STAR TIGERS DEFEATED INDIAN CREEK, 13 TO 6

(This article received too late for publication last week.)
Star Tigers had a game with Indian Creek Friday, Oct. 8. The score did not come out so well for the Tigers. The score was 13-0 in favor of Indian Creek. Delmer Don Geeslin and Oscar Karnes seem to be having a race in tackles. Anyway, they have the same number of tackles. Jimmy Lucas hurt his ankle again. We were disappointed that Duward Aatchen did not make a touchdown on the kickoff.
All the boys seemed to think they had more fun after the game.—Glen Geeslin, Editor.

Integrity of character, honesty of purpose and a sense of fair play and decency are characteristics which seem to have passed out of the picture of politics. During the past several campaigns, the stirring up of class and race hatred, mud throwing insinuations not based on fact, partial quotations and low trickery was indulged in.
The pity of it was that the people stirred up to a pitch

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Shipman were guests of Guy Laughlin and family Sunday.

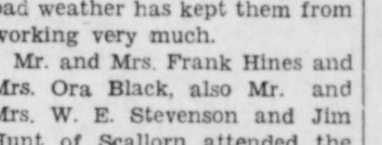

We certainly appreciated the fine rains that have fallen. ## AN OMISSION

The following report was unintentionally omitted from the Herald last week:

Grammar School Report

Last Tuesday, Oct. 5, Miss Ely the second grade teacher, had Rev. Brucks, the Methodist preacher, to come and talk to us at assembly. His talk was based on the poem, "The Pussycat Went to London." Everyone enjoyed it and we hope he comes again. Following his talk some songs were sung, directed by Miss Hill.

NEW BOOKS

Several new books have been received in the high school library recently. Most of them deal with etiquette in some form. They are as follows:
 "Meal Planning and Table Service," Bailey.
 "Charm," Marjorie Wilson.
 "The New Etiquette," Marjorie Wilson.
 "Everyday Manners," Philadelphia High School Faculty.
 "The Modern Etiquette," Eleanor Ames.
 "Boston Cook Book," Farmer.
 Several of the teachers are requiring some reading in these new books in order that the students may learn the fine arts of charming manners. Especially are the books used in the home economics classes.

ROCK SPRINGS

The weather was too bad for Sunday school Sunday morning. As to the Bible study, I can't say whether they had it or not. The weather shouldn't have kept them from having it for it was a beautiful night.

I've been told the men were to be here to work on the oil well this week.

A correction before I get in to it: Last week someone made a mistake in my letter. It was MISS Manning that went to Stephenville, instead of Mrs. Manning. She teaches at Big Valley.

Philip Nickols spent Friday and Saturday in Brownwood. He went to trades day. He sold one horse and traded one for another. I'm sure some thought he was a big trader as he took his walking stick.

SEEING THINGS AT NIGHT

Photographing lightning presents no problem other than patiently waiting for the flash with the lens open, the camera stationary. At the top—A night picture made with an exposure of 25 minutes at f8 on chrome type film. It's probable that a shorter exposure would have sufficed.

OUTDOORS at night you will find many a good, perfectly "gettable" shot. Lightning, for example, takes its own picture very neatly. And the procedure is simple.

As a lightning storm approaches, place the camera (even a simple box type outfit will do) on a window sill or some other convenient perch, aim it at the storm center, open the shutter for a time exposure—and then wait for things to happen.

If you are lucky, a bolt of lightning will soon come within the ken of your camera. Then close the shutter, wind the film to the next number, and try again. Lightning pictures are doubly effective if they include nearby buildings or trees.

Picturing illuminated buildings, electric signs, and other night-blooming subjects is simply a matter of time exposure. The camera, of course, must be stationary. Length of exposure depends on the amount and color of light on your subject, and the kind of film used. The chrome type of film is excellent for outdoor night time exposures, as it minimizes flare from strong, exposed lights. Usually, you'll find exposures of from two to five minutes adequate (unless you stop the lens "way down"; then you'll need longer time). And if your subject is bathed in colored lights, especially any reddish hue give it about double the time you would otherwise use.

Real moonlight pictures are something to point to with pride. Moonlight will make pictures just as sunlight does, but being many times weaker, exposures must be very considerably increased. The simplest way to calculate a moonlight exposure is to give 25 minutes for each 1/100-second exposure that would be given the same scene in sunlight. Suppose it is a landscape with a dark-toned object in the immediate foreground. The sunlight exposure would be 1/25 at f11. Then by the light of a full moon with sky clear throughout, it would be 100 minutes at the same stop. This could be cut down to 50 minutes with stop f8. Without nearby dark-toned object, the exposure can be cut down to 25 minutes at f8; for distant landscapes, to 10 or 15 minutes.

