

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 27, 1934

NUMBER FORTY-EIGHT

First Primary Holds Interest

The interest of the people of Mills county and throughout the state is centered on the results of the primary election to be held Saturday. In cases where there are three or more candidates for one office, if one of them does not poll a majority of all votes cast, the two polling the highest number of votes for the office will have to submit their names to a second primary, to be held August 25.

Some History

The first double primary in Texas was held in 1918. Before that time candidates were nominated by a plurality vote, the man leading the ticket being declared the nominee.

Since 1918, there has been a run-off between the two high candidates if the high man did not receive a majority.

In 1918, however, there was not a run-off in the governor's race, as there were only two candidates. W. P. Hobby received 461,479 votes and Jas. Ferguson 217,012.

Who May Vote

It is hard to remember all of the details regarding the use of poll tax receipts and the time limit on them.

Those who are otherwise qualified do not have to have a poll tax to vote if they were 60 years of age or over Jan. 1, 1933, or if they were under 21 on that date and have since reached the age of 21.

A person who has reached the age of 60 since January 1, 1933, must have paid a poll tax in order to vote, as the tax receipt which is used for voting is that for 1933, which is based on the age the first day of that year.

On the other hand, persons who were under 21 on January 1, 1933, do not have to have a poll tax to vote even though they may be 22 years of age at the time of the election. However, a person who has become 21 any time since January 1, 1933, may vote.

FAMILY REUNION

There was a family reunion in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Ford last week end and a most enjoyable occasion was reported. There was a fine dinner and most of the near relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Ford were present and spent the time most delightfully. We will look forward with pleasant anticipation to another such joyful gathering.

Among those present, besides Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Ford, were:

Mrs. Cora Ford and children, Alvin and Fleming, from Scallorn; Mrs. Walter Ford and children, Marvel, Johnnie, Buck and Rachel from Scallorn; Albert Canady of Austin; Geneva Baxter from San Saba; Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Ford and children, Buck, Opal, Elton and Anita, Chyenne, Okla.; Dr. Charlie Ford and son, J. C., of Hammond, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Velma Gage and son, Billy Gene of Hammond, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Hassel Ford and children, Lynn, Hillery, Noma, Renza and Wilma, Mercury; J. C. Ringer of Scallorn. Methodist Notes

Since I have been acquainted with church work in Texas there is one Sunday every two years that has stood out in my experience as a day to be dreaded. This day is the Sunday following the primary election. In the many years that I served as pastor, I have never seen even a reasonably good congregation at the Sunday morning service on that day. There may be some excuse for this: The preceding week has been a strenuous one. Late hours have been kept, then Saturday has been one of anxious thought, Sunday is a day of disappointment to many. In all these things it is not to be thought of as a change that many absent themselves from church. Let us change all this with next Sunday morning and put all aside and go to church. Doubtless there will be many who will not feel like attending the services, but it will be a blessing to dismiss all disappointments, relax from the strenuous work through which all have passed, and go to church.

Our people were all greatly distressed by the sudden passing away of Miss Myrtle Morris. She was of an old and highly respected family and had spent many years of her life among us. Her last years had been devoted to the loving care and devotion to her mother. All hearts are saddened by her going.

We all regret very much that the promised visit of Bishop Booz did not materialize. He was to have spent the first part of this week with us, but business connected with the church called him to Corpus Christi. We certainly trust that he may be able to visit us later in the summer or early fall. Personally, this writer has always carried about with him a pretty well developed crouch that these leaders in the church have not given more attention to our smaller communities. Not that they are superior to the ordinary preacher. They are supposed to be men of ability and in many cases are such. But the thing that counts is they are leaders. They are at the head of things and their presence in any small community would count for more than it would in the large cities. Not only is this true of the bishops, but it is equally true on a smaller scale as applied to the preachers who fill our large city churches. In my opinion, it would be well if some of our preachers from the cities would pay us an occasional visit. True they have their own work to look after. Doubtless their own congregations are rather exacting. But I am sure that if they would ask for a few days off to spend the time among the smaller churches the request would be gladly granted. The city churches should be interested in the rural communities to that extent. As a matter of fact, the city church is, as a rule, made up of country people, or those who formerly lived in the country. The country church has always been a feeder for the city church. Therefore, a strong city church is to be kept strong by cultivating the country communities. After all is said about the difference between the country people, the small town people and the city people, we are just folks. There is not so much difference after all. The success and prosperity of the one depends upon the prosperity of all.

J. S. BOWLES

A FINE MELON

The largest and one of the most delightful watermelons enjoyed by the Eagle folk this season was one presented by our friend W. J. Morris, whose home is a short distance from this city, on the Priddy highway. This melon weighed 56 pounds and was as good as it was large. This was certainly a kind act on the part of Mr. Morris and every member of the family appreciated it.

Monthly Basis For Feed Loans

The government is now making feed loans in the drouth districts without security. Farmers and livestock and poultry owners can secure such loans on a monthly basis. The schedule here given is applicable to the loans: They may borrow $4 per month per head on horses and mules; $3 per month per head on cattle; $1 per month per head on hogs; $1.50 per month per head on range cattle; five cents a month on chickens, and 75 cents a month on sheep and goats.

Loans are also being made for seed for forage and other crops, the amount being determined by the amount of acreage to be planted and other particulars.

COTTON, CORN-HOG SIGN-UP

By O. G. H.

The cotton sign-up will go on until all desiring to do so come in and sign or until the government calls a halt to the campaign. Sheep and goats have not been placed on the benefit list, but there is a probability that they may be soon.

The 1934-35 cotton contracts require rented acres to be marked by monuments to remain during the life of the contract. Substantial stakes are good markers. The department insists that rented acres be marked before checks for second payment are sent out. It would be well for producers to place markers at once.

Corn-hog contracts are being typed and will go to Washington by the end of this week. The farmers' short course, July 29 to August 3, offers some interesting courses. Just now, when thousands of hides are being taken from condemned cattle, the leather tanning course should be attended by hundreds of farmers. Instruction in treating and tanning hides to make harness and for other uses on the farm.

Another course, syrup making, is a profitable course. In addition to many other courses covering all farm problems will be offered during the week.

TEXAS CENTENNIAL

Organization being perfected in the major cities of Texas has definitely determined that the Texas Centennial for 1936 is "already over."

This is the opinion of J. K. Hughes of Mexia, independent Texas oil operator and member of the Centennial Commission. Money is required for the celebration—a minimum of $15,000,000. But money is desired only so that the dream of revering the Texas of the past and picturing the Texas of the future may be possible. Its culture, its romance, its history, its achievements, its future are the dominant themes of the Centennial. They are the working basis of the commission.

Let no man deceive you. The celebration has not been and will not be commercialized. Any of the great Texas cities have the facilities, or can provide them, to stage the centennial. It is nothing but right that the fortunate city should share in the expense of staging the centennial. Of course, such city in the end will not have expended a dollar. It will get its investment back—and that with compound interest.

DEMOCRATIC CALL

A call is hereby issued for a county Democratic convention to be held in the court house in Goldthwaite at 3 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 4, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state and various district conventions. It is desired that every precinct in the county be represented in the convention. JNO. W. ROBERTS, County Chairman

Campaign Rally

A candidates' rally was scheduled to take place on the public square last evening, but the Eagle was put to press before the time for the assembling of the people. All candidates were to be given an opportunity to speak and a rousing time was expected. This is the first rally and get-together they have held in Goldthwaite during this campaign.

