Methodist Notes

As there were no services at the Methodist church last Sunday evening, some of the folks went, I suppose, to the other churches, while others took advantage of the opportunity to drive, or sit in the breeze at home. Our congregation at the morning hour was all that could be desired, the short and interesting sermon that Brother Duke preached and also the communion service.

The Baptist meeting is starting well, and the services that this writer has been able to attend, have been interesting and profitable. Let everybody take advantage of the opportunity to attend. The good received will be in keeping with the investment which you make. If you attend faithfully, listen to the sermons and join heartily in the devotion, great good may be expected. Not only are the sermons of interest, but the singing is, as always with our Baptist friends, good. The song leader is of a high order. Let us get all the possible good out of the meeting.

I heard a good joke a few days since and as it involved one of our Mills county citizens, I should like to pass it along.

One of our ladies from a country district had meandered from home on a visit. She found herself sitting at breakfast in one of the hotels of a certain city. Across the table from her sat one of those gentlemen who have a profound respect for their own opinions, no matter upon what that opinion may be based. He seemed to rather suspect that Solomon had missed much in his arduous tasks in solving his problems in not being possessed of the wisdom that he, the traveling man, possessed. So, he at once became a source of profound wisdom to enlighten the Mills county ruralist. With a becoming degree of modesty he began a conversation by informing the lady that the dries seemed to be carrying on a very active campaign to prevent success in disposing of the Texas prohibition laws. To this suggestion the Mills county reuben was rather indifferent. This was an opportunity, of course, for some real missionary work, which opportunity was used to the utmost by our wise man. Finally he advanced this profound argument. He said: "There is no use to talk about it. Our people are not going to be driven to do things. When we tell them they shall not do things they are going to do them anyway, simply because they are forbidden. As a result we have drinking everywhere and for the simple reason that an attempt has been made to prohibit it."

"Yes," said our hayseed sister, with a very great degree of humility, "I rather suspect you are right about that. I had never thought about that before. I suspect that the reason why we have so much stealing, bank robbing, murder and so many kindred crimes is due to the fact that we have laws against these things."

The wise man looked out at the window and remarked that it was clouding up and he would not be surprised if we had a shower real soon. He then arose with a polite bow and went on to other fields more promising to his profound intellect.

This reminds me that our country people are faced with a very stern duty at the coming election. No less a person than ex-Governor Ferguson tells us that the country people are to decide the election August 24. He says that if the country people go to the polls and cast their votes on that day the prohibition laws will be kept upon our statute books. That the entire result is with the country folk. Let us see to it that we do our duty on that day. J. S. BOWLES

Shaw Bend Meeting

The Eagle has been requested to announce that a meeting will begin at Shaw Bend Sunday, August 10, under the direction of the Baptist church and will continue to August 18.

Relief Office Changes Ordered

Changes in the relief set-up announced here this week will materially change the local county relief personnel. The local relief administrator is in receipt of instructions from the Texas relief commission notifying him of the appointment of E. L. Upshaw of Bell county as district administrator of relief district No. 8-B, with headquarters in Waco. A complete revamping of relief activities and a separation of the different branches of the emergency relief administration has necessitated the discontinuance of individual county relief units and district offices are being set up throughout the state to take over their work.

In all probability there will be left in this county for the time being one case worker, one intake clerk and one commodity distribution clerk, but since all accounting records and statistical reports will be kept by the district office, the local unit will be largely done away with. The date set for the transfer of the local unit to the district unit is August 15, but it is anticipated that possibly it will be September 1 before this change is consummated. Mr. Gilliam, the local administrator, reports that no announcements have been made of the local personnel and that those few who will remain in the work locally will be selected by the district administrator, Mr. Upshaw, upon the recommendation of the district department head under whom they apply.

Mrs. J. S. Bowles is assistant district case supervisor for this district, serving under Mrs. Fuller of Waco, and will have her headquarters in Goldthwaite. T. F. Sansom, who has been a case worker in the local relief office for over a year, has been transferred to the rural rehabilitation division of this county and Lampasas county and will serve as certifying officer.

There has been a complete severance of the rural rehabilitation department and the relief department and effective on or about the 15th of this month the relief department will transfer to the works progress administration all the employable persons on the relief in this county and they will be taken care of thru the new work program, which is now being developed. Men will be given employment on a basis of $21 per month, working five days a week, one hundred and thirty hours per month. Budgetary labor will be discontinued. The local relief personnel has been endeavoring to line up sufficient work projects under the new WPA program, prior to the 15th of the month, in order that the work program will be ready to start in this county at such time as the district office takes over the local unit. Lateral roads, and street paving are foremost among the larger projects being developed.

Representatives of the district office will be in Goldthwaite sometime within the next two weeks to confer with local relief officials and take steps to transfer the local equipment, records, etc., to the district office.

Street Paving Plans Formed

Mayor Bodkin and members of the city council now believe they will be able to secure funds from the WPA to pave the streets in the city of Goldthwaite, with little or no expense to the property owners. It is not yet definitely known just what arrangements can be made, but it is certain that Mayor Bodkin and the other city officials are doing everything possible to secure the funds and continue the paving.