If a sort of daylight effect is desired, then exposures must be multiplied by four.

Warning: Don't include the moon itself in your picture unless you want it to show a nice bright "baloney" sausage hanging in the sky. Like the sun, the moon "go" move.

John van Guilder.

Dorothy Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Briley were visitors at the Malone home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilmet of the Spring Creek school in San Saba county spent the week end at the Wilmet home.

She is getting along all right, but will probably be in the hospital for several weeks.

We had good rains last week, but another fine rain fell Sunday night. The women all turn to thoughts of gardens. Turkeys are up to a fine stand. If we can keep the rabbits and chickens out, we'll have plenty to eat after awhile.

We hear Mrs. Kelly's voice over the phone, so we know she is home again. Ever since Mr. Kelly's death several months ago she has visited with her children and other relatives. Now that she is alone, first one and then another has insisted that she make her home with them, but she chooses rather to live in her own little home, and it's good to hear her voice over the phone again.

Mrs. Effie Egger took them all back to Brownwood Sunday afternoon.

HEALTH NOTES

To the very young there is no other disease as dangerous as whooping cough, states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer.

In addition, there is no other disease causing an equal amount of suffering of which parents show so much unexplainable disregard not only for the safety of their children, but also for that of their neighbors' children.

There doesn't exist a natural immunity against whooping cough during the first six months of life as there does for measles. It is at this age that whooping cough strikes its hardest blow, and over 50 per cent of the deaths occur in children under one year of age.

Whooping cough is usually transmitted by direct contact with the secretions of the mouth or nose, and only a very short exposure is required to contract the infection. Handkerchiefs, drinking cups and toys may also transmit the infection.

The infection is communicable from the appearance of the first symptoms and is most contagious at this early period when the nature of the affection can only be suspected. The incubation period is commonly seven days. A slight fever, running of the nose, and a cough make their appearance so gradually and insidiously that a diagnosis is practically impossible unless a history of exposure is obtained.

When the whoop appears there is no mistaking the disease. If there is whooping cough in your community, keep other children away from your little children and keep your children at home. Call your family physician early, two weeks from the development. Isolation of all cases for at least of the characteristic whoop should be rigidly enforced.

BY LESS PUBLIC "RELIEF" AND MORE SELF-HELP

Self sufficiency and self reliance for farmers is a principle that long has been preached throughout the land. In the days when King Cotton was secure on his throne, bankers and business men—whose prosperity depended upon that of the rural resident—offered this homely slogan for the southern agricultural area:

"The cow, the sow, the hen, the turkey and the garden for a living—cotton for a money crop."

That counsel is still good and it applies to other sections as well as to the Cotton Belt.

With few exceptions, farmers who know their business need never go hungry. They have their lean years, when cash is scarce; but by careful planning, they usually can provide themselves enough to eat, warm clothing and comfortable shelter. When a good year comes along—as it inevitably will—they can buy certain luxuries and lay something aside for another rainy day.

The uncertainties of supply and demand affect agriculture just as they do other industries and farming should be conducted on a business basis. A manufacturer would not consider operating without a reserve with which to absorb possible losses. He does not demand government assistance every time he has a poor season.

To be sure, times come when a combination of unfavorable circumstances, such as the middle West dust storms, which killed crops, livestock and practically every other form of life—nullifies all efforts toward self preservation which the farmer can devise. Then, indeed, he deserves relief; but crop failures are the exception, rather than the rule. By diversified farming, not only can the American agriculturist support himself well, but one or two crops are almost certain to find a favorable market. If cotton fails, or brings an unprofitable price, he can fall back upon corn, wheat, oats or truck products. If the grain market is also low, he can use the corn to feed hogs for slaughter. Perhaps he will have an orchard or some dairy cattle to tide him over, or even a desirable woodland and range for sheep or beef cattle. The variety of ways in which farmers can provide sustenance and cash constitute an advantage they have over all other industrialists.

Grangers favor the live-at-home idea, whereby the farm family would produce, process and preserve the bulk of what it consumes. Good land would be used for field crops and the poorer tracts for grazing or growing trees. The Grange favors co-operative marketing and storage and believes that heavy surpluses can be avoided without government intervention. It would eliminate imports of products that can be raised at home just as profitably, and it urges re-entry into world markets for exports.—San Antonio Express.

