WORK ON BRIDGE SCHEDULED FOR MONDAY

CHURCHES

Methodist Church

FRED J. BRUCKS, Pastor

Friday, the last Sunday of the month, closes another quarter of work in the church.

Preparation of work for the next quarter has been very interesting and ready for our work next quarter. Be there next Sunday for the announcements. We want to start right at 8:00 p. m. and enjoy it all.

Next night of this week, the People's Union will be held. All the young people are invited and urged to attend at 8:00 p. m.

The Epworth League Union was organized at San Saba several weeks ago to further the interest in Epworth League work and the Young People's assemblies held each summer at Kerrville.

Edward Eugene Palmer, Aubrey Smith and Lawrence Stokes represented the Goldthwaite league at the Methodist Assembly at Kerrville this summer. They returned last Saturday and report a most delightful time.

First Baptist Church

E. E. DAWSON, Pastor

Our Vacation Bible School closes this Friday, with commencement exercises at the church at 8:00 tonight. A total enrollment of 100 marks this first effort to have a vacation school. Workers and pupils alike have been highly pleased with the work.

Our revival starts July 3 and will continue two weeks. Ira Powell of Borger will lead the music. The services will be on the lawn at night. Various groups will be organized for the term of the revival. The church gives its most cordial invitation to all the people to attend any one or all of its services.

Sunday school next Sunday at 10:00, BTU at 7:30, in the evening. Morning worship at 11:00. Evening worship 8:30.

Come thou with us and we will do thee good.

Two Party Church

Madames Dutch Mc-

Several interesting games were played. Mrs. Brucks gave the numbers, and Mrs. ...

A Slumber June 16.

All aboard! Y. W. headed for Bledsoe cars of girls were fun out in the county evening at 5:00.

The first of our fun began in swimming or in the creek, then a "game" (meaning "chance reach" at that time) was played some runs.

At 40 awake to see the moon rise as we were playing "Truth or Dare" what interesting game out at that time! The pleasure of sleeping under Nature's stars.

Following we were to the cow as she had the bell she had cooked at.

Miss Dawson arrived back home at that we might have had a Bible School.

League Union Meets Tonight

The Epworth League Union composed of Leagues from the Methodist churches in Lampasas, San Saba, Lometa, Richland Springs, and Goldthwaite, with Lawrence Stokes as president, will meet at the Goldthwaite Methodist Church tonight. An official name and theme song will be selected.

A program including numbers from each of the leagues will be presented. Nettle Ruth Brucks will give a reading. Pat Chandler and Sam Saylor will give a trumpet duet as the Goldthwaite League's numbers.

The Epworth League Union was organized at San Saba several weeks ago to further the interest in Epworth League work and the Young People's assemblies held each summer at Kerrville.

Girl's Auxiliary Met June 21.

Tuesday, June 21, the Girl's Auxiliary met in the home of Hope Tullos. After an interesting program on Brazil, the girls adjourned to the kitchen to make candy. The following were present: Mrs. Henry, Jimmy Ware, Bonnie Bledsoe, Imahea Henry and hostess, Hope Tullos.

Next Tuesday we are going to the creek where we plan to follow up our program with a slumber party. All Intermediate G. A. girls be sure and come at 3:30 to the Baptist Church.

Y. W. A.

The Y. W. A. visited Grandmother Phillips with a religious program Wednesday afternoon. The girls were accompanied by Rev. E. E. Dawson, Mrs. Chas. Rudd and Mrs. Rudd's sister, Mrs. O. R. Glasscock also by the Y. W. A. counselor, Mrs. Lester Moon.

After several songs, Mrs. Glasscock brought an interesting devotional on prayer from the eleventh chapter of Mark.

Tuesday evening the Y. W. A. met at the home of their counselor, Mrs. Moon for a Missionary program led by Oleta Henry.

Tuesday evening we will meet with Ruth Goosby for a Bible Study, which will be taken from the 8th and 9th chapters of Matthew.—Reporter.

Mills County Included in Rural Electrification

A letter to W. P. Weaver, from the District Rural Electrification office, Waco, states that Mills County is included on the Hamilton County project and will receive power from that project.

A board of directors has been appointed and a charter applied for. When the charter is returned, the organization will be ready for applications for membership and service and for taking easements from landowners permitting the placing of poles along the proposed right of way.

Mills County has about 900 applications on file. Others should call and sign at the County Agent's office.

W. J. Marwitz, Priddy, is a director.

FFA Debate Team To Enter State Contest

Two local boys, John Bowman and J. T. Soules are making last minute plans to enter the State Future Farmer Leadership contests in Huntsville on Monday and Tuesday of next week.

This is the second and last chance these two boys will have the privilege to debate in this contest unless the rules of the contest are changed. Last year they won first place in the district and area contests and lost out in the State, but this year with the same record behind them, the Chapter expects much higher honors to be won by them in the Huntsville contest.

Priddy Annual Picnic July 21, 22, 23

Priddy will hold its Annual Picnic, July 21, 22 and 23. Entertainment features will consist of baseball games, goat roping, saddle races, airplane flying, stunting, etc.

There will be an all-star baseball game of the Cowhouse Basin League on the 22nd. All candidates are invited to attend, and speak if they so desire.

Election returns will be featured on the 23rd. Many State and District candidates will be with us. There will be dancing each night.

Plenty of fun, eats and drinks. Everybody attend. Plenty of shade and water.

Store Cured Meat In Oil

When cured pork is kept any length of time, mold usually develops, the pieces dry out and become extremely hard. When not kept in a fly-free place, the pork will often be infested with skipper or maggot. Many times the fatter pieces become strong and rancid—a condition that cannot be controlled without refrigeration. Rancidity is usually caused by a combination of four things: light, heat, air and time.

Mold, drying out and fly-infestation can be readily controlled by storing cured meats in refined cottonseed oil.

Meat should be stored as hot weather approaches. Any container that will hold oil will do, although a large earthen jar is best, tin lard cans very good, steel drum satisfactory, wood barrel will work, but absorbs some oil. Roughly speaking, it will take about 4 gallons of oil for 100 lbs of cured meat.

This method was tried out by more than 40 Mills County farmers last year and found satisfactory. Call on the County Agent for full directions.

Active Market For New Oats

Oats sold as high as 25 1-2c Wednesday, but the market was quieter yesterday with little interest shown by sellers. Prices have been averaging 22 1/2c for several days before the flurry started this week. Two weeks ago 20c was the top.