CHANGE IN PLANS

The Goldthwaite cheese factory will not be operated after August 1, according to an announcement given the Eagle. The business will be continued as usual and the station and routes will be maintained. The cheese making will be done in the factory at Comanche until further announcement. Mr. Kaufman, the manager, will move to Comanche during the time the factory is closed here. The routes in this territory will be continued and the trucks will carry the milk to the factory in Comanche.

OLD SETTLERS ORGANIZE

During the picnic at Ratler last week some of the old settlers met and organized the Chuck Wagon association. T. J. Hufstutler was elected president, J. H. Burnett, vice president; B. F. Renfro, master of ceremonies; M. L. Jernigan, chuck wagon cook and master of barbecuing; John S. Chesser, secretary. It was voted to hold an annual meeting, beginning the second Thursday in July. All old settlers over 50 years of age are invited to join the organization.

HONESTY APPRECIATED

The two sample cases of honesty of Mills county people, recently presented by the Eagle, continues to attract attention from the press and public. The Brownwood Bulletin makes mention of the facts in the "Supper Table" column and Editor White endeavors to induce an imitation by Brown county people, when he says:

"From Mills county comes one of the prize newspaper stories of the year, and it involves our good friend, Bob Thompson, and his good paper, the Goldthwaite Eagle, which has been screaming every week over there for a long time. Two cases were cited recently, one of them having to do with a widow who went to the office and said she wanted to pay her subscription. She was told that she was not even a subscriber, but explained that her husband had died two years ago, and owed a year's subscription when he passed away. She was permitted to make the payment.

The other case involved a subscriber who offered to pay a year's rental on the Eagle. He was told that he has already paid a year in advance. He said he was sure he owed the money, although the Eagle's books showed he did not. To make a long story short, the subscriber went back home, dug up a cancelled check and returned to the newspaper office, where he proved to the satisfaction of Editor Thompson that the newspaper's book-keeper had made an error and credited him with two years' payment instead of one. He paid his dollar and was made happy for another year.

"All of which shows the kind of people who habitually read newspapers. Also the kind of people who live in Mills county. And it further proves that just living near the Promised Land has an uplifting influence upon people. The sweet aroma of righteousness emanating from this favored county permeates the atmosphere of all the surrounding territory, and inspires and uplifts the Democracy of the Heart of Texas like the fragrance of onions improves vegetable soup."

Livestock Sales Now Rushing

The government plan for the purchase of livestock of all kinds in the drouth district has proved not only beneficial, but popular. Approximately 8,000 head of cattle were contracted at the county agent's office by 422 producers the first three days the rolls were open and County Agent Weaver estimates there will be 10,000 before the time for contracting ends.

The sales are not final until the cattle are inspected, which will be in the very near future. Pat Kennedy of San Saba has been appointed inspector for this county and as soon as possible a licensed veterinarian will pass on the condition of the cattle bought. Dr. Sanderson of Brownwood will be the official veterinarian for this district.

PRISON DELIVERY

Three condemned murderers including Raymond Hamilton and Joe Palmer, former companions of Clyde Barrow, escaped from the Texas penitentiary in Huntsville Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock and are still at large.

Another convict was killed and two convicts and a guard wounded in a gun battle as the fugitives went over the wall.

Irvin "Blackie" Thompson, sentenced to death as an habitual criminal, after a $41,000 bank robbery at Marlin, escaped with Hamilton and Palmer.

William "Whitey" Walker, Thompson's companion in numerous crimes, died under the deadly fire of guards. Walker was serving a life sentence for the Marlin robbery.

Those wounded were Charlie Frazer, a member of the Walker-Thompson gang, who was shot three times in the head, hip and left lung, and was in a critical condition. Roy Johnson, another convict, slightly wounded and Hulen E. George, a guard, who received a flesh wound when a bullet grazed his temple.

The three condemned men, who succeeded in scaling the prison wall and safely reaching two automobiles containing friends, were reported four hours later near Hearne, Texas.

Hamilton and Palmer were two of the prisoners freed from the Eastham prison farm last January 16, when Clyde Barrow and his gang ambushed a work crew.

Hamilton was recaptured after robbing a bank at Lewisville and sentenced to the electric chair for the murder of Major Crowson, a guard who was killed by the fleeing men.

Palmer was recaptured at St. Joseph, Mo., after releasing three men whom he had kidnaped in Iowa in order to steal their car.

A woman was in one of the cars that carried the men away from the prison, according to Clyde Hall, a Huntsville lumberman, who saw the escape.

As Lee Braswell, a guard, was taking food to the men in the death house, he suddenly was surrounded by convicts in the prison yard. The men were armed with smuggled guns.

Graswell unarmed like all guards inside the walls, was overpowered and his keys taken from him.

The convicts then raced to the death house, liberated Hamilton, Palmer and Thompson and gave them the guns. Braswell was locked in a cell.

Most of the convicts who made the break possible by taking Braswell's keys made no attempt to go over the walls.

Reported Seen

The escaped men are believed to have robbed a bank of $5000 in Kansas and have been reported seen at various places. Sheriff Harvey of Lampasas county received a report Wednesday that the fugitives had been seen near Lampasas and he and his force are searching for them.

Baptist Reminder

We are now passing through one of the most eventful times than any similar period of our nation's history. Our nation is not only affected, but the nations of the world. If you had asked a business man ten years ago to give you a definition of a successful man, his definition would have been greatly influenced by the amount of wealth the man had acquired. If you were to ask him the same question today his definition would doubtless be different. Can a man be a success who does not acquire wealth? My subject Sunday morning will be "The Successful Failure."

As we go to the polls Saturday to vote we find it most difficult to come to a decision. The science of vote getting today seems to be the highest ambition of politicians. There has been $14,000,000 gambled in a legal way in the state of Texas in the past twelve months. This is practically $3 per capita in our state. It seems that only one of our candidates for governor has anything to say about this problem. One statesman is worth a thousand straddlers. My subject Sunday night will be, "The Straddler."

Let me urge every teacher and officer in our Sunday school and B. T. S. to be busy this week looking after our absentees.

Sunday school 10 a. m. Sunday morning.

Preaching 11 a. m. Sunday morning.

B. T. S. 7:15 p. m. Sunday evening.

Preaching 8:15 p. m. Sunday evening.

CONWAY CAUGHT

Oran Conway, one of the three men who escaped from the Mills county jail here on the morning of July 4, was captured yesterday in a badly shot-up car at Crockett, Houston county, over in east Texas, according to information reaching Sheriff Bledsoe. Officers of that county were believed to have taken him in the general round up of suspicious characters around Houston, while searching for the men who broke the death house in Huntsville Sunday. John Dingus, charged with burglary at Mullin, and Gordon Langford, held under sheep theft charges, were the other two men who escaped jail here July 4, and are still at large. Mrs. W. H. Lee, wife of the jailer, was slugged and two teeth broken off when she went to the cell to take medicine to the men.

Conway will not be returned here immediately, but will be held for investigation at Crockett for a time, the sheriff's office was informed.

