

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 8, 1934

NUMBER FORTY-ONE

Highway Work Starts Soon

The state highway commission has advertised for bids for work on highway No. 7 to be received on June 18. This gives assurance that the commission has not forgotten the project, but will have the work under way at no far distant day, although the work under the contract will not be started for a few weeks. This is the highway from Mullin to Goldthwaite and the project has been under consideration for several months and the portion from Mullin to Brown county line has been graded and drained for some time. It is understood the entire roadbed will be hard surfaced eventually, but the grading will help a lot and after the grading becomes settled no doubt the topping will be put on.

The designation of the highway, as outlined in the order from the highway commission says it is grading and drainage structures for highway 7, ten miles; and bridges over Mullin branch, Mullin and Browns creeks for the same highway.

The Eagle has it on good authority that teams are being contracted to begin work on highway 81, between Goldthwaite and the river, next Monday morning.

BIG BARBECUE

Six hundred milk producers of Mills county and their friends enjoyed a barbecue at Goldthwaite Wednesday evening as guests of H. H. Kaufman, manager of the Goldthwaite Dairy Products Co. Local products were featured as trimmings for the barbecue.

Brief addresses on milk production were made by Grant H. Johnson, manager of the creamery department of the Fort Worth Poultry & Egg Co., Prof. H. N. Smith, director of the dairy department of John Tarleton College, at Stephenville and W. P. Weaver, county agent of Mills county, John B. Collier, president of the Fort Worth Poultry & Egg Co., spoke on milk prices.

The Goldthwaite Dairy Products Co is one of the pioneer cheese factories of this section. It has recently been enlarged and its capacity increased and milk producers of this section are being encouraged to increase the quantity and quality of their milk, the sales of which bring them a tidy year-round income.

Guests at the barbecue included, in addition to the speakers named above, E. T. Hord of Fort Worth and the following managers of central Texas cheese factories and produce buyers: A. H. Kaufman, Round Rock; Jess Brown, Hamilton; Oran Ferguson, Stephenville and T. E. Majors and George McKenzie of Comanche.

CENTENNIAL PLANS

The people of Mills county, in accord with those of all other portions of the state, are intensely interested in making a success of the Texas Centennial, which is to be celebrated in 1936. It now seems that there is ample time for preparation, but the intervening months will pass rapidly, hence no time should be lost in perfecting plans for a proper representation of the resources of all parts of the state.

Mills county has three representatives in preparing for the celebration, as far as the Eagle is advised and there may be others who have not reported. E. B. Gilliam is the county chairman, Mrs. Joe A. Palmer is chairman for the women's department and R. M. Thompson is member of the state board.

There was a meeting of the state board in Austin Wednesday, at which time plans were formulated for going forward with the work.

The site of the major centennial observance will, according to statute, be the city offering the best "financial inducement and support."

Methodist Notes

A good audience greeted the pastor of the Methodist church Sunday morning. The service for the evening hour was dismissed so the people could attend the service, the last of the series, at the Baptist church.

I do not know with what result the meeting closed at the Baptist church, possibly this will never be known. A meeting, such as this, with a preacher like Dr. Scarborough, may possibly never be interpreted into earthly knowledge. The power of it should go on so long as time results.

The above leads me to suggest that the influence of a good life shall never end. But recently I heard, as I have often heard in a pretty long life time, a gentleman quoting from McGuffey's Readers, the books that most of us older people used as text books in the years passed. I think I am correct when I say that no lesson ever appeared in any of those readers that did not close with an application of the lesson taught. I remember that one of my teachers, a young man disposed to skepticism, called the attention of the class to the fact that in every lesson there was always a very reverend reference to the Deity. The memory of those far off days force me to the conclusion that if we had more text books of this sort, books that would bring the tender minds of childhood face to face with eternal verities, we would likely find a preventative for much of the crime that is in the world today.

Thinking along this line I came in possession of a report in the daily papers of one of our Texas teachers, driving home daily to his pupils the great truths of sin and its effect upon the young life, and the necessity of tracking the precepts of the highest and best. Doubtless there are those who will have some unkind things to say about the teacher. He may be accused of mixing religion with the school work. He may lose his job, as have many another, simply because he or she has tried to teach good citizenship, a citizenship that would keep their children from ruin.

But, after all, what does this matter. The teacher, the preacher, anybody to whose care has been entrusted the young life of our country, would better beg his or her bread upon the streets than to betray the sacred trust confided to them as the guardians of the youth of our land. There are those who understand this, who practice it in their daily toil and who would burn at the stake rather than betray the best interest of those committed to them. And furthermore, there are those still left who appreciate such conduct. We may think the world sordid, and have real reason for believing that people do not really care what kind of principles are instilled into the minds of the youth of our land. But this is far from the truth. There may be such, but all are not of that type. Some years ago, by way of illustration, I was standing near a fine mother whose daughter was graduating from the high school. Another mother approached her and congratulated her upon the graduation of her daughter. The mother dropped her head, tears came into her eyes, and she said, "I thank you, but I am not sure that I am glad that Mary is finishing high school. As a matter of fact I am sorry that it is so. I feel that I am sustaining a great loss possibly an irreparable one, as she now passes from the influence of Mrs. Blank, whose life as a teacher has made such a contribution to the character of my daughter."

Yes, there is still left those who care, and who wholeheartedly appreciate every effort that is made to impress our children with the sacredness of life, and try to build into their lives the indestructible thing, a character that the hardest storms can not destroy. There may be some of the other sort, but this sort still remains. J. S. BOWLES

Candidates Busy In Campaign

The political campaign is well underway and in every section people are taking interest in the candidates and their platforms.

The closing of the list for state and district candidates revealed that all who had made themselves known in the campaign had filed for a place on the ticket and the drawing near of the time when the county and precinct lists will be closed has caused candidates to make sure their names were properly enrolled with the county clerk. June 16 is fixed by the statutes as the time limit for these filings and after that date the county chairman will call the executive committee together to arrange for holding the first primary on July 23.

There are no new candidates this week and the probabilities are that the crop of candidates has been harvested.

Gubernatorial Candidates

The list of candidates for governor whose names will appear on the first primary ticket is:

C. C. McDonald of Wichita Falls, Tom Hunter of Wichita Falls, James V. Allred of Wichita Falls, Maury Hughes of Dallas, Clint Small of Amarillo, Edgar E. Witt of Waco, Edward K. Russell of Red River county, W. W. Nance, Sr., of Fort Worth.

COTTON CONTRACT CUTS

Cutting cotton production figures in cotton adjustment contracts was the rule and not the exception in Texas and everywhere else, according to the State Cotton Review Board. The farmer who feels badly that his first figures giving average five year production were not accepted by the board, and were reduced by the county committee to put them in line with the county allotment, may feel better if he knows that nearly all farmers took similar cuts.

When all the cotton production figures put by farmers into their contracts were added up it was found that they ran over the county allotments by a rough average of 20 per cent, the board states. In some counties the over-run went more than 40 per cent.

This does not mean that farmers were dishonest in giving their production figures, the board says but that farmers had no way of knowing exactly what they had produced for five years. Production figures were of necessity estimates based largely on memory. The same was true of acreage figures. A farmer assumed he had 100 acres in a field but it might have been 90 acres or 110 acres if actually measured.

On the other hand, the Bureau of Crop Estimates knows with great accuracy the total bales produced in Texas every year. The average of this for five years became the Texas allotment. This was apportioned out among counties on the basis of local ginnings, cross county ginnings taken into account. It was imperative if there was to be a cotton program at all, that the total cotton production given by farmers in their contracts added to that of non-signers not to exceed the known state total. That is why cuts were necessary, the board explains.

USE OF RENTAL ACRES

The following telegram to the county agent is self explanatory.

College Station, Texas.
W. P. Weaver, County Agent, Goldthwaite, Texas:
Restrictions on use of contracted acres are modified to permit the planting and harvesting of all forage crops except corn and grain sorghums, and to permit pasturing these contracted acres and harvesting them. This applies to wheat and corn-hog contracts.

O. B. MARTIN, Director

Commissioners Will Meet

Next Monday is the regular time for the meeting of the Mills county commissioners court. These meetings are always important, for the business of the county has to be checked over, accounts have to be audited and official reports inspected. One reason that the officers have so little trouble in keeping the county records in proper form is that these monthly reports are made and carefully compared, hence there is not a great lot of work to do in keeping everything in balance.

Those having business with the court should have the time of the June term in mind.

RURAL REHABILITATION

Plans are being slowly developed for rural rehabilitation, and the Mills county relief office requests that any person owning a vacant house in the county which can be leased by the relief office together with ten to twenty-five acres of land, apply to the relief office for particulars. Lease forms, tenure agreements, mortgage forms, etc., have been received by the office for execution in connection with this new program. Due to the small amount of rainfall that this county receives it is not expected that a large number of families can be benefited by this program, but it is hoped that the landlords will co-operate with the relief organization in those instances wherein it is evident that beneficial results can be obtained by placing a relief roll family on a small tract of land.

The lease agreement provided by the Texas Rural Communities, Inc., provides for a rental of the tract from the landlord on a basis of repairs on the house to an amount of $75 for material plus the necessary labor, also repair to fences, outhouses, etc., and in return for a cow or a team which the landlord might be able to furnish the tenant shall repay the landlord for the rent on such stock in labor. The relief commission contemplates furnishing to the relief client also such capital goods as cows, pigs, etc., but only in such instances where the client can show that he can feed same. This will not be on the basis of an outright grant, but will be furnished the client on credit arrangement, which is being worked out now.