Some excellent yields have been reported, one of the best being that of Wiley Cook of Star whose land near Moline brought between 65 and 70 bushels of oats to the acre.

Dick Stout Stumps For Bill McCraw

AUSTIN.—One of the state's outstanding young orators left the attorney general's department Friday and started out on a 10,000-mile good will tour for William McCraw for governor.

The young man is Dick Stout of Houston, assistant attorney general for the banking, corporations, insurance and workman's compensation divisions.

Stout spoke at the Goldthwaite Methodist Brotherhood banquet at the Methodist Church May 13, 1937.

McCraw knew when his 30-year-old assistant came to his staff a year and a half ago that he had two degrees from Harvard and was the English orator at Harvard. But it was some time later, when he heard Stout speak for the first time, that he said: "Dick, I am proud of you."

In the more than a year which has passed, McCraw has leaned heavily upon his gifted young assistant.

Band Practice Starts Under New Leader

About 25 enthusiastic players started practicing Tuesday in the newly organized Goldthwaite Band under the direction of Band Leader D. W. Diserens of Gatesville. Regular practices will be held every week, and everyone who can play a band instrument is cordially invited to join. Mr. Diserens will meet with the band next Tuesday at 8:00 p. m. at the Court house.

A good band is one of the finest assets any community can have, and it is believed that Goldthwaite has the makings of one that the town can be proud of.

Modern Woodmen To Hold District Meet in Brownwood

A district meeting of Modern Woodmen of America will be held in Brownwood at 8 o'clock Monday night, June 27. Delegations from Coleman, Goldthwaite, San Saba and several other towns in this section will be present for the affair.

A. S. McGregor, Dallas, state manager, will attend the meeting. He will be accompanied by several other dignitaries of the order. A large class of candidates will be presented in honor of the state manager, officials said.

The Brownwood district, in charge of District Manager A. D. Murphy, has the honor of being first in the state for securing new members in a national campaign conducted during the past three months.

Summer arrived officially on Tuesday, but mid-summer heat had not waited on the almanac. Wednesday the thermometer reached 99 in Brownwood to break all previous records for the day. While lower here, it was still uncomfortably warm in Goldthwaite.

A 42 rain Tuesday afternoon brought temporary relief to Goldthwaite and several sections of the County.

Army Resumes Recruiting

After suspending all recruiting activities since January 14th of this year the Army has again resumed accepting recruits for the Military service. This information has been received from Major Sidney J. Cutler, 482 Federal Building, Dallas, the recruiting officer for this district.

According to Major Cutler enlistments are now open for several of the more desirable branches of the Army and, as far as possible, applicants will be given their choice of branch of service and station. Young men desiring information may contact Major Cutler at his Dallas office, either in person or by mail.

"COLLECTOR'S ITEM"

The new Eagle reporter is the proud possessor of a new arrow head—the gift of Judge Gerald. It seems that the judge has a hobby of collecting rocks and fossils. He has some very interesting ones in his office at the court house and obligingly showed them to her. By way of explaining the arrow head—collecting Indian relics is the reporter's hobby extraordinaire.

Goldthwaite has been definitely named as headquarters by the State Highway department for the construction of the new bridge over the Colorado River on State Highway 81 between Goldthwaite and San Saba. Dirt is due to be broken Monday when actual construction gets under way by the contractor, Jenson Construction Company of Austin. The first work will be clearing and grubbing of the new right-of-way.

With 280 working days allowed for the job, engineers estimate that it will take approximately one year to complete.

Exhaustive tests and detailed records of all concrete work will be conducted by Thos. W. Smith of the state highway office here.

Leo Ehlinger, district engineer of Brownwood, is due to make an inspection of Highway 7 between Goldthwaite and Star today. It is believed that it will be ready for "sale" to the state some time next week, some 10 or 12 days ahead of schedule.

Lengthy Ballot Awaits Voters

The longest list of candidates for state officers in history will be printed on the ballots for the primary election July 23. Starting off with 13 candidates for governor, there are 64 candidates for state and district offices.

On the contrary, there are fewer candidates for county offices in Mills County this year than usual. The incumbents of the three big offices, county judge, sheriff, and county clerk are unopposed.

The county executive committee met at the court house here Monday and assessed each candidate his share of the primary expense and drew for places on the ballot.

Chamber-Commerce Enrolls New Members

A total of 42 new members had enrolled in the Chamber of Commerce up to noon yesterday, according to a report of Paul McCullough, chairman of the membership committee. Very few of those who have been called on by the committee have refused to join, but a considerable number still remain to be seen.

Brady Motorcade Here Wednesday

Several cars and a number of people were here Wednesday, from Brady, advertising their Annual July Rodeo, to be held July 4th to 6th.

They tarried long enough to render a band concert on the square.

How to Kill Mesquite Trees

Last summer, I killed 25 acres of mesquite trees in my pasture. This is the way I did it. I sprayed kerosene around the trunk of each tree from the ground up about 2 1-2 feet. I was careful to see that plenty of kerosene was used down near the roots. I used a regular pressure sprayer, but the oil could be poured on the tree if a person does not have a sprayer. I think the trees ought to be sprayed during dry, hot weather.

On some of my trees, I used distillate instead of kerosene. The distillate was slower killing the trees, but it killed them just as dead. I used a barrel and a half of kerosene and one barrel of distillate on the 25 acres, making the cost run around 36c per acre.

This spring, a very few trees have sprouted out, but I have set in to kill them and I will use a little more kerosene on them this summer.—B. V. Denman in Green Creek Project News Letter.

Official Business

The Honorable Kenneth McKellar, Senator from Tennessee, is a thoughtful man. He must also be an able man, since he is chairman of the Senate Committee on Post offices and Post Roads. He must know postoffice rules and regulations, and also know that many things that help make the Postoffice Department show a huge deficit every year.

That he is thoughtful is proven by the fact that he has sent to the editor of the Favorite along with quite a number of other Bonham men, a reproduction of two pages of the Appendix to the Congressional Record of May 3, 1938. A line of italics (in parenthesis) at the top of the page says (Not printed at government expense.) which means that the reproduction was not printed at government expense, though the original in the record was printed at government expense on the request of Honorable Kenneth McKellar. The reason he requested it, apparently, is because it contained the eulogies pronounced on the Honorable Karl A. Crowley at a dinner tendered him on April 14, 1938, when he resigned as solicitor of the Postoffice Department to return to Texas to run for Governor.

