NUMBER SEVENTEEN

$10,612 State Aid Approved For County

State Supervisor P. L. Stone Completes Inspection of All Mills County Schools

P. L. Stone, rural school supervisor for the state board of education, has completed his work in Mills county and has recommended that $10,612.00 state aid be disbursed to the 21 schools eligible for aid in the county. Mullin with $1158 and Goldthwaite with $150 top the list, and the schools at Pompey Creek and Head with $173 and 152, respectively, will secure the smallest sums. In some of the schools certain changes were recommended by Mr. Stone.

In addition to the amount allotted for salaries, Mullin will get $162 and Big Valley will get $240 for transportation and Big Valley, Center City and Prairie will each receive $70 for industrial training.

The total state aid recommended each school is as follows:

Mullin	$1158
Goldthwaite	1150
Big Valley	908
Star	653
Center City	651
Pompey Mountain	614
Prairie	601
Ebony	547
Mount Olive	515
Center Point	450
Wash Board	400
Pecan Wells	400
Trigger Mountain	384
Bennett	361
Midway	352
Ridge	302
Pleasant Grove	295
Lake Merritt	254
Pompey Creek	173
Head	152

Total $10,612

The total approved last year was $13,800, but this was reduced on account of Goldthwaite not receiving the full amount allotted.

This year the state is paying on a six month's school basis, as compared with 6½ months last year.

A LOVELY SHOWER

An outstanding social event of the past week was Miss Anna Gene Johnson's miscellaneous shower for Miss Bernadine Rudd, a popular bride-elect of the holiday season.

The guests assembled at the Johnson home at 2:30 Saturday afternoon and engaged in a spirited game of bridge. One unusual feature of the affair was the fact that the high score was given for her. Two attractive silhouette plaques were awarded for first prize. Miss Myra Nell Johnson received the consolation prize.

After the games several tea guests arrived and a delicious salad course was served. The large table tray which served the honoree's table was centered with a miniature Christmas tree. A tiny scroll was found in the branches of this tree which read: "No presents will you find on me but just look under the other tree."

On the library table stood a large tree elaborately decorated and surrounding it was a mound of artificial grass which was removed and there under the tree was a real "shower" of packages. As each one was unwrapped exclamations of admiration were heard. A lovely assortment of gifts was received by the honoree. Holly and chrysanthemums were used for decorations throughout the reception suite.

Miss Johnson was assisted in entertaining by her mother, Mrs. H. B. Johnson, and also by Mrs. R. H. Mayfield, Mrs. Wallace Stroud and Miss Leota Simpson.

PLENTY OF RAIN

Everybody can kick about we've had plenty.

Beer Bill Passed By Lower House

By a vote of 230 to 165 the House of Representatives at Washington voted Wednesday to legalize 3.2 beer. The bill was passed after a bitter fight in which Congressman Blanton of Texas led the dry forces. The vote was not as strongly wet as the vote for repeal on the opening day of Congress when the vote stood 272 for repeal to 144 against.

Texas congressmen who followed the lead of Speaker Garner in voting wet the first time have evidently heard from home. Included in the forty-odd votes that changed from wet to dry were Representatives Briggs, Jones, Lanham, Rayburn, and Summers all of Texas. Paired, but opposed to it, were Johnson and Williams, both of whom had voted for repeal.

The next step is up to the senate. If it passes a bill, it is almost certain to differ from the house bill enough to require a conference by a committee from both houses, and a new vote in each. If a beer bill is finally passed by both houses, it will then be up to the president to decide whether he will approve it or veto it. If he should veto it, that will kill it for this session of Congress as it is impossible for the wets to muster the required two-thirds majority in both houses to pass it over a veto.

Beer will still be outlawed in Texas by the state constitution regardless of any action that Congress may take.

FARM HOME BURNED

Roy Tyson's home on the J. D. Priddy farm in Bulls Springs community, burned at an early hour Tuesday morning and only a portion of the family belongings were saved. Occurring at a time when the family was in bed made it impossible to check the blaze or save all of the furniture and clothing. There was no insurance on the house or contents and the blaze is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue.

BOOMER RESUMED

The Pompey Mountain school faculty and student body resumed the publication of the Mountain Boomer this week and it is to be issued each month during the school. It is a very interesting school paper and has the distinction of being the only publication of its kind, in that no other rural school issues a paper in a community where there is not a single business house. The Pompey Mountain school is one of the best in the county and the community is one of the most progressive to be found anywhere.

HOLIDAY VACATION

Owing to the rapid increase in the number of cases of flu and other causes of illness, we thought it best to dismiss school Monday of this week. This we hope will not only decrease the number of cases of flu, but will also decrease the number of failures at mid-term. School will begin Monday, Jan. 2, 1933.

We wish to extend to our patrons and friends a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

HOME-GROWN LEMONS

Mrs. Henry Martin has one of the most wonderful lemon trees to be found anywhere. It bears prolifically and the lemons are from 12 to 14 inches in circumference and weigh a pound and a half. They are not only ornamental, but are equally as good for making lemonade as the smaller fruit. The idea that fruit of this kind can not be successfully grown in the Mills county soil and climate is all wrong, as Mr. Martin has successfully demonstrated for a good many years and the tree continues to grow larger and produces every year.

DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

The "Old Family Album," staged Tuesday night at the opera house by the Wesley Workers class of the Methodist Sunday school, was a success from every standpoint. Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, the house was comfortably filled and the audience thoroughly enjoyed every number. The show was postponed from Thursday night of last week on account of bad weather, but the people were anxious to see it and those who attended the presentation are enthusiastic in their expressions of appreciation. It was a success financially as well as otherwise.

