First Baptist Church

Next Sunday at 11:00 o'clock the Lord's Supper will be celebrated. The sermon theme will be, "The Gospel According to the Lord's Supper." At 7:30 in the evening the pastor will speak on, "The Gospel According to Baptism."

It is devoutly hoped that all of our people will be present Sunday for the Lord's Supper. From this time forth the Supper will be celebrated on the first Sunday of each quarter.

"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet." So sang a psalmist long ago. But how can it be a lamp if one does not know it? The Sunday school offers to help every soul in the study of the Word. Let Superintendent Gosby and his co-workers find a place for you in an interesting class. The Sunday School always meets on the dot at 10:00 Sunday mornings.

At a meeting held March 19, the county was divided into 4 associations each comprising a Commissioners' precinct. Each local association has a chairman and two or more committee members as follows:

Some good work is being done by the various committees in all the precincts. An earnest effort is under way looking to signing up farms and ranches in solid blocks.

To date 123 members have enrolled with an acreage of 101,000 acres.

Trades Day Crowd In Spite of Rain

Attractions offered by Goldthwaite merchants on the "Last Monday" Trades Day, proved stronger than the bad weather, and by mid-afternoon a crowd comparable to those on other trades days had assembled. Merchants report fair business. All are agreed, however, that the rain was worth more than the business it lost.

The next monthly trades day is scheduled for the last Monday in April.

Priddy Farmers Build New Road

Some 22 men living east of Priddy started, last week, on a new road between Priddy and Caradan. With the help of commissioner McCurry and county machinery, they have been making rapid progress in securing a good, wide, all-weather road. The heavy rains Sunday and Monday gave it a good test. It is planned to continue the road to Caradan with the help of Commissioner Hamilton.

Williams Ranch Racket

The Eagle is indebted to Mrs. John Carter for a copy of the Williams Ranch Racket, a news paper published by W. S. Marshall and M. C. Smith, in Williams Ranch, Texas, on September 3, 1880. This paper was found in a trunk which had belonged to Mrs. Carter's mother and a notice of her grandfather Hansford Huling's death appears in the paper.

It so happens that 1880 was election year and a number of political announcements also appear in its columns.

Williams Ranch was then in Brown County as Mills County had not been formed at that time. In it there is reference made to the Hamilton Herald.

One local item reads, "The town was lively on last Saturday, Justice Court being in session and a small quantity, about 20 gallons of red liquor being consumed."

The paper is tabloid size, 3 column, 8 pages.

Creamer Bus Line Is Considering New Mail Route

L. H. Creamer of Comanche, owner of the Creamer Stage Line between San Antonio and Eastland, states that there is considerable interest being shown by the towns through which the line runs in securing a star route to carry mail all the way from San Antonio to Eastland and return.

At present the Creamer line has the contract for carrying the mail from Goldthwaite to Comanche and return. The new service, if secured, would connect with mail to and from the Rio Grande Valley at San Antonio and would speed up its delivery from 12 to 24 hours. It would also give direct connection between the adjacent county seats through which the bus line runs and provide twice a day mail service for all of these points. At Comanche and Eastland mail connection would be made for the east and west with a good saving of time.

Three Elections to Be Held Soon

Goldthwaite voters will get plenty of practice in the next few days. Saturday the election of school trustees will be held. Monday, April 4, the Dog Law election will be held throughout the county, and Tuesday, April 5, the annual election of city officials will take place.

Three aldermen are to be elected, and there is a probability that even this number will not be sufficient, as one of the candidates, Walters Hester, is out of town and may not return in time to qualify if elected.

Farm and Ranch Checks Received

Prosperity is just around the corner at the County Agent's office, as checks have come in this week, for the farmers, which will put $16,918.09 in circulation in Mills County, if it is all spent at home, which every loyal citizen will do.

129 checks amounting to $11,134.83 were received for the Range and 58 checks amounting to $5,783.26 for the Farm.

County Cotton Quotas Announced By Texas AAA Office

The county cotton acreage quotas for 1938 have been announced by the AAA office at Texas A&M College. The state allotment of slightly more than 9,800,000 acres was divided among the counties on the basis of the past five years' cotton acreage plus acreage diverted from cotton under previous farm programs, Mills County's quota is 16,548.

The method of the distribution to counties is prescribed in the new farm act, which also provides that county committees shall divide the county acreage allotment to the various cotton farms. Provisions are made for small cotton farms, and new producers will receive quotas from a state reserve. Slaughter pointed out.

The distribution to the remainder of the cotton farms will be on a percentage basis of the tilled land. The percentage factor will be a uniform one for the county or for an administrative area within the county, but no farm may receive a quota in excess of the greatest acreage planted to cotton in any of the past three years.

