Success Out of Failure

Well worth clipping out and pasting in a scrapbook is this tribute to Jesus of Nazareth, quoted from some unknown writer in Dr. John W. Holland's sermon in the The Progressive Farmer:—

THE GREAT PHYSICIAN

Here is a Man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another village. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was thirty, and then for three years was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never owned a home. Save Jerusalem. He never put his feet within a great city. He never traveled more than two hundred miles from the place where He was born. He never did one of the things that are usually associated with human greatness. He had no credentials but Himself.

While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His Roman executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth, and that was His coat. When He was dead, He was taken down and laid in a borrowed tomb through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone, and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the Leader of the columns of progress.

I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, all the navies that ever were built, all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as that One Lone Solitary Life.

The Rest of the Record

BY JAMES V. ALLRED Governor of Texas

Last week was designated by official proclamation as Natural Resources Week in Texas.

Thousands of school children civic club members, and other public spirited citizens studied the possibilities for industrial development in this State as well the immense importance of such development to the continued progress of Texas. Industrialists, business leaders, bankers, and capitalists are co-operating to insure the fullest realization of the importance of this week.

Thinking Texans for many years have realized the need for developing the unlimited natural resources of our rich empire to supplement the wealth obtained from our basic resources of agriculture and livestock. The wisdom of such a plan has become more apparent as worldwide competition has restricted the markets and sales of the elementary products from Texas farms and ranches.

Obviously a systematic and scientific expansion of these latent resources is necessary before the realization of a well balanced economic program between agriculture and industry can be attained. The result will be a more abundant life for the people of Texas.

Working toward that attainment are two agencies: Texas Institute of Natural Resources and Industrial Development, located in Dallas, and the Texas Planning Board, an official arm of the State government. The Institute during Natural Resources Week will display more than 100 potential resources capable of development. In addition there will be addresses by informed and prominent citizens whose knowledge of Texas resources and their grasp at the problems to be solved should insure the best presentation of Texas' industrial future available.

It is hoped that this week will emphasize to the people of Texas the need for continued interest and thought on this subject so vital to the future progress of our State. It is fortunate that for three years Texas has had the unprecedented benefit of favorable publicity which began before our Centennial Year, and extended through the Pan American Year, and is continuing into 1938.

The rays of the nation's publicity spotlight has played upon Texas during these years, outlining in bold and favorable relief not only the progress we already have achieved, but the tremendous latent wealth of our resources upon whose proper development depends our future. By every possible publicity medium—the press, radio, newsreels magazines, billboard—Texas has been presented to the nation.

As a result, thousands of tourists—both winter and summer—have filled our resort cities carrying back with them the story of Texas. National conventions have attracted thousands of delegates from over the nation who have become so enthusiastic that conventions of other national associations have been booked for years ahead in Texas cities.

Last week the representative of a prominent motion picture studio visited my office, told me of plans for the filming of the Life of Sam Houston, and said that the industry planned other films based on Texas history. Already on location in Texas at the time was another company filming a Texas picture. During the week, representatives of three national magazines visited in Austin on assignment for stories of Texas.

More recently, the Mother-In-Law Day celebration in Amarillo held the eyes and ears of the nation toward Texas. This unique celebration was honored by the presence of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President, and the governors of four neighboring states. Thousands of visitors from other states accompanied them while a national radio hookup carried the mental pictures of the mammoth celebration to an interested nation. News stories, news reels, and magazine articles told the story of Mother-In-Law Day and while doing it, reflected favorable national attention upon Texas.

It is timely then for us to observe Natural Resources Week and reflect upon the invaluable publicity for Texas which has focused the eyes of the nation upon our present and future development. We certainly have something to sell and the buyers of the nation certainly will hear of it through continued publicity.

SERVEL ELECTROLUX THE Gas REFRIGERATOR (OR KEROSENE)

8 Years' Service—Not 1 Cent Repairs!

"Eight years ago when I was looking for the best refrigerator to buy, a friend said: Buy a Servel Electrolux and your worries will be over for all time. There will be no noisy motor to disturb you; there will be only a slight difference in the amount of your gas bill; and not a cent for repairs. He was right. I call the Electrolux 'my household magician', so quietly, perfectly and inexpensively does it work—and with nothing to wear out. It has brought the luxury of perfect refrigeration into my home in a way anyone can afford."—MRS. F. M. BELL, 1527 Owasso St., Fort Worth, Texas.