HOUSE BURGLARIZED

The residence of Wayne Reynolds, located near the highway two miles south of Mullin, was burglarized Sunday night and quite a lot of the household belongings, including a phonograph, was taken, but it was all recovered by the officers and three men were arrested at Lometa and brought to Goldthwaite and jailed, charged with the burglary. They gave their names as R. R. Roberts, Oklahoma; C. D. Baker, Kansas; W. E. Bay, Oklahoma. They were granted bail by Judge Rahl in the sum of $750, but up to the time of the Eagle's going to press they were still in jail.

SCHOOL CLOSED FOR HOLIDAYS

The Goldthwaite public schools were closed for the holidays Monday and the classes will not be resumed until Jan. 2. The closing was a few days earlier than had been intended, because of quite a lot of sickness among the pupils. The extreme bad weather of last week caused many bad colds and several cases of flu developed. The school board took this into consideration, as well as the near approach of the Christmas holidays and decided best to declare a vacation until the first Monday in January. This will give the teachers who live elsewhere an opportunity to go home for Christmas, while those who live here can have the time to make such preparations as they like for the Christmas time.

All things considered, the school board acted wisely and has the approval of everybody interested.

A QUIET WEDDING

Rev. Bates, pastor of the Nazarene church, reports the marriage of Bedford Kuykendall and Miss Pauline Tyson at his home Friday night at 7 o'clock. PROGRAM COMMITTEE.

LESS THAN $100

WILL FEED FAMILY

It doesn't require much cash to feed a family of five properly if the right methods are followed, Miss Lola Blair, nutritionist at A. & M. College declares.

"As in 1932, a family of five can provide its yearly food with the expenditure of less than $100 in cash if demonstration methods are followed," says Miss Blair. "This requires two dairy cows, a half-acre garden, a half-acre fruit plot, 40 chickens, one 500-pound beef, three hogs and limited quantities of such cereals as corn, wheat, oats, rice and grain sorghums."

"Yearly food requirements for such a family consist of 364 gallons of milk; about 3000 pounds of vegetables equally divided between leafy, starchy, other vegetables (potatoes, corn, etc.), and garden fruits (tomatoes, melons, etc.); at least 1000 pounds of fruit; 1086 pounds of cereals; 234 pounds of fats; 334 pounds of sweets. How to meet these requirements with an abundant variety of choice quality foods obtained with the least effort and the least cash is the object of the farm or ranch food supply demonstration."

MUST FORCE TAX REDUCTION

One of the most encouraging phases of the late campaign was the attitude taken by the majority of candidates for public office toward the cost of government and the need for tax reduction. President-elect Roosevelt has stated that a 25 per cent cut is essential and has pledged his efforts toward achieving that. Those elected with him have echoed his views.

If such a reduction is made it will have an amazingly fine effect on the country—not only in the money that will be saved, but in psychological result. There is no question but what the specter of still higher taxes frightens thousands of investors and shoves money into safe-deposit vaults and tea pots; that it prevents business from going ahead and expanding; that it discourages home building and savings; that, in this time of unemployment, it creates more unemployment, more hardship, more distress.

Every citizen should demand a sound program to lower taxes. We can do this by not asking for expenditures that touch only a small part of the country at the expense of the whole; by taking the broad, rather than the local, view. We can follow up federal reductions by forcing state, county and municipal governments—which are the most expensive of all—and public officials, to observe the example. In short, the time and the opportunity for tax reduction are here—and it must be had.

ROCK SPRINGS

"Christmas gift to all"
Sunday was a very disagreeable day. We had thirteen at Sunday school Sunday morning and twenty-six at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. The program was well rendered.

Next Sunday is Christmas day, as we all know, and it is our singing afternoon, too. We are going to have a short program and then lots of good singing. We want to invite Lake Merritt, Trigger Mountain, Center City, Priddy and Big Valley. Of course Center Point will be present. We always expect them.

I wonder if everyone noticed Bro. Ivins didn't write last week. I hope he is well and able to fill his place in our church next week.

Monday afternoon Mrs. Eula Nickols' home was opened to the bride-elect, Miss Fay Ellis, with a miscellaneous shower. The wedding will be during the holidays. They received many nice gifts. The lucky young man is Richard Soders of San Saba. They will make their home on the Ellis farm next year. We wish for this young couple a long and happy life.

News came Monday that one of our past citizens, Mr. Finas Lane, had passed away. He was visiting one of his daughters in New Mexico, when he died. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved.

I told you week before last about the Bodkin hog at town. Well, that hog now lives in Claud Smith's hog pen at Rock Springs. Last week was more hog killing weather. Jack Frost has almost decided to stay, seems like. The snow helped to put a season in the ground, which was needed. Some will sow oats in a few days.

Loy Long and family and M. C. Morris and wife from Goldthwaite spent the day Sunday at Landy Ellis'.

A few of the young folks enjoyed a party at Marvin Spinks' Saturday night at Rabbit Ridge.

I wish to extend my sympathy to the Driskill children in the loss of their dear mother. Our loss, but heaven's gain.

Mrs. Homer Doggett and daughter spent the week end in the Nickols home in town.

J. T. Robertson and wife and son dined with Mrs. Zona Robertson and Robert Robertson and family in Big Valley Sunday.

Woody Traylor and family and Mrs. Eula Nickols called in J. M. Traylor's home Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Jay Hicks has been in town caring for her mother, Mrs. Weems, who has been sick.

Louie Ponder and Marvin Spinks and family from Rabbit Ridge attended B. Y. P. U. Sunday night.

Fay Ellis spent Saturday night and Sunday with the Traylor girls.

Shirley Nickols ate dinner Sunday in the Spinks home at Rabbit Ridge, and Mr. Spinks came home with him and they joined Herbert Cooke, J. T. Stark and James Nickols in the goat roping contest. James, the trader, claimed he was the quickest on horse and also on foot.

