French Silos

Just too bad if the corn does not come in time to get and farmers do not get stalks dug to put in silos.

When a ton of stalks goes into the silo, it takes about 200 pounds of silage to make a ton of silage.

Celebrate Sixty-First Anniversary

On Sunday, June 21, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Randles celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary with a picnic on Browns Creek. The guests gathered at the creek at 11 o'clock and sat around and talked until time to spread dinner. There was a real feast spread. Plenty of fried chicken and everything that goes with it. After dinner, part of the guests enjoyed a swim. Then they went to the house and sang for Grandpa and Grandma Randles, with Miss Goldie Randles of Hardesty, Oklahoma, at the piano.

Grandpa and Grandma Randles are both 82 years old.

There were 65 enjoying the dinner. Four of their eight children were present. These were John Randles of Hardesty, Oklahoma, Edd Randles, Mrs. Jennie Harmon and Mrs. Nola Long of Goldthwaite. ## National Convention In Session

The Democratic national convention is in session in Philadelphia and there is considerable interest centered on the platform and the proposal to abrogate the two-thirds rule in making nominations.

The outcome of the convention is certain: The nomination of Roosevelt and Garner and the endorsement of the New Deal.

Goldthwaite Citizen Highly Honored

The Collinsville Times of June 19 contains an account of honors bestowed upon one of Goldthwaite's prominent citizens, who formerly lived at that place. The Times says:

W. E. Miller of Goldthwaite and Dallas, Texas, who often visits his brother, Uncle Noah Miller, who is confined to his bed, was a visitor here Saturday. While here he renewed many old friendships.

In talking with C. F. Goodman and his daughter, Mrs. H. W. McGehee, in the post office, Mr. Miller, as is his custom, asked about the Baptist church here. Mr. Goodman remarked, "We manage to scrape up enough money to paint the outside of the church, but the inside needs re-painting and re-decorating badly."

Mr. Miller asked, casually, "about what approximately, would this cost?"

Mr. Goodman thought it would cost around $50.00. Whereupon, the Goldthwaite philanthropist said, "Mr. Goodman, I feel a deep interest in the Collinsville Baptist church. I feel a sincere love of its good people. If you remember, my father, Rev. Noah Miller, sr., organized this church back in 1871. For several years it met in his home. Its original name was 'The Pleasant Home Baptist church.' God has prospered me, and I will have all the necessary work done on the church building. It will make me very happy to do this."

This is the second contribution Mr. W. E. Miller has made to the Collinsville Baptist church. A little over a year ago he gave a check to the Baptists here for the full amount of the church indebtedness. The people of the church here look on Bro. Miller as a kind of modern John the Baptist sent by a higher power, possibly a fulfillment of the divine wishes of a revered father, the founder of the church.

Church Resolutions

"We, the Collinsville Baptist church, assembled on this Lord's Day, June 14, 1936, for the purpose of worshipping our divine Father:

"Be it resolved, that we kneel in prayer on this solemn occasion and thank almighty God for the struggling pioneer preacher Rev. Noah Miller, sr., who founded this church on the outskirts of Collinsville in his home in 1871, and because of the pleasantness of that home the people named it 'The Pleasant Home Baptist church.'"

"Be it further resolved, that this church set aside the birthday of this gracious son of the founder, W. E. Miller of Goldthwaite, Texas, as a day of prayer and thanksgiving; and that as long as this church stands, that we meet once a year on the day of his birth and thank almighty God for this father and son, the founder and benefactor of our church."

(Signed) H. I. CULL, Pastor.
C. G. WAGGONER,
Supt. of S. S.

Poem Dedicated

The women of the Baptist church have dedicated the following lines to Mr. Miller: "I'd like to be the friend to you That you have been to me. I'd like to be the help to you That you've always seemed glad to be."

I'd like to mean as much to you Each minute of the day, As you have meant, old friend of mine, to me along the way. I'd like to do the big things The splendid things for you. Brush the gray from the skies, And leave them only blue."

Two Days Picnic At Priddy

Announcement is made that there will be a picnic in Priddy community, on Indian Gap road, July 9, 10, 11. Shade, water and entertainment are promised.

Methodist Notes

A beautiful auditorium, good music, reasonably comfortable atmosphere and worshipful spirit made the service of last Sunday a most delightful and refreshing occasion.

One of the helpful things these warm Sabbaths is found also in the fact that the services are not unduly extended. One can readily realize that the old-time sermon, lasting an hour, in duration, unless it should be of more than ordinary interest, would be a real affliction. Be on hand next Sunday. By the way, we were delighted to see so many visitors among us last Sunday. Please remember that all are welcome.

It seems to me that about everybody who takes it upon himself to speak in any way to the public, takes special pains to stress the minor key. Not long since a prominent lawyer, speaking to a graduating class at one of our western colleges, told me frankly that there was no future for them. He frankly told them that they were doomed to a life of unemployment. Another, taking the same minor chord, said that the present generation was doomed to destruction. To these men the future held nothing for the race. They then raised the question: "What is to become of the next generation, if the present is lost from human society?" The question is pertinent. This is most certainly a note that would discourage any one on earth. I can not help but ask, however, if it is not about time for some one to do something about the whole matter? Certainly we should not give way to this song of despair, but make an honest attempt to find a remedy that would in some sense take up the slack. While it might not meet the situation complained of at this present time, yet might fill in the blank that most certainly exists in human lives, and at the same time promise big things for that time which must most certainly come with the passing of this deplorable present.