Texas should also feel grateful to Senator McKellar for lending his franking privilege to mail thousands of these Congressional Record reproductions to voters in Texas. It being a violation of the law to use the franking privilege on any but official business we must accept the postage free circular we received from Senator McKellar as "official business." We suppose we should also feel grateful for the efforts of Senator McKellar, James A. Farley and other Federal officials in Washington for having sent us a man for governor—but somehow we don't. Neither do we feel that it is just to the people of the United States for a senator to use their privilege to mail letters to Texas voters at the expense of the Postoffice Department, which is supported by all the tax payers. Neither is it just to other candidates for governor of Texas.

Another thought comes to us as we read this circular: When high officials and most honored senators and representatives, violate the spirit (if not the letter) of the law, what can we expect of the average citizen? If the editor of the Favorite had used the envelope in which the senator's circular was received for mailing that identical circular, he would have violated the postal laws and would have been subject to a fine of $300.

Why can a senator do an unlawful thing with impunity?

We hope we make our meaning clear.—Bonham Favorite.

Eanes Nominated to Second Term As Postmaster

COMANCHE—President Roosevelt nominated James R. Eanes June 7 to serve a four year term as postmaster at Comanche. He has been serving as postmaster since January, 1934.

Mr. Eanes seems on his way to establish a record in the public service. He first served two years as district clerk for Comanche County, and for 23 years he was either mayor or member of the School Board, serving during that period for twelve years as a member of the board and eighteen years as mayor. For four years of that time he was both mayor and president of the School Board. The last four and a half years he has served as postmaster, bringing the total to 29 1-2 years of public service.

SUMMER PICTURE STORIES

In picturing summer romances, keep the romance! Don't let your subjects pose stiffly or smile at the camera!

IT'S a camera axiom that every picture should tell a story. Will you remember that this summer when you are snapping pictures of friends and their summer activities?

Nothing is easier than to get a member of your crowd to "stand over by that bush while I snap your picture." But that sort of picture-taking doesn't produce the best kind of pictures—because such pictures don't "say" anything.

It's easy to go on a picnic with Bill and Janet Smith and get snapshots of them standing by a bush or a tree, smiling for the camera. But it's more fun, and makes better pictures, to catch Janet feeding Bill a huge slice of chocolate cake, or get Bill helping Janet over a barbedwire fence, or get the two of them, heads close together, laughing as they set the picnic table or cloth.

Such pictures tell stories—and there are hundreds of such story-picture chances on every summer jaunt. Try your hand at picturing summer fun and summer romance (there's always plenty of it) from a "story" viewpoint. Don't let your subjects appear camera-conscious—catch them when they're busy doing something, and watch your pictures "wake up and live."

There's no need to waste film, but if it takes two or three pictures, or more, to tell a story properly—go ahead and shoot them. Film is not expensive, so don't risk missing a good picture.

Population Not Dense In Texas, Despite Growth

Texas has more than doubled her population since the turn of the century—a greater proportionate increase than any other section of the country save the Rocky Mountain and Pacific Coast regions.

However, although its gain to the 6,172,000-mark in 1937 made it second only to California in speed of growth that year, its "population density" ranking of 36th among the state indicates that it still needs "more people," says a report of the All-South Development Council.

When its present ratio of 22.2 persons per square mile is compared to such figures as 131.8 for New England, 262.2 for the Middle Atlantic states of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, 103 for the Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan areas and, finally, 55.1 for the Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee section, Texas' capacity for populating its wide-open spaces is especially impressive.

"The need for still greater population density is part of the magic circle involving production, wealth, consequent growth of buying power, more population, and back to more production and still more buying power, the report explains, "and this circle will widen and strengthen rapidly with the awakening of Texas to its yet largely-untried potentialities as a producer not only of raw materials, but of consumer goods."

The so-called "heavy industries," whose decentralization naturally will be a very deliberate process, are not as vitally concerned as are the consumer-goods producing and distributing industries with the actual proximity of an active consuming public. Nevertheless these industries—including glass, rubber, chemicals, building materials—also are keenly interested in Texas as a prospective locale, the report said.

Politicians have improved in one respect. You seldom hear one promising to reduce taxes when he gets in.

Connally Wins Fight For Needy Farmers

Of immediate interest to Mills County citizens is the news that part time work for needy farmers was made possible under the relief set-up by an amendment offered by Senator Tom Connally and adopted by the Senate last week. Farmers, who have met with crop losses and other misfortunes and who are in need will be permitted to supplement their farm incomes by working part time on rural relief projects without being put on the relief rolls.

"We all know," remarked Connally, "that the great bulk of all the relief money in the WPA goes into industrial areas, to the cities. Out in the extreme drought section, a portion of which is in my State up near the Colorado and the Kansas lines, we have the condition that when there is plenty of rain it is a very fertile country, and the farmers make good crops; but in recent years they have been suffering from terrible drought. It ought to be the purpose of the Congress to keep such a man out on the farm and let him carry on his own business; but many of them are going to leave the farm unless they can supplement what they are making by working short periods of the time on time on the WPA. Under present WPA rules a farmer cannot be hired to work on a country road for a single day unless he is on relief rolls. This amendment will remedy that situation."

Senator Connally was active also in obtaining the passage of the "Russell Amendment" in the Senate to the Relief Appropriation Bill which provides $212,000,000 to apply in bringing the price of farm products toward parity. Under this amendment those farmers who are taking part under the 1938 Farm Act will receive from the government ten cents per bushel in the case of wheat, two cents per pound in the case of lint cotton, five cents per bushel in the case of corn, one cent per pound in the case of tobacco, and one-fifth cent per pound in the case of rough rice.

A HUNDRED HENS

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary
Breeder-Feeder Association

That 100 hens is the right number as a says Mrs. Greer of Barber County. She takes care of that with their interference with other duck pick up a large feed around the buy or hatch of the roosters and sell the cull the 100 best ones several dollars a hen.

which make a part of their own living by picking up what would otherwise be wasted.

Every one of the ladies quoted here the usual household duties of a well-rounded farm—house-keeping, cooking, butter-making, etc. They all buy starter mash and other special mixed feeds as needed, since no farm produces all the elements of a first-class chick or laying ration. But—and here's where the farm flock shows its great advantage—there is waste grain, green feed, insects and plenty of room for healthful conditions for a hundred hens where 200 would be on a deficiency diet.

Mr. and Mrs. George Boehning of Wilson county have one of the most modern homes in the county, and all the electrical gadgets they want. They have reared a family of six, who are now out in the world on their own and making good. A farm flock of chickens, again about 100 hens, ranges all over the place, and has been one of the principal features of the Boehning menagerie all these years when they were paying for 231 acres of land and building and equipping that handsome home.