SHOOTING AT DEMOCRAT

The sheriff's office was notified yesterday that Lem Medford had suffered a flesh wound below the heart at Democrat Wednesday night, but was returned to his home from a Brownwood hospital after treatment there.

Tom Stewart, who operates a store at Democrat, called a doctor after the shooting. The sheriff's office is investigating, but no charges had been filed up to the time the Eagle was put to press.

COMMITTEE CALL

The members of the Democratic executive committee of Mills county are hereby called to meet in the court house in Goldthwaite on Saturday, August 4, at 9 o'clock in the morning, for the purpose of canvassing returns from the July 28 primary and transacting other party business. JNO. W. ROBERTS, County Chairman

PRECINCT CONVENTIONS

Precinct conventions are to be held at the various voting boxes Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of electing a precinct chairman and selecting delegates to a county convention to be held in Goldthwaite Saturday, August 4.

Light Rains Bring Relief

Light rains fell in several parts of the county last Sunday and brought relief from the heat wave, as well as being beneficial to the farms and pastures. The heaviest fall was in the eastern part of the county, some communities in that section reporting as much as 2 inches of rain. About Star, Center City, Pleasant Grove and other communities in the eastern part of the county a considerable amount of stock water was provided.

There was not enough rain to be of material benefit to the cotton and feed crops, but it will help and will carry the crops over several days and we hope for more in the near future. If it comes, then the Sunday rain will have been of vast benefit in keeping the crops going.

A protracted rain would make a lot of cotton and fall feed and would also help to make grass for winter pasture.

CLASS SOCIAL

We are glad to report that the young married people of Big Valley are working hard for the building up of our Sunday school here. This class has been organized only a short time, but during this space of time it has the largest enrollment and attendance of any of the classes. Even though we have a large enrollment, there are others who need to join in with us and help carry on the work of the Lord. It is our highest ambition to enroll every prospective member in Big Valley before long, and when this is done and under the capable leadership of Mr. Lawson, our teacher, we will have one of the finest classes found anywhere.

In order that we, as members of this class, might come in personal contact with all prospective members of the valley, a social gathering was planned for Friday, July 20, at the Big Valley Baptist church. Every young married couple in the valley was invited. We are happy to say that most of them were present. There were 17 couples and their children present, numbering 52 in all. Seats were arranged in front of the house, where the officers were introduced and a word of welcome given to the visiting members. Several games were played, which were enjoyed by everyone. After the refreshments, which consisted of canteloupe, ice cream and cake were served, a song was sung and we said goodnight.

Since some of the members opposed the name of young married people's class, a name was decided upon Sunday by which the class shall go, "Faithful Workers." Let us be faithful and each do his bit for the Lord and make this class a success.

ROCK SPRINGS

Sunday morning up until 12 o'clock, was a real pleasant morning. The rain came and it was cool the rest of the day.

There were some who went to Sunday school at 11 o'clock Sunday.

The rain kept Center Point from bringing their program to Rock Springs Sunday night.

Saturday was Joe Almos Davis' birthday. That night he invited his friends and neighbors to a party. Punch, lemonade, cake and watermelon was served. The music was fine, furnished by Bohannon, Fallon and Stark. We hope Joe has lots more birthdays.

Sunday seemed to be a busy day out here. Bob Phillips from town was looking after his stock. Dorman Westerman from Rabbit Ridge and James Nickols dug the slush pit at the well. Jack Robertson went back Sunday morning after the last load. When you read this letter the well will be down several feet, if nothing happens.

There was a party at J. M. Traylor's Saturday night. There was a big crowd. They had music by the orchestra.

The thundering Sunday morning made us all think of rain. By 12 o'clock it was raining straight down.

Here is the cause of our fine rain: J. T. Robertson spent Saturday night and Sunday in Big Valley with his mother and his brother and family. Mrs. W. A. Daniel and Billie Ruth, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her father and mother in Big Valley. Mrs. Eula Nickols stayed home last Sunday. Such happenings should occur more often as we always need a rain.

The men who worked at the well Sunday got a real Sunday showerbath, and it was a cold one.

Even the mocking bird was proud of the fine rain. It sang so sweetly during the rain. We hope the rattlesnakes won't be crawling around so much since the rain.

Last Thursday was a big day at Ratler. Several from here attended the old settlers picnic. Friday was another big day with them. I hear next month the eleventh, will be another big day there. It was awful warm, but everyone had a good time trying to keep cool. The dam was the center of attraction. It wasn't as high as we thought it would be. I am sure that there was lots of work put on it beside expense.

August Kauchs and wife, Miss Nellie Dee Cooke and Fred McClary sat until bed time in the Nickols home Sunday night. I enjoyed all the letter in last week's paper. It helps us to keep up with our neighboring communities.

Mmes. Glenn and Eula Nickols helped Mrs. Kauchs quilt in the McClary home Monday. Landy Ellis and wife and Ed Traylor spent Monday in town.

Don't forget that tomorrow (Saturday) to go to the polls and vote. Come early to avoid the rush. Think twice before you vote. Don't fail to vote for the right man. It is too bad some of the candidates have to be defeated.

Dewey Bohannon and wife from Rabbit Ridge and Berley Fallon from Big Spring sat until bedtime in the Dunkle and Robertson home Friday night.

Woody Traylor and wife helped Claud Laird and wife and Mrs. Faulkner can a beef Thursday.

Mrs. Harvey Dunkle visited Mrs. Circle one afternoon last week.

Mmes. Holly and Franks from Gonzales spent Tuesday and Wednesday in the Nickols home.

J. F. Davis and wife went to Brownwood Saturday afternoon to visit their son and other relatives.

Fred McClary and August Kauchs worked for A. J. Harrison Monday afternoon.

Mrs. J. T. Robertson and Billie spent Saturday night and Sunday with Woody Traylor and family.

Louie Ponder spent Saturday night and Sunday in the Webb home.

Some from here went to the show Saturday afternoon and night to see Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker on the screen.

Hardy McClary went to Gorman with Francis McDermott

SALVATION ARMY TO MAKE ANNUAL DRIVE

The annual appeal of the Salvation Army will be made this week, W. D. Pedigo, campaigner from headquarter's office who has directed the Army's appeal in this area for several years, will be in charge.

The campaign will be made under the supervision of the country advisory board as follows:

Funds derived from the campaign will be used to carry on the extensive Christian service in this section and the Texas division. They operate without regard to class or creed, and appeal to all who are interested in the neglected or suffering. Every effort to administer the affairs of the work as economical as possible is made.

During the past year in this division, meals were served to 476,000 transients, jobs were found for 4,000 men and women, 97,000 families were given general relief, clothing furnished to 6000 and more than 200 girls were cared for in maternity homes and hospitals. A good percentage of the service is shared by the rural towns and communities.

This appeal, said Mr. Pedigo, is the only one planned for the entire year. Any other solicitation he said, by tambourine or otherwise will be without authority from the Salvation Army, and such solicitation should not be patronized, he said. MEMBER Marvin Powlege from Lampasas visited R. C. Webb and wife Saturday night and Sunday.

I want to thank Mr. Burnham for having one of his men drag the road up to my house. We sure did need to have it fixed. It helped the rough places lots.

We hope after the election the commissioner (whether it is the old or new one) will get some work done on our road.

