that control lights, electric fingers and other mechanical devices. When a person crosses the path of the photo-electric cell, the talking controls are turned on, and the robot starts praising an automobile, electric refrigerator, airplane or some other product. With each remark, the robot gives a demonstration.

When the flames are too hot for firemen to enter, a revolving hose that requires no operator can be pushed into the midst of the fire and a torrent of water released. Set into a frame that holds it off the floor, the hose throws water in every direction. It can be lowered through a hole in the roof, pushed through an opening cut in the floor or dropped through a window.

By registering each of the eighty-eight notes in color, a fast spinning disk presents musical numbers as ever-changing rainbows. The slightest variation in tone will cause an immediate change in the myriad colors on the disk. Radio waves and the Baird scanning disk system of television are combined in the instrument to reveal the colors of music. Also the most spectacular point is the vari-colored display of hues on the disk. The device has a practical application in testing the voices of singers or the tone of any musical instrument.

Replacing fuses and eliminating the dangers of overloaded electric circuits, an automatic switch has been devised to guard against fire. All the household needs to do is relieve the load on the interrupted circuit, flip the switch back to the on-position and service is resumed. An electrician is not needed. No replaces are necessary and no pennies or hairpins can be used as substitutes for blown fuses to endanger the home.

Half Over

The first half of 1932 has gone. It doesn't seem long since the new year began, but six months have come and gone, and are now stored away in history.

WHAT ABOUT YOUR DEBTS?

When the new year began, a lot of people had to ask for more time from the business men and professional men to whom they owed money. If you were one of them, you have had six months now. Have you kept your promises to pay? If so, you have a feeling of satisfaction and success. If not, now is the time to start!

BRING IN YOUR GRAIN

Every bushel you turn in on account will put you that much nearer being paid up and will help your credit that much. Now is the time to start—the year is half gone already.

DALLAS GIRL ATHLETE HAS AMAZING RECORD

Mildred Didrikson, 19-year-old Dallas girl, will enter the Olympic games this summer in an effort to win all five of the events open to women. No other woman has ever won more than one event, and only five men have ever won as many as three events.

Miss Didrikson will also compete for the National A. A. U. women's track and field championship at Chicago next week. She will enter 10 of the 11 events (all but the relay in which she could not compete alone.) Here is her astounding record which will probably enable her to win both at Chicago and Los Angeles, although 2,000 women athletes from all over the world will compete in the Olympics: 220 yard dash—Her 25 seconds equals the record.

Discus throw—She has exceeded all marks by doing 131 feet 2 inches.

Shot put—She has done 38 feet and expects to win second or third place.

Javelin throw—Her 133 feet 5 1/2 inches is better than the world record.

Baseball throw—She holds the world's record with a peg of 296 feet.

Broad jump—She has leaped 18 feet 8 3/4 inches, only a quarter of an inch behind the existing world mark.

High jump—She has done 5 feet 1 inch, which is two inches under the world record, and she expects to win second place if not first.

100-meter run—She has tied the world record of 12 seconds flat.

80-meter hurdles—She has exceeded the world record with a mark of 12 seconds.

50-yard dash—Although she has no mark in this event, she expects to place second or third, depending upon her get-away.

It Pays to Advertise

The Colgate - Palmolive-Peet Soap corporation has reduced its dividend on the common stock from $2.50 to $1 a share in order that it may continue to spend more than a million dollars a month for advertising. The vice president of the company said the company believed it was to the stockholders' best interests to maintain the advertising even at the expense of profits.

It is worth noting, however, that the company is still paying a dividend and has millions of dollars of cash on hand and has no bank loans or funded debt. On the other hand, many other large companies which have reduced or discontinued their advertising are unable to pay any dividends at all.

ROOSEVELT NOMINATED

Once more Texas votes have proved the deciding factor in the nomination of a Democratic candidate for president. Franklin Delano Roosevelt lacked nearly 90 votes of the necessary two thirds required for nomination at the Chicago convention last Friday. Then the fourth roll call started. Alabama, Arizona and Arkansas voted solidly for Roosevelt, just as they had ever since the voting commenced.

It looked as though another long drawn out battle of ballots had begun. But when California was called, William G. McAdoo asked permission to explain California's vote. That meant a switch from John Garner, and a wave of sudden interest gripped the convention. McAdoo, mindful of the 103 ballots through which he vainly fought Al Smith in New York in 1924, declared that when a candidate had received a great majority of the votes, it was unfair to him and to the people to refuse him the nomination and thus force the nomination of a dark horse whom the majority of the voters had not seriously considered before. For that reason and for the sake of harmony, California's 44 votes were transferred to Roosevelt, and he intimated, Texas would cast her 46 votes for Roosevelt too.

