Fifty Years Ago

In the Dallas News under the heading "Fifty Years Ago," the following item appeared this week: Fire damp in a well at Goldthwaite, Texas caused the death of W. E. Peyton yesterday and in bringing up the body from the well, B. F. Cox barely escaped death. Assisting in the rescue was D. H. Mayer.

According to Harry Allen, the well referred to was the one on the court house lawn near the front entrance now covered over. It was a dug well 80 feet deep. D. H. Mayer, a well known merchant of Goldthwaite for many years had the contract for digging the well. A windmill pumped water from this well until the city water system was installed.

NEW HIGHWAY ENGINEER ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT

Austin.—Julian Montgomery, of Fort Worth, former director of public works administration in Texas, accepted appointment as chief engineer in succession to Gibb Gilchrist who has resigned effective Oct. 1st.

Members of the highway commission were unanimous in their choice of Montgomery who was not an applicant of the position but whose wide engineering experience including previous service in the department led to his selection.

In Raymondville where he was engineer for the Rio Grande valley irrigation project, Montgomery said he would not "disrupt the highway organization in any way." He will become the chief executive officer of perhaps the largest state department which spends approximately $30,000,000 annually on road construction and maintenance and employs 700 salaried persons.

CHILDREN SHOULD NOW BE MADE PHYSICALLY READY FOR SCHOOL

Austin, Texas, Aug. 9.—Now is the time according to State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox, for every parent to ask himself if his child is physically ready for school. A visit to the family physician will answer this question and give time for correction of minor defects before school bells ring out this September.

School children are exposed to so much infection that where a definite preventative against disease is known, parents should take advantage of it. Vaccination against typhoid, diphtheria and smallpox should be done at once. These vaccinations may save many days out of school, doctors fees and perhaps life itself. More than

BIG SPRINGS SELECTED AS SITE FOR NEW INSANE ASYLUM

The seventh insane asylum for the state has been located by the State Board of Control at Big Springs. This enterprising city offered 500 fertile acres of her land less than two miles from the center of the city. Electricity, gas and water and other advantages in this progressive city of the West were also added free.

The hospital will be erected at a cost of $817,000 and no doubt the altitude and many climatic advantages will be beneficial to many sick and nervous people who seek a haven of rest and cure at its open door. A dozen other cities of the West were bidding for this institution.

Porker Market Highest In Years

On Tuesday of this week top hogs sold for $12.35 on the Fort Worth market — highest price paid for market hogs in ten years. The spring pig crop for the United States is reported to be 7.4 per cent less than the small crop of a year ago and the number of sows bred to farrow is estimated at 3.4 per cent less than in the fall of 1936. It looks like a short pork crop and high prices for the next 18 months or longer. The condition offers ample opportunity for profits for those able to properly appraise the situation. There is a distinct shortage of seed stock in the country and owners of this commodity will find themselves in an enviable position.

15,000,000 MILES OF WRITING PAPER

788,800,192 POUNDS OF PAPER

EQUALS IN TONAGE TEN SUPER-DREADNAUGHTS

-AND WOULD RUN THROUGH ONE TYPEWRITER FOR 15,000,000 MILES

EVERY LIVING SOUL ON EARTH COULD WRITE AND SEND 20 LETTERS

IF MADE INTO BILLHEADS-AND EACH BILL FOR $1.50-WOULD EQUAL 4 TIMES THE AMOUNT OF PROPERTY DAMAGE IN THE WORLD WAR!

EVERYONE asks at least once in his life, "I wonder how much paper is used in this country"—either how much every year, or every day, or perhaps since American business really found its stride during the last half of the last century.

Any such question has as much chance of being answered correctly as childhood's old query, "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck" because the uses of paper are innumerable and the companies that make it and use it are many. However, the country's largest manufacturer of bond paper for business use has just released some figures that help one to realize the magnitude of the paper industry in this country.

This one company has made, in the last quarter of a century, 788,800,192 pounds of its top grade paper for business use. That is a hard figure to visualize, being in astronomical figures, so let's translate it into some understandable terms.