Operates on:
• KEROSENE (Coal Oil)
• BOTTLED GAS
• BUTANE GAS
• NATURAL GAS

WHY NOT OWN IT?

YOU can buy, own and operate a Servel Electrolux—the Gas or Kerosene refrigerator—for what your refrigeration costs you now. In other words, you are paying for it now. Why do without it? We can show you this, with actual figures. They will open your eyes.

Servel Electrolux actually pays for itself in your home—in cash, in dollars and cents—and then pays you a profit besides. What other home equipment does that?

Of course, Servel Electrolux is a different kind of refrigerator. Entirely different from all others. And the only one of its kind. Its freezing unit has no moving parts. Think what that means—no pistons, gears, wheels, belts, bearings. Not one single thing to wear. And no noise. It can't make a noise.

For a tiny gas (or kerosene) flame does all the work. And does it for just a few cents' worth of gas or kerosene a week. A small down payment puts it in your home. You're paying for it anyway—why not own it? Why not NOW?

Blue Bonnet Club Entertained

The ladies of Pleasant Grove entertained the members of the Blue Bonnet Club and a number of guests with an all-day meeting in the home of Mrs. Lewis Covington on March 15.

They each brought a covered dish and when placed on the table at noon, made a very attractive and enjoyable table of eats.

The day was spent in having a jolly time and in quilting. We quilted 2 quilts, and hemmed another.

At four o'clock, the table was again uncovered and every one had another good feasting time.

After which we bade our hostesses good bye wishing for such another good time.

St. Patrick's Tea

Miss Ethel Foster, of Sterling City, president of the Sixth District of Federated Women's Clubs was the principal speaker at a tea given by the Art and Civic Club on the afternoon of March 17, in the recreation hall of the Methodist Church.

Miss Foster based the major part of her address on "The Activities of the Federation" and advanced many helpful and worthwhile ideas of interest and benefit to her audience.

Other guest speakers were Mrs. Ruth Allan, also of Sterling City, secretary to the president, who told of some effective plans that had been used in her home town literary club, and Mrs. E. S. Noble, of San Angelo, known for her knowledge of parliamentary usage who spoke on that subject, giving a list of laws of her own making.

Mrs. John Schooler, vice-president of the club, introduced each speaker in a very proper and concise manner.

Several musical numbers were interspersed during the program. These were a piano duet played by Gloria Armstrong and Aubrey Harris Smith, an Irish favorite, "Mother Macree," sung by Miss Maggie Marie Hill, and an old Irish tune in three part arrangement, sung by Mesdames S. E. Cloninger, Marsh Johnson, and R. V. Littlepage.

A social hour followed during which a large number of guests from the neighboring towns of Lometa, San Saba, Comanche, Hamilton and San Angelo intermingled and exchanged ideas with each other and with the Goldthwaite ladies.

The long tea table was beautiful with its grass linen cloth and floral centerpieces of green and white. A crystal punch bowl graced each end of the table, while sparkling crystal containers held dainty sandwiches, cookies and mints.

Assisting the entertainment committee, who were in command of the table, were Misses Connie Saylor, Billie Weatherby, Charlene Brim and Mrs. Arthur Maston Pribble.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hines Schade, of El Campo, were visitors in the city Sunday.

Some people with movie cameras don't know what to photograph next, and some have a baby.

Henry Venable Gets Back Pay From World War

Although Henry Venable was honorably discharged from the U. S. Army in May 1919, Uncle Sam has just completed paying him off. Only this week he received a check for $91.73 final payment due him for services rendered.

Venable isn't quite sure what the money is for. He was one of the survivors of the torpedoed Tuscania, after which he joined the famous Second Division at the front and went 15 months without pay.

If Uncle Sam had paid compound interest on the debt as he collects it on indebtedness due the government, the sum would have more than trebled by now. However Venable is not arguing about the interest.

HONOR IS DUE

Governor Allred deserves unreserved commendation for his speech last Saturday night. In it he made perfectly clear his position on three points which had been troubling his former supporters for some weeks.

He clearly and unequivocally disclaimed any ambition for a third term as governor of Texas. He disclaimed with equal clarity any desire to name his successor in office. He set a high standard of sound and dignified statesmanship by his address from the historic governor's mansion in Austin.

It so happens that these three points were raised in an editorial in The Eagle two weeks ago. It also happens that this editorial was reprinted by The Austin Times a short time before the Governor made his speech. Whether his attention was directed to The Eagle editorial, whether the editorial only expressed the sentiments of others, or whether it is a case of pure coincidence is of no particular moment.