It now appears to be unlikely that the present session of the United States senate will favor the bill authorizing the payment in full of the government obligation commonly known as the bonus bill. A report said yesterday: "Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, said today an 'overwhelming' majority of the finance committee had voted for an unfavorable report on the house bill to pay in full the soldiers' bonus."

"He added he would submit the report to the senate immediately and let the measure go on the calendar to await its turn at the jammed session-end."

"Senate leaders predicted this would prevent passage of the $2,200,000,000 measure this session."

BONUS PAYMENT UNLIKELY

There seems to be every good reason why this claim should be paid to the ex-service men and their friends hope the payment will not be longer deferred.

CANDIDATES FILE

The time for filing applications for places on the July primary tickets by state and district candidates has passed, but county and precinct candidates have until midnight of June 16, to file their applications with the county clerk. Those who have not yet filed should make sure of no mistake or oversight by filing at once.

Relief Funds Now Available

Notice comes from the local relief office that direct relief will be resumed this week on a basis of 40 per cent of the budgetary needs of the clients. A small check was received on Thursday morning, which relief officials announce will only run the local office a short while. The case load for the county has been checked and a figure of 40 per cent has been set for each family so as to make the grants to all families proportionate.

It is very doubtful whether a work program can be carried on this month and unless additional funds are allocated it will be impossible to work more than eight or ten persons. It is hoped that further information will be received within the next few days in regard to additional funds.

It is expected that work can be resumed on the city street project by Monday of next week, but on a reduced force.

PLANE CRASH AT HICO

Two men and a woman, all residents of Hico, plunged to their deaths in an airplane that crashed within the limits of that city Wednesday night and burst into flames. The dead are: Earl R. Lynch, 39, pilot; Miss Lola Mae Williamson, 24, passenger; Bill Blair, 26, mechanic.

Almost the entire population of the community was gazing at the plane just at dusk, when it suddenly went into a spin and roared to earth. It grazed over the top of a residence and crashed 100 feet back of the house in a vacant lot. Flames shot from the fuselage and it was thirty minutes before the local fire department had extinguished the fire and the charred bodies of the victims were removed.

The house over which the plane roared before it nosed into the ground was occupied by a family which dashed from the structure.

Crackling flames kept rescuers from attempting to remove the bodies until streams of water had been played on the plane for several minutes.

Lynch, a private pilot, had been flying about five years. Throughout the afternoon he had been taking Hico residents for joy rides in the plane and the fatal trip was to have been the last one of the day.

The plane was owned by Lynch and F. E. Blair, uncle of one of the victims.

PAT MURPHY SPEAKS HERE

Hon. E. E. Murphy, candidate for congress, was advertised to speak here last Saturday night, but upon his arrival here in the afternoon learned of the Baptist revival in progress and as a courtesy he cancelled his night date and spoke to a large crowd on the street that afternoon. The rumbling of the thunder and the approach of the rain interfered somewhat with his crowd and his speech, but he made a good impression on those who heard him. However, the Mills county folk will be glad to have him come back at a time when he can outline his purposes and policies without interference.

ITEMS APPRECIATED

The Eagle sincerely appreciates all local items and local matters written and sent in or reported orally and is always glad to publish them, but events of long ago can not be chronicled as news. Items developing during the current week are the only kind that can be accepted on a news basis. Social gatherings and similar occurrences of a date prior to the last issue of the paper must be allowed to lapse, whereas, the accounts would have been gladly received for the issue in which such articles properly belonged.

Baptist Reminder

FRANKLIN E. SWANNER

MEETING CLOSED

The revival in the Baptist church came to a close last Sunday night and the strong interest maintained throughout the meeting continued to the end of the last service and several conversions were announced at that hour.

The total result of the series of meetings was 26 converts with 22 additions to the Baptist church. Fifteen of these were baptized Sunday afternoon, with a large congregation witnessing the solemn rite.

Dr. Scarborough did some fine preaching and his sermons were of vast benefit in the community as well as in his own denomination.

Rev. Swanner, pastor of the church, made an excellent selection of a helper to conduct the meeting and his church, as well as all other Christian people of the town, gave fine cooperation throughout the meeting.

RIDGE PICNIC

The picnic announced for next Thursday night, Friday and Saturday at Ridge is attracting a lot of attention and there will undoubtedly be a good attendance from all parts of the country. Candidates and others will speak and there is to be free barbecue and other features of entertainment. The program starts with a 3-act play Thursday night, followed on Friday night by a dance, then on Saturday there will be goat roping, a ball game, candidate speaking and other interesting features. The entire program is under the auspices of the P. T. A. of Ridge, of which organization Miss Flowers Lindsey is president, which gives assurance of a most enjoyable occasion.

AN EDITOR HONORED

Editor Harry P. Hornby of the Uvalde Leader has been appointed collector of customs in San Antonio, succeeding Harry L. Sexton, who was formerly secretary to Vice President Garner and was killed in an airplane accident near El Paso last week. Mr. Hornby is a brother-in-law of J. W. Evans of this city, their wives being sisters. Mr. and Mrs. Hornby visited their Goldthwaite relatives some months ago and were appreciated callers at the Eagle office. His appointment received the approval of Vice President Garner and both Texas senators. The announcement of the appointment was received with pleasure in Goldthwaite.

PIPER-KNIGHT

Miss Cassye Knight and Luther Piper were quietly married in the home of Rev. DeHart of Evant last Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

The bride was dressed in powder blue with white accessories. The groom wore a dark business suit.

Those attending were: Miss Billie Jo Williams and William Lee Piper.

Everyone who knows this young couple wish them good luck and happiness. A FRIEND

S. F. MILLER,
I. T. HOWELL,
Trustees.

Good Rain Helps Crops

A good rain fell here last Saturday afternoon and it was pretty general over the county. It came just at the right time, for crops were beginning to need rain and late small grain would have been cut short had the drouth continued a few days longer. This rain revived vegetation of kinds and helped the spirits of the people as well. While this was not as much rain as many believed was needed, it helped a lot and improved the pasture as well as the field crops, gardens and orchards.

GOLDTHWAITE WALLOPS

SAN SABA 16-4

Goldthwaite's power-house battling attack swung into action here last Sunday evening to shell two San Saba hurlers from the mound and to collect a total of seventeen hits, which netted sixteen runs. Every player in the home line-up was credited with at least one run, with Granny Wilcox and C. Page sharing highest honors with three runs each. Brooke Page, Goldthwaite's star hurler, set a present Hill Country League record of fourteen strike-outs.

Individual batting honors for the day were divided between C. Page and Fuzz Heath. C. Page was credited with two doubles and a like number of singles in five times at the plate, while Heath doubled twice, singled once and collected one three base wallop in five trips to the pan. Wilcox came next in line with one triple, a single and one double, his triple in the fourth inning accounting for two runs. Funderburk, San Saba's star hurler, was driven from the mound at the end of the sixth.

CRASHING THRU

The play, "Crashing Thru," by local talent, staged by Miss Marie Kilwer for the benefit of the Lions club, was presented last night at the school auditorium. There was a large attendance and the receipts were doubtless very satisfactory. All of the characters were local people, which gave an added interest to the program and all of the friends of the players were pleased with their performance, and speak in complimentary terms of the entertainment.

Miss Kilwer, who directed the performance, is a professional in that line and is a graduate of the school of the Spoken Word. She has spent several weeks here in preparation for the entertainment and has made a great many friends who are glad to have known her and hope to meet with her again.

A NEGRO WEDDING

To those who know the citizenship and history of Mills county the statement that a negro wedding was pulled off here seems so strange as to be unbelievable, but it is true just the same. The fact that there are no negroes in Mills county has no bearing on the case, as the contracting parties live in Brownwood. They came to Goldthwaite last Saturday and procured what was doubtless the first marriage license ever issued to negroes in Mills county and certainly the first ever issued to negroes by County Clerk Porter. There is a record, however, of a negro divorce having been issued in this county many years ago. Judge E. B. Anderson was the attorney who procured the divorce.

The contracting parties in the wedding Saturday were McDonald Barnes and Mrs. Mae Robinson, and Judge John L. Patterson was initiated into performing marriage ceremonies by officiating on this occasion and the wedding took place in the county clerk's office with an immense audience witnessing the taking of the vows.

It is a half-teacher school and she is well pleased with the outlook for her work. Miss Letta will teach at Trickham again next session.

ROCK SPRINGS

Sunday was a very dull day here as people went other places to see and hear things.

The singing at Center Point was a success Sunday. There were singers there from other counties and they were good singers. The three men from Granbury and the four ladies from Blanket were fine singers. Now Mills county has some good singers, too, and they were present.

I was glad to see the news from "West Mills" last week. Keep it coming, you are welcome. I hope to meet you some day.

Miss Nellie Dee Cooke and Ray Stark and wife came in Friday afternoon from Winters, where Mr. Stark taught a good school this term. Miss Cooke had been visiting them for a week. She was very fortunate in getting her school at Harmony, Texas, not far from Winters. It makes us feel good to know she has a place to teach. She is a very attractive and intelligent girl. She can do more than some teachers. She is a good housekeeper and can also cook. She left Monday morning for John Tarleton at Stephenville to go to school. Horace, her brother, accompanied her to the college.

