EAGLES PLAY TONIGHT ON NEW LIGHTED FIELD

Modern Fixtures Installed at Post Office

Working patrons of the post office got the familiar look of the new building when the modern fixtures were installed at the post office.

The change in size of fish one is permitted to keep at the lake should be good news especially to those who've had to throw back their day's catch because it didn't measure up.

I caught an 11-inch bass one time—a sporting little fellow. I even tried to stretch him a little but with no success. He's somewhere in Lake Merritt still awaiting another juicy worm. I wonder if he'd remember my special brand of fishing pole?

Eagles, you've heard the old gag about "Where was Moses when the light went out." It's going to be reversed now and will run like this "Where were the Eagles when the lights went on?" We hope you'll be holding that line!

With an average of 13 pounds more per man than last year, Goldthwaite players might be called upon to tell what breakfast food they eat, what brand of milk they drink, etc. It'll be hard to keep amateur standing.

E. E. Furr, minister of the Church of Christ is a good observer, he is! In last week's church notice he says, "Why not come on time and save the embarrassment of others knowing you are always late? You know the back seats are most likely to be filled first."

After reading all that data in last week's Eagle on 1, 2, 3 cent stamp books, we would like to ask a question. In the interest of stamp collectors, how much would a book containing every U. S. stamp in circulation cost—1, 2, 3, 10, 25, 75 and 1.00 ones? We expect this would probably run into high money, but it would be very interesting to have a book of these!

We've heard of sunlight, moonlight and starlight, but there'll be something new when the electric light line running to Star is completed. Mills county will probably be the only place in the world where Star-light is electric light.

WPA Street Work To Start Today

A WPA Street improvement project costing $10,578.79 has been approved for Goldthwaite and work will start this morning. C. T. Ragland, local superintendent, estimates that 40 to 47 men will be employed from three to five months on the project.

The Federal government is paying $6,802.62 or 62 per cent of the total cost and the city of Goldthwaite and property owners will pay the remaining 38 per cent which is approximately the cost of the material alone.

Sam Sullivan has been engaged to represent the city and is now securing agreements from property owners along authorized streets to stand their share of the cost. The work will include concrete curbs and gutters and sidewalks. It will cost the property owners 35c a front foot for each or a total of 70c for both sidewalks and curbs and gutters.

The following seven blocks have been approved by the WPA: Reynolds street from Fourth to Seventh, Parker street from Sixth to Seventh and Sixth Street from Hutchings to Fisher.

School Notes

School is running nicely. Enrollment in both the Grammar and the High School is well in advance of last year. The high school enrollment is ten per cent over this time last year. Also the Primary grades show an increase of ten per cent over time last year.

The total enrollment at the last report was 625, with 275 in high school.

As has been previously mentioned, two new teachers are in the faculty, Miss Leila Mae Silveys who takes the place formerly held by Mrs. Cumile Hatchett of teaching English in high school, and R. M. Edgar who takes the place held last year by J. R. Damron as instructor in band and in the elementary grades. Both come highly recommended and are proving themselves to be very popular both with the student body and with the other members of the faculty.

The first faculty meeting of the year was held Monday, September 19, at 7:30 p. m.

Work on building a grandstand and lighting a football field is going forward rapidly. A grandstand with a seating capacity of twelve hundred people has been completed this week. All lighting equipment has been bought and with its installation the local high school will have an athletic field second to none in this section of the state.

The general supervision of the athletic field and the athletic program of the local high school has been placed in the hands of the men of the town and community who made possible the equipping and building of the athletic field. This group in turn have selected an Athletic Council whose duty is the general supervision above referred to. This council is composed of two members from the school board, two members from the faculty and three business men and the personnel at present is as follows: W. D. Clements, Marvin Hodges, Raymond Little, Kelly Saylor, Y. E. Hoover, S. E. Cloninger and A. H. Smith.

At a recent meeting of the Band Mothers Club an order was placed for twenty band uniforms. With the rapid progress the band has made since its organization and with the class of music it now renders when it is dressed in well made, attractive uniforms we see no reason why it should not become an outstanding factor in the life of the community.