The important thing is that the governor will not create a schism in the ranks of Texas Democrats by challenging the third term precedent; he will not seek to perpetuate his administration by naming a successor; and he did not stoop to the unrefined tactics of precinct politics in expressing himself. In all three particulars, Governor Allred has set a precedent worthy of the high office he holds.

WHY NOT LIMIT GANG PLOW SIZE?

Farmers, through their representative national, state and local organizations and their press, are vigorously opposing the so-called Train Length Bill pending before Congress, according to the Association of American Railroads. This bill would restrict the length of freight trains to 70 cars.

Resolutions expressing opposition to passage of the measure have been adopted by 15 national farm organizations, 46 state and county farm bureaus, 83 state and county granges, and 52 miscellaneous groups interested in agriculture. The American Stock Yards Association describes the bill as being "unfair to railroads and all users of rail transportation." A recent editorial in The Farmer says the bill "is the first proposal in the history of America to limit the size of the machine which produces for mankind."

The bill would greatly increase the cost of railroad operation, reduce efficiency and increase railroad hazards. It is as senseless a piece of legislation as would be a law to reduce the size of the farmers' gang plow 50 per cent, on the theory that it would force him to hire more men. Its mere proposal undermines public confidence in the future. Railroad labor suffers along with the rest of the nation from the depressing effects of such destructive, cost raising legislative nightmares.

No wonder thinking economists, farmers, editors and business men oppose it.

NEWSPAPERS THAT TALK

A news item in The Eagle last week tells of a new invention by which a sound track may be printed in an ordinary newspaper and then reproduced in words or music in the subscriber's home.

An entertaining prospect opens up with this announcement. Radio will be surpassed for as the alluring voice of the announcer reads the words, the subscriber can look at the pictures or diagrams which accompany it. Little Junior will turn on the combs and listen to Popeye and the rest declaim their foolishness while he follows the drawings with his eyes.

While Dad shaves in the morning, his bathroom reproducer will bring to his ears the President's speech of the night before, complete with handclaps, a speech which he had not the time to listen to on the radio. Or, more likely, he will turn on the juicy details of some movie star's divorce case made doubly attractive by the sobbing testimony of the star herself.

The device will undoubtedly make use of the newspaper's great timesaver, the headline and subheads. The Eagle's front page, for example, takes approximately 30 minutes to be read aloud. But the newspaper reader-listener of tomorrow will skim through the headlines just as he does today, and read—or hear—only the items that interest him. Nor will he be caught unawares by an irritating advertiser as on the radio at present. The advertisements will be distinguishable as such and may be turned on or off at will.

The busy housewife will listen to the details of the party she attended while mixing a cake. Gumchewing girls will go to sleep to the dulcet tones of the love lorn's adviser telling how to be popular though prudish.

The man or woman whose eyesight is beginning to fail, will need only to tune in on the newspaper and have it read, as completely or as sketchily as he desires.

How soon this startling innovation will become practical and within the reach of ordinary folks is unknown at present. But it is certainly additional evidence to the fact that "wonders never cease."

Laughing Around the World

Buddy The Lion-Hearted

By IRVIN S. COBB

DO YOU recall the so-called "bob-haired bandit", meaning by that the allegedly good-looking young woman who practiced her felonious calling with such success in Brooklyn some years ago.

Well! One day she entered a chain grocery store in the happy quarter known as Flatbush, finding a young Irishman the only clerk on duty. She was armed with an automatic revolver and her growing reputation in the neighborhood. She aimed her gun at the youth's palpitating bosom. "Slip me the loose dough in the cash register, buddy," she ordered, "and then beat it out of here." "And did you go?" asked a citizen to whom the victim was later detailing the exciting story. "Shure and I wint, brave as a lion. I didn't stop nor falter nor turn back. Me heart was in every stride I took." (American News Features, Inc.)

Health Notes

More than 5,000 underprivileged crippled children will spend a happier May Day this year because of the work of the Crippled Children's Division of the Department of Education, which has helped restore them to a more normal life, according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health officer, whose department is cooperating with the May Day-Child Health Day State-wide movement.

Among the twelve divisions of the Department of Education is the Crippled Children's Division whose work is the correction of physical deformities and the training to overcome such handicaps. Through ministrations of this division, the child who has watched his friends at play may be able to join them. What greater happiness may be brought to a child.