Last Wednesday ice cream was enjoyed in R. C. Webb's home by Mrs. John McMahan and daughter from Lometa, Otis Allen and family, August Kauchs and wife from town, Una, Waldine, Bernice and Oliver Traylor, Louie Ponder, Collier Ballard, Misses Nevert and Dona Roberds, Landy Ellis and wife, Richard Sowders and wife, J.C. Stark and wife, Mrs. Eula Nickols and Phillip and James. Everybody enjoyed the evening and the cream. It is to be hoped that Collier Ballard and Richard Sowders will be present at the next eating, as they acted very timid and did not eat enough cream. I feel sure they wanted to eat more. Next time it won't be so embarrassing to them and they can eat more.

This place was well represented at the closing service in town last Sunday night. All the sermons were fine. The three young girls sang fine. We were very proud of our neighbor who sang, Sherrill Roberson. He has been away this last school term in Brownwood. We are glad to have him home again.

B. F. Renfro from Ratler was to preach Sunday, but he decided not to preach, as some wanted to go to Center Point and others to Goldthwaite. He spent Saturday night in the J. T. Robertson home.

Mrs. Loy Long and son from town spent last Thursday in the Ellis home. Mr. Long came to take them home and ate supper in that home.

August Cagle and family from San Saba spent Saturday in the Hufstuder home.

Collier and Clifford Ballard dined in the Ellis home Saturday at noon.

Grandmother Pass is taking her vacation in Clyde and Sweet water. We hope she enjoys the summer. Her son will miss her while she is away.

Joe Roberts and family from Rhome visited their parents the first of the week. They have moved back to Goldthwaite.

Ab Sykes, who is here in the trading business, made a horse trade with James Nickols, the stock man, Saturday morning. Mr. Nickols is proud of his trade. Can't say so much for Mr. Sykes as there was one they failed to load in the truck.

Let's not forget the picnic at Ridge next Friday. They will be disappointed if you are not there. They are expecting a large crowd.

Mrs. J. D. Dewbre and girls called in Ira Dewbre's home Monday morning. They took Ira and wife to Mrs. Sena Ezzell's in Big Valley to pick berries.

We welcome J. T. Davis and wife back as neighbors. They have been living in Brown county the past month.

Mrs. Eula Nickols and her brother, Duke Clements, from town have dissolved partnership with their goats. Mrs. Nickols sold to her brother, then bought his sheep. She also bought Dorman Westerman's sheep at Rabbit Ridge. Her son, James, put these trades through.

Mmes. Glenn and Eula Nickols got berries from the Hutchings patch at Center Point Saturday morning.

I noticed the scribe from Center Point was at the singing without her husband Sunday. She looked lonesome, all alone, but I really think she had a good time, as well as everybody else.

The rain was fine Saturday afternoon, but it wasn't enough. We are never pleased.

SHE LOST FAT High Blood Pressure

Here's Today's Live News For Fat Women—And Men, Too. Read It—Please.

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly a year for my health, and for high blood pressure and rheumatism and it helped both. My blood pressure was as high as 290 when I started to take Kruschen. I weighed 255 and now I weigh 214, that is losing 41 lbs. in about nine months and I feel fine. Wouldn't go without Kruschen Salts in the house." Mrs. W. Eckoff, Saginaw, Mich.

Besides melting away ugly, excess fat Kruschen constantly keeps the bowels regular and free from waste that is always apt to poison the system. Fat folks should give Kruschen a month's trial—it never disappoints—you'll feel so much better after taking one inexpensive jar which you can get at any drugstore in the world—keeps you cooler in hot weather.

DELAYED HONORS

A report from Washington Saturday said: "On the thirty-sixth anniversary of the sinking of the Merrimack by Capt. Richard Pearson Hobson in Cuban waters to block the Spanish fleet's escape, congress Saturday voted him recognition by elevating him to the rank of rear admiral with retired pay of $4500 annually. The bill now goes to the White House.

"The aged Spanish-American war hero, who has received no recognition from the government since his resignation from the navy 20 years ago because of ill health, walked into the house galleries shortly after passage of the measure.

"His feat took place in a channel to the Bay of Santiago, Cuba. With a small crew he ran the vessel under the fire of guns of the Spanish battleships."

MYSTERY CLEARED AFTER 29 YEARS

The mystery of the disappearance of a University of South Carolina football mascot has been solved, after 29 years. Workers clearing rubbish from a cellar unearthed the skeleton of a rooster wrapped in the college colors, ribbons bearing the date 1905. Archives revealed that just before the bag game that year the mascot of the "Gamecocks" had disappeared, after a campus stroll, and was never seen again. The chemistler wandered into Alumni "detectives" who rized the cellar, couldn't find its way out, and starved to death.

HERE AND THERE

Women were barred Monday by Kansas City police order from betting establishments and said approximately 2000 women eager to bet on horse races were stopped by signs reading: "Men only" or "no women allowed."

The national house committee on appropriations has given approval to a grant of $5,000,000 to be used in buying highway material to be used in constructing the Inter-American highway from the Texas border to South America.

An order of the Interstate Commerce Commission permitting the Texarkana and Fort Smith railway to close its general offices and shops in Texas was sustained Monday by the supreme court. The decision does not interfere with a Texas law requiring the railroad to maintain an office in Texas.

The emergency relief administration at Washington said Monday that 50,000 farmers in north-west drouth sections had gone to work on a relief program and before the end of the week at least 150,000 would be given jobs. This announcement was made while President Roosevelt and officials of relief agencies conferred on a program for aiding the distressed.

The three pieces belong to the University of Pennsylvania museum.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Theodor's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family." . . . Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

Color and Design Important In the Bathroom

It is just as important to plan for attractive decorative effect for the bathroom as it is for any other room in the house. Color and design in modern fixtures, floors and wall coverings, offer limitless possibilities.

In the bathroom illustrated, varied color and interesting design are supplied in the gay wall paper and in the patterned floor, while fixtures are of white, with a luxurious note in a toilet seat of rich, pearly texture, of thoroughly waterproof Pyralin. An attractive combination with fixtures of this type is a dressing table of the same pearly texture as the toilet seat, adding further to the beauty and convenience of the bathroom furnishings.

White is more than ever important in all decorative schemes, including the bathroom. The above room with its entire design in the background, against which all white is contrasted, with dependence on texture, in pearly effect, for a distinctive note, is strictly in keeping with the modern trend. Floors are often covered with linoleum in a new design, sometimes a geometric, or they may be finished with lacquer which forms a hard proof coating. Black lacquer is especially good in the modern note, as are the new washable wall papers in smart designs.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Vacation Travel Clothes

In Smart Fabric Variety
With vacation time approaching and the new deal stressing more and more leisure, travel clothes and play togs take the spotlight of summer fashions. New York shops just now are filled with new things for every need whether you are off for lands across the sea, a dude ranch in the west, a nearby beach or mountain resort, or for a vacation in your own backyard. Cottons—cool and summery—including homespun effects, seer suckers, tweeds, organdies, ginghams, prints, batistes and muslins, in crisp permanent finish and fast-dyed colors, are noted in flattering frocks for almost any occasion. Vying in style interest with these summer cottons are the many new rayon fabrics—taffetas, failles, satins, alpaca and a variety of new crepes—plain and printed—in smooth, ribbed and knitted weaves. Particularly stressed among these newer synthetics for travel and sports are the new simulated knits, which are featured now not only in some of the smartest sports frocks and beachwear, but in accessories. One very chic ensemble of this type—a beret, handbag and belt set—is made of crocheted rayon string in a pineapple stitch, the beret accented by a jauntily placed composition ornament matching the buckle of the belt and the clasp of the handbag.

Nautical Trend Increases

In Summer Fashions
Nautical's the word now in smart summer fashions—its style importance increasing now that everything in the mode is tied up with string. Knitted string bathing suits and beach coats with rope belts, rope handles on big, roomy beach bags of sailcloth with anchors, bars, stars, pilot wheels and other sea-going motifs. Middy blouses with sailor collars, military capes, cadet shirts, midshipman jackets, costume jewelry of wood and composition with nautical designs are all noted in displays of smart clothes for beach or country. New and distinctive and these groupings are the fine pinneck blouses of rayon, tailored with short sleeves and sailor collar, and worn with new tennis shorts made of white uncrushable linen and designed very much like the men's tennis shorts.

Beret In New Stylings

Important In Mode
The big hat has its place in summer fashions—particularly for garden parties and such occasions—but more important is the refreshingly new summer beret in a variety of new fabrics—intricately draped and decidedly flattering, in new shapes including the coolie, square and Lanvin swirl top. It is being featured just now in stitched silk and rayon taffetas and in some of the new velvet versions in black, white, navy and brown and a lovely new ecyclamen shade that goes well with white for summer. In most stylings the silhouette is fuller with some height at back and side, but maintaining that soft, supple look that always gives a beret distinction. While the crown remains shallow, it doesn't look so shallow. The smart summer vogue for hat with matching gloves and handbag is noted in some of the chic groupings—one shop featuring navy blue in these ensembles—very smart with the white summer jacket suit of cotton, wool, silk or rayon.

Chiffon Jacket Dress

Smart for Cocktail Hour
The chiffon jacket dress in dark colors is highlighted just now among the smart clothes seen at cocktail hour on roofs and the popular side-walk cafes of New York. These dresses—quite tailored in styling and worn over taffeta slips—are noted particularly in navy, brown and black. One also sees some very smart jacket print frocks—these often in large splashy color designs—and which, when jacket is removed, are smart for evening.