WPA-Made Clothes Win High Praise

Garments designed and made in the WPA sewing room in Goldthwaite won the commendation of the district supervisor from Waco last week. He requested Mrs. Henry Morris, Mills county superintendent, to prepare a complete account of the innovations she has introduced since she was appointed in June.

The garments made in the WPA sewing room here include all kinds of women's and children's wearing apparel and shirts and underclothes for men. Some of the finished garments are on display now in the window of Mrs. W. C. Dew's office, and have attracted much favorable comment. Mrs. Morris expects to change the display from time to time.

All materials are supplied the sewing room by WPA headquarters and only cotton material is used. The finished garments stay in Mills county being issued to unfortunates who are in direct relief.

The most important phase of the work, however, is that of training. The 14 women now employed are learning costume design, color combination, and expert finishing as well as plain sewing. This experience is expected to put them in line for well-paid commercial jobs in the future. Visitors may inspect the work-room in the court house and the garments on display there at the noon hour and after working hours.

To the Patrons of Goldthwaite Schools

The Parent and Teachers of the Goldthwaite School have always been proud of their close and harmonious relationship. We want the present school year to be outstanding in this respect and we take this means of inviting your co-operation by extending a cordial invitation to become a member of our Parent-Teachers Association. We should be gratified to have both parents enrolled as members of this constructive organization.

The membership dues are fifty (50c) cents for the school year and you may become a member by sending your dues by the children to their teacher or by paying them to the treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Saylor or Mrs. R. H. Chandler, membership chairman, at the next meeting, which will be October 12, 1938.

We are having a membership contest and a prize will be given the room securing one hundred per cent enrollment. This contest closes Nov. 12, 1938.

There is no effort so worthwhile as that spent toward the character-building of our children. The Parent-Teachers Association affords a channel through which we may all work to that end.

Membership Committee, Goldthwaite P.-T. A.

Hamilton Hi Bulldogs Lose to Eagles 13 to 0

First Game On New Field

Tonight (Friday) the Eagles will play their first home game of the 1938 season, as well as the first game on their new lighted and seated field. This will give the Goldthwaite eleven a chance to show the business people of Goldthwaite that they really appreciate such an advancement in an athletic field.

For this game, the Eagles meet another squad of Bulldogs, this time hailing from Burnet, Texas. The Burnet team has dropped to the Class C football conference, and this will not be a conference game.

The Eagles were to play the Lometa Hornets, but as this team has also resigned from this district, the Burnet team will play instead.

Burnet Starters Named

Coach Year's probable starting lineup for today's game. The Bulldogs' starting line will average 150 and the backfield 135. Ends will be Cecil Berry and Ernest Newton. Pat O'Donnell and Preston Brooks will be at tackles, Lloyd Kroeger and Vernon Kroeger at guards, Edman Briggs at center and Ed Petrick, Capt. Charles Wheeler, Jack McFarland and Bruce Halle in the backfield.

Eagle Probable Starters

Denison and Smith, ends; Dyas and Langford, tackles; S. Gerald and Carter, guards; Miller, center; Dickerson and Sheppard, halves; Joe Langford, full; Capt.

Important discussions by recognized State and Federal authorities on pecan insects and pecan diseases control, on new root growth promoting chemicals, culture of pecan orchards, cover crops, varieties and marketing.

At noon a picnic lunch will be served at Lake Brownwood District Park, near the dam.

Art and Civic Club

The Art and Civic Club opened its year's work with a "World Omnibus Tour" luncheon Thursday, September 15, at the home of Mrs. V. C. Bradford.

Travel cards marked the places for twelve members. Mrs. Walter Fairman, associate member and Mrs. Rufus McKinney, Mrs. S. E. Cloninger, and Mrs. Walters Hester, guests.

Mrs. W. G. Saylor, toastmistress, took us on a world tour, based on our year's course of study, "World Omnibus;" each club member responding with highlights from a foreign country. She then introduced our new president, Mrs. John Schooler, who most graciously responded, outlining her year's plans, pledging her time and efforts and asking for full co-operation from members.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. H. Smith, October 6.—Reporter.

LAMPASAS TO BUILD POWER DISTRIBUTION PLANT

LAMPASAS, Tex.—Lampasas first of 14 central Texas communities that propose municipal power and light distribution systems to tie into the Lower Colorado River's "Little TVA" dams, voted 347 to 183 for the plan, an official count of the vote showed Wednesday.—Brownwood Bulletin.