Let me give an illustration of just what I mean: Just after the close of the war between the states, we of the south faced a situation similar in some respects to the present. I know one of the poorest counties, in one of the poorest states of the south, where the darkness was like midnight for some years. I am of the opinion that there were entire families in that county who did not see ten dollars in cash a year. There was no such thing as a job for any one. There were no schools worth the name. If any school existed it lasted three months of the year, taught by teachers who were almost void of learning. In this particular situation the young men and women who were without employment and without knowledge banded themselves together under the leadership of some who had a smattering of education and began a course of study. Two things happened. First, they got rid of the surplus time that hung so heavily upon them, and that has in this day made criminals. Second: They slowly began to come out of the thralldom of ignorance that bound them.

I wish I could tell you all that happened: The leaders developed, teachers, lawyers, preachers, legislators, fine citizens, in fact every kind of citizenship that it takes to build up a great civilization. If we could only get out of this spirit of complaining and learn the way to occupy our time in preparation for the day that must eventually come, this depression would be found to be a blessing in disguise.

J. S. BOWLES.

Busses To Dallas

Two bus loads of school children, with their chaperones, made a visit to the Dallas centennial this week. They returned Wednesday night and reported a great time.

Committee Fixes Meeting Date

Last Saturday afternoon Mrs. Eula Nickols and her committee, composed of Mrs. J. M. Oglesby and J. J. Cockrell, met in the Eagle office and fixed the date for the get-together meeting of Eagle writers, which was decided upon for Saturday, August 8. Mr. W. P. Weaver was a member of the committee, but was engaged with official duties and could not be present. However, he has acquiesced in the arrangements and has been designated as a member of the program committee for the occasion.

It is proposed to meet in the Eagle office on August 8 as soon after 1 o'clock as possible, in order that a program at the Melba theatre may be enjoyed by all the writers and their husbands or escorts.

The full text of the program has not yet been announced, but the correspondents can depend it will follow somewhat after the program of last year, which seemed to please all present.

The writers are all urged to make note of the date and be sure to come in time for the entire program.

MISS MARY JACKSON

Miss Jackson of Oklahoma City is the artist who makes models of clay and has fashioned statuary of famous people in such a masterful manner as to attract wide attention. She is a daughter of W. F. Jackson of Seaborn and formerly lived in Big Valley and Ratler. She is remembered by many friends in this county.

Priddy School Gets Affiliation

J. Oscar Swindle, superintendent of Priddy school, has just received a letter from Austin from the director of supervision of the state department of education, stating that Priddy school has been granted nine and one-half credits of affiliation for the closing term. This leaves only six and one-half to be obtained next year, in order to become fully accredited and affiliated. Mr. Swindle also states that he had a nice letter from Miss Opal Gilstrap saying that she will help in every way possible to secure full affiliation during the school term of 1936-1937.

Priddy school is to be congratulated on this fine record and if the patrons, teachers and pupils will co-operate properly during the coming term, this school will be fully accredited by the end of the next term.

Baptist Reminder

Rev. Swanner, who was called to Kentucky on account of the serious condition of his father, writes that his father has somewhat improved and that he expects to return home in time for his regular services in the Baptist church Sunday. The congregation and the public generally will remember that the services are to be held at the regular hours.

Sewage System Under Way

Ditching for the sewer piping is going forward rapidly and several of the streets are blocked until the pipe is placed and the ditches filled. At one point near the Saylor hotel a considerable flow of water was encountered and a pump had to be used to remove the water. It was thought this is only surface water and will not seriously impede the progress of the work.

County Board Meeting

The Mills county school board will meet at the court house in Goldthwaite on Tuesday, July 7, for the purpose of setting up school bus routes and re-classification. The commissioners court will sit with the school board in special session in order that the best consideration may be given to the problem of roads for bus routes. All petitions for bus routes should be on file in my office by July 7, 1936.

R. J. GERALD,
County Judge and Secretary to County Board.

Fine Onions

Louis Eubank, one of the Eagle's most appreciated friends of the Trigger Mountain community, brought in a sackful of the most beautiful and delightful onions ever displayed in this office and made the Eagle a present of the entire lot. These onions average a pound each and were white and faultless. It is good to have a friend like Louis, for this is not the first kindness he has shown this office. The Eagle appreciates his friendship equally as much as his kindness.

A Fine Record

O. W. Hamilton of Star was one of 53 athletes of John Tarleton college receiving letters at the close of the 1935-1936 session, according to the list just announced by W. J. Wisdom, athletic director. Hamilton won his "T" in track, on the team which won for Tarleton the central Texas conference championship. Tarleton teams this year won every football game but one, being scored on only twice during the season, and won conference titles in basketball, track and tennis. The basketball team sent the Tarleton record up to three seasons, sixty games, without a defeat.

Invitation Extended Liberty League

New York, June 23.—The Republican party beckoned welcomingly today to Alfred E. Smith and other Democrats who join him in opposition to the New Deal.

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, and campaign manager for Governor Alf M. Landon, the Republican presidential candidate, issued last night what was tantamount to an invitation to them to line up with the Kansan's forces.

Speaking in Smith's home city, Hamilton said Republicans would "honor" him and four colleagues who have demanded that President Roosevelt be set aside for another candidate at Philadelphia.

Income Tax Collections Up

Washington, June 23.—Secretary Morgenthau reported today that income tax collection in the first 20 days of June amounted to $298,505,823, a 23 per cent increase over the comparable period last year.

At the same time the daily treasury statement indicated that income tax collections for the fiscal year ending June 30 would exceed the $1,434,000,000 estimated by President Roosevelt in his revised budget message.