Unusual Variety

In Summer Shoes
Oxfords, T-straps, classic opera pumps, sandals and shoes in combinations of two or more of these stylings are all important in the summer shoe mode—with white decidedly important as the summer advances. The all-white shoe in kidskin, nubuck, sea-grain, linen, cotton and rayon is first in favor, with perforations and discreet stitchings in new massed effects—particularly away from the toe and toward the center and back of the shoe—to give a shorter appearance. Saddle effects are important and these, in some models, are carried out in contrasting color—particularly brown. Heels generally are lower and scuffless. One notes them in Cuban, Continental and modified Continental stylings.

Coat Influence Invades Boudoir
Coats and jackets—so important in day and evening mode—have a new style importance in the boudoir—with negligees of silk and rayon styled this season with delightful little coats and jackets—often in matching materials—and carrying out the trim—lace, pipings and whatnot of the negligee. The Oriental influence is seen in some of the newest models.

Style Briefs

Man tailored fashions are now stressed in the smart mode. Dark mannish shirts are much in style favor, worn with checked jacket suit—the jacket buttoned up in front like English school-boy coats.

The current silhouette brings movement in dresses to the front in skirt treatment as well as thru jabots and necklines, which are still high.

Along with the beret in new flattering shapes, the tricorne promises to be popular for fall—also other stylings reflecting Spanish influence of Goya epoch.

Flowers are among the favored themes of the costume jewelry mode. Bracelets, necklaces, clips, pins and hair ornaments feature masses of little flowers often in composition in the various flower colors.

Summer handbags are being shown just now in a wealth of smart practical materials. In the favored white and also in pastel shades—and are all washable. Then there are summer bags with cotton, linen and crepe slip covers that are easily slipped off and laundered.

Woolens threaded with glints of composition are among the smart fabric trends of the fall mode.

Dark net—black, brown and navy in all-over tucking is much in favor for summer jacket frocks. Very chic was one noted in rich brown net with pale pink flower trims, worn with matching pink crepe hat with band of lacquered brown.

PUBLICITY

This is a day of publicity, and the prophets of evil simply can not keep their lights under a bushel. A London physician, apparently jealous of the headlines the brain trust is enjoying, bobs up with a prediction of a world wide epidemic of influenza, which is expected to make its appearance soon.

These epidemics, says the learned doctor, occur about every 40 years, and sweep from one country to another until they have covered the earth and run themselves out.

Lady Says She Took CARDUI for Cramps; Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. . . . Price $1.

He was located at Georgetown, British Guiana, last Wednesday, but permitted to proceed with the ship to Port of Spain.

The government has called on private investors for $900,000,000 more to finance recovery costs. That amount of new borrowing was provided in the treasury's long awaited June financing operations. The $800,000,000 will boost the treasury's ready cash to $2,010,550,698, placing it in a position to meet mounting recovery and relief expenditures over the summer. Expenditures are running about half a million a month. This cash is aside from the two billions more derived from gold devaluation profits and held in a separate currency stabilization fund. The new borrowing will carry the federal debt to its highest level. Floating the new issues will make a total debt of $26,950,017,438. The war time peak, and previous high record was $23,596,701,648. President Roosevelt has set $31,839,000,000 as the "outside limit" of the debt to be incurred in completing the recovery program.

HONOR THESE DAYS!

Regents of the University of Texas are considering a faculty recommendation that certain holidays now observed be abolished and an Easter vacation substituted. Ordinarily, such a suggestion would meet no opposition, but this time the change affects Texas Independence and San Jacinto days.

We frankly deplore any tendency to place less emphasis on Texas' historical period, particularly with the Centennial just over the horizon. Cessation of classes on those days recalls to the minds of 6000 students each year that their great University was won for them by patient devotion and sacrifice. Surely that is education of the finest sort.

We would not presume, of course, to place the events represented by those days over that represented by Easter, but both could be adequately observed. The Daily Texan speaks for thousands of its student readers when it suggests that three or four days could be added to the school year, if necessary, to make the Easter holiday possible.

Perhaps that is the best procedure. At any rate, it is to be hoped by all patriotic Texans that March 2 and April 21 are preserved as holidays at our State University. The tendency should be for even private and denominational schools in Texas to lay more stress on Texas history, rather than for the State University to permit honored days to pass unnoticed on the endless calendar of time.—Texas Weekly.

MAKE AUTO TAGS

The state prison system has installed $35,000 worth of equipment to manufacture 1,500,000 pairs of 1935 license plates for Texas motorists.

It marks the prison system's first attempt to supply the state with motor vehicle registration plates. The price to be paid out of highway funds will be determined by highway commissioners and directors of the prison system.

Prison "artists" already have ordered a varied supply of paint to color 1935 license plates, according to the following chart, in which background colors are listed first:

Passenger cars, maroon and white; commercial cars, grey and black; trailers and tractors black and orange; motor buses green and grey.

Texas motor cars carrying black and white license plates have been designated for exempt class vehicles and generally designate officers' cars.

"UNLOADED" GUN FATALITY

An unloaded gun claimed the life of 17-year-old Jesse Forehand at Miles June 5. He was playing with a group of boys, when one of them playfully pointed the gun at young Forehand and a wad of paper and powder that had been placed in the gun by one of the group, tore a hole in the young man's abdomen, and death followed in a brief time, at a San Angelo hospital, where he had been carried.

Jesse was a brilliant young valedictorian, a recent graduate and had many devoted loved ones. An only son of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Forehand. He is survived by his parents, three sisters and two grandmothers, Mrs. B. F. Stebbins and Mrs. Forehand.

The body was brought here on Tuesday night's train and carried to the home of H. H. Stebbins. Interment was held at Oak View Cemetery Wednesday afternoon.

J. H. Randolph undertaking company had charge of the burial.

The floral offering was beautiful.

Each was read aloud and caused much merriment. Next was a contest where couples were passed a paper, on which was written several lines from twelve popular poems. They were to give the title and author of each. Ida Mae Roberts and Joe Francis Ivy received a novelty trinket box for winning in this.

The game of "Hearts" was played and Wyno Rose Tillman was presented a beautiful picture for winning high score.

A VISIT TO SAN SABA

On Wednesday of last week the editor accompanied D. A. Hamilton and Geo. Willis to San Saba, where we enjoyed a splendid program rendered at the court house by the San Saba Production Credit Loan Association. After the program a barbecue was enjoyed by a crowd of about 200 people, given at the city lake, by the San Saba chamber of commerce.

It is from a spring in the lake that San Saba receives her abundant water supply and three other large springs empty their millions of gallons of water in the lake, then transformed into power to raise the water needed for the city's use into the stand-pipe. A nice grove of willows stands on the bermuda covered banks of the lake to furnish shade for occasions of this kind.

Yes, we had an enjoyable day in San Saba and met several old Mills county friends and hope to enjoy another day with these good people again some day.

SCIENCE WONDER STORIES

Cool Comfort in Hot Weather

WHEN a chemist speaks of dichlorodifluoromethane (and chemists can actually pronounce it) what he really is talking about is Freon, the refrigerant that is so widely used for the air conditioning of trains, warships, merchant ships, office buildings, hotels and homes. And he may well boast of what modern scientific research has done for humanity in this case.

"Freon" is a chemical that can be used in all compression types of refrigerating systems. It is a colorless, almost odorless gas, non-poisonous, non-corrosive, non-flammable and non-inflammable. Even when mixed with air, it is non-explosive; in fact, it will put out fire almost as well as carbon tetrachloride, the material generally used in small fire extinguishers. It is not absorbed by foods, has no effect on flowers, fruits, vegetables, furs, or other materials being refrigerated.

That is what the chemists who made it are so justly proud of. There is such a thing as a perfect refrigerant, this seems to be it. And with the increasing use of mechanical ice boxes, air cooled trains and homes, this refrigerant is worth its long and costly name.

guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Young Saturday. Mrs. Riley Hodges will spend the summer in Brownwood, attending college.

News from Mrs. John Carlisle in San Diego, Cal. is that she is having a very delightful visit and enjoying the beautiful scenery of the west. She expects to be gone a month.

Miss Grace Patterson and Ben L. Patterson of Goldthwaite visited their uncle, R. H. Patterson, Saturday. Miss Patterson left Sunday for San Marcos, where she will resume her college work.

Miss Mabel Smith has returned to C. I. A. at Denton, where she expects to get her degree at an early date. Miss Smith is having a wonderful time in college and seems to be enjoying college life daily.

Miss Katherine Kemp has been elected to teach again at Brooksmith. Miss Kemp is a young lady of this city and taught in this city for several years. Her many friends are glad she has a splendid school.

C. B. Vaughan announces that he will have a picnic at the Vaughan park on Mullin creek July 4. Candidates for the various state, district and county offices will be invited and entertainment of various kinds will be provided. Everyone invited.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ulke of Stamford spent their vacation in southwest Texas and en route home came by here for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Clendennen, and her sister, Miss Orell, returned home with her Saturday for a visit. Owing to the illness of Jack Clendennen, Miss Orell was called home Monday.

Mrs. Wm. M. Andrews and Mrs. Hazel Smith of Bellville accompanied Kenneth Masters home Friday from an extended visit in Bellville. Kenneth is gaining in weight and health. Mrs. Andrews reported a pleasant visit with a former Mullin lady. She was formerly Miss Cora Scarborough, but is now married to a prosperous Sugarland citizen and well located in that town with such a sweet name and sent greetings to old friends here.