Suppose you were to print billheads on this amount of paper—business firms all over the country do. If each bill were made out for the modest sum of one dollar and fifty cents, the total sum of money involved would be about four times as much as all the property losses in the World War—four times as much as all the houses and towns destroyed, all the ships sunk, all the cargoes lost at the bottom of the sea.

If you started to run this paper through a typewriter in one regular width strip, it would run on and on for fifteen millions of miles—enough to go around the sun five and a half times! If two lines in the Empire State Building in New York and in the Merchandise Mart in Chicago decided to merge, and stretch a cross-country row of desks with stenographers between their two buildings, these girls could type for eight hours a day at their regular speed for more than three years before they used up all the paper.

If this twenty-five-year production were made up into business writing paper and envelopes and parcelled out to the people of the world, every living soul on earth could write and send twenty letters. In writing paper and envelopes, this twenty-five-year mass of Hammermill Bond equals more ordinary mail than would go, on the average, through the New York City post office in fifteen years.

Or look at it this way: if a wide-awake business executive, who dictated a letter on a separate sheet every five minutes for eight hours a day, tried to use up this amount of paper, he would still be dictating (probably with a sore throat) at the end of two and a half million years!

Friday with Miss Louclie Daniel.

Mrs. James Hays was called to the bedside of her mother Mrs. Swindel Wednesday, who has been bedfast with rheumatism.

Miss Margaret Oden returned home Tuesday after going to summer school at Howard Payne College.

Ethel Hill visited Loraine Calaway Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Reynolds spent Monday evening in the John Guthrie home.

Don't put up with useless PAIN Get rid of it

When functional pains of menstruation are severe, take CARDUL. If it doesn't benefit you, consult a physician. Don't neglect such pains. They depress the tone of the nerves, cause sleeplessness, loss of appetite, wear out your resistance. Get a box of CARDUL and see whether it will help you, as thousands of women have said it helped them.

Besides easing certain pains, CARDUL aids in building up the whole system by helping women to get more strength from their food.

WOMEN WHO HOLD THEIR MEN NEVER LET THEM KNOW

No matter how much your back aches and your nerves scream, your husband, because he is only a man, can never understand why you are so hard to live with one week in every month. Too often the honeymoon express is wrecked by the nagging tongue of a three-quarter wife. The wise woman never lets her husband know by outward sign that she is a victim of periodic pain.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three ordinals of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smiling Through."

Gov. Allred Writes Of Trip to Mexico

SAN LUIS POTOSI, MEXICO, August 7, 1937.

In Texas we boast of our southwestern hospitality; in Mexico, the people don't boast of it; they live it! From the moment when Mrs. Dominguez, wife of the Mexican vice-consul at Laredo presented a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Allred as we crossed the international boundary until now, I have never witnessed such courtesy, such hospitality as has been extended to us on every hand.

The Mexican Government invited us to be their guests, even furnishing transportation over the railroad. We have now passed through the capital cities of three Mexican states and at each one great crowds, including the Governor, the Mayor, representatives of the military and business men have met us at the station with a band, presented beautiful bouquets to Jo Betsy (my wife), and given us the very best of entertainment as long as we were with them. Of course, we realize this is an honor they are extending not to Jimmie Allred, but to the Governor of Texas; and that's why I'm prouder than ever before of the high honor the people have bestowed upon us.

We spent one day at Monterrey, capital of Nuevo Leon. It is quite modern and somewhat Americanized. We saw many Texans there most of them tourists of course. We visited one of the most beautiful and modern hospitals I have ever seen anywhere, the gift of a fine old Mexican gentleman, a Mr. Muñerz. One of the finest glass factories in the world is located in Monterrey. It is almost unbelievable to see how they melt sand in furnaces then drop it in red hot pieces into various kinds of molds where it is shaped as it cools into bottles, vases and glassware of every character. As I watched this preparation put through the burning fire yet emerge fine spun and clean and beautiful it made me wonder if sometimes human beings aren't put through a torturing searing fire—a great sorrow for instance—that they may emerge tested and tried, a finer, cleaner character.