Three sides of the square have already been paved and the east side will soon be paved, as that portion of the square is included in the survey for highway 74a and bids are to be received for the paving.

Cotton Crop Payments Increased

Cotton income in Mills county was almost double in 1934 what it was in 1932, and nearly equal to that of 1933, a very favorable year, it is announced by W. P. Weaver, Mills county agent, on the basis of complete official three-year county cotton figures just received from the agricultural adjustment administration. Mills county farmers received for their cotton last year $344,653.07, compared with $184,051.14 in 1932 and $399,695.42 in 1933. The farm value of lint and seed last year was almost $115,000 more than it was in 1932, and added to this were $37,017.87 in benefit payments.

Values are based upon yields and prices as furnished by the United States department of agriculture. The benefit payments include all those to April 30, 1935.

The value of unsold Bankhead certificates held by farmers is not included in the amount of benefit payments. Texas farmers have about nine million dollars' worth of these certificates on hand, according to the agricultural adjustment administration.

Commenting on this huge increase in Mills county farmers' cotton income from 1932 to the present, Mr. Weaver points out that there was more than $150,000 more cotton money in circulation in the county the last twelve months than two years ago. This increased farm income has been the means of helping farmers stay in business, maintain their farms and homes and remaining customers of merchants, he states.

County Board Holds Meeting

The county school board met Wednesday afternoon, pursuant to a recess taken Monday. The board met at Pompey Creek school for the purpose of arranging bus routes through the Pompey Creek district, in order that the pupils from that district might have transportation to Mullin and Zephyr schools. Both routes were worked out and it is thought by the board that all parties will be accommodated with transportation.

About twenty-five Pompey Creek citizens met with the board at the school house to discuss the school problems. Matters were discussed freely and with much interest and all the members of the board appreciated very much the interest shown by all present.

The board also granted minor extensions for bus routes from Brown county where those routes extend into Mills county.

The board adjourned the August term, after attending to considerable business, some of which was of unusual nature. The board tried seriously to meet all school problems strictly in the interest of the school children involved. XV

Corpus Christi Family Reunion

Mrs. R. L. Armstrong and children returned Saturday from a visit to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Em. Wilson in Corpus Christi. While Mrs. Armstrong was there the Wilson family had a family reunion, all of the sons and daughters of the family and their children being present.

Dr. Wilson and wife are expected in Goldthwaite for a visit in the next few days.

The Blue Bonnet Club

August 6, the South Bennett Blue Bonnet club met with Mrs. Herman Cox. There were ten members present and four visitors. The evening was spent in peeling peaches and embroidering and after which Mrs. Cox served delicious ice tea and cake. Then we adjourned to meet August 20 with Mrs. Kemp. REPORTER

Baptist Revival Under Way

The Baptist revival started last Sunday and is well under way at this time, with large congregations attending services both morning and evening. The services last Sunday were conducted by Rev. A. R. Watson, who preached at both the morning and evening hours.

Rev. C. Y. Dossey, the evangelist, and Mr. J. E. Longino, song leader, both arrived for Monday's services and are being well received. The people are taking interest in the meeting and Rev. Franklin E. Swanner, pastor of the church, is highly pleased with the outlook for the revival, as are the members of his congregation and others who are interested in church work in the town.

Women Publicly Disrobed In Dallas

The Dallas News tells of a most disgraceful occurrence in that city, where strikers publicly disrobed women who attempted to discharge their duties in garment factories. The account in the News says in part:

"While curious homebound workers crowded around local garment manufacturing plants Wednesday evening, adequate police protection forestalled repetition of morning combats between strikers and garment-workers during which ten women were publicly disrobed on downtown streets.

"After several weeks of peaceful picketing, trouble first flared up again at 7:30 a. m. Wednesday when a large group of women strikers appeared at the plant at Jackson and Austin, and started to molest arriving employees.

"The major victim of a scratching, kicking and cursing assault was a worker in the plant, who was roughly seized and promptly stripped of her clothing. Another worker was partially disrobed and beaten about the head before police broke up the disturbance.

"Arrival of police sent the strikers scurrying to Lamar and Commerce, where nine more workers were either completely or partially disrobed before the gaping eyes of hundreds of persons in the streets and many others who hung out of office windows to view the spectacle.

"The fighting here was fierce before the police gained the upper hand. For a time a small crew of policemen was almost helpless as the strikers grabbed employees one by one and beat and attempted to disrobe them. Several of the officers were slapped and scratched."

Highway Work Soon Begun

Work on highway 74a from Goldthwaite to the Lampasas county line will soon be underway, according to an advertisement in this issue wherein there is a proposal to let the contract for the work. The highway has been completed for some distance between the county line and Lampasas and is said to be a very excellent road.

Mr. Dillon of Lometa, the resident engineer in charge of this highway work, was in Goldthwaite this week and gave assurance the work would be under way as soon as possible. This highway includes the east side of the square and all of Fisher street. There is also a sidewalk under way along Fisher street that will parallel the highway through the railroad underpass, which will be constructed to prevent pedestrians walking in the highway.

The people here now have full confidence that highway 74a will soon be completed, including the hard surface.

It is understood work will soon be ordered on No. 7, running from this place through Center City and Star to Waco. A great deal of work has already been done on highway 81, which is another of our very important highways soon to be completed by the highway department.