The Goldthwaite High School Eagles played their first football game of the 1938 season last Friday night in Hamilton against the Hamilton High School Bulldogs. The Eagles proved to the Goldthwaite fans who attended the game that this year's team is not to be taken lightly. The Bulldogs put up a masterful fight, but were handicapped through the second, third and fourth quarters by the fact that the Eagles managed to get a first quarter lead, and were able to hold on to it, increasing the lead to thirteen points in the final minutes of play.

The Eagles kicked off to the Hamilton eleven, and after a series of line plays by the Bulldogs, the Eagles gained possession of the ball. On a pass to Denson carried it to the 8 yard line. Then Sheppard went went around left end for 5 yards, and carried the ball over the goal line for the Eagle's early score. Captain Fred Marshall kicked the extra point, making the lead 7 to 0 in favor of the Goldthwaite team. After the kickoff, the ball was kept in the midsection of the field for the remainder of the first half. Bailey Kuykendall, first string Eagle tackle, was forced out of the game in the second quarter with a broken arm. However, he is expected to be back in play for the last few games of the season.

In the third quarter, the Bulldogs began to move down the field by some more of their terrific line smashes and sweeping end runs. They proceeded as far as the 12 yard line, but the Eagles held them there, and after gaining the ball, carried it up toward the center of the field.

The fourth quarter saw the Eagles trying harder to score again, and the Hamilton team determined to keep them from doing so. The Eagles finally ran the ball to the two yard line, where a trick play carried them over the goal. The try for extra point was too low, and this left time for only one play after the kickoff.

The following statistics prove that although the Goldthwaite team had the largest score, the Bulldogs not only put up a great defensive battle, but played good offensive ball as well:

Goldthwaite	Hamilton
Penetrations	2	1
First Downs	9	7
Yards Gained	186	146

Next week on Friday, September 30, the Eagles will meet their most-treasured opponents, the San Saba Armadillos, on Eagle territory. This game is looked forward to as every season rolls around. Two years ago, the Goldthwaite team beat the Armadillos 13 to 0, and last year, lost by a score of 30 to 0. It would seem that this year is the Eagles turn to come out on top again, so the results will have to wait until after the game.

Indoors . . . Outdoors . . . Wash-day . . . Birthday . . . family history is being made.

NOT long ago a young friend of mine married. He is a camera fan, like the rest of us, and he told me:

"My family history is going to be kept in pictures. I plan to take at least one roll of pictures a week—many more whenever possible. Whenever we do anything—move to a new house—go on a week-end trip—plant flowers—celebrate a birthday or an anniversary—add a new member—whatever it is, the story will be told in pictures."

His plans go further than that, too. His picture record is to be kept in handy, useful form. "There will be a new picture book for every year," he told me. "I plan to have the best shots enlarged, and mount the others contact size. Everything goes into the book, where we'll always be able to find it and recall—from our own snapshots—what we did in past days."

There, now, is an idea for all of us. In every family, things happen each day that we would like to remember. We buy new furniture, plant gardens, build a trellis for roses, put new screens on the back porch, take vacation trips. Children are born, grow up, change year by year. We change, too. And a true day-by-day picture-history of all our everyday activities, as well as activities not-so-everyday, would greatly enrich our memories in later years.

Let's make a mental note—make

Each family picture-book becomes more treasured as the years roll by.

it a household ritual, and abide by it. "A picture a day keeps the family history up to date. And a complete picture-book each year keeps it permanently."

John van Gulder.

Texas Militia Ready for Action

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 22. (Spl.)—That Texans should know more about the Texas National Guard, Major-General Claude V. Birkhead, San Antonio attorney and Commanding General of the 36th Division, this week issued a timely report dealing with the personnel, functions and the related military and commercial values of that organization.

General Birkhead's factual account, which he said "should be of interest to citizens concerned with and responsible for our national security," was supplemented by a collateral news interpretation by Major Carl L. Phinney, Dallas attorney and a press spokesman for TNG.

Major Phinney elaborated on the significance of the civil-military body of nearly 10,000 Texans, mustered from every profession and industry of the state, and its economic benefits to all.