Mrs. Wm. M. Andrews, Mrs. Hazel Smith of Bellville, and Mrs. R. H. Patterson visited Mrs. E. I. Oxley in the Prairie community Thursday. Mrs. Oxley is one of the energetic canners of that section and put up over 300 cans of good eatables last year. She and two of her daughters, Mrs. Douglas Warren and Mrs. Era Patrick, were canning beans, when the visitors arrived, and they had canned more than 50 cans that day. A fine day's work.

Index to Industry

While in many parts of the country there is no mineral mining and, as a consequence, there is a common belief that the sections not engaged in such industries are not interested, but an investigation will undoubtedly show that there can be no great prosperity in any one section of this country without all sections being affected to a greater or less extent. Certainly, the mining sections are more directly interested in mining than are the cotton producing states, or the states producing grain, cattle, or lumber, but after all, the entire country is more or less interdependent, hence a report from the western mining states is interesting when it says:

"Increasing activity in the metal mining industry, augmented by 335 gold, and a more favorable outlook for the other metals is the glad news refrain now growing in volume and strength from all sections of the west. A recent survey among more than four thousand companies from Arizona to the Canadian border gives definite evidence of a return to activity. Assayers are busy again, old mills are turning wheels that haven't moved in more than three years and many new ore treating plants are contemplated, smelter receipts show a substantial increase in ore shipments, and equipment and supply houses are awakening, after a long nap, to realize that there is a growing interest in their merchandise."

Workers, farmers, storekeepers, professional men, industrialists of all kinds, will smile happily on reading that. It means thousands of potential jobs, a vast jump in western purchasing power, a tremendous field for selling services and commodities of every kind and shape—from legal knowledge to groceries. And it likewise means revived tax income for government.

The Law of Average

The outlook for the future decrease in automobile accidents and highway tragedies is not bright, according to the compilers of statistics and those drawing conclusions from cause to effect. According to these figures, between now and 1940, there will be 190,000 people killed in automobile accidents.

The total of fatalities for the entire decade that began with 1930 will be 315,000, and the injury record will touch 10,000,000. The fatalities will be greater than the total of the soldiers killed in battle in the entire history of this country—and will surpass the battle casualties of the A. E. F. in the world war more than six times. The number injured will be fifty times the number of A. E. F. soldiers wounded non-fatally in action.

That is what it is estimated will occur if the automobile accident record during the next six years follows the experience of the past four. As a matter of fact, there is an excellent chance that the number of fatalities and injuries will be greater still—the accident curve is tending upward, largely because of increased driving speeds and carelessness on the part of pedestrians, as well as automobile operators.

There is one way in which this ghastly forecast can be proven wrong. That is by an aggressive campaign on the part of responsible motorists and cautious, level-headed citizens to reduce the number of accidents and induce caution on the part of the general public when traveling on the highways or city streets. Most of the traffic accidents are avoidable, if reasonable caution is used, but automobiles are too powerful and move too rapidly to show carelessness.

A Dormant Law

A long dormant law has been brought to light in the comptroller's office and will have an effect in lowering the delinquent tax list in many counties of the state. The State Tax Journal quotes from the law which forbids the issuance of state warrants to persons indebted to the state for taxes. The Journal states that the law, enacted in 1910, is now being enforced for the first time. A clause has been added to the usual affidavit to accounts presented for payment which says: "I further swear that I am not indebted to the state." This law is having the effect of forcing tax payment by many who have failed to pay, although receiving money from the state. Had this law been enforced from the start the enormous amount due on delinquent tax rolls would have been much less, but under the rule of "better late than never," the claim is made that an iron-clad rule is to be enforced. It is only fair that persons due the state or any subdivision should pay whatever amount they owe for taxes, when they demand payment of what is due them.

Curbing the Outlaws

The appropriation of $25,000 from the federal treasury for bringing to justice each public enemy, designated as such by the federal attorney general, should have a deterring effect on the young desperadoes, such as Dillinger, Floyd and their like and should have the effect of checking their careers before they become as notorious as the two mentioned. The fact that crime has never paid and that a law-abiding policy is best in the long run is generally recognized as correct, but in recent months a crime wave has swept over the country and here and there persons have convinced themselves that they can beat the law and finally win in the battle of crime against law enforcement. Human experience should convince them that only a very small per cent of criminals avoid the penalty of their misdeeds, but now that the federal government has made an appropriation large enough to attract men and organizations strong enough to cope with the most desperate bands of criminals, the country may expect a decided decrease in kidnaping, bank robbery, wanton murders and similar crimes.

A Centennial Rival

Friendly rivalry makes for greater excellence in private business or the ordinary social affairs of life and why not expect the same results in state affairs. Arkansas and Texas are each to celebrate the centennial of their statehood in 1936, which will likely inspire each to greater efforts to make a good showing of a century of progress. Texas has a state-wide organization to plan for the work, the people authorized a legislative appropriation to carry out the purposes and the funds have been made available. Our neighbor state will have to do a lot of hustling to surpass or even equal the showing Texas will make.

THE AMERICAN FLAG

The following rules should be observed in displaying the National flag of the United States.

The flag should be displayed only from sunrise to sunset, or between such hours as may be designated by proper authority. It should be displayed on national and state holidays and on historic and special occasions. The flag should always be hoisted briskly and lowered slowly and ceremoniously.

When carried in a procession with another flag or flags the flag of the United States should be either on the marching right, i. e., the flag's own right, or when there is a line of other flags, the flag of the United States may be in front of the center of that line.

When displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, the flag of the United States should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

When a number of flags are grouped and displayed from staffs, the flag of the United States should be in the center or at the highest point of the group.

When flags of states or cities or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the national flag should always be at the peak. When flown from adjacent staffs the flag of the United States should be hoisted first. No flag or pennant should be placed above or to the right of the flag of the United States.

When flags of two or more nations are displayed they should be flown from separate staffs of the same height and the flags should be approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

When the flag is displayed from a staff projecting horizontally or at an angle from the window sill, balcony, or front of building, the union of the flag should go clear to the head of the staff unless the flag is at half mast.

When the flag of the United States is displayed in a manner other than by being flown from a staff it should be displayed flat, whether indoors or out. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, i. e., to the observer's left. When displayed in a window it should be displayed the same way, that is with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street. When festoons, rosettes or drapings of blue, white and red are desired, bunting should be used, but never the flag.

When displayed over the middle of the street, as between buildings, the flag of the United States should be suspended vertically with the union to the north in an east and west street or to the east in a north and south street.

When used on speaker's platform, the flag should be displayed above and behind the speaker. It should never be used to cover the speaker's desk nor to drape over the front of the platform. If flown from a staff it should be on the speaker's right.

When used in unveiling a statue or monument, the flag should not be allowed to fall to the ground, but should be carried aloft to wave out, forming a distinctive feature during the remainder of the ceremony.

When flown at half mast, the flag is first hoisted to the peak and then lowered to the half staff position, but before lowering the flag for the day, it is raised again to the peak. On memorial day, May 30, the flag is displayed at half mast from sunrise until noon and at full staff from noon until sunset, for the nation lives and the flag is a symbol of the living nation.

When used to cover a casket the flag should be placed so that the union is at the head and over the left shoulder. The flag should not be lowered into the grave nor allowed to touch the ground. The casket should be carried foot first.

When the flag is displayed in church it should be from a staff placed on the congregation's right as they face the clergyman. The service flag, the state flag or other flag should be at the left of the congregation. If in the chancel, the flag of the United States should be placed on the clergyman's right as he faces the

MALARIA MOSQUITOES

According to information reaching the Texas state department of health, a number of malaria cases is increasing; a sharp turn upward was noted for May. This is directly related to a parallel increase in the number of mosquitoes. The malaria unit reports that not for years have they noticed such large numbers of mosquitoes.

Probably one item that favors this increase is the mild winter and rainfall which leads to many temporary collections of water. Of course the breeding of mosquitoes is not limited to temporary water, but they are the ones that are often the cause of the increase of the mosquito population. They must have water to propagate.

Attention paid to the following and similar points will largely reduce the opportunities for mosquito breeding. Remove all trash from the back yard, including old cans, pails, bottles and automobile tires or bodies. Clean up the premises.

Put new washers in leaky hydrants. Screen rainwater barrels or oil them regularly. Get some top minnows and place in lily pools and cisterns. Lock over the roof gutters and drain spouts and remove trash and straighten any sagged portions. Change the water in flower vases frequently. If there are low spots in the yard where water stands for days after a rain, either fill or drain these places. In any event before complaint is made about mosquitoes to the health department, be sure that your own premises have been thoroughly inspected and found free from mosquito breeding places.

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

The Santa Fe railroad company's bulletin of the conditions in Texas says:

Generally favorable weather prevailed over practically all sections of Texas during May and as a result, general agricultural conditions are from fair to good with some sections excellent.

The cotton outlook is favorable with plantings throughout the state nearing completion, except in northwestern areas. Chopping is complete in southern sections and progressing rapidly in central and northern Texas. Some areas in central Texas report a deficiency in moisture; in other sections moisture is ample for present needs. As compared with last year the cotton crop over most of Texas ranges from one to three weeks late. Worm and insect damage is reported in southern, central and western sections. Damage thus far is light, but indications are increasing.

Potato digging still is under way in the Eagle Lake-Glen Flora territory, and quality is high. Unit production will be about double that of 1933.

Tomato movement is on in east Texas and will reach peak production during the first half of June. Quality is good and the estimated yield will show an increase of about fifty per cent.

Progress of onions in north Texas is good and shipment will begin during the early part of June.