Terracing Program

The soil conservation service has named Maurice S. Hoover conservation assistant to E. W. Nelland, rural supervisor and W. P. Weaver, county agent, who will start a terracing program at once.

All farm owners who desire this service should call on the rural supervisor or county agent at once. Levels, fensos, plows and graders for team work may be leased from the assistant at reasonable rental. Arrangements are being worked out by which tractor and grader service may be had at reasonable rates. Terraces, soil-saving dams and terrace outlets will be built for farmers if desired. Land owners may pay cash for this service or give a note, due in one year.

W. P. Weaver, county agent, and Maurice S. Hoover, conservation assistant, went to Brownwood yesterday to assist in formation of a conservation district to be served by the soil erosion camp now at Brownwood. The proposed district will include all farms within a radius of twenty miles from Brownwood, the site of the camp. This radius takes in lands all along the western portion of Mills county.

Leaf Worm Infestation Severe

The extension service of A. & M. college has sent out information concerning leaf worm in cotton which says:

"Infestation by leaf worm has become very severe and threatens destruction of the cotton crop.

This pest is easily controlled, the best method being to use calcium arsenate, otherwise known as arsenate of lime. This is the same material as it ordinarily applied for the control of boll weevil. Under ordinary conditions and where dusting machinery is available, it is applied in dry form. It should be applied in an even dust cloud. Five pounds per acre will ordinarily be sufficient, although in cotton of large growth it may be necessary to apply 10 pounds per acre. It should be applied preferably in the early morning while there is dew on the plant, although it is quite effective when applied in midday provided there is no wind.

Those who are equipped with some kind of spraying machinery insist that it is more conveniently applied with water as a spray. If this method is preferred, the poison should be mixed with water in the proportion of three pounds to 50 gallons of water. The poison will quickly settle out of this mixture, and while application is being made, the mixture should be kept agitated so as to keep the poison suspended in the water. It should be applied in sufficient quantity merely to get a reasonably even covering of the mixture on the foliage.

There has been complaint of a shortage of calcium arsenate. If this cannot be obtained, Paris green may be used. For dusting this should be thoroughly mixed with some 3 to 5 parts of hydrated lime or cheap flour to one part of the poison and applied in the same quantity as the calcium arsenate or possibly a little more heavily. If it is to be sprayed use three parts of lime to one part of Paris green and mix so that there will be 1 1/2 pounds of Paris green in 50 gallons of water.

Mixtures of white arsenic and sal soda or lye are very apt to injure the foliage, and this office does not recommend their use.

Court Planning Road Improvement

Commissioners court was in session yesterday, planning for improvement of lateral roads in the county. It is hoped to secure federal funds for the road improvement, supplementing the county funds and precinct allotments by the county.

School Bus Routes Being Established

So far, eleven bus routes have been established in Mills county for the purpose of accommodating those pupils who are not within easy reach of school. Goldthwaite has undertaken the operation of four buses, Mullin three, Priddy two, Star one and Big Valley one.

Much confusion has arisen as to how these buses will operate. The pupils to be hauled depends largely upon the agreement between boards of trustees before bus routes are established. In some cases only high school pupils are allowed to ride the buses out of their home districts.

Four districts in the county are transporting their entire scholastic enrollment to other schools for instruction, i. e. South Bennett and Evans to Goldthwaite, Chesser Valley to Mullin and Slayden to Indian Creek, Brown county. In some cases such high school pupils and grade pupils as were transferred are hauled in the buses to other schools. Where a bus passes thru a district it may carry pupils to their home schools and leave them, carrying high school pupils on to another school.

The county board is the only authority that can establish a school bus route, and that only in its own county. When established by the county board, a bus route can not be changed without the consent of the county board. A school bus driver must be twenty-one years old, sober in habits and of good reputation as to dependability. Each bus driver must make a $2000 bond and must be registered with the state department of education.

Laws as to operation of a bus by a driver are very similar to the laws regulating highway buses and street cars. A driver is not allowed to open the bus door while the bus is in motion. It is a finable offense for a vehicle to pass a school bus while the door is open. A school bus must be branded with six inch letters.

Gerald and sons, Sumter and Stoddard of Goldthwaite, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Petrey and Claude Donald, a friend of the family, of Lampasas.

Miss Robert Elizabeth Littlepage was honored in Baylor college at Belton this week, when she was selected as pianist for the closing exercises of Baylor Hardin college Tuesday. The sermon will be delivered by Dr. George J. Mason of Dallas. Preceding the sermon, Robert Elizabeth Littlepage will play "Minuet" by Grieg.

Mrs. Littlepage went to Belton Tuesday to attend the closing exercises and accompany her daughter home.

RENTED ACRES

The AAA announces that its crop adjustment program has taken 27,600,000 acres out of basic crop production this year. Of this total, the AAA said, 27,500,000 acres have been planted in other crops. The 1935 total compares with more than 35,000,000 acres rented in adjustment programs in 1935. Officials said the switch from basic crops (wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco) has been the leading factor in the largest increase in legume acreage ever reported in the United States.