The statement of General Birkhead on the size, activity and importance of the Texas National Guard paralleled news emanating from Washington, regarding recent and pending preparations and changes in the Federal defense program, calling for increases in Army, Navy and Aviation forces, modernized equipment and vast expenditures for national protection.

The Texas National Guard is composed of the Adjutant General's Department, the 36th Division, and the 56th Cavalry Brigade, with 210 separate units (headquarters, companies, batteries, troops and detachments), numbering 9,397 officers and enlisted men, situated in all sections, and representative of the finest manhood and individual enterprise of Texas. The Adjutant General's Department has 20 officers and 64 enlisted men; the 36th Division is comprised of 620 officers, 9 warrant officers and 7,650 enlisted men; and the 56th Cavalry Brigade consists of 81 officers, 2 warrant officers and 951 enlisted men.

ters, trains and controls it. Last year the Federal Government spent $1,878,932.83 for payrolls, subsistence, transportation, uniforms, equipment, mounts, ammunition and miscellaneous supplies for the Texas National Guard—nearly 2 million dollars disbursed locally through the 210 different units in Texas.

The Guard now has in its possession more than $5,000,000.00 of Federal property, guns, uniforms and equipment. It spends annually over $50,000.00 for ammunition, it was explained.

In his statement, General Birkhead stressed the point that the "Texas National Guard is manned, officered, equipped, trained and ready for immediate service, in part or whole, for any emergency". He added that "none of the 18 National Guard Infantry Divisions in the United States rank higher in the War Department than the Texas Division, and none in the four Cavalry Divisions better than the Texas Cavalry Brigade."

OKLA. CITY, Sept. 15.—Failure to advise consumers of dangerous contamination in a city water supply makes a water superintendent and city officials liable for prison terms and their city government liable for damages.

That will be the warning sounded here by A. L. Jeffrey,

Poorly Nourished Women— They Just Can't Hold Up

Are you getting proper nourishment from your food, and restful sleep?

A poorly nourished body just can't hold up. And as for that run-down feeling, that nervous fatigue, — don't neglect it!

Cardul, for lack of appetite, poor digestion and nervous fatigue, has been recommended by mothers to daughters—women to women—for over fifty years.

Try it! Thousands of women testify Cardul helped them. Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

municipal counselor, when he addresses the annual convention of the Southwest Section of the American Water Works Association, set October 17 to 20.

The convention will attract more than 600 delegates from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. Invited to represent Goldthwaite is Lacy Thompson, city water superintendent.

Criminal liability in the operation of municipal water supplies is a subject new to the convention. At a recent short course held at Oklahoma A&M College, Stillwater, Jeffrey shocked a group of water works men by describing to them the extent and seriousness of their liability.

M. B. Cunningham, city water superintendent, in charge of convention arrangements, said, "Heads of water departments and city officials guilty of concealing water contamination would not risk it if they were familiar with laws governing their liability."

The convention will acquaint them with these laws and should be of material public benefit in guarding consumers against loss of health or life. Treatment of the subject also is expected to impress city officials with the necessity of appointing competent water superintendents.

What you want when you want it

NOT SAVED UNTIL IT'S SAFE

By T. C. RICHARDSON, Secretary Breeder-Feeder Association

during cotton and the inclination of other things go safely ginned. To plant all feed they mature and after cotton is harvested to hire extra some crops dedicating the largest corn and grain sorghum crop the Southwest has ever had, and the same may be said of hay, for which the season has been unusually favorable in most sections, promising later cuttings than normal. Corn 182-937,000 bushels; grain sorghums 86,086,000 bushels; hay (except alfalfa) 4,385,000 tons; alfalfa, 1,124,000 tons. Let's save it all in this fat year—next year may be a lean one.

There is still time to sow winter cover crops for grazing, to help protect the soil from washing by winter rains, and to harvest next spring or turn under for soil improvement. There is a wide choice of crops for the purpose, including wheat, oats, rye, vetch, bur clover, Italian rye grass, rescue and winter peas, and there is not a farm in the Southwest that cannot benefit by using one or the other. All the livestock and poultry need green feed in winter, no matter how much dry feed they have.

Most of these crops like a firm seedbed and can therefore be drilled in clean cotton ground without other preparation. If a drill is not available it will require more seed to insure a stand but any implement that will cover the seed properly will serve the purpose.