As the ballot proceeded, many of the favorite sons were dropped and the states sponsoring them climbed on the Roosevelt band wagon. Illinois and Indiana increased their Roosevelt votes from 30 to a solid 88, but it was not until the 46 ballots from Texas were counted, that the New York governor actually received his two-thirds majority.

The final total was 945 for Roosevelt, 175 more than the required two-thirds.

Al Smith elung like grim death to 190 1/2 of the 194 1/2 votes which he had received on the third ballot. But he could not stop Roosevelt. And millions of listeners to the proceedings by radio felt a certain amount of satisfaction that McAdoo had at last secured revenge on the city of New York.

Mrs. Frank H. Coward of Amityville, Long Island, N. Y., read of a woman who gathered twenty-three four-leaf clovers for good luck. Setting out to beat this record, Mrs. Coward gathered forty-seven in one afternoon. The following day Mrs. Coward's Persian cat was killed by a neighbor's dog.

Capturing monkeys has become something of an industry in Delhi, India. Monkeys become so mischievous that the municipality appointed officers to capture the marauders and deport them in trucks. Chattering hordes were rounded up and dumped some distance in the country, but to no purpose. Soon they returned and were as much of a plague as ever. The game still goes on, with the score favoring the monkeys. It is against their religion to kill them.

LATEST ALASKAN BALANCE SHEET

Not a few are still alive who remember the tremendous protest that went up when the government paid Russia $7,200,000 for Alaska, instead of applying the money to reduction of the big national debt in 1867. These are always interested when the balance sheet as made up at successive dates shows the wisdom of the investment, and as at least one government venture that is not in red, it is worthy of citation.

Since 1910 Alaska has exported wealth to a total of $1,343,873,000. This is 186 times as much as the purchase price. The interest on $7,200,000 for sixty-five years would be more than $18,720,000 and at compound interest still more, but the sum on the right side of the ledger would still run into big figures. Between 1880 and 1930 the output of minerals was $629,313,000 and, though Alaska is generally thought of as a gold country, a surprising amount of it was in silver, total gold being $389,317,000. In one recent year the value of the fisheries exceeded even the peak year of production of gold and all other minerals. A fair held at Nome is said annually to be growing in the variety of its exhibits of modern progress and Eskimo life. If held later in the season it would seemingly become an attraction for tourists. Our investment of three and a half times $7,200,000 in the Virgin Islands, the Russians then being easier to do business with than the Danes, is still in the red, very much so.—Saint Louis Globe, Democrat.

'MOULTING' AS SUBSTITUTE FOR SHEARING, TRIED IN RUSSIA

The London Times recently printed the following story from a Riga correspondent: "The Soviet Commissariat of Light Industry states that the fleece of sheep and the fur of rabbits in Russia are now being gathered four times a year. A new method of 'artificial moulting' is stated to have made shearing obsolete.

"In this process the sheep are given a small dose of a preparation of heavy mineral salts, which so acts upon the sympathetic nerve system that in a few days the fleece of sheep are 'loosened' and may be peeled off. No wool is left on the sheep's body, which is described as being smooth and shiny as a man's bald head, after the completion of the process. A new fleece begins to grow immediately, and its rate of growth is more rapid than after shearing.

"Prof. N. A. Ilyin, who is responsible for this new method, claims that he can make a sheep moult in two stages; first, the finest parts of its fleece, and then that of the coarser texture. Thus even the roughest sheep may be made to yield some fine wool, which is sorted as it is peeled. In the same way fine rabbit down is sorted from the coarser fur. The system is also to be applied to the coats of dogs."

WOMEN DRY DENOUNCE WETS

Several hundred women prohibitionists jokingly agreed at a Chicago meeting last week to a proposal by Mrs. Henry W. Peabody of Beverly, Mass., that New York be allowed to "prove itself the perfectly model wet state" to demonstrate to the rest of the states what conditions would be without prohibition.

Mrs. Peabody made the proposal at a luncheon rally of women dries, suggesting that before the rest of the states considered repealing prohibition that all federal prohibition control be removed from New York until 1936 to see how that state fared.

"The trouble lies in New York State with Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. Charles Sab-in and Al Smith," she said, adding that New York was "not in the union anyhow."

She predicted that New York would be in the position of the little boy who wanted — and got—a hornet. She insisted, however, she was making a perfectly fair offer." She sent to a New York newspaper with the request it be printed from page as the "first wet word from my honeydry pen."