This community wishes to extend its deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. George Bohannon, in the loss of Mrs. Bohannon's father, Mr. Tom Cox, who died last Friday afternoon.

It keeps Bob Phillips from town busy this bad weather looking after his livestock on his farm.

Friday night J. T. Stark, Fred and Ethel McClary, Herbert, Horace and Nellie D. Cooke visited in the Nickols home.

Mrs. Eula Nickols called in the J. D. Dewbre and Claud Smith homes Friday afternoon.

Claud Smith is real sick at this writing. We hope he can soon be well.

Joe Davis and family, Fred McClary and Shirley Nickols sat until bedtime with J. C. Stark's family Saturday night.

How Cardul Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardul to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat—to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardul.

AUTO DRIVER—
LOOK AT YOURSELF
It is time the automobile driver took a good look at himself. Personal traits and characteristics are as much to blame for our appalling highway death rate as are incompetence and ignorance. The driver who passes on hills and curves, who operates his car at excessive speeds, who hogs the road and drives on the wrong side of the highway, who "weaves" and cuts in and out, is the driver, who no matter how great his skill, causes a large share of the 35,000 deaths each year.

The most encouraging sign at present is the wide public interest in highway safety—an interest which has grown amazingly the last year or two. Traffic laws are being studied. Surveys of accident statistics are being made. There is less theorizing and more dealing with honest facts.

Every state should have laws in accord with modern conditions. One of the most necessary steps is more drastic supervision of youthful drivers—it has been found that drivers under 20 have a 39 per cent worse record than the average, while those between 40 and 50 have a record 29 per cent better than the average. Automobiles should be periodically inspected in the matter of brakes, steering, lights, etc. Examinations of applicants for drivers' licenses should be conducted with extreme care.

The automobile death rate can and must be lowered. There is no place for the reckless, the incompetent, and the mentally or physically defective on our streets and highways. Sixty-five thousand deaths in two years is mute testimony to the need for quick and decisive action.

Those who do their Christmas shopping early will have cause to be glad. This also applies to those who mail their Christmas remembrances early.

The Eagle is offering a special rate of $1 for the remainder of December, after which the subscription rate will be $1.50. This rate will be accepted during this month for renewals as well as new subscriptions.

Quaint Colonial Bedspread

THE decorative note in a sleeping room is more often than not set by the design, color and material of the bedspread, which should be carefully correct in its agreement with the general design and feeling of the room. Bedrooms furnished in French, English, modernistic, or any other style, each require bedspreads in keeping with the colors and furnishings of the rest of the room.
Pictured above, is a room furnished in a Colonial spirit and made doubly attractive by a lovely bedspread. It is what is known as a Burgundy spread with a quaint Colonial flower motif on a field of red and white checks. The weave is a pleasing one combining rayon and wool.

GAMBLING BY MAIL

Since the stock market crash of '29, and despite stringent monitory conditions, more gambling is going on now than ever before. The post office department reports that there is such a craze for lottery gambling abroad in the land that, despite the fact that mail pertaining to lotteries or games of chance is prohibited, millions of people are indulging in it. Every day finds some new lottery scheme blossoming forth. So far this year 1380 concerns caught using the mails to promote lottery schemes have been barred. No matter from what angle one may look at this type of gambling, and regardless of who is promoting it, there should not be one penny invested in it. If there ever was a time when the money in the hands of local people was needed for legitimate purposes, that this is now. Encouraging frauds that the government is trying to stamp out is in itself an act of disloyalty. Trying to get something for a little of nothing is as foolish now as it has ever been. The mails coming into this and every other section are now flooded with these lottery schemes, and more people than you would expect are biting at them. If any of it reaches you, be a good citizen and turn it over to your postmaster instead of trying to beat the game. In that way you'll not be out of pocket and you'll be helping to save a lot of other dupes the money they need far more than these schemes need it. But whatever you do with this mail lottery literature — don't squander a single penny in answering it. — Greenfield Gazette.

BURGLARIES IN BROWNWOOD

Report of the burglary of the L. A. Skaggs home, 1610 First street, was received at 10:30 Monday morning by the city police department. The report was received from some people who have been taking care of the place in the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Skaggs, Mr. Skaggs being in San Saba and Mrs. Skaggs in a hospital at Temple. The burglary is being investigated by police. Extent of the goods stolen is not known at this time.

An attempt to rob the safe at the Santa Fe railroad ticket office here early Monday morning, was frustrated when a switch crew passing the office frightened away the would-be robber. A porter, "Candy" Bocknight, saw a man running from the building about 4:30 that morning.

Investigation showed that a padlock had been knocked off of a chain which had been around the safe. Police believe the robber hid in the building and was locked up inside when the building was closed. No evidence of breaking in could be found on the outside doors.—Bulletin.

STAR SCHOOL NEWS

(Too late for last week)

Many sighs and frowns are manifest, due to disagreeable weather. Stormy days and difficult examinations are not a very pleasant combination.

Two seventh grade girls, gave some interesting talks on the progress of our country last Friday. That division of the school is doing some work of real help. They are interested in the Christmas program and are making a part of it.

"Of all sad words of tongue or pen."

The saddest are: It might have been—

A pass if we had studied a little more this month. Examinations are now on and some of us are beginning to cram, — yes, cram. But it seems that which we consume does not assimilate. Too bad, but it is too late to be helped very much.

Nelma Stephan, Leroy Harper and Wesley Waddell are having the best reading lesson for the second grade. Leroy says, "The prize is mine." While several others are saying, "I'm not so sure about that."