Eggs go up and eggs go down, like cotton and wheat and everything else. But the farm flock of hens will turn in a profit when the specialized egg factory is losing money. And the eggs they lay will keep almost any farm family out of debt for supplies, whatever the price.

Many Southwestern farms have no chickens at all. Most of them have less than enough to supply the family with all the eggs it can eat, and chicken on Sunday. If the—and results show they do—most Southwestern farm families are missing out by not keeping more hens.

Redbugs, Snakes, Poison Oak

Just in time for the first picnics the vacation months are these recommendations made by the Progressive Farmer for preventing or treating bites by insects, infection from poison oak, etc.:

1. For redbugs one recommended remedy is oil of cloves rubbed on the ankle or shins before exposure. "Get it fresh every year," is the advice. A little vasoline rubbed around the ankles or just above will also prevent the redbugs climbing higher.
2. About snakes and spiders, the first important thing is to know which are really dangerous and which are not. Of spiders the only poisonous one is the "Black Widow"—predominantly black with bright red markings. Of snakes, all the poisonous kinds but one have these characteristics:
 - All have a broad, triangular head on a very narrow neck.
 - All have a sort of hole on the side of the head about halfway between the eye and the nostril which looks like a second nostril.
 - All have the plates on the under side of the tail in a single row.

The one exception to the above rules is the coral snake. This is a long, slim snake found from eastern North Carolina to Mexico, and is encircled with successive rings of red, yellow, and black, every other ring being yellow.

3. As for poison oak, always remember that real poison oak has three leaves in a cluster—never five. The surest and easiest remedy is to thoroughly wash off all exposed parts of the body—face, hands, arms, legs, etc.—as promptly as possible after any contact with the dangerous three-leaved vine. Wash off three or four times in succession with hot water and laundry soap, changing water each time. As for treatment, local application of solutions of cooking soda or Epsom salts, one or two teaspoons to a cup of water, are pronounced as helpful as any.

Crowded Out Last Week
We had 43 at Sunday School, Sunday. This is the largest number we have had since we organized. Let's all try to be present next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Casbeer spent several days last week with their son, M. L. Casbeer and family. They spent Sunday in the Walter Simpson home.

Elton Horton and family dined with her mother, Mrs. Morgan Stacy, Sunday.

Mrs. Emily Blackburn and son, Simon, have moved into the house on Otto Simpson's place. Burthel Roberts helped them move. We welcome them into our community.

Clarine Dennis visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dennis several days recently.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Batchelor. Our sympathy is extended to her children and other relatives. Mrs. Dan Covington and Mrs. Walter Simpson attended her funeral which was held at Center City.

Jack Montgomery and family spent Saturday night and Sunday visiting with Cleve Perry and family.

Guests in the Walter Simpson home Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Casbeer, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Faulkner and Mrs. Hazel Wilkinson of Dallas, Leon Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Simpson and Robert Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Manuel, Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Manuel, Henry Simpson and Blondie Stacy.

We enjoyed having Rev. Dawson preach for us Saturday night. A large crowd attended church.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Casbeer were called back to Leuders Tuesday to the bedside of her mother, Mrs. Berryhill who is very ill. Mr. Casbeer returned Saturday, but Mrs. Casbeer remained at Leuders to be with her mother. Jean Casbeer is staying with Mrs. Harry Palmer during her mother's absence and J. E. Joyce and Jesse Casbeer are staying with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Casbeer.

Nelmarie Perry is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jack Montgomery as Jack is working with the Arrowwood's thresher.

Mrs. Emily Blackburn and son, Simon, spent Saturday night on the river.

Mrs. Jack Robertson visited with Mrs. Leon Johnson one afternoon last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Burthel Roberts are doing the cooking for the Arrowwood thresher men. Others who are working for this thresher are: M. C. Morris, Clyde Featherston, Travis Griffin and son Ira, Lynn and Duren Kerby.

The Oscar Simpson thresher has also started threshing. Morgan Stacy and son, J. M., M. L. Casbeer, Mrs. Emily Blackburn and son, Simon, are working with it.

Odell Casbeer is staying with Mrs. M. L. Casbeer and girls while M. L. is at the thresher.

We were so glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Joe Palmer at our Sunday School, Sunday and the talk Mrs. Palmer made was a help to all of us.

Farm Woman Wins Rural News Award

NEW YORK—Mrs. Edna Eaton Wilson, a farmer's wife of Ripley, Okla., has been judged the best country newspaper correspondent of 1938, it was announced by Wheeler McMillen, editorial director of the Country Home Magazine, which sponsors the annual award to cross-roads writers. Mrs. Wilson, who writes a column of farm and community news for the weekly Gazette in nearby Stillwater, helps her husband operate their 270-acre dairy farm, together with their four sons. She is described by Otis Wile, editor of the Gazette, as the pride of his staff. And what correspondent isn't he says "whose copy doesn't have to be penciled and who always finds something of human interest in the farm community."

As the national winner Mrs. Wilson will receive $500 in cash, and a free trip to New York, Washington, and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where she will be a guest at the convention of the National Editorial Association. She also will be interviewed over a coast-to-coast NBC network by James W. Barrett, director of the Press-radio Bureau.

Mrs. Wilson sums up her journalistic creed briefly: "I am interested in writing the good things about my neighbors and have not written of their scandals. The duty of the country correspondent, I think, is to sell her neighborhood and not to sell it short."

Mrs. Wilson was born in what used to be the old Creek Indian nation in 1901, her parents having been, 89ers who went to Oklahoma as homesteaders in that year. She went to Oklahoma A&M College in Stillwater for two years and then taught school in Lone Jack district of Pawnee County. She has been corresponding for the Gazette since 1925.

She was naturally elated when informed that she had won the national country correspondence award, but said "the folks were not so much surprised as they were that time my raisin bread won the blue ribbon at the Payne County Fair."

The winning correspondence was chosen from several thousand clippings submitted by country newspaper editors as the writing of their best rural reporters. The judges, in addition to Mrs. McMillen, included Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, William L. Cheney, editor of Collier's, and Summer Blossom, editor of the American Magazine.

Excerpts from the writings of Mrs. Wilson, the national winner, follow.

"G. E. Shaw is the first one we knew to be happy about the April snow, the first grown-up anyhow. Gib had a sick cow and called Dr. Frank Knotts from Stillwater. Doc got stuck in a snowdrift and couldn't make the trip. The cow got well."