The statement said receipts for the year had amounted to $1,405,000,000 through June 20.

State Candidate Coming Monday

The political campaign has been very quiet so far and not a state candidate has visited Goldthwaite to make an address. However, Judge Pierce Brooks, Dallas candidate for governor of Texas, will address the voters of Goldthwaite, June 29, at 2:00 p. m., from the platform on top of his sound equipped automobile, according to announcement received at this place. He will speak on his proposals for tax free auto license plates for all passenger cars in Texas, immediate payment of pensions to all over 65 years of age and advocating pensions to all over 60 as soon as proper laws can be enacted and better business methods in state administration at Austin. Other issues will be discussed.

A Picnic On The River

On June 21 a number of friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Winkle gathered at the river for an all day picnic and fish fry.

We have J. M. Wrinkle and Robbie Smith and possibly others to thank for the fish.

Each guest brought covered dishes and as they were placed on the table at the noon hour, a most beautiful and tempting meal was beheld.

I must not forget to mention the lovely cake baked by Mrs. Wrinkle in honor of Father's Day.

Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Wrinkle and J. M. were: Messrs. and Mesdames Joe Burdett, Claude Smith, Barton Smith and Mary Alice, Dock Ledbetter and sons, D. Hartman and Dorothy, Roy Ledbetter and Madeline, Walter Dennis and son, Carl Ledbetter and family, E. G. Ledbetter, H. G. Bodkin, Tim Davenport and daughters, Jim Burdett, Lewis Burdett and family, Messrs. Homer Smith, Robbie Smith, Billie Smith, Robert Smith and Claude Smith. The day was spent in playing games and swimming. We departed in the late afternoon, wishing for just such another good time. A GUEST.

Civic Leader Passed Away

Mr. J. R. Key, one of the most enterprising and far-sighted citizens of Lampasas, died at his home in that city Tuesday morning. He became ill while en route from a visit to Austin, where he had been in the interest of some public enterprise. Mr. Key was one of the moving spirits in securing highway 74 and made several trips to Goldthwaite and to Austin in the advocacy of that highway. Lampasas has lost heavily by the passing of Mr. Key and many Mills county people feel they have lost a friend and the entire section of Texas is poorer because of his going. He was ever ready to spend his time and money in the interest of the city in which he lived and for the benefit of this part of Texas. A great man has left us.

Retail Merchants Announce Holiday

W. M. Johnston, secretary of the Retail Merchants association announces that the members of that organization will observe July 4 as a holiday. This includes practically all of the business places in the city. There are a few not affiliated with the Retail Merchants association, but it is likely they will be in line with the organization, while no such announcement has been authorized.

The Glorious Fourth falls on Saturday this year, which will cause some inconvenience for people in buying their supplies for the week-end, but by giving attention to the matter in advance much of this inconvenience can be entirely overcome. Nevertheless, the secretary of the association gives out the notice of closing for the holiday.

EXPENSIVE FREEDOM

The Filipinos already are finding that there are some expenses attaching to national independence they had scarcely reckoned with. Once they achieve complete freedom in 1945, the islands will have to shift for themselves, and this means defending themselves from possible invasion. Since Japan's commercial invasion already has made great strides, many Filipinos are calculating that a military invasion ordered from Tokyo is by no means impossible. With that in mind, the island government is now spending $8,000,000 a year for military defense. This may seem a trifling item when contrasted with the American defense budget, but it is a considerable drain on the Philippine treasury, and probably is still not enough to give any real assurance of protection against a major power. With General Douglas MacArthur, former chief of staff of the United States army, as his military advisor, President Manuel Quezon is planning to build a fleet of tiny, high-speed warships, 250 planes, and a small standing army, as well as a large reserve force. To create and maintain such a defense machine, the Filipinos will have to dig down into their pockets as never before. And even then their security will undoubtedly depend on how much the United States and Great Britain are willing to do to thwart any possible Japanese ambitions. Thus, on top of their loss of valuable markets in the United States, the Filipinos suffer another blow by their realization of independence—a new burden of armament. Freedom may be sweet for a people aspiring to nationhood, but some of the sweetness may disappear when the costs are fully reckoned.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

World's Largest Streamlined Engine

The world's largest streamlined locomotive has just been put into service by the Canadian National Railways, the largest railway system in North America. Absence of smokestack, bell and cowcatcher are features of this giant of the wheels built to plans designed by the National Research Council of Canada and engineers of the company after exhaustive wind-tunnel tests with models. The engine, one of four, to haul passenger trains between Montreal and Chicago, has an all-over length of 94 feet 7 3/4 inches, weighs in excess of 650,000 pounds and can develop a speed exceeding 100 miles per hour. The driving wheels have a diameter of 77 inches and an idea of their size is gained by comparing them with the men shown looking at them in the inset. The smokestack and bell are concealed by the streamlining and a stream of air, drawn through a louver at the top of the engine front, lifts the smoke into the air and carries it clear of the train. The automatic coupler on the front of the locomotive disappears behind a door when not in use. The whistle emerges from the streamlining as required by the railway regulations.

Texas Longhorns Driven O'er Trail at Expo

It was the Longhorn steer which broke many trails to Southwestern markets in the early days. The steers on "The Chisholm Trail" are pictured here being driven by Texas Rangers on one of the reconstructed "Roads of the Southwest".

News In Brief

Appropriations approaching the $10,000,000,000 mark were made by congress for many things, from paying the soldiers' bonus to buying animals for the national zoo.