Among those in the first grade with the highest marks are: Virgie May Soules, Bobbie Jean Moore, L. H. Manning and Raymond Moore.

We are sorry to report that Cloriece Walker has been sick for several days. We hope she will soon recuperate. The first grade was very sorry for Hamilton Henry to leave for his new home, yet we wish him the best of luck at Fairview.

The eighth and ninth grades are getting up a Christmas play. They are not so pleased for they think it is below their dignity to simply be in a Christmas program.

Our boys are planning to win the tournament Friday and Saturday if it stays pretty.

Ashes Trap The "Fire Bug" Microscopes Reveal The Clues

Two men in plain clothes prowled through the smoking ruins of what an hour before had been a pretentious building. One of them stooped to pick up a piece of charred wood, while the other transferred to a paper some fluffy ash which the wind was scattering. These and other pieces of debris were carried to a laboratory where trained members of the city's arson squad subjected them to a microscopic third degree.

Late that same night, one of the investigators flew to a city 500 miles away where the owner of the building, on a pleasure trip, was preparing to return home.

"I've just heard about the fire," he exclaimed. "How did it start?"

"You know, because you did it," was the reply.

"What do you mean?" demanded the owner. "That fire happened this morning and I've been out of town since yesterday afternoon."

"I'll tell you," replied the investigator. "This morning you were out playing golf and at 11 o'clock you went to the clubhouse, called your store, and as no one was there, you listened until the bell had rung fourteen times. Then you hung up and resumed your game."

"The bell clapper of the phone in your office was tied down with a piece of string you had learned would break on fourteen rings. Just before you hung up the clapper broke loose and struck a nail that discharged a blank cartridge that you had fastened in a wooden block. The flare from the cartridge ignited five gallons of gasoline in a glass bottle, the bottle broke under the heat, and the flaming gasoline spread over the floor and burned up your insured merchandise. Come along with me."

This really happened, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Ten years ago, mechanical contrivances such as clockworks were frequently used to start fires, but the twisted bits of metal remaining were so hard to explain away, that incendiaries have adopted more subtle methods. Inflammable liquids, gases, chemicals, and electricity, coupled with starting devices that practically disintegrate in the flames, are the latest tools of the professional "torch." The arson squad has only one weapon, the microscope, but this is proving to be more than a match for the criminal. The microscope is a practically infallible instrument of detection.

"I'll show you how easy it is," says Paul T. Wolfe, chief of the fire investigation bureau in Los Angeles. "When I go out to investigate a suspicious fire, I first locate the spot where the fire started. You can do this by tracing the cross checks on the burned wood. When wood burns normally, the cross checks on the charcoal have a definite size, but the checks are finer and closer together if some material that burns with a hotter flame than wood is present. We take a small piece of charcoal and make a photomicrograph of its surface. Then we compare this with photographs from the files and that tells us the material or liquid that set the wood on fire.

"Every combustible liquid will leave its own telltale marks on the wood.

"A typical trick in the past was to carry heavy insurance on a stock of expensive goods," says Mr. Wolfe. "Then the fire bug would move the goods out, substitute shoddy material in their place, and start a fire. In that way he could obtain the insurance money and still own the goods. But that is no longer popular, even with fragile furs and feathers. The microscope enables us to differentiate between the burned hair and the skin of an expensive fur and its charred counterfeit."

Newspaper stories that begin with the words, "A fire of unknown origin last night destroyed . . ." are now open to revision, Mr. Wolfe explained, as the exact cause of a blaze can always be learned.

The whole art of arson detection is based on the fact that practically every material burns at a different temperature. A gasoline flame, for instance, burns at 1500 degrees Fahrenheit, while burning sugar creates a temperature of only 700 degrees. Each individual flame temperature leaves different microscopic marks on burned wood and on the remains of other burned materials. With a knowledge of the temperature table, and of the effects that each temperature creates, an investigator can tell at a glance exactly what material started a fire.

This knowledge has given the arson squad a direct lead on the fire bugs who employ chemicals to start a fire or to spread the flames. Each chemical leaves its own characteristic mark long after the fire has been extinguished. Even when a gas is used, its identity may be determined.

ANDREW J. WESTERMAN DIES AT VOCA, DEC. 8

Andrew Jackson Westerman, aged 26 years, 4 months and 21 days, died Thursday afternoon at his home at Voca, after an illness of two or three years. Funeral services were held Friday noon at the Voca church, with Rev. Mr. Ivins, Baptist minister of Goldthwaite, conducting. Interment was made in Voca cemetery. — Brady Standard.

Lovely Trees for the Xmas Table

A new delight for Yule-tide table decoration is the home made Christmas tree, 6 1/2 inches high, spreading its glittering branches, and in any color that is thought suitable. They are not at all difficult to make and for place decorations at a holiday dinner party are sure to help the real Christmas spirit.

The petals which are to hang over the wire branches of the tree are shaped as shown in the design above, and each is made from one thickness of "Cellophane". Three sizes are cut: the smallest, 4 1/2 by 1 1/2, No. 2, 6 1/2 by 1 1/2, and No. 3, 9 by 2 inches. Cut out two of the smallest size, three of the next and four of the largest. Fold all petals in half lengthwise and slip them over a knitting needle. Crush them together one by one along the fold until they are thoroughly crinkled. Put the largest petals on a light 6 1/2 inch wire, the middle size on a 5 inch wire and the smallest on a 3 inch wire. Brush glue or mucilage on the wires before laying the petals over them. Allow each petal to extend a half inch beyond each end of its wire and then press down firmly so it will stick tightly.

