

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-NINE

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 21, 1933.

NUMBER FORTY-SEVEN

Reduction Offer Accepted

The plan of the federal government to reduce cotton acreage to the extent of ten million acres, by paying the farmers for plowing up their cotton, has succeeded wonderfully and the amount required to carry out the plan proves the co-operation of the farmers in all sections of the cotton growing area.

Mills county farmers entered wholeheartedly into the plan and the quota for this county has been exceeded by a good many acres. Together with the plan for plowing up the cotton was the offer by the government to allow farmers to purchase cotton from the agricultural department this fall, if they so desired, thereby insuring the farmers against possible loss. It really seems that the plan is as fair as could be made.

In Mills county 718 farmers signed the contracts and options were taken on 1550 bales of cotton and 3262 acres are to be plowed up. The contract represents 22,361 acres that were devoted to cotton. The total of cash payments and options is $91,413, of which $67,964 includes the options and $23,448 in cash with options.

County Agent W. P. Weaver has received information from Washington that the Mills county contracts have been accepted and checks are being prepared to be sent direct to the farmers when the authority has been issued for plowing up the cotton and the work has actually been done. Mr. Weaver urges that farmers do not plow up the cotton until they receive authority to do so. It is suggested that farmers in the various communities co-operate in the plowing when they receive the authority, in order to expedite the work and the issuance of the checks. A committeeman will inspect the crop and acreage after the plowing is done, but if all is in readiness there need be no delay in completing the transaction and issuing the checks by the department at Washington.

Mr. Weaver is now issuing permits to plow up the cotton and many farmers will begin the work today.

RECITAL PLANNED

There will be a musical recital of the class of Doss Richardson at Center City next Thursday night, July 27. The people of that community and elsewhere are cordially invited to attend and see what progress the class has made and at the same time hear some mighty good music.

Methodist Notes

Some one got this Scribe and Pharisee into scholastic trouble in the notes of last week. Knowing his timidity, as he does, he has no desire to distinguish himself by extending his vocabulary to the use of words that have never yet appeared in any man's dictionary. You may imagine his embarrassment when one of the gentlemen of the town well and favorably known for his erudition asked him in "what particular dictionary the word "hypercrit" was to be found." With a great sense of outraged feeling an interview was sought with the editor. Here he was referred to the proofreader and finally directed to the linotype man. When this worthy gentleman was interviewed there was a casual discussion of the hot weather and a hope expressed that it might rain real soon. Well, this linotype man weighs two hundred and seventeen pounds dressed, and while a rather amiably appearing gentleman, there was a decision to let matters rest for a time.

Last Sunday was a warm day about the Methodist church. Not necessarily spiritual warmth. The mercury stood around 100. There was not, however, any noticeable falling off in the congregation. The Sunday school attendance was smaller than usual, caused possibly, by an attempt to change the hour of meeting. I might say just here that next Sunday we are to go back to the hours for both Sunday school and church that have been used from the time of the organization of the church here. Sunday school 9:45, church at 10:50.

I suppose that there will be no impropriety in mixing some Baptist notes in these Methodist notes. The Methodists and Baptists mix pretty well in our town—great precaution should be used in the meaning of that term "mix." The most charitable construction is to be placed upon it.

The Baptist revival holds first place this week and next. The preaching is being done by the pastor, and needless to say, well done. The music, as is usual with a Goldthwaite church, is of the highest order, which is saying much, because we always have good music. The audiences are great and attention and interest are just such as we always desire and have among our people. As a matter of fact, the Goldthwaite people are, and have a right to be proud of our people and the manifest interest in all that is for our betterment. Let us all throw ourselves into any and every work which has as its purpose the building of the kingdom of God in our midst. In these days of such worldwide depression, the breaking down of the old restraints which have meant so much in world betterment, there is a mighty demand for the unity of forces which are to save us from the destruction which inevitably confronts us if we give way to the forces which are sure to destroy our civilization. It is not necessary to exhort the underworld, which now has the front page, to stand as a unit in wrongdoing. They will do that any way. True they are murdering one another in our great cities, but this is done only that they may more successfully carry on their work by ridding themselves of those of their own number who impede their progress in destruction. But it is needful that we who desire to see the right upheld stand as a unit to maintain the church and all the lofty principles for which it stands. J. S. BOWLES.

Baptists to Meet at Trigger Mountain

The regular annual meeting of the Mills County Baptist Association is to be held with Trigger Mountain Baptist church beginning on Friday night before the third Sunday in August, being August 18. George W. Jackson is moderator of the association and S. J. Fisher is the clerk.

HELPFUL RAIN FALLS HERE

A slow rain that did a great deal of good fell here Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. While the amount of water was not great, measuring about one-half of an inch, it fell in such a way as to do the most good possible. Vegetation was revived and growing crops, especially cotton, received great benefit.

The rainfall was general over this part of the state and, judging from reports, was about the same in every section.