American money is of course, more than Mexican money. You exchange one dollar American money for $3.60 Mexican. I got $36.00 in Mexican bills and silver for a ten dollar bill. It made me feel quite flush to have so much money in my pocket. I owed Jo Betsy ten dollars when we left Texas so I paid her the same amount in Mexican and still had $26.00 left. Your money seems to go farther here, everything is considerably cheaper.

Our next stop was Saltillo, once the capital of Texas when we belonged to Mexico. It is a beautiful little city of 60,000 a mile high in the mountains, nice and cool in the daytime and all

THE PRESIDENT DOESN'T WORRY

Photos by Aens and N. J. G.

President Roosevelt appears unruffled by disaffection within the ranks of his party. He is shown here in his most jovial mood during one of the recent get-togethers of Democratic chieftains and legislators, on Jefferson Island. High (inset) in this week's Saturday Evening Post, were not "love feasts" designed to restore harmony but were, on the contrary, a last invitation to Democratic opponents of Administration policies to get aboard the Roosevelt bandwagon—or take the consequences.

most chilly at night. I was surprised to find it quite an educational center. They have just started an experimental agricultural school there trying to teach the sons of farmers to whom the Mexican government has recently given lands the practical side of farming and stock raising. It is remarkable to see how these people who were torn by revolution and war less than 20 years ago have progressed; and how hard they are trying to better conditions for the underprivileged classes here.

We have met many wonderful people here, some of them educated in Texas. On every hand were evidences of culture and refinement—a wonderful art gallery, fine school buildings and music everywhere. The people are overly friendly. They are completely wedded to the "Good Neighbor" policy of President Roosevelt; they love him almost as much as we do and they adore their own president, Lázaro Cardenas. "Thank God for a people with friendship in their hearts and music in their souls."

As you perhaps know, a fine new highway has been completed all the way from Texas to Mexico City. It is wide open, a marvelous drive and perfectly safe. Since things are so much cheaper, I want to suggest to all of you who can that you make plans to spend a vacation down here sometime in the future. You will enjoy it. My wife's mother and my son, Jim Boy are with us and they too are having the time of their lives. Like every other boy of his age Jim Boy is full of curiosity. He has been all over the train to find out how things work, turning off lights, turning on water etc. but he is a little timid about scouting around these Mexican places much.

New Zep to Be Ready in Spring

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany.—Germany's new air giant, LZ (Luftschiff Zeppelin) No. 130 will be completed next spring.

Expectations that it would be ready for service sooner failed to materialize as it was decided after the Hindenburg disaster that helium instead of hydrogen gas must be employed. Since helium is about twice as heavy as hydrogen, weight had to be saved in other ways.

Constructors rejected a suggestion of utilizing a lighter weight metal than the duralumin hitherto employed for the framework. The result was that the half finished cabins and the light and power installation had to be dismantled again and available space reallocated.

At all events the new airship's deadweight will be made about 20 tons less than original specifications allowed.

Experts said that alterations to that extent would not have been necessary if it were intended for the North American service alone.

They pointed out that on the 3800 mile route to Lakehurst naturally much less fuel needs to be carried than on the 6,300 mile stretch to South America. It is the requirements of the South American service that imposed the need for the change.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Wednesday, Aug. 4, friends; neighbors and relatives of Mrs. F. M. Karnes gathered at her home and went to the creek, where a bountiful dinner was spread under the shade trees. The dinner consisted of everything good to eat; turkey and dressing, barbecue with lots of salads, pies and cakes with the big birthday cake, which had 77 candles on it.

After dinner was served most of the young folks went in the water for a swim.

When it came time to go, 50 persons wished for Mother Karnes to have many more happy birthdays.—One Who Was Present.

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBB

Imported from the Mother Country

By IRVIN S. COBB

TO MY way of thinking, Punch is perhaps the finest humorous publication in the world. Punch sometimes may seem rather sad. Once in awhile you strike a dull number of it, but, consider its work for a year, and take into consideration the fact that it has been printing work of equal merit for a very great number of years and the record it covers is untouchable, I think, on this earth.