Sunday afternoon drive out to our oil well. It is just a nice drive. Turn in the plank gate on your right, after you go down the steep hill. BUSH BEE

RATLER (Intended for last week)

Our meeting closed last Sunday night, after going on for two weeks. Bro. Jim Hayes and Bro. J. R. Davis conducted the services. There were five additions to the church. They were Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Bell and daughter, Jewel Collier and Ellis Wallace.

The candidates were baptized at the Stewart crossing Sunday afternoon.

SHE LOST FAT

High Blood Pressure Here's Today's Live News For Fat Women—And Men, Too, Read It—Please.

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly a year for my health, and for high blood pressure and rheumatism and it helped both. My blood pressure was as high as 290 when I started to take Kruschen. I weighed 255 and now I weigh 214, that is losing 41 lbs. in about nine months and I feel fine. Wouldn't go without Kruschen Salts in the house." Mrs. W. Eckoff, Saginaw, Mich.

Besides melting away ugly, excess fat Kruschen constantly keeps the bowels regular and free from waste that is always apt to poison the system.

Fat folks should give Kruschen a month's trial—it never disappoints—you'll feel so much better after taking one inexpensive jar which you can get at any drugstore in the world—keeps you cooler in hot weather.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

English Influence Important In Fall Mode.

The fall mode promises to be dominated largely by British influences. Particularly does this apply to the day time and sports mode, in which one notes decidedly that casual charm inherent in English country clothes. The classic English tweed coat—always smart—is being shown in New York shops in new and flattering interpretations, along with a wealth of new knitted clothes—suits, frocks, sweaters and top coats—these in dozens of interesting yarns including, besides wool and zephyrs, a mixture of these with some of the synthetics in smart tweedy effects. While rich brown and beige have first place in color importance, there are some stunning green shades highlighted in the fall picture. Wide suede and crushed lacquered fabric belts accent some of the models, these matching in color leather and composition buttons, with which most of the models are trimmed. The knitted or crocheted sweater blouse is featured in high style collections to be worn with knitted and tweed suits—and very smart it is in a contrasting shade, accented by big composition buttons matching the suit color.

Green Highlighted Among Fall Colors.

Green in deep rich shades including both blue and brownish casts promises to be decidedly to the fore in fall fashions. Already it's a highlight among smart summer shades, being featured among the better accessories worn with the white costume. One smart shop is showing a stunning synthetic shirtwaist frock in bright chartreuse green worn with a broad navy crushed lacquered fabric belt, navy blue handbag and shoes. Nile water—a softer and more delicate shade of green—is being featured for dressy afternoon frocks, in which it combines stunningly with cameo pink or pale orchid. Green flannel in a bright emerald shade fashions a smart little sleeveless jacket worn with a white rayon plique shirtwaist frock—smart for town or country.

Black Satin Suit Midsummer Style Highlight.

Satin, which is featured just now in the summer mode, finds perhaps its most important style interpretation in the black jacket suit worn with white blouse—the blouse of satin, crepe, organdy, lace or net. While the plain black satin—in both silk and synthetic versions is favored, there are also very dramatic printed satins—particularly those in tiny white polka dots on black background. There are some with tiny flowers widely spaced, and others in checks and stripes. White accessories are featured with some of these models.

Black Velvet Beret Leads In Millinery Mode.

The black velvet beret is the thing now for topping off diaphanous summer clothes. There is no end of new beret stylings featured in New York shops—including the gay and dramatic oversized models as well as the medium-sized, which are more flattering to most. Some are trimmed with grosgrain ribbons. One chic model noted has a corded top that gives the effect of a double brim—another with a lacquered quill trim resembles a Scotch tam. There's a new "fly-away" beret with sides like an airplane—featuring a little composition wing clip. These berets are smart with summer prints and white frocks.

Stripes Important In Beachwear

Gay and dashing and generally favored this season are the synthetic bathing suits in narrow stripes, with the stripes cut on the bias. Blue and white, brown and white, and red and white are favored color combinations. Most stylings are tied on the shoulder and at the back of the waist. These models vie in style interest with the taffeta suit—silk and synthetic—in checks, stripes and plain colors.

New and smart among the taffeta models are those with halter neck lines gathered on a large cord and tied about the throat—giving the very bare sun back effect. All have one-piece jersey suits underneath. Most numbers have little matching hip-length capes.

Summer Nightgowns Victorian

Summer nightgowns have gone Victorian. Lace trimmed, tucked and frilled, one notes them in sheer cottons, as well as in silks and synthetics in satin, crepe and chiffons. White and tea rose are favored shades. One notes also sheer black gowns made of Mouseline de soie satin striped—these, however, not being taken very seriously by any but the very young. Very lovely are the crepe gowns in tea rose printed with all-over tiny rosebuds—these in tailored as well as in the more dressy stylings. The chiffon gowns favored in pink, white, soft yellow, pale blue and light green are often accompanied by lace jacket.

Style Flashes.

With the president off to Hawaii, things Hawaiian are already influencing the mode. The lei-like necklace and bracelet of little flowers are noted, as are other Polynesian motifs.

Odd coats are contributing much this summer to the smart wardrobe. They are often of white worn over dark sheers or prints, with sleeves cut short enough to show the cuffs of the dress.

Cowboy trends in the mode now, with the dude ranch the goal of many a vacationist, include large scarf handkerchiefs knotted about the neck in cowboy fashion. They are seen in cotton as well as silk and rayon, and often in polka dot patterns.

There's one thing in common about the new fall hats—whether they be beret, tricorne or brimmed—and that is they are all very flat, which means that they are youthful.

The vogue for shorts continues. The classic model is fairly short and simple. Particularly favored are those with matching little capes.

"Pains Gone," Says Lady, After She Had Taken CARDUI

In describing how her health improved after she had taken Cardui, Mrs. Ralph R. Courtney, of Wytheville, Va., said: "I was run-down and suffered from pain in my side. I wanted to feel well and get rid of the pain in my side, so I sent for Cardui and began taking it. By the time I had taken three bottles of Cardui, I was feeling much better. The pains had gone. I am very glad to recommend Cardui to other young women." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. 25¢ a bottle, at drug stores.

CENTER POINT

We regret very deeply that we were unable to go to Rock Springs Sunday night, because of the rain.

Since a part of the B. Y. P. U. was to have gone in a wagon, the roads were decided to be too slippery.

We hope to carry them a program, however, next Sunday. We shall have to remain at home because Bro. Sparkman will fill his appointment in the church. Let's all be on hand, at least by 8 o'clock, so we can finish our B. Y. P. U. program in ample time for Bro. Sparkman to bring us a message.

A slow rain fell over the community Sunday afternoon. Parched fields and pastures, for the first time in many days felt the coolness of the raindrops. However, we have heard of the shower in no place exceeding one-quarter inch, yet the drop in temperature, characteristic of a cyclone, brought relief to heat sufferers.

Last week Gordon Williams worked for Fred Davis. Miss Adeline Spinks is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joe Anderson, at Midway.

Several from here went to see Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker last Saturday evening.

Troy Tullos, an expert on "hot shots," came in from sunny California recently.

All were glad to see him out at Sunday school Sunday, even if he did have his hair dyed red.

The Carroll family returned home from Arizona Wednesday. Miss Mary Fallon spent Sunday with Mrs. Alvin Hays of Goldthwaite.