NATIONAL INCOME RISES

The national income produced in the United States rose in August to a new peak for the recovery movement, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute. It amounted to $6,375,000,000 as compared to the previous peak of $6,150,000,000 in July and with $5,269,000,000 in August last year. The increase over the income of a year ago was 21.0 per cent. This compares with a gain of only 11.7 per cent in July. The national income in August this year was the largest for any month since October 1929. It was only 5.3 per cent below the monthly average for the full year of 1929.

The national income in the first eight months amounted to $47,734,000,000 this year as compared with $40,075,000,000 in the corresponding period last year, an increase of 19.1 per cent. It was larger than in any similar period since 1929. As compared with the income in that year, it was only $5,817,000,000 smaller. It is thus evident that the national income is close to the greatly inflated condition prevailing before the depression.

The probability is that the national income in September was larger than in August and the prospect is that another new peak for the recovery movement will be reached in October. It will not be surprising, however, if the seasonal decline during November and December is sharper than usual.

WHEN MEN DECAY

"Before our eyes are dangers which even the darkest pessimists of the last century did not dream of. The injunctions of the Bible concerning human conduct were then accepted by believer and infidel alike as self-evident demands for the individual and society. The world has slowly grown accustomed to symptoms of moral decay. One misses the elementary reaction against injustice and for justice—that reaction which, in the long run, represents man's only barbarism."

These are the words not of a preacher or of a great moral leader, but of one of the world's greatest scientists, Professor Albert Einstein. Too often in past years the scientists have been blamed with man's wandering from the straight and narrow path of righteousness. But here comes one of the greatest and points the way back to the simple virtues that are outlined in the Bible.

The words are fitly spoken. All over the world, as Dorothy Thompson, the brilliant commentator, declares, men are living by the philosophy of "Right is that which serves us." And so they are, to put it bluntly, living by a lie. Under these conditions it is small wonder that the news of the day is filled with untruths, deliberately issued by men in authority to serve their selfish ends.

Fortunately American editors are still free to sift and sort as best they can the news that comes to their desks, but in Germany, in Russia, in Italy and in Japan, not to mention scores of lesser nations, the state dictates what shall be printed in the newspapers and what must be omitted. Scarcely an issue of these papers but contains glaring misrepresentations and deliberate falsehoods.

Even in America there are men who would put a bridle on free speech and a halter on public opinion. When, if ever, that occurs, the doom of this free people is sealed. And such a step is not as improbable as it seems. This country is not free from moral decay, in high places as well as low. And once the narrow lines between right and wrong is overstepped, it becomes increasingly easy to promulgate falsehoods in the name of the state, in the name of labor, of capital, of public utilities or of some other selfishly interested group.

There is only one possible solution for the grave ills that confront, nay surround, us. That is a return to religion and the beliefs, and still more important, the acts of our fathers. Today there are men who can utter plausible excuses for any kind of misconduct, no matter how reprehensible or vile. Today there are those who even deny the existence of right or wrong as such. "Right," they claim, "is what serves us." The man or woman whose heart is open to the truth expressed in the Bible cannot utter such a monstrous mis-statement.

But, unfortunately, it is not sufficient, so far as this life is concerned, for one to accept the truth himself. The same showers of bombs and poison gas are visited upon the righteous as well as the wicked. The iniquities of misgovernment press harder, indeed, upon the upright than they do upon the subservient and complaisant.

The battle cry is no longer make the world safe for Democracy. It should be to make the world safe for truth and right.

Positive Proof

AS THE tale goes, an Englishman was making his first visit to the Gulf States. He was much more interested in the habits of what he called the Blackamoors, meaning by that the members of the colored population. A waggish white man chanced to fall into conversation with him on board a train when passing through the Delta of Mississippi. The Englishman said that the negroes spoke with an accent which made it difficult for him to fathom their meaning. "You should hear them talking Indian," said the Southerner. "Is it possible that these people understand the aboriginal tongues?" "Oh, yes. Just listen and I'll give you a demonstration." The train had halted at a small station. The native leaned from the car window and, addressing an aged darky, on the platform, called out: "W'ar he?" Instantly the reply came back: "W'ar who?"

