ROCK SPRINGS

There were twenty-three at Sunday school Sunday morning. I don't believe there were any parents, who had all their children at home for Mother's day Sunday. My children were real nice to their mother.

If I haven't been misinformed, school will be out this week. It has been a very successful term.

We wish to express our sympathy to our postmaster, M. Y. Stokes, Jr., in the loss of his father. Also to our ex-postmaster, Frank McDermott, in the loss of his mother. May God's richest blessings rest on each family. It is our loss, but heaven's gain.

I am hoping our editor will soon be up and back about his office work. Mrs. Thompson makes a fine helper, but we need him.

I guess everybody has received from one to a half dozen chain letters. Some were lucky right at the start, but the ones who really needed the dimes won't get any.

Mrs. Shipman was very unlucky one afternoon last week. She walked out on the porch and some way lost her balance and fell off, hurting herself, but no bones were broken.

Joe Davis and family took J. C. Stark and wife to Center Point to visit their children.

Ben Davis and family enjoyed Mother's day with A. F. McGowan and wife in Rabbit Ridge section.

W. A. Cooke and Horace went to Winters Saturday after Nellie Dee, who taught at Harmony this term and was re-elected. They visited Bob Cooke while away.

Will Stark and wife, who have lived in this community for years, sold out not long ago. They are moving this week to town on Parker street in the Howard Trent place. They will be missed, as they lived here so long. We wish them good luck and good health.

Herbert and Horace Cooke are at home, after teaching school at Mount Olive and Center City. They were both re-elected. We are proud of these young men.

J. O. McClary and wife ate dinner with John Roberts and wife Sunday. In the afternoon they called on Mrs. Shipman in the Circle home.

Those who visited in the Cooke home Sunday afternoon were Marvin Spinks and wife from Rabbit Ridge, J. C. Stark and wife, Joe Davis and family, J. R. Davis and wife and Mrs. Eula Nickols.

J. S. Bowles and wife, Orby Woody and wife, Mrs. Lula Gatlin and Miss Love from town, looked over the Gatlin farm on Sunday afternoon.

Bert Wright and family from town called on Joe Roberts and family Sunday afternoon.

Haskell Gatlin from Rabbit Ridge spent Saturday night and Sunday with the Nickols boys.

R. E. Collier sprained his ankle Saturday afternoon, while in Hamilton.

Joe Davis and family spent Sunday in the J. C. Stark home.

Gus Roush and family from San Angelo spent Mother's day with Mrs. Roush's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Robertson. Their son stayed for a longer visit. Woody Traylor and family also spent the day in that home.

Mrs. Eula Nickols visited in the Frank McDermott home Thursday afternoon in the Rabbit Ridge community.

Gus Haridendorf from Houston and his mother and Donald Haridendorf from Colorado and C. H. Ford and wife from town visited Mrs. Nickols and boys Friday afternoon.

August Kauhs and wife, Philip and Shirley Nickols visited in the Kauhs' home Sunday at Bulls Creek. Shirley spent the night.

Haskell Gatlin from Rabbit Ridge helped James Nickols drive some cattle to Vernon Tyson's farm, north of town Sunday afternoon.

Murna, Waldine, Bernice and Oliver Traylor and their mother visited in Marion Roberson's home at Rabbit Ridge Sunday afternoon.

Miss Lois Dewbre from town is helping her brother again this week.

John Roberts, J. O. McClary and wife, Joe Roberts and wife, Miss Kathleen Cockrum and Mrs. Eula Nickols attended Grandmother McDermott's funeral Saturday morning.

Last week this community was dodging paper agents and the 'Watkin's man. They were nearly as bad as the sandstorms. It kept the women on the lookout, for fear they would see they were at home. I can't believe any of them got rich selling papers out in these parts.

Ben Davis and sons went to the bayou fishing Saturday night. They had good luck.

Louie Kemp Davis spent Saturday night with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. McGowan, at Rabbit Ridge.

Rudolph Cooke and Joe Almos Davis sat until bed time with Mrs. Nickols and Phillip Sunday night.

Marion Jetton left Saturday morning for Oklahoma.

Jesse Lowe and niece from the Rabbit Ridge section, attended Sunday school Sunday morning.

Mrs. E. D. Roberson and children came home last week end. They had been in Brownwood at the bedside of her mother.

The Thursday night rain came as usual. It was fine. BUSY BEE

COWBOY BAND TO GO TO EUROPE

A second invasion of Europe will be made in June by the famous Cowboy Band of Hardin-Simmons university accompanied by a party of West Texans. Four years ago the Cowboy musicians toured the continent and were widely acclaimed everywhere they appeared.

Five foreign countries: England, France, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland, will be visited on the month's tour as arranged by university authorities. Secretary of State Cordell Hull has already sent instructions to foreign diplomatic missions requesting that every courtesy be extended to the Texas visitors while abroad.

Leaving Abilene on June 16, the Cowboys will go to New York City. A half-day stopover will be allowed at Washington to permit the party to see the many places of interest in the national capital. The West Texans are scheduled to sail June 19 and return July 21.

MAY ACQUIRE RAILROAD

"With engineers of the Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe reported inspecting the Frisco line from Fort Worth to Menard, looking to acquisition of the system, rail patrons here look to faster mail, passenger and freight service for San Angelo. Officials at Fort Worth would make no statement, but it was reported the engineers were examining the title to the right of way," says the San Angelo Times, taking note of the rumors that have been current for some months of a proposed Santa Fe-Frisco deal. The paper continues: "By acquiring the line, the Santa Fe could shorten its distance to Lubbock and San Angelo by lopping off the angle down by Temple. The purchase of the Frisco lines west of Fort Worth by the Santa Fe would give San Angelo the fastest train connection into Fort Worth and Dallas of any other combination of lines in existence.—Brownwood Bulletin."

SANTA FE DAY TRAIN MAY COME BACK

Belton citizens have been advised that the Gulf-Colorado & Santa Fe railroad is considering the idea of resuming operation of day trains on the western part of the system and that day schedules will be resumed about June 1. The new schedule is said to

The motor car is a good customer of everybody..

THE map above tells only part of the story—the little-known story of the inter-relation of the Ford V-8 car and the farm.

The figures in the map are based on what will be used this year if the Ford Motor Company reaches its intended production of 1,000,000 cars and trucks.

WOOL goes into upholstery, floor coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations.

LEATHER goes into upholstery—and in addition, glues are made from cow hide, and from cow's milk... Other parts of cattle, through other processes, yield stearic acid, greases, glycerine (for shock absorbers and body enamel) and soap chips (used in washing machined parts and bodies before painting).

HOGS furnish lard oil, oleic acid and brush bristles.

GOAT'S HAIR (Mohair) goes into upholstery.

BEESWAX goes into electrical imbedding compounds.

COTTON goes into tires, batting, cloth, battery box, timing gears, brake linings and, not least important, into Safety Glass. (Every Ford V-8 car built this year will have Safety Glass in every window, at no extra cost to the car buyer... Cotton, in the form of cellulose acetate, is the central part between the two sheets of glass that make up every finished sheet of Safety Glass.)