Four hundred tins of opium valued at $40,000 were seized aboard the Japanese liner Taiyo Maru, the United States customs office at San Pedro, Cal., announced Saturday.

President Roosevelt Saturday lifted the arms and financial embargoes and other war restrictions against Italy and Ethiopia under the neutrality act.

Confronted at last with a third party presidential candidate in the person of Representative William Lemke of North Dakota, major party leaders sought Monday to figure how many votes he will garner and from what camp he will draw most support.

Soon after the Schmeling-Louis fight Friday night disturbances broke out in three separate places in Chicago's little Harlem. In each of the three places bands of negroes stoned streetcars, breaking windows in two of the cars. Several carloads of detectives were dispatched to the area.

Earth tremors were felt in Amarillo and at numerous panhandle towns Friday at 9:25 p. m. No damage was reported. Residents in various parts of Amarillo reported their houses rocked for a few seconds. Telephone calls to Pampa, Borger, Stinnett, Canyon and Dumas revealed the quakes were felt there.

Four armed bandits in New York Saturday stole $25,000 worth of diamonds in the diamonds setting establishment of Newman, Jacobs & Levinson, in the center of the business district in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. The gunmen held up and bound seven persons upon entering the shop, located at 13 Graham Avenue.

Premier Mussolini has decided to keep Italy away from the League of Nations council meeting this week at which the Italo-Ethiopian situation will be discussed. It was learned. Duce will send no delegation to the meeting. Instead he will confine the presentation of Italy's case to a memorandum to the assembly, scheduled to meet at about the same time.

A case without precedent in this state came before the Coryell county Democratic executive committee at its meeting Saturday, when one man filed for two offices. Former county attorney and farmer, filed for county judge and county attorney. The committee was unable to find a law or court ruling on a parallel case so the applications were accepted and the name ordered placed on the ballot.

GOOD NEWS FOR GRADUATES

Business and industry this spring recruited the largest number of men from the 1936 college graduating classes of any year since 1929, according to a survey made by Investors Syndicate. Moreover, virtually all of the universities and colleges included in the survey report also that salaries are from ten to twenty-five per cent above those offered graduates a year ago.

During the past few years a good many college students have wondered whether it was worth while to make an effort to continue their education. They can hardly be blamed for that, and the results of this survey certainly come under the head of good news. Employment is opening up again, and the first demand is for trained, qualified men and women. A college education continues to pay dividends in hard cash, and those students who graduated from institutions of higher education during the bleakest years of the depression will now learn that their efforts were not misplaced, financially speaking.

And, of course, it remains true that there is a higher purpose of college training. Commercial gain is not the only reason that young men and women should be encouraged to secure college educations. But it is nevertheless worth noting that college graduates of 1936 have a better chance to profit financially from the years they have spent in college than has been the case for six years.—Texas Weekly.

OVERHEATED HORSES AND MULES — WHAT TO DO

There are usually ample danger signs of approaching heat stroke in the horse or mule, but these are frequently overlooked and sometimes ignored, with serious consequences. If the driver does not note sluggishness, undue panting or others symptoms of more or less distress, he should at least realize danger ahead if a hard working animal on a hot day fails to sweat normally or if he stops sweating. If a horse or mule after sweating in the usual way, stops sweating while still working in hot weather serious danger already exists. But if this danger signal is promptly recognized there may still be a good chance of avoiding serious or permanent injury to the animal.

The method of procedure when early symptoms of heat stroke are recognized is simple. Stop the work, if practicable get the animal in the shade promptly, apply cold water to the head, and smart friction to the body by rubbing with rough cloths. And while these simple common sense things are being done a veterinarian should be called if there is one available. But never apply water as a first aid treatment to the body of any animal that is overheated. The careful hogman begins applying water to the nose and face, gradually working up to the top of the head of his hot hog, and the same practice is imperative for the horse or mule.—Dr. Tait Butler in The Progressive Farmer.

For Bad Feeling Due to Constipation

Get rid of constipation by taking Black-Draught as soon as you notice that bowel activity has slowed up or you begin to feel sluggish. Thousands prefer Black-Draught for the refreshing relief it has brought them. Mrs. Ray Mullins, of Lark, Ark., writes: "My husband and I both take Theodora's Black-Draught and find it splendid for constipation, biliousness, and the disagreeable, aching, tired feeling that comes from this condition." With reference to Syrup of Black-Draught, which this mother gives her children, she says: "They like the taste and it gave such good results."

BLACK-DRAUGHT

AVOID TRAGEDY

Only July 4, Texans will celebrate along with the state's centennial year, the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of national independence.

Thousands of visitors will be in Texas on this national holiday, and it is up to loyal Texans to do everything possible to see that this day brings pleasure and not tragedy to our visitors and ourselves, says a warning from the state department of health.

"While there certainly is no desire to minimize the joys of this nation-wide holiday," said the state health officer, "it is only common sense to respect hazards to life and limb, and to govern one's actions accordingly."

"Not so many years ago the newspapers on each July 5 would publish columns detailing the tragedies that were invariably associated with the handling of dangerous fireworks by careless persons. For a number of years now, however, the press has been placing particular emphasis on the need for a 'safe and sane fourth of July,' with the result that accidents of this kind have decreased.

"All injuries, however slight, may carry the lock-jaw or tetanus menace with them. Every wound should be cleaned thoroughly and all foreign matter removed. A physician should be consulted immediately and tetanus antitoxin administered if necessary.