The Hallford home was the scene of much company Sunday. We are all sorry to hear of Bro. Johnnie Long being ill.

Mrs. Fred Davis and children, Anna Beth and Gerald, are visiting in the Lynn home in San Saba this week.

Miss Velma Mason, a relative to the Fallon family, returned to her home in Hamilton county last Wednesday.

Miss Eva Fallon will go back to Hamilton sometime this week. She has a job there and from all accounts, it is agreeing with her.

Misses Doris and Evelyn Robbins came home from San Saba last Saturday morning.

Berley Fallon and Billie Robertson of Big Spring, are visitors in the Fallon home this week.

Lloyd Allen, we understand, is selling washing machines in Hamilton.

That's the way, Lloyd, see to it that the Hamiltonians keep their deeds clean, too.

Last Friday night the youngsters had a 4-H club meeting at the school house. A large crowd of boys and girls came out. After a short business meeting, several songs were sung and about thirty rabs given. Several of the youngsters, after the 4-H meeting, attended a party at Amos Shelton's. Many reported a good time.

Remember, Friday week the 4-H club meets again.

Miss Myrtle Morris
The deceased had many friends in this community. All were sad to learn of her passing. From here a heartfelt sympathy goes out to all whom she has left behind.

Miss Ruby Brooks came home from a visit with her sister in Moran.

Mrs. Ellis Shelton and children spent Thursday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Perry.

C. C. Wesson and Amos Shelton went fishing on the bayou Thursday night. They reported good luck.

Miss Millie Frances Hutchings and brothers spent last Tuesday night with Miss Besse Hutchings.

Why "don'tcha" come out and give Bro. Edgar Jenkins a boost in the Sunday school work? Believe it or not, but Claude (Doc) Shelton and Rube Hammond took active part in Sunday school last Sunday.

Somebody please bring Doc a pair of goggles, so he won't have to pass on his verse next time.

Besides, some of you good folk don't know just what you have been missing since Bro. Joe Spinks, teacher, has been putting more pep into his Sunday school class than a Mexican

CARADAN

(Too late for last week)

The hot winds continue to blow. The farmers are very busy cutting top fodder and heading maize and higeira.

The meeting at Bethel closed Saturday night. Had a good meeting.

Margie and Ollie Mae Featherston are at home from Denton, where they have been attending school.

Mrs. Stame Harwell is visiting her mother and father this week. Bro. Joe Benningfield filled his appointment Sunday at 11 a. m.

Had B. Y. P. U. Sunday night and sang awhile. We invite every one to come and take a part in these duties. They are quite interesting.

Those who visited in the Walter Reynolds home Sunday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jackson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Deward Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Yates of Goldthwaite.

Mrs. Beard spent Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Herman Mc-Niel.

M. C. Koen and wife of Pampa, came in Saturday for a visit to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Koen and Mrs. Harcastle. Circus Koen of Pampa is visiting his home folks here, too, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson and his mother, Mrs. F. M. Anderson, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Page, at Live Oak Sunday.

Last Sunday morning this entire community or county was made sad, when the message came announcing the death of John Leverett, son of Mrs. Will Leverett. John grew to manhood in this community, and to know him was to like him. He was caught beneath a truck, which turned over at Pampa, where he made his home. His remains were shipped back here for burial. Funeral services were held in the Caradan church at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon, among a large crowd of sorrowing loved ones and friends. Bro. Jim Hays and Bro. L. L. Hays conducted the funeral services. It is sad to give up our loved ones, but not as those who have no hope. John professed faith in Christ in 1920, and joined the Baptist church, of which he was a member at the time of his death. Just another flower transplanted from earth to heaven. We can but commend his dear mother, wife, daughter, sister and brothers to the faith in our dear Lord, that is sufficient to sustain. May Heaven seem near because of your interest there, and may you all be reunited around the great white throne. The remains were interred in Mount Olive cemetery beside his little son. We extend our sincere sympathy to the dear loved ones in this bereavement. May the dear Lord bless you all. BROWN EYES cafe man puts pepper into his chili. Come to Sunday school during the morning, then you'll still have all the afternoon in which to sleep.

Clyde Taylor, local Shakespeare on pronology, contends that a prune is nothing more and nothing less than a dried plum.

Some of the boys breathed a sigh of relief Sunday, when they saw Misses Rosa and Evie Spinks coming into the school house. Why? It was because they knew Evie would be able to drown out on the piano some of their vocal discords.

Somebody the other night was commenting on the half moon being tilted over. From all accounts, according to superstition, when the moon gets tilted in a certain manner, it is a "wet moon," and the water is pouring out. We are not inclined to believe too much Indian theory, yet we shall have to admit that we just heard that about a three inch rain fell Sunday in the locality of the place where the spout of the moon appeared to have rested.

Remember, there will be preaching at the school house Saturday night and Sunday. Bro. Sparkman preaching. Also hear the B. Y. P. U. program on "Alcoholism". It will be something different. We invite all our neighbors to come.

DEAD LETTERS

The dead letter division of the Dallas postoffice handles 800 letters a day, it is said. That is really a remarkable record, when you consider the immense volume of mail handled every day. And the poorly and carelessly addressed letters that are posted by so many people. Be careful when you address your letters to write plainly. Then put your own address on the letter. The post-office clerks are, we believe, the finest bunch of men on earth when it comes to doing their level best and doing it with earnest desire to serve the public so that no one may miss his letter. Note From Old Folks' Home Wins $1,000 For Woman, 59

AUTHORS who get into the dollar-a-word class are few and far between, but Miss Mary H. Strader, an amateur, has landed there at her first attempt.

A former nurse and school teacher, Miss Strader found herself two months ago, at the age of 59, without a job. Her family and close relatives in her native town of Port Jervis, N. Y., had long since died. But a homing instinct, which she had resisted for more than a half-century, suddenly asserted itself. Miss Strader packed up and returned to the scenes of her girlhood. She took up her temporary abode in the Home for the Aged.

Living in a community surrounded by wide rural areas, Miss Strader's attention was attracted by the new national movement to make modern radio available for the 10,000,000 homes in the country which are still without electricity. And when a nation-wide letter contest to promote farm radio was announced, Miss Strader decided to compete.

The letter she wrote in her little room in the Home for the Aged was one of more than 58,000 which poured in from all parts of the country to the National Carbon Company, Inc., sponsors of the contest. It pointed out that through the development of the air cell battery, which requires no recharging, rural residents now enjoy radio reception equalling that produced by any electric set.

When the judges met in Washington, D. C., to make the final awards, they chose Miss Strader's letter for the first prize of $1,000, although it proved to be only 144 words long. Her literary effort thus paid her at the rate of $6.95 a word, placing her in the topmost flight of highly remunerated writers.

Persian Murals by Woman Artist Inspire New Style Trend in Fashions for Women

Mrs. George U. Harris wears a Persian turban when lunching in New Persian Room at the Plaza

HISTORY has a way of repeating itself even in the social life of New York.

When the Plaza was opened it became a popular rendezvous for New York's Four Hundred. Dinner parties, supper parties, tea parties and coming out parties were given in the hotel, many of them occasions famous in New York's social annals.