CORN yields butyl alcohol (for enamel finishes and other purposes) and starch (for stiffening cotton linings).

LINSEED OIL is the basis for paint—is used in foundry cores—and is one of the ingredients of the beautiful, synthetic baked enamel finish on a Ford V-8.

SUGAR CANE yields molasses for solvents, anti-freeze and shock absorber fluids.

CASTOR OIL goes into lacquers and artificial leather suitable for rumble seats, where real leather would be damaged by exposure to the weather.

TUNG OIL is part of the top material used in Ford cars and is also used in brake linings.

TURPENTINE is used in paints, adhesives and solvents.

SOY BEANS are used in making cores for metal castings in our foundry and are also an important part of the baked enamel finish of a Ford V-8 and of the plastic knobs and buttons in the car's interior.

LUMBER is used for packing purposes. It is used for any structural part of the Ford car, which has a welded, all-steel body, reinforced with steel, for maximum safety.

Commencement Exercises
 The senior class wishes to extend an invitation to the people of Goldthwaite to be present at the high school commencement sermon Sunday morning at the junior high school auditorium at 11 o'clock.

Rev. Duke of the Methodist church of this city will be the principal speaker of the morning, and the seniors feel sure that he will have a worthwhile address.

Thursday night, May 23, at 8 o'clock the senior class will assemble in the school auditorium for the commencement exercises. Dean Davis will be the principal speaker for the evening. There will also be music and other entertainment for the evening.

Miss Doris Robbins will deliver the valedictory address and Bentley Clements will deliver the salutatory address.

Senior Class History
 In the year of 1930-31, a boat excursion was planned for the students who had graduated from the seventh grade. The excursion was to last for four years, and the boat would put to port once a year. At each port new passengers were added to the list, so it was necessary to keep a record of all passengers. Those who registered at the beginning of the journey were Beatrice Bledsoe, Jack Bradley, Ima Lois Bayley, Lawrence Bledsoe, Bentley Clements, Allan Campbell, Daphane Evans, John D. Ford, Fatima Faulkner, Vergil Howard, Mary Louise Fairman, Doyle Wilson, Wayne Hamilton, Wallace Johnson, Gertrude Johnson, Grace Chilton, Ruth Obenhaus, Jack Saylor, Edward Soules, William Todd, Sterling Kirby, Harold Yarborough.

When the boat put out from port on its four year journey of knowledge, there were many people at the dock to give words of encouragement and praise to those who were about to venture into the unknown seas.

There were many hardships in store for these adventurers. The ship had been away from port only three weeks when one of the members, Allan Campbell, was taken sick. He was returned to land, but joined his companions at the next port.

In 1931, when the boat put to port, one of the adventurers, John D. Ford, left his companions and moved to Austin. The ship stayed in port three months, and then started on the second year of the journey. A new passenger, Norman Black, was added to the list. The ship completed the second year of the voyage without mishap. It put to port and all the present adventurers registered for the third year of the voyage.

In September, 1932, the captain of the ship gave notice that he was ready to begin the third year of the voyage. The ship drew anchor and was ready to sail. But wait! A lone adventuress, Naomi Langford, hailed the boat and asked permission to come aboard.

During the third year of the voyage, the hardships were almost overpowering. There was geometry, Caesar and English, which had to be overcome. Some of the adventurers were defeated by their enemies and were compelled to combat them in the fourth year of the voyage.

At the end of the third year, the ship put to port intact. The passengers began to look about the boat to see what they had accomplished. Each fully realized that he had only one more year in which to make a record for himself.

On September 11, 1934, the ship began the last leg of the journey. The captain received requests from many students to allow them to join the adventurers. To the list of passengers was added the names of John D. Ford, Robert Burner, Clovis Letbetter, Clara Blackwell, Vondee Geeslin, Billy Johnson, Virginia Long, NaVerne Lee, Clyde Taylor and Doris Robbins. The ship had completed over half the last year of the journey, when one of the passengers, NaVerne Lee, had a serious heart attack and returned to land, in order that she might enter the bonds of matrimony.

To date the ship is in sight of the end of the journey. Each passenger has made a mark for himself that will follow him thru life. Some of the adventurers look back upon some of their past deeds and wish they could correct them. The captain now gives orders to lower the anchor. The ship is brought to the end of its journey and down the gang plank step the proud seniors of 1935. Leading the happy adventurers are Doris Robbins, Bentley Clements, Mary Louise Fairman, Lawrence Bledsoe, Harold Yarborough, Vergil Howard, Allan Campbell, Wallace Johnson, Clara Blackwell, Ruth Obenhaus, John Reese Graves, John D. Ford, Gertrude Johnson, Robert Burner, Iba Lois Bayley, Grace Saylor, Jack Bradley, Norman Black, Jack Chilton, Daphane Evans, Fatima Faulkner, Wayne Hamilton, Billy Johnson, Sterling Kirby, Virginia Long, Naomi Langford, Clovis Letbetter, Edward Soules, William Todd, Clyde Taylor, Doyle Wilson, Vondee Geeslin, Beatrice Bledsoe.

There is a rumor that a new ship has been chartered to go on another voyage, which will be much harder than the previous one. Many of the seniors will register for the journey that will end only with death, and many will remain at the port in which they now live.

May 24 To End Class History
 By Vergil Howard

As the members of the senior class march forward next Friday to receive their report cards, the final curtain will be drawn to signify the end of the history of the senior class of 1935. Some of the seniors have hitched their wagon, under the name of ambition, to a star, and will follow in the path of that ambition during the coming years. It is better for a young man or young woman to set a high ambition in life and fail to reach it than to never have a spark of ambition.

The senior class will leave behind it memories of happy, care-free days that will soon become past history. Most of them have learned that life is what you make it, and whether or not they are prepared to put something into life is yet to be seen.

It gives our townspeople a proud feeling to point to a young man who has accomplished something notable and say, "He came from our town, and is a graduate of our high school."

The senior class of 1935 will go down in the school history as the best bunch of sports and all-around students ever graduated from Goldthwaite high school.

High School Herald Editor Extends Appreciation
 I wishto thank those who have helped to make the High School Herald a success this year. The words of encouragement and praise that you have given has been deeply appreciated by the staff.

It was the aim of the school paper to bring you school news that would be of interest and enjoyment. Whether we have been successful in this is for you to decide. We sincerely hope that you have enjoyed the paper we have published for you, and it is with deep regret that we make this the last issue of the high school Herald for 1934.

To the coming editor, associate editor and reporters, may they take up where we have left off and make the school paper something that everyone will be proud of.

PRISON POPULATION IS LARGEST ON RECORD

March was a record month for the Texas prison system, more new men being committed to the penitentiary than in any month heretofore. This inflow helped to swell the prison population from a low for 1935 of 5088 Jan. 24, to its present count of 5633. In addition to 409 new inmates, 59 former prisoners were returned. Of the latter, three were parole violators, six conditional pardon violators, eight furlough violators and 11 returned escapees.

Since Jan. 24, Governor Alford has revoked 40 executive clemencies. Issued before he came into office. In the same period he issued 35 paroles, three furloughs, one full pardon and six conditional pardons.