The wit of the London street is not to be duplicated anywhere—certainly not in our own largest city—of New York. The New York humorist excels in profanity, perhaps, but there his supremacy ends. For humorous observation he is not to be mentioned in the same breath with the native Londoner.

We are expected to imagine a village green in the morning. The official drunkard is revealed in the foreground. It is evident that he has had a hard night. He leans against the village pump, pressing his throbbing temples to the cool iron work. Ambling up to him with a smile of gratification on his chubby cheeks, comes the curate of the parish.

"Good morning, Walker," says the curate briskly.

"Mornin'," says Walker, opening one eye wanly but not shifting his position.

"Walker," continues the curate, "I want to tell you that I was most pleased—although, I must confess, a bit surprised as well—to see you among those present at vesper services last evening."

"Ow," says Walker, "so that's where I was, was I?"

CHILDREN SHOULD NOW—

three hundred children die each year in Texas from diphtheria, cannot be expected to do the required school work, until this handicap is removed. Inflamed, watery eyes, granulated lids, chronic styes, nervous actions as habitual winking may be caused by defective vision and should be attended to immediately.

The far reaching effect of infected tonsils on the system has been recognized by health workers for many years. Many of the ills of later life as heart disease, arthritis, deafness and the like, are directly traceable to tonsils that become infected during childhood and were allowed to remain untreated.

Dental defects are found in more children than any other imperfection, estimates the Texas State Department of Health, urging that children should be taken regularly to the dentist for examination and cleaning of the teeth. This precaution keeps the mouth clean and makes it possible for dental defects to be discovered as soon as they appear.

Pastural defects are detectable in children much sooner today than was formerly the case. Have your family physician see if your child's shoulder blades project and if his arches are low. Simple exercise while the child is young. Diligently adhered to, will prevent later developments.

Some physical defects of children, particularly underweight, or malnourishment, show no appreciable present defects. If such a condition is not corrected it may result seriously in later years.

Hard and fast rules for a child's weight at a certain age are difficult to arrive at due to variation in children's bone construction and physical build, but some gain should be shown each month. Average weights for children of height and age, as computed by experts, may be had from any family physician.

MRS. OTTO STAHNKE

Mrs. Otto Stahnke of Priddy died last Friday night at 10:15 p.m. at the hospital in Hamilton as the result of injuries received in a car wreck at Indian Gap on Aug. 2. Interment was held in the St. Johns Lutheran Cemetery in Priddy on Sunday Aug. 8. This was the largest funeral held in Priddy in a great number of years. Her obituary will be given in the next issue as the names of all relatives have not been learned yet.

MRS. MARTHA KARNES PASSED AWAY MONDAY

Martha J. Oglesby was born at Oglesby, Texas on April 24 1860 and was called to her reward August 9, 1937 at the home of her youngest daughter Mrs. Jack Reid in Goldthwaite, Texas.

She was married to Charley Karnes on July 4, 1878 and to this union was born five children, four of whom are still living. They are Mrs. Wellie Saylor; Mrs. Myrtle Forehand; Mrs. Jack Reid of Goldthwaite and Cleve Karnes of San Saba.

Besides these children she is survived by twenty grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Her husband preceded her in death four and a half years. Her funeral was held at twilight which was a beautiful setting for the end of a beautiful life lived in a quiet unobtrusive way for her family and her friends which were numbered by her acquaintances.

Mrs. Mills Eaves, formerly of Chadwick's community but now living in Waco and who is a trained nurse, had come to visit her brother Jack Reid and family, finding Mrs. Karnes seriously ill helped nurse her until the end.

Mrs. Albert Taylor and son, James Albert, Jr., and a friend, Patsy Page, of Nevada are guests of Mrs. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Walter Fairman, and Mr. Fairman.

RICH MAN'S FOLLY

The illustrated magazines have been full of pictures and stories about the recent yacht races in which a British millionaire endeavored to outpace an American millionaire off the Rhode Island coast.

The yachts themselves have cost around three-quarters of a million dollars and the other expenses are so heavy that it is probable the total cost of the race will reach one million dollars. The prize is a bulgy silver cup worth about $60.