"Mr. and Mrs. Mocker have returned again to the pink rambler rosebush, have built a new apartment and already have four lovely speckled eggs in the boudoir. Mr. and Mrs. Bluebird have cleaned house and are nicely settled in the same old corner post in the orchard that they have used for the last several summers."

"Claud Todd is the proud owner of a colt, foaled by his black pony, Bess, Monday. The colt, which is half Percheron, measured 36 1-2 inches to the top of the withers and is strong and healthy."

"Somewhere we read that it should no longer be necessary or advisable to have a long vacation from school, since even on farms most of the labor is done by machinery. But we for one family are glad that the long vacation is still in order. Green fields and meadows are made for bare feet of children. Boys in school have little time to enjoy the battle of teaching a young calf to drink, or to acquaint a colt with halter and lead rope. Lessons learned hoeing or weeding the onion row cannot be acquired in the school room. Nor do you become acquainted with the amazing repertoire of the mocking bird unless you are where you can hear him all day."

"Leonard Linsenmeyer was brave enough to plant oats before the February blizzard and now has a perfect stand of young oat plants."

"A lone wild gander came over the other evening as we were setting out some berry plants. He flew so low and his high pitched plaint sounded so wistful and lost and uncertain that we had to stop work until he was out of sight and hearing."

"Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Todd spent the week end in Jennings at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Perkins. The Todds returned Sunday evening and brought hens to lay eggs, seed potatoes to plant and young berry plants to trade for something. The Todds were married but a few months ago and are just getting set up for themselves."

"Five-year-old Bobby Lozier called at the H. C. Wilson home Monday when the dairy cleaning work was in progress. 'Now' said Bobby, 'Hubert ought to rig up a thing for the cows to wipe their feet on as they come in the door of this nice clean barn, and make them learn to use it. It would sure save a lot of work.'"

Farming in China

A man who owns five acres of land in China is well-to-do, and if he owns 20 he's rich. Some farms have been cultivated as long as 3,000 years and are still productive. Most of the land is terraced, with stone terraces and level strips between, like stair steps up the hillsides.

The Chinese farmer doesn't do much kicking. He has never had much and doesn't expect to have much. These are some of the observations made by Bransford Eubanks, Coleman County man who spent 10 years in China.—San Angelo Standard.

Nothing preaches better than the ant and he says nothing

—Ben Franklin.

Maybe 100 is too many for some farms, as they now are, but not if the farms are planted as they should be.

In the past generation scores of big "poultry farms" have been started, great expense incurred in equipment, the best of breeding stock secured, and skilled management employed. Few of them operate long. A good many farm folks get the "chicken bug" and true to the American spirit of doing big things in a big way, start with 500 or 1,000 chicks. Usually they also retire shortly, for reasons unnecessary to explain.

Meanwhile the farm flock goes on and on, and outside of a few special regions like Petaluma or in the environs of great eastern cities, the farm flock continues to supply the maternal egg of the hungry urbanites of the nation. The answer is that the farm flock is less liable to disease, requires less expense and its care uses time that would be wasted.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Mrs. Pearl Childre and son, James, also of Coahoma, are here visiting relatives and friends. They expect to go on to East Texas where they will spend some time with Mrs. Childre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Venable.

One of the interesting features of the week was the naming of Miss Florence Soule's beauty shop. Some sixty odd names were submitted in the contest. The judges were Mrs. Willie Steele, of Moline, Mrs. Flossie Soule and Mrs. Dora Goode of Star. After an elimination by the judges there was found to be a tie. This was broken by a draw by Miss Lyda Lee Armstrong. The name drawn was "The Cinderella." A search through the list of entries revealed that "The Cinderella" belonged to Mrs. A. C. Steele, of Moline, which entitles her to a free permanent at Miss Florence's beauty shop, which is located in the home of Mrs. Bob Boykin.

Roddy-Dalton Wedding

In a late morning service Tuesday, June 14, Madeline Roddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Roddy, became the bride of Edward F. Dalton, at the home of her parents.

Dr. Millard A. Jenkins, pastor of the First Baptist Church, read the service under an arch, flanked on either side by baskets of scarlet annas.

The couple's only attendants were Miriam Pearce and Henry Kemper Dalton. Miss Pearce wore a frock of blue chiffon with white trim, white turban and sandals.

A wedding breakfast was served in a room adorned with ferns and roses. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, centered the lace laid table, flanked on either side by pink tapers.

For a wedding trip to San Antonio, the bride wore a light blue knitted suit, with pink accessories. After their return, the couple will live at 1241 North 4th Street.

Son of Mrs. Lula Dalton of Long Beach, Calif., Mr. Dalton was graduated from the Goldthwaite high school, and later attended Daniel Baker College at Brownwood. He is employed as a bookkeeper at the Banner Creamery here.

Delightful Picnic

"Ah, how cruelly sweet are the echoes that start. When memory plays an old tune on the heart."

The 1938 season of pleasure was ushered in with a banquet at Lake Merritt on Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, which had been carefully arranged and prepared by Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Clements and Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Campbell for a few of their friends.

The highway was a natural scene along the side of the flowering hills and winding road that leads to the lake, which was a beautiful setting under a canopy of skies, trees and lights, for this grand occasion.

After greetings were said, the guests were seated at "An Allimentary Table," a real picture, beautiful to gaze upon, with delicious foods, which blended with the appetites of all harmoniously. Intermingling were joys and laughter and continuously were we reminded of our beautiful and much prized lake, as the soft breezes came from it and were murmuring about, yet it was coolish, like the breath of winter.

Logs were heaped high on an open fire, which was appreciated for its warmth, light and cheerfulness.

Too soon the hour grew late and we said good night to all for it had been a friendship feast and much enjoyed.

Here's to two Gertrudes, James and Earl,

For your loving kindness, your heart,

The things that you do, the cheer you impart, All gladden our memory and prompts us to say:

Dear friends, we are grateful for your love today.

Those enjoying this occasion were: Messrs and Mmes. E. B. Anderson, W. E. Miller, W. E. Fairman, Walter Fairman, T. F. Toland, C. A. Eacott, O. H. Yarborough, Walter Weatherby, John Berry, S. P. Sullivan, Marvin Hodges, F. P. Bowman, J. A. Hester, R. V. Littlepage, Raymond Little, Mmes. Annie Little, Annie Weatherby, Brownwood, W. G. Yarborough, Austin; Miss Gertrude Johnson and James Jackson of San Antonio.—A Guest.