A man in East St. Louis, Ill., Saturday caused his divorced wife to be sent to jail because she did not support him. Three months ago the man appeared in county court, pleaded he was unable to find work and asked that his former wife be compelled to support him under the Illinois pauper-relative law. The court ruled she should pay $15 a month, after the man testified property formerly jointly owned by his wife and himself had been conveyed to their children. Saturday a grocer came to court and asserted he had received no payments. The court held her in contempt and sentenced her to 30 days in the Belleville jail.

Representatives of Texas farming interests, led by the Texas Agricultural association, laid the foundation at College Station Friday for a bitter fight against collection of protective tariffs, as a counter attack against processing tax opponents. The first step was appointment of a committee to raise funds to finance the battle. Opponents of processing taxes have resorted to the courts to obtain injunctions against collection of the levies and it was indicated the same type of attack will be used in the tariff fight. At the meeting were directors of the agricultural association, members of state production control committees of commodities affected by the processing tax and representatives of other farming interests.

ELIGIBLE ENROLLEES

Young men throughout Texas eligible for civilian conservation corps enlistment have been advised by state enrollment supervisor, Neal E. Guy, to make themselves known to their county administrators if they are interested in being among the 16,000 to be enrolled by Aug. 31. Mr. Guy has advised county administrators of their quotas and asked that they examine their relief rolls for probable enrollees, with the possibility that quotas will be increased when administrators show enough CCC candidates to warrant.

An eligible candidate is any single man between 18 and 28, whose family is on the relief rolls.

While administrators were asked to search their rolls for probable enrollees, Guy suggested the young men themselves notify the administrator if they are eager to enroll in the CCC.

Approximately 16,000 Texans are to be enrolled by August 31, with about 10,000 expected to be sent to out-of-state camps, Guy said. Out-of-state assignments are made because Texas camps already have their quotas, while camps in some of the other states have not, he explained.

Forty-three new camps are being built in Texas, bringing the total in this state to 96. Approximately 30,000 Texans will be in the CCC by August 31.

WORK RELIEF

There are approximately 140,000 employable Texans on the relief rolls eligible for employment on works progress administration projects, it has been revealed by the Texas relief commission.

Of these, 115,000 are men and 25,000 are women. The job of transferring these from the emergency relief administration rolls to the WPA rolls, where they are expected soon to obtain work on projects created through the $4,880,000,000 works fund $50,000,000 of which has already been allotted to Texas, is now in full swing in the county administrators' offices throughout the state. Twenty district supervisors are in the field assisting county administrators in certifying the employables co-ordinating the transfers. Certification of employables to the WPA rolls is expected to be completed in about a week, giving a pool of 140,000 persons for the WPA to draw from for its projects.

A person eligible for employment on WPA projects is defined as one capable of working who is now on the relief rolls and is registered with the United States employment service.

FREEDOM FOR DEVELOPMENT

A writer in Progressive Farmer says of the government of children:

"I wish I could earnestly exhort all parents to allow their children some freedom. If you do not trust your children, do you think they will make any effort to rise to your good opinion of them? Don't you think that if your neighbor were watching you every day to see if you stole any of his corn, you would almost be tempted to steal it just to show him you could? Of course you wouldn't do it, because it would be against your principles. In the same way your daughter may not do the terrible thing you dread—because they are against her principles! You should have more respect for the moral fiber with which you equipped her.

"Every wise parent knows that there is unguarded time in every girl's life when she can fall into mischief if she hasn't too much sense of honor to do so, or her own accord. No amount of careful watching will improve her character. How can a man also strengthen any muscle except by use? How can you expect your children to make wise decisions if they are never allowed to decide?"

"Don't force your daughter to adopt underhand methods. If you forbade her bread, you couldn't condemn her morals although you forced her into false position. And I doubt if the Good Judge would hold it against her as much as He would against you."

BUSINESS BETTER

A general expansion of business to a higher level this week than during the similar period of last year was found in a survey issued Saturday by Dun & Bradstreet.

"Accelerated by the unexpected upturn in the pace of operations of some of the leading industries, far in advance of the usual period for expansion, more trends reached toward a higher level than was recorded at this time a year ago." It was stated in the review.

Although retail trade continued at an excellent pace, it was declared, the estimated gain in sales for the country was held to a range of 10 to 30 per cent over 1934, because of the rising trend of a year ago.

"The further advance of industrial operations has lifted the average from 15 to 25 per cent higher than it was for the corresponding 1934 week.

"Employment held generally steady with slight gains at isolated centers, although the increase was not in keeping with the advancing rate of activity."

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

AN ACCEPTABLE GIFT

Miss Jemie Reynolds of Dallas, one of the Eagle's most admired young lady friends, who is spending some time at the family home at Caradan, keeping house for her father while her mother is visiting in Dallas, sent the Eagle a sackful of nice vegetables this week, topped off with a sack of plums. Mr. Reynolds brought in the sack and we sincerely thank him for his part in the kind deed.

CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES

The decision of the supreme court of the United States invalidating the NRA on the grounds that congress exceeded its authority in granting unlimited, or at least excessive, power to the federal administration, has caused considerable discussion of the subject of amending the constitution in order that this power might be given the chief executive. In fact, Mr. Roosevelt gave expression to the thought when he was informed of the court's decision against the NRA section of the New Deal plan, but upon more mature deliberation the president will very likely advise extreme caution in making any change in the constitution that will give more power to the centralized government and automatically take away authority from the states.