Not only was the rain needed on crops and pastures, it broke the heat wave that was very oppressive and was doing vast damage. While a much heavier rain would have been more helpful this was thankfully received everywhere that it fell.

Goldthwaite Boy Makes Hole in One

The Lubbock Avalanche says of a Mills county golf player: "Hollis Blackwell, Texas Tech student, registered from Goldthwaite, joined goldfom's great Saturday, when he holed out for an ace on the short No. 2 hole at the Lubbock Meadowbrook course.

"An iron shot that found its mark perfectly soared high over the deep valley between the tee and the green that so often proves disastrous to the ordinary golfer, qualified Blackwell for the "Dodo Club," one of the most exclusive of the country, by making a hole in one."

Baptist Meeting In Progress

As will be seen in the announcement by Rev. Franklin E. Swanner, pastor of the Baptist church, there is an interesting meeting in progress at that church. The pastor is doing the preaching and has delivered several strong and helpful sermons to large congregations. All denominations and the general citizenship have given co-operation in the services and already a number of conversions and additions have been announced. The baptizing at Lake Merritt last Sunday afternoon was attended by a large audience.

Rev. Luther A. Harrison, assistant pastor of the Turner Memorial Baptist church of Fort Worth, is leading the choir and is doing fine work. The song service is one of the most interesting features of the meeting.

HEAVY DAMAGE IS DONE BY HIGH WIND

Last Friday afternoon there was considerable damage done by wind in the Chesser Valley section, west of Mullin, and in the Newberg and Mount Olive communities. At the first named place a silo and several out-buildings at W. C. Dew's ranch were blown down and destroyed, entailing a considerable loss.

The storm, which took on cyclonic proportions in the Newberg section and reaching into the Mount Olive community, blew down trees, several falling across the road just ahead of J. T. Helm of this city, who was on his way in his car to Weatherford. He saw the damage, but was not in time to see the passing of the miniature cyclone. However, he saw where a windmill was blown down, a house moved several feet and about 20 acres of cotton stripped.

Accompanying the blow a pretty good rain fell in each section, which will help some toward sustaining and perhaps reviving vegetation. A good rain also fell over a limited territory in the Big Valley community Sunday afternoon, but the benefits of the rain were small, if in reality there were any benefits at all.

Warehouse Fire Does Damage

The fire that developed in the Fairman Co. warehouse, at the rear of the store, last Friday evening about 8 o'clock, is believed to have resulted from combustion. It was first discovered in a pile of mattresses and among some inflammable toys next to the corrugated iron wall. The fire company was soon on the scene and had several streams of water playing on the blaze, which undoubtedly prevented a wide-spread and destructive fire. The loss was not heavy and was covered by insurance.

Baptist Reminder

Our meeting goes well. The first four days closes with ten additions. The spirit is fine and the town is co-operating in a wonderful way. We want every person in the community to feel that this is your meeting. The crowds are unusually good. The morning services are well attended and the ushers are estimating that we are having between four and five hundred at night. It is also interesting to note that people are coming from such places as Trigger Mountain, North Bennett and other sections throughout the county. We hope that many others throughout the county can profit by these services. The meeting will continue at least through another week.

Our goal in Sunday school Sunday morning is 250. We are certainly anxious that every teacher get in touch with all prospects. Remember if you are not attending Sunday school somewhere, we certainly invite you to be present with us.

There is a class in our Sunday school which is suitable for every age. The Young Men's Bible Class is only three Sundays old, but it is growing in interest and numbers. We want twenty young men Sunday morning. We meet in the church auditorium. Bro. Ed Gilliam, one of our young attorneys, will be our guest speaker Sunday morning for this class. FRANKLIN E. SWANNER, Pastor.

IMPORTANT COTTON ACREAGE NOTICE

Beginning Friday, July 21, the county agent will issue permits to destroy cotton to all whose contracts have been passed on by the county committee. Cotton may be destroyed and the land planted to feed if desired as soon as permit is received. Cotton may be destroyed by turning in livestock. Come to my office for permits. W. P. WEAVER, County Agent.

R.F.C. Officers Highly Praised

Frank H. Bushick, jr., field representative of the Texas Rehabilitation and Relief Commission, was in Goldthwaite Wednesday to convey a formal message of thanks from the governor and Col. Lawrence Westbrook, director of relief in Texas, to W. C. Dew, chairman of the old volunteer relief committee, and get names from Mr. Dew for their splendid services in carrying out the relief work in Mills county.

Under the law enacted by the last legislature a new county board will take over the rehabilitation work in Mills county, and have supervision over the relief work, which will be handled by a county administrator directly responsible to Austin.

Ed Gilliam, jr., was recommended to Mr. Bushick by the new county board, consisting of W. C. Dew, chairman; M. Y. Stokes, jr., J. A. Allen, T. L. Adams of Star and S. J. Casey of Mullin.