Enjoy Picnic

Jack Allen of San Angelo spent Saturday night with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Allen, and they all drove to Santa Anna Sunday morning where they met other members of the family and enjoyed Father's Day.

"Slumberless" Slumber Party

The Goldthwaite Future Home Makers are working right on through the summer like school had never stopped. There are twenty-one girls taking summer projects in which they are hoping to reach a high goal in home making before graduating from high school. Some are sewing, cooking and others are taking improvements in the home. Since school turned out they have met three times, during which time they have started their projects, painted the cabinets and book case in the home economics room and also made a new book case. Mrs. Baker, their instructor, has visited in each of the girl's homes. In August they are to have a "get together" of all their projects and see their improvements.

In our last meeting we planned a slumber party near the home of Opal Faulkner's home. Seventeen girls plus Mrs. Baker gathered at the Faulkner home about sunset, for a night of fun. In cars we made our way to a beautiful green spot near a creek in the pasture. We ate our picnic lunch with hearty appetites and then the fun began.

Slapping mosquitos, pouring water, catching ants, getting wood, keeping people awake, especially Mrs. Baker, Clorie and Francis, helping Johnnie and Thelma write poetry and last, but not least, pillow and quilt fighting were the things that were carried on in that one night.

About 2:00 o'clock in the morning everyone's eyes were heavy and their bones were weary; so in a very short time sleep had settled over the camp.

They left next morning, all able to walk and all thanking Opal and Mrs. Baker for such a hilarious time.

Those present were:

La Dala Kelly, Wanda Faulkner, Opal Faulkner, Betty June Blackburn, Ruby Ware, Jimmie Ware, Allene Weathers, Virginia Reeves, Grace Huffman, Lorene Covington, Ima Rhea Henry, Orpha Ruth Faulkner, Clorie Langford, Frances Powell, Maydell Griffin, Mrs. Baker, and Johnnie Weathers.—Reporter

Birthday Festivities

A joyous occasion was the celebration Monday night of the fifteenth birthdays of Edward Eugene Palmer and Lawrence Morrison Stokes when Mrs. J. A. Palmer and Mrs. J. C. Darroch of Brownwood entertained a large group of their friends at the Palmer home with a lawn party.

The lawn was beautifully lighted with vari-colored lights giving the scene a festive effect. Many games were enjoyed by the group throughout the evening keeping the crowd in a hilarious mood. Early in the evening the guests divided into two groups and pitted their talents and skill against each other throughout the games.

Afterward all were invited into the lovely dining room where the table was laid with a white lace cloth over pink, and centered with a bowl of white snapdragons and fern. Tall white tapers in pink candle-holders lighted the room. On the table were the two beautiful cakes, gifts of Mrs. Darroch, bearing the initials of the two boys, and decorated with pink, white and green flowers made from the frosting. The cakes each bearing fifteen tiny lighted candles were placed on lovely silver cakestands. Much merriment took place as the two celebrants blew out their candles.

Refreshments of pink and white ice cream and cake were served to about forty guests.

Mrs. Palmer was assisted in entertaining the group by Mrs. Walters Hester and Miss Lois Stoneham, who directed the games.

Bertram B. Geeslin, a former student of Texas Tech, enrolled through the 16th for a special course in bandwork, also working on his M. A. degree.

Farm Interest Rates Lowered

The reduced rates on Federal land bank and Commissioner loans have been extended by Federal legislation for a period of two years, according to word received today from the Federal Land Bank by F. P. Bowman, Secretary-Treasurer of the Star National Farm Loan Association, of Goldthwaite, Texas.

On Federal land bank loans through National Farm Loan Associations, the temporary reduced rate of 3 1-2 per cent per annum will be continued for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940.

The temporary reduced rate of 4 per cent on Land Bank Commissioner loans is also continued until July 1, 1940. Mr. Bowman said.

"The temporary interest reduction does not change the contract interest rate, that is, the rate written in the mortgage at the time a loan was made." "At present the contract rates on new land bank loans are 4 per cent for loans through unimpaired Associations. The contract rate on all Commissioner loans made through the land bank is 5 per cent. Under the law, as now amended, both land bank and commissioner borrowers will resume interest payments at their respective contract rates on July 1, 1940."

"Farmers who now obtain new loans through an association at the 4 per cent rate," Bowman continued, "will get the benefit of the 3 1-2 per cent rate for all interest installments payable prior to July 1, 1940, and after that will not have to pay more than 4 per cent contract rate for the balance of the term of the loan, which may be for as long as 20 to 30 odd years."

"The farmers affected by this reduction through the Star Association number 140. And the amount of loans affected is $333,325.00"

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle L. Geeslin and son, Donald Lyne, of Alvin, Texas, spent 10 days here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Geeslin and sister, Miss Varnell Geeslin of Austin. They left Wednesday for a tour of South Texas.

NEW DEAL FACTS

With so much misrepresentation of the New Deal in circulation it is a relief to find a clear and unbiased statement in Fortune, a typical "big business" magazine.

The editors announced that their Quarterly Survey to be published next month indicates "that 54.7 per cent of the population approve of Mr. Roosevelt, while 34.4 per cent disapprove, and 10.9 per cent 'don't know.' The survey even indicates a possible majority disapproval of the phenomenon of a rebellious Congress: 42.2 per cent think that Congress should work more closely with the President, while 40.6 per cent prefer it to show an independent spirit and 12.2 per cent 'don't know.'"

"At the moment it does not look as if the Republicans could win more than three or four new Senatorships this Fall, and even the most sanguine of John Hamilton's dopesters has not dared to claim more than 75 new seats in the House of Representatives. The Democrats will still have a heavy majority in both houses of Congress. Moreover the conservative Democrats will still be a minority in their own party." And it goes on to say: "And the chances that any important number of Mr. Roosevelt's men will be defeated in the primaries this year are very thin."

The text of the editorial that accompanied the article referred to might have come from a New Deal textbook, instead of from the most luxurious of the publications devoted to the necessity of actual co-operation between business and government.

"Whether the present situation is permanent or temporary," says Fortune, "is beside the point. Every businessman who is not kidding himself knows that he does not know how to guarantee, without government intervention, the markets with which alone his free, competitive capitalism can function. Every businessman who is not kidding himself knows that, if left to its own devices, business would sooner or later run headlong into another 1930. And every businessman who is not kidding himself ought to know that as long as these things are so, the electorate will force government into his affairs. It is neither possible nor desirable for a Democratic government to sit by while a third of its citizens starve and almost as many more fear for their jobs."