Marjorie Gould, now Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Jr., made her bow to society in the historic Rose Room on January 18, 1908. This was only one of a series of debuts made in this room when coming out parties were extremely formal and conventional affairs requiring that each debutante be accompanied by her maid and her chaperone.

The lobbies and corridors were often thronged with the curious anxious to catch a glimpse of the social celebrities of the day. For instance, on January 18, 1908, an enormous crowd gathered, blocking all of the passageways in the hotel, when it became known that the two most famous engaged couples at that time, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt who was soon to marry Count Laszlo Szechenyi and Miss Theodora Shonts with her fiancé, the Duc de Chaulnes, were to be guests of honor at tea parties that afternoon. The crowd was so great that assistant managers had to escort the guests of honor through kitchens and pantries in order to get them into the room where they were to drink tea.

Something of the same thing is happening at the Plaza today when the Rose Room, once the setting for such affairs as the Pilgrim's dinner to the Prince of Wales and Harry Black's famous dinner for Mrs. Oelrichs, has been transformed into the Persian Room and Bar. The lobbies are thronged daily with men and women who are waiting for tables in the Persian Room. Debutantes and brides-to-be are being feted daily at dinner and supper parties. Fashionable women lunch there and the cocktail hour is universally popular.

The success of the room is due in part to its historic associations, the aroma of those decades of successful social occasions that clings to it, and to the murals which dominate the decorative scheme. These murals were designed by Lillian Gaertner Palmado after old Persian miniatures and prints. They were executed by the Joseph Urban Associates in a modern and individual manner.

The color scheme was determined by the murals which are so striking that the colors, the designs and the atmosphere of oriental splendor which pervades the room have inspired a new trend in women's fashions. Women have taken up the new Persian turban with enthusiasm, particularly for cocktail dances. Persian prints and colors are equally popular for both day and evening gowns.

Tea dances were first introduced to New York in the Rose Room at the Plaza. History has repeated itself in the popularity of the cocktail dance which became a vogue from the day that the Persian bar opened, early in April, under the sponsorship of a group of socially prominent women interested in the New York Infirmary for Women and Children. New York social life is again centering around the Plaza and the Persian bar bids fair to be a worthy successor to the famous champagne porch of earlier days.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Modern Nursery in Red, White and Blue

A nursery in which the psychological value of correctly chosen colors and pleasing design is recognized without loss of practical considerations, is shown here. The modern American furniture is in white, the cleanest and freshest looking of all choices, brightened with trim of cherry red which counteracts the bleakness of white that is unrelieved. The main color prevents no upkeep difficulties, even the nursery, for the furniture is metal, with a virtually damage proof finish made on a synthetic material, especially developed for this usage. It can, of course, be quickly and easily washed.

A rug of blue, woodwork of red, and accents of blue and red in the wall paper, provide an attractive background with just enough warm color (red) to be cheerful, and just enough cool color (blue) to be soothing.

Among the essentially practical features embodied in this modern nursery group, are the screen which shuts out light but not air, and chest drawers which, being metal, will never swell or stick.

Testing the Law

A Mississippi farmer has announced the beginning of a suit in the branch of the federal court in his state to test the right of the secretary of agriculture to enforce the provisions of the Bankhead law against him. In other words, he wants the right to plant, cultivate and harvest as much cotton as he may desire, without let or hindrance. The outcome of his test will be watched with interest, for there is a very fine point involved. The contention that a landowner has a right to plant what pleases him on his own land has some basic truth, to be sure, but just how far that right exists in this time of need must be determined. The Texas Weekly discusses this subject very fully and intelligently and says in part: "Everybody knows that the avowed object and the effect of the Bankhead law are to limit the production of cotton to a stated amount and to fix the amount that each farmer might produce. Everybody knows also that Congress would have no power to provide specifically that only a certain amount of cotton might be grown in any given season or that any farmer might grow only a certain amount of cotton. The plain truth is that by means of the Bankhead law Congress has attempted to do by indirection what it could not do directly. And if the courts decide that the Bankhead law is constitutional, they will decide in effect that Congress may do by indirection what it may not do directly. The Supreme Court of the United States has held that Congress may not do such a thing. But that does not mean that the court may not uphold the Bankhead law."

It is undoubtedly to the interest of the entire cotton growing country for this law to be sustained, for it is the only hope the country has to secure cost of production for cotton. Certainly, if the great mass of farmers would observe the principles of the Bankhead law and reduce production of cotton the same effect would be attained, but experience has demonstrated that such reduction will not be made.

It Will Soon Be Over

The campaign for nominations for a great majority of the state, county and precinct offices will soon come to a close. To be sure, there will be a second or run-off primary ending the latter part of August, but there will be only a few candidates involved. The great majority of the contests will end with the primary next Saturday and while the end will bring relief from the strenuousness of the campaign, there will be an oppressive lull in every community. The present campaign has been one of the most intensely contested the state has experienced in many years. It has been conducted on a high plane and all of the candidates can retain their self-respect and high character. There has been very little of what is known in common parlance as mud-slinging and none at all in Mills county. The candidates in this county have conducted a high class campaign and there has been no abuse or vituperation. Most of the opponents in the various contests are personal friends and several have been heard to speak highly of their strongest opponents. This is as it should be and reflects credit on the men and women engaged in the campaign. This same condition exists almost universally throughout the state and the people have a right to feel that no matter who secures the nomination and election the national, state, county and precinct business will be in safe hands.

Not Our Problem

Suits have been filed in some Texas county in an effort to force the Democratic executive committee of such county to allow negroes to vote in the primary election to be held Saturday. The courts have held very rightly that the Democratic party, or any other political party, has a perfect right to choose its members. A political party is not necessarily open to the public and certainly is not required to allow negroes to take part in selecting the candidates for its members to support. However, this is a question with which Mills county people have no direct interest, since there is no danger of negroes attempting to vote in the primary election here next Saturday, or at any other time. There is a legend that there was a negro citizen, or at least a resident of this county in the long ago, but few there be who could attest the fact. True, there was a negro wedding in the Mills county court house a few weeks ago and the records here reveal that a negro couple secured a divorce here in years gone by, but all of this seems strange to Mills county people, many of whom, among the younger set, possibly never saw a real negro. Nevertheless, we will not be annoyed with the negro voting problem in this county.

A Good Testing Time

In times of prosperity and affluence a test of people's honor and principle can not be made nearly so accurate as in a time of stress and depression. When everything is going well and money is plentiful is not nearly so good a time to find the integrity of the public as a time when it is hard to make a living and pay debts. Many people are inclined to haggle over small matters when they are pressed whereas, if they were in easy circumstances they would be much more liberal. Not only is this true in business affairs, but it is true in public dealings. Those who have been willing to carry their share of the public burdens during a time of hardships and deprivations can be depended upon to do the right under better conditions. It is the stress and hardships that really prove the spirit and intent.

A Record Vote

There should be a record vote polled in the primary election Saturday. Many platforms have been promulgated, many issues have been brought into the campaign and every qualified voter should take a share of the responsibility in passing on these questions. A candidate who receives the nomination has a right to believe that his policies have met with the approval of the tax-paying voters of the state, district or county in which he has made his campaign. He should, therefore, be given full expression of the voters, for it is only by voting for men that these public measures are adopted or rejected. Every man and woman qualified to vote in the primary election next Saturday should go to the polls and vote their sentiments.