Jane Addams, Nobel prize winner, who spoke at the same meeting, made her Hull House background a plea for continuance of prohibition. She stressed to the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement League, which arranged the rally, the need of prohibition for the working people.

"I beg of you all to go back to the old temperance lectures, or to frame new ones that are better, to keep the people informed of the evils of alcoholism, and to take us out of this queer no man's land in which the prohibition movement at present is," said Miss Addams.

Miss Addams told the several hundred dry women she had never known a settlement or welfare worker who "lived among working people and knew their problems day by day," who was wet.

"Charity people all say conditions are enormously improved by the present arrangement," she said.

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson of Washington, D. C., president of the group, opened her attack upon proposals to modify or repeal the eighteenth amendment with a statement that "the Republican party leaders had crucified President Hoover and nailed him to a wet plank."

She called the beer parade of the Republican convention "a disgraceful scene" and denounced "a United States senator lending the prestige of his great office" to it, referring to Senator Bingham of Connecticut, who led the fight for a repeal plank.

YOU EAT GIANT'S MEAL IN 56-YEAR LIFE SPAN

If you were served at a single meal all the average person eats in a lifetime, you would sit down to a beefsteak weighing as much as six dressed steers, confront a giant potato too big for a two-ton truck to haul, cut slices of bread from a loaf higher than your head (and pour milk from a bottle as tall as a bungalow.

In the fifty-six years that the average American lives, recent statistics compiled by the United States department of commerce show, he consumes 106,400 pounds of food—enough to load to capacity several freight cars.

On other dishes at this colossal feast, there would be half-ton block of butter and a 224 pound slice of cheese. The sugar bowl would be six feet high and the salt shaker would weigh 800 pounds. There would be an egg 12,000 times the average size, an apple seven feet in diameter, an orange weighing 1100 pounds. Around your table would be piled 1120 tins of canned fruit, 124 cans of salmon, 600 tins of sardines, 336 pounds of dried fruit, 888 cartons of breakfast food and, more surprising still, 280 pounds of rice. To top off your meal, would find a 672 pound box of candy and nearly 6000 sticks of chewing gum, not to mention 56 pounds of walnuts and 1176 pounds of grapes.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HONORED ABROAD

In Warsaw it is "Aleja Jerzy Waszyngton"—in Rome it is "Viale Giorgio Washington"—in Bucharest it is "Perspective a Washington"—in Guatemala it is "Avenida Washington"—and in Berlin it is "Washington Platz."

All of which in good old United States means "Washington avenue, boulevard, square," or whatever else the people of these countries have named in honor of George Washington.

Official reports to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission reveal that, since the opening of the Bicentennial Celebration on Feb. 22, fourteen countries have named fourteen streets and seven squares and parks in honor of the first president of the United States.

These figures do not include the streets, parks and squares named in George Washington's honor prior to the beginning of the Bicentennial Celebration, nor those which are contemplated before Thanksgiving Day, the official closing day of the celebration. The United States minister to Albania has informed the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission that the King of Albania is planning to name several streets in various cities of the country for George Washington, and other countries are making similar plans.

Twenty-two cities in 13 countries have chosen this means of observing the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of George Washington.

FIREPROOF GLOVES OF COTTON RESIST FLAME

Cotton gloves that will not burn have been produced by treating the fabric with a chemical. A pair of common gauntlet gloves, after treatment, will protect the wearer's hands many seconds in the flame of the mechanical tow before they heat through. Even then the cloth does not burn. Cedar shingles treated in like manner resist flame which melts ordinary metals held against the wood. Timbers can be made termite-proof by this treatment.

The Eagle can do your job printing to please you and the price will be right.

POSTAGE STAMP WORTH MORE IF IT'S IMPERFECT

Imperfections make some United States postage stamps worth considerably more than their face value. When a small perforating machine in the government printing office made an error in the two-cent Von Steuben stamps, a rarity resulted. High prices are being offered for these stamps without the usual perforations, caused by the perforating machine "skipping" or by a clerk failing to run a few sheets of stamps through the machine. About 300 of the imperfect stamps were issued.

HAMILTON

The ladies class of the Methodist Sunday school whose birthdays occurred in June, served a chicken barbecue at the Legion park Thursday night of last week to the entire class and the members of their families.

Three ladies, ministers of the Holiness church, came over from Dallas and started a meeting at the grove east of town Sunday and have been holding services nightly. Most of the attendants sit in their cars and listen to the discourses.

The motor car was not taken off Sunday in compliance with a request that time be given to handle the mails through bus or other methods. The bus service, we understand, offered to deliver the mail here at any time the patrons wanted it, and this will be settled in a short time.