Twenty-four counties received cotton quotas in excess of 100,000 acres. The largest quota, 175,781 acres, went to Ellis County and the second largest, 167,519 acres, to Navarro County. Hill, Lubbock, Lynn, McLennan, Nueces, and Williamson Counties received quotas of more than 150,000 acres.

Cotton acreage quotas of counties in this section are: Brown, 27,246; Burnet, 22,021; Comanche, 27,350; Coryell, 58,600; Erath, 35,368; Hamilton, 37,311; Lampasas, 15,815; Llano, 4,015; McCullough, 48,322; Mills, 16,548; San Saba, 21,146.

Seven Boys Going To CCC Camps

Mrs. Myrtle Forehand reports that seven Mills County boys have been ordered to report to the CCC Camp at Brownwood on April 8 for examination. If accepted they will be sent to CCC camps outside of Texas, as there are no vacancies in Texas camps at this time. There is a possibility that still more boys may be accepted from this county, and any who are interested should see her at once. The regulations no longer require CCC enrollees to come from families on relief. Following are the boys accepted so far:

Edward Harris, Dorman Dupuy, Edward V. Huckaby, Garland O. Patterson, Paul Sewell Warlick, and Curtis Taylor, Goldthwaite and Daniel Halle, Mullin.

Auto License Sale Below Normal

March 31—April 5, which marks the fifth anniversary of the Civilian Conservation Corps, is being fittingly observed with appropriate ceremonies in every camp in the United States and its possessions. Open house will be held at all camps, and the Commanders will welcome visitors to inspect the types of work undertaken, and to observe the favorable conditions under which the enrollees live. A special invitation is extended to Mills County people by the two camps at Brownwood.

This is one Government agency that has not been given the publicity it deserves, for it has functioned under the supervision of the War Department as a smooth-running machine, and not many public officials or citizens realize its true value, from either a social or economic standpoint. While it was created in 1933 to provide worthwhile employment for the thousands of young men roaming over the country, it has shown that such a program has a permanent place in the life of America, and there is little doubt that it will be made a permanent place in the life of America, and there is little doubt that it will be made a permanent and integral unit of the Government, as its life has already been extended for several years by Acts of Congress.

Prospects Good for Years' Crops

Mills County citizens are rejoicing over the wonderful rains which have fallen during the past week. Merchants see prospects for much better business, farmers are visioning bountiful crops, ranchmen are thinking in terms of grass and stock water while the home makers plan on larger vegetable gardens.

Rain began falling Saturday night, and the gauges showed one inch by Sunday morning. Sunday night and Monday the heavens opened and .84 inches more was registered. The rain was general, although not so heavy in all parts of the county. L. B. Burnham states that his place on the Colorado River received less than an inch, but that it is all that was needed at this time.

Everyone is agreed, for once, that the rain came at the right time to do the most good.

Colorado River Authority Will Sell New Power

AUSTIN.—Directors of the Lower Colorado River Authority have adopted a resolution declaring a policy to sell the authority's electrical power to municipalities and other public agencies if possible.

It was said purpose of the policy would be "that the electrical consumers of this state may enjoy the utmost benefits of the cheap power made available by this enterprise."

Municipalities and public agencies of Texas were requested to co-operate with the authority in accomplishing the policy.

"The lower Colorado River authority has practically completed two of its units, Buchanan and Inks dams, from which it will shortly be in a position to generate large quantities of electrical energy which it desires to sell to public agencies within this state for distribution to the people at the lowest practicable cost," the resolution said.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

TABLE-TOP HUMORETTES

Breakfast! A simple, humorous idea, simply and neatly told. The spotlight is a two-inch hole in a piece of cardboard, held in front of an amateur floodlight bulb. Exposure 1/2 second at f.16.

MOST amateur camera workers wait until they find a picture situation ready-made before they snap the shutter. Others have found that they do not have to wait—that they can often create a picture opportunity by selecting and arranging materials already at hand.

Still-life studies, of fruit, of flowers, of the play of light on textiles and glassware, are all examples of this creative method and a still-life expertly done can possess extraordinary beauty. Still-lives, however, require a keen sense of pictorial composition, judgment in lighting and a willingness to arrange and rearrange until everything is exactly right.

"Table-top" photography permits more latitude, particularly when the central idea is humorous. Here the emphasis is on telling a story, rather than developing an ideal arrangement of lights and shadows and textures. In consequence, the "table-top" worker can limit his labor to the story-telling essentials, and let supplementary considerations go.