In February and March of 1934 former Governor Ferguson issued 66 paroles, 34 furloughs, eight full pardons and 104 conditional pardons.

Statistics on the 409 commitments for March of this year show that 122 were convicted for burglary, 71 for theft, 33 for murder and 37 for violation of the Dean liquor law.

Incidentally, convictions under the Dean law decreased from 128 for the first three months of 1934 to 57 for the corresponding period of 1935.

DO YOU WANT TO GO UP AND UP? BALLOONS STOP UNDER 18 MILES

Eighteen miles above the earth is as far as humans can ever expect to go, unless they travel by rocket. This is the absolute "ceiling" for balloon carrying men and scientific instruments, in the opinion of two United States bureau of standards experts.

Their announcement of this balloon limit is of interest in connection with plans for a new stratosphere flight this summer by the National Geographic Society and the army air corps, which will see the largest balloon ever built, containing 3,700,000 cubic feet of gas. This is 700,000 cubic feet more than the capacity of the balloon used in last summer's ill-fated flight.

Eighteen miles is not very high. It is only twice as high as the air plane altitude record of 44,819 feet, only three times as high as Mount Everest, tallest mountain in the world, only half again as high as the stratosphere balloon record of about 12 miles.

The 18-mile "limit" is set by Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, director, and Dr. L. B. Tuckerman, both of the Bureau of Standards. Dr. Briggs is chairman of the scientific advisory committee for the flight of this year's National Geographic balloon.

They set the limit at only 18 miles, because the higher a balloon rises the larger it must be, and it would be impracticable to build a balloon enormous enough to rise beyond 18 miles. Even to reach 18 miles, a balloon almost twice the size of the new balloon would be needed, containing 6,000,000 cubic feet of gas. In high altitudes, a balloon's capacity must be doubled for every additional 20,000 feet it rises.

It would be possible, says Dr. Tuckerman, to build an enormous balloon a mile in diameter, twenty-eight times the diameter of the National Geographic army corps balloon. Calculations show that this is the largest balloon that could be built without danger that the fabric would tear apart of its own weight.

A mile-thick balloon would rise far higher than eighteen miles, but difficulties of launching and handling, to say nothing of the cost, would be so great as to make its construction impracticable.

A balloon one mile in diameter would need an enormous amount of ballast, and the storing and of releasing of it would be a serious problem. No large weights could be carried, for they might injure some one on the ground when they fell. Therefore, an enormous load of sand or small lead shot would have to be taken.

CCC ENROLLMENT DOUBLED

Texas' quota of young men to join the civilian conservation corps has been nearly doubled by an increase from 14,200 under the old program to 26,880 under a new program. It was announced last week by Neal Guy, enrollment supervisor for Texas.

Enrollment under the new quota will take place between June 15 and August 31, Guy stated, at which time county relief administrators will receive applications from young Texans desiring to go to civilian conservation camps. Heretofore, applicants have had to be between the ages of 18 and 25, which has now been stretched to a ten-year bracket of from 18 to 28. Part of the men accepted will be sent to camps in nearby states, the rest to camps in Texas.

"Application should be made to the county administrators," Guy instructed applicants, "and not to the Texas relief commission. The administrator is the selection agent for his county's quota, and the delay entailed in making application through this office invariably lessens the applicant's chances of acceptance."

Increase of Texas' quota follows President Roosevelt's authorization to increase the national quota from 300,000 to 600,000. It will enable Texas officials to bring the old quota up to full strength and take in from 10,000 to 12,000 new men.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... Senior News

The senior play, "Silas Smidge From Turnip Ridge" was a great success. The house was packed, which encouraged the players and the music was good. The seniors wish to thank everyone for coming out and helping them defray their expenses in this way. We thank the musicians, too. They played a great part.

We hope to see many present at our graduation exercises, which will be held Friday night, May 24.

Tribute to the Glee Club

These have been good days and bad days, many happy times and hard work, and untiring efforts among the groups of glee club girls of '34 and '35. Some have worked faithfully through two years of success and victories, failures and disappointments. All of this does not keep the Priddy high school Glee club from standing up as an organization we are proud of and we expect to have it live through the years to come.

Spring brings so many excitements, that we feel we almost stop "kicking," but we surely have not. All we are doing is to give other organizations a chance—those that must have time in order to make ready for the coming graduation. We bring these last three weeks to a close, we wish to introduce these willing workers. They are as follows: Hilma, Ethel, Irene, Louise, Esta, Helga, Lillie, Catherine, Viola, Edna, Bertha, Velma, Hazel, Ida, Nelma, Mildred, Ethel Hill, Mary June, Nelda, Gwendolyn.

Jokes

Fred: Darling, will you be my wife?

Hazel: Will you always let me do just what I like?

Hazel: Can mother live with us?

Fred: Of course, dear.

Hazel: Will you give up the club and always give me money when I ask for it?

Fred: Willingly, my dear.

Hazel: I'm sorry, I could never marry such a booby.

Viola: I do wish you'd learn not to drop your aspirates, Fred. You never hear Mutt doing it.

Fred: Pitye isn't as careful with 's vowels—e's I. O. U.'s laying about all over the place.

Bro. Renfro filled his regular appointment this week end. There was no singing in the afternoon, as the date has been changed until the third Sunday afternoon in each month. I think Bro. Renfro will preach the second Sunday afternoon, also.

This week finishes up this term of school. It seems as though everyone will be glad. Our two lady teachers, Misses Frye and Ducey, will return to their homes until school reopens this fall and they will again resume their duties. They will be missed. Mr. Robbins will be here yet for awhile.

Our community received more light showers this week. The farmers are surely getting behind with their work. Nevertheless these good rains are appreciated.

I hope no one feels offended for I failed to get all the news this week.

BO-PEEP

MOUNT OLIVE HIGH SCHOOL

Last week closed our term of school. Although we miss the association with each other we are glad for a vacation.

Wednesday night was graduation evening. Nine members graduated from the senior class: Velma Leach, Vera Koen, Mildred Wilcox, Eva Koen, Alvin Guess, T. H. McArthur, Cecil Huckabee, Jack Bleeker and Clinton Harris. Mildred Harris was valedictorian and Velma Leach was salutatorian. Vera Koen read the class will and Eva Koen read the prophecy.

Six members graduated from the seventh grade: Juanita Benningfield, Lorene Hodges, Joe Bailey Kirby, Eldred Lane, Ovid Burkes and Ruben Lamson.

Supt. Tolbert Patterson from Mullin was the principal speaker. His talk on the qualifications of a good citizen was enjoyed by all.

Thursday night, a 30-minute play, entitled "Sophie From Sandysville," was presented by the seniors. Due to the stormy weather, the rest of the program was postponed.

Friday a large crowd attended the picnic—even though it was very muddy. Lunch was served to all. In the afternoon the primary and intermediate grades rendered a very interesting program. Later the school boys and the outsiders played a baseball game.

Miss Blackwell gave prizes to the following for making the most perfect spelling papers.

Third grade: Clovis Qualls.