Tuesday the owner of the Auburn car, which had been held at a local garage for about two weeks, accompanied by Sheriff E. L. Lambert of Granbury, Hood county, came and claimed the vehicle. The owner, E. L. (Pedro) White of Lipan, had loaned the car to a friend, who did not return it. Sheriff Lambert sent out cards to the different officers and Monday Sheriff Morgan notified him that the missing car was here. The circumstances of the car's disappearance also gives a clue to the men who entered the store of Gromatzky & Streger and robbed it of a small amount of money.—News.

COMANCHE

W. R. Harris, 76, for over thirty years in business in Comanche, died at his home in Coleman Tuesday following several weeks illness, after he had suffered a stroke of apoplexy.

J. D. Holmes of Duster was elected president of the Comanche Taxpayers association Saturday at a meeting of that body at DeLeon, after the resignation of W. E. Lowe had been accepted and Joe Hardin of Hasse was elected vice president to fill the vacancy caused by the elevation of Mr. Holmes.

Rep. Tom Cunningham of Eastland county has withdrawn from the race for the Democratic nomination for District Judge of the 91st Judicial district, according to a statement made by him in Comanche Monday. Mr. Cunningham said that he had been offered a permanent position as Court Reporter at Corpus Christi and would likely accept that when his term as representative expired.

At 9:45 Saturday night, while J. M. Hornbuckle, owner of the shoe department at Shelton and Jackson, was locking the door to go home, he heard what he thought was an explosion in the building and saw flames spreading through his stock of shoes. Calling to several men standing on the sidewalk to turn in the alarm, Mr. Hornbuckle said he made an effort to get back in the store, but was delayed some on account of the lock hanging. When he got inside he found his stock on fire and began throwing the boxes from the shelves in order to put out the flames. Within a few minutes the fire department reached the scene and by the use of chemicals extinguished the blaze. The building was only slightly damaged, but Mr. Hornbuckle suffered considerable loss to his stock and the ladies' furnishing department, belonging to Shelton and Jackson was damaged by smoke.

At one-thirty o'clock a second fire completely destroyed the Ab White residence in northwest Comanche. The origin of the fire is unknown as Mr. White and family had been in Hamilton for over a week and as far as is known no one had been in the house for several days.—Chief.

A good crowd attended the singing convention here Sunday afternoon. Several out of town visitors were present.

Mrs. Zickfoose of Liberty is holding a meeting on the cotton yards east of the railroad in the interest of the union plan of religious worship.

Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Phillips and little son, David, Jr., left Tuesday for DeLeon, where Rev. Phillips will be the pastor of the DeLeon Baptist church.

Bro. and Mrs. Phillips came to Lometa from Abilene, some twenty months ago.—Reporter.

HOW QUICK YOU STOP INDICATES SAFEST SPEED ON HIGHWAY

If you want to drive sixty miles an hour, keep 233 feet behind the nearest car. That is the advice of experts who have compiled a table of stopping distances to increase the safety of autoists. The stopping distances, says Popular Mechanics Magazine, are based on a single ten-foot lane, where drivers are not allowed to pass the car ahead.

The table of speeds and safe margins between autos shows: Thirty miles an hour, 71 feet; thirty-five miles an hour, 90 feet; forty miles an hour, 113 feet; forty-five miles an hour, 138 feet; fifty miles an hour, 167 feet; fifty-five miles an hour, 198 feet, and sixty miles an hour 233 feet.

THE DEBT PROBLEM

Economists of the country are pretty well agreed that the national wealth of America in 1929 totaled about $365,000,000,000. They also tell us that the bonded and mortgage debt of the country in the same year totaled about $293,000,000,000.

This latter was divided approximately as follows: Federal bonds, $16,000,000,000; state and local bonds, $17,000,000,000; corporation bonds, $76,000,000,000; urban mortgages, $9,000,000,000; life insurance loans, $2,000,000,000; retail installment paper, $3,000,000,000; pawnbrokers and the like, $1,000,000,000.

The national wealth is now estimated at no more than half what it was in 1929, while the decrease in the debt total has been comparatively small.

There is but one of two possible outcomes in this situation—either price levels and property values must be restored, to a large degree, or the bonded and mortgage debt must be very much reduced.

Isn't it inevitable that, under the system as it stands today, a major portion of the returns of industry must go to the owners of capital which has been borrowed rather than to those who borrow the capital for use in productive enterprises?

The problem is tremendous. There is no emotional solution. Rather it is a problem needful, first of all, of good, sound information and plenty of it and then of courage and plenty of it.—Houston Chronicle.