Small toys, comical in themselves, are easy subjects to work with. Dolls are also convenient to use. The clever worker can construct funny figures from vegetables—for example, a carrot appropriately dressed and equipped with tiny wire spectacles can become a very presentable old lady. Cotton-and-wire pipe cleaners can be bent and combined into interesting action pictures—an instance would be adagio dancers on a stage. Good characters can also be made of modeling wax—and often the cruder the modeling the funnier the effect.

Scenic materials, when needed, are easy to get. Fluffy cotton makes excellent snow; small twigs make good trees; light brown sugar serves nicely for sand and a piece of glass laid over a dark cloth will do for water. Doll furniture is useful in realistic indoor sets.

Some amateurs build elaborate miniature stage settings for their "table-tops" just as if they were producing a professional motion picture. This can be fascinating work and often well worth while. But it is not imperative and can be avoided simply by selecting a story idea that does not demand realistic background.

"Table-topping" requires that the photographer work fairly close up to his subject. He can do this in two ways: either by using a portrait attachment over the lens of his camera or by using a camera with double-extension bellows. Cameras of the latter type will allow him to photograph small objects in their actual size and they usually have groundglass backs which help in focusing and arranging the picture. When a subject shows up too small on a negative, it is good practice to have it enlarged, with surplus margin masked out.

Try "table-topping." You'll like it.

Fiddlers Convention

Texas fiddle bands and harmonica players all over the State are getting ready for their first state-wide convention at Athens on May 30th when they will celebrate their seventh annual reunion which is expected to attract 40,000 persons.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Confusion at Austin

The picture of the State's fiscal affairs painted by the State Auditor's report is of a sombreness unrelieved by any promise in the skies of a fairer tomorrow. The most optimistic viewer can but agree that there are no rays of prospects of improvement in the immediate future.

There is a definite analogy between the state of affairs at Austin and at Washington. Both state and federal establishments have mushroomed in late years with the establishment of new governmental agencies and the enlargement of old agencies to care for expanded public activities. This overwhelming superstructure has been erected, in most instances, upon the old base not designed to support so much to hamper. The inevitable results have been the breakdown of co-ordination, with consequent waste and inefficiency.

The catalog by State Auditor King is not a comforting one—of 200 independent agencies of government largely ignoring limitations of the state constitution, operating much as separate bureaucracies, free of control as to budgeting and accounting, and responsible to no one in particular. As Mr. King explained, this situation can not be laid at the door of any state official, but rather is the effect of the system under which state offices must operate. The chaotic condition is emphasized by Mr. King's admission that even his office, the accredited agency for the purpose, can not "secure the information for proper reporting."

In the end, of course, such chaotic expansion as that at Austin, imposing an extra burden on the tax payer because of inefficiency and waste, will undergo a general overhauling. But the lag ensuing between the period when a government rushes into multiplied activity to meet new needs and when the orderly processes of administration catch up with this rush, is trying to the taxpayers. Matters have been going from bad to worse in this respect for many years, and still the plodding car-

Casual bits from the address of Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, Brownwood, at Cameron's C. of C. banquet Tuesday night.

"Franklin Roosevelt is the original good neighbor. But my father was a good neighbor before Franklin was born, and on not nearly as expensive a basis. "I campaigned for Senator Culbertson in my home county a long time ago and he got elected. Culbertson didn't do anything for me except send me some seed and they didn't grow. It was our county commissioner who bridged the creek below our house so I could get out and see the world.

"I believe in my little home town merchant. He fed me when I was hungry and gave me drink when I was thirsty. I believe in my little home town merchant and I'm going to stand by him now. "I think more of Baker street in my home town than I do of Broadway in New York.

"Spirit means more to a town than all its physical equipment. "A town that's not worth lying about a little bit is not worth living in a little while.

"I think we ought to get rid of some of our nursery tales... like Little Jack Horner. The trouble with this country is that it has too many Jack Horners stocking their fingers in the public pie to pull out a plum.

van of the public demand to put things in order has hardly come in sight of the runaway herd.

The State has needed for so long a time a new constitution replacing the present patchwork and reorganizing and co-ordinating state departments and bureaus, that one must hold fast to the last shreds of optimism in order to entertain the hope that the need will ever be supplied.

Things One Remembers
 I was recently talking to an outstanding banker, F. L. Lippard, Chairman of the Board of the Wells Fargo Bank & Union Trust Co., San Francisco. For 54 years he has been with this bank which has guarded the savings of its depositors since 1852. He is 90 years old and is still as active as a young man. He has no substitute for his integrity, individual initiative and private enterprise.
 In discussing the merits of the plan that are today being offered to the people as substitutes for thrift and industry, he said: "When a man wants to borrow money at this bank to manage his business from difficult times, we sit down and discuss the merits of the plan. If it will work, we will give it our best effort. If it is unsound, we will not give it our best effort. We will not give it our best effort. We will not give it our best effort."
 The government is no different from a bank. It can make more money and survive because it has the power of every citizen to fall in line sooner or later unless it is in the strongest position. The strongest government is the one that can only destroy itself. The government's rule for credit is "will your program work?" Every political experiment that is made is for the people's money."