High Second grade: Evelyn Whorton. Low Second Billie Wilcox.

Euna V. Harris was given a prize for winning the most stars in the "Wash-up Campaign."

Glendon Benningfield and James Lane for bringing milk to school every day, were given a prize.

Boozy Couch received a certificate of award for having not been tardy or absent for the last two years.

To show their love and appreciation of Miss Blackwell, the high school students, 10 boys and 10 girls, each pieced an airplane block for a friendship quilt, out of school colors and put their name in the center. They presented it to Miss Blackwell on the last day of school. The look of surprise and gratitude was thanks enough for their work.

We wish to thank Mr. Stewart, and Mr. Lester for helping us with our lights this year. Mr. Fairman for the use of the carpet for our plays. Mr. McCullough for the use of lumber. Mrs. Leona Roberson, Mrs. Neal, Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Crawford for the use of fixtures and fixtures for the stage, also all others who have helped in any way to help make our school a better one.

We're wishing everyone a pleasant summer and bid you adieu until next fall.

Class Prophecy

Last month I visited "Willard the Wizard," I asked him to tell the fortune of each member of the senior class ten years hence. This is what he said:

I am looking in my crystal. I see nothing. My crystal is not clear tonight. Oh, it is turning a pale green. Now a dark green. Now objects are beginning to appear. Yes, but they are bushes. All bushes, chiny bushes. I see some white objects sitting back in a small clearing. This looks like a house, a three-roomed house. It is and it must be a school house. The door on the left is open and inside the room I see Miss Blackwell, Mr. Smith and Mr. Coke talking to five boys and four girls. They must be seniors of Mount Olive high school, because Mr. Smith is giving them a lecture on "Choosing an Occupation." If Mr. Smith only knew what I see in this crystal he would not finish his lecture.

The crystal seems to be whirling now. Oh, yes, it is unravelling the ages of time.

I am real dizzy from looking. I see old people. I see young people. I see happy people. Oh, I see people! People! People! Now I see industry. Now farms, now ranches, now water, now space, space. Oh, I must have fainted. Wait just a minute and when I recover a bit I will tell you what I see.

The crystal is turning again. Now it has stopped. I see a goat eating the leaves from a morning glory vine. This is a milk goat and from the height of the sun it must be about milking time. Oh, now I see a shed. No, it is a shack. Yes, a small two-room shack made from pine logs. It does not look like a run-down farm. It shows that some young man has proved his art of harnessing nature. The cabin is a small one and made of logs, but it is neat. It even looks cozy. The smoke is rising from the fire place. The whole scene seems to show contentment.

I see a short bow-legged man about five feet and three inches tall, wearing a black shirt, coming up the trail from the spring, carrying two buckets of water. Three milk goats are following him. He must be happy, 'cause he is whistling a love song. He is not a bachelor, because the wind is proudly blowing baby clothes that are hanging by the corner of the house.

The door of the shack opens and a slim woman stands in the door way. She has black, wavy hair and sharp, brown eyes. Her lips are large and show a mouth full of white teeth. She has a baby in her arms. They look at each other a moment, then he takes the baby and she says, "Elton, let's name our boy Richard for his grandfather."

The man smiles and replies, "Mildred, I knew you would give him a good name." They kiss each other and close the door.

I see a large new car rolling up the driveway of a beautiful brick house in a town in southern California. The moon is shining through some orange and the town is quiet, because it must be after midnight. A tall, handsome man steps from the car. He has a brown complexion and light brown hair and blue eyes. He has on an expensive linen suit, a genuine Panama hat and a diamond ring, but he is not smiling. He seems sad, and a little nervous. He stands by the side of the door as his wife steps out. She is also tall with brown hair and brown eyes. Her dress shows that her husband is enjoying prosperity. She is a beautiful woman, but let me add here that beauty alone does not make happiness. No, not even beauty and wealth. Clinton has wealth and Vivian has beauty, but they are not happy. They have been to a party and have quarreled the whole evening. Clinton is able to control men, but he can not handle Vivian.

I now see a ship on the Atlantic ocean. This ship is riding waves that are thirty feet high. I see a short sailor standing by the rail, chewing tobacco. He has a collection of pictures that he is amusing the other sailors with. Yes, they are pictures of girls—girls from all parts of the world. This sailor says: "My seafaring friends, I have been able to teach girls by the score, but none of them satisfy—and this blonde is the cause. I was in love with Norma Lee, when I was a school boy at Mount Olive, but she seemed to prefer a big black headed hozo to me, so I guess I will never have a home of my own."

One of the other sailors spoke up and said, "Well, Cecil, we sailors don't need a wife."

I now see a crowded court room in an eastern city. I see a large man that weighs about 310 pounds, talking to a large, fat, red-headed woman. The woman also weighs about 300 pounds. She has on a nurse's uniform and seems to be a bit worried.

The large lawyer rises and addresses the judge, "Your Honor."

The judge answers, "Mr. Bleeker."

The lawyer continues, "My client, Miss Eva Koen, wishes to thank you and the court for your kindness, but she still thinks Mr. Lane should be sent to the pen for life for misrepresenting her weight to a man that was advertising for a wife."

The crystal is turning again. I see a pretty woman of about 30. She has blonde hair and blue eyes. She has a perfect form and a sweet countenance. But some thing is the matter with her. She is holding two cats in her lap and an old cat and six kittens are sitting by her chair. Yes, she is an old maid and probably will remain such, because Mr. Cooke still is teaching school and as Vera hates school and teaching she will not consent to be the wife of a school teacher.

The crystal has turned again. I see something red. Oh, yes, it is the nose of a tall man with sandy hair and brown eyes. He has two boys in his lap and one around his neck. The boy around his neck says: "Papa, are we going to Grandpa Hodges Sunday? And one of the twins in his lap says, "No we are going to visit Grandpa Green."

The crystal is turning again. I see a broad, rolling prairie. The sun is scorching hot and I see several men looking through a level at a target. They must be engineers, because they are doing some figuring. One of them is a small man with black hair and sharp brown eyes. He seems to be very positive and his manners are perfect. Yes, T. H. is an engineer and a good one. He must have received his foundation for math at Mount Olive school.

The glass crystal is turning. I see the Pacific ocean. I see some islands. Now I see a cross-eyed man with a long pigtail. Now, I know I am looking at a newspaper office in China. I am looking at an American girl. She is about middle aged. She is rather a stout woman, but has a very pleasing personality. She has light hair and her eyes are gray. She is writing something now. It is not news for a paper, but a letter to someone back in the U. S. A. She is writing to Alvie Doyle Eppler. I can not see the front page, as she has it turned over, but this is the way the letter ends: "Alvie dear, I can hardly wait until May. I know I will be so happy with you. My hope chest is packed full. I remain as ever, your true lover, Velma Leach."