JOE COWAN TAKES RAP AT NEWSPAPER SPACE GRAFTERS IN 'QUILL'

Joseph B. Cowan, son of Mrs. Amelia Cowan, of the Star, who has been editing a weekly newspaper in California the past year, contributed an article in the August issue of "The Quill" a newspaperman's trade paper published at Fulton, Mo., in which he takes a stiff rap at newspaper space grafters, those persons who try to obtain free publicity where it should rightfully be paid for. Mr. Cowan has accepted a position in the school of journalism at Texas Tech, Lubbock, and was expected here this week to visit his mother, before beginning his work there.

The club members and visitors planned a birthday shower for their hostess and kept it a complete secret until a quilt was finished when she was called to remove packages from the bed she wished to put the quilt on, then the ladies began singing, "Happy Birthday to You." However, her birthday was not until Saturday and may Mrs. Taylor have many more such days to remember.

MORAL REARMAMENT

Significant of the crisis through which the world is passing has been the general feeling of helplessness that seems to have gripped governments and their people alike. It is almost as if civilization were being swept through the rapids to the brink of Niagara. Most of the few who, like Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of England, have attempted to do something, have, against their better judgments, resorted to compromise and concessions.

Like a cool breath of air on a sultry day comes the ringing declaration of principle and a call to spiritual action by a distinguished group of Englishmen in a letter to the semi-official London Times. The sixteen men who signed this remarkable document are not clergymen or even laymen closely identified with church work. They are representatives of England's ruling class including two field marshals of the army, the admiral of the fleet at Portsmouth, a Royal Air Force marshal, a former Viceroy of India, a Bank of England director, provost of Oriel College, Oxford, Lord Baldwin, former prime minister, and several others almost as prominent.

Their statement supplements that of thirty-three members of Parliament who on September 1, called attention to the "crusade for moral rearmament which appears to be spreading rapidly and to be providing a common meeting ground in many of the chief storm-centers of the world," and added that the Oxford Group which is sponsoring this movement "deserves attention from rulers and people in every nation whose vital interest is peace."

Lord Baldwin's statement is as follows:
"Today all are anxiously asking to what is the world heading? What is the future of civilization?"

"The world cannot forever continue plunging from crisis to crisis. We must act before crisis ends in catastrophe; we must use the present breathing space which may be brief to penetrate below systems into their causes and initiate that fundamental change which alone will break a vicious circle. In the words of the leader of a great nation "it is an entirely new spirit which must be acquired and enthroned."

"In a striking letter to the Times last week a number of members of Parliament representing different political parties, emphasized the fact that in every country, national security at home and abroad can only be gained through moral regeneration. The strength of a nation consists in the vitality of her principles, Policy, foreign as well as domestic, is for every nation ultimately determined by the character of her people and the inspiration of her leaders; by the acceptance in their lives and in their policy of honesty, faith and love as the foundations in which a new world may be built. Without these qualities the strongest armaments, the most elaborate pacts, only postpone the hour of reckoning.

"The real need of the day is, therefore, moral and spiritual rearmament. A growing body of people in this and other countries are making it their aim. It is a work in which all men and women in all countries and of all races are called to share and have power to help. Were we together with our fellow men everywhere to put the energy and resourcefulness into this task that we now find ourselves obliged to expend on national defense, the peace of the world would be assured.

"God's living spirit calls each nation like each individual to its highest destiny and breaks down the barriers of fear and greed, of suspicion and hatred. This same spirit can transcend conflicting political systems, can reconcile order and freedom, can rekindle true patriotism, can unite all citizens in the service of the nation and all nations in the service of mankind. 'Thy will be done on earth' is not only a prayer for guidance but a call to action. For His will is our peace."

ONLY WAY OUT

With cotton less than 8c a pound and practically none to sell even at that low price, Texas cotton farmers face stark disaster. Only those, who like most Mills county farmers, raise their living at home, can hope to survive the storm.

All agriculture is a gamble, and the greatest gamble of all is cotton raising. The farmer who bets a year's labor of himself and family against all the uncertainties that can destroy a cotton crop makes Wall Street's most reckless plunger appear conservative in comparison.