Mr. Bushick has recommended Mr. Gilliam to Austin for county administrator of Mills county.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS ARE NOW AVAILABLE

The Art and Civic Club has installed at the Texas Louisiana - Power Co. office a demonstration library, just received from the State Library at Austin. An invitation is extended to the public to read and enjoy it.

To quote letter from Miss Edwina Gore, Library Organizer: "The library consists of about 250 volumes—a hundred books are chosen for boys and girls, about a hundred for recreational reading for adults and the remainder are informational books with special emphasis on the useful arts."

"All the Newberry prize books will be sent you in this library. The Newberry medal is the award made by children's libraries for the most distinguished contribution of the year to the literature for American children.

"The terms of the loan: The books may be kept one year. They must be made available to county and rural people; no charges other than for fines and lost books may be made, and transportation charges must be paid both ways.

"The purpose of a demonstration library is to stimulate reading habits and create a desire for free library service which may crystallize into a county library movement.

"I think it is splendid that you have made such good use of the traveling libraries that you are ready to graduate to a larger collection.

"I hope your readers will enjoy the books as much as I have enjoyed selecting them and seeing them on their way."

The Art and Civic Club is indeed grateful to Mr. Sammie Smith and to Miss Harriet Langford for the cheerful, efficient manner in which the libraries have been handled by them for the past two years.

The Art and Civic club is thankful to Neal Dickerson for his kindness and generosity in donating the material for a book case in which the new books for the library can be kept.

BUSY BEE

FIFTH SUNDAY MEETING

After consulting some of the Baptist brethren, who are interested in our work in Mills county, it is the decision to postpone the fifth Sunday meeting of July, which was to be held with the Caradan church. The postponement is on two or three grounds: First, the preaching force will be busy in several meetings. Second, the county association convenes a few days later, at which time the matters of interest can be looked after. Third, the fifth Sunday meeting in October will be expected to be held with the Caradan church.

Pastor at Caradan.

Tells How She Lost 15 Pounds of Fat

RHEUMATISM GONE TOO

Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter:

"I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I was weighed and find I am now only 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am so pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss) E. L. P.

Overweight and rheumatic poisoning often go together. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—little by little that ugly fat goes; slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful, energetic—more so than ever before in your life!

Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all drug stores—a jar lasts four weeks and costs not more than 85c.

EXTENSION OF PAVEMENT ON HIGHWAY 81 TO COMANCHE TO BE ASKED

An extension of pavement on highway 81 from Fredericksburg north, opening new territory to San Antonio, will be backed by San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, according to Porter Whaley, manager of the chamber.

Conferences have been held here with directors of the chamber of commerce by M. Y. Stokes, jr., of Goldthwaite, who pointed out the advantage the improvement would be to San Antonio, as well as his home town, after which he was assured a delegation from San Antonio would appear before the state highway commission in favor of the plan when a hearing was held. An attempt will be made to take a large delegation from San Antonio.

It is planned to use part of the $24,000,000 federal aid allotted to Texas for laying the pavement. The road is already a designated state highway and no trouble from that source could develop.

From Fredericksburg the highway passes through Llano, San Saba and Goldthwaite to Comanche. There it connects with the Fort Worth highway, making a hard-surfaced road from San Antonio to Fort Worth. The route from here to Fredericksburg would be over No. 9, a paved highway which has already been designated for widening and straightening in Bexar county.

The route would be in addition to highway 60, which leads into north Texas, but considerably east of the No. 21 route.

Whaley pointed out the No. 31 route would open up an entirely new territory to San Antonio.—San Antonio Express.

FOOD AND EVOLUTION

Ease in securing food is the greatest factor in the development of a species, declares Dr. M. C. Young of England. Securing food is absolutely necessary to life, and many of the lower forms of life, consisting of only a few cells have scarcely changed in eons, because their whole life had to be spent in obtaining food, digesting and eliminating it. Higher forms of life, which digest food outside the body cells take much less time for feeding and have time to develop.

WHAT NO REALITY

Professor Henri Pieron of the Sorbonne provided the sensation of the week at the Chicago meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science when he outlined his proof that our lives are only a dream, and that we have no actual contact with reality. After arduous researches in the application of quantum mechanics to sensation and consciousness Dr. Pieron has found that between us and reality there is an insurmountable barrier, beyond which our knowledge may never pass. We do not see and hear and feel objects themselves the learned Parisian insists, but we register symbols or shadows of the real things. Describing in detail the infinitely elaborate "telephone system" of the human body and mind, the professor assures us that it is a marvelous mechanism, sensitive to infinitesimal shading of light and sound and taste, but it is not reality we know—it is only a shadow of reality. Doubtless the eminent French psychologist is right. He has ample proof for all he maintains. But reality as he defines it does not worry most of us greatly. It might be illuminating to cross-question the professor and see what he thinks about the things we call reality. Suppose, for example, that Dr. Pieron were fired from the Sorbonne faculty, and his investments went bad, and there was no food in the refrigerator. Suppose that endless searches for a job producing nothing. Would the professor admit that he was up against a reality? Or would he still maintain it was merely a shadow of reality? There can be little doubt that he would shelve his quantum theory of sensation and agree that there are pleasant and unpleasant realities in this world of dreams, and that for all our remoteness we can experience them. The "insurmountable barrier" is not enough to insulate us from realities of this sort. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

HOW UNCLE SAM CLOTHES AND EQUIPS YOUNG SUMMER CAMPERS

How a Citizens Military Training camp candidate is "processed" and outfitted, in jig time, at a typical summer camp, has been told by a regular army officer who, a few years ago, was in charge of the supply detail at one of these camps.