Now I see the Mount Olive school house again. I see Mr. Smith, Miss Blackwell and Mr. Cooke are still teaching there. It is after four o'clock. Mr. Smith is getting in his car with his wife. Two children are in the back seat and his wife has another in her arms. Miss Blackwell is still single, but is still doing her best, 'cause she is stamping a letter to a Mr. Aubry Hudson at Gatesville. Mr. Cooke is sitting at his desk. He has a few gray hairs just above his temples and a few wrinkles. He is reading a small yellowed card and this is what is on the card:

Mr. Cooke is cordially invited to attend a banquet given by the Mount Olive seniors at the high school at 8 p. m., April 20, 1935—Vera Koen.

Now he is sighing. I believe he is about to cry—oh, to bring back the days of long ago!

EBONY

J. B. Jones of Brownwood de- livered a very interesting lecture on the Townsend Old Age Re- volving Pension here Sunday af- ternoon.

Don't forget the picnic Satur- day, May 18.

Several attended the graduat- ing exercises at Indian Creek on Tuesday night. Miss Monta Ray Crowder, Miss Odene Russell and J. R. Reeves, all of Ebony, were among the graduates.

Cleone Haynes visited Ruth Mashburn Sunday.

Mrs. Nellie Malone left Thurs- day for a visit to her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Bean, at Van Horn.

Miss Nell Guthrie, who is at- tending Daniel Baker college at Brownwood, spent the week end with her sister, Mrs. W. H. Reeves.

Roy Reynolds and family, who have been out about New Mexi- co for some time, arrived at the Meek Russell home Sunday af- ternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin Cawyer and little daughter, Edna Beth, have arrived to spend the sum- mer at Sunny Heights, home of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Dwyer. Mr. and Mrs. Cawyer finished their school at Valley Spring last week. They have been elected to teach at Pasche in Concho county next year.

Ralph Wilmeth has finished his school at Millburn and has returned home. He expects to attend John Tarleton college this summer. He will teach at Big Valley next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Reynolds and little daughter, Miria Nell, left Monday morning for New Mexico. Roy Reynolds and family have moved on the Reynolds place.

The Reeves family were pleas- antly surprised by a shower of relatives who called on them for a short while Sunday afternoon. The visitors were Clay Reeves of Nashville, Tenn., brother of the late John Reeves; his nephews, Clay, Reuben and Dick Reeves of Gulfport, Miss., and Roscoe Reeves of Gorman, all sons of the late Bill Reeves; Gale Reeves of Houston, son of the late Chas. Reeves and grandson of Bill Reeves; and Mrs. Bill Reeves of Gorman. The young Clay Reeves and his brother, Reuben, were accompanied by their wives. We regret that they could not stay longer. The Bill Reeves family used to live in this community, and there are friends here who would surely have enjoyed see- ing Mrs. Bill Reeves again.

Dr. Locker and Mr. Ehlinger, highway engineer, met J. R. Wilmeth, W. M. Clements, R. M. Haynes and J. C. Crowder at the river near the mouth of Wil- barger Saturday morning. They were exploring a site for the crossing of the Brownwood-Rich- land Springs highway.

Roy J. Clark of Rotan will, the Lord willing, begin a meeting for the Church of Christ here, beginning Friday night before the fifth Sunday in June.

Remember, next Sunday is Bro. Caldwell's day to preach here.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

The May issue of 'West Texas Today' carried an article by A. Morton Smith, editor of the Gainesville Register that was stranger than fiction.

Back in 1930, he conceived the idea of lending a helping hand to an ailing little theatre group that was in the slough of depression. The big brother's unique idea was a burlesque venture in the circus line. The community volunteer performers enjoyed the sawdust ring and prospered in their amateur performances. Many happy leisure hours were spent by the Gainesville citizens in practicing for the circus. Popularity increased and, now after five years, the circus has more offers than they can fill, owing to the busy life of the county judge, who is the dean of the clowns and his partner is the beloved town physician, who is always crowded with his patients. The mayor, too, of this good city is president of one of the leading banks, is the circus snare drummer and a good one.

Their first out-of-town engagement was in Denton in 1931 under the auspices of the Den- ton county fair. Popularity in- creased and invitations had to be declined, as the busy actors — mothers and business men, could not afford the time.

Four separate organizations in Wichita Falls alone, are now seeking to sponsor fall engage- ments. The Gainesville circus has filled engagements at Austin, in the memorial stadium at the University of Texas, also at Dallas, Fort Worth, McKinney and Sulphur Springs, Okla.

Today the circus is famous and much talked of at home and abroad. Recently the American magazine sent a staff of writers from New York City to Gaines- ville to spend a week gathering data for an article on the show. Acts have been photographed for motion picture news reels and the spirit of brotherhood and co-operation is now reflect- ing broad upon the waters cast for the circus.

TEXAS DELEGATES STOP AAA SHOW

Undaunted by their special train reaching Washington Tues- day, after the AAA program in Constitution Hall had already commenced, the Texas delegation marched into the hall singing "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You," and business was tempo- rarily suspended while they were welcomed.

The delegates heard President Roosevelt apply the short and ugly word to certain critics of the AAA program, which the 4500 delegates to Washington had come to endorse.

Wednesday the delegates took for sightseeing while in the Sen- ate Republicans charged that their trip to Washington had been financed by the adminis- tration for political purposes, a charge which Democratic Sena- tors hotly denied.

NOTED TEXAS WOMEN'S CLUB LEADER DIES

Death has claimed one of the most outstanding leaders of farm women and a prominent figure in the Texas Federation of Wo- men's clubs.

Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, widely known as the "Poet Laureate of the Panhandle," died in Claude, Texas, May 15, of pneumonia, after an illness of a few days.

She was a nationally known lecturer and was a candidate in 1932 for congressman-at-large. Her sphere had become interna- tional in 1916 and 1917, when she addressed the world congress on dry farming. She also was wide- ly known as a writer and con- ducted columns in a Fort Worth paper and in other periodicals for a number of years.

Gov. Hobby named her in 1920 as the Texas representative to the National Congress of Farm Women at Hagertown, Md., and later appointed her to represent this state at the international

Cheerfulness Over Business Conditions

The gloomy sentiment which accompanied the slowing down of business expansion in February and the recessionary tendency in March gave way to a more cheerful feeling during April, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. Several factors contributed to this change in sentiment.

- (1). It was recognized that the failure of business activity to show a steady upward trend during the first three months did not prevent business from making the best first quarter's showing since 1930. This was taken as an indication that the long-term recovery movement was still in progress. (2). Cheerfulness was stimulated by the resistance of business activity in April to an extension of the decline which showed signs of starting in March. (3). The passage of the work relief bill providing for the expenditure of $4,880,000,000 of public money was expected to give business considerable support in the not distant future. (4). The interstate commerce commission's decision to permit some increases in freight rates, raised the hope that the railroads might find it possible to keep their heads above water for awhile at least. (5). The government's action in converting its outstanding First Liberty bonds to a lower interest rate basis was taken as evidence that sound financial policies had not been thrown overboard altogether. (6). Fears of labor troubles were quieted by the failure of threatened strikes to develop in the bituminous coal and rubber industries. (7). The dullness of retail trade in March was replaced by a noticeable pick-up in April under the stimulus of Easter buying. (8). The prices of basic commodities, after showing a tendency to weaken in March, resumed their upward trend in April. (9). Rumors of an immediate war in Europe subsided and fears over the economic disturbance which such a conflict would cause were temporarily set at rest. (10). It was recognized that, despite devastating dust storms in parts of the United States, it was still possible, in view of the seriousness of the season, to count on the improbability of the repetition of any such general drought as occurred last year. It was consequently felt that the chances were good for the harvesting of larger crops, especially in view of the government's removal of restrictions on the planting of spring wheat. (11). Emphasis was placed on signs of increasing activity in corporate financing. (12). It became probable that many of the radical proposals before Congress would be either dropped or greatly modified. The indications that congress would not decree the destruction of public utility holding companies was especially conducive to cheerfulness. Sentiment was also helped by the prospective modification of the NRA and the removal of at least some of the restrictions of that act which has done so much to retard economic recovery. (13). Numerous court decisions against federal interferences with business made it plain that the freedom of individual action which has been the basis of the great economic progress of the United States in the past was still far from being eliminated. (14). A sharp rally in the stock market and a stronger bond market contributed materially to the development of a happier attitude.