Most of us can remember what the World War did to cotton prices in 1914 and 1915. Though it seems impossible for cotton prices to go still lower than the present quotations, it has happened.

Fall gardens and fall forage are the prime requirements of the day. Chickens and eggs and cream will produce a steady cash income for any farm. Goats or sheep can help out almost every-of the other European nations. Hitler at Nurnberg is scarcely farther from Praha, the capital of Czechoslovakia, than Goldthwaite is from San Antonio. Outside of Russia, France is the only European country in which one might travel as much as 500 miles due east and west. From Dresden, Germany, across Czechoslovakia, through Vienna and on into Budapest, Hungary is no farther than from here to Brownsville.

When you recall how each of these countries has its own language, its own traditions, ambitions, and hatreds, it is no wonder that Europe is in such a stew today. We repeat, we are fortunate to be out of it.

There may be some question as to whether young Douglas Corrigan's famous flight across the Atlantic was foolhardy or courageous, but in Dallas the other day, he displayed real courage of a rare and worthwhile sort. Corrigan is a teetotaler—that is he doesn't drink alcoholic beverages. When they served whiskey and soda at the reception in his honor in Dallas, he walked out of the party into another room and locked the door. How many other young men his age in Texas or America today would have had the courage to show their disapproval of liquor in such unmistakable fashion? How many who do not drink themselves condone it in others or at least shut their eyes to it? Not so Corrigan. Time and time again he has shown the world he does not drink. He has refused fabulous offers to endorse a whisky or beer. It was poor taste in his Dallas hosts to serve liquor in his presence, and they deserved the rebuff he gave them.

Molly O. Daniel seems such a sweet and wholesome lass, it seems a pity her prominence has where. The demand for good hogs is always present. Such a well-rounded and diversified program will enable any farmer to live well regardless of the course of prices. It offers almost the only prospect for security that may be discerned in the unsettled conditions in which all of us are living. "Live at home" used to be plain common-sense. Now it is our only hope.

"RISING TIDE"

In this distraught world so much of the news deals with the destructive forces of crime, war and greed, it is easy to overlook the fact that there is another side.

To report each week this other side is the purpose of this column. It deals principally with the personal experience of a rising tide of men and women who believe in God-control and whose lives are governed by the thought that if you want a new and better world, the place to start is with yourself. If you would like to meet or correspond with any of them, write to the Rising Tide Column, Goldthwaite Eagle, Goldthwaite, Texas.

From the hills of Brown county to the teeming cities of China is a far journey, but the same God who brings peace of mind and strength of heart to His followers in Texas is just as willing to do the same in China. That is the experience of Bransford Eubank of Brownwood whose story follows:

"One evening of the year following the war, my roommate and I after some doubtless brilliant discussion, came to the conclusion that there was nothing to the Christian religion. After he had gone to bed, I took to be capitalized. Just 16, she should center on school instead of playing the role of crown princess and dashing from one end of the state to the other for the populace to stare at. Instead of writing—or at least sponsoring—a column in a daily newspaper, she could well be reading. At the present rate, by the time she has reached womanhood, she will be an experienced entertainer or journalist, and the new will all be rubbed off of life. It is none of our business, we know, but still it seems a pity.

The other afternoon a whole truck-load of cotton pickers descended on that lovely little park at the south end of Fisher street and prepared to spend the night there. Fortunately before they had damaged it, they were seen and asked to move on. They explained that a Goldthwaite man had told them to camp there. Where did they go? We do not know, but it might be a good idea if we had a municipal parking lot for just such folks, limiting their stay, of course, to one night only. It shouldn't cost us much, and it would be quickly repaid by the good will it would earn. Just cotton-pickers, to be sure, but human beings after all.

When we are going to provide sidewalks for the children who still walk to school? For despite the use of school buses and private cars, the majority of Goldthwaite youngsters still travel on Shank's mare just as their parents did, they too are forced to walk in the street, exposed to carelessly driven automobiles, and, when it rains, to ankle-deep mud. Some day a tragedy will shake us from our lethargy, but why wait? Let's have sidewalks now.