"Unfortunately, while the hazard of handling fireworks has consistently diminished, that of the automobile has just as consistently been increasing. Every one will agree that to be careless in the operation of a motor vehicle on this day when the roads carry peak loads, is to invite possible injury and even death.

"Your future happiness and health and that of your family may depend on your recognizing and carrying out the ordinary rules of precaution. Obey these rules and live to enjoy many other fourths of July."

ALL GENERATIONS

No generation monopolizes all the pleasant things of life, all the prosperity, all the satisfactions. When land was cheap there was rivalry and speculation in land ownership. The rugged individuals of a hundred years ago were not all content with 160 acres and a spring branch. Some wanted a league and labor, or two or ten leagues and labors of forest and plain, river and hill. The slave-owning planters were as eager for great plantations and many slaves as modern gluttons are for control of great corporations or big bundles of stocks and bonds. Avarice and the love of consequence are not new. They animated and actuated the medieval barons, the titled bandits of the dark ages, the grandees of old Rome and the mandarins of China. The brahmins of India are not new in their pride and self-arrogated superiority. But of all the ages mirrored in history, the present is the most generous, the most merciful. Never was private or public philanthropy so expected and dispensed as today. Every rich man shares his wealth. If not out of hand in charitable spirit, then through compulsory taxation. Few rich men of today object in their hearts to supporting public institutions or public benevolences. Never before the present was wealth better understood as to its responsibilities and its inability to confer serenity upon its owners.—State Press in Dallas News.

Death knocked at the door of one of the community's oldest and most pleasant homes last Thursday morning. Mr. R. A. Stevens has long been an outstanding and appreciated citizen of Live Oak. During his life he has been of great service to the community, and all who have had the privilege of knowing him, well realize our great loss. The out-of-town friends and relatives who attended the funeral were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Parker and Mr. and Mrs. Reese Parker of Lot, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Parker and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Parker of Waco, Mr. and Mrs. G. I take this opportunity to express my sincere sympathy for his wife and children, and although life sometimes seems cruel and it seems we have to bear more than our share of heartaches, we must try to remember that—
 Just when the road is roughest
 We find a helping hand;
 Just when the burden is hardest
 Kind friends beside us stand;
 Just when the hours are dreary
 A song of joy rings true;
 Just when the days are darkest,
 The sunshine filters through.

Dry, uncomfortable winds from the centennial area to the north, moved upon us Sunday, June 21. This made a new record by sending the mercury to 105. This day was the hottest in June in 18 years. This wind, moving toward the low pressure area in the Gulf of Mexico, climbed steadily from 80 degrees at 5 a. m. to 4 p. m., when it reached the high mark. The highest previous temperature here this year was 100 Saturday afternoon. June 21 was not only a hot day, but the longest day of the year. CAPITAL SHOWS CONFIDENCE

While there has been much discussion of the government spending and the deficit being built up by the administration, it is encouraging and satisfying to note the readiness with which all loans are accepted by the capitalists and the plain people of this nation and it is also quite significant of the undisturbed confidence of the entire world in the unquestioned stability of the country's credit. This is evidenced very clearly by the fact that foreign capital invested in this country increased by more than a billion dollars last year over the investments of the previous year. The financial authorities tell us that foreign long-term investments increased by $765,000,000, while there was an inflow of foreign short-time funds to the extent of about $600,000,000. This movement of foreign capital to the United States, together with some repatriation of American short-term funds from abroad, was chiefly responsible for gold imports in 1935 in the net amount of $1,739,000,000. Obviously, if the drain of gold to this country continues for long at the same rate as last year and the year before, the monetary gold stocks of the rest of the world would become so depleted as to be inadequate as a basis for currency and credit. Already many countries have divorced their currency systems from gold and, with the bulk of the gold supply concentrated in the United States, re-adoption of the gold standard in anything like the same form as in the past will be very difficult if it is possible at all. These large gold imports, moreover, have had an unhealthy influence on the financial situation in the United States. Chiefly because of the huge inflow of the yellow metal, the reserve balances of the member banks at the end of 1935 were approximately $3,000,000,000 in excess of requirements. Since, for the country as a whole, $10 of bank credit can be based on $1 of excess reserves the existing excess reserves constitute a basis for possibly $30,000,000,000 of potential new bank credit. Credit expansion of even a fraction of this amount would create an inflationary boom with ultimate disastrous consequences for the entire country. Of course, the board of governors of the federal reserve system now has greatly increased powers of credit control and, under the banking act of 1935, may raise member bank reserve requirements by as much as 100 per cent, which would practically offset the effect on excess reserve balances of the gold imports of the last two years.

Another consideration is that the movement of foreign capital to the United States in 1935 undoubtedly had an appreciable effect on the American security markets. Although it is impossible to ascertain quantitatively the influence of foreign buying on security prices in this country, there is not much question that the demand for American securities from abroad was an important factor in the upward movement of security prices during 1935. More recently there has been considerable apprehension over the possibility of security prices being depressed by foreign selling of American securities. If foreigners purchased a sufficient amount of securities to accelerate the rise in the stock market, it follows that they could exercise a contrary influence by large-scale selling of securities. At any rate, developments during 1934 and 1935 have caused trading for foreign account to become an important factor in the American security markets.