The concluding paragraph of the editorial runs this way: "Between these two unpalatable extremes (communism and dictatorship) lies an American economy. It is not an economy that any single man, any bright economist, can now define. It is not an economy that can be found by good luck, or by a single victory at the polls. On the contrary, it can be established only by business working with government, and government working with business, over a long period of years toward a progressively higher standard of living derived from the incentives of private enterprise. It is the only course open to business or government that does not lead inevitably into the fallacies of totalitarianism and State collectivism. And if these two cannot find it together, nobody else can."

RAILROAD TROUBLES

The President's recent message to Congress, in which he pointed to the plight of the railroad industry and stated that it is the duty of our lawmakers to attempt to save the lines from impending ruin, has again focused public attention on the railroad problem. And no graver industrial problem exists.

The facts underlying this crisis are vividly detailed by Franklin Waltman in the Washington Post. The average wage of railway employees was twice as large in 1936 as in 1916. In 1936 they paid 9 cents out of each revenue dollar in taxes, as against 6.3 cents in 1929. The cost of everything the lines use has made especially notable advances since 1932. Yet, in 1937, the freight rate level was 10 per cent lower than in 1929, and the average passenger-mile rate was 36.4 per cent lower.

To blame the condition of the railroads on excessive capitalization—a common cry of those who either misunderstand or deliberately mistake the issue—is an error. According to the ICC the proportion of operating revenue required for fixed charges has fallen since 1890, and in 1936 the proportion was 16.9 per cent—materially less than in 1916.

Lastly, even less founded is the charge that the railroads have failed to keep pace with the times, and so have unnecessarily lost traffic to their competitors. Freight train speeds in 1937 were almost 50 per cent higher than in 1921. Locomotive fuel consumption, in spite of this, was the lowest on record. And gross ton-miles per train hour also reached a record mark in 1937.

To sum up, the real cause of the railroad crisis is this: A

THE POCKETBOOK of KNOWLEDGE BY TOPPS

Many Phases to Finish Suit

It would be a revelation to a person not versed with all the different phases of the textile industry to follow a fleece of wool from the sheep's back to the finished suit of clothes.

In all there are half a hundred processes and even more handlings by human hands and machinery through which the West Texas sheep's coat passes before it puts in appearance in West Texas. Part of the same clip of wool or even the same fleece may come back to West Texas as a felt hat or in the upholstery of the ranchman's furniture or his car. And when it does that, it may have followed a considerably different course from that of the fine wool (64s) that was converted in the gentleman's fine coat.

Let's follow the wool that makes the suit of clothes:

The fleece leaves the sheep's back in about three minutes under the clippers of expert Mexican shearers. This fleece and maybe 24 others are packed into a sack and carted off as soon as possible to a warehouse.

Generally wool is not taken from the sack and stored until it reaches New England, the center of the textile industry. It can be stored in Texas, however.

But after it is stored, separated according to fineness and length of staple and ability to take dye, it is ready for the next step, which is not obtainable commercially in Texas. That is the trip through the beater which removes the dust and sand from the wool before it goes into the scouring bowl. In the scouring bowl the grease and further impurities are drawn from the fibers and they become clean and white.

Next, the dryer takes out the steady rise in labor and material and tax costs, accompanied by a steady decline in the rates charged for freight and passenger service. The railroads have asked for a "living wage" and have been refused. It is folly to talk of any "solution" to the problem unless it involves rate adjustments commensurate with the growing cost of carrying on the business. What industry can continuously reduce the cost of what it sells and at the same time pay continuously more for what it buys, and remain solvent?

moisture from the clean wool. Then it goes through the carding machine which runs the fibers out straight and deletes any burrs that might have been carried in the wool thus far. Figuring next are the back-washer and the gill box where the wool is bleached and cleaned further in boiling hot soapy water.

Important things happen in the next stanza, on the combs where the wool is divided into stops—they're the quality stuff from which the New York Top Exchange gets its name!—and the noils and short noils. The tops go into the worsteds, the noils into the woollens.

After the tops really become that on passing through the finisher, they are ready for conversion into spindles. The steps are quick then to the weaving shop where the wool, now tops, is made into cloth. It may be dyed either before or after weaving, according to the pattern desired.

Thence the once sordid fleece, now a beautiful piece of cloth—fine wool and fine suits come from West Texas' fine wool sheep you know!—is ready for its last major trip. That is to the garment makers. There the cloth is cut and sewed into the suit. And the suit goes to the jobbers and from them, through New or Chicago or St. Louis or Dallas it finds its way back to West Texas.

And today the ranchman wears to church a tropical worsted suit and he doesn't wonder that it cost $35 with an extra pair of pants. After following that fleece all the way from Ozona to Woonsocket, Rhode Island; through all that processing and manufacturing; and back to Texas department store where he bought the suit, the ranchman mildly wonders why the suit didn't cost $135, at least.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Views of the Nation's Press on Topics of Interest

Time to Serve Notice

For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain the heathen Chinese has nothing on the devious way of the diplomat. Obviously so far as Spain is concerned, the only deterrent to earller notice to Italy by any affected nation has been the state of its armament. But even with recognition of inability to wage war, there has been no reason why the Chancelleries of Europe cannot have forced a showdown by Italy on policy in the Mediterranean.

Spanish insurgents attacks on British shipping are again arousing the British Cabinet which Wednesday "was considering" writing a strong note to Mussolini. Yet to date the international piracy patrol in the Mediterranean is still preserving the polite fiction that the vicious attacks made in violation of international law have nothing to do with Italy.

From the start, Italy should have been forced to a declaration of policy-responsibility for France or disclaimer for his acts. If the former, other nations could decide whether they wished to accept the situation without protest or fight. But in the event Italy disavowed all acts of the insurgents, any European nation could have ended his rebellion by moving in reprisal for attacks on its flag and its nationals.

It is absurd to permit the piratical Fascists to make war on all Europe while the polite political world assumes that murder is committed by party or parties unknown to the Coroner. It is certainly high time for somebody to take a firm stand. The inference in that, of course, is that the nation taking the stand is about ready to call anybody's bluff.—Dallas News.

Facing the Kidnaper

The partial solution of the brutal Florida kidnaping case which involved the murder of little Jimmy Cash serves to call attention to the need of an additional death penalty in this phase of crime. Whether the murder of the helpless victim of kidnaping can be brought home to a criminal who can be proved to have extorted a ransom may sometimes be doubtful. That should not be reason to let go on living the callous ruffian who has collected a ransom. In most kidnap cases involving murder, both crimes are attributable to the same lone or group of criminals.