The Covington News of Andalusia, Alabama, according to Walter Winchell, offers this significant warning:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN "If you have frequent headaches, dizziness, fainting spells, lame back accompanied by chills, cramps, bunions, jaundice, chills, or epileptic fits, it's a sign you are not well and are liable to die any minute. So hasten to this office and pay your subscription a year in advance, and thus make yourself solid for a good obituary notice!"

my Bible off the table to put it away, for I had no further use for it. Yet I considered myself a broad-minded and fair-thinking man, so I read a bit just to show that there were no hard feelings.

"The place happened to be the story of the crucifixion of Jesus. I was struck by the manner he conducted himself throughout what was obviously an unfair and deathly cruel experience. 'That man,' I thought, 'had courage.' He had more than any man on our college football squad. He was a real man, and met death like a man. He had, as we say 'what it takes.'

"Then I turned a few pages and read one verse where my eye fell: 'Then said Jesus to his disciples, if any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me.' Now army rules say, 'If you doubt the wisdom or authority of a man above you, first obey the order and afterwards protest.' The next thought that came was that if I really wanted to know if there was anything to the Christian religion, I had only to obey the command. Then it came, 'To be honest, you would need to first obey this command and then make your decision as to the truth and worth of the Christian religion. Would you have the decency and courage to do it?'

"A year or so later I calmly decided to take Jesus at his word and to follow him to do what he wanted me to do. My roommate, my friends and most of all myself, were surprised at the change that came over me. I was different, life was different, it had meaning. Things had suddenly begun to make sense.

"A few years later found me on the mission field, but somehow I'd lost the freshness and joy of life I'd known, and much to my dismay, some of my old humiliating habits and sins were coming back. There was a young man teaching in a neighborhood institution who had quite a bit to say about victory over sin, sharing of experience, but I, badly as I wanted freedom from defeat, thought it beneath my dignity as a missionary to talk intimately with a younger man who was not even a missionary. I was inclined to be very critical of him, and at times was considerably less than polite in what I said to him.

"At last, sick of sin, I hunted him up and told him exactly the things that were bothering me. He told me that pride had been my worst sin, for it had shut the door to any help that God might have sent me through another person. Also, I had been fighting sin myself in order to get a victory for myself, while we could never stand against the devil, and that Christ had died to give us the victory. We also found that I was not letting Him have all my life, but was holding onto things for myself.

"The old peace came back, and victory over sin followed naturally. When I got back to the States the following year I found that there was a small fellowship of persons like myself who through their various churches, jobs, and other contacts and under God's guidance were sharing with others the things that God does for those who let Him guide their lives.

"That was several years ago. Now throughout the world there is a rising tide of men, women, boys and girls of all creeds and nations who under God's guidance are seeking to bring about a new world order."

TRADE AT HOME

Germany's Highways

When the average American thinks of Central Europe, he usually thinks also of dictators, rearmament, and war. Germany, in particular, is looked upon as a dangerous spot which may at any moment ignite another world conflict. So, when Germany began its huge road-building program, which has resulted in a system of super-roads second to none, that activity was construed by many to be strictly a military project.

As a representative of the U. S. government to the recent International Road Congress at The Hague, I had the opportunity to travel over 3,000 miles of German highways, of which nearly 800 miles were part of the new Reich autobahn system. Whether or not it be true that these roads were constructed primarily for military purposes, it is most certainly true that they provide the German people with innumerable peacetime commercial, industrial, social and cultural benefits. Although these roads may some day be used to speed the movement of mechanized agents of death and destruction, they are at present responsible for an 83 per cent reduction in the number of traffic accidents.

Built into the German super-highways are most of the safety features that have long been recommended by American highway engineers. The new roads consist of two double-lane highways, each 25 feet wide, with opposing streams of traffic completely separated. Beyond these traffic lanes are adequate shoulders and a gradual slope to a drainage system. Railroad grade crossings and highway grade crossings have been completely eliminated with a majority of the intersecting roads being carried over the right-of-way of the new system by a most modern type of overpass construction. All curves are super-elevated and the surface finish of the pavement is non-skid. Traffic is controlled at road junctions by a clearly defined and systematic layout and parking places are provided at carefully chosen intersections. Pedestrians, bicyclists and animals are excluded from the highways and no advertisements or billboards can be erected by the roadside. Efforts are being made to retain and to enhance the beauty of the landscape.