Carnegie Takes Wrong Train, Lands in Dallas

Dale Carnegie, efficiency expert, took the wrong train from St. Louis to Houston, woke up in Dallas one morning recently and had to take a plane to Houston to address the Town Hall group and as many businessmen and women as could crowd into the Delman Theatre.

He admitted his error frankly, and thereby carried out one of his eight principles for winning friends. He kept his audience alert and laughing while he drove home with graphic illustrations eight ways for winning friends and influencing people. They were, in brief:
 1. Praise before condemning;
 2. Always make the other person feel important and be sincere about it (sincerity goes with everything);
 3. Never tell another man he is wrong;
 4. If we are wrong, say it before the other fellow does;
 5. Do things for other people to make them feel important, that is, little things not based on money;
 6. Smile more and remember names;
 7. Let other people do most of the talking;
 8. Give other people honest, sincere words of appreciation.

enthusiasm of his workers." At this point Mr. Carnegie put flattery out of the picture by calling it a "cheap, insincere attempt to gain another man's good will; a counterfeit which would be discovered sooner or later."
 "I mean a genuine interest in people, a new way of life, which, after all, is religion. If we think less of ourselves and more of the other person's good points we won't have to resort to flattery."
 Mr. Carnegie is a native of Missouri. He is on his first visit to Texas.

A study recently made by the Department of Agriculture shows that out of every dollar spent for amusement by American families last year, 29 cents went for movies. The average movie cost per family in New England was $12 a year, in the Central and Atlantic state it was $10, in the Rocky Mountain Area $16, and on the West coast it was $15. All kinds of expenditures for amusements were studied including pets and toys for the children.

We are much pleased and thankful for the rain over the week-end. The heavy and blustery March winds have blown the newly stirred soil to its depth hindering the germination of field and garden seeds. We thought we had a plenty to do the last few weeks, but guess we'll have to think again with all this sudden moisture to sprout weeds as well as garden seeds.
 Everything is in full leaf, with gardens planted to their full quota of seeds. It may be a little early. If we have a late Easter freeze it will be just too bad. Even Mother Nature will have to take the joke.

A very nice and refreshing rain fell here Saturday evening, Sunday and Monday. It fell slowly, in a way to do the most good to the young garden and crops. The rain was greatly appreciated because it was greatly needed. As I write this, the sun is shining, the birds are singing, and all traces of clouds are gone.

Even though it was raining Sunday morning something near forty people attended Sunday School and church services. Bro. Rock Springs

By Mrs. Eula Nickols

It is with sadness I write my letter this week. We wish to express our appreciation to all of our friends who were so kind to us in our trouble. If it wasn't for friends, this would be a sad place to live in. It was so hard for us to see Joe suffer as he had to suffer and then have to pass away. It was God's will, not ours. Earline and children and all of my other children and Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts certainly appreciate every thing that our friends did for us. The beautiful flowers were appreciated the nice supper our neighbors and friends sent in was also appreciated. May Gods richest blessings rest on each of you is our prayer.

Sunday being such a bad day there was no Sunday School or church.

CCC BIRTHDAY—

rolled than any other State, with a consequent greater amount of funds placed at the disposal of the needy dependents of selectees, thereby materially relieving the relief burden of each community. Over 109,000 boys have been enrolled in Texas, and they have been paid approximately $27,000,000.00, of which $23,000,000.00 has been sent to their families, who have, as a result, been removed from the relief rolls. However, to get a real picture of the benefits the CCC has brought Texas, we must consider in addition to this huge amount, the funds used for paying officers and other camp personnel, for construction of the camps, and for food and other supplies. These expenditures will more than double the $27,000,000.00, and the entire amount has been spent in Texas Communities.

As of February 1, there were over 16,000 Texas boys in camps, about 8,000 stationed in the home State, while 8,000 others were in Arizona, California, Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming. This large number assigned to out-of-state camps is due to the fact that there are more work projects in those states than there are boys to do the work, while the reverse is true in our State.

There are forty white and ten colored camps in Texas, most of them being in central and eastern parts of the State, where their efforts are devoted to Soil Conservation, improvement of National and State Parks, and Forest Work.

The Civilian Conservation Corps is not a military unit, although it is staffed by Reserve Officers and operated under the direct supervision of the War Department of the Government was, or is, in a position to carry on such a stupendous program. Officers placed in command of the enrollees are selected for these duties only after careful consideration, as they must be men of understanding, who can provide proper leadership and in still ideals of good citizenship into members of their camps.