Bergdoll the Slacker

When this country entered the World War, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire son of a millionaire, did not volunteer. There was nothing wrong about that. Many good soldiers waited for the draft, and their patriotism has not been impugned thereby. But when Bergdoll's name was reached in the draft he still did not respond. Even then, if his refusal to serve his own country in time of war was due to a conscientious belief that his own country was in the wrong and the country of his forefathers, Germany, was in the right, he could have entered a non-combatant arm of the service, or could have gone to prison rather than violate the dictates of his conscience. But Bergdoll did none of these. Solely because of his riches he was able to evade the army and evade the law and escape to Germany where he has lived a fugitive ever since. Now his German wife has come to this country with the expressed intention of making some sort of deal with this government in order for her husband to return to the United States, be pardoned for his offense, and receive the million dollars that the government seized at the time of his escape. The fact that he has an aged mother in this country and a wife and children who desire to become American citizens has no bearing on the case. Bergdoll is still a fugitive from justice and any clemency shown him now would inevitably create the feeling that once more his money had enabled him to escape the justice many poorer men have had to face. His wife knew all this when she married him. Perhaps that million dollars which the government holds may have a fascination which the government itself failed to exert. Let Bergdoll stay where he is!

Taxes Cost More Than Food

Last year, according to the United States News, the American people paid $1,035,000,000 for medical services, $2,150,000,000 for fuel and light, $3,600,000,000 each for clothing and for home rental, $7,630,000,000 for the most basic necessity of all, food—and $9,000,000,000 for Taxes! The increase in taxation—local, state and national—is the most startling and menacing economic development since the world war. It was not so long ago that we used to pity overtaxed European countries, in the belief that we were escaping their experience. Today, with the cost of all forms of government soaring in the face of diminishing taxable assets and earnings, we are very close to the European level. Recently England, one of the heaviest taxed countries, enjoyed a general tax reduction, made in the interest of industrial recovery. The United States, unhappily, has no such prospect. A great part of the tax money does nothing to encourage industry—some of it is actually used for projects and experiments which discourage and throttle private initiative, retarding employment, rather than increasing it. Industrial recovery and employment are inextricably bound up with the tax problem. Until government retrenches, all our efforts to go forward will be largely futile.

Health Hint

THREE COLDS A YEAR

A person who is subject to colds may count on at least three colds a year, his fall cold, his winter cold and his spring cold, but has a good chance to escape other colds between these fateful dates. It is reported in a memorandum on colds prepared for the British Tuberculosis Council by Dr. Ernest Ward. The chief thing that helps one to catch cold, Dr. Ward believes, is to be individual susceptibility. Some people naturally catch cold easily. Others almost never catch cold. No one knows just why these differences exist.

SUICIDES DECREASE

A report of the bureau of vital statistics, state department of health says, "Contrary to public opinion, the number of suicides in Texas has decreased during the last few years. There was an increase from 616 suicides in 1930 to 772 in 1931 and a further increase to 828 in 1932, which was the greatest number of suicides that occurred in Texas during the past five years. Following 1932, suicides have decreased from 828 that year to 722 in 1933, with a further decrease to 705 in 1934.

"While suicides have decreased there has been a gradual increase in fatal accidents, which totaled 3112 in 1930 as compared with 4013 fatal accidents in 1934.

"The increase in accidental deaths has been closely associated with the use of motor-driven vehicles. In 1931, there were 23 deaths due to collisions between automobiles and railroads, as compared with 69 similar deaths in 1934. Fatal accidents in air transportation increased from 27 in 1932 to 46 in 1934.

"The greatest increase, however, was found in automobile accidents involving no other vehicles. The records of 1934 show an increase in accidents, there has been a more appalling increase in homicides. The Texas mortality records show 576 murders in 1930 and 1016 in 1934, an increase of 440 or 76 per cent during that five-year period."

NEW ORGAN HAS NO PIPES

A Chicago gentleman named Laurens Hammond has done, with apparent success, what thousands of musically inclined inventors have tried to do for years—namely, has built an organ with the tonal grandeur of a huge "pipe organ" which can be installed in a one-room apartment.

Although in theory any tone quality may be had in the new instrument, it has no pipes, no reeds, no air pump, and it can not get out of tune, according to its enthusiastic inventor.

The console is about the size of a small upright piano, and comprises two manuals, a large assortment of odd-looking stops, a pedal clavier, and a tone cabinet the size of a small radio. But it is not a radio product, there is no microphone, and therefore, there is no "reproduction."

The tone is produced electrically, by means of a set of small wheels, revolving silently in front of rows of small magnets. The wheels have varying numbers of "bumps" on them; as each raised place passes the magnet it induces a slight current. If the bumps pass the magnet at the rate of 440 a second, the induced

KEEPING UP WITH SCIENCE

The only known family in which the mysterious "bleeders' disease" which runs in the family of the former king of Spain shows up in the women of the family instead of in the men, has been reported to the eugenics record office of Cold Spring Harbor, Long Island, by Dr. A.W. Lindsey of Denison University, Granville, Ohio. This disease, technically called hemophilia, ordinarily occurs only in males, but is inherited only through females, so that all the sons of the Spanish royal family are bleeders while all of the daughters apparently are normal. It is expected, however, that these daughters will pass on the bleeders' disease to their sons, should they have any, which is said to be the reason why the former king was anxious that none of his children marry so that the inherited defect should not pass on to another generation. Altho modern medical science has devised several treatments to aid this disease, including one which consists in injecting the poisonous venom taken from living snakes, there still are many deaths from the disease each year. Any small cut or wound from something like a minor automobile accident may prove fatal because bleeding can not be stopped. Even extracting a tooth, lancing an abscess, a bitten tongue or a small accidental cut during shaving may cause death. In four generations of the family reported by Dr. Lindsey similar conditions exist in the women and are inherited by the daughters but not by sons. Whether the apparently normal sons can transmit this unusual form of the disease to their daughters Dr. Lindsey has no data to decide.