Health Hint

HEALTH REPORT

Austin, Texas, July 25.—Asked who is responsible for reporting the occurrence of typhoid fever, tuberculosis, measles, whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and other "catching" diseases to the health department, Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, said:

"According to the laws of Texas relating to the public health, a physician is required to notify the health officer of the city, town or county in which the illness occurs, immediately and in writing, of each case of a notifiable disease that is under his professional care. Then in turn notify the state department of health."

"But the responsibility of reporting the diseases that are usually spoken of as 'catching' and that spread from person to person, or are contracted in handling or eating contaminated foods, or in drinking contaminated water, or that are spread through the bites of insects or in handling infected animals, is not limited to the doctors in attendance on such cases. Parents, guardians, householders, hotel-keepers, superintendents of institutions, principals of schools, public, private or parochial, masters of vessels, owners or operators of dairies or ice cream manufacturing or distributing plants, are also charged with the duty of notifying the nearest health officer of each actual or suspected case of a 'catching' disease that comes under their observation."

"A health department is a department of public safety—much like a fire department. Immediate reporting of the 'catching' diseases is asked in order that the disease fighting activities can be gotten under way, without delay, to safeguard those who are in contact with or exposed to these diseases and to prevent the diseases from spreading to others."

A reduction of 20 per cent in the rate charged by the Lone Star Gas Company at the gates of more than 250 Texas cities, ordered by the Texas railroad commission, Saturday was held unreasonable and unjust by a Travis county district court jury. Three days after it began deliberation, a jury of three natural gas consumers and nine non-consumers held for the utility company in the second rate case tried before a jury in Texas.

Until she becomes 12 years old 8 year old Margery Randolph Daniel must live within an income of $20,000 a year. This was part of an agreement reached out of court Thursday in a suit brought by her special guardian for an accounting over $1,000,000 trust fund established for her. Margery is a granddaughter of W. C. Durant and daughter of Robert W. Daniel, former president of the Liberty National Bank and Trust Company, who lives on the Randolph family ancestral home, Brandon Hall, in Virginia.

John Dillinger, notorious outlaw, was killed Sunday night, when trapped by agents of the department of justice. It was the culmination of months of intensive hunting for the desperado by federal men. Definite identification of the body was made by finger prints. Dillinger swaggered from a neighborhood theatre in Chicago into the raking fire of government guns. Too late, he saw the trap. His hand went for a gun, but he was too late. Three bullets tore into him. One in his neck and two in his body. The notorious fugitive sprawled on the pavement in a crumpled heap.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEWES OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

A REALISTIC EXECUTIVE

In reporting upon the record of his first six months of administration, Mayor LaGuardia of New York City forecasts the adoption of a national system of social insurance to replace present unscientific local relief methods. New York's problem is similar to that which confronts the great majority of American municipalities today. Most of them are borrowing, like New York, to cover current relief outlays, in the hope that the emergency will only be temporary.

Mayor LaGuardia refuses to harbor these illusory hopes, and deprecates the fact that the city has "already piled up millions of dollars to be paid by future generations in addition to any emergency they may have to meet in their own day." While looking forward, therefore, to the development of something better than the present dole system, he proposes immediately to raise additional sums by taxation. Methods of raising this needed revenue are already being discussed—a certain indication that the mayor does not propose to impair the credit of the city which he has done so much to restore.

Mayor LaGuardia understands that sound financial methods are essential to any enduring system of relief. He is approaching the problems of his great municipality with an enlightened realism which might well be emulated by the national administration.—Washington Post.

THE NEW DEAL

The new dealers, in the last analysis, are simply pioneering across new horizons of political philosophy, and in their quest for elusive answers to the complicated social anomalies of our time they have found it expedient to divorce their progress from many policies previously considered fundamental to the American government. Whether they are right or wrong, whether the goal they envisage is reality or illusion—and not whether they are Democrats or Republicans—is the serious and intelligent issue of the national campaigns.

The New Deal will be justified at the polls, and it is proper, of course, that it should be. An embryonic, struggling experiment, it is still in that turbulent evolutionary stage paralleled by movements of gigantic social significance that have rocked our prosaic world in many a convulsive age. But in this epochal transformation it is not improper that reasoned criticism be voiced, that conscientious objections be made. Prosperity will be more permanent and sound if achieved under conservative restraint. By bulwarking themselves behind constitutional fundamentals, the Republicans will be of service as an influence toward the "right." The pressure of sinister, un-American political doctrines, bristling sub rosa in the San Francisco strike, is all too portentous of the danger on the "left."—Texas Weekly.

THE HONEY BEE

The bee never bothers man unless man bothers the bee. The bee is the most serious minded of all the hymenoptera, more serious than the genus humanus. The bee attends to its own business, seeking work wherever it may be found and not grumbling at the wages. If it has to fly 20 miles to find a job, it flies the 20 miles. But it can express disapproval of any interference in its personal bee business. And it expresses itself in a positive manner. In times of general drouth the bee's wages are very low. It often works all day for a wage that could be put thru the eye of a needle. But little as the wage may be, a portion of it is put away against the winter's blight. The bee knows there's going to be a winter without consulting the almanac. So it provides against the forthcoming unemployment. From what we are saying about the bee a stranger might suppose we rate the bee's intelligence higher than that of man. But not so. We think more highly of men than bees. Men are statesmen, warriors, scientists, journalists

JAPAN'S POSITION

Japan is in the position of certain other powers in this day and time of disregard of obligation, when she comes seeking readjustment of existing agreement. She has not always lived up to established rules in the past. Japan invaded Northern China, set up the new state of Manchukuo and has allegedly fortified islands held under the League of Nations mandate after withdrawing from the League all in violation of the spirit at least of existing international agreement. When it comes to the matter of the 5-5-3 naval power agreement, however, Japan seems anxious that all abide by formal treaty provisions though equally anxious that the formal agreement be changed to favor Japan at the earliest possible date.

The reason for the two attitudes is not hard to discover. In the invasion of China, the setting up of Manchukuo and the possible fortification of mandate islands, Nippon held the whip hand under the complicated conditions arising from her disregard of treaty rights. Japan knew that she could do these things without fear of intervention by world powers. But in the matter of naval armament, Japan holds anything but the whip hand. In a free-for-all, navy-building race which might follow discarding of the international agreement, the Nipponese with their limited resources and weak fiscal condition would be at a disadvantage. So Japan wants a treaty, and treaty observance.

What the world needs today is treaty observance, and there should be no thought of letting one violation justify another. But the world needs fewer rather than more treaties, if some powers are to be guided only by selfish interest in their regard for agreements after they are drawn. The United States is right in standing for a general, not bilateral, non-aggression pact covering her interests in the Pacific.—Dallas News.

WHEN A GOVERNOR THREATENS COURTS

Ten telephone companies in Georgia have been ordered to reduce rates by a state public service commission whose members were appointed by Gov. Talmadge, after he had ousted their predecessors. The companies which object to making these cuts have been told by a three-judge federal court that under the new Johnson act they must first seek their relief in the Georgia courts. And now Gov. Talmadge threatens to appeal to the voters and "beat the sand out of" any state judge who may interfere with the rate reduction program by issuing injunctions.