The educational advisors are all men of great experience in the teaching field, and must be graduates of accredited colleges, as they are required to assist the enrollees in adjusting themselves to camp life, in addition to teaching, and supervising others in teaching, everything from reading and writing to more advanced courses.

At one time, CCC enrollees were selected from family groups that were receiving some type of public assistance, but since July Acts of Congress have eliminated this requirement. Boys are now actually selected due to need of employment, preference being given those of high character who show a desire to take advantage of the opportunities to improve themselves. It has been found that the enrollment of boys who have not some foundation upon which to build, is pointless, since they soon eliminate themselves at the cost and to the detriment of the Government and their local communities. Enrollments are for six month periods, and if the boys apply themselves and make good records, they are allowed to re-enroll at the end of each period, until they have served a total of two years, or until they reach the age of 24, at which time they become ineligible for further service. All boys to be selected this month will be sent to camps in other states.

Each enrollee receives $30 per month in cash, in addition to food, clothing, and medical attention. Of this $30, he must allot at least $22 to his dependents, or in the event he has no dependents, that amount is placed to his credit with the Finance Officer of the Army pending his discharge, when he receives a check for the entire amount which has accrued during his enlistment.

Boys are selected for enrollment in the Civilian Conservation Corps must pass a rigid physical examination to prove that they are able to do hard manual labor and that they are free from communicable disease of any kind. Each camp has a graduate doctor who looks after the health of enrollees, checks up on sanitary conditions, inspects food and keeps a watchful eye upon the kitchen. In the event hospitalization becomes necessary, the enrollee is transferred to an Army Base Hospital where he receives the best of attention. When operation is thought advisable, the parents or guardian is notified, and permission obtained before proceeding. If, after hospitalization, it is not thought best for the enrollee to return to camp, he is given transportation home and discharged. Dentists make regular visits to camps to care for the boys' dental work without cost to the subject.

Chaplains of various denominations also make periodic visits to camps, and ministers from nearby towns are always welcome to hold services in the chapels.

All types and kinds of athletic games and competitions are held and instruction in swimming and first aid is offered by members of the regional staff of the American Red Cross. Great rivalry exists between adjoining camps, and each week finds them competing against each other in some field of athletics.

Reading and recreation rooms provide circulating libraries, as well as dozens of monthly magazines and daily papers. Game tables and pool tables are available for pastime, but as all activities are supervised, no gambling is allowed.

COURAGEOUS CHARLES SOUTH

When the House of Representatives in Washington voted the other day to appropriate funds to build "the biggest navy in the world," all but two of Texas' 21 congressmen piled joyfully on the band wagon and voted "Yea."

Of the two who said "Nay," one was our own representative, Congressman Charles L. South of Coleman.

This vote proved conclusively that Judge South has a mind of his own and the courage to vote his convictions. While others were being stampeded by panic and by propaganda, he coolly studied the situation and apparently concluded that the United States was in no such desperate straits as the alarmists pictured. Evidently he reasoned that the construction of the biggest navy would not thereby insure peace. Evidently he counted the cost of the millions upon millions of dollars that would be poured into ships that would shortly be classed as obsolete. And when his turn came to vote, Charles South voted "No!"

It happens that in this instance The Eagle thoroughly approves Judge South's vote against the biggest navy. Since the passage of the bill in the House, our opinion that it was a mistake has been still further strengthened. But even if we had favored it, we could not help admiring the courage of Judge South in standing almost alone for what he feels is right.

In Kipling's "If" we read that a real man is one who can keep his head when all about him are losing theirs. Judge South is such a man. In these troublous days, this district is fortunate in having him to represent it in Washington.

WE ARE FORTUNATE

Reports from Lampasas, San Saba and San Angelo tell of railroad trains that are being withdrawn or service drastically curtailed. Meanwhile Goldthwaite continues to enjoy complete twice a day rail and mail service in each direction.

This is one of those benefits which we are prone to overlook as long as we have it. But this paper has never hesitated to give credit where credit is due, and to the Santa Fe railway, the county's premier taxpayer, it is pleased to extend its appreciation for fast dependable and courteous service.

Goldthwaite is fortunate in having the Santa Fe railroad here. It is only fair to add that the only way to maintain this good service is to patronize it at every opportunity.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

Old timers can remember when cowboys driving cattle along the trail would often chop down a pecan tree in order to gather the ripened nuts more easily. Everyone remembers what happened to the buffalo and prairie chickens of Texas. And middle aged Texans realize only too well how scarce game of all kinds is now as compared with 30 and 40 years ago.