In the enthusiasm to do good, many blame this division for failure to take every call, without realizing that this division is bound by Legislative Act to the definition of a crippled child as "any person of normal mentality under twenty-one years of age, whose physical functions or movements are impaired by reason of a joint, bone, or muscle defect or deformity, to the extent that the child is or may be expected to be totally or partially incapacitated for education or remunerative occupation.

SIX GROW FAST

Texas is among the six states in the union which have maintained a 20 per cent increase in population both in the period 1910 to 1920 and again between 1920 and 1930. Other states are California, Florida, Michigan, Arizona and New Jersey. California is by far the leader in the last census having recorded a 67 per cent increase.

The human ear cannot hear many of the notes sounded by song birds.

Advertisements will be distinguishable as such and may be turned on or off at will.

Fight Flies

Swat that fly! Especially important, swat the first flies! Since a female lays 120 eggs at a time and a generation is produced every tenth day, the first fly to appear may increase to amazing numbers before the summer is over, every one of them spreading disease and filth. As the Progressive Farmer says:—

"For their size flies probably carry more filth than any other living thing. Their cup-shaped feet and hairy legs bring filth to your home and table, if they can get in. They bring filth from the dirtiest places on your lot or your neighbor's lot.

"The kind of bacteria the fly brings depends on where he has been. Flies carry all kinds of disease germs — tuberculosis, smallpox, typhoid, infections of the skin, pink eye, cholera, dysentery, etc.

"What to do about flies? Screens—more screens, better screens. Small mesh screens. Screens which fit. Screens which close tight and stay tight. Screens without sags, rips, or rents—screens that absolutely keep flies out of the house. Of course there are flytraps and fly paper, preventatives, sprays, and the like. But in my opinion there is only one way to handle the fly question—prohibition by screens.

"The mesh of the screen should be not larger than 16; an 18-mesh would be better. Screens should cover the whole window, always on the outside. All porches, both front and back should be boarded up at least one foot from the floor in order to prevent small animals from scratching holes in the wire or children from knocking holes. All chimneys should be covered by screens.

If he has never worked a machine, managed a business, or made a success of any enterprise, he will get a job directing the affairs of the nation.

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST

What the Oxford Group Means to Me

Ben H. Moore, D. D.

It is only to be expected that there are those who criticize the Oxford Group. Such criticism takes its form from the reaction of the individual. Some suspect it of being a divisive organization, which will tend to split the church. Others fear it as a type of Christian fanaticism which will unbalance church members and lead them off on some radical tangent.

Anything can be imitated and misrepresented to its suffering. Certainly the church is suffering from such today. One can pretend to be a sincere, God-guided Christian just as one can pretend to be a Christian while at heart still a pagan.

Personally, I feel that most of such criticism of the Group is based, either upon a misunderstanding of it on the part of those who judge it, or upon a misrepresentation of it on the part of some who identify themselves with it.

No Oxford Group man or woman is urging anyone to "join" the Group, for there is nothing to join. It is not an organization. It is a spontaneous spiritual movement. It is a mutually agreeable fellowship of Christians, who are challenging each to a deeper Christian experience.

No one is urging anyone even to identify himself with the Group, after realizing that deeper experience in Christ, unless he himself so desires.

One becomes a part of the Oxford Group by catching the vision and living the life of whole-hearted surrender to the will of God, expressing itself in joyous, God-guided, unselfish service.

People will come to know it, if one is really changed. They will know it by the fruit one bears and the spirit one manifests, and not by the particular name one adopts.

Personally, I have chosen to identify myself with the Oxford Group because it has led me into a richer and fuller experience in Christ than I have known for many years. It has shown me what I lacked to "go all the way" with Christ as far as I know how. It has shown me what I must do in the frequent observance of "Quiet Times," and faithful obedience to "Guidance," if I expect to make the change real and continuous and progressive.

In gratitude, I gladly identify myself with the Group, but when I do so I voluntarily assume the responsibility of so living that the name will continue to signify whole-hearted consecration to the will of God as revealed in Christ. Would to God that the name "Christian" still signified that! But the compromising lives of so many half-hearted Christians, like myself, have brought so much reproach upon the name "Christian" that it no longer challenges to their best those who bear it, or those whom we seek to save.

The Oxford Group challenges me to help, by my life, to restore to the name, first applied to disciples in Antioch, its original meaning and challenge.

He fails to grasp the true spirit of the Group, who thinks it is meant to be a substitute for the church, or lets it lead him away from the church of the living

God the body of Christ.