CENTER OF EMOTIONS IS FOUND IN LEFT HALF OF BRAIN

Headquarters for the emotions have been tentatively located by Dr. Leland B. Alford as resting at the base of the left half of the brain. This conclusion was reached after a study of patients whose brains had been injured. When the lesion occurred on the right half of the brain, even if the injury was extensive, the patient appeared conscious and his emotions were normal. Even when the left side of the brain was injured, there was no apparent confusion in the patient's mind unless the injury was at the base of that side. Of thirty patients who were paralyzed on the left side, due presumably to a lesion on the right side of the brain, not one showed confusion of consciousness. Of fifty-five suffering from right-sided paralysis, indicating left-brain injury, half were confused.

FISH RAINS OCCUR THROUGHOUT WORLD

Until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the 18th of May had been like any other spring day on the farm of W. L. Doughtie, Edgecombe county, N. C. Then strange things began to happen. Dark clouds swiftly gathered overhead. Suddenly there was a heavy downpour. Doughtie, who had put his horse in the barn, was about to go into the house when something cold and slippery struck him in the face. He looked up. It was raining fish.

The farmer could not believe his eyes. He called his wife. Behind her the children crowded in the doorway. Spellbound, they watched the "miracle." Hundreds of fish dropped from the sky. Down they came, like giant, solid flakes in a night-mare blizzard. They plopped on the ground of the barnyard, splashed into the rain barrel, smacked against the porch roof, the chicken house, the machine shed. Altogether, the fish storm spread over three acres of Doughtie's land writes Robert E. Martin in Popular Science Monthly.

That was four years ago. The farmer appealed for an explanation to Dr. E. W. Gudger of the department of ichthyology of the American museum of natural history, New York. Recently Dr. Gudger completed his searches of the curious phenomenon, which, in a manner of speaking, took him clear around the world and back into the Dark Ages. He found that rains of fish, though rare, actually occur, having occurred in virtually every part of the globe, since A. D. 200, and in all likelihood will occur again. He gathered records of seventy-one such showers that have astonished and frightened people in the last 1700 years. And he also discovered the cause of this amazing freak of nature.

Aside from the shower on the Doughtie farm, the most recent as far as it is known, Dr. Gudger collected more than a dozen records of fish rains in the United States. The first eye-witness account to reach him was given by Richard H. Tingley of Port Chester, N. Y., who was caught in a fish rain on the outskirts of Providence, R. I., on May 15, 1900.

In the late afternoon of that day a thunderstorm with a high wind brought a torrent of rain. Suddenly a blinding flash of lightning, followed by a terrific crash, rent the black clouds. A moment later streets and yards for several blocks were alive with squirming little perch and bullpouts, from two to four inches long. Tingley, himself was pelted with them. Boys soaking wet, rushed about catching the fish. A reporter of the Providence Journal gathered a bucketful of them. Displayed in shop windows in one of the main business streets, these fish created a sensation, which was heightened by the vivid description in the Journal.

James R. Daniels of 200 West 109th street, New York City, told Dr. Gudger he had seen a "heaven-sent" frog. Living in Wilson, N. C., in 1913, he left his house for a walk, after a heavy rain, when he saw a dead frog on the sidewalk. A neighbor informed him it had dropped from the sky. Daniels laughed. He was still laughing when a small fish fell at his feet!

The heaviest fish fall is that described in 1861 by Count de Castelnau, famous French naturalist. It took place at Singapore following an earth quake in February of that year. Fifty acres of land were covered with fish.

Germany wins the palm for the strangest case, despite the fact that it involved only a single fish. But that one came down already packed in! During a violent hailstorm in Essen in July, 1896, a hailstone the size of a hen's egg, eye witnesses relate, fell onto the pavement of one of the main streets. Inside the hailstone a baby carp was found frozen!

What is the explanation? Fish rains, Dr. Gudger found, are caused by waterspouts. High winds, particularly whirlwinds, comparable to the midwestern tornadoes, pick up water, fish and all, and carry them inland, where, when the velocity of the air and clouds become relatively lowered, the fish fall to earth.

GASOLINE TAX-PAYERS REVOLT

"The genius who first evolved the idea of levying a tax on gasoline—whoever he was—deserves a monument at the expense of the legislators. He pointed them to a new source of revenue that has been producing larger and larger returns annually for many years. He made it easy for many of them on numerous occasions. When they could not think of anything else to tax, they just slapped an additional levy on gasoline."

Thus spoke the Houston Post, in commenting on the new 1-cent per gallon federal tax on gasoline now in effect. The Post predicts a greater problem will arise in dealing with gasoline bootleggers, now that the tax on the fuel accounts for nearly half the retail price per gallon at filling stations.