This was the sixteenth time the cup has been raced for and most of the previous races have ended with hard feelings on both sides. The rule has been that the English yachtsmen have shown better sportsmanship while the American racers have been out to win regardless.

This year, though the American yacht won four straight races, the English defender admitted his boat was outclassed.

Of course it is none of our business if it suits the challenger and the defender of this year's race to slough off their money in chunks like this. But there can be no doubt that it is just such reckless extravagance that is responsible for the bitterness with which many owners of vast wealth are regarded, both in America and in England.

Some millionaires use their money for building libraries, schools and hospitals. Some endow researches that point the way to longer, happier lives. Others build and race yachts.

REVIEW OF BUSINESS

"Business as usual" describes the commercial picture today. During recent weeks, there have been no marked changes either upward or downward. The high level attained during the spring has been maintained this summer, when sensational adjustments are made.

To quote Business Week "Business sentiment is obviously improved now. The president's court bill has taken a trimming. Though all is not exactly quiet on the labor front, it is definitely better than it was." Another encouraging factor, in the view of business men, is congress' apparent reluctance to okay major experimental legislation. It now seems probable that adjournment will take place within two weeks.

The noticeable upturn in optimism on the part of business men is one of the most important of recent developments. Last year, for instance, and early this year many leaders were frankly skeptical of the basic soundness of the recovery movement—they regarded it as a boom bubble that might burst at any time. They still don't feel that the underlying structure is as solid as it might be—but they are definitely more hopeful that needed corrections will take place.

Here are some business briefs of interest:

AGRICULTURE: Big crops are being harvested and prices are good. There is an acute shortage of farm labor in many states, even though wages have risen materially. On July 1 the farm labor supply and demand ratio was the lowest since late 1923.

AUTOMOBILES: This June passenger car registrations totaled 336,000 as against 369,000 in June 1936 and 280,000 in June 1935. Thus sales are tending to slacken. This is to be expected in the light of the remarkable demand for new cars the public has shown for two years. It is possible that a temporary "saturation point" is being reached. However sales of higher priced cars are going up.

RAILROADS: Will benefit from increased farm production this fall. The industry is now carrying on wage negotiations with its unions and it is expected that compromises will be reached with wages somewhat increased. Management union relations have reached a high standard in this industry and no one anticipates strikes or other disturbances.

ADVERTISING: Is up in all branches with biggest gains registered by magazines, whose lineage is now at its highest point since June 1930.

UTILITIES: It is forecast that telephones in service will reach record proportions early next year—first half installations totaling 529,600. Light and power companies are doing well so far as production and sales are concerned—their big problem is still legislative. The Supreme Court's decision on the holding company will be of vital importance to this industry. The decision will probably be handed down in the early fall.

CONSTRUCTION: Two well known economists writing in Fortune forecast a home building boom that will start soon and continue until about 1943. Builders are working on the problem of furnishing attractive, efficient and low cost houses for families in the $25 and $30 a week income group.

FOREIGN TRADE: Is getting better slowly. Great hopes are held for the new gold agreement just effected with Brazil which is supposed to greatly widen our market there. European and Oriental trade prospects are unpredictable in view of wars and war scares.

The WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONAL by MAX BERNS

Federal Appointments

How are federal appointments made?

In keeping with giving the executive power to the President, our Constitution provides that he shall appoint ambassadors, judges and other officers "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

The concurrence of the Senate was designed to reject unfit nominees and to prevent the filling of offices with accomplices and tools of an executive inclined to be autocratic.

The Senate, as a matter of course, usually confirms diplomatic and cabinet appointments submitted by the President, but often differs with the President regarding appointments of judges of the Supreme Court and other federal officers.