Cantaloupes and watermelons in Central Texas are developing satisfactorily with movement expected to start during early June. Outcome of wheat in northwest Texas will be determined by rainfall in the next three weeks. With a little more rain wheat would make a fair crop. Harvest in the area described will start about June 15.

Moisture conditions are extremely favorable for growth of range feed. Recent rains should further improve this situation. Condition of cattle is good. Cattle losses during the winter were light with cattle now in good flesh and should improve under normal conditions.

When the flag is in such a condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display it should not be cast away or used in any way that might be viewed as disrespectful to the national colors, but should be destroyed as a whole, privately, preferably by burning or by some other method in harmony with the reverence and respect we owe to the emblem representing our country—Everyman.

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

WIND EROSION AND DESERTS

There is good sound reason back of the uneasiness recently expressed in the Forest Service at Washington that—in the recent dust storms that swept a number of states of the middle west—the nation may be witnessing early steps in the creation of a new American desert. For the erosive influence of wind and water, either singly or in combination, is what makes deserts.

Not that the two notable dust storms that rose in a number of middle western states this spring and deposited many million tons of topsoil in other states that did not want it are anything new in the way of dust storms save for their wide extent and their severity because of drought conditions and the persistent strong winds that made them possible. For the wearing away, though in milder form has been going on ever since prairie sods were destroyed either by farming or stock grazing operations and dried and unbound topsoils thus bared to the mercy of strong winds and running water.

The point is that other fair lands both of America and of older countries have gone the same way and that there is probably no way of preventing history repeating itself unless we improve our practices of soil conservation and employ better ways to protect land surfaces exposed to the wear and tear of the elements, surface water as well as wind. It has been estimated that the ravages of erosion have already ruined 21,000,000 acres of American farm land that was once productive, much of it, of course, in the older sections of the east and south, and most of the damage, no doubt caused by surface waters.

But recent generations of farmers have laid great areas of the dry prairie states bare and winds have joined the waters in destruction, with the unprecedented drought of the present spring bringing the situation to the attention of the entire nation. Some sections of the dust storm area were stripped of topsoil clear down to the hardpan and millions of tons of dirt removed along with the seed and wheat sprouts it contained. Soil that was not removed to distant and innocent states, even as far removed as those on the Atlantic seaboard, was deposited like drifted snow nearer home, covering fences in some instances and depositing inches of unwanted soil on growing crops.

The Forest Service issues this warning: "Unless more conservative grazing is practiced on semi-arid land and unless greater care is exercised in plowing up extensive areas for wheat production in regions subject to drought, desert conditions will begin, and once established, these lands can never be reclaimed." So if western farmers want their land, they must do their part to hold it.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

FORWARD

The new deal idea is sweeping the country and there will be no stopping it. Ideas cannot be halted.

The country can't be regimented. The government can't take away private initiative. Many things being discussed can not be done.

But the new deal is here. Naturally the old dealers dislike the change. The big men of yesterday aren't expected to be jubilant over being demoted.

To be kind and fair, we will say that the old leaders everywhere did well. But they have "shot their wad." Young America must move along on better lines, use the accomplishments of the past for stepping stones. Let us hope that we do not make too many mistakes. The older generation still has its place as a steadying influence. "Old men for counsel and young men for war," so the saying goes. The world was built in seven days, not one day.

A new world is being built. We hope it is a better world. We rather think it will be a better world because only the good ideas will last. But, like it or not,

ARMAMENT REALITIES

If the statesmen at Geneva were really electrified, as the Associated Press reports, at the proposal of the United States to agree to a proportional naval reduction, and a pact to control armament manufacture and trade and the proposal of Soviet Russia for complete disarmament, then the eminent statesmen have become more naive than one would suspect.

This is not to say that the United States has failed to do her best by the Geneva disarmament conference. In pledging proportional naval reduction we have done what we could, since our small army and remote location make the armament problem for us one largely of naval armament, while the problem for most of the world—particularly the difficult part of the problem—is one of land armament.

Not only has President Roosevelt sent an entirely adequate pledge from America, he has done a politically daring thing in that if called on to carry out the pledge he would meet a very great opposition at home, based on a rampant big navy sentiment and a growing passion for nationalism. No one can doubt, however, that he would keep his pledge, that the United States would go along with other nations on a proportional reduction in navies, and in regulating the trade in armament.

The realists at Geneva will understand, however, that neither this proposal nor that offered by Russia will help matters very much and there will be cynics to point out that neither the United States nor Russia has gone beyond its own advantage in the matter. Surely the United States, geographically isolated, and possessing the greatest resources, the greatest accumulated wealth and the greatest industrial plants of any nation in the world, should be happy to limit navies to a ratio which will give her one of the two strongest in the world, her only rival being Great Britain, a long-time friend and co-worker. Also, the fact will not escape attention at Geneva that control of the arms trade can hardly put the United States at a disadvantage. In that we have the best armament plants and the most abundant supplies of armament raw materials to be found on the globe. In fact the suspicion may be aroused that elimination of free trade in armaments may not be so fair or altruistic a proposal as it seems, that possibly the few great industrial nations could make use of such an agreement to control affairs in many parts of the world.

Nor will the Russian proposal pass muster as 100 per cent altruistic. Russia, with a great population and vast area, her national nerve centers far from the border lines, could hardly ask a greater security than general disarmament. In such a case man-power and land distances would give security and military advantage which they can not now give. Obviously such a program would be a great thing for Russia, but France, pressed close to Germany more populous than herself, probably can't see much security or advantage in it for France.

Such difficulties as these should not be allowed to forestall European and world agreement on armament reduction, and, what is more important, armament stability. But the friends of peace should have some understanding of what the difficulties are. This probably would lead to a more realistic facing of problems at Geneva, and so to an eventual solution of them.—Houston Chronicle.

believe it or not, a new order is being established. Why? Youth was complaining that it had no chance. The farmer has been getting the worst of it since about 1920. ## SPAIN AND THE PHILIPPINES

Nearly four centuries before the American occupation of the Philippine Islands, Spanish civilization planted its roots in the archipelago. Outside of Manila a generation of Americanization has done little more than scratch the surface of the deep layers of Spanish customs and culture that still cover the islands. There are 4000 Spaniards still living there, almost as many as the American colony. The predominant architecture is Spanish. The religion of the islands came from Spain, and the Spanish language shows no signs of dying out. The contribution of the United States in education, public health, communications and other material improvements has been enormous. But it has not displaced the Spanish basis of Philippine civilization.

It is, therefore, natural that steps toward Philippine independence should be followed by Spanish efforts to strengthen a close cultural and commercial relationship between Spain and the islands. A Hispano-Filipino society has been formed in Madrid and is drawing up an extensive program of activities toward this end. It expects soon to establish a branch at Manila. As a result of this avowedly non-political organization Spain looks forward to a reformation of relations with its former colonies and would undoubtedly be the first nation to recognize the Philippines, if ultimately freed.

Enrique Carrion, wealthy organizer of this society, calls the islands the "only outpost of the Spanish language in the Orient," and the chief center of Spanish influence in the Far East. But the expression is used in no imperialistic sense. In no part of her vanished empire is Madrid planning to re-establish her lost political supremacy. It is in cultural lines, with adequate attention to the commercial benefits of cultural relationships, that modern Spain seeks to retain leadership throughout the vast areas which she once ruled as a dictator.—Washington Post.

METHODS OF RELIEF

England has been eminently successful in its administration of poor relief. The dole has been well employed, and, on the whole, economically applied. The dole is not all from the public treasury. Its source is from a fund into which employed workers pay a third, employers a third and the government a third. The latter has had to advance money from time to time, above its pro rata contribution, to replenish the fund. At the last accounts the fund owed the public treasury something like $1,000,000,000. Nevertheless, responsible statesmen, responsible taxpayers and responsible dole takers are very well satisfied with the workings of the plan. That plan might be worth copying by a nation which has expended enormous sums in unemployment relief, without reducing unemployment noticeably. The British family of four, husband, wife and two children, receives about $6 a week. It is not an extravagant sum, but it suffices. It is low enough to induce those who receive it to prefer work and wages. It is not high enough to make the dole preferable to employment. It appears to be true that Great Britain is regaining her normal status. This is because there has always been in that country a great reserve of capital. The tight little island never goes broke and when conditions promise a profit from business, British capital ventures into business, making work and paying wages.—State Press in Dallas News.

But the friends of peace should have some understanding of what the difficulties are. ## Brownwood

Dr. Kahl H. Moore, who for the past six years has been pastor of the First Baptist church of Denton, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Brownwood.

William Malcolm Logan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Logan of Brownwood, will leave on June 1 for Paint Rock, where he will serve as pastor of the Presbyterian church during the summer months.

After returning 29 true bills or indictments, the Brown county grand jury for the May term of court recessed until June 14, when it will reconvene to continue its work. The grand jurors returned 27 indictments during the first week and returned two more Monday before recessing.

Work at Lake Brownwood state park, and the location of the CCC camp met the enthusiastic approval this week of Captain Williams, commandant, and Lieutenant Dodson, medical officer, of the Buffalo Gap CCC camp, which will move to the Lake Brownwood site June 10.

At the annual meeting of the board of trustees of Daniel Baker college, held in connection with closing exercises of the 1933-1934 school year, W. P. Logan was chosen as president of the board, succeeding Harry Knox, Sr., who tendered his resignation recently because of ill health. T. C. Wilkinson, Sr., was chosen vice-president.