Wrap stiff wire, 18 inches long, with crepe paper of any color desired and, starting an inch from the top, lash with soft wire the two smallest petals, each of which has been bent in the middle so that it becomes two tree branches when fastened by criss-crossing of the wire to the stem of the tree. The three middle sized petals are lashed on the same way, a half inch farther down, and the four largest ones, another 1/2 inch down, make the bottom of the tree. Two inches below the lowest group of petals, bend the stiff wire flat on the table and twist into a spiral foundation for the tree. Paint the petals along their "backbones" with white sealing wax to represent snow, or sprinkle with Christmas tree snow. Fasten two silver stars back to back at the top of the tree.

The six branched tree shown at the right is 14 inches high needing a 24-inch central wire. The branches are 1/4 of an inch apart. The petals decrease in size from the top down, as in the smaller tree.

BAPTIST CHURCH

The annual collection for Buckner Orphans' Home was started last Sunday, and if you did not make a contribution and will do so please stop by the First National Bank and leave your offering. We always get this offering in by the first of January, and be sure and put in yours in the next few days.

This experience of having the flu is not new with us, but it's an experience that we do not welcome. We were thoughtfully and tenderly cared for by the doctor, our friends and the nurse that stays at the parsonage. The last visit the doctor paid us we asked him to have Bill Woody bring us the kind of medicine he always used for flu, and to our surprise Mr. Woody rushed up to see us and left with us a bottle of "Stearns' chill tonic. L. B. Ashley came along next morning and left a bottle of home-grown grape juice that had been in the cellar for many moons. The patient took the chill tonic and the nurse the grape juice and as a result both are doing nicely at this time. However, Raymond Cockrum brought us chicken, buttermilk and a jar of sweet pickles, and we think that he must have put a little of his dad's Santa Claus in the pickles for we have never relished anything more than we did those pickles, and Raymond has a standing invitation to come again. The Athens class always remembers the pastor with good cheer whether sick or well. A host of other friends remembered us in various ways and we express to one and all our deep gratitude.

We were disappointed that we were not able to attend the birthday dinner given by Mayor Bodkin, but we understand that a real feast was served and that all had a lovely time. The Methodist minister has been somewhat indisposed ever since that dinner. You take a preacher that has been living in the Valley, where he has light eats, and drinks out of a canal, and bring him to a Mills county table laden with turkey and all accessories and also where he has to drink out of a bottle, naturally he will have to stay by the fire for some ten days. Anyway, these gentlemen who attended tell this writer that some one around the mayor's home certainly knows how to prepare a delicious meal, and here is hoping that we will be able to attend the next one.

As it is Christmas time, naturally it brings tender memories, anticipated joys, beautiful expressions of love and good will, to take full possession of our hearts. This is a season when songs are more beautiful, friendships dearer and home ties stronger. Of all the times of the year this is the time when the highest thoughts and most unselfish service find expression. I can not adequately express all of the good things I am wishing for you and yours at this glad season, but I do want you to know that I am thinking of you and praying that the sunshine of peace shall flood your soul, and that life's sublimest happiness shall be your portion. Let everyone alike be assured that every token of God's favor upon you will make my own heart rejoice the more.

All services at the Baptist church Sunday, and you are invited to come and bring your friends and relatives who may be visiting you, to worship with us. Our services Sunday morning will be brief assuring everyone that you will be given ample time to get home for your Christmas dinner. If for any reason you can not attend the morning service, attend the night service. By all means every one should at least attend one service during the day.

Affectionately,

WHO WILL PAY?

Who will pay the taxes after all property has been confiscated and all capital has at last found its way into the coffers of the government?

The optimistic answer is that it will never happen. Probably it won't. But we are coming closer to it than we realize. In some middle western states more than 50 per cent of the farms have been foreclosed and are being worked by lessees not owners. In some cities it is cheaper to tear a good building down than to allow it to stand—because taxes on the structure are greater than the income it produces. In other cases it is cheaper to close a factory—because, under present conditions, returns are not great enough to meet the tax bill and the other running expenses.

It is very easy to advocate soaking the rich to help the poor. But over-taxation of capital is the surest way to produce distress, unemployment, depression. When people are afraid to invest their money in producing enterprises, because of fear of increasing taxation, the country faces a crisis from unemployment and actual confiscation of capital and jobs by taxation.

The Congress now in session must deal with an unbalanced budget. The next Congress will have the same identical problem. Unless expenditures are reduced, there will come a time when there will not be enough taxpayers to meet government's high cost.—Exchange.

HOME BURGLARIZED

Sunday afternoon the home of Wayne Reynolds was entered while Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were away and a watch, victrola, bill fold and a small amount of money was stolen.

Upon their return they missed the articles and Mr. Reynolds called on City Marshal Hancock.

Three men in a Chrysler roadster were suspicious and they were trailed to Goldthwaite, where they had traded off the watch. They were then trailed toward Lometa but were not located until Monday, when they drove into Lometa and were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Hill and City Marshal Pickens. They have been transferred to the county jail in Goldthwaite. Justice of the Peace Rahl has placed their bonds at $750 each, but at last report no effort had been made by them to make bond. They gave their names as R. R. Rayhodes, C. D. Baker and W. E. Boey, all of Oklahoma.

MRS. HOLLAND DEAD

Mrs. Sarah Burleson Holland died at her home five miles west of Mullin Wednesday night.

She had suffered a stroke of four hours earlier and had been in bed for possibly a year. Mrs. Holland came to her old home here a few months ago, hoping the change would be beneficial to her health.

She was a devoted Christian, wife and mother, and leaves besides the grief-stricken husband, a grown daughter and son, also a sister, Mrs. J. A. Holland, and two brothers, Ezia Burleson of Hico and Will Burleson of Mullin. Elder E. P. McNeill officiated at the funeral services Thursday. Interment was at Oakview cemetery in Mullin.