Men and women should live to be 180 years old and soviet scientists propose to help them do it, according to recent announcements in Moscow by Prof. P. P. Lazarev of the Russian Academy of Sciences. Professor Lazarev has been working for years on the signs of old age shown by the nervous system, especially the nerves and brain centers, which have to do with such senses as sight, hearing and touch. This nervous machinery is found to have its greatest sensitivity early in life. With advancing age the sensitivity slowly decreases; sometimes faster, sometimes slower, according to the individual, even without any definite cause for premature blindness, deafness or other loss of individual portions of the sense machinery. To measure this decrease Professor Lazarev and his associates have developed special methods and instruments especially some which measure accurately the gradual loss of each day in a kind of tidal rise and fall of the eye as judged by ability to perceive very dim light after the eyes have been for a definite time in darkness. This ability is found to vary each day in a kind of tidal rise and fall, being greatest at about 2 p. m. and least at about 3:30 a. m. By calculating the rate of decrease year by year of this and other nervous sensitivities, Prof. Lazarev estimates that these sensitivities in people not ill or otherwise abnormal all would decrease to zero in about 180 years. Since there is no unquestionable instance of any human being having lived longer than 180 years, it is concluded that this marks about the natural span of life for persons who have no diseases or injuries. Moscow health authorities therefore propose to set themselves the goal of eliminating all disease or other causes, which now kill people prematurely at less than 180.

Uncle Sam is a sensible head of the household who does not wait to sharpen his carving knife until the turkey is served. The navy and the army are putting their tools on edge for such occasion as might arise. The United States would be foolish indeed if it did not make stiff preparation and practical test for defense needs on the west coast as well as on the east. With insular possessions in the Pacific and Asiatic commerce to protect, this country has a stake in the Orient, with the navy the sole guarantee of its safety.

The fleet maneuvers opening this week, involving 160 ships and 450 planes, concern only the eastern half of the Pacific. The western boundary is the international date line. This scheme leaves outside the pale three insular possessions, Wake, Guam and the Philippines. Northward, the maneuver plan abandons the international date line so as to include the entire stretch of the Aleutian Islands in the war game.

Should war come with any important sea power, west or east, the Pacific would form an important part of the navy's chess board. This week it is learning how to move the pieces.—Dallas News.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

FLEET MANEUVERS

Of course neither the government nor the navy has heeded the silly protests against Pacific maneuvers for the fleet. So this week American sea forces begin what is probably the most important and large-scale test of sea operation it has ever undertaken. This is no threat or demonstration for the benefit of Japan, nor for any other nation. The truth of that assertion can be discerned in the fact that practically simultaneously the army in the New England and Middle Atlantic area, in conjunction with the National Guard and the reserve, is staging land maneuvers on a comparable scale.

FAITH IN AMERICANISM

Dr. Ernest Hopkins of Dartmouth college made a clear statement recently in behalf of that much discussed issue, academic freedom.

"I have never been willing to accept the principle of any restriction of what students should hear or talk about," he said, in a speech before the Alumni association.

"We have a few undergraduates now who would like to think themselves communists. That's better than having them all think alike.

"Undergraduates should be required to learn the fundamental principles of government, economics and social relations, with historical knowledge illustrative of these."

Even the facts of governmental systems, which stand for the suppression of freedom for themselves should be taught, he argues, for "I believe that fallacies of such systems will reveal them-

WHEN GEORGE V BECAME KING

In the 25 years during which George V has sat upon the British throne, eight important countries have disestablished their monarchies: Germany, Russia, Austria, Spain, Turkey, Portugal, China and Greece. Only 11 important countries still keep British company in holding to monarchy: Belgium, Bulgaria, Denmark, Hungary, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands, Norway, Rumania, Sweden and Yugoslavia.

When George V ascended the throne, Great Britain was governed by a liberal ministry under Asquith. Predictions of war were heard as a result of the naval and industrial competition of Germany, but not one foretold that within 15 years the British prime minister would be an avowed socialist at the head of a labor party.

American newspapers of May 6, 1910, told that President Taft was cutting short a speaking tour because insurgent Republican senators had mutilated the administration railroad bill.

Speaker Cannon had persuaded a house committee to hold back the bill, already through the senate, establishing a postal savings system. Civil war pensions were being increased. William Jennings Bryan had said he was not a candidate for the 1912 Democratic presidential nomination. Charles E. Hughes had resigned as governor of New York to go onto the United States Supreme court bench.

Before a congressional committee, Secretary of the Interior Ballinger was being grilled by Louis R. Brandeis, attorney for Louis R. Glavis. In Illinois, the election of Senator Lorimer by the legislature was being investigated. Attorney-General Wickensham had called President Taft the coxswain of the Republican administration crew.

President Corey of the United States Steel Corporation explained that "underlying conditions are sound," and that 1910 would be prosperous if average crops were raised. A federal report showed that the Bethlehem Steel Co. was working one-fourth of its employees 12 hours a day and seven days a week. Many of the skilled workers were on a 63-hour week, and sometimes were put in addition on over time. Many of the laborers got only 12 1-2 cents an hour.

Ex-President Roosevelt, at a meeting in his honor in Norway, called for a league of the nations to preserve peace, by force if necessary. London gave an ovation to Admiral Peary for having discovered the North Pole. Aside from such items of direct American import, the newspapers carried practically no foreign news. Less than two pages were devoted to sports in the largest papers. Christy Mathewson had pitched a no-hit game for the New York Giants and Edward P. Weston, 71, had walked from coast to coast in 77 days. Clergymen were trying to prevent the Jeffries-Johnson fight, scheduled for July 4. Marie Dressler opened in New York in "Lillie's Nightmare."

Transaction on the New York Stock Exchange took up little more than half a column. Only 155 stocks, largely railroads were traded in on May 6, 1910. American Can was selling at 10, B. & O. at 109, New Haven & Hartford at 151, Consolidated Gas at 135, Sears-Roebuck at 158. Over 100,000 automobiles were registered in New York State, and the secretary of state of New York said that the automobile was fast becoming something more than a rich man's plaything. A 40-horsepower car called the Koehler was advertised at $160.

A round trip to Berumda was advertised for $20 and first-class passage to Europe for $50 ($70 to Italy). The newspapers were filled with complaints of the high cost of living and many strikes had been called.—From Editorial Research Reports in St. Louis Post Dispatch.

During April Massachusetts celebrated the 900th anniversary of the founding of the Boston Public Latin School. This was the first public school on the continent the establishment of which was celebrated as "the beginning of the American public school." A bronze tablet at the old location bears this inscription: "From the seed planted here grew the American system of education." Strangely enough this "first public school" is 141 years older than the nation itself. It was founded April 1635. During a previous meeting of the town one Paul Mon Parnot was introduced as "schoolmaster for teaching and nurturing of children with us." Its high conditions have been maintained down through the years by famous men are numbered among its graduates.

SECURITIES LAW

A concerted effort to control of Texas the fraudulent dealers of securities will be made in terms of a new law passed by the legislature. The measure replaces the Sky law.

Under the terms of the legislation every dealer in securities must register with the secretary of state after a hearing. The licenses of dealers, agents or salesmen revoked for cause by the state after a hearing. A salesman will be permitted to use his license in an effort to influence a customer believing that the state of the stock which he is selling.