MAKING AIRWAYS SAFE

It is universally admitted and believed that the next world war or even wars of importance between nations will be fought from the air. This being the case, it is necessary that means be found to protect the nation's aircraft from assault from land and air. In an investigation conducted by the military affairs committee of congress it was recommended that the government spend the sum of $14,000,000 on airway aids, such as radio facilities and field lights. This amount of money, properly disbursed would make the airlines "bullet proof" from an airway standpoint, authorities stated. The airlines themselves are spending $15,000,000 over a two-year period in the interest of safety. In the light of the vast spending of recent years, $14,000,000 is an insignificant sum. Used to make the airways safe, it would give the country tremendous value for every dollar spent. The government could carry on no more worthwhile activity than to encourage air transport efficiency as a national defense measure and peacetime necessity.

PAYING THE PENSIONS

It is announced with a degree of certainty that the old age pensions, paid jointly by the federal and state governments, will start on July 1, or very soon thereafter and it is well that this date has been set, in order that people have a chance to judge the manner in which the pension money is being handled before they vote in the primary. If the payment is prompt and in a reasonable amount, it will have considerable bearing on the political fortunes of some of the candidates who have to do with the handling and disbursing of these funds. The pension money should be considered a sacred fund and a tendency to waste it will be resented by the public who voted by an overwhelming majority to have this assistance provided for the old people. The delay has been long and the people are not in a temper to allow trifling and spending the funds where such spending is not warranted or justified.

EMPLOYMENT INCREASING

While there is a wide divergence in the estimate of unemployment throughout the nation, there is no doubting that the list of unemployed is much smaller than at the peak of the depression. The government estimate of the unemployed is considerably less than the estimate by the labor unions, yet the government authorities have much better means for ascertaining the correct number. In either case the number of unemployed is still in the millions and the list will be large for some months to come. This condition exists in the larger centers of population and industry. There never has been a serious unemployment situation in this immediate section, while in the harvest time there has been more or less shortage of workers willing to bear the heat and burden of the industry, but in the line of skilled mechanics the shortage in this section has been in workers rather than in work. Nevertheless, it is satisfying to know that the unemployment throughout the nation is on the decrease.

THE FARMER'S ADVENTURE

Every spring the farmers risk a bold and daring adventure. They put their seed into the ground, they devote unceasing labor and much money to cultivating it. Will they get any return?

In less enterprising countries, such people will plant only what they can utilize themselves. The American farmer is a business man who wants to take greater chances. So he sweats and pours out his money into the soil, and hopes for a just reward.

This act of faith has produced such abundant gains that the country is worried today, not because not enough is produced to feed our people, but because too much is grown. The farmer's bed is not one of roses. If he grows too little, his product is too small to support his family, while if he grows too much, the product is almost given away.

What the American farmer needs is the stopping of the importation of millions of dollars worth of agricultural products from other countries as now is being done. When from ten to twenty millions of people starve to death in a single year, as has been the case in two or three countries, it would not appear that there could be any such thing as over-production. It would seem to a country editor that there is something wrong with a civilization that it is not able to figure out proper and equitable distribution of food stuff.—Lowell, Mich., Ledger.

BRITISH DEFAULT

The complications are well known to the American people. The British lent vast sums to the dominions and to their allies during and after the war, and these debts are not being paid. Great Britain had, of course, counted on these payments to meet the American debt. The British politicians can justify their course at home to some extent by explaining that all the powers involved are suffering the effects of the depression, and all will have to await general economic improvements before the debt agreements can be kept or so modified as to be possible of carrying out. But in the United States the view is different. This country owes no war debt to any other nation. All the money that it used in the war, including that which it lent to Great Britain and other countries, was borrowed from the American people. The United States sold Liberty and Victory bonds to raise the money that the British people borrowed and spent. The United States expected to pay off these bonds, in part, with the payments that it received on the loans. But it is not receiving the payments. It is, however, paying off the bonds, and it is paying with money raised by more loans at home or by immediate tax levies on the American people. The question is whether the British people will pay their debt or the American people will have to pay it for them.—Indianapolis News.

ITALY MAKES CONCESSIONS

The accord reached between Italy and England sounds more like a truce than a final agreement. Italy wishes sanctions withdrawn and pays the price. England wishes its naval supremacy in the Mediterranean admitted and gets this for favoring the withdrawal of sanctions.

The significant thing about the accord reached is that the stage is set for what may happen in the east Mediterranean. Great Britain will fortify Cyprus and Alexandria and retain an Egyptian force equal to that of the Italians in Libya. The British fleet is to dominate the ship passageway from Gibraltar to Aden, but an Italian airship force of 300 planes will be stationed in the central and east Mediterranean. Malta becomes insignificant and interest centers around Suez and the Red Sea. Incidentally, the states of the east Mediterranean will feel easier, now that British supremacy in that region is secure. They have been hitherto afraid of Italy's ambitions.

To England the weak spot in the agreement is that Italy may dominate the two seas through its air force. Yet Great Britain is now embarked for the next two years on a construction policy in naval and air forces. Much can happen in two years, but if a new crisis arises, the English government does not propose to be caught napping.—Dallas News.

EDITORIAL COMMENT
VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

MESDAMES LES MINISTRES

The women of France have done it the other way around. With three of their number appointed to the cabinet they present the interesting picture of having their hands on the reins of government, even while France remains virtually the only great power of the western world in which women have neither the vote nor equal rights before the law.

The appointment might indicate merely a graceful recognition of outstanding women by a Socialist premier, who has greatly enlarged the cabinet. Madame Irene Joliot-Curie, daughter of the discoverers of radium, and herself famed for scientific research and with her husband a co-winner of the Nobel prize, has been made an under-secretary of state for scientific research. Madame Suzanne Lecore, an experienced school teacher, and Madame Brunshwig, wife of a university professor and deeply interested in social problems, are to deal, respectively, with child welfare and education. But recognition of able service in these fields has been and can be made without putting women into cabinets.