THE GRIM REAPER CALLS

PAT McHENRY

P. M. Henry, aged 61, died at his home Tuesday night at ten o'clock. He had been in a very serious condition for several weeks and in declining health for the past year. He had been a resident of this section for the greater part of his life and was a member of the Baptist church.

Mr. Henry was first married to Miss Jessie Clark and seven children were born: Dot, Harrison, Sam, and era. About eight years ago, Mr. Henry and Mrs. May Tyson were married and a little son, Bobby, and the devoted wife, also two brothers survive. All the children were present at the time of his death and all that loving hands could do was done, but love can not stay the hand of death.

Interment was at Duren Wednesday, Rev. L. J. Vann officiating.

W. R. HODGES DEAD

Wiley R. Hodges died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hodges, in the Duren community December 16, after a long illness. He had been reared in Mills county and spent the greater part of his life here, where he made many friends who mourn his loss.

He leaves a father, mother, five brothers and four sisters. All were in attendance at his funeral, except one brother, who is in California.

His remains were laid to rest in the Duren cemetery Saturday afternoon, Rev. L. J. Vann conducting the funeral services.

Old timers here will regret to hear of the death of Mrs. John Driskill in Zephyr Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. D. F. Petty. Interment was at Goldthwaite Sunday. Mrs. Driskill and her late husband, John Driskill, resided in this section a long time ago and have many friends here.

Mrs. John Massey happened to a very painful accident one day recently, when she fainted sitting by the open fire place, and one foot extended too near the coals of the fire and was burned badly, though the hose on the foot was not scorched.

GIVING AT CHRISTMAS

Two groups of men journeyed to a lowly manger in a stable in Bethlehem that first Christmas week nearly two thousand years ago.

Humble shepherds made up the other group. Simple, honest, working men whose lonely vigils with their flocks by night had given them the opportunity of being the first to hear the glorious news of the Messiah's birth.

Thus from His very birth, Christ appealed both to the most noble and most intellectual of men and to the humble shepherds as well. There is the same universality in the appeal of Christmas to our hearts today.

Christmas does not deserve to be degraded to a commercial exchange of gifts, a fate that a few years ago seemed destined to overtake it.

This year much of this materialism has vanished. There is more sincerity in the friendly handclasp and the wish of a "Merry Christmas."

Those who, like Herod, are too hard of heart to hear the angel voices, too short-sighted to see the gleaming of the star, are unfortunate indeed.

The child who never learns the happiness of sharing with others will never know the full meaning of Christmas.

It was by toiling that the shepherds came to hear the angel voices. It was by trusting that the wise men found the secret of the star.

HONEST DEBTS

No less an economic authority than Col. Leonard P. Ayres of Cleveland has suggested that some method must be found for bringing the value of the dollar today closer to the value of the dollar which was loaned a few years ago.

He finds that his labor is worth less than it was four years ago. He finds that if he is a farmer, bring less than half as much now as they did then, and there is no possible way for him to earn the money to pay his debts by putting in the same amount of time.

In other words the man who borrowed a thousand dollars then must pay the equivalent in value now of two or three thousand dollars when he borrowed them.

The most common plan offered for removing this disparity is to inflate the currency so that prices will go up and a man can sell a yearling or a bale of cotton or a farm for the same number of dollars that a similar yearling, bale of cotton, or farm would have brought four or five years ago.

Unsatisfactory as the situation is, it is beginning to become more and more clear that the only way out is to buckle down and pay low priced debts with high priced dollars.

NO FISHERMAN

In an irate letter to a Dallas newspaper a subscriber complains bitterly about the time wasted by successful candidates in going fishing.

It may or may not ease the ruffled feelings of the citizen to learn that most of this fishing and hunting on the part of office holders is a joke.

It is all a part of our popular American sport of make-believe. To state plainly that a new office-holder is seriously engaged in preparing himself to fill the office creditably is lacking in romance and American dash.

There may be some able statesmen who, like Grover Cleveland, really like to fish. But for every one of them, there are a hundred who merely crave a little relaxation from official duties or are seeking publicity by blindly following the lead of some earlier office-holding fisherman.

Work is scheduled to start soon on a sodium sulphate plant to cost about $350,000, which will be erected on the edge of Soda lake in Ward county, 13 miles south of Monahans. The plant is being built for the Ozark Chemical Co. of Tulsa, Okla., after months of experiments, which convinced officials of the firm that the deposits were in commercial quantities.

Keeping Up With Texas SODIUM PLANT

What Other Editors Have to Say

SHAKESPEARE WAS RIGHT

The following editorial, written by Randolph Fort of the Mill-edgeville (Ga.) Times, won the E. H. Dean award for the best editorial of the year in the Georgia Press.

"Depression" — So terrifying has the connotation of this word become that the mere mention of it sends an involuntary shudder up the spine of the average individual. It implies suffering—hunger, want, mental stress.

Can there be anything good in this insidious condition? Shakespeare had one of his characters say: "Sweet are the uses of adversity, which like the toad, ugly and venomous, wears yet a precious jewel in its head."

Another writer is credited with a statement which, paraphrased, reads: "There is so much good in the worst of things."

Surely Depression is adversity, surely it ranks high among the worst of things. Where, then, is the good in it?

Surprisingly enough, the good may be found, even though it be for the most part of intangible quality. Truly it may be seen and felt in the interpretation that is now being given such words as "humanity," "friendliness," and "tolerance."

During these times of stress, mightily affecting the morale of the people, the human equation has been more and more apparent. So many are in the same predicament that sympathy has become almost universal.

For some months newspapers that have been carrying stories discouraging in nature have carried other stories of a more exalted sort. Note the midwestern merchant who canceled thousands of dollars' worth of debts because his patrons were unable to meet their obligations.