Whether we realize it or not, it is the constitution which protects the ownership and the sanctity of the home. It is the constitution which safeguards the independence and rights of the worker. It is the constitution which maintains the sanctity of contract. And, finally, it is the constitution which guarantees and supports the rights, the liberties and the privileges for which the forefathers of the nation fought when they changed America from a foreign-dominated colony to a free nation dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Those who would change the constitution would do so on the supposition that it is out of date—that it is no longer capable of meeting the problems, the conditions, the issues of the times. If that is true, human liberty is out of date. Individual freedom is out of date. Democratic government—which has as its guiding principle that the people are the masters, not the servants of government—is out of date. Private initiative and individual ambition are out of date.

Under the existing constitution, a delicate balance of power is maintained between the central government and the state governments. The federal government is enabled to do that which individual states could not efficiently do—while the states are left free to make laws, rulings, regulations and policies that are in accord with the beliefs and needs of their people.

A proposal to change this important document should be carefully considered before receiving the endorsement of the sovereign states, which endorsement must be secured before the change can be made a part of the basic law of our country.

A DUTY TO PATRONS

Some of the partisan writers say that the newspapers of the country—Democratic as well as Republican—are doing a full part in attempting to defeat the Democratic national ticket in the next election, but in this the writers are looking at the situation from the standpoint of partisanship rather than patriotism. The newspapers are giving the facts concerning government finances and government policies, but this is but fulfilling a duty to their patrons, regardless of politics. So far as announced, not one outstanding newspaper or editor has forsaken the Democratic party, while all of them have given facts regarding the federal expenditures, the federal income and federal indebtedness. Yet they have given the country information as to the reasons for these expenditures and have explained that these were but necessary for the assistance of the people who without this help would have suffered severely. The fact that a newspaper gives its readers the news does not constitute a desertion of the political party represented by the administration, but on the other hand, a great majority of these papers have endorsed the expenditures by the federal government and the assistance given the people, either in direct relief or by other methods.

ELECTION DAY APPROACHES

Only two more weeks until the date for the election on the constitutional amendments. The Eagle carried a full explanation of all of the proposed amendments in an issue of a few weeks ago and it is hoped all readers have fully informed themselves on these provisions. There is a considerable fight being made on the old age pension amendment and the one on prohibition, but the other five are receiving very little attention from the press of the state and possibly from the voters. It is necessary to be informed as to the provisions of all seven of the proposed amendments in order to vote intelligently on them.

There are those who feel a personal interest in the adoption or rejection of these amendments and they are ever ready to give information and advice to those who are entitled to a vote. Such enlightenment is valuable to an extent, for everybody wants, or should want, all information possible on the subjects involved, but the important duty of thoroughly understanding the provisions and bearings of these amendments devolves upon the individual voter, who should think for himself, read the amendments carefully and then form his own conclusion.

LARGE EXPORT BALANCE

Regardless of the fears of the timid and the reports of the pessimists and down-hearted, this country is steadily building back to normal and in no way can this truth be better established than by balance sheets of commerce. The export balance for the past year was the largest in five years, as shown by a report made public a few days ago. The merchandise export balance of the United States, for the calendar year 1934, according to the annual report of secretary of commerce, was more than twice as large as in 1933 and the largest since the year 1930. Actual value of our exports was a twenty-seven per cent increase over 1933, while imports showed a fourteen per cent increase over the previous year. This net increase in our favor that established a five-year record occurred during a period when world trade generally was still featured by wide application of trade and exchange restrictions, which in recent years have hampered seriously the flow of international trade. This record should inspire hope for the future and confidence in a continued improvement.

REDUCING THE HAZARD

Statistics just released show that the concerted effort against fire hazards and fire losses has been highly successful and the loss from fire throughout the country has been materially reduced. While the loss is still much too high, it is encouraging to know that the reduction has been brought about by caution on the part of citizens and watchfulness on the part of authorities. Almost all cities have posted rewards against arson and the watchfulness of officers and citizens alike has brought most satisfactory results. However, the fire loss of the nation is still much too high. At least eighty per cent of fires are unnecessary—at least eighty per cent of them could be prevented.

PERISHABLE FOODS

It is a matter of vital importance, particularly during the warm summer season, that sanitary measures be applied to prevent the contamination of perishable foods, states the state health officer. Various intestinal disorders result from food which has in some way been rendered unwholesome. Summer diarrhea or "summer complaint," affecting young and old, is a serious type of stomach and bowel condition. So called "tomatine poisoning," in nearly all cases, is none other than a food infection due to the presence in food of harmful bacteria or germs.

Perishable food, if contaminated, endangers human health. This hazard is greater in warm weather, because germs or their products multiply or develop more rapidly at high temperature. Some of the most valuable foods are of perishable nature. Such foods demand the exercise of safeguards. Among well known precautions, which need to be used if perishable foods are to be kept wholesome, are:

1. Some form of modern refrigeration or cooling is necessary to preserve food from day to day. Lack of an effective cooling process causes meat to spoil and milk to contain a dangerously large number of bacteria.
2. Resort to thorough cooking or boiling is the simplest and yet most useful method of preventing illness of food-borne character. This precaution applies to food prepared for infants and children.
3. Contamination of perishable food is avoided through the constant exercise of cleanliness on the part of those who handle food.
4. Pastries and other food products make a far greater appeal to the consumer or patron if there is an entire absence of flies. Adequate provision for screens and application of every known means of fly and insect extermination are worthwhile.