It is therefore pleasing to note the success which has attended the organization of the Game Management Association here with over 60,000 acres already protected. Those who enjoy hunting and fishing themselves should be the first to support the move to perpetuate these privileges for their sons and future generations.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

According to the American Civil Liberties Union there is not a single communist in jail in America today because of political activity.

On the other hand in Soviet Russia, the home of communism, the jails are full of political prisoners, the courts are crowded with political trials, and bloody purges are so common they have lost their news value.

One wonders if American communists are sincere in their professed ambition to convert America to communism.

Clean-up Week

This week has been proclaimed State Clean-up and Paint-up Week by Governor James V. Allred in an official proclamation issued at Austin. State and city-wide clean-up campaigns are scheduled by officials over the state, the campaigns to facilitate public health protection, lessen fire loss, and promote public safety.

The Texas State Department of Health and the Fire Insurance Department will jointly sponsor the week.

Clean-up Week is an important week in Texas, important because every dollar in property destroyed by fire is a dollar lost forever. "Careless housekeeping" in the home and in business paves the way for unestimated fire loss, and all fire loss is, to a large percent preventable by exercising recognized laws of fire prevention and control.

Every citizen has pride in his home city, its streets, playgrounds, parks and buildings. Homes and buildings freshly painted, with well kept lawns and gardens, increase values and intensify community interest. Cleanliness creates confidence.

The past decade has seen entirely too many Texans lose their lives by careless daily use of fire. Preservation of human life is an important matter. Any agency which contributes to greater human safety of life deserves the attention of thinking citizens. Clean-up Week in Texas is such an agency. Its advantages are obvious: in contribution to a cleaner, safer, happier place in which to live, no matter how large or small the community.

Cities and towns of Texas will conduct clean-up programs of far reaching activity. Schedules are cleaning, draining, graveling of alleys, cleaning city parks and playgrounds. Malaria control, fire prevention, garbage and trash disposal, thorough spring housecleaning for city and home will be encouraged.

Clean-up Week, among its other functions, focuses public attention on the dirt and disease problem. It helps to make Texas a healthier, cleaner place in which to live.

In planting early seeds, plant in eggshells filled with dirt. When seeds are up replant eggshells in the ground without disturbing the plant roots.

Save the Children

Death is taking a holiday on the open roads and city streets of Texas, but despite increases each year in population and the number of scholastics in Texas schools, fewer children die each from traffic accidents in this state, according to the state health officer.

But the toll is still appalling. Last year 221 under 15 were killed, 154 of them between five and 14 years of age, yet safety officials, educators and others intensely interested in preserving child health are encouraged. It has been definitely demonstrated that safety measures are effective and the tragic cost in child life can be materially reduced in the future, he pointed out.

That special emphasis be placed on safety as part of health and protection on State May Day is being asked by the Child Health Day Committee, and plans are being formulated to make every Texan conscious of what is being done and what must be done to preserve life of Texas children.

Sowing the Wind

When the ill-fated German Republic was torn by enemies within and oppressed by enemies without, Austria, as an abandoned walf of the war, sought permission to save itself in union with its big German neighbor, France would not tolerate it and Great Britain backed its ally. The allies killed the German Republic. They prevented the settlement of affairs in Central Europe in terms which would have been a guaranty of their own country. They killed liberalism, culture, intelligence, good will, and liberty. In the place of a friendly society they raised up dictatorship, brutality, ignorance, serfdom, and military power.—Chicago Tribune.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST

Leadership

The individual leader, the single dominating man, is more important to the world today than ever before. Some people used to say that in the "machine age," in the complex world of modern civilization, individual human personality would be submerged and lost. How strangely different is the situation on which we look!

Dictators loom more conspicuously than ever before. The vast union of "all the Russias" is under the domination of one man. The words Duce and Fuhrer both mean "leader," and the great nations of Italy and Germany look to the bearers of those titles as the symbols of their national spirit and as their all-powerful masters.

We do not want leaders in that sense; but strong leaders of some sort are essential. The tremendous effect of Mr. Roosevelt's first inaugural address, which put heart and courage into a nation floundering and despairing in the depths of the depression, showed how even a free people need a forceful leader to point the way and cheer them onward. Without their great leader, Masaryk, recently dead, the brave and competent Czechoslovaks could not have created so quickly their strong republic.

But it is not only dictators and presidents who illustrate the power of leadership. No group of people can by themselves alone achieve the best results. They must have someone at least to help them put their needs and desires into definite words and plan the way to attain them. In a football team, in a college class, in a women's club, in a labor union, in a party organization in district politics, in a business corporation, the quality of the leadership makes an enormous difference.