Before securing a license a salesman will be required to show something of his past record in the securities business. It is believed that he has been practicing fraudulent practices will be issued.

The new law is designed to prevent stock speculators in themselves do not permit fraud but salesmen times do.

The law seeks to regulate the control of the human element in no case does the attempt to say to an investor "This is a good stock" is a worthless security. The law recognizes the fact that investments are speculative and varying degrees.

The public is cautioned to the smooth-talking salesmen who does not present satisfactory and accurate credentials. The files of the secretary of state will be open to public inspection to determine whether or not salesmen are registered. Information is available to who seek it.

In certain cases the selling matter used in connection with the sale of securities will be submitted to the state. Virtually every security commonly used in business comes within the new law, by virtue of its tentative definitions. No one will be able to evade the law by avoiding the names of securities. Among other things oil and gas are defined as securities.

"The heart of the bill control given to the state dealers and salesmen available for the representation made in the sale of securities. Secretary of State George Mann said.

The law was passed by the legislature at the insistence of Alford and Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann, and was signed by Representative Reed of Dallas and sponsored in the senate by Senators Hornsby of Austin and E. M. Frisby of Brownwood.—Stephens Tribune.

FIRST PUBLIC SCHOOL

During April Massachusetts celebrated the 900th anniversary of the founding of the Boston Public Latin School. This was the first public school on the continent the establishment of which was celebrated as "the beginning of the American public school." A bronze tablet at the old location bears this inscription: "From the seed planted here grew the American system of education." Strangely enough this "first public school" is 141 years older than the nation itself. It was founded April 1635. During a previous meeting of the town one Paul Mon Parnot was introduced as "schoolmaster for teaching and nurturing of children with us." Its high conditions have been maintained down through the years by famous men are numbered among its graduates.

The celebration this year followed a military review by the school's student body. There was a pageant depicting the school, but also the birth and growth of the nation. The celebration also included the presentation of a tercentenary banner and a huge alumni banquet. —Times, Geneva, N. Y.

Three-year-old Vance Cole, of South Purrumbete, Victoria, had a three-foot snake coiled round his ankles—and was not bitten. His mother declares that he was saved by his fearlessness. "He often sees eels," she said, "and probably thought this was just another of them."

In the face of a promised veto, the senate last week joined the house in voting for cash payment of the soldiers bonus by a $2,000,000,000 issue of new currency. The bill was passed by a vote of 55 to 33, far short of the two-thirds required to override a veto. After a few formalities, the bill was sent to the White House and was vetoed by the president. Administration leaders predicted the veto could be sustained in the senate.

A gigantic pie, bigger than any thing yet attempted will be baked in the Yorkshire village of Denby Dale, to celebrate the royal jubilee. For two centuries, it has been the custom there to celebrate an event of national rejoicing with the baking of a large-scale pie. Two pies already have achieved fame. In 1928, 20,000 portions of one pie were sold for the local hospital. In 1846, 31 horses pulled the pie and 60,000 people were at the distribution.

A LIBERAL POLICY

The Eagle has been more liberal than judicious in the matter of subscriptions for the past three years, owing to the depression, but the time has come when all newspapers are being required to cull their lists to those who really want and pay for the paper. One requirement recently brought to the attention of the Eagle management is that the paper can only be sent through the postoffice at the second class rate to bona fide subscribers and business men who carry advertisements and are entitled to a copy of the paper to check such advertisements, but the old "free and easy" policy must be abandoned.

Bennett of the soil erosion department, United States department of agriculture, characterizes soil erosion losses in this country. "Although three centuries have passed since the first successful colonization, much of our ruined land has known the plow for scarcely more than a generation." A nation-wide survey of the soil erosion service shows that approximately 50 million acres of once fertile land have been ruined for practical crop use by erosion, with another 50 million acres in almost as bad condition. This 100 million acres is equal to 625,000 farms of 160 acres each.

"The Distinguished and Increasingly Popular NEWS-WEEK"

NEWS-WEEK is a weekly newspaper published in the form of a magazine; a news-magazine. It operates like a great daily newspaper; it is served by more than five thousand correspondents in the strategic news-centers of the world; its telegrams are fed twenty hours a day by radio, by cable, by wire. Yet it functions in a way difficult in the daily presentation of news; it incorporates in its treatment of events a background of fact possible only through remorseless research on innumerable fronts; the pictorial fact completes its presentation. Daily newspapers keep news-readers abreast of the events of the moment; that is the peculiar duty of the newspaper. Busy news readers read NEWS-WEEK to gain a brief, compact understanding of all the week's news they need to know.

Rhythm Symphony Dewolf Hopper Win Radio Reward

Ranked By Radio Institute Among Twenty-Five Best Programs on the Air

The Radio Institute of Audible Arts, organized to raise the standard of radio entertainment, recently announced its selections of the best programs on the air.

Well up among the leaders was America's First Rhythm Symphony, composed of sixty-five picked artists from the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra, under the direction of Hans Phlath, with the beloved Dewolf Hopper as narrator.

Playing classical and semi-classical favorites in rhythmic style, America's First Rhythm Symphony has brought a new technique to the air. Already it has received the compliment of wide imitation.

That the public has taken to this novel presentation of favorite melodies is also clearly shown by the results of several recently conducted surveys.

In answer to this manifestation of popular demand, America's First Rhythm Symphony with Dewolf Hopper will continue its presentation of favorite melodies each Sunday afternoon straight through the summer.

A new time schedule for these programs goes into effect on Sunday, May 19. The new time is 4 p. m., WFAA, one hour later than formerly.

W. M. U. LEADER TO HOLD SCHOOL

It is with pleasure and gratitude that we announce we are to have Mrs. J. E. Leigh, Dallas, our state corresponding secretary of Texas, in our association Tuesday, May 21, for a "School of Instruction."

We will meet with the Mullin Baptist church at 10 a. m. Mrs. Flora Jackson Goldthwaite, will bring the devotional. Mrs. Leigh will then have charge of the conference for the entire day. Our work will be based on "The Year Book" and "Things We Should Know." Let's be looking over these books again and be ready to ask any question we are interested in, about any phase of our work. Mrs. Leigh is not new to us. She has visited our association before and most of us know what a charming speaker she is. Her wide experience and deep interest in the work will be helpful to us and we can not afford to miss this opportunity.

Wouldn't it be fine to have 100 women in attendance. Let's set that number as our goal.

We have fourteen Baptist churches in our association and I hope we will have a good number from each church, whether you have an organization functioning or not. This will be a good opportunity to receive information and inspiration relative to new organizations.

We shall carry out the lunch idea, as we have heretofore in our associational meetings.

MRS. ELIZABETH McDERMOTT

In the death of Mrs. Elizabeth McDermott last Thursday night, Goldthwaite and Mills county lost one of their most esteemed and highly respected pioneers of this section. Mrs. McDermott lived with her son and his family in the old family home, about five miles west of town. She had been a sufferer of long duration and death, no doubt, came as a relief to her.

A more extended notice appears in another column of this paper.