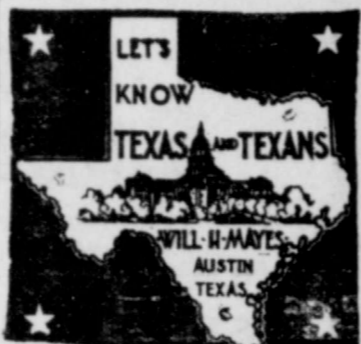

In theory the President also appoints federal officers in the states such as district judges, postmasters, revenue collectors and others. However, as a matter of practical politics, the men for such positions are selected or at least recommended by the Senators in each state. The Senators, because they know local conditions and because they want to dispense patronage, desire to be consulted or to name the nominees. Senators from other states want the same privilege in their states and so agree with their colleagues. As an appointment must be "confirmed by the Senate," the President yields. Such appointments, although theoretically made by the President, as specified in our Constitution, are actually, in most cases, made by the Senators.

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the state and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas

Q How was the burying place of Fannin and his men definitely located near La Bahia church?

A. While the spot had been marked years before by Dr. J. H. Barnard, one of Fannin's men who was spared from execution, it was not conclusively fixed until New Year's Day, 1932, when bones were found there that had been brought to the surface by gophers and were later identified as human bones. This confirmed Dr. Barnard's location and the State erected a suitable monument to mark the grave.

Q Does Texas have any Federal courthouses, and, if so, where are they located?

There is a Federal building containing a courtroom in practically every place in Texas where Federal courts are held. Usually these are not known locally as courthouses, because they are used not only as courthouses, but for various other Federal activities.

Q Was there ever a Texas port known as Port Saluria and if so, where was it?

A. Saluria was an important port in the early 1850's, at which time boats were run from here up the Guadalupe River to Victoria. The port was about 40 miles north-east of the mouth of the Guadalupe on Matagorda Island, at that time known as Saluria Island, and was three miles across the bay from the present town of Port O'Connor and 12 miles from the old town of Indianola.

Q What tribe of Indians moved across the Rio Grande after Texas was annexed to the United States and from where made frequent raids into Texas?

A. The Lipan Apaches, who had inhabited the mountain section of Southwest Texas, moved across into Mexico after Texas became a part of the United States. They were notorious and troublesome border thieves until 1873, when Gen. Mackenzie chased them to their homes and punished them severely.

Q Where did Coronado first come across villages of Caddo Indians?

A. In Palo Duro Canyon and then lower down on Red River at a place called Cona, in what is now Childress or Hardeman counties, and again in the vicinity of the Spanish Fort settlement in northeast Muntague County. These villages probably were abandoned about 1850.

Q When and where did a group of Texans sign the first declaration of independence made in Texas?

A. On Dec. 20, 1835, a group of 91 Texans met at Goliad and issued a declaration of independence, which was regarded as merely the sentiment of the signers and not as an official document.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Views of the Nation's Press on Topics of Interest and Importance

SHOWERS NOT BLESSINGS

Reports of the tactics employed by the Japanese in their attack on Tientsin from the air prove that showers may be composed of other than blessings. They also offer an appallingly interesting commentary on what inflammable cities may expect when as and if they become objects of hostile attention in the future. The first set of heavy Japanese bombers roared over Tientsin, dropping gasoline in large quantities and the second set laid down a thick sprinkling of incendiary bombs made of stuff called thermite. The thermite bombs ignite on contact and burn with a white heat until they consume themselves, for there is no convenient method of putting them out. The combination is deadly in a manner that adds new horrors to the already ample list of such warfare's book Japan's own cities by the way are still extraordinarily liable to the type of attack in question, and that fact joined with the recent demonstrations of Russian skill in a serious headache whenever they think of it. It does not follow these days either that a distance of several thousand miles from the scene of direct hostilities confers any perfect immunity on a community. The last batch of Soviet fliers to come to this country from Moscow via the North Pole flew about 7000 miles nonstop and were still able to go when they decided to land. Adding it all up one comes to the conclusion that the nations would outlaw war if they owned only common sense and were deaf and blind to all appeals of a humanitarian nature.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