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the state and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas

Q. When, where and by whom was the Bloys Camp Meeting established?

A. The Bloys Camp Meeting was started in 1889, in the Davis Mountains near Fort Davis, by Rev. W. B. Bloys, who was its leader until his death in 1917. The meeting is held annually on the grounds owned by the Camp Meeting Association, on which a monument has been erected as a memorial to the founder.

Q. What is the appropriation for the State Planning Board for the 1938-39 biennium?

A. Fifty thousand dollars.

Q. When did Rev. W. B. Bloys locate at Fort Davis?

A. He was a Presbyterian minister who located at Fort Davis in 1888 and immediately began plans for an interdenominational camp meeting as a religious and social institution for that section of Texas. He died at Fort Davis in his 70th year. The annual gatherings draw larger numbers from all parts of the state and partake somewhat of the nature of Chautauqua assemblies.

Q. To what extent has the net income of Texas railways increased in recent months?

A. The Railway Commission's last report reveals an increase in net railway income in Texas of $4,929,303 for the first six months of 1937—96.35 per cent.

Q. When and where was the first brewery established in San Antonio?

A. In 1853 Charles P. Degen, who had come from Germany in 1850, and William Menger, founder of the Menger Hotel, began the manufacture of beer on the site of the present Menger

Hotel—the first brewery in San Antonio and probably the first in Texas.

Q. When was the first unit of the Menger Hotel at San Antonio constructed?

A. In 1859 by William A. Menger, a brewery being operated then in connection with the hotel. This hotel then specialized in Texas wild game of every kind, prepared under direction of Adolph Mitrovich, a noted chef of the period, and it soon attained a reputation throughout the country for its excellent cuisine.

Q. Where was the Texas town known as Mantua?

A. At the close of the Civil War it was a prosperous village in the northern part of Collin county, where it was founded in 1853. The place was practically deserted in 1873, when the Houston and Texas Central railway was built into Van Alstyne, and is now a mere memory.

Q. Who was the first settler in what is now Houston county?

A. Daniel McLean was the first settler, according to Judge A. A. Aldrich, local historian. McLean built a home there in 1814 and was killed in the McLean-Sheridan Indian massacre in 1837, near the site of Elkhart.

A beautiful book with brilliant cover showing Texas Capitol surmounted by Six Flags, size 9x13 pages, indexed, classified by subjects, with numerous historical pictures ready to be pasted in book.

This makes a lovely gift for children, is adapted for school or home use and stimulates interest in Texas history and love for Home and State.

A SOUTHWESTERN FAIR?

The suggestion has been advanced that after the Pan-American Exposition is over at Dallas the grounds be used each year in the future for a southwestern states fair.

Leaders in Dallas are of the opinion that a state fair in Dallas such as has been staged in the past will not be adequate or satisfactory again, but that a broader field of activity will have to be entered into.

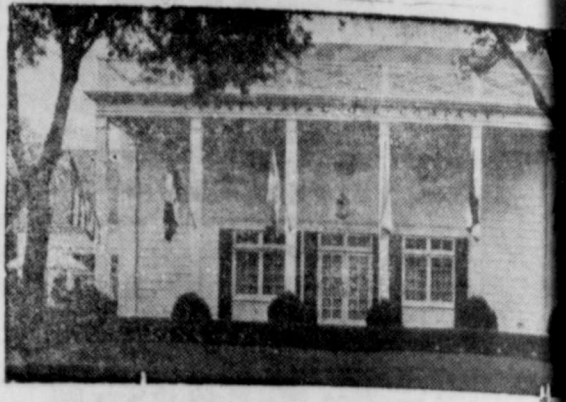

The suggestion for a southwestern states fair sounds logical and practical. If it can be worked out without causing enmity or friction with the state fairs of other southwestern states, then it will be almost a natural.

Texas needs to have a state fair, or better a fair of this nature, as an annual event, and it would be appropriate if the grounds and facilities being utilized now by the Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition can be turned into use for that sort of purpose.—State Observer.

CHEVROLETS

Chevrolet's master series 1938 are designed for owners who seek thrif without completeness. The master Chevrolet as embodying those qualities which Chevrolet's extensive public indicate that modern demand in their cars.

Performance, economy and comfort are carried to heights in these models with sacrifice of beauty or style. Cars are as roomy as the deluxe series; they are powered by the same 85 horsepower cylinder valve-in-head engine, and they offer the year's standing engineering advance—the new "tiptoe-master" clutch.