These are the things that really count.

There are even more tangible benefits derived from this Depression thing. Statistics show that people are in better health; having less to spend, they buy less of rich foods and harmful beverages. Young students just out of schools think that they have been treated badly by being forced to struggle for a place and success at such a time; but on the other hand, such experiences are wonderful training for the young life that lies ahead.

Then, too, cities have taken advantages of the unemployment situations to make, at low cost, the civic improvements not hitherto deemed feasible.

The average citizen, also, hoping for better times, has taken a greater interest in governmental affairs, has pondered the statements of candidates for public office, and has learned for himself the problems of political issues.

True, expenses have been cut by everybody, but supposed necessities have been relegated to the realm of luxuries, have become almost an unknown quantity.

Yet there has been more of home life, of comradeship, of love.

The Depression, like a strict, conscientious instructor, has taught a severe lesson, one that will not soon be forgotten. These drastic times have demonstrated that the best attitude to adopt toward depression is an admixture of the Coue-Pollyanna doctrine that things are always getting better and better and the theory of a certain writer that "Everything in life is bad, and if everything were changed, it would be only for the worse."

The American people have been remarkably courageous during the last three years. There have been but few instances of utter despair. Their bravery is

A MILL GIRL

TO ROCKEFELLER

One of the most deadly criticisms of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.'s pronouncement in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment came from an indignant little lady whose girlhood was spent in one of the wet textile towns of New England.

"Mr. Rockefeller," said she, "lives on a street that is absolutely protected against anything that would make it unsafe, unsanitary or unpleasant, for him or any member of his family. He runs no danger of living next door to a rum shop. But there are thousands of poor people who remember as I do how they had to live in poor streets with saloons—rum holes' was their common name—at every crossing. There were foul places within and without. Decent women could not pass them without having their sensibilities insulted. They were a temptation to the men and boys, and their presence was a menace to childhood. Yet they were lawful places of business, licensed by the state to prey upon its citizens."

"If Mr. Rockefeller had ever lived next door to a rum shop, he would be more careful about lifting the ban of outlawry upon such places. That is what we must expect if his theory of naked repeal is accepted."

This is a case in which the mill girl's opinion discounts the millionaire's.—New York Christian Advocate.

AN IDEAL TEACHER

How is one to paint a word picture of the ideal teacher? He should be intelligent, but not pedantic, dignified but not pompous, firm but not intolerant. He should be young enough to remember his boyhood, but old enough to have put aside childish things. With all his scholarship, he should be aware that it would be a sad world if all his pupils were trained to be teachers—like himself. He should not be ashamed to possess or disclose his ideals, but should temper them with practicality. He should be able, outside his ballroom, to mix with other people on even terms, without self-consciousness, superciliousness or timidity. He should maintain at all costs his patience, his sympathy, and his sense of humor. If, in addition, he has energy and optimism, he should be qualified to secure and hold a position, and leave behind him a place in the memories of alumni. It will make little difference where such a man functions, whether in a gorgeous lecture hall or in an ancient classroom, with the desks carved by generations of undergraduates. He may never get a medal or an honorary degree, but his spirit will remain alive long after his body rests in the local cemetery.—Claude M. Fuess, in the Atlantic Monthly.

about to be rewarded at last; present indications are that America's lean years are soon to be supplanted by welcome years of plenty. If this prophecy be true, this so-called reckless country will profit by the lessons learned, and advance, by conservative steps, to a position of eminence heretofore not attained by any nation in the history of the world.

Shakespeare, after all was right.

REAPPORTIONMENT

The constitution provides that a federal census must be taken every 10 years and further, in an amendment, that "representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers."

Some authorities interpret this as a mandate requiring congress apportionment every decade, but this is debatable. It is a fact that for 130 years Congress did make a new distribution after each federal census, which would seem to make it a custom. However, the 1920 enumeration was ignored, chiefly because certain states were reluctant to lose representation at Washington due to population decreases. Therefore, from 1911 to 1931 the ratio was based on the 1910 census, i.e., one representative to every 211,877 of population (aliens included.) Following the 1930 census congress felt impelled to remedy the situation and agreed to apportion on the new count, but voted to keep the House membership at 435, the change becoming effective March 4, 1931.

At first glance it would seem a simple matter to divide 435 seats among 122,729,615 (1930 census) residents of this country. Yet it is really very complicated. In the first place the constitution entitles each state to at least one representative—even little Nevada with her 91,058 population. But the nearly half million residents of the District of Columbia do not count. Living on federal territory as they do, they do not have the right to vote. Thus, 48 from 435 leaves 387 seats to be divided among 48 states of varying sizes and populations. Now enters "major fractions," for the law provides that there shall be one representative for every fraction of 1/2.

The first step is to divide 48 in all. The next step is to divide the population of each state by the following quantities, in succession: 1 1/2, 2 1/4, 3 1/2, etc. The quotients thereby obtained are then arranged in order of size, beginning with the largest and continuing the process until the total number of quotients plus 48 is one greater than the number of representatives (435) to be apportioned. The next step is to divide the population of the several states by a number midway between the last two quotients in the list. The last step is to assign to each state a number of representatives equal to the whole number in the quotient which was obtained for that state by the above division, plus one more representative in the case the quotient contains a major fraction.

All of which boiled down means that the quota under the 1930 census is... every... viding... that number... is more than half... tionment the state gets... ditional representative. If... less than half the figure the "left over" is disregarded.— Pathfinder.

The meek shall inherit the earth. Considering the mess it's in, you couldn't wish it on anybody else.—Tyler Courier-Times.

The Children's Corner

Dear Boys and Girls:

Here I am back for another Christmas.