What makes a real leader? It is extremely interesting to watch a freshman class as it enters college, an inchoate mass of unknown individuals, among whom no one can at first prophesy with any confidence who will be the leaders; and then, as the months and years pass, see the leaders emerge. Perhaps the strongest of all will not develop until the class is halfway through its college course.

What makes them leaders? Courage, I think, and some driving force; a vision of a goal; understanding of the minds and the emotions of the people one is to lead; the power to communicate to them a vision of the goal and to sway their minds and emotions toward it; character, to make the followers trust their leader; and finally the divine spark, that indescribable personal charm or magnetism which stirs hearts to action.

Today, in nearly all lines of life and work, we are short of good leaders. To the young man and woman entering college or high school we should say, try yourself out in leadership and see whether you cannot fill one of these gaps. Train yourself for the effort. Get accurate knowledge of the facts concerning the organization, the club, the team, its plans, its problems. Have a clear and definite opinion of the goal it should seek. Learn to know the minds and feelings of your fellow members. Develop your powers of speaking and writing so that you can make them see this goal and want to seek it. Do not be afraid of unpopularity. Steel your heart to courage, honesty, and unselfishness. If your followers find they cannot trust your word, they will follow no longer. If they discover that you prefer your own interests or ambitions over the goal or the vision, they will turn away from you.

Being a leader brings a heavy weight of responsibility, but also deep satisfaction in exerting ones powers and helping mightily toward some good end greater than oneself.

We cannot all be leaders, of course. Most of us must be followers. That is a grave responsibility, too, for we have to choose the right leader. We should make sure that the goal he is aiming at is the one we want; that the vision he has is one that moves us to action. And if he abandons the vision and takes another course, then we must abandon him.

All great causes need gifted leaders and also loyal followers. So there is a place for every one of us in advancing the welfare of our country and of the world.

The Lone Star Shines

A report from the Christian Science Monitor's correspondent in Austin tells of the notable prosperity of Texas in the face of business recession in most of the rest of the United States.

Farm income in that predominantly agricultural State rose from just under $400,000,000 in 1936 to more than $460,000,000 during the calendar year of 1937, and this favorable comparison continued right into December notwithstanding declining prices and after many production indices in the Nation had been falling markedly. So, too, do Texas oil wells continue to bring in approximately $1 a barrel for their 1,400,000 barrels of average daily output.

The prosperity of Texas is indeed a luminous spot on the business map of the Nation as confirmed by the monthly map in shadings from white to gray in the magazine Nation's Business, published by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This map in the February issue, based on December figures, shows half or more of Texas in white indicating "good" business, while no other state is nearly so favored.

Yet from the sunny geniality of Texans it is safe to say they would rather see prosperity spread than be confined to them alone. That is one of the good things about a rise of agricultural income; it soon spreads back to enliven industrial markets. Texas has gloried in the name of the Lone Star State, but her citizens would be sure to welcome heartily a whole constellation of other bright spots on the Nation's business map.—Christian Science Monitor (Boston).

Tribute

At the Memorial meeting of the Self Culture Club, which was held on Thursday afternoon, March 24, in honor of the late Mrs. Eli Fairman, the following tribute was read by Mrs. R. M. Thompson, who had written it in loving memory of her friend, Mrs. Eli Fairman:

In the years gone by in the yester years we walked together and worked side by side in club church and social service, always visiting the sick and shut-ins, cheering them as best we could. A real, true friendship of almost 30 years in which we tried to follow in the footsteps of our Lord and Master, each advising and comforting the other in times of stress and trouble and now, I feel that truly, I can liken her unto the great Bible character, Naomi, a typical woman of faith and courage.

Hard and troublesome times such as she passed through have always tested the souls of men and women and have revealed in her life the latent and inherent strength, of whose heroic qualities and courage of endurance, would never otherwise have been emphasized.

She was a type of woman whose loyalty and devotion to her family and friends was a classic. A mother whose love gives her children strength to carry on through the tomorrows of life.

Life was not always easy in her pioneering, early days, but she met its hardships with a spirit of courage and resourcefulness, that inspired all around her and those with whom she came in contact to greater efforts and more faithful living.

Her aim in life was the highest and her generosity for any object for the upbuilding of the community was surpassed by none.

Her wonderfully active mind and body all through her life, even after declining years and bodily affliction possessed her, was marvelous to behold. Not many in this life are privileged to reach that age with their faculties alert and intelligent interest never wavering from the affairs of life which was a great part of her.

This lovely poem written by Rev. J. S. Bowles, of Fort Worth, was read by Miss Love Gatlin on the same occasion.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. ELI FAIRMAN

With heavy hearts we gather here,
Bereaved are we today;
One of our number, dearly loved,
Has gently passed away,
Into the unseen land above,
The home beyond the sky,
The place where sorrows are unknown,
No tears bedim the eye.