Like the master series they embody numerous improvements, in features affecting performance, comfort, safety, and style. The roomy all-round heightening of their wide wheelbase provides three years have been getting a steadily increasing demand for Chevrolet, with the production capacity being enlarged again and again.

The principal difference between the chassis of the new Chevrolets is the use, in master series, of conventional beam front axle for the enclosed knee action bearing its fifth year of use. Comanche
John R. Cowan was seriously injured here late Wednesday afternoon when he was run over by his own car. The most serious injuries were to his back. He was treated by a local physician and then taken to Gorman for further treatment. According to reports, Cowan's car was parked about four feet in front of his garage. Cranking it by hand and the car being in low gear, it knocked Cowan down, dragged him through the garage, tearing through the rear of the building and was stopped just on the outside when it ran upon some old furniture. Cowan was taken from beneath the car by his son, Joseph, who was standing near his father when the accident occurred.

William Gossett, 29, of Comanche, was seriously burned about his face Wednesday afternoon at the home of his father-in-law, Carl Davis, five miles out of Comanche on the Beattie road when gasoline exploded. He was taken to a Gorman hospital for treatment. Fear was expressed that his eyes might be permanently injured. Gossett's car had drowned out and he was attempting to warm it up with a gasoline torch when escaping fumes from the vacuum tank exploded, covering his face with flames.

Stanley Walker, a former resident of Lampasas and present executive on the staff of the New York Herald-Tribune, will be in Austin Oct. 15 for a lecture on "Journalism and the Young Man," sponsored by Theta Chi, Journalism fraternities, and the Texas Institute of Letters. He will speak at 8 o'clock Friday night in Hogg Memorial Auditorium located on the campus of the University of Texas.

Don't Neglect Your Child's Cold
Common colds often settle in throat and chest; at the first sniffle rub on Children's Mustersole.
Children's Mustersole is just good old Mustersole, only in milder form. It penetrates with a warming tingle and gets such marvelous results because it's NOT just a salve, but a "counter-irritant"—helpful in drawing out local congestion.
Mustersole has been used for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists'. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

She was accompanied home by Miss Constance Wright, who is also a student at the University of Texas.

The Lampasas school band, under the direction of A. B. Ronald, has been invited to play at the formal opening at the Buchanan and Inks Dams on Saturday, Oct. 16. Mr. Ronald stated that only 50 members will make the trip.—Leader.

Hamilton
Lightning struck the home of G. H. Kneillinger in the east part of Hamilton during the heavy rainstorm about 6 o'clock Saturday morning. It went through the roof and ceiling and ripped off part of a window sill. Fire damage was slight.

More than $87,000 will pour into Hamilton county and will be distributed among farmers during November and December for turkeys. County Agent Craddock and buyers here estimate that at least 45,000 birds will be marketed, weighing over a half million pounds. Buyers believe the price will be around 15 cents, although they are not sure. Estimates run from 14 to 18 cents. Last year they sold for 11 and 12 cents.

W. C. Keller, one of the most prominent farmers and stockmen in Central West Texas, was killed outright at his home in the west end of Erath county on Wednesday morning of last week. The tragedy happened as he was leading a mule from one corral to another, the animal becoming frightened and dragging him for a considerable distance. Mrs. Keller stood by helplessly and witnessed the death of her husband.

Citizens of Jonesboro and surrounding territory have been gravely concerned for more than a week over the mysterious disappearance of Denton Williams from his home there last week. Though officers of Coryell and Hamilton counties, friends and CCC boys searched for three days, no trace of Mr. Williams was found. There are some indications of foul play, but nothing of criminal nature has been substantiated to date.

Another builder of Hamilton county and Texas passed away when Mrs. Mattie Simeon Hitt of Indian Gap died here Monday. She was buried at Indian Gap cemetery, Rev. John D. West and Rev. A. B. English of Hamilton conducting the services.—News.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent dizziness, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Beginning next week, assembly will be called each Tuesday morning for the presentation of a program by one of the classes. The senior class has charge of the entertainment for next week and they are expected to have an interesting program.

JUNIOR CLASS
The first six weeks of school have past and also the six weeks examinations are over. The teachers of Goldthwaite high school are pleased with the progress that the students have made in the first six weeks of school. They are also pleased with the results of the six weeks tests. On the six weeks tests, the A's in some classes outnumbered the rest of the grades combined. The students have shown unusual interest in their classes and are progressing rapidly in their work. Although the pupils have advanced rapidly in their work, they are expected to accomplish more work in the coming six weeks.—Junior Reporter.