It is quite evident that the motorist is not "the forgotten man" referred to by Gov. Roosevelt recently. Legislators have found the motorist to be the most gullible type of citizen when it comes to matters of taxation, and have not forgotten him for a moment.

Motoring is still in its infancy, and though the automobile is an indispensable accessory in the business world, it is still regarded by the average man as a vehicle of pleasure. And when Mr. Citizen goes out for pleasure, he cares little about the cost if only he can rake and scrape to find the necessary wherewithal. He realizes that pleasure-seeking is an expensive pastime and seldom objects to paying the freight. For that reason legislators have hastened to apply the "gas" tax—and quite frequently add to it.

But indications are that Mr. Motorist is going to "buck." With the federal tax of one cent per gallon added to that already collected by the state, Texas motorists are paying a tax of five cents per gallon on gasoline. In some states the tax has reached as high as nine cents per gallon.

In Texas last year over thirty million dollars were paid in gasoline taxes by automobilists. In the country as a whole the "gas" tax amounted to over half a billion dollars. Automobile registrations, however, have dropped off by three quarters of a million cars. In several states where the "gas" tax has gone above four cents a gallon there has been a marked decline in revenues. This indicates one of two things is happening: Either there has been less driving, or there has been more "bootlegging" of gasoline. In either event, it is evident that the motoring public is beginning to revolt against the exorbitant levies being imposed on automobiles.—Editorial Digest.

LOVE IN A COTTAGE

CYNICS are apt to call young couples who yearn for love in a cottage nuts. We know that in many cases these cynics are wrong, but still there is a connection between nuts and cottage and such things. What sort of connection this is revealed in the following delicious recipe which is one of the things that distinctly help to make love in a cottage delectable.

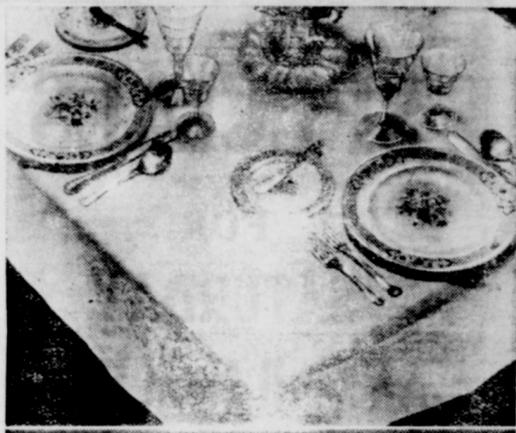

Cottage Salad

Add one-half cup chopped pecans or walnuts to two cups cottage cheese. Wash and hull one-half pint strawberries, add six marshmallows cut in pieces, and sprinkle with one-fourth cup confectioner's sugar. Let stand until the sugar is melted, then carefully fork the berries and marshmallows into the cheese so that the berries are broken but not mushy. Serve a mound of this on each slice of fruit from a No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple placed in a bed of lettuce. Pass mayonnaise.

If desired, a large service can be made of this salad by lining a large bowl with lettuce, piling the cheese combination in the center, and making an overlapping circle of the pineapple slices around the edge. A No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple contains eight slices, so this recipe will serve eight people.*

BEAUTY in the HOME

Washable Tablecloths That Resemble Damask

THE trend toward the use of napery that in color and texture goes well with the china used on breakfast, luncheon or dinner tables is now shown in the popularity of practical and attractive tablecloths that do not demand the services of a laundry.

The lacquered fabric dinner cloth shown above is one that has an all-over floral damask pattern and one of its advantages, is that it is always made ready for use by simply wiping it off with a damp cloth and yet its folds and designs are those of heavy Irish linen.

These tablecloths are to be had, not only in the ever-favored white, but also in Nile green, canary yellow and pale blue, which are all smart colors for the table. The growing use of more informal and colorful dishes for luncheon and breakfast has created a new popularity for this type of tablecloth because such cloths, simulating fine damask, can be attractively used in colors matching or contrasting with those, for instance, of yellow and red Italian plates or cups, or with the blue or green shades of the glasses now so generally used.

Colorful Simplicity in the Living Room

A most charming living room is the one pictured above, with its broad windows on one side, its simplicity of furnishing and its excellent taste. And, what, it is a comfortable room, easily kept clean and in good order. Perhaps its most interesting feature, however, is that it shows in one complete picture the wide range of home uses to which modern chemical products are being adapted both for decoration and furnishing.

Rayon in new colors, surfaces and designs plays an important role for chair upholstery, window drapes and curtains, the latter, a white seale taffeta, being a new development in glass curtains. The over-drapes are in copper-colored cord-to-ree printed with white seaming and green leaves, harmonizing with the gold rayon cover-of the wing chair and the crinkled rayon rep of the others. White seale taffeta is used for the lamp shades.