WAR PREVENTION

A Washington special says that following world talk of big armaments comes word that the United States is contemplating a strengthened fortification system in its Pacific possessions.

Secretary of Navy Claud Swanson said the naval high command has such plans under consideration, but both the naval secretary and his chief aide, Admiral Wm. H. Standley, were quick to explain that no immediate action is intended toward strengthening existing or building new Pacific bases.

Swanson also disclosed, in connection with discussion of Great Britain's $750,000,000 fighting ship program, that while the United States proposed generally to hold to its seven-year treaty construction program it might be guided in the matter of battleship and cruiser building by what other nations, signatories of the London treaty, will do.

Swanson's views stood out sharply by comparison with the White House and state department remarks. Before Swanson had expressed himself, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that rumors that the United States planned to fortify islands in the Pacific on expiration of the Washington and London naval treaties were purely conjectural.

The state department added through Acting Secretary William Phillips, that there had been no change in the general navy situation and that this country is not discussing naval matters with any other power. With an ear to other rumors, the department said Joseph C. Grew, Ambassador to Japan, is returning to the United States on his normal leave.

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

The Santa Fe railroad bulletin says of conditions in Texas:

The fair and hot weather prevailing generally in south, east and central Texas during the first two weeks in July enabled farmers to accomplish a great deal in cultivating their crops, which had been interfered with by the unusually wet weather encountered during the month of June. The fields are now practically clear of grass and weeds, and as a rule well cultivated.

During the latter part of July light rains were general; more threatened. Although due to government regulations there has been less than normal cotton acreage planted, prospects seem to promise a fairly good yield. It is doing well in the northwest.

Due to wet weather at harvest time in a large part of the wheat and oats country yields of these crops were not so satisfactory as anticipated. In other parts, dry weather reduced the wheat yield. Harvest will be finished early in August.

The corn crop rapidly is maturing with a near record high yield practically assured—108,000,000 bushels, compared with an average yield of 84,000,000 bushels. While as a rule corn produced in Texas is used by the producer for feeding, it is apparent that this season there will be a surplus for the open market. Other row and feed crops promise favorable yield.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

SOY-NAVY BEAN HYBRID

Success in crossing the navy bean and the soybean is reported by crop experimenters. The propagation of the hybrid was begun so recently, however, that its qualities have not been definitely determined.

That the descendant of a parentage so noble cannot fail to be endowed with one of the most valuable inheritances of the plant family may nevertheless be safely assumed. It used to be said that the North fought the civil war on the navy bean or common field bean. In it is concentrated more nutrition than even in wheat and in its hard baked form it could never have gained the favor it has had in hard-boiled New England from an early time without distinguished qualities of the very highest order.

As for the soybean, scientific societies and the press seem to have been doing little else but extol its merits for a long time. Manchuria's distinctive staple for man and beast, it was introduced into the United States 31 years ago, but the spread of its cultivation was slow until recently. Without AAA aid its acreage has been expanding in Missouri, but it seems to be a greater favorite in Illinois than elsewhere. There the crop, estimated at 28,000,000 bushels in 1935, is doubling annually and may be crowding the corn crop closely before long.

The list of things into which chemistry can transform corn alveals excites wonder, but the soy is even a more magical vegetable. The useful products for which it is the raw material are now reckoned at sixty-five or more. In addition to salad oils, lard substitutes, cheese, butter and other foods they include oil and varnishes for mixing paints, printers' inks, celluloids and a variety of plastic articles like buttons and electric accessories.

If the hybrid retains the substance of all these sixty-five products derived from the soybean and the esteemed qualities of our patriotic navy bean and also a truly soy-like resistance to the drouth and blight and field pests that play havoc with the navy species, the crossing of the two beans ought to be more important to farmers than farm boarding or Bankhead laws or subsidies for acres abandoned to weeds. —St. Louis Globe Democrat.

ADDED RESPONSIBILITY

Many parents lose sight of the fact that the vacation period is one of grave danger to the growing child.

The boy or girl just out of school feels like the caged bird that is suddenly released from its captivity. It glories in its freedom to the exclusion of all else.

Many of the lessons in deportment that have been learned in the classroom are gradually forgotten as the child finds its way to the street. There is no room in its heart for anything but the glories of the present, unless the parental hand is ever guiding its steps. The future is a sealed book which will be opened only too soon for its purpose.

Herein the function of the parent becomes of double importance to the future life of the child, for the careful work and training of the teacher must be carried on through the days and weeks of the vacation period, not to the extent of hampering the child in its rest and recuperation from classroom confinement, or depriving it of the innocent pleasures of life, but rather the daily impressing upon its young mind the necessity for continuing the rules of conduct learned in its house of study.