In most states, the law makes the death penalty at least an alternative in any felony involving a possible death risk to the injured party. Robbery with firearms is a case in point. If a ransom demands for the return of a kidnaped person, the extortioner is a menace to the nerves and mental balance of his hapless victims. There should be no hesitation in making the criminal pay the full penalty.

Kidnaping will not cease until punishment is swift, certain and so severe that the fiend who undertakes it realizes that his whole life must be spent in the shadow of the hangman's rope or the death chair. Probably sound is the suggestion that we track British law in forbidding ransom payments. Too many

Moses Austin's Body

With commendable discretion, Governor Allred has decided not to continue the effort to induce Potosi, Missouri, to surrender the remains of Moses Austin, for removal to Texas and reburial here. Rather, he will give encouragement to a movement now under way in the Missouri town to erect a suitable memorial there.

Moses Austin, father of Stephen F. Austin, originated the idea of colonizing Texas. His foresight and initiative in arranging for the transfer of colonists to the new territory probably hastened the development of Texas by many years, although his death made it necessary for him to leave his son the task of bringing the new citizens into the Southwest and leading them in their colonization work. Texas, quite naturally, honors the memory of Moses Austin, and will always do so. If his bones were buried in Texas, the spot would be hallowed ground visited annually by thousands.

Nevertheless, one of the most foolish things imaginable is to disinter the bones of a person who has been dead for a century and transport them to another state for reinterment simply as a patriotic gesture. The dead are entitled to rest in peace, so far as their moral remains is concerned, and Texas would gain nothing by moving the bones of Moses Austin from Missouri to this state. Missouri, moreover, has a valid claim to the privilege of honoring the man who planned Texas colonization. He was the founder of the town of Potosi, gave land for a courthouse there, and served as a county official long before the idea of colonizing Texas came into his head.

It is well to close the incident as it now stands, without taking steps which might give offense to another state and certainly would result in no profit to Texas. Thousands of Texas heroes are buried in Texas soil, many of them in unmarked graves. The best memorial in their honor would be the maintenance of the type of citizenship which inspired their service to the state and to humanity.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Tons of sawdust from Texas lumber mills will be used this year to control grasshopper plagues in the State. The sawdust is mixed with mill-run bran and sodium arsenite. The grasshoppers like the mixture, gobble it up, then die instantly.

cases have shown the futility of meeting the callous criminal's demands. All profit must be taken out of the crime. If the family of a victim of a "snatcher" must accept the fact of bereavement, the law in turn owes them the certainty that the criminals must answer to a law that is both relentless and merciless.

The present Cash case is another demonstration of the efficiency of the Federal Bureau of Criminal Investigation. No thinking American will grudge the men who are successfully prosecuting its dangerous work a dollar that the lower house of Congress has given the bureau in the appropriation bill.—Dallas News.

Prescott Announces For Senator

Ross Prescott, candidate for State Senator, 25th District, is at present a member of the Texas House of Representatives, representing Brown and Coleman Counties.

Ross Prescott was born and raised in Brownwood; educated in the Brownwood public schools and is a graduate of Daniel Baker College, majoring in government. He has lived all his life in Brown County, with the exception of four years which were spent in teaching school in Coleman County.

Having attended the University of Texas, in addition to four years of home study, Mr. Prescott was admitted to the bar and is now an attorney in Brownwood. He is married and has two fine children, Phillip, aged 3, and Sherron, aged 1 1-2.

Two years ago Mr. Prescott announced for State Representative, campaigned 7 weeks and was elected in the first primary over three fine opponents. The tremendous support which he received from places where he had lived is indicative of his integrity and ability. At Santa Anna, where he was teaching school at the time he was elected, there were 597 poll taxes paid and he received 609 votes notwithstanding his three fine opponents, (overs and unders made this possible.)

Some of the main planks in Ross Prescott's platform in this campaign for the position of State Senator are as follows:

"I favor a continued, well-rounded, adequately financed school program, to the end that every boy and girl in this state, regardless of where he or she is located, may receive an adequate training for life's work. I favor retaining, and increasing, if possible, the present per capita apportionment. I favor maintaining and increasing if possible, the appropriation for rural aid to the end that rural youths will have the same educational advantages as the city youth."

"I favor the state immediately carrying out its obligation and part in the Teacher Retirement Program as set out in the Constitutional amendment and in the law effectuating the same."

Mr. Prescott was a member of the powerful Committee on Education, and did much constructive work not only for the schools but for the teachers also. "I have favored and still favor a more liberal old age assistance law; one to not take into consideration necessarily the ability of the children to support, but upon the situation of the applicant! One which would not deny Old Age Assistance simply because the applicant owned a small home, which in many instances is already encumbered with debt."

"Not only do I favor giving assistance to needy old people, but I favor a Social Security program carrying into execution the mandate of the people. Teacher Retirement, aid to destitute children, and to the needy blind, must be adequately financed."

"I favor a real, workable, sound soil conservation program, one which will stop the downward trend of values of our soil, to the end that the original value of this soil may be restored, and productivity brought back to normal. This soil conservation bill MUST meet the requirements set out by the United States Department of Agriculture so that we may receive Federal Aid. Without this Federal aid I fear that the farmers and ranchmen of this state will be unable to conserve their soil because of the high cost of adequate machinery and facilities to do the work. Proper soil conservation, by restoring original productivity, will in most cases double present production."

Mr. Prescott introduced House Bill No. 468, a soil conservation bill of this type, affecting 38 counties in West Texas. Similar bills were introduced affecting other sections of Texas. All the bills were made into one composite bill and passed the House of Representatives by a substantial vote. And had the Senate of Texas passed this bill the farmers of this state would have enjoyed soil conservation for the past year and a half, with federal money to operate on.

"I shall continue to favor stringent law enforcement in this state to the end that vicious, violent lawlessness shall be brought to a minimum and to reduce the terrible loss of life on our highways caused by drunken driving and other violations.

"I favor an increase, if necessary, of the State Police, to protect the citizens of Texas from the depredations of criminals."

"I am opposed to legalized gambling in any form; and to the sale of liquor by the drink."

"I favor a reorganization of the mutual insurance laws of this state to the end that the public will be protected from unscrupulous money-mad insurance sharks now operating in this field under the protection of Texas laws, and to the end of restoring confidence in mutual insurance. Our state government owes the duty to its citizenship that every policy of insurance be worth one hundred cents on the dollar."

"I favor rigid economy in Government, to the end that overlapping work and functions be abolished, and efficiency restored."