The officer is Capt. Frederick S. Doll, 3rd Infantry, Fort Snelling, Minn. Writing in "The Mess Kit," a bound volume published by the C. M. T. C. unit at Camp Knox, Kentucky, Capt. Doll said:

"Little does the layman know of the hours of planning and hours of labor spent by the regular army officers and men in preparing this immense machine for the reception of candidates and successful conduct of camp. Pains are taken to see that all equipment is on hand to issue, then to distribute it so that it reaches the candidate in good condition and is delivered to him without confusion.

"Can you conceive of thoroughly and properly fitting a man with all articles of clothing, including shoes, in seventeen and three-fifths seconds? It was done at this camp. A civilian entered the front door of what we called 'The Mill' and left the back door a thoroughly clothed camper, wearing Uncle Sam's uniform, in that record time.

"The candidates thus were given a taste of how, in time of war, an immense military machine functions without confusion.

The candidate enters the medical examining room fully dressed and carrying a suit case; he strips his clothing off and is physically examined. If accepted he is told to put on his underwear, hang his clothing on a coat hanger, cover it with a paper bag and carry it to the clothing warehouse. At the first booth he turns in his civilian clothes and receives a claim check for them. These clothes, guarded by military police, are transported to barred warehouses where they are kept until they are returned to the candidate at the end of encampment.

"Next our candidate is handed a barrack bag and belt. He is then taken in tow by a regular army soldier who keeps the boy smiling while he measures his waist and inseam and calls out, let us say '33-29.' At a snap of the fingers, breeches size 33-29 are put into the boy's hands and he puts them on. The regular inspects the fit, corrects it if it is necessary, gives the candidate another pair and then hands him over to another soldier who fits him with a blouse. So on, down the line, until the candidate is finished off with a hat and four pairs of socks, and exits from the clothing room.

"The candidate puts on a pair of socks and enters the shoe room. There he steps into a shoe-fitting machine and is told to put all his weight on his left foot.

A sergeant measures the foot, calls out the shoe size, and an officer who is watching the process confirms it and jots down the size on a paper. The candidate steps off the machine, receives the shoes, puts them on and steps upon a table where another officer inspects the fit. "Satisfied that the boy has comfortably fitted footwear, this officer O. K.'s the boy's paper and the candidate moves to the outer door where his clothing paper is carefully checked to make sure he has all his clothing. The candidate then receipts for his clothing and passes out into the camp area.

"Guides take the clothed candidates then to their respective organizations. The policy of the regular army personnel was to keep good natured no matter what happened, and to keep the boys moving and smiling. It is a pleasure to state that even during the hours of most strenuous labor, when men had to eat, while working, every officer and soldier, though hot physically, kept cool mentally.

"A total of 4046 candidates were clothed in this efficient manner during a total of 23 working hours. At times candidates were turned out at the rate of one man every 12 1-2 seconds!"

This particular encampment, says Capt. Doll, ended on July 31; on the 25th, companies of the C. M. T. C. battalion marched to the civilian clothing warehouse, and received their civilian clothing back at the rate of 150 men every 12 minutes.

Uniforms and equipment were turned in to organization commanders and the youths went happily on their way, few of them aware that their officers were working day and night to get the property turned back into the quartermaster's hands. Few realized that every piece of government equipment had to be accounted for. Every necktie, pair of socks, hat, cord, knife, fork, spoon, etc., must be returned or accounted for on surveys.

Even during the winter months preparations are being made for the reception of the candidates the following summer. Capt. Doll reminds us. The camp quartermaster requisitions supplies and equipment. He sees that all his warehouses are adequately equipped to handle the peak loads of summer. He has all serviceable used equipment completely renovated, all blankets and clothing washed and cleaned, buttons sewed on shirts, and sees that other necessary minor repairs are made.

Capt. Doll, in his summary, disclosed that the C. M. T. C. candidates were uniformly courteous, gentlemanly and obedient, that they displayed a fine spirit of patriotism and that to their parents, credit is due for the good breeding of those sons who are the nation's leaders of tomorrow.

The supply officer also had nothing but praise for the regular army men on the detail with him. "During periods of physical and mental strain," he declares, "they worked intelligently and arduously. Their honest, conscientious efforts deserve highest praise. Not one man fell down on any duty assigned him."