She needs no stately obelisk,
Requires no mead of praise;
Her monument is in her life,
Built through her earthly days.
This will abide and this alone,
Defying time and rust,
When all earth's marble monuments
Have crumbled into dust.

She is not dead, she whom we mourn,
Her spirit lingers near;
We hear her gentle, kindly voice,
Our steps to guide and cheer.
If we should falter in the way,
Or miss the beaten track,
Her voice, her life, her noble deeds,
Should quickly call us back.

Farewell, dear friend, your voice we heed,
We follow at your call;
We need the strength your faith inspired,
To aid us lest we fall.
We'll journey on the upward way,
The path that thou hast trod,
And we shall meet again some day,
Hard by the throne of God.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of extending our heart felt thanks to all of our friends who rendered assistance and expressed sympathy for us during the illness and after the death of Joe Roberts.

Texas Quota Majority Heavier than that of 1934 Bankhead Referendum

A comparison of the Texas vote of the cotton marketing quota referendum with that of the 1934 Bankhead balloting shows that 88.35 per cent of the farmers voting favored the quota plan while 82.5 percent voted for a continuation of the Bankhead system in the 1934 referendum.

Complete returns from the 235 Texas counties producing cotton show that 246,091 farmers took part in the voting, with 217,425 favoring the plan and 28,666 against it.

In the cotton producing states as a whole the vote was 92.4 per cent for the cotton quotas while the 1934 vote was 89.4 per cent for Bankhead allotments.

Nine Million Acres in Texas Game Preserves

Almost nine million acres of Texas farms and ranches are included in the 262 game management demonstration preserves which have been established during 1937 in co-operation with the Extension Service of Texas A&M College, the annual report of R. E. Callender, game management specialist, shows.

Farmers, ranchmen, and 4-H Club boys to the number of 7,324 have banded together into co-operative game management associations in 54 counties. The associations run in size from two or three farms to more than fifty parcels of land. In some instances these areas involve an entire community and are composed of individual holdings ranging from 8 to 40,000 acres per owner.

Game management research has established the fact that game will not increase beyond a point determined by the available amount of food, shelter, and range, and a regulated harvest is recommended when wildlife becomes abundant.

In addition to the establishment of the preserves for game management demonstration purposes, 1,089 farm ponds or lakes with a total area of 5,642 acres were constructed in 1937 and stocked with more than a million fish.

Callender gave credit for much of the success of the plan in its initial year of operation to sportsmen groups and civic organizations which recognized the possibilities of the game preserves.

Fire Prevention

Marvin Hall, State fire insurance commissioner, today urged State-wide observance of Clean-up Week as an effective means of fire prevention. The week of April 3-10 has been set aside by Governor James V. Allred for the annual clean-up campaign.

"This will be an excellent opportunity to dispose of unnecessary rubbish, combustible materials, and inflammable goods or solutions which naturally accumulate around the home, store and factory," Hall said. "These, and other hazards, can be removed or reduced to the direct benefit of all concerned."

Hall explained that the people of Texas had made great progress with their fire prevention activities during the past few years, and that reduction in insurance cost had been the result. "We cannot afford to jeopardize this good record," he said. "Clean-up Week will be an appropriate time for us to eliminate any hazards or conditions that might start or spread a fire."

"It is only through such care and diligence that fire prevention can be successful," Hall pointed out. "For this reason I urge every Texas citizen to observe Clean-up Week, and to extend the fire prevention activities of that week to include every day of the year."

Why the Constitution?

Something over two years ago, a German citizen, Martin Niemöller, an ardent anti-Nazi Protestant, was arrested in Berlin for his outspoken opposition to the dictatorship of Adolf Hitler.

Later he was charged with the "crime" of having criticized government and sentenced to seven years in prison and a substantial fine. Because he had been sentenced, he was immediately taken to a prison camp.

All too often we hear the Constitution and the Bill of Rights are too lightly regarded. In contrast to the Reverend Niemöller's protection of the Constitution would in the never have been criticized the government acts; he would not be held for eight months and then arrested and taken away to a prison camp. All because he was forbidden by the Constitution.

Truly, we take the Constitution too lightly. It is the document which has given us the right to assemble, to petition, to speak, to write, to publish, to bear arms, to elect our representatives, and to be free from unreasonable searches and seizures, to be secure in our homes, to be free from the quartering of soldiers in our homes, to be free from the taking of our property without just compensation, to be free from the deprivation of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, to be free from the denial of equal protection of the laws, to be free from the denial of equal protection of the laws, to be free from the denial of equal protection of the laws.