Even if Georgia state courts ruled against the telephone companies these corporations could appeal to the supreme court of the United States for a final decision. All that the Johnson act requires is that a utility company fighting a rate reduction order must exhaust its remedies in state courts before it goes into the federal courts.

But beyond the question of the merits of this rate order is the grave matter of the chief executive of Georgia, who is a power in politics, threatening judges with defeat at the polls if they don't do what he wants done.

A governor who, trusting in his own political popularity, undertook to browbeat and bulldoze the state courts and got away with it would have usurped the functions of the judicial system. We can't have free institutions and we can't have justice without independent and impartial courts.—Arkansas Gazette.

and other great things. Bees on the other hand are unprogressive, unaware that the twentieth century, ignorant of the advancement out of medievalism into modernism. The bee's methods are the same today as when Sappho kept an aply in Lesbos, and whose honeyed kiss gave Alcaeus dyspepsia. The bee is the same old bee, but man, oh, what isn't he?—State Press in Dallas News.

IMPROVING SUGAR SOURCES

Louisiana being on the northern rim of the tropical sugar cane belt, more insistent calls upon science have to be made by our sugar planters to find and maintain varieties of the plant that will meet the greatest number of the special conditions the industry encounters in our latitude.

A few years ago much progress was made by the introduction of certain POJ varieties, developed first by the Dutch experiment station of Java. These were more resistant to the mosaic disease than at the time threatened determination of previously popular cane types. But the industry was not yet, and perhaps never will be, entirely satisfied, and research goes on. That is a branch of scientific study which the federal department of agriculture is especially fitted to carry on, covering, as that organization does, the entire field of the United States sugar-growing lands.

From this source, the special work having been performed at Canal Point, Fla., there were released early this month two new cane varieties, which it is pleasing to see, are not attributable to Java scientists, but to our own American experts. For this reason the two new canes are prefixed with CP, signifying Canal Point, and, of the experiment station's series, there are designated 28-11 and 28-19.

Reports made on these new sugar sources are, of course, too technical for full comprehension by lay readers unfamiliar with the many intricacies of cane planting problems. Our northern location in one respect has been a difficult one, since canes here in general have had but a single year of cropping, from the original planting, in competition with the continuing "stubble crops" that save so much cane-growing time and expense for the Cuban plantations. However, the new varieties now being released are said to possess the desired stubble cropping attribute.

This factor, plus the new cane's tolerance toward mosaic and other cane diseases, gives promise of saving the sugar planter many of his familiar, not to say historic, worries. But, as the Washington report concerning these cane novelties asserts, the ideal cane is still around the corner, so the research work continues.—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

SANCTUARIES FOR ANIMAL LIFE

Sportsmen of the nation who have been urging the establishment of sanctuaries for bird and animal life probably have an unexpected ally in the great drouth now affecting the nation. Many a state is now wishing it hadn't drained all its swamps, hadn't eliminated its lakes and ponds or been so quick to clear drainage streams of obstructions.

The need for a preservation of inland bodies of water, and of forests, is now felt very keenly. Doubtless government agencies will soon be busy trying to re-establish them. Incidental to the program will be the possibility of fostering and protecting game and fish life.

The thinking sportsman has a message that will greatly interest the average man and woman if the latter will but heed it. That message is being spoken in Houston just now through the Harris County Game and Fish Protective association, an independent association of responsible and public-minded Houston citizens. It has much to say concerning a proper observance of game and fish laws in our own territory, and of the need of a great sanctuary system over the country.—Houston Chronicle.

MONEY AND CREDIT

A report from the National City bank of New York states that the oft-discussed industrial and utilities have made less than 1 per cent profit during the last four years. Well, that knocks our argument into a cocked hat. We knew we hadn't made anything. Now, if they haven't, who has?—Atlanta Citizens Journal.

MENTAL NUMBER TRICK

Request someone to think of a number, but caution him to keep it to himself and not tell you. Then have him double it. When this is done ask him to add, say 10. Then tell him to take away half of it. When he has done this tell him to take away the first number he thought of in the first place, and as quick as a flash you tell him what he has left.

In this particular case it will be five. Regardless of what the spectator thinks of, his final answer will always be just half of the number you tell him to add. As an illustration: Suppose he thinks of 25. You tell him to double it and then add 10. This will make a total of 60. Have him take away half of it, which leaves thirty. Then have him take away the number he thought of, which was 25. His answer will be five, which is just half of the number you told him to add.

If you tell him to add six his answer will be three. If 14 was the number you told him to add seven would be the result. This can also be worked out in fractions. If you tell him to add seven the result will be three and a half, etc.—Pathfinder.

There were 713 licensed pilots flying 408 airplanes in Texas at the beginning of this month, it was reported by the bureau of air commerce. In only five other states—California, New York, Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania—were there more pilots or planes than in the Lone Star state.

The state supreme court late Saturday denied two negroes in Jefferson county permission to seek a writ of mandamus to compel election officials to permit them to vote in the Texas Democratic primary. The Democratic party has an inherent right to determine the qualifications of its membership, the court held in an opinion by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton.

The contention that Bonnie Parker, partner in crime of the once notorious Clyde Barrow, met an "accidental death," was made in a suit filed in Dallas Saturday, claiming accident insurance. Bonnie and Barrow were riddled with bullets May 23, when they tried to speed away from officers ambushed beside a Louisiana highway. Both were wanted for a long string of major crimes.

A husband's privileges do not extend to calling his wife "nit-wit", because her bridge game is below par, a circuit judge in St. Louis ruled in a divorce suit Saturday. He granted the wife of a clothier restoration of her maiden name and $100 a month alimony after she testified her husband, irritated in a bridge game, threw down his cards and called her a "nit-wit, a fool, idiot." A sweeping survey of drouth ravages in Texas reveals that losses to farmers and stockmen already have mounted into untold millions of dollars and, unless relief comes soon, the damage may increase sharply. From the vast cattle ranges of the Big Bend country to the cornfields of North Texas, and from the wheatfields of the Panhandle to the truck farms along the Rio Grande, the prolonged period of dry, hot weather has caused a costly slump in crop production and denuded the grazing areas of adequate forage.

Secretary Wallace announces that work will begin immediately on a $75,000,000 project to plant a forest shelter belt 100 miles wide extending from the Canadian border to Texas. President Roosevelt in an executive order signed July 11, and released Saturday, allocated $15,000,000 emergency funds to begin work. The shelter belt, which will extend more than 1000 miles thru North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and into the Texas panhandle, will be designed to furnish permanent alleviation of drouth conditions through the mid-west. The area immediately affected will be approximately 20,000,000 acres, of which 1,820,000,000 acres will be planted to trees. According to the plans outlined by F. A. Wilcox, chief forester, wind breaks about seven rods wide, running north and south will be planted one mile apart.

The state department explained to Germany Friday that Hugh Johnson spoke as an individual and not for the United States government in Iowa last week, when he assailed Adolf Hitler's purging of Nazi storm troops. The explanation was made in response to a protest from from the German embassy in Washington. The protest was caused by a statement by Johnson in his speech at Waterloo, Iowa, that he had been made very sick physically by the wholesale executions without trial in Germany. Johnson said in his speech that he had seen such revolting incidents among semi-civilized people and half-drunken savages, but that it was incomprehensible that they should occur in a country of culture.