The walls are covered with white muralart, a washable wall fabric; the love-seat is upholstered in green fabrioid and the desk set is in colored pyralin, the same material being used for electric outlet plates and wall picture. The humidifier has a duco finish. Cellophane is used for various wrappings and in the making of the artificial roses on the window ledges. A sun fast dyed copper, peach and resin seamless carpet covers the floor, and the books in the case at the other side of the room are bound in fabrioid. Mahogany is the wood used for shelves, commodes, chests, tables and chairs, all being finished in clear lacquer.

Alfred E. Smith, defeated candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, has at last broken the silence he has maintained since Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated, and has stated that he will support the ticket. "I am wholly dissatisfied with the record of the last twelve years of Republican administration," he stated, "and shall do nothing to lend it countenance."

MRS. A. B. HAWORTH REPLIES TO J. R. EANES

Mr. J. R. Eanes, Comanche, Texas.

Dear Sir: — Dated June 21, 1932, you circulated through the county papers of this district, over the name of L. F. Elkins, this statement:

"Recently Mr. B. F. Cadenhead stated to a Mills county (Goldthwaite) audience that the Comanche Independent School district was 'head over heels in debt.'"

In the first place, Mr. Cadenhead did not say on that occasion at Goldthwaite as mentioned by you, that the Comanche school was "head over heels in debt." On that occasion he said that the town of Comanche was a bankrupt, etc., etc., but he did not mention the school. I could furnish affidavits to this fact by parties who were there, and whom you can not intimidate or cause to lose their jobs. Mr. Elkins was not present on the occasion mentioned and I am wondering whether Mr. Elkins or you wrote this newspaper article, and which one of you paid the newspapers for publishing it.

And you say: "And Mrs. A. B. Haworth stated that one of our janitors 'told her' that he had been unable to cash but one voucher this year," etc. And you further say: "Neither statement is or was correct." Your statement from beginning to end is evasive and misleading and evidently intended to mislead, and to induce the public to believe that the school was out of debt and paying cash as it went.

The janitors and teachers were paid cash by the school board on the September, 1931, voucher or check. These checks were in payment of and for the labor of the janitors' and teachers' salaries, and were issued so as to provide for and drew six per centum interest from time of issuance until paid, and the janitors either discounted the rest of them, except perhaps one other, in order to get the cash on them, or traded them to their grocer or landlord, and in some instances fortunately for the janitors these purchasers carried such checks from one to two months after their date of maturity, for the profit on their goods sold and the six per cent interest the checks drew from date until paid, and in such instances were not forced to discount them other than the six per cent interest.

You gave us an ex parte statement without an affidavit or other proof of its correctness, but we offer you the following affidavit, which speaks for itself:

"The State of Texas, Comanche County: Before me, the undersigned authority, on this day personally appear A. H. McCampbell, known to me to be a creditable person, and after being by me duly sworn, says upon oath, that he purchased two (2) teachers' vouchers issued by the board of trustees of Comanche Independent School District, and otherwise known as Comanche High school of Comanche, Texas.

That said vouchers provided for and drew interest from maturity until paid at the rate of six (6) per cent, and were issued for and in payment of salaries and services for the school year of 1931 and 1932. That the payees in said vouchers shaved or discounted said vouchers five (5) per centum of the principal and the six (6) per cent interest. That said vouchers were purchased in about November or December last, and were not either April or May, 1932 vouchers.

That since the beginning of the year of 1932 he has been offered at a discount, teachers' vouchers issued by said school board, and that he has also been offered at a discount on several occasions vouchers issued by said school board in payment of and for the labor and services of the janitors of said school.

(Seal) A. H. McCAMPBELL, Subscribed and sworn to before me, this the 30th day of June, A. D. 1932.

H. F. HOWINGTON, District Clerk in and for Comanche County, Texas.

The only question involved or in dispute is: Were or were not the city schools of Comanche paying her running expenses, salaries, etc., as they came due, during the school year of 1931 and 1932. You dodge this by saying all vouchers, etc., have been paid except April and May. You do not say that the March vouchers were paid just before you made this statement in June and long after due, and that all of these vouchers or checks were carried past due at 6 per cent

APPRECIATES SUPPORT

I sincerely appreciate the support of the voters of precincts Nos. 1, 2 and 4, when they elected me public weigher at Goldthwaite last election. I have given on the office my careful attention and have tried to serve the people to their satisfaction. I have done my best to please those having business with the weigher and hope I have succeeded. I am a candidate for the office, subject to the July primary, and I trust the voters will favor me with their support again. I assure them that my every effort shall be to fill the office to their satisfaction and to do my duty faithfully and well.