Meters of Brownwood public utility companies were tested during the week by Frank J. Heironimus, of the state department of weights and measures at Austin. Tests were made of two per cent of all meters in the city. Mr. Heironimus left Brownwood Wednesday. He did not give any report to city officials on his findings. These will be mailed back later.

Pecan men of Brownwood and Brown county say that prospects are the best in years for a bumper pecan crop this year in this section. According to reports, all trees are loaded with full clusters of fruit and that indications point to a crop that will surpass the 83,000,000 pound peak crop for this country. Insects are not bothering this year's crop, it is stated. What few orchards that do have insects are being sprayed and it is almost certain that very little damage will be done by bag worms and other agencies that usually cut down the total crop.—Banner.

San Saba

Mrs. W. T. Linn returned Sunday from Lampasas, where she spent two weeks with her daughter, Mrs. John Allen.

If it had not been for the presence of mind of Harkey Thornton and T. T. Walker, the Barker Bros. Construction Co. would have lost one of their big trucks last week when it caught fire. When everything failed which was available to extinguish the flames, Harkey came to town and brought out the fire truck and saved the day.

W. A. Smith, editor of the San Saba News, becomes the postmaster of San Saba succeeding Postmaster F. B. Hall, who has held the position for a four year term. Mr. Hall is retiring from a third class postoffice that will be restored to a second-class office on July 1, 1934, as a result of the energetic campaign conducted during the last few weeks of 1933, to rebuild the postoffice in San Saba to its former second class rating.—Star.

The San Saba county singing convention will meet at Holt on Saturday night before and on Sunday June 10. All singers are cordially invited to come and bring song books and classes. W. B. Huggins is president and will be present.

The local engineering force are preparing this week for the start of construction work on highway 81 north of town. It is understood this work will begin some time next week and will be under D. Chadwick, county superintendent, and the maintenance force.

Mrs. J. G. Atkinson of Ebony has returned home, after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robbins near San Saba. Mrs. Atkinson's friends will be glad to know that she is improved in health.

Another forward step was made in public school education in the west end of San Saba county Saturday, May 12, with the Richland Springs independent school district and the Lakeview common school district No. 12, voted to consolidate their school districts.—News.

Lampasas

The high school library will be open each morning during the summer from 8 till 12 o'clock. The librarian will be in charge just the same as if school were in session.

D. E. Colp, chairman of the state parks board, announces that arrangements have been completed for the opening of Lampasas State Park on June 12 and 13. The directors of the local chamber of commerce compose the local committee on arrangements to assist Mr. Colp and his helpers in putting over the big affair.

In this paper will be seen an order canceling the order for the bond election, which was to have been voted upon June 9. The cancellation of the election order was due to the fact that there was a conflict in the order in calling the bonds for two purposes in the same election. That is the way it has been explained to this paper. The bond issue had been called to raise funds for the purchase of rights of way for No. 74 and No. 53 and for the building of the bridge at Bend over the Colorado. It seems that for the road bonds it was necessary for a two-thirds vote, while in the bridge bond a majority favorable vote would carry same.—Record.

Lometa

R. W. Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Jackson attended church at Goldthwaite Sunday.

Mrs. Casbeer and daughter, Mrs. Head of Center City, visited Miss Pearl Casbeer and attended the graduation exercises of their son and brother, Raymond Casbeer.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Hereford went to Temple Tuesday and were accompanied home by Mr. and Mrs. Will W. Allen. Mr. Allen has been in the hospital there for the past several weeks.

Mrs. Mack Horton and children of Goldthwaite were Tuesday visitors in the J. A. Fulton home. Mrs. Horton brought her father, Will Kennedy, for a visit with relatives and friends.

The city dads are having a well drilled on the back lot belonging to Fred Martin, just below the city water tank. As soon as the first well is completed, the second will be dug nearby and both wells will be pumped with one motor.

The attorney general has ruled that the election called for a bond issue of $30,000 was illegal, and advised the court to rescind election, which was done Saturday, and in rescinding the election they so worded the minutes that they were willing to call another election just as soon as a legal petition was presented to the court.—Reporter.

Comanche

Comanche county candidates have announced an old-fashioned political rally and speak to be held in various parts of the county.

Work started Monday on the new underpass at the Frisco railway on the new route for highway 10, at the western outskirts of Comanche.

Ship Carnes, employe of the Frisco railroad, suffered a fractured shoulder and minor cuts and bruises at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning, when he was struck by a string of freight cars in the Brownwood yards.

Mrs. W. L. Kight of Hasse was given a year in the penitentiary by a jury in district court here Friday on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. Her attorney waived the right to ask for a new trial and filed a motion for appeal. Considerable excitement prevailed in the District Clerk's office Monday, when three or four bottles of beer, alleged to have been found at Mrs. Kight's residence, exploded with a blast, scattering glass over the room.—Chief.

Hamilton

At the Hamilton National bank, preserved in alcohol, is a double bodied pig with one head. The head has four ears, two on top of the head and one on either side, but there is only one snout. There are two distinct bodies, however, the legs are entwined. The freak pig is hairless and is probably a little larger than the ordinary newborn pig.

The Hamilton high school senior class of 1934 bears the distinction of being the largest in number who went "under the rope together" in the history of the public schools in this city. Fifty-nine graduates were presented with diplomas on Monday evening, May 28, with appropriate ceremonies and in the presence of a crowd that taxed the seating capacity of the high school auditorium.

Rev. John D. West, for years an outstanding character in Hamilton county as a minister and in the federal postal service as a rural route carrier, quietly retired Thursday, May 31. There is no reason in the world why Rev. West should not continue to serve the patrons of the route if he wished to, only that he had recently passed his 65th birthday, and Uncle Sam says that he must turn the job over to a younger person. But the government remembers his faithful service and retires him on pay in an amount that guarantees a comfortable support to the end of his days, which all hope is many years off yet.

One of the most progressive movements ever inaugurated in Hamilton, and which will prove most beneficial in permanent results is the war of elimination being waged against mosquitoes. Under the direction of the engineer the channel of Pecan creek is being opened up and straightened so that there will be no stagnant pools of water even in the dry weeks of mid-summer. The underbrush along the creek valleys is being cleared out, the trees trimmed and the weeds cut giving the entire landscape the appearance of a well kept and beautiful park.—Record-Herald.

CONTRACT SIGNER MAKES MONEY

Whether the hog processing tax comes out of the farmer or out of the consumer, the farmer who signed a corn-hog contract makes considerably more money than the one who did not sign, declares E. M. Regenbrecht, swine specialist at Texas A and M College. He bases this statement on the contract benefits and on the current price of hogs.

Take two farmers each having four sows and marketing an average of 40 hogs of 200 pound weight each year. One signed the hog contract, the other did not. The one who signed will make $24 more than the one who did not, assuming the current Port Worth market price of $3.20 per hundred.

The non-signing farmer, forgetting transportation and marketing costs, would receive $6.60 per head for his 40 hogs or $264. The farmer who signed the contract would reduce his market hog by ten head and would sell 30 hogs. At $3.20 per hundred he would receive $96. In addition he will receive through the year $5 each for his 30 market hogs or a total of $150. His total hog income would be $343 or $84 more than that received by the non-signer. This would be subject, of course, to a small deduction to take care of the local cost of his county corn-hog production control association in administering the program.

"The fact is," says Mr. Regenbrecht, "that the hog reduction program, at present hog prices, means a net increase to the farmer who is co-operating of about 30 per cent. What prices would have been had the reduction not been made by one and one-half million farmers over the United States no one can tell. When consumer demand is lively it is probable that the processing tax will come out of the consumer. When the market drags as at present it is likely coming out of producers' hog prices. Even so, the co-operating farmer is making more money than the man who is not co-operating. In addition he is helping the United States to cut production to fit demand just as manufacturers always do. In the long run this means more favorable prices to all.

TOM BLANTON SCORES AGAIN

Washington, June 2—Nineteen years ago—back in 1915—a hurricane blew in from the Gulf of Mexico and did considerable damage in and around Galveston and Houston. Some of the victims of this storm who suffered losses, decided that now would be a good time to ask Uncle Sam to foot the bill for the damage they sustained.

Everything was all set for them to rush the bill through Congress and collect handsomely for the catastrophe which happened nearly two decades ago, but Tom Blanton was on the job and blocked their plan.

Tom Blanton is always on the job in Congress. Other members may take out for a conference or a ball game, but not Tom. From the chaplain's opening prayer till the speaker announces the adjournment, he is in his seat, close to the speaker's desk, keeping track of what is going on and stopping all attempts at treasury raiding under the once popular method of "unanimous consent."

The amount of money that has been saved to the taxpayers of this nation by Tom Blanton's timely objections runs into the millions of dollars. But the amount that has been saved because of his unfailing regularity and wide-awakeness in the people's interest have scared off would-be raiders, cannot even be estimated. Undoubtedly it runs into an enormous sum.

At the same time, the service that Judge Blanton has been rendering to the constituents of his district has been frequently commended. Every letter in his enormous mail gets careful attention, and the Texas congressman takes especial delight in seeing that justice is done the plain man who has no highly paid lobbyists to represent him.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

In the old days our forefathers took bad men and strung them up to stout limbs. Today we make heroes out of them for the rising generation to emulate.

Every time a subscriber pays his subscription we have something nice to say to him. If you want to know how it feels to be praised just bring along yours.

The New York Stock exchange thinks it renders the public a service. It does. It trims the people and relieves them of money they might otherwise spend foolishly.