I hope all of you have been good little boys and girls and have helped mother with the work and minded daddy.

Most of you have written me letters, and I have read every one of them, but I can't bring everything you ask because I have so many little boys and girls to see Christmas Eve, I'd never get round with my pack if I carried everything to every one of them. But I am not going to forget you, and I know you'll like what I put in your stocking.

To any person who has the slightest sympathy for dogs, the individual who stoops to scatter poison meat is ranked with the lowest most despicable wrongdoers. It is not that some dogs should be done away with, but the method used that arouses the ire of those who have a modicum of sympathy for man's canine friends. Too often the poison does more than is intended and kills innocent dogs and other pets and furthermore, is terribly inhumane.

COUNTY CO-OPERATION

State Senator S. C. Mastick of New York told the National Municipal League meeting at Washington, that only 8.7 per cent of New York revenues go to administrative expenses and 9.7 per cent, is expended on local benefits. A great deal of it is for the schools, roads, courts and public health. This cannot all be fairly added to the towering burden of local government. The state is not confined to the capital; it includes all localities within its borders—and its functions are not entirely separable from those of its subdivisions. Nor is the fact, standing alone, that local governments cost more than the state, to be deplored. They always will. The naked fact indicates that taxpayers of each locality are spending most of their money on themselves. That is a matter of congratulation only when economy is evident. When there are too many local taxing districts, duplicating overhead unnecessarily purchasing equipment, maintaining institutions and performing services which could be more economically done by larger units, then part of the state as well as local revenues are wasted and taxes are disproportionate to the benefits received. So every commonwealth suffers from a multiplicity of school houses, road departments, county offices and institutions. Until they can be merged, Sen. Mastick suggests what many economists and educators are thinking the establishment of inter-county school districts, highway districts, jails, hospitals and poor farms. The plan is feasible. There would be no trouble about the schools in Kentucky, for instance. It has a state system. In some commonwealths small counties lodge their few prisoners in their neighbors' workhouses. Headway has been made in inter-county co-operation in the west. A propitious sign is to be recognized in the evidence of study and the growing interest of taxpayers.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FINIS LANE DEAD

The remains of Finis Lane were brought here from Cross Plains Wednesday afternoon and interred in the cemetery at this place with Masonic honors. His death occurred at Hobbs, N. M., Sunday night, at the home of his son. He had not been in good health for some time, but his condition was not thought to be serious. He and his wife had only been at Hobbs a few days and on Sunday night he complained of feeling badly. A physician gave him some medicine and directed that he go to bed. About 11 o'clock Mrs. Lane retired and at that time he was apparently resting well, but some time in the early morning she awakened and found him dead, having passed away as he slept.

Mr. Lane was a son of the late A. V. Lane and was reared in this county, but moved from here a good many years ago. At the time of his death he was making his home at Cross Plains, where he had been engaged in the oil business and he also had some oil interests at Hobbs, N. M.

His remains were carried from Hobbs to Cross Plains, where religious services were held, after which the funeral procession formed by Masonic lodge members and other citizens of that town started for Goldthwaite, reaching this place about three o'clock in the afternoon and were attended by a large number of the relatives and friends of the Lane family.

MRS. DRISKILL PASSED AWAY

Mrs. J. W. Driskill died last Friday night at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Petty, at Zephyr, from the effects of pneumonia, and her remains were brought here Sunday afternoon and interred in the cemetery at this place, by the side of the grave of her husband, who died several years ago. The burial was preceded by services in the Christian church conducted by Elder Hoover and attended by a large number of the friends of the family here, as well as several of her children and other relatives and a number of friends from Zephyr and elsewhere.

The Driskill family lived here a good many years ago and many citizens here remember them with kindness and sympathize with the bereaved in the death of Mrs. Driskill, who had a multitude of friends here and in other parts of the county. She was a devoted member of the Christian church and was ever ready and anxious to be helpful to those in need.

FORMER CITIZEN DEAD

Friends here of Mrs. G. F. Bohannon and family sincerely sympathize with them in the death of her father, Mr. Tom Cox, known to his friends as "Uncle Tom," which occurred at his home in Jones county and his remains were interred in the cemetery near his home last Saturday. Mrs. Bohannon and family only recently returned from a visit to Mr. Cox and were unable to go back for the funeral.

Mr. Cox and family lived in the Rock Springs community for a long time and moved from here to Jones county in 1917, where they continued to reside. He was a man of high character and was well liked by everybody. He leaves ten grown children and a number of grandchildren, but his wife preceded him in death by several years. Mrs. Bohannon is the only one of his children living in this county, although others have lived here and are visitors to this place.

WHAT WORLD TRADE MEANS

King Cotton, as John H. Caulfield points out, is playing Horatius at the bridge for our foreign trade—armed with the two-edged sword of price and quality. Last season, while the world used 165,000 bales less of all cotton than in the previous period, it used 1,411,000 more bales of American. In the early months of this season American cotton again bettered its export record, by more than 50 per cent.

This means jobs for American workmen, increased circulation of money and a more stable cotton industry. It takes us back fifty and more years ago, when American cotton was the undisputed king in the world market. It is, perhaps, the beginning of a new era for the cotton producer.

It is worth pointing out that cotton is one of the American industries that has taken greatest advantage of the farmers' newest agency of progress—the co-operative. The cotton co-operative has shown the producer how to raise a better product and sell it at the best advantage. It has fought, and is fighting, the battles that no single producer can ever fight successfully. Cotton prices are down, along with everything else—but they would be farther down if it were not for the co-operative, and the market would doubtless be demoralized.

The fruit growers of the west, the cotton farmers of the south, the dairymen of the east—they are showing what loyally supported co-operatives can do in bringing order out of chaos.—Exchange.