Children are quick to learn and equally quick to forget. An impression may sink deep today and be forgotten by tomorrow, but if it is repeatedly brought to the attention of the juvenile brain it will eventually take deep root and live.

The teacher is responsible to the parent for the proper instruction of the child during its hour of study, but the parent has a double responsibility—to both the teacher and the child—the responsibility of safe-guarding the work of both. —South Dakota Tribune.

GUARANTEEING COTTON

The report that the pegged price might be 13c was later denied from Washington, apparently with some authority. But the 12c price is good news. It will pull southern farmers out of the hole, at least those who will ever be out. Some will never see the top of the ground again, but that is the case with all who go too strong on owing without being strong enough to overcome a sudden setback. It applies to all lines of endeavor, of which farming is only one of many. As for cotton growers, they must know that the government can't go on forever losing money on them. The time must come when cotton will have to stand on its own feet. We are losing our foreign outlet, and the domestic demand was never more than about half the crop. What the government can do, and very likely without loss, is to peg the price of cottonseed at $50 a ton and let the farmers raise all they can. Fifty dollars a ton for seed would mean $25 a bale, and even a 14,000,000-bale crop would produce only 6,000,000 tons of marketable seed. That quantity would be readily consumed here in our own country. This would eliminate the worry over lint prices and foreign competition. Glinners, compressors, haulers, exporters of lint would all have a chance, and cotton pickers would get off the relief roll. All this could be accomplished by a simple twist of the wrist, without any danger from the supreme court. All that needs to be done is to tell cotton growers to go ahead and grow all they want to, the government seeing to it that they get $50 a ton for the seed. —State Press in Dallas News.

OPTIMISM

We can read the dire forebodings of the pessimist and go down into the dumps with him, or we can read the rosy outlook of some of the New Deals and be lifted up to the seventh heaven. Say what one may, but there are plenty of grounds for fear as well as good reasons for hope. Down deep in the hearts of most of us there is a conviction that the United States is not going to be dismayed as a government, and that few people among us are going to starve to death. We all believe that ultimately better days are coming. Consequently we are figuratively going to spit on our hands and take a new hold and swing on until relief comes. Thinking back, it may occur to some of us that we tried that metal corner before, away back in 1930 and 1931. It was popular then to deny the reality of the business slump and to fight our fear and gloom with doses of cheerful psychology. Finding after a few brave efforts that that wouldn't stop the deflation, we finally gave up and waited for our doom, or trusted to the economic cycle to run its course.

What is the present optimism based on? Partly on reassuring business indications; many of the statisticians' curves trend upward. Partly, too, we reason out that with the vast deficit of goods and services needed, the tide must turn and general business activity be renewed. Purposeful private and public efforts are credited for some of the improvement. But on the whole, it is probably fatalism as much as anything else—a feeling that things must come back, regardless of statistics or politics or psychology this time, at least. And so they come back. —Bonham News.

BIG MOTOR YEAR

Much has been said about this year's automobile sales, which have approached and, in some instances, surpassed the 1929 peak—a strikingly good omen, it appears, of recovery in purchasing power. Even more significant is the wage and employment record in this field of industry. During the first five months eighty million dollars was paid to one hundred and eighty-six thousand employes, an increase of forty-five millions over the parallel period a year ago, when the average monthly employment was one hundred and forty-six thousand. OUR POLICY IN

THE NEXT WAR

Revision of the neutrality laws' action which President Roosevelt thinks it "would be desirable to take at this session," is so bothersome a question and involves so many complications of possible international importance that it is hardly likely that congress will attempt to do more now than to lay down a few rules of general conduct. At the moment it has before it three resolutions, one of which would authorize the president to place an embargo on the shipment of munitions to countries at war, the second would bar loans to the belligerents and the third would keep Americans out of the war zone.

Obviously, the adoption of any one or all of these resolutions would be a step in the direction of depriving Americans of what they have come to regard as traditional rights. They have always felt—and probably still feel—that it is their privilege to trade with anyone who will buy their goods, to loan their money where they wish and to travel where their inclinations lead them. It is doubtful if they will accept willingly these proposed restrictions on their activities.

As a matter of fact, the continued postponement of congressional action in the matter is probably due to a covert fear of the reaction of the American public. For years now the state department itself and one or more committees of congress have been gathering information as a basis for possible neutrality legislation. Since the last war more than half a hundred resolutions have been formulated only to die before a vote could be taken on them. Apparently there is no program which can command enough general approval to warrant actual submission to either senate or house.

So, it is fortunate that the president says merely that revision of the law is "desirable." If he had indicated that it should have a place on his "must" list, he certainly would have found himself in the position of telling congress and the country that the present session must last indefinitely.—Boston Transcript.

ABSENTEE VOTING

The new law governing absentee voting may prove efficacious in preventing fraud, but it seems to have added something to the confusion surrounding the rights of the honest-intentioned voter. The law provides that the right of absentee voting is given those who "through the nature of business . . . or because of sickness or physical disability cannot appear." This could be interpreted to mean that anyone away on business or pleasure had the right to cast an absentee ballot, were it not for the added requirement that a physician's statement is necessary in cases where illness is pleaded as the reason for absence from the polls. It is difficult to understand why anybody of lawmakers would pass legislation as patently indefinite as this, and as certain to create confusion.