BY THE RIGHT TO WORK

No matter in what walk the laborer; whether wearing overalls at his work or white collar and tie he is surely "worthy of his hire" and is entitled under the Constitution of the United States to work where he wills, when, and how. He has a right to labor and earn his bread and to sell his handwork or his brainwork on terms satisfactory to himself—he is promised in this country the freedom to follow his inclination and is not required to join any organization at all in order to be protected in his activities so long as they are not violative of any law. The American citizen has a right to expect protection from interference wherever he may be pursuing an honest, lawful course and when this is denied him there is reason for indignation and protest. The people of the United States expect the government to stand between citizen and any force undertaking by threats, interference, intimidation to force the affiliation with any organization of any kind. Any attempt made by any group or organization to force men or women to join with it for any purpose whatsoever is wrong. The American citizen is a free man or free woman, and the hand raised against one of these by organizations or members of organizations seeking to drive them into or away from anywhere that they have a right to go is wrong. The "closed shop" is illegal. There is no doubt about it.—Florida Times-Union (Jacksonville).

GUNS FOR 1937

Sixteen inch guns planned for the new battleships of the United States Navy will be capable of firing projectiles weighing more than a ton over a distance of seventeen miles. If such monsters may be carried about on the sea, it is evident that guns even more powerful may be placed upon the land. Just now the weight and range of modern heavy artillery is causing England to wonder whether or not Gibraltar offers safe haven for ships of the navy. If guns hidden miles away were showering the harbor with hail stones weighing a ton apiece the danger to a fleet anchored in the shadow of the Rock would be apparent. One lucky hit might send a battleship to the bottom.

There are naturally enough fears in England that guns capable of hurling shells into the port of Gibraltar would be in range of guns on the shore of Spanish Morocco across the straits. To the north in Spain there are many possible emplacements. There appears to be however no real evidence that guns intended to make Gibraltar their target are yet in position. But what may be sufficient to cause anxiety in England.

It goes to show that the mere possession of the Rock of Gibraltar might mean little when it comes to the defense of shipping seeking its protection. The mighty fortress of yesteryear may have become a poor thing in a time when great guns hurl their missiles for distances of a score of miles or more. The Rock might even lose its distinction of being itself impregnable.—Boston Transcript.

What does Geoffrey Mander, liberal member of parliament, think he is celebrating in suggesting that the Palestine mandate be turned over to the United States? Hasn't this nation troubles enough at home with the court bill and strikes and grasshoppers and car drivers who don't signal with their arms? Why should we take on the troubles of Palestine in addition?

But probably we needn't worry. England finds her colonial possessions almost a greater burden than she can bear. She complains a lot. But she never gives them up.—Kansas City Times.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

President Roosevelt's admonition to congress to "go slow" on appropriations for postoffices and other public buildings is timely and necessary. Until its financial status improves the government cannot afford luxuries. Few taxpayers will begrudge the sums spent on transforming Washington during the last decade. The plans had been drawn long before and most of the money was ready for the stately, spacious structures that are making it the grandest capital city in the world. But completion of the ambitious project may well await an achievement that means so much to those who foot the bills. It is the balancing of the federal budget

THE LAKE

It's great to sit beside the lake
When night's shadows begin to fall
An' hear the little frogs croakin'
An' the bull frogs begin to bawl.
Then it is your nerves do tingle
An' your hair almost stands on end
When the big boys begin to beller
Way down 'round the bend.
When you are no more than settled
High up in the evening sky,
A bull bat comes divin' at you
But he always passes by
With a roar that shakes creation
An' you almost lose your feet—
But, of all the creepy noises
A bull frog can't be beat.

MAN'S SEVEN MISTAKES

Man's imperfections lead him to make many mistakes in life, and the pointing out of these frailties has engaged the attention of philosophers and reformers of all ages. A recent writer enumerates what he considers to be the seven greatest mistakes of man, as follows:

1. The delusion that individual achievement is made by crushing others down.
 2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.
 3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves can not accomplish it.
 4. Refusing to set aside trivial preference in order that important things may be accomplished.
 5. Neglected development and refinement of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading.
 6. Attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as we do.
 7. The failure to establish the habit to save money.
- This appears to be a pretty fair diagnosis of what is the matter with us, and everyone might profitably check up on himself in the light of these suggestions. — From S-O-G, in San Saba News.