ALUMINUM TO FOLLOW IRON

Man kind has progressed through the stone and bronze ages and is now at the end of the iron age, according to Prof. Colin Funk of Columbia University. There is more aluminum than iron in the earth's crust, he says, and aluminum is lighter and can be made just as strong as steel for most purposes.

Railroads, he predicts, will lighten their equipment by using this metal and speed up trains to 100 miles an hour to compete with growing air traffic. Transatlantic boats will also be much lighter and operate at higher speeds, while buildings will do away with heavy walls and be constructed almost entirely of glass and light metal.

He predicts that we will be well into the new age in another ten years.

WATCH OUT

The orgy of spending to which various agencies of the federal government are committed under the plans for national recovery...

The primary purpose of the government's emergency expenditures, and remember that practically all of the money it is to spend in this campaign is borrowed money...

Cities, counties and states are making a wild scramble for federal funds with the understanding that only 70 per cent of the loan need be repaid...

Several years ago there was an epidemic of hotel building. Today there are sadder and wiser people in many communities throughout the state...

Another danger is to the farmer who will soon receive the government's checks for his participation in the cotton limitation program. The farmer who now spends this money carelessly...

Government experts are making and supervising the plans. But they cannot be expected to extend their paternalism to the point of insuring wise management on the part of individuals and communities...

This much is sure: The more we waste, the more we will have to regret when the day of reckoning arrives. Watch out!

JUST A PUPPY

Except to his owner, a little boy of six, Gonny wasn't much of a dog to brag about. The only distinguished thing about his ancestry was his apparent kinship to every tribe of dogdom...

Gonny was only three months old and too young to know any tricks, but he had a big dog's bark, and he seemed to know that the yard where he lived belonged to his little master...

Gonny was just a puppy. He didn't know anything about loyalty or duty or caution. But at three o'clock the other morning, when a sneaking prowler sought to prize open the storm-house door...

But that kick had found its mark, just under Gonny's chin, and its force broke his puppy neck. Without a whimper, Gonny died. And there next morning his little master found him, cold in death, out by the storm-house door...

Next day they dug a grave for Gonny and gave him a decent burial. Now his bark, joyful for his friends and menacing to unknowns, is no longer heard. No more will his little master see the friendly wagging of his curly tail...

But this lesson he has learned and repeats with pride, and that is that even a puppy may do his duty—and die for it—like a man.

FORWARD MARCH

Commenting on the six hundred American veterans who were recently sent to C.C.C. work camps from Camp Bullis, General C. R. Howland, commander of the Second Division and Fort Sam Houston...

The morale of these unemployed veterans was also noticeably good. They knew that no matter how hard the work that faced them might be, with the army in charge they would be assured of plenty of good food and comfortable living conditions...