Yours to serve,
JAKE O. KIRBY.

A SUDDEN DEATH

Mr. J. A. Curtis, Jr., fell dead Wednesday morning while seated at the breakfast table in his home in Ridge community. He was in good health and spirits and had never suffered with heart trouble, hence his sudden death was a severe shock to his family and friends.

Mr. Curtis was 57 years of age and spent most of his life in Mills county, where he had a great many friends. He leaves a wife and four grown children, besides other relatives, among them an uncle, Mr. J. A. Curtis, of this city.

His remains were interred in the cemetery at Regency yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

COUNCIL MEETING

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the city council of the city of Goldthwaite, Texas, to be held on the 11th day of July, A. D. 1932, at 7:30 p. m., the matter of adopting a budget for the ensuing year, and fixing the tax rate, will be considered. In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 206 of the General Laws of 1931.

H. G. BODKIN, Mayor.

interest from one to two months after they were due. No one questions that these checks were paid after they were discounted by those who were not able to carry them. No one doubts that the April and May checks will be paid, including the six per cent interest, as soon as the money is paid in, which will be perhaps about next September.

Again you say that there is enough money due the school from the state and in the bank to pay these last two vouchers or checks. If you have any money in the bank belonging to this fund, why doesn't the board pay that much on these checks and stop the interest, and help the holders of such checks that much? There are many business men, and others in the county, who have enough gilt edge paper due them and money in the bank to pay all they owe. But with 15 cents in the bank and $2,000 due on good paper, which they can't collect for several months to come, does not put them in position to pay cash.

I regret you saw fit to switch your "Battle Cry" or "Campaign Slogan" over on our schools. These doubtless are in as good condition as most schools, and while they did not pay cash, they will come out all right. We all feel a great pride in our schools and churches of Comanche, and we will some day have paid the $110,000 bonded debt placed upon us while you were a member of the school board, as I remember it. We are glad to say that our schools are not running for office. And I trust that we shall be able to finish this campaign without any further misleading statement being circulated, and that you will be considerate enough of our schools and public institutions to stay off of them, and that you will tell the people that it's you running for office and not the schools. This will relieve the voters of this district of the Herculean task of figuring out why you or Mr. Elkins are so concerned in making the public believe that the Comanche High school is in different financial condition than the other schools of the country, especially since, and when it is not.

Is it to help the schools, or to help you run for office? You brought the schools into the campaign and not any of your opponents.

Trusting I may be relieved of any further unpleasant duty of forsaking the paramount issues involved in this campaign for State Representative, I am very sincerely
MRS. A. B. HAWORTH.

LAKE MERRITT

The Lake Merritt Sunday school classes celebrated the fourth of July with a picnic at the lake. The lunch that was spread was enjoyed by everyone. In the afternoon several went in swimming.

RETAIL MERCHANTS WAIVE TWO MONTHS DUES

An unusual procedure was adopted by the directors of the Goldthwaite Retail Merchants association this week by request of the secretary, W. M. Johnston. Monthly dues for August and September will be rebated to the members and no collection made until October 1.

Examination of the books and records of the association by the directors showed its affairs to be in excellent shape and a satisfactory cash balance on hand. It was because of this balance that the secretary recommended that the dues be dispensed with for two months.

President Hoover has asked congress for $100,000 to pay railroad fare and meals for the homeward trip of war veterans now camping in Washington. The veterans did not ask for it. The money will be deducted from each man's bonus, if the president's request is allowed.

James Mattern and Bennett Griffin, young Oklahoma and Texas round-the-world aviators, reached Berlin, Germany, just 18 hours and 40 minutes, after taking off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. They turned down the beer that was offered them and drank water instead. Three hours and twenty minutes later they were roaring on towards Moscow, Russia, their next stop, several hours ahead of Post and Gatty, whose record of 8 days, 16 hours, they are trying to beat.

The committees have their work well in hand for the barbecue and races, July 19-20-21.

Mrs. Ernest Ezzell and daughter from Whittier, Cal., visited relatives here and at Big Valley last week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clements of McGregor were visitors in our city last week end.

Steve Ezzell and family of Graham are spending a two weeks vacation with relatives here and at Big Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Westerman spent the fourth in Brownwood and Comanche.

Misses Ethel Bohannon, Hazel Fulton and Grace Denson enjoyed the fourth in Lampasas.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bledsoe of Breckenridge are enjoying their vacation here, visiting relatives.