The appointments therefore appear rather to indicate one or both of two things: First, the movement in France toward better legal and political status for women has, since its seriously organized drive, rolled up such political power as to make the courting of its favor a matter of political wisdom rather than a chivalrous gesture. Secondly, at this period of governmental reconstruction when so much is at stake, the contribution of certain French women to these fields cannot be ignored.

Whatever may be the reasons unprecedented action, results are likely to be watched with deep interest by women in active political and social work in those countries that began the other way around—countries where, though voting is by now woman's accepted privilege and right, the gates to cabinet under-secretariats have opened only a mere crack.—Christian Science Monitor.

SOME BIBLE FACTS

Dr. Thomas Horne, an English Bible scholar and critic who died in 1862, devoted several years to compiling interesting facts about the Bible, among them being the following:

The Bible is composed of 66 books containing 1,189 chapters, 41,173 verses, 774,746 words and 3,556,480 letters. The shortest verse is John 11:35 and contains only the two words, "Jesus wept." The longest is Esther 8:9. The word "Lord" occurs 1,852 times; "Jehovah" 5,845 times; the word "girl" only twice; "Ever-lasting fire" is found twice; while the words "everlasting punishment," "eternity" and "reverend" occur only once each.

Several verses are duplicated, thus four verses of the 107 Psalm are identical, and the 36th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of II Kings are exactly alike.

No original manuscript of any portion of the Bible is in existence. The oldest manuscript known, a fragment of the 11th chapter of the Psalms, thought to have been written in the third century, is preserved in the British Museum. The Bible as we know it has come down to us through many translations, the first complete English translation having been made by John Wycliffe, who died in 1384, and his fellow workers, Nicholas and Purvey completed his work.

William Tyndale was the first to print the Bible in English, beginning in 1525. He printed all of the New Testament and a small portion of the Old, but his translation came under disapproval of the ecclesiastical authorities. After 15 months imprisonment he was tried and burned at the stake for heresy on October 6, 1536.—Kerville Mountain Sun.

PROFITABLE MARKETS THE SOLUTION

The federal government, through various agencies employing many thousands of men and women, is aiming at a solution of rural problems. These problems are varied, and while different areas present different problems, in the main the object in view is to make rural life more attractive and satisfying. The government is concerned over decreasing home ownership; it wants to see rural America electrified; running water and bath tubs in farm homes; better educational facilities and higher standards of living. It wants to provide for the rural population the opportunity to develop along cultural lines.

The objectives of these programs are ideal, but in our opinion, some of them could be more quickly reached if some means could be found to give to the farmers of the country a more stable and a more profitable market for their products. The desire for the conveniences and comforts of life is as inherent in farmers as in city people. Thousands of farm homes would be equipped with running water, baths, sewer connections, electricity and other modern conveniences if the profits of the farm justified the expenditure. We may put on campaigns of education; we may urge farmers to modernize their homes, and we may offer to loan them money with which to make the improvements, but unless the profits of the farm justify the expense, the prudent farmer will get along with what he has.

The programs of the government show a broad and sympathetic understanding of the problems of agriculture and a desire to better the conditions imposed on rural inhabitants. We sometimes wonder, however, whether or not we have undertaken so many things that we will be handicapped in fully accomplishing the purposes of any one program.

As a basic industry, agriculture should pay a fair profit on the investment of money and labor, and when it does, farmers who desire bath tubs, electric lights and other conveniences will get them. There are farmers in this country who could have had all of these home conveniences long ago had the desire been sufficiently strong. Practically every farmer could have an attractive front yard, trees, shrubbery and flowers, making his home attractive and inspiring, but many of them do not. The desire must first be created and then with a little encouragement and help we will see the farm home modernized. Especially will this task prove easy if we first provide conditions that will give to farmers economic justice through the stabilization of his markets which will pay him equitable prices.—Farm and Ranch.

CHECK YOUR SYMPTOMS

It is ridiculous and amusing, in a way, to observe an adult American sitting sixth or seventh in line of automobiles at a traffic light and honking deliriously because the line does not move as soon as the light begins to flicker toward amber. It is likewise ridiculous and amusing, in a way, to observe an adult American leaning on the horn of his car as he scowls and curses because the fellow in front waits to make a left turn. It is all highly silly and exceedingly discourteous, too, on the very face of it. Such conduct, carried to its logical extreme, would involve screaming maledictions at those ahead of one in a line at a theatre ticket window. At the same time, however, if we may trust the word of a rather high-powered psychiatrist, this sort of childish impatience and irritation in traffic is a sign of serious mental and emotional disturbances. It is evidence of some sort of delusions as to one's own importance in the scheme of things, inevitable, it is a symptom of lack of balance in general. It is well, says this more than otherwise

BONUSES AND BOND

Replies to questions out by the American League to passage of the bonus bill that over a quarter of a million bonus bonds will go into new and old, and holdings. Nearly one-third of the estimate, according to the estimate, will be devoted to repayment—a much smaller percentage of the total employed for that year 1931, when veterans were permitted to borrow one percent of the face value of their certificates.

Cancellation of loans and outlays for home ownership will not be immediately reflected in retail trade but either directly or indirectly the bonus money will temporarily stimulate business in every part of the country. It would be a take, however, to overstate the importance of these deeds, if the government provide permanent trade and industry borrowed purchasing the hands of the people not to be content with a mere $1,700,000,000. It should subsidize body and urge everybody as he receives. In event, it would not be before we should be suffering the effects of uncontrolled inflation accompanied by prices that would raise the purchasing power of dollars.