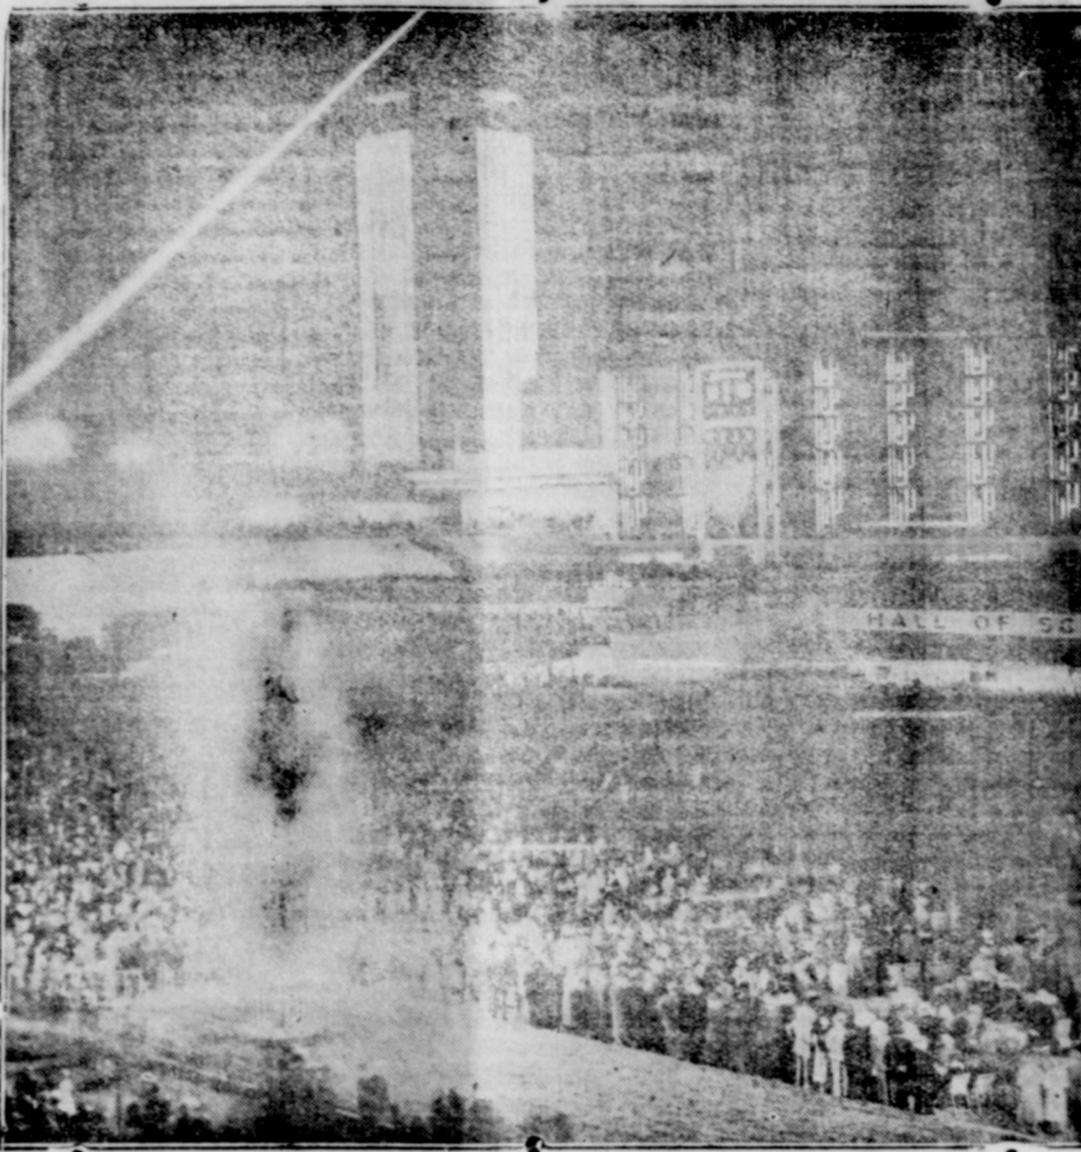

It is not a submergence of initiative, but a recognition of the advantages of co-operation over unrestrained competition. General Howland's observations are especially worthy of consideration...

THEY CAN, IF THEY CAN

One thousand pressure cookers and 2,286,000 cans have been purchased by the Texas Relief Commission for county relief committees to use in putting up food for next winter.

What has proved good business for the thrifty householder is equally good for the unemployed. Now while fresh vegetables are plentiful and cheap it is logically the time to put them up for use next winter. Two good purposes are served: Useful employment is given the unemployed now, and hunger will be averted later...

Where Science Is Triumphant—

Hall of Science, Chicago Exposition.

THE AGE OF SCIENCE

Certain prophets of our times have predicted that the world is going to pot because modern science has over-mechanized it to the expense of the indispensable human element...

We may start with that branch of science whose subject matter is most remote from us—astronomy or the study of the stars. So far away is even the nearest of the fixed stars from our earth that Newcomb says if the earth were represented by a mustard seed in the center of the United States, the sun would be represented by an apple forty feet away...

about them, mankind might still be suffering from the Black Plague and kindred pestilences which for centuries kept the population of Europe at a standstill and its civilization stagnant.

Other mysteries of every day life are simplified at the exposition. The air we breathe is divided up into its various elements, and their characteristics displayed. The air is liquified and made to play queer pranks at sub-zero temperatures...

Science may have made our life more complex, more difficult to comprehend and master, but it has at the same time made it vastly more interesting, more comfortable and more stimulating.

KEEPING UP WITH TEXAS

MANY TEXAS COUNTIES PLAN ROAD SYSTEMS

Though the state highway commission will award no contracts for new construction at this month's meeting it will nevertheless be perhaps the busiest of the year. County and community delegations bidding for a share of the $24,444,000 allotted to Texas from the federal government's 400-million-dollar highway fund...

As Chairman Wood has explained, at this time the commissioners can only hear the petitions; decision as to priority must be deferred. On that point the United States Bureau of Public Roads will have the final say, in any event. The bureau has stated that preference will be given those proposals for which surveys and plans have been completed...

State highway Engineer Gilchrist lately reported that Texas had 15 million dollars' worth of proposed new construction at that stage. As those enterprises—for which rights-of-way are in hand—have been formally approved, surveyed and planned, they almost certainly will come first. Then only about 10 million dollars would remain for the items which the delegations now seek to have approved.

However, the commission will have resources other than the federal fund. The gasoline tax should produce at least 24 million dollars for road purposes this year, and automobile registration fees should yield not less than 4 millions. Assuming that the entire federal fund is to be available this year, Texas should have some 52 million dollars for its state highway system. Should the government money be distributed over two years, more than 40 millions still would be provided for 1933.

Therefore, Texas cannot escape a highway-building boom, which should put many men to work, both directly and indirectly. Those industries that supply road materials and machinery will not be the only ones to profit. Every group that furnishes people with necessities—including the farmers—will share in the distribution of that 40 millions.