When the helper is smarter than the boss he generally ceases to be a helper.

If we were blessed with foresight a majority of the population wouldn't profit by it. They would just blunder along in the same old way, walking right into the pitfalls of life that wreck so many people.

After all, the United States was kind to Sam Insull. It gave him a month's sea cruise without charge.

The older some people become the younger they like to appear.

After reading of Dillinger, a fellow ceases to remember small fry like Al Capone.

This outlaw nuisance is becoming serious. It doesn't leave the daily press room for anything else in their papers.

If we didn't take the bad along with the good a lot of us would run mighty short.

People who really earn their pay generally do the least grumbling about the size of it.

The fellow who says the Lord is not good to him fails to remember that he is still alive.—Rocky Mountain League.

A STRANGE ACCIDENT

A New York report tells of a strange accident. It says: "Nemislis Santiago, a widower, died Saturday in the strangest way, officials said, ever to come to the attention of the medical examiner's office. Weary after a day's work, he fell asleep on his bed while darning his clothes. The needle he had been using, falling from his grasp, became wedged upright in the mattress. When Santiago turned in his sleep the needle was driven into his heart."

ARMS AND MAN

One of the greatest industries, and one of the heaviest expense items of civilized people, has been and still is the invention and development of more efficient ways and means to kill human beings in war. Uncle Sam's navy department has just ordered construction of 20 new and up-to-the-minute warships to cost $40,000,000. Japan has been steadily building her navy up to treaty strength, and now that her navy is up to treaty strength she is crying for naval equality with England and the United States. Other countries are strengthening their navies. Germany is re-arming to the teeth. China, Japan, Germany and all nations that can possibly get the money by hook or crook are buying the latest type airplanes equipped with the deadliest guns.

There has been much talk of disarmament, especially naval disarmament, arms embargoes, curbs on traffic in war weapons and peace. But all the time the great nations go right ahead with the business of making more and deadlier weapons for Mars, the god of war. The United States is one of the "big three" in the arms business. The other two big fellows are England and France. But there is hardly a small nation that doesn't have its own factories where weapons of war and ammunition are turned out wholesale. There is no secret about who furnishes most of the death-dealing apparatus used in every major battle fought the world over. Traffic in armaments is both wide open and world wide.

It has been figured that the world now spends more than $5,000,000,000 a year on the deadly weapons of war, and the standing armies and navies cost another two or three billions annually. What greater folly than for people everywhere to be spending billions—more than they have or ever hope to have—and continually going deeper and deeper into debt, for newer and bigger guns and knives and boats and planes, and deadlier poisons for the sole purpose of killing their neighbors? It seems that culture, morality and commonsense will never assert themselves to force mankind to arbitrate his differences instead of shooting it out on the field of "honor." The old adage "In time of peace prepare for war" seems to hold favor with all nations to day just as it did prior to that.

DISCOVERER OF INSULIN HONORED

The Canadian discoverer of insulin, Dr. Frederick Grant Banting, was made a knight of the British Empire in the King's honors list, published Monday in celebration of his sixty-ninth birthday Sunday. His discovery of insulin, a boon to sufferers from diabetes, was regarded as one of the greatest medical achievements in a generation.

Boys, Put Real Electric Light In Tent or Camp This Summer!

THIS is the season when the urge to "camp out" seizes all of us. Whether we put up a tent in the back yard, or build a shack or clubhouse in the woods, we all want to get out in the open. And the more comfortable the tent or shack is, the more fun we are going to have.

Nothing makes a camp more uncomfortable than poor lighting. The tent or shack could be had in a tent or shack on a rainy day is not spoiled if the place is dark. Yet about the easiest thing in the world to make and install is a real electric light.

Take a tin wash basin, or a round tin pan, and attach a small electric light socket to the inside bottom. Punch holes for the socket screws and make a couple of extra holes for a wire loop by which the pan may be attached to the ridge pole of the tent. If the light is to be put up in the shack, use the extra holes for nails or screws to hold it to the ceiling.

Loop two strands of wire around a dry battery and attach it also to the ceiling or ridge pole of the tent, as shown in the illustration. Then lead one piece of insulated wire from the center of the battery to the nearest binding post on the light socket. Lead another piece of wire from the other battery binding post along the ceiling or tent pole and down to any place where it can be reached easily. At this point, mount a single brass switch on the wall or a piece of board and secure the wire to one of the binding posts. From the other post, lead a wire back to the electric light socket, attaching it to the remaining socket post. Insert your bulb into the socket and throw the switch. Presto!—your tent or clubhouse is illuminated by electricity, even though you may be miles from power lines and civilization. Be sure that your dry battery is of the freshest, most dependable type if father or older brother wants to improve on the fixtures. You can buy a regular reflector at any electrical shop. Once such a set-up is complete, its attachment or dismantling is a matter of a few minutes. Even a small light bulb will give all the illumination needed in a tent or medium-size room.

FATAL CAR WRECK

Last Saturday morning about 10 o'clock Mrs. Josephine Barton of McCamey was killed in a car wreck a few miles west of San Angelo. Her neck was broken, her chest crushed and she was badly bruised and cut by broken glass.

Mrs. Barton and three daughters were en route from their home in McCamey to Payne Gap, for a visit to her mother, Mrs. L. G. Hunt, and other relatives. The place where the wreck occurred was on a paved road and a level country is on either side. Mrs. Barton and daughters were riding in a truck and the eldest daughter, a young lady about 16 years old, was driving. Rain was falling and the young lady driver had just passed another car on the highway when in some unaccountable way the truck turned over and the mother was evidently caught under some part of it and crushed. One daughter who was riding in the back was thrown clear of the wreck and some distance from it. She was somewhat bruised and one little finger was broken. The other two occupants of the truck were uninjured.

As soon as possible after the wreck relatives here were notified by wire and Mrs. L. G. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hunt and other relatives hurried to the scene.

A careful inspection of the highway and surroundings fails to develop any cause for the wreck, other than that a blow-out of one of the casings may have caused it. The young lady states she was only driving about 35 miles per hour, which was not sufficient speed to cause a wreck so serious in its consequences.

Mrs. Barton's remains were brought here for burial in the Payne Gap cemetery and the funeral at that place Monday was attended by one of the largest congregations ever seen in that cemetery. Many from this city and elsewhere joining the home community in paying respects to the memory of the deceased lady and showing sympathy for the bereaved family.

Mrs. Barton was a daughter of L. G. (Bud) Hunt and was reared in the community where her funeral was held. After her marriage to Mr. Richard Barton, they continued to reside in this county until about fifteen years ago, when they moved to the west, where Mr. Barton died about two years ago. She is survived by three daughters who were with her on the fatal trip and two married daughters who reside at McCamey, besides her mother and several brothers and sisters, uncles, aunts and cousins, most of whom live in this county.

The terrible accident brought a sad shock to the relatives and friends here of the deceased lady and her family and everybody joins in sympathy for the bereaved relatives. One who knew Mrs. Barton well adds this tribute to her memory: "With the deepest feeling of regret the many friends and relatives of Mrs. Josephine Barton gathered at the cemetery at Payne Gap Monday evening, June 4, and bowed their heads while her body was laid to rest. 'Let us extend our heart-felt sympathy to the fine mother and five young daughters who survive this good woman and may those who know them offer their tenderest encouragement that their burdened hearts may be lightened.'"

"Mrs. Barton was a true Christian, having joined the membership of the Moline Baptist church October 13, 1925."

WASTING OIL AND TIME

Old Diogenes undoubtedly wasted his time and burned an unnecessary amount of oil in his lantern in searching for an honest man, for he could have accomplished his desire by looking among the Mills county people, while of course he would have necessarily delayed his search until now. The Eagle has a number of cases that could be cited, but gives two as an example:

Some months ago a lady came into this office and stated she desired to pay her subscription. The editor recognized her as a friend of long standing, but knew that she did not subscribe for the paper and so informed her. She replied that her husband had died two years ago, since which time she had not felt able to pay for the paper, but that at the time of his death they owed the Eagle a year's subscription and that was the amount she desired to pay. An examination of the records proved that she was correct.

Several weeks ago a citizen of Star, whose name appears in this paper, but is not given here for fear it might be embarrassing to him, came to the office to renew his subscription. The record showed that his subscription was already paid a year in advance and that date was printed on his paper each week. He stated that he knew about the date on the paper and also that he had a receipt issued from this office showing the same date. He insisted on paying the amount, but the proffered payment was refused until he could prove he owed the money. He returned home and yesterday came back with a statement that he had looked up his cancelled checks of two years ago, which showed he had only paid one year, yet the date on his receipt showed two years' payment. With this record as proof his payment could not be refused, so he paid for a year's subscription covering the time for which he already had a receipt.

The Eagle has always claimed the highest class of citizenship in Mills county to be found anywhere on earth and the belief is now more firmly established than ever before.

PAYING FARMERS

Texas, with $2,039,035 paid to 33,072 farmers, led in 1934 cotton, tobacco and corn-hog rental payments made by the AAA to June 1, with many large payments having been received since that date. AAA officials reported Tuesday, Georgia, with a total of $2,014,037 received, was second, Alabama third with $1,223,207 and South Carolina was fourth with a total of $949,945 received at the beginning of June. Cotton payments to be received in Texas this year total about $15,000,000 and corn-hog $2,500,000.

"Payments are going to farmers at the rate of about $1,000,000 daily, with 620,000 contracts received at Washington from cotton growers and 211,330 approved for payment."