The result will be a wide variation in the interpretation given the law by the 254 county clerks of Texas. In one county a thousand vacationists may be given the right of absentee voting.

Your friends dare not say so, but your sore gums and foul breath don't make folks like you any better. LETO'S PYORRHEA REMEDY heals worst cases if used as directed. It is not a mouth wash or paste, and it is sold on a money back guarantee. HUDSON BROTHERS while in another county a thousand vacationists may be denied the right. It is possible, in event of a closely contested election, for the result to be decided by the decision of some county clerk.

The attorney general should be asked to clarify the present situation. As for the future, the law should be amended and made more specific, or it should be repealed entirely. There really is not a great deal of logic behind the theory of justice in absentee voting.—Dallas News.

New Kitchen Charm Is Readily Planned

Added Conveniences and Better Lighting Ease the Daily Tasks of the Housewife

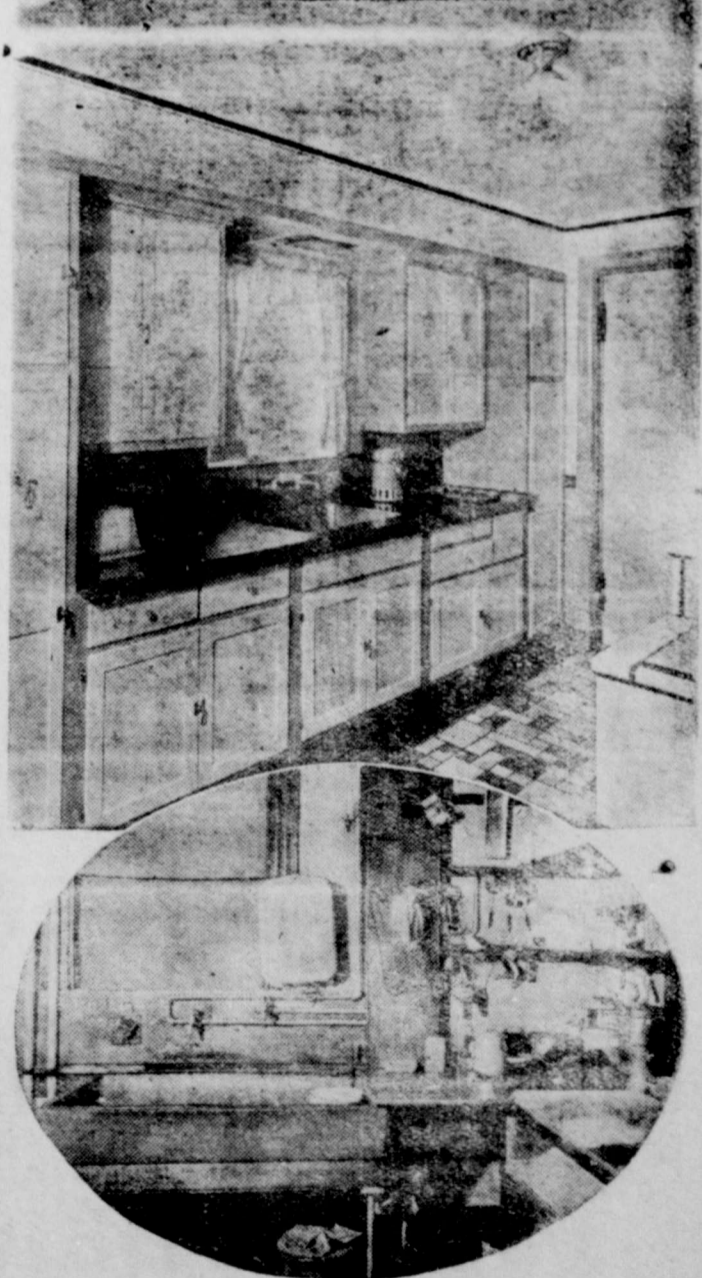

Drab, dingy kitchens make a veritable ordeal of the task of preparing meals. Particularly is this true when the kitchen has a poor arrangement of equipment and is lacking in up-to-date facilities for the housewife. Kitchens of this type usually are those that were built years ago, before the modern kitchen improvements were available. Any old kitchen, no matter how great its shortcomings, can be transformed into a place of beauty and charm, and made comfortable and convenient. Why not include such a project as your part of Goldthwaite's Better Housing Program, now under way.

If there is not enough natural light, windows can be enlarged or additional ones installed. Darkness can be further dispelled by placing a drop light over the stove or in other places where there is not sufficient light.

Cupboards, cabinets, shelves and bins can be built to provide for convenient storage of food, cooking utensils and dishes. If there is unutilized space beneath the drain board or the sink it can be used for a vegetable bin, and perhaps save many steps to the back porch or the basement. Serving dishes stored in the old-fashioned cupboard in the dining room can just as well be placed in twin cupboards at each side above the sink.

At the right are actual photographs of a kitchen before and after modernizing. The new kitchen has all the latest conveniences: Built-in cabinets, built-in sink with large shelves and drain at a most convenient height, colorful linoleum floor, tile walls, built-in light above the sink, an automatic cooking range, mechanical refrigerator, built-in broom closet and ironing board—and other conveniences.