So far as practicable, road-workers are to be employed in their own communities and available jobs are to be distributed on a 30-hour-week basis. Those conditions, as well as the desire for good roads, account for the strong bidding at Austin.

In passing upon petitions, the commission is bound to consider each from a state-wide viewpoint. However, most of the works sought are obviously meritorious. For examples, Cadwell's No. 142, the Hill Country's No. 81, Kimble's No. 4, Wilson's No. 168, Comal's Nos. 2 and 46 mostly represent links in considerably traveled cross-state routes—San Antonio Express.

The Voice of the Press

THE CRIME CHALLENGE TO AMERICA

The increase in the crime of kidnaping, now holding the headlines in all papers, comes as a sort of baptism of fire for Joseph B. Kennan, just appointed assistant attorney general of the United States in charge of the contemplated campaign on racketeers and gunmen.

Mr. Kennan hails from Cleveland, which has known racketeers and political corruption of its own and comes to the national capital recommended for his courage, unimpeachable integrity and settled habit of getting results.

The kidnaping crime is obviously one hard to reach through the ordinary agencies of the law. It requires neither any such organization or such armament as we have in the habit of associating with the liquor and dope rackets, or the bondage of terror imposed on all types of legitimate business. If it continues to prove as lucrative and as safe as recent widely publicized cases have shown it to be we must be prepared for a great increase in it. It is bound to attract all the underworld gentry which finds the sledding hard in other rackets.

Thus a quick apprehension and stern punishment of the men guilty of the recent outrages is most urgent. Local authorities should do the work, but if they can't then the public will welcome every possible federal effort, and will hail Mr. Keenan as a national hero if he can do the job.—Houston Chronicle.

BANKERS' PART

Criticism of banks and bankers has become one of the chief indoor and outdoor sports. There never was a time when all bankers were above reproach, but on the other hand there never has been a time when any group of men devoted themselves more conscientiously to the restoration of normal business than bankers are now doing. They make themselves felt in many useful ways outside the normal routine of banking. For example, Tennessee's last year deficit was ten million dollars, of which amount eight million is owing the public school teachers. The teachers have devoted them-

VACATION TIME

The best part of the year here. The fish are biting, swimming pools are calling, easy to form a foursome of the country club. It's weather for horseback riding, other words it's time to get time for getting out in the great outdoors; time for a vacation.

Do you remember the bleak days of last winter you were wishing for summer? Well, at last those have arrived. It is time to advantage of those days.

Forget your troubles for at least one day and go out and enjoy nature. Take along a group of friends to enjoy the day you and your family.

To our mind you will be more benefitted by such a excursion than you possibly will be by being tied to your desk, every day in the year.

Although such excursions cost a little money, that will be well spent, it will be in circulation and thus the next fellow a chance vacation trip.

Hamilton

Farmers and housewives of Hamilton county will be aided in providing food for canning months through the allotment of 50,000 cans. Twenty canners of twenty sealers, according to recent report coming from College Station.

The cotton acreage reduction law in Hamilton county, up to using the Wednesday night, resulted in approximately 1000 farmers signing up for the deduction of about 13,000 acres of cotton. Up to going to press Thursday noon the local central committee had approved 770 contracts covering 10,730 acres. The annual home coming celebration held at Indian Gap last Monday, July 9, was attended by a number of Hamilton people. It was estimated that there were some 300 home folk and visitors present for the celebration, which was held in the new park on the Rappe place, some 10 miles northwest of Indian Gap.

Brownwood

Mrs. Frances M. Taylor, 80, mother of Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, died at her home near May Tuesday, July 11, 1935.

A number of communities are planning to make the plowing up of cotton a festive occasion. It is planned for neighbors to meet on certain days when the inspectors would be in their communities to measure the cotton.

Lake Brownwood claimed its first victim Saturday night when Lee Moody, former Daniel Baker college football star and well known local youth, was drowned while swimming with a group of companions. Moody's body remained in the lake for 54 hours, in spite of continued efforts to locate it, and was only recovered about 6 o'clock Tuesday morning.

A resolution, reciting the urgent need for additional relief funds in Brown county and requesting that the full amount asked by the Brownwood Relief Committee for July and August be graded, was adopted at a meeting Thursday morning in the county court room. The meeting was attended by members of the Brown county commissioners court, the Brownwood city council, the newly created county council, members of the relief committee, chamber of commerce officials, and other interested citizens. County Judge Courtney Gray presided.

Brown county farmers will receive $135,211.24 in cash and options on 3355 bales of government cotton within the next few weeks, it was revealed Thursday, after the government's cotton acreage reduction campaign had been brought to a successful close Wednesday night. A total of 1173 farmers had signed contracts or supplemental agreements to plow up 17,181 acres of Brown county cotton. This represents 3,669 acres more than the government's minimum quota for this county, which was 13,512 acres.—Banner-Bulletin.

What will amount to a three per cent reduction in the light rates for users of electricity will become effective in Comanche September 1, when the 3 per cent federal tax which has been paid for over a year by the consumers will be paid by the power and light company.