That person who has honestly faced his own sins, and cleared them away through repentance, confession and forgiveness; who has whole-heartedly surrendered his will to the will of God; who faithfully seeks the guidance of the Holy Spirit in the "Quiet Time"; who promptly obeys that guidance; who sets up, as the standard by which to judge himself, Absolute Honesty, Absolute Purity, Absolute Unselfishness and Absolute Love, is going to identify himself with some church. As to which church is a matter for him or her to determine under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

Within a denomination, or among several denominations, there have sprung up, from time to time, subsidiary and contributing organizations and movements. Such have not displaced the church nor hurt the church. Rather have they blessed it by presenting to the world a fresher and more challenging interpretation of Christ and His Church. Some of these, such as Christian Endeavor, have succeeded in creating a Christian fellowship that has been able to transcend all denominational lines.

Such today is the Oxford Group, not an organization, but a spiritual movement—that challenges sinners within and without the churches to plant their feet on the solid ground of an uncompromising acceptance of Christ and His Gospel; to lift their heads into the purer atmosphere of joyous, God-guided, radiant living, and to enjoy a Christian fellowship that can soar above all denominational barriers.

It simply seeks to show by actual demonstration that there is available to average men and women today a spiritual reality and satisfaction in Christ far surpassing what many are now experiencing, through whole-hearted acceptance of what the church has been offering them all along.

It seeks to reveal in a fresh and convincing way that the pearl they've been carelessly tossing about is, after all, the "Pearl of Great Price" to be treasured above all else.

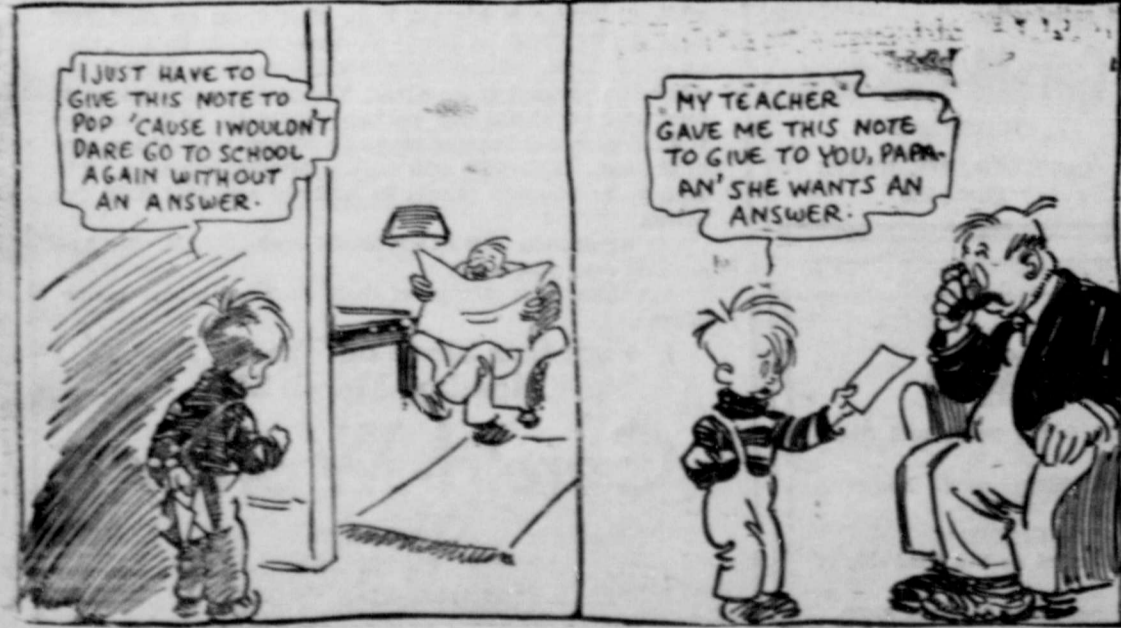

To many, the Oxford Group has nothing to offer, for they already realize the value of what their church has given them, and they have already discovered the self-discipline necessary to keep their souls cleansed and in tune with the spirit.

To many others the Oxford Group comes with a fresh breath from heaven, opening their eyes and clearing their dull vision to see that this which they have been treating as commonplace is, in truth, heavenly treasure. Among such there has grown up this inner fellowship of those who seek, not critically, but lovingly, to hold each other to a maximum experience in Christ, and to share this experience with still others. It is a fellowship that gathers in groups around invisible altars on which burn the sacrifices of surrendered lives, and from which they go back to their own churches to "let their lights so shine" that others seeing their changed lives will say "They have found something that I want."

This is what the Oxford Group means to me.