The fact that some concerns will profit from the spending money does not make business as a whole in the long run from of artificially created goods. On the other hand, the aggravating the serious fiscal problem, cash the bonus accentuates business among business encourages investors to retard sound and recovery.—Washington

FULL FAITH AND

In sharp contrast to the co-operation given by the authorities by the state of Louisiana recently with the Louisiana governor of Louisiana declined to honor a request of the state of Ohio for the extradition of a convict under sentence of life imprisonment. The explanation given in Louisiana is that the convict in question was living in Louisiana as a "law-abiding and peaceful man." The constitution of the United States (Article IV, section 2) that "a person in any state with respect to other crime, which from justice, and be from other state, shall, on the executive authority of that state, be delivered up, to be removed to the state having jurisdiction of the crime." It would be known upon what chief executive of Louisiana substituted his personal opinion concerning the character of the man found guilty of the crime in Ohio for his own opinion under the constitution. Under perhaps, the words of Huey Long, the fundamental law of Louisiana.—Kansas

Young mechanic at the service station here was injured Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock when he was working on a broken one collar wheel on the other side of the car when it was struck by a truck which was holding up the most disastrous accident to occur in Comanche since the fire on Monday afternoon when the 34 was instantly destroyed and eleven persons injured as the result of the explosion on the street.

Thursday morning just before five o'clock the peaceful slumber of Lometa residents was disturbed by the shrill moan of the fire siren. Upon investigation it was found that the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Williams, in the south part of town, was a mass of flames. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and the children had to leave the house by the windows, as when they awakened, escape by the door was cut off by fire. Origin of the fire is a mystery. It started in the back part of the house, but there had been no fire in the kitchen stove since noon Wednesday.

THE PUBLIC AND MUSIC

The public which patronizes the virtuoso is notoriously unpredictable, capricious and fickle. The public which comes to concerts because attracted by the music is much more dependable. Once won it is loyal to its favorites. Leaders like Thomas and the younger Damrosch knew this. They did not merely give their public what it wanted, but tactfully guided its taste, experimenting and broadening, but keeping constantly in touch with the patient. One recalls the remark of Thomas on being told that the public did not like Wagner: "We'll play him until they do." As for the foreign virtuoso let us hope that he will always be welcome in our musical life—as a guest. The performances of Toscanini have been something so wonderful that this generation of concertgoers will be envied by others to come, just as we look with envy upon the fortunate ones who heard Liszt or Paganini or Lilli Lehmann.—The American Scholar.

Brighter Cotton Prospects

Twelve-cent cotton sounds pretty good to farmers of the south, and should be encouraging to southern business men. Perhaps, too, it is a little surprising. In face of the breakdown of the AAA, and the repeal of the Bankhead act, there was some reason to expect a hurried increase in cotton acreage, and a potential overproduction that would break prices.

Just the opposite seems to have occurred. Why?

For various reasons. First there is an upswing in the domestic goods markets. The public is buying more cotton materials. Exports continue to drag, but the foreign situation holds its own. In the meantime the long-suspected fact that much of the hold-over cotton is of low quality is becoming an apparent fact. Clearly there is no great overabundance of good quality cotton—thanks to several years of a restriction program. In addition, planting reports from over the south indicate that acreage this year will not be much in excess of that planted last year. The total, it is believed, is around 31,000,000 acres, compared to a one-time peak of 48,000,000.

The continuance of this restriction in acreage is credited partly to application of the federal soil conservation program, which will turn loose about as much money in the cotton growing south as the old AAA rental program, and will work about as effectively as an acreage restriction device. However, most observers admit this factor alone does not account for the present relatively small plantings, and without the aid of the very potent Bankhead act, will be progressively less effective as a restrictive mechanism in the future. Custom, established over several years, and the weather have contributed effectively to the restrictive program this year. Drouths in one section and floods in another have cut production prospects, and sent a good many farmers who had intended to increase acreage scurrying into the soil-conservation project.

All in all, the prospect, while far from ideal in every respect, and leaving much for future consideration, and proves, incidentally, that the administration was not quite so impractical as it has been charged with being in making 12-cent loans on the 1934-35 crop.—Houston Chronicle.

JUDGE R. A. LUKER

THE RECORD

Would the soldier boys ever have gotten the bonus paid by fighting those who tried to pay it?

You cannot advance the cause of the old age pension by defeating its friends.

Even though it is just and the order of the people, we cannot pay it by hocus pocus. We can pay it only by taking from one and giving to another. The state must take before it gives. That is the process we call taxation.

Repeat the words how you may and it all comes back to the cold-blooded truth that when the state gives to me it takes from you.

Although the purpose is noble, the tax must be sensible. If by senseless taxation we put more people out of jobs than we help by the pension, we have accomplished nothing. If we take too much from those who have little and give to those who have less, we create more hardship than we help. For once it is wise to look a gift horse in the mouth. Let's not take on a critter that will eat its head off.

Common sense dictates that the old age pension be paid by a wide range of light levies, none heavy enough to do much harm and all together enough to get the job done. I cannot afford to pay for space to go into detail. You can take pencil and scrap paper and outline a measure that would be sensible, practical and effective.

A little on natural resources, a little on utilities, a little on luxuries. That will do the job and hurt but little.

A practical way to reach this result is to elect those who want to do it and at the same time use common sense in legislation.

I thank you. Yours, R. A. LUKER.