There were seven more marriages in Comanche county in 1932 than there were in 1931, according to a report just released by the U. S. census department. In 1931 there were 148 marriages as compared to 155 in 1932. The average rate of marriages in this county last year was one every 211-31 days. Divorces in Comanche county numbered 20 in 1932, same number as during the preceding year. There was one marriage annulment in 1932 and none in 1931.—Chief.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Beachwear—Now Style Highlight

Fashion's theme song for mid-summer lazy days strikes its dominant chord in beachwear. And whether you go to the seashore to swim or to simply acquire sun tan, there are beach togs for every need. Swim suits of any material you wish—rubber, cotton, linen, silk, satin and velvet, to say nothing of the classic wool—and a limitless array of practical and amusing beach accessories. If you want to be very dressy, there are the specially processed crinkled rayon velvets in such smart colors as coral, royal blue and black, with matching wide brimmed hats and sandals with cork heels and soles. Also for dressy beachwear is the black lacquered satin suit and a lacquered peau d'ange in sun color, royal blue and black. Smart and gay are the swim suits in checked ginghams and the various linens and cottons in stripes, checks and polka dots. Striped gabardine, one notes, is much in the swim this summer, along with the various other swim suit materials fashioned in a variety of styles—including backless brassiere, adjustable straps, tie-around tops and the rest. French blue, black, independence blue, Castilian red, jade and gold are favored colors.

Vacation Styles for Your Own Back Yard

Don't be too forlorn if you can not journey to far away places for your vacation, for it's smart and practical this summer to live in your own back yard. And it's amazing what a lot of real vacation relaxing atmosphere you can achieve right at your own door step. With a few pieces of porch or garden furniture—buy it in the natural and paint or duco it yourself, if you wish—add a few pillows in colorful, glazed chintz, rough tweedy linen crash or waterproof lacquered fabrics.

The trend, just now, for reflecting in the home vacation setting the influence of far away places is as delightful as it is limitless in opportunities. Take for example, for your inspiration the East Indies—the goal of much recent cruising—a d which has influenced the decoration of some of the season's smartest seashore cabanas. This same influence, reflected in the patterns and vivid colorings of new fabrics inspired by Javanese and Balinese ceremonial robes, can fairly transport you to these charming, lazy islands. For just such a locale, New York shops are featuring distinctively original and picturesque new prints in bright browns and tans. One very striking in its Balinese effect is carried out in shorts of rich brown and tan print worn with a white jacket and a bright red sash, matching a twist of red and white cotton fashioning a bandana turban.

New American Dinnerware

Table china built on new architectural lines and featuring permanent ceramic colors was shown in a preview just held in New York. American dinnerware distinctively American, they term it, because of its lines suggesting the newer simplified architecture and a quality and treatment in the permanent ceramic colors used, which blends readily into modern home settings. Furthermore, it is decidedly inexpensive.

Flowers, fish and birds all figure in the new patterns. One known as "bouquet" features a closed flower spray in Beidermeier fashion. Suggestive of our grandmother's patchwork quilts is a "calico" pattern with old fashioned gingham and calico pieces furnishing the motif for a stylized tulip spray. Geese in high flight, with the glaze of the china furnishing the background of the pattern, characterize the set called "Flight," with maroon edging the pieces. A pattern suggested as fitting for a strictly modern setting, and one especially appropriate for late supper or, perhaps, home bar or game room, is one known as "Pals," featuring tropical fish in a setting of aquarium or fish bowl weeds done in reddish brown sepia tones.

Other flower patterns are "Fiesta," with petunias and dahlias arranged in bowknot and giving an all-over chintz effect, and "Primavera" (springtime), featuring tiger-lily, cow-lily, snapdragon and old-fashioned pinks. The pieces are edged in bold blue line. In addition to the practical simple styling of this new dinner ware and the use of colors that will not come off with wear and washing, there are such other practical features such as cream pitchers with covers, handles on cream and sugar bowls counter-sunk to avoid projections, and covered dishes built high, making them adaptable for use as casseroles, salad bowls or, perhaps, cookie jars. Relish dishes are designed with one side curved up and the other side down, making it easy to arrange a group of such dishes as a center piece for hors d'oeuvres, jellies and so forth. Plates are made in a way to provide greater eating surface, with edges curved upwards and fluted or scalloped to avoid spilling of food.

Your Cotton Checks

When you receive your cotton checks remember that this is the money you would ordinarily receive for your cotton crop in the fall. If you have bought merchandise on fall time, this money should go to the merchants who have extended you credit.

PAY DEBTS NOW

Even if you have no definite understanding about when your account is to be paid, it is only good judgment to pay your debts first. The government is trying to make it easy for the farmer to reduce his indebtedness. It is to your own interest to co-operate with it.

FAIR PLAY

The merchants who have credited you will appreciate your payments now. They are looking to you to play fair with them as they have been fair with you. Don't disappoint them.