There is no speed limit in Germany. The roads are designed for speeds from 80 to 100 miles per hour, according to the topography of the country. It is claimed that there have been no major accidents on the autobahn system chargeable to the condition of the road or to detail of design. The record is particularly remarkable when compared with the situation in the U. S. Of the 40,000 traffic-accident fatalities in this country last year, it is estimated that at least 50 per cent can be blamed on the failure of the roads to meet the demands of modern traffic.

While conditions in our country do not demand or justify the immediate construction of a complete super-highway system like that in Germany, there are areas where heavy traffic and numerous accidents do call for the construction of roads of this type. A system of American super-highways could not be constructed in a few years but could be designed, laid out and some sections constructed in locations where traffic is heavy and congested and a super-road is particularly needed. If this policy is followed, super-highways can be constructed when the need arises and this country will, in the future—possibly ten, twenty or even forty years from now—be provided with a system of highways that will adequately and economically care for the increased traffic demands that are bound to come.

Tarleton College Will Feature Texas Music

Stephenville.—Texans may hear the music of their own Texas composers this year through a series of programs being arranged by John Tarleton College for presentation once each month at the Tarleton student assembly, and broadcast over the WBAP Saturday morning Educational Hour.

The music of about thirty Texas composers, all but one of them now living and writing in the state, will be presented. In many cases it will be played, directed or explained by the composer himself. The program series is under the supervision of Charles W. Froh, head of the Tarleton department of music.

First of the series will be given from 9:30 to 10:30 in the Tarleton auditorium Saturday morning, September 24, and broadcast from 9:30 to 10 o'clock by WBAP. Piano music of San Antonio's John Steinfeldt will be played by William Parks Grant of the Tarleton music faculty. One composition, "Appreciation," dedicated to Dr. Peter Keating of San Antonio, will be given its first public performance.

E. Clyde Whitlock, Fort Worth, will play for the program two of his own violin compositions, and will be assisted by Margaret Justice Brooks, pianist, and Q'Zella Oliver Jeffus, pianist, in playing his "Nocturne" and "Serenade" for two violins and piano. Two vocal solos will be given, too. It is probable that several compositions by Mrs. Stella Stacey of Austin will also be presented. On the October 22 program, songs by Oscar Fox and by Alice Mayfield Brooks, San Antonio, will be presented, and Ethel Allen Nelson, Wichita Falls violinist and director of the Wichita Falls symphony orchestra, will play or direct his compositions.

To Tell World About Texas

FORT WORTH, Sept. 22.—Telling the world about Texas, a national advertising program to inform national industrial executives about the State's natural advantages and manufacturing opportunities, was under way today under leadership of the Texas Institute of Natural Resources and Industrial Development.

Taking full advantage of the widespread interest in Texas created by the Centennial and Pan American Expositions, the program will focus interest on the many opportunities for business and manufacturing development offered by the State, Jesse McKee, chairman of the Five-Year Industrial Campaign Committee of the Institute, announced. Appointed today to handle the national campaign about Texas was Tracy-Locke-Dawson, Inc., Dallas advertising agency, which directed advertising for both the Centennial and Pan American, and worked with the Dallas Chamber of Commerce on the Industrial Dallas campaign which attracted national attention some years ago.

"National advertising about Texas will place the State among the many states and sections now using this means of getting new businesses and residents," Mr. McKee explained. "Among those already using this method are New York, New Jersey and among the southern states Louisiana, Mississippi, and North Carolina. Texas must advertise itself if it is to profit by the current movement of manufacturing plants to southern states."

School Bus Drivers Carefully Checked

AUSTIN, Sept. 22. — Texas' amended driver's license law has brought about additional safety in the transportation of school children, state police officials said today.

Regulations adopted by safety officials for the examination of school bus operators have required more thorough tests than for any other type of driver. School bus drivers must have an A or B class license with a special endorsement from the safety department. The tests include questions on laws of the road, handling of passengers, vision tests and the operation of busses under the supervision of state examiners.

Although the school bus law does not include such strict requirements, state police have imposed additional regulations in the promotion of safety. One of the regulations is for drivers to alight from their busses and control other traffic before the passengers are discharged. The safety department condemns school busses not constructed of steel and requires fire extinguishing equipment. The bus itself must be mechanically perfect before a chauffeur's license is issued.