SOPHOMORE SMATTERS
Tuesday, Oct. 12, both sections of the Spanish I class changed from Room 304 to Room 200. This step was made first as a temporary change but was later made permanent.
Feature it:
Wilda Bledsoe displaying her quiet, reserved dignity (reserved—we don't know where).
Jerome Kirby, with his shy, despondent spirit, becoming teacher's pet in algebra (in any class, for that matter).
Christine Hill talking loudly as she boisterously makes her way through the corridors.

FRESHMAN REPORT
We Freshmen surely like high school. It isn't exactly like grammar school. Not long ago we elected our class leaders and Mr. Peterson was our home room teacher. Our president, Miss Inorhea Henry; vice president, Miss Agnes Forehand; secretary and treasurer, Mary Frances Hendrickson; and reporter, Gloria Shaw. We regret the leaving of Mary Frances, who has gone to visit her mother. Mr. Peterson told the freshmen when we were called "Fish" to take it as a compliment instead of an insult. So just remember, we're taking his advice.—Reporter.

THE SPOTLIGHT
Surely you have noticed a good sized boy around school who never gets in a hurry and has very little to say. Yes, that's right, it is Loyd Ervin.
He is 6 feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, and is 17 years old. He was born at Payne Gap, June 22, 1920. In 1927, he entered Goldthwaite Grammar School.
His high school career began Sept. 6, 1934, when he entered the 8th grade. He has not been in any athletic or literary events but he has been popular all the way through.

THE RAIN

I like to lie in bed an' listen to the rain. Some how or other it's a mighty sweet refrain. While old Mother Earth is partakin' of a drink I sorter snooze along an' think, an' think, an' think. About the wondrous works an' accomplishment of man. In comparison with God Almighty's plan. Man has made the airplane to span the distant sea. Man has made the radio to bring the world to me. Man has made the auto that keeps us all flat broke. Man has made the budget plan—that's really the joke. Man has mastered surgery, relieving much pain—Only God Almighty can bring the needed rain. UNIQUE SCHOOL OPENS AT PREVENTORIUM FOR 162 TUBERCULOUS CHILDREN

One of the most unique schools in the state of Texas is the elementary school of the 162 bed-Children's Hospital at the state Tuberculosis Sanatorium which recently opened a new year of work and study. Within the walls of the hospital an independent school system which meets requirements of the state department of education operates. Its pupils are most of the 162 patients at the preventorium. Children at the preventorium have been exposed to tuberculosis infection and are sub-standard in health. Although they must devote a number of hours each day to the more important task of improving their health, they attend regular classes and have established a record of making better grades at the preventorium school than at schools they attended while at home. Their treatment consists chiefly of rest in bed during periods throughout the day and at night. Well balanced meals arranged by a licensed dietician help also to bring strength and normal weight to the children. While carrying out this program of treatment they keep up their studies. A day's program demonstrates how this is accomplished. Upon arising at 7 a. m., the children have their temperatures and pulses recorded by a nurse. They are served breakfast at 7:30 a. m. Those who are well enough to carry on their studies enter into one of the five classrooms of the hospital where teachers are in charge. Classes are conducted until 10:15 a. m., when the children are given a 15 minute recess under the supervision of nurses and teachers. They play normally with jacks and marbles and on swings and see-saws on a large playground in front of the hospital. Studies are resumed at 10:30 a. m., and continue until 11:15. Another recess is held before the noon meal is served. This meal consists usually of fresh vegetables, roast beef and wholesome milk. Diets contain no fancy dishes, but include foods that are beneficial to growing boys and girls. Ice cream and cake are served twice each week. After lunch the children are permitted a few minutes of play before going to bed at 1 p. m. They rest until 3:30 p. m. and return to their classes at 4 p. m. Classes are over at 5 p. m., and they return to the playground for a few minutes before dinner is served. They must play until 7 p. m., then they must prepare for bed. Bed time is 7:30 p. m. except on two nights a week when they attend motion pictures at the sanatorium's auditorium.

A FLYING THREAT

In a way, it may be said, the page of Europe and quite possibly of the world now is flying around Spain in a bombing plane. That is a meaning one must attach to the news that Bruno Mussolini, son of Dictator Benito, has turned up in Spain as a bomber for the insurgents. If Benito should be shot down which is not uncommon fate of those who go about dropping bombs from airplanes, his father might bear his grief passively, as other fathers on occasion have found it necessary to do.
